Some Bitter Pills for the Dictators

British Air Fleet Swings Into Action to Aid Greece

By JOE ALIX MORRIS
United Press Foreign News Editor

Great Britain's mighty air and sea fleets struck at both ends of the axis today in an attempt to thwart Adolf Hitler's plan for an impregnable Balkan bloc in Europe.

The British navy "already has begun" to defend Greece against an Italian offensive, putting into operation a carefully-planned scheme that Britons expect will end danger to the empire in the middle east and perhaps to start the "turn of the tide" in the war.

The British navy today is engaged in patrol operations along the coast of Greece, following up the bombing of the huge Kos works in Czechoslovakia with raids last night that started fires and did much damage at Kiel, Wilhelmshaven, Bremen, Hamburg, Zandvoort, Cuxhaven and other Nazi ship centers.

Get Hot Start
With military and naval operations in the Greek zone getting off to a slow start, it was believed that the axis powers might be planning a number of simultaneous thrusts against the British empire with the invasion of Greece merely one phase of the general action.

Such a general offensive might include:
1. An intensified onslaught against British shipping, which would be according to British figures, suffered its biggest losses in the war to German submarine attack. Forty-five British or neutral ships were lost in the last 24 hours, and approximately 200,000 tons was captured for the U-boats.

2. A renewal of the Italian offensive, now aided by a German military machine, against Egypt with the Suez canal as the main goal.
3. A renewed offensive in the middle east.
4. A continued, steady, relentless aerial pounding at the British Isles, which might be planned to start when it is least expected.
5. A quick thrust through Bulgaria against Turkey in order to attack the British in the middle east from both sides.
6. If the Italian attack on Greece is taken as merely a part of the bigger offensive which would go into operation slowly over a period of days, more aerial fighting in Greece is more easily understood.

BALKAN NATIONS REPORTED TO BE ON VERGE OF WAR

By United Press

Greece reported that she was still holding off Italian assaults on her mountainous frontier today, while Great Britain announced she was giving Greece military aid in the "widest sense of the term," and whole Balkan area stood at the brink of war.

Britain refused to divulge the nature of her aid but she denied reports from Yugoslavia that British forces landed at Salona, the vital Greek port 100 miles east of the Greek-Albanian frontier which supposedly is Italy's first goal, or that British forces had landed on the islands of Crete or Cephalonia. Britons said these reports probably were spread by German and Italian sources to create disappointment and confusion and to give the impression that British forces were already near those places before Italy acted against Greece.

Start Consultations
British sources said, however, that "normal diplomatic consultations" had been started by Britain, Turkey and Greece.

They said those first moves to aid her friend Greece would be expected to bring German troops crashing down on Rumania, Bulgaria, the Dardanelles, and her line. She was believed seeking encouragement from Russia before going to Greece to aid Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Rumania and Greece; feared she would be overrun by Germany if Turkey acted. Yugoslavia, Italy and Greece, was surrounded by the axis powers and their friends, and helpless.

The Italian high command, announcing for the first time that Italian troops had crossed the Albanian frontier into Greece yesterday morning, said today the invasion was making headway, that Italian planes had bombed railroad stations and docks at Patras, Corinth canal installations, the naval base at Preveza and the Taioi air base near Athens.

Only Part of War
Italy announced the seven southern provinces of Greece, Epirus, Albania, were at war, not the three northern provinces, claiming Yugoslavia.

Contradicting Italy's claims of frontier advances, Greece said "our troops are holding their positions." Greek soldiers, wearing helmets, were rolling through Athens on trucks and taxicabs, bound for the fighting line. Civilians were evacuating Athens and those queried to stay were urged to conserve water, in case Italians should bomb the American-built Marathon dam. It was disclosed 50 were killed and 100 wounded in the bombing of Patras yesterday. The city has Greece's largest Italian colony—5,000 persons.

One report in Belgrade was that the Greeks not only had pushed their frontier but had beaten the Italian back eight miles into Albania at one point and occupying a 15-square mile area of that country. Albanians were reported in revolt.

No. 158 First Drawn as 17,000,000 Prepare for Initial Call to Defense

First and Second on Draft List

Here's Marshall Elvin Welch, whose draft serial number—158—made him the No. 1 selector for this area of Twin Falls county. He lives at 235 Third avenue east, Twin Falls; is married and has two children, so will probably go into the deferred class. He didn't know he had been drawn first until informed by an Evening Times photographer, since he was at a doctor's office when the drawing began at Washington.

And here's the No. 12 drafter for the Twin Falls and east-end half of the county. He is Charles Houston, 325 Fourth avenue east, Twin Falls. Houston is not married.

Draft Boards Will Await Arrival of Master Lists

No action to sound out questionnaires to draft selectors will be taken by Twin Falls county board No. 1—or by boards in the other areas of Magic Valley—until receipt of the official master lists from the drawings now underway at Washington.

That was announced here today for the local board by Chairman Walter O. Murgave and Capt. Joseph H. Beaver, Jr., chief clerk.

