U. S. NAVAL RESERVES CALLED TO DUTY IN SHANGHAI

JAPANESE CLAIM U. S. AMMUNITION READY FOR CHINA

By Robert Bellaire
 SHANGHAI, Oct. 12 (Special)—Seven United States naval reservists were given physical examinations at headquarters of the fourth marine regiment today. Those found fit were ordered to report for duty Monday aboard the cruiser Augusta, flagship of the Asiatic fleet.

It was reported only four of the 70 failed to pass the test.

A Domei (Japanese) news agency dispatch reported Americans would be evacuated from the Ningking area, up the Yangtze river, in United States gunboats which were being sent from Hankow.

Rape U. S. Industry

The Domei (Japanese) news agency broadcast today accused the United States arms industry of storing large quantities of war material in Manila and Singapore for the Chinese government at Chungking.

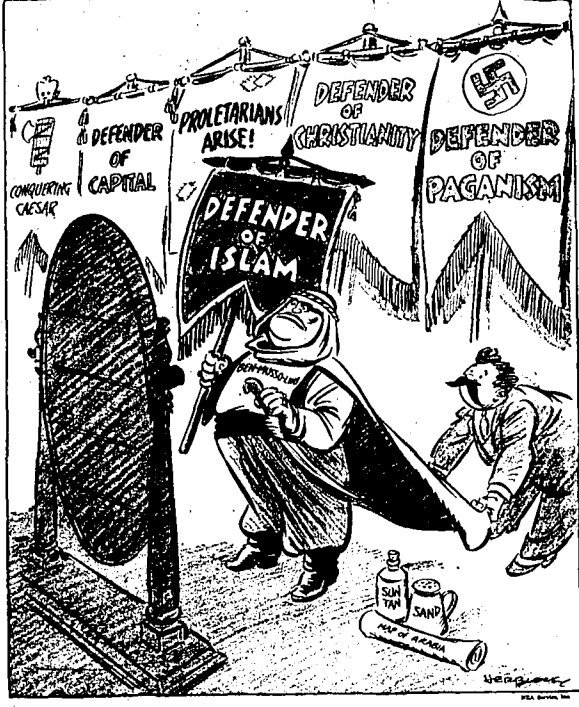

"Preparations are being made for transporting this material over the Burma road to Chungking as soon as the road is re-opened," the newspaper Nichi Nichi at Tokyo said, "while the attitude of the United States and Britain toward Japan is becoming more threatening. The war material includes tanks, motor lorries, artillery, guns and bombing airplanes."

Better Terms With Reds

The agency said all Tokyo newspapers expressed hope for improvement of relations with Russia and asserted that the "coming negotiations between the two countries are expected to result in mutual understanding and good neighbor relations."

Japanese organs in what appeared to mark the beginning of an inspired campaign, denigrated today that the Japanese army steps the international settlement and the French concession here and presumably the British and French concessions at Tientsin and the legation quarter at Peking.

NEW BILL GIVES RELIEF TO DRAFTED DEBTORS, RETIERS

By MILTON BRONNER
 Manager, NEA-Idaho Evening Times
 Selective Service Information Bureau

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—In response to many questions from men of draft age asking if the government would give them any relief in the matter of responsibility for rent of houses or apartments, contracts to purchase real or personal property, obligations on mortgages, taxes falling due on property, and life insurance premiums, this bureau told them to wait.

It said a bill was now pending in congress to give them a certain amount of relief. It advised them to watch their daily newspaper to see whether this bill became law and what its provisions were.

Section 13 of the selective service act apparently grants the relief mentioned, by relieving provisions of the soldiers and sailors relief act passed during the last world war. But the section as drawn was objected to by the war department because it gave only partial relief and did not cover all armed services of the nation.

Replaces Draft Act

The new bill, now pending in congress, carries a section repealing section 13 in the selective service act.

In other words, the new bill will take the place of section 13 and is intended to be more liberal in every way. The prospects are that it will be passed by congress very soon.

It is called a bill to "promote and strengthen the national defense by suspending enforcement of certain civil liabilities of persons serving in the military and naval establishments, including the coast guard."