DEPARTMENTAL AUDITORIUM, WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (UP)—America chose today by the free democracy of lottery the order in which young men shall be called to the colors that, in the words of President Roosevelt, a strong nation "may continue to live in freedom and in peace."

The first number drawn was 158.

The fate of seventeen million young men from 21 to 35 rode in 9,000 blue pellets in an ancient goldfish bowl on the stage of a Washington government auditorium.

Chance and chance alone governed the order in which those capsules—each containing a number—were laded from the bowl, thus determining the progression in which conscription registrants shall be called for a year's army service.

The first number was pulled from the bowl by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson—his eyes blindfolded with an old strip of tissue at 12:13 p. m. E. S. T.

"We are mustering all our resources, manhood and industry and wealth to make our nation strong in defense," the President told the class of 1940—17,000,000 men of whom 800,000 will be called to the colors within the next year.

"We are well aware of the circumstances—the tragic circumstances—in lands across the globe—which have forced upon our nation the need to take measures for total defense.

"In the considered opinion of the United States that selective service provides the most democratic as well as the most efficient means for mustering our manpower."

He told potential selectors the government was aware of the necessity to return them to civilian life at the end of their year's training "strong and healthy, and self-respecting and decent and free."

The President's brief address, which preceded the drawing of the first number by Secretary Stimson, was broadcast nationally by 43 major radio networks.

Addressing himself specifically to the selectors he said: "You who will enter this peacetime army will be the inventors of a proud history and an honorable tradition."

"You will be members of an army which first came together to achieve independence and to establish certain fundamental rights for all men. Ever since that first muster, our democratic army has existed for one purpose only: The defense of the freedom."

"It is for that purpose and that one purpose only that you have been asked to answer the call to training."

"You have answered that call as Americans always have, and as Americans always will until the day when it is forever banished from this earth."

Gratitude of Countrymen
"You have the confidence and the gratitude and the love of your countrymen. We are all with you in the task which entails the service of all Americans—the task of keeping the peace in this new world."

He closed his address with messages from President, Roman Catholic and Jewish faiths, giving their wholehearted support to the program.

Mr. Roosevelt told the 17,000,000 selective service registrants that only 5 per cent of them actually would be mustered. The other 85 per cent, he said, would be free to continue their present occupations, pursuits and ways of life.

"The young men of America today have thought the thing through," he said. "They have not been stimulated by misled or inflated propaganda. They fully understand the necessity for national defense and are ready, as all citizens of our country must be, to play their part in it."

Stimson handed the lottery slip bearing the number 158 to President Roosevelt to be announced to the crowd in the auditorium and then announced. Mr. Roosevelt read it to a throng in a strong, clear voice.

Chances of Lottery
The 17,000,000 men of the selectible class, those that rode in the goldfish bowl had struck the number 158 to be announced to the crowd by Mr. Stimson and Mr. Clegg of Washington, D. C. there to see whether the number of her son Robert is about to be drawn.

It was Robert's number was 158. First to be picked from the great bowl with its plastic transparent cover was the parent of a young man.

Robert went to St. John's school in Baltimore. He couldn't get off for the day as his mother came down to see if he had number could turn up. It did. And if Robert is healthy and free of deformities, as presumably he is, he will be putting on draft and joining the army a week hence.

Clark, Bott Lash Each Other As Campaign Nears Conclusion

By United Press

Chase A. Clark, Democratic candidate for governor, and Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen, Republican incumbent, lashed out with slinging phrases today as they pushed their respective campaigns into new fields.

Republican and Democratic headquarters in the meanwhile introduced new evidence to "prove" that their candidate had the support of Idaho railroad workers.

"Democrats and Republicans alike have pulled the business-like administration I have shown them," the governor stated. "If they want the state to stand four-square for honest dealings with all its citizens, if they do not want the cards dealt from the bottom of the deck, and if they do not want shadowy figures moving about behind the chief executive of the state, then they should vote for me."

Bottolfsen also denied that the state department of public welfare was responsible for the purchase of Oregon potatoes for Idaho relief camps.

Democratic state chairman Robert Coulter said that two railroad workers organizations and their auxiliaries have endorsed Democratic candidates.

Republican headquarters produced a copy of the latest issue of "Labor," weekly labor newspaper, in which the candidacy of Sen. John Thomas was advocated.

GRAHAM EULOGY RITE SET FRIDAY

Gathering to pay tribute to the memory of John W. Graham, whose passing was announced last week, will be held at the home of Mrs. M. C. Bell, of Washington, D. C. there to see whether the number of her son Robert is about to be drawn.

It was Robert's number was 158. First to be picked from the great bowl with its plastic transparent cover was the parent of a young man.

Robert went to St. John's school in Baltimore. He couldn't get off for the day as his mother came down to see if he had number could turn up. It did. And if Robert is healthy and free of deformities, as presumably he is, he will be putting on draft and joining the army a week hence.

"Interesting Candidates"
Said Clarence D. Blair, draft director to a neighbor on the platform as Robert's number was drawn.

"But that an interesting coincidence."

Before the day has ended there will be a whole sequence of coincidences.

All afternoon and into the night possibly until the early hours of Monday, the number 158 will be in the goldfish bowl until the 9,000,000 number has been drawn and the fate of 17,000,000 young Americans has been decided.

Today was a day when American boys repulsed Russia. The nation was proud of the military and the street-loud but the country was the same as has been mentioned above. WILLKIE SAYS REPUBLICANS FORCED EXTRA DEFENSE FUND

NOMINEE CLAIMS PRESIDENT TRIED TO END SESSION

BY WILLIAM H. LAWRENCE
 EDWARD WILLKIE TRAIN EN ROUTE TO JACKSON, O., Oct. 29.—Wendell L. Willkie charged today that his congressional adjournment last night was a "trick" to end the session.

He said the President, in his second inaugural address last night, had said that despite any opposition Congress, he was able to obtain passage of any armament bill deemed necessary for the defense of the nation.

The Republican presidential nominee issued a formal statement in reply to the President's speech. He referred again to Secretary of State Cordell Hull's remarks last Saturday night in which Hull said that he had in 1935 he had warned against inadequate powers of self-defense.

The President, in his address, showed that despite any opposition in Congress, he was able to secure the passage of any armament bill that he deemed necessary for the defense of the United States," Willkie said.

In June, 1940, he suggested that Congress go home, as it was no longer necessary for them to stay in session to deal with the international situation or prepare further for America's defense, they were then pending appropriation bills for defense amounting to a little more than five billion dollars. Congress refused to go home because the Republican insistence that it stay in session in view of the grave international situation.

"What Congress Did

"Since that time, Congress has made appropriations and contract authorizations of $12,140,000,000 for necessary but unneeded defense requirements. That is seven billion dollars more than was in the pending bills at the time he suggested they go home.

"If in June, Congress had obeyed the President's desire to adjourn, the United States would still have seven billion dollars less defense 'on order' than it now has.

"That demonstrates the unjustifiable nature of the third-term attempt.

"Important as is this small bit of the record, it refers only to detail of the ineffective leadership of the third-term candidate."

Wendell L. Willkie, his campaign against the third term. He said the no-third-term tradition had become part of the common law of the land, and charged that the New Deal sought to "repel" that law in the November election.

After his allotted radio time expired Willkie continued speaking extemporaneously, replying to a question the President's Madison Square Garden address.

Falls in Defense

"The Democratic party has been in power seven and a half years," he said. "It has been in control of both houses of Congress. Yet it has failed to build us an adequate defense system.

"Why? When as Secretary Hull said last Saturday night he pointed out in 1935 the absolute necessity of building such a defense program? The reason the Democratic party failed to build it was because of a false leadership that has divided the party into factions and made it inept in action.

"Elect me President of the United States and I will see to it that not alone are those people we want to help abroad helped, with adequate material, but at the same time America will be no stronger than no petty dictator will ever seek to stifle."

DEMOS DISCLAIM PRODUCE "DEAL"

Edward Babcock, county Democratic chairman, this afternoon asserted that if any potatoes or apples were purchased outside of Idaho for distribution through the surplus commodities corporation in Twin Falls, it was done on the recommendations of the state director, who under Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen.

Babcock had reference to a story in the Evening Times last night in which Harold Koening, Republican candidate for state representative, declared that one tonload of potatoes and two tons of apples had been purchased outside of Idaho for distribution here despite the fact "there are some 20,000 carloads of potatoes available for sale within Idaho" and also "millions of apples."

Should be Purchased Here

"In my opinion, any apples or potatoes bought under the surplus commodities corporation here should be purchased here," Koening had said.

In answer to this charge, Babcock said today:

"If any potatoes or apples purchased outside the state were shipped from outside the state to a surplus commodity it was under the direction of Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen through his director, Emery A. Knauss."

This can be verified by telegrams to this effect which are on file at the central state headquarters. One of these telegrams is from Jonathan Garst, regional director of the FSRH while the other is from H. C. Albin, surplus marketing administrator.

Telegraphic Proof

"The telegrams plainly state that the responsibility of such orders from outside the state rests squarely with the authorized agent of the department of public welfare, who is under the supervision of the governor. The telegrams show that no produce would have ever been shipped from outside the state for distribution in this state without the recommendations of the state director, under Bottolfsen, been followed.

Outlets producing is being distributed here instead of produce purchased locally, then it is the fault of the retailer using the Republican leadership," Babcock said.

Chapman Named As Debater by Demo Chairman

Marshall Chapman, local attorney, this afternoon was named by Edward Babcock, county Democratic chairman, as the man to represent the Democratic party in a "third term" debate scheduled to be held here sometime between now and election day, Nov. 5.