Relief for All

This bill gives its relief to all members of the army of the United States, the U. S. navy, the marine corps, the coast guard and all officers of the public health service, detailed by the proper authority to duty either with the army or the navy.

The bill gives drafters and persons in the services above men-

GOP Plans Word Blitzkrieg But Demos Aren't Quivering

By CHARLES MICHELSON
 Director of Publicity, Democratic National Committee

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (Special)—We learn from the publicity trade journals that Wendell Willkie's adopted party is about to launch a blitzkrieg of propaganda on this helpless country.

To be sure this projected invasion is at this writing a mere rumor but according to the more or less gaudy threats of Mr. Willkie's leading nurse makers it is to be something terrible.

Every Kind

Every branch of the minority's wily-militant forces is to figure in the onslaught—bill-boards and brag bombs; page advertisements and pamphlets; radio and rapid-fire rhetoric; oratory, moving pictures, magic lanterns and megaphones! In fact, every known weapon in the political armory is to be loosed on the electorate.

In addition to these a new and deadly device, the nature of which is held secret, is to devastate the election field.

This is to be done in the closing weeks of the campaign, while Mr. Willkie lolls waste Democratic New York and its environs, with more speeches per day than any previous presidential candidate ever made in a similar period.

Seven thousand full-size bill-boards are to dominate the highways and low ways of America—each proclaiming the merits of the new-made Republican banner bearer, or the flaws, faults and blunders of the New Deal.

Bugaboo

The third term bugaboo will leer and glare from every bill side. The threat of dictatorship as a consequence of the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt will lift its grisly head from Seattle to Miami;

Average cost of attending college in the United States is $450 a year, according to estimates.

to interest me in that sort of advertising. Now I realize that when it comes to familiarizing the multitude with the trade name of the Sunshine Little Liver pill, or Imperishable chewing gum, billboards are fair advertising. But I thought that a fairly large number of the American people had heard of Franklin D. Roosevelt, and did not think the Democratic campaign fund could afford the cost of reintroducing him in 60-foot billboards. That, however, is a publicity technicality.

But Odds on F. D. R.

Anyhow, the big propaganda push is imminent or upon us. The betting odds on Roosevelt's election increase just the same, and perhaps they are as good an indication of how the American people are thinking as the guesses of the straw man.

This election is not going to be decided by gargantuan placards. We must consider this wind-up blitzkrieg they are as good an indication of how the American people are thinking as the guesses of the straw man.

Education—a Defense Industry

American schools are not hiding their heads in the sand. They know what's up. They understand what we mean—how dependent they are on adequate national defense for the continuation of free education.

To help give the public a clearer concept of the importance of the schools in any preparedness program, the National Education association will devote its 20th observance of American Education week to the theme, "Education for the Common Defense." Programs throughout the country will begin on Sunday, Nov. 10, with emphasis on spiritual life. Each day will be devoted to a different phase of education in relation to defense, until Saturday of that week, when economic security will be stressed.

The schools have already recognized two fundamental ways in which they can bolster up national defense. The first and immediate is to provide the special training required for those actively engaged in defense work, both in industry and in the military. The other is to inculcate more strongly in the mind of the impressionable student the value of a democracy too often taken for granted.

One moment of reflection will convince anyone what a tremendous weapon the schools can become. Hitler knew. Remember, the youngsters who were in German elementary schools only seven short years ago are now in the Hitlerian army or in civilian life—stalwart supporters of the Nazi cause.

The minds of the littlefellows who trudge off to their classrooms every day are completely in the hands of the forces administering education. Every other educational power in the world cannot compete with the teacher, especially during a youngster's earliest years of schooling.

This is when the toddler gets his introduction to democracy. This is when he learns to live democratically, even before he knows what the word means.

Most schools will co-operate extensively with the National Education association in marking 1940's American Education week. It will be a good time to remind the public, upon whose support education depends, that the schools are a vital defense industry.