A challenge was issued last week by Babcock who asked the Miller Methodist church, officiated at the chapel, and Howard Larson, commander, and Ernest Emerson, chaplain of the Kimberly post, American Legion, conducted the Legion burial rites at the cemetery. A firing squad fired the three-volley salute.

Members of the American Legion served as a guard of honor when the body was transported to the cemetery.

AGED SHOSHONE PIONEER PASSES

SHOSHONE, Oct. 29 (Special).—Funeral services will be held Wednesday for George J. Roessler, 80, resident of Shoshone since 1901, who died here Monday. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and the Odd Fellows lodge.

Mr. Roessler was born Sept. 12, 1859—near Iowa City, Ia., and came to Idaho in 1889, where he was engaged with his brother, J. E. Roessler, in well drilling for many years.

Four sisters, four brothers and a stepson, John Thamm, Spokane, Wash., survive. He was married to Mattie Thamm Feb. 23, 1922.

The body rests at the Burdette funeral home in Shoshone. The Masonic lodge will be in charge of services.

SHERIFF ADVISES FARM VIGILANCE

Because a series of farm break-ins have occurred during the last few nights, Sheriff L. W. Hawkins today urged ranchers to be "vigilant" in watching for burglars.

He suggested that ranchers keep shotguns handy—not to shoot the burglars (unless force is attempted) but to frighten the intruders and hold them until officers can arrive.

He will answer calls in these cases promptly," Sheriff Hawkins said. "We arrived on the scene in seven minutes in a burglary but the man had escaped."

The county law enforcement officer advised farmers to lock windows and doors as a measure of routine protection.

PRODUCTION FOR DETROIT SPURTS

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit, mass production center of the nation, is booming under a steady increase of national defense orders and rising automotive production.

Business and industrial barometers point to a return to the palmy days of 1929 and 1930 in the near future. Employment, industrial power consumption, automobile production and bank deposits and clearings all show encouraging increases over last year.

Government contracts for defense materials necessitated expansion of production facilities and increased employment.

Industrial power consumption in a recent week totaled 69,200 kilowatt hours, highest in Detroit's history. In the same week, automobile production reports showed an increase for the sixth consecutive week.

Employment in Wayne county factories stood at 349,000 for a week of 1922 compared with 66,6 in 1937 and 102 in 1939. The board of commerce reported that 131,000 factory wage earners had been placed on factory payrolls since July 31. The board anticipated a further increase with the rise in automobile production and with assembly lines gearing to the tempo of national defense.

Automobile sales during a particularly encouraging week paradoxically decline one per cent from an upward trend high above 1939 in volume. Automobile sales throughout the nation, however, were reported brisk.

COOLIDGE RATED 'TEDDY' AS TOPS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Calvin Coolidge was rated "Teddy" as tops in a poll of national monument carvings because Roosevelt had the courage to discipline big business, according to a survey by the National Geographic Society.

Barbara Hutton is trying to keep out of the Washington, D. C. spotlight while living here, and she refused to serve as hostess for a British dinner party.

For the Frost Is on the Pumpkin...

"The frost is on the pumpkin," and children at the farm camp south of the city are glad of it. Reason is that on Halloween the pumpkins will be made at a special Halloween party to be staged in the meeting hall. Guests are expected to number around 400. In the above picture three children invade a field to prepare pumpkins for the event. The children are (left to right) Mary Lee Fry, Leo Smith and Stevie Bonham. For Scotty, this cutting of a pumpkin looks like serious business. (Times Photo and Engraving)

Film Production Reaches Lowest Level in 2 Years

HOLLYWOOD — Behind the screen, movie production is at its lowest point in many years, with only about 25 companies actually working. This doesn't herald an entertainment depression, though. Most of the studios have pushed along in advance of their schedules and now are getting ready for autumn.

Nevertheless there's grumbling all along the line, from top stars on enforce layoffs to the bottom of the lot. Earnings this month will be about $100,000 under par. Martin Green says things are getting so tough that pretty soon word will be paid twice what he's worth.

Nebraskan Does a Pappy O'Daniel In Campaigning for Governorship

Nebraskans can read the candidate's name on his gas station from a quarter mile away.

(By NEA Service)

SCOTTSDUFF, Nev. Out of the middle west, where the national bicentennial of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas, comes another young man who is mixing business with politics in his campaign.

He is "Terrible Terry" Carpenter, chain store magnate who is running for the governorship of Nebraska on the Democratic ticket.

He has planked his platform with a $50 monthly dividend provision to be financed by a state liquor monopoly and is still using the radio and advertising promotion technique which carried him through the primary.

Carpenter's strategy has been to popularize his name so it will prove magnetic on a store front or on a ballot. In giant black-and-white letters atop his filling stations, the "Terry Carpenter" sign is visible for a quarter of a mile away. A variety of his store products always bear the identifying label.

Carpenter acquired only a grade school education but has a knack for practical psychology. He practices the "power of suggestion" theory in his three special flour brands—"Terry Carpenter" brand, "Terry Carpenter" brand, and "Terry Carpenter" brand.

Daily radio programs echo the familiar name again and again. In his speeches, he never employs the personal pronoun "I" but always refers to himself as "Terry Carpenter."

If he doesn't happen to get elected the people still buy more and more of his gasoline and milk, his groceries and baby clothes.

From Cut-Rates To Politics Terry Carpenter's rise to success through practical psychology.

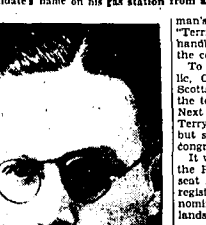

At 30, he opened his first filling station here, a one-pump place. He had no fancy mechanical backing because his parents had just gone broke in the same kind of business.

Terry plunged in with pre-cutting tactics and in a decade has built a flouring operation reaching into three states and grossing two million dollars annually.

Retirements were served and plans were made for the Halloween party.

CANTEWAREYA Mrs. Schmidt's group of Camp Fire Girls met yesterday at the home of Justice Gasser and selected "Cantewareya" Indian meaning "to make glad and be joyful," as name for the group.

Officers of W. A. A. UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Oct. 29 (Special)—Two southern Idaho women were chosen to officiate last week in the Women's Athletic association. Vera Nell James, Gooding, was named president and Mrs. Albert E. Maas, Hinkley, Hazelton, basketball manager.

"Terrible Terry" Carpenter... mixes business with politics.

His filling station in Denver, selling 7,000 gallons of gasoline daily, is said to be the largest in the country. In "Terrytown" which he opened for the squatters, he has a farmers' creamery, huge grocery store, meat market, flower shop, liquor store, pop bottling works, restaurant and chickenery. To the south is his gasoline refinery and cracking plant.

Terry's business almost went under before it got a start. In his price-cutting battle the opposition ganged up and he was forced to close doors until sympathetic customers came to the rescue with an $800 loan.

He ultimately repaid every cent but realized in his line he would have to be established as the "poor man's friend."

He conceived the "Terrible Terry" as a cut-rate handle, terrible to competitors but the consumers' saviour.

To keep his name before the public, Carpenter ran for mayor of Scottsbluff in 1931 and surprised the town by almost getting the job. Next year, according to the story, Terry started to run for legislature, but somebody said why not try for congress.

It wasn't a bad idea, but he knew the Republican incumbent had the seat clinched. So he changed his registration and won the Democratic nomination. He was elected in the landslide for President Roosevelt.

Perennial Candidate Carpenter almost didn't know what to do with the office, but he trotted off to Washington and took his place with the nation's other lawmakers. While he was away, his business was neglected and he found it wasn't so much fun being a "little fish" in the national puddle anyway.

In 1936 he won the nomination for U. S. senate and was elected against the "rebel" Independent, George Norris. President Roosevelt this time proved Carpenter's unpopularity and endorsed the veteran Norris.

Undaunted by another defeat, Carpenter was back at it in 1938, this time losing a round for the lieutenant-governorship. This spring, however, he was successful in Democratic primary for governor and his chances for election probably hinge on the turn of the national ticket in the state.

Even if he meets political defeat again this November, Terry Carpenter still will have his two-million dollar business. His expensive, promotion-studded campaign he can just charge up to advertising.

CHEST CAMPAIGN DRIVE CONTINUES

Twin Falls' Community Chest campaign will extend another week and will be taken into the rural areas which are benefited by the activities of the various agencies participating, officials announced today.

The decision to extend the campaign and take it into the rural areas was reached last night as members of the board of directors met in a city hall. E. J. Zwick and Harold Harvey, drive chairman, explained details of the drive to date.

A rural education committee was named at last night's session. Members are Mrs. Roy Evans, J. W. Richards, Mrs. L. J. Zwick and DeWitt Young. The four committee members are all campaign generalists. They will name members of their committees.

POT SHOTS WITH The Gentleman in the Third Row

Forward March of Common People Speeches made in wartime by the statesmen of nations at death grips are not always distinguished by temperate and balanced reasoning. They run to bluster and bluff, to intimidation and deception and the phony phrase. You have to weigh a bushel of counter-foet coin to find one that rings true.

The forward march of the common people! What else is worth striving for in our common activities banded together as society, as government? Churchill is speaking American language here, language that might have come from Tom Paine, or Andy Jackson, or Abe Lincoln.

That is what the world fears might be halted by new philosophies which stripped the common people of their manhood and left them mere senseless cogs in a state machine rolling relentlessly onward to national glory and the aggrandizement of an elite few daring to call themselves alone fit to rule.

To Have and to Hold Hitler has Europe. Can he hold it? The winter comes, and from the Black Sea to the North Sea, from the Norse fjords to the Adriatic, the gray-clad legions rule supreme.

A Cloth for Fevered Brows The political campaign is getting hotter by the minute. In fact, many people are taking it so hard that actual wounds are being opened and personal relations endangered.

Man sentenced to death in Germany also had his citizenship taken away, which probably will be in his favor when he gets to either of the two places.