Some sacrifices may have to be made. But it should also be remembered that the teaching of democracy is as important as democracy itself. Without the influence of American schools, it would be much more difficult to combat the teachings of alien ideologies.

Bundemen in Defense Industries

It has been whispered lately that members of the German-American Bund are having practically no trouble at all finding spots in the nation's defense industries. It has lots of people worried.

It's hardly likely that all Bundemen are agents of the Nazi government, especially commissioned to commit acts of sabotage against America's defense machinery. Yet, a munitions plant hardly seems the sort of place in which a professed Hitler-worshipper ought to be working. Even though you may give a Bundeman the benefit of every doubt, you could hardly expect a man to work with great zeal in the manufacture of any war equipment that may conceivably be used some day against a dictatorial government to which he pledges his real allegiance.

Most citizens would feel a lot safer if they could be assured that defense plants were manned by American-loving Americans.

Forgotten Men

Just so you won't be scratching your head in perplexity when you go to the polls on election day, you should be reminded that, besides Mr. Wilkie and Mr. Roosevelt, there are five other candidates after the same job.

Two of them you're used to by now; two you probably wouldn't know from Adam and the other has turned up rather unexpectedly. Earl Browder, who already is waiting to serve one four-year term—in jail—is also trying for one in the White House. Norman Thomas, perennial Socialist candidate, is back in the familiar old place. John W. Alken carries the Socialist Labor party stamp. Roger W. Babson, economist, represents the Prohibition party, and John Zahnd represents the Greenback party, although he won't be on the ballot.

It just seemed, out of fairness, folks ought to be told. Spain is awaiting its cue, from the axis powers. Many a man has been armed with a good cue, yet wound up behind the eight-ball.

Contest About Hubbies

We haven't had a Pot Shot contest for quite some spell. Yesterday we received a letter from a feminine constituent and if we decoded her hasty scribbling correctly, she suggests we give you a crack on the topic "What is a good husband?" Says she and some of her bridge cronies got into a discussion of this matter, and opinions were far from unanimous. So we offer you all a chance to air your views on matrimony and feminine, wed or unwed. You needn't be married to have vigorous ideas along this line—although we suspect the ideas change after you commit matrimony.

We'll present the Pot Shots pot of gold (gross, net and total value minus tax $1), for the best contest submitted.

Write on a separate sheet and tell us what's a good husband.

WE RECEIVE "HONOR" AND A SLIGHT REBUKE!

Dear Cannon Ball: Congratulations for slapping the Eviltimes writ in the matter of too many pictures of the "symmetrical secretary" and the "not so symmetrical mayor."

The time you slapped the Eviltimes for the same thing, I meant to write and confer on you the Order of the Purple Corset. But I found that that was a thing I extend the honor to you as well.

However, I can only admit you to the Order of the Purple Corset as a consolation prize. You were a little over the top. You overlooked one thing. How about the fact that the Eviltimes have been in the news TWICE in one day, and the Eviltimes followed with a photo of Walt two days later?

It seems to me, deserves what-slapping. You, in fact, you might have to slap your own wrist because you got a little out of hand in the Eviltimes Wednesday was in Pot Shots column and was disgraced by the passage of many, many years.

FINANCIAL HINT TO BOTH POLITICAL PARTIES!

Dear Pot Shots: After bumping into another flower-selling day on the main drag of our fair city, it occurred to me that the Republicans and Democrats are doing a mighty fine chance at raising campaign revenue.

Why shouldn't the political parties sell flowers to the lot?

For instance, a Pansy day for the benefit of wobbly political candidates, and another day for selling pansies made by disabled and decrepit political candidates and ex-officio holders.

INTRODUCING MR. CUPID TO YOURSELF!

Dish out the Pulitzer Prize for Best Cupid Work of the Year to those other than Dick York.

Mr. Cupid and his crew for a couple of his friends temporarily estranged because of some kind of quarrel. As I get set on the mat and the girl were willing to take each other again but you know how they ought to be. The boy wouldn't ask the girl to marry him, she wouldn't ask him. So the boy eagerly brought Dick to confer with the young lady and arrange the date.