University of Notre Dame reports it has nearly completed work on an 80,000,000-volt atom smasher. It is an entirely new one, not to be confused with the one they use in the backyard.

HALLOWEEN SOLILOQUY And now the time of year is near. When many things disappear And many people living here Quake in fear.

Dear Pot Shots: Eddie McSwartz must be psychic. His auto license number is 13, and he offered to bet that his draft serial number would be in the 13's, too.

Dear Mr. Shoptup: I get quite a kick out of your roasting the Twines in your column every now and then for making blunders in grammar and for writing up things in a funny way.

ITEM: WHAT DID TROTSKY'S 'DIPLOMAS' SAY? Word from Reno seems to indicate that one Doc Trotsky is due for a nice long stretch in the slink. Which, by the way, would be nothing new to Doc Trotsky, an unimpeachable former resident of our fair village and once one of the shining halos of the county penitentiary.

MARTA REVEALS A SECRET CHAPTER XVII AFTER the doctor's second visit everyone in the house knew that Nella Langdon was a victim of psychic dumbness. She could not speak. But he had administered a narcotic and had held out hope that when she awakened from the sleep induced by the drug she might be herself again.

Olaf Moller Paintings Will Be Exhibited by Fine Arts Group

An Olaf Moller art exhibit will be staged in the lower auditorium of the Twin Falls public library building on Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week, under the sponsorship of the Fine Arts Department of the Twentieth Century club, of which Mrs. M. E. Showell is chairman.

M. Moller, one of Idaho's most widely-known and appreciated artists, now a resident of Heyburn, will be there at intervals during the exhibit. The display will be open to the public both Friday and Saturday afternoons and evenings, and Sunday afternoon only, no night showing being arranged for the final day.

Designed Boze Murals

Moller designed the new murals in Carnegie library in Boise and his illustrations of Hans Christian Andersen fairy tales in the children's room, are especially commended. The Twentieth Century club last spring purchased one of Moller's autumn scenes, and it is now hanging in the Twin Falls library. A loan each time as the club has its own club house.

Born in Denmark, the artist was brought to the United States as an infant. He has studied at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, and has been honored with the Louis C. Tiffany scholarship.

His shows in the eastern part of the United States included one last year in Boston.

Renowned Collection

His picture, "Silver Leaf Maple," belongs to a collection purchased by the International Business Machines Corporation, which includes one outstanding example of art from each state in the union.

It has been exhibited in the building of science and art at the New York World's fair this past year.

Baptists Honor Sunday School Superintendent

Surprise feature of the meeting of teachers and officers of the Baptist church Sunday school last evening at the home of Rev. and Mrs. E. Barnett, was the serving of a candle-light birthday cake in honor of the anniversary of Mrs. A. S. Martin.

Miss Alice Gibbs paid a glowing tribute to Mrs. Martin, who for 30 years has been identified with the progress of the church school, serving in practically every capacity.

At present Mrs. Martin is superintendent of the credit roll department. She received a shower of handkerchiefs.

Mrs. H. H. Burkhardt presided at the business session. Plans were made for a white Christmas party to be held during the holidays.

A book, "Improving the Church School Program," was read by Mrs. Herman Dodson.

Couple Weds on Anniversary of Groom's Parents

Justice H. M. Holler performed the single ring ceremony. Witnesses were Miss Edith Doughty, sister of the bride, and Wayne Raitman, Twin Falls Miss Betty Marks and Don Holmquist, brother of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party and members of both families gathered for a wedding supper at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

For her wedding the bride wore an off-white suit with brown accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Holmquist will be at home on a ranch near Hausen.

Mentor club will meet at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Braun, Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. Members are asked to bring canned food for the Children's home at Boise.

Faculty Version of Musical High-Jinks

When faculty members go on a musical rampage, you get a scene like this one. Here's the impromptu faculty orchestra that performed at the annual Twin Falls school assembly. Miss Dorothy Call, foreground, cuts a few capers as leader of the band. M. C. (Hodie) Cranney, center foreground, does a neat bit of jitterbugging, and Gerald Wallace, holding his hat outstretched, shows the collection technique that netted him exactly 35 cents as he passed the hat. Sitting in background, next to the drum, is Principal Edward Royal; between Miss Call and Cranney is Leroy Hughes; between Cranney and Wallace is Mrs. Rose North, dean of girls. At extreme right, Miss Edith Westerman, Miss Gladys White and Richard R. Smith at cello.

Outdoor Wiener Roast Concludes G. R. Party

When members of the Girl Reserves arrived at the country home of their sponsor, Mrs. Tom Alworth, last evening for a Halloween frolic, they found the house entirely dark, a blazing bonfire in the driveway forming an eerie illumination for the out-of-doors.

The outside stairway leading to the upstairs of the home was lighted by candles, and the girls were hidden to ascend backwards. After shaking hands with an icy, ghostlike hand, they were greeted by another ghost, who told spooky stories. The 60 guests attending the party were masked.