Richard arranged it so far I haven't heard any further reports. But with the aid of our Mr. York, I bet Cupid will do us right.

HARD LUCK GUY OF THE WEEK

One of the guinea on the Eviltimes staff appears to us to be candidate No. 1 for the best pot match for somebody should award for hardest luck guy of the week.

It's Hal Wood, the sports editor about whom we've given you a number of anecdotes in the past.

Several times, with the best of intentions, Hal has had a batch of antelope steaks.

NEW YORK JUNGLE

BY WRAY WADE SEVERN

YESTERDAY, Adam introduced his new book, "New York Jungle," to the press. It is a brilliant study of the city's underworld, and is being widely read.

A SHOT IN THE DARK

CHAPTER III
ADAM jerked at the door. "It's locked, all right."
"Locked in!" Patricia Langdon breathed, eyes half ironical, half afraid. "What a climax to the evening!"
"Climax? Say beginning, Pat," Gundrum corrected. "Probably a gang of thieves are upstairs, looking for the place."
"They are as helpless as rats in a trap," Nella began to cry.
"Stop that, Nella!" Hugh commanded. "With five able-bodied men and a gun rack to protect you, what have you to fear?"
"Were all the windows closed on the upper floors, Toqi?" Adam asked.
"Closed because of storm. May be thief could get in by using penknife at window latch," the valet replied.
"Someone may be playing a joke on us," Maria suggested. "No one broke. All stood tense, half afraid the house might be struck."
"The men, grouped about the upper part of the house still looked, and Toqi agreed that a fuse must have blown out in the Jungle."
"I take candles down to Indies. They afraid, in the darkness," he said.
Hugh nodded and Toqi snatched candles from the dining table. As he disappeared down the basement stairway, the three men moved toward the drawing room.

Adam Langdon leaned against the head of his trophy in an unnatural pose, head slumped forward. Maria lay at his feet.

"Stay here and guard the women," Adam's voice rang out. "Sid and I will go upstairs. Gundrum, you'd better look in the storeroom. Toqi, you search the kitchen. If you find a corner, call us and we'll come running back."
The men, grouped about the door, heard the directions, but over at the table where the women remained, his words were not audible above the storm, as it later appeared. At the foot of the stairs leading up from the hall outside the Jungle, the four men separated. Sidney following Hugh, gun in hand. Gundrum and Toqi turned to nearby door.
Hugh and Sidney found the door at the top of the stairs unlocked, and to their surprise, the upper floors fully lighted up.
"By Jove," Hugh exclaimed. "I thought the entire lighting plant had been crippled. Must have been a fuse that blew out in the Jungle."
They moved cautiously forward to the front door. It was locked. The door was ajar, and it suggested that anyone had come in that way. Back and side doors also were locked.
"Somehow, I don't have that uncanny feeling that I always get when I'm stalking big game, Sid," Hugh whispered in a puzzled tone. "The door was ajar, and it suggests that someone had come in that way. Back and side doors also were locked."
"By Jove," Hugh exclaimed. "I thought the entire lighting plant had been crippled. Must have been a fuse that blew out in the Jungle."
They moved cautiously forward to the front door. It was locked. The door was ajar, and it suggested that anyone had come in that way. Back and side doors also were locked.

She did not answer. Nor did Adam.
Toqi finally succeeded in lighting another candle, moved cautiously forward.
"Mr. Langdon!" The valet's voice was shrill as the light revealed a new figure and Adam Langdon leaned against the head of his trophy in an odd, unnatural manner. His head slumped forward. At his feet lay Maria.

Bruce Catton in Washington

By BRUCE CATTON
Evening Times Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—A little noticed ruling by Attorney General Jackson has put the national labor law to rest with respect to its connection with the defense program.

In response to a request from the defense commission, Jackson ruled in effect that a firm is in violation of the Wagner act when the board says it is raising more than the board's decision is passed on by the courts.

Jackson was asked to rule because the defense commission has just decreed that no army or navy contracts for defense materials will be negotiated with any firm which is violating any of the government labor laws. Naturally the question at issue arose, who decides when a given company is violating one of the laws—the Wagner act, for instance?

Smith's closest associates on the board are its secretary, Nathan Witt, its associate general counsel, Thomas J. Emerson, and its chief of staff, J. Edgar Hoover. A solid nucleus has been built up within the board of "key position" employees who see eye to eye with the board's official officers in the field are expected. The result is that a group all but identical with the famous "party line" has been in a position to run the labor board.

The congressional committee that has been investigating the labor board missed all this completely. It identified ordinarily liberal and pro-labor people as Communist and never once intimated the real problem—which has been common gossip in the capital for at least a year by now—was that the board's real power was to be exercised through the hands of a few men who were not on the board.

Mr. Danny's father. It touches on alcoholic Aunt Margaret, cantankerous Mother Flattery and Uncle Ned and Al whose concern over Danny's welfare is more academic than affectionate.

The quality of "Father and Son" is the same as that of Farrell's other books. The author writes with blunt realism, without caricature and without any conscious literary tricks. There can never be any degree in the excellence in Farrell's writing, without Danny as a character.

You either like Farrell or you don't. It's as simple as that. If you don't, you have an obligation to yourself to read "Father and Son."

Popular Jimmy Braddock Always Under-rated in Fistic Encounters

As the date for the showing of Jimmy Braddock, former heavyweight champion of the world, at Burley Oct. 17 nears, fans from this area are talking over Braddock's past record and the consensus of opinion seems to be that one of the things that made Braddock so popular was the fact that he was always under-rated in the ring-side betting.

Braddock will appear at Burley under the auspices of the Burley Athletic club as the headliner of a full 30-round boxing card.

Always Under-rated

However, in looking over the back record, local fans are recalling that while Jimmy will have no trouble knocking over opponents on his terms through this area, there was a time when he could enter no ring the favorite—no matter what the caliber of opposition.

Jimmy Braddock, the boxing Cinderella man, was one of the most under-rated fighters in the history of the boxing game.

Jimmy Braddock's first fight, incidentally, was with his brother, Joe, who was the New Jersey state amateur welterweight champion. Jimmy had never fought in a ring. The brothers were a boxer and a boxer and Joe set out to teach Jimmy a lesson. He wound up with a black eye. The under-rated underdog flashed a right that was stunning.

Shortly after his fight with his brother, Jimmy entered the amateur ranks with his brother, Joe, as his mentor. Although he only weighed 160 pounds, he managed to win the light-heavyweight and heavyweight championships from fellows who outweighed him from 150 to 250 pounds.

Amateur Double Victory

His most sensational amateur victory was scored in March, 1926. He won the state light-heavyweight championship earlier in the evening but when they stacked him up against 215-pound Frank Zavita in the heavyweight final, the odds ran as high as 10 to 1 against him. Under-rated again he came back after a nearly disastrous first round to knock Zavita down 11 times before finishing him in the third. He turned professional shortly afterwards.

His first fight under the pros was his pitted against Leo Dobson who weighed 189 pounds to Jimmy's 162. "Not a chance," murmured the ringsters when the kid squared off. Dobson lasted two rounds.

Up the ladder Jimmy began to climb—up—up—up. But always he was the underdog. He fought Pete Lazo, a former world welterweight champion at the Newark armory in 1928. They bet four to one against Braddock that night. The under-rated 4 to 1 shot broke Pete Lazo's jaw as a result of his spectacular run, and the right to fight Duffy Griffiths, the Sioux City, Ia., boy, at Madison Square Garden.

Griffiths was a terror. But again they under-rated Jimmy. So he knocked out Griffiths. Then he knocked out Jimmy Slattery, who was a 5 to 1 over him, and as a result, got a shot at Tommy Loughran's light heavyweight crown.

So Jimmy Lost

This was one fight in which Jimmy was not under-rated. Matter of fact, most of the experts, figuring that Loughran was washed up, picked Braddock, so Jimmy lost. It seemed as though the experts were in for a surprise, but Jimmy Braddock won in any fight involving Braddock.