They then descended the stairway and were escorted indoors where an apple bobbing contest was conducted. Miss Esther Givens, Miss June Daniels and Miss Ruth Campbell winning prizes.

Mrs. Alworth told fortunes by cards and palm-reading.

At 10:30, the bonfire was refilled, and a wiener roast conducted. Miss Daniels was chairman of the refreshment committee and Miss June Daniels headed the transportation committee.

The group presented a life-time fountain pen to the honoree. Mrs. Susie Pratt was in charge of arrangements, and numerous games were played.

Mrs. Opal Mitchell, Mrs. Ozelle Lovine and Mrs. Craig sang a trio number, "I Would Be True."

Cards and dancing followed, and refreshments were served tray style at a late hour.

Law Makes Man Head of Family, Says Prosecutor

CASTLEFORD, Oct. 23 (Special)—"The husband shall be the head of the family," is an Idaho law, Everett M. Sweeley, prosecuting attorney for Twin Falls county, told members of the Everywoman's club last week at the Methodist church.

Here are some other interesting facts Mr. Sweeley told the group about Idaho laws.

"A person having separate property, as property owned before marriage, may will it to whom he pleases, but commonly property or property obtained after marriage may be willed only to members of the immediate family, such as husband, child or parent."

"The husband controls community property."

"In case of death of husband or wife, the remaining partner is sole owner of community property but in case of separate property, one-third goes to the husband or wife, and two-thirds to the children."

Mr. Sweeley remarked that it is much simpler to settle an estate by will than by probate. If the estate is probated where real estate is involved to clear title to the property, a will written in one's own handwriting and signed in the presence and before witnesses and place and stating wishes as to disposal of property is perfectly legal and binding, he stated.

"Insurance left by a person does not have to be used to pay debts incurred by the deceased," he said.

"An officer has to pay a warrant in order to make an arrest unless offense takes place in the immediate presence of the officer," he concluded.

Law Makes Man Head of Family, Says Prosecutor

CASTLEFORD, Oct. 23 (Special)—"The husband shall be the head of the family," is an Idaho law, Everett M. Sweeley, prosecuting attorney for Twin Falls county, told members of the Everywoman's club last week at the Methodist church.

Here are some other interesting facts Mr. Sweeley told the group about Idaho laws.

"A person having separate property, as property owned before marriage, may will it to whom he pleases, but commonly property or property obtained after marriage may be willed only to members of the immediate family, such as husband, child or parent."

"The husband controls community property."

"In case of death of husband or wife, the remaining partner is sole owner of community property but in case of separate property, one-third goes to the husband or wife, and two-thirds to the children."

Mr. Sweeley remarked that it is much simpler to settle an estate by will than by probate. If the estate is probated where real estate is involved to clear title to the property, a will written in one's own handwriting and signed in the presence and before witnesses and place and stating wishes as to disposal of property is perfectly legal and binding, he stated.

"Insurance left by a person does not have to be used to pay debts incurred by the deceased," he said.

"An officer has to pay a warrant in order to make an arrest unless offense takes place in the immediate presence of the officer," he concluded.

Every man on the 46-player Oklahoma Aggies football squad has played in at least one game.

NEA HARRY GRAYSON (NEA Service Sports Editor)

A sound football team must have: (1) material, (2) coaching, Tennessee has both. It gets the material because it can offer the legal scholarship—all expenses—which is authorized by the Southern conference. But it gets most of its boys from its own territory. Bob Fox and Butler are Knoxville boys. So the material also has been and is pride. The boys are fighting for Tennessee as well as for their education.

Mr. Robert Reese Neyland is a coach of the Knute Rockne type. He teaches sound fundamentals and insists that his boys execute the apparently simple things correctly. This is accomplished by his sedulous drill.

He is not only a good teacher, but a stern drillmaster. Neyland emphasizes a sound defense, which is a basic part of the most successful offense.

His teams are hard to score against and hard to score against. His offense is based on a strong running game, which means good blocking. His passing is secondary, but it is used when the occasion demands or when the opposing defense masses to fight against the ground game. It is just the chips are down this year, apparently; at least he did in the first half of the Duke game.

But like Rockne, when he gets a good lead, he takes no unnecessary chances, relies on his defense and makes the other team take the chances.

Neyland likes to build his offense around a reliable threat back, as Rockne did. When he has an outstanding tailback, his system works best. That's why it was so good when he had George Gifford, and why the team bogged down when the hill-billy was hurt.

This year he has Fox switched from quarterback to fullback. Fox is not a mechanically great player, but he is a superative competitor and he is playing with the chips are down. He is just a good passer, runner and punter, but he gets 100 per cent out of his talents in the trenches.

Duke had several men mechanically equal to Fox—but he was the only man on the field who could deliver his full weight in the clutch.

The line defense is built around two great guards—Bridges and Ed Mohr. Siffert is another clutch player. He made a clutch tackle which finally stopped Duke's rally at the beginning of the second half.