The story after the Loughran fight was one of rapid descent into oblivion. He was knocked out by Abe Feldman's skull in Sept., 1933, and vanished from the boxing rings—many thought for good.

He was working on the docks when they dug him out of oblivion in June, 1934, as fodder for Corb Griffin. Yes, he was selected. Griffin's opponent merely because up thought he'd be a pushover. The pushover knocked out Griffin in three rounds.

No one gave him a chance when he fought Johnny Henry Lewis, who only a few years before had been on the Pacific coast. No 32-year-old outpointed Lewis. Then, along came Mrs. Lasky, fighting for a shot at Max Baer. The great first-brother from the coast looked at the challenger for world's heavyweight crown. A win over Braddock would establish him conclusively.

Unfortunately for Lasky, however, Braddock broke a smash on his nose in the very first round that ruined Lasky for the rest of the night, and won easily. So the New York committee designated him as the No. 1 challenger for Baer's title.

There is no need to go into details concerning that fight. Braddock was dubbed as the weakest challenger in the history of the prize ring. The odds ran as high as 10 to 1 on Baer. The champion asked that an ambulance be in readiness near one of the exits. He felt sorry for Braddock, "but business was business." You know what happened.

WILLKIE RAPS NEW DEAL WHICH 'PREACHES DE FEAT'

NOMINEE CLAIMS HE CAN FULFILL WORK PROMISES

BY WILLIAM H. LAWRENCE
ABOARD WILLKIE SPECIAL
 TRAIN EN ROUTE TO TROY, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—Republican Presidential Nominee Wendell L. Willkie asserted today that a government which procures relief can never win any battle against unemployment or against any foreign foe.

Willkie was talking to the small town business men and industrial workers of western Massachusetts on his way by special train and motorcade to Troy, N. Y., where tonight he makes a major speech.

"The New Deal does not mean," he said at Lawrence, "in an effort to cover up their own failures they are telling us that the era of expansion in America is over. Just a few days ago, the Democratic national committee issued a statement attacking me because I had promised in my campaign to provide jobs for all of our people in private industry and this is what the Democratic national committee said: 'Can't Win!'

"No man now living, or whoever lived, could fulfill such a promise."

"No wonder your factories are empty, your relief rolls increased and you look vainly for jobs. A government that does not believe its people can be employed will never do it. That they are employed by government and that government can never win any battle against unemployment or against any foreign foe."

Willkie recalled again that during his 1932 campaign, President Roosevelt had said the American industrial plant was dead. He said this statement was just as foolish as that of the patent commissioner in 1886, before the invention of modern mechanical devices, had predicted that the end of human improvement was reached.

Willkie expanded on this theme that there was no more room for expansion, many revolutionary new inventions and new industries have come along."

Willkie climaxed his New England campaign last night with speech before a crowd officially estimated at approximately 30,000 persons in the National league baseball park in Boston. He charged that the New Deal was irresponsible and that Mr. Roosevelt had seriously delayed the national defense program at a time when Adolf Hitler "has designs on us."

"The next administration will bear the awful responsibility of keeping us at peace," he declared, "and we can have peace. But we must know how to preserve it."

HARDWICK TELLS OF TAX SAVINGS

William N. Hardwick, Jerome county assessor, today had told Republican candidates and precinct workers that Democratic statements regarding increases in state and county charges were misleading in that they told "only half the picture."

Hardwick made this statement last night at the reunion which was held at the Park hotel. Presiding was L. H. Van Riper, county chairman.

Hardwick charged that the Democrats point out that there has been a total increase of $24,019.81 in state charges and $59,812.11 in Twin Falls county charges for the year 1939 over the previous year. By declaring that these figures were misleading, the Jerome assessor said that they do not include the credit which is not only offset by the purported increase in charges, but actually amount to a net saving of $730.02.

He pointed out that in addition to the savings made to the taxpayers of Twin Falls county, there were also 2,027 automobiles licensed here at $5 each, representing an additional saving to the taxpayers of approximately $10,135.00. He said that the highway district suffered a loss in revenue because it was more than reimbursed by division of the $1,000,000 gasoline tax.