HOUSING PROJECT GIVEN CITY HELP

Members of the city council last night entered into a contract with the Twin Falls housing authority to supply residents of homes to be constructed by the authority, all the services which the city gives any other resident free of charge. The contract, approved by councilmen following minor changes, and after it was explained by Judge O. P. Davall, attorney for the authority, is one of the steps necessary to get the "job underway," Davall said. Signing of the contract or the carrying out of the provisions will mean no additional expense whatever to the city. Services provided include fire and police protection. Councilmen also discussed construction of the new city barn and the types of material which will be used. The actual start of construction is expected in the near future.

Idaho Farm Expert Sees Price Advance

BOISE, Ida., Oct. 29 (AP)—A moderate, improved demand for Idaho farm products, accompanied by a slight rise in prices, was reported here this week by C. O. Youngstrom, University of Idaho extension division agricultural statistician. Youngstrom said indications pointed to an improved outlook during the remainder of 1940, at least. He based his forecasts on the fact the industrial activity index, which maintained a level trend during most of this summer, is apparently regaining advances made earlier this year. "The income of industrial workers did not advance so rapidly between April and June, but such income continued to rise after June despite the pause in manufacturing operations," Youngstrom stated. "Further gains in the purchasing power of consumers are in prospect. CALDWELL, Oct. 29 (AP)—Turkeys will be on the run here again Nov. 23 when the fanciers of Caldwell prepare for the third annual turkey derby. Rumors from the local turkey racing circles indicate a large entry for this year's race. Several contestants are already reported to be putting their entries through their paces in early morning secret workouts. Speculation was rife after reports circulated that the Mongolian goose, which has been entered by unknown interests. Persons who claim to have seen this bird describe it as resembling a turkey in only minor details. The Goofer is said to have a neck and legs like an ostrich with feathers streamlined like a duck. Sure Thing The bird like this was entered in last year's race but judges never had an opportunity to determine its value. The owner claims he will keep under cover and never brought it to the starting line because he developed a regulation race that he was sure could win. Last year, Blossom Queen, a rank outsider, streaked across the finish line before a cheering crowd of 7,000 spectators who lined Caldwell's main street. The bird was driven by its owner, Herb Pitts, veteran turkey fancier.

MINARY EXPECTED TO ANSWER ICKES

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 29 (AP)—Republicans in the intermountain west indicated today that Vice-Presidential Candidate Charles McNary would answer charges made here last night by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes when he speaks at a western Republican rally next Friday afternoon. Ickes, luncheon-time closing Democratic drive for western votes, told several thousand persons at a Salt Lake City rally that the Republican leadership neither understands nor sympathizes with western needs. Wilkie's "Experience" The secretary received administrative public works contributions stressing the power program, and declared that Wilkie's experience in farm problems was gained "herding sheep in the canyons of Wall Street." Ickes' speech was heard over National Broadcasting company stations in all western states. Many of his listeners at the rally were not drawn by Ickes' charges but by his colorful denunciation. He did not disappoint them. Among other things, he termed Wilkie "a one-ear leather-puller" and a "barefoot Wall Street lawyer." Endorsement McNary The Salt Lake office endorsed all Utah Democratic candidates, and also voted approval of party nominees in the other western states. Ickes praised Sen. McNary for his support of public power projects, and sarcastically contrasted the Republican vice-presidential nominee and his running-mate in that field. "I think the ticket would make more sense if it were McNary and Wilkie," he said, "but I can't imagine McNary ever choosing Wilkie as his vice-presidential candidate." Republican leaders said today Gov. Henry J. Allen of Kansas would arrive in Utah Friday, along with McNary and former President Herbert Hoover. Hoover is scheduled to deliver a nationwide address at 1 p. m. MST. The following evening, Sen. Claude Pepper, D. Fla., will speak at a Democratic rally.

MINARY LEAVES FOR WEST HOME

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP)—Sen. Charles L. McNary, Republican vice-presidential nominee, leaves for his Salem, Ore., farm today to vote in the presidential election next Tuesday. McNary recently concluded a three week tour of vital midwestern farm territory. He plans three more speeches before the end of the campaign. He is scheduled to talk at Salt Lake City, Utah, Friday afternoon, at Sacramento, Calif., Saturday, and will participate in a round-robin Republican broadcast Monday night from his Oregon home.

TODAY'S QUOTES

By United Press "The third term is a real threat to democracy"—Lewis W. Douglas. "Mr. Lewis' endorsement of Mr. Wilkie for the presidency will make much difference in the vote results"—Frances Perkins. "It is unthinkable that America should now repudiate the sandest and greatest exponent of democracy in the last great stronghold of democracy"—Sen. Claude Pepper. "The election of Mr. Wilkie and a Republican congress will mean the end of the present federal farm program"—Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard. "I personally endorse the third-term candidacy of President Roosevelt's chosen successor, Wendell Willkie"—Sen. Charles McNary. "We have a real chance to win next Tuesday. I have never seen Republicans so enthusiastic"—Sen. Charles McNary.
