Willkie Demands FDR Answers to Five Questions 3rd Term, Defense, Unemployment and Depression Listed

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN ENROUTE TO CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 31 (UP)—Wendell L. Willkie asked President Roosevelt today to answer before election day five questions about unemployment, economic depression, alleged failure to provide adequate defense, the third term and "corrupt political maches."

Addressing a Baltimore audience last night that "you may expect war in April, 1941" if President Roosevelt is reelected, the Republican nominee for President issued a statement, including the questions, in reply to Mr. Roosevelt's address in Boston.

Asked to tell a Baltimore audience last night that "you may expect war in April, 1941" if President Roosevelt is reelected, the Republican nominee for President issued a statement, including the questions, in reply to Mr. Roosevelt's address in Boston.

Regarding the questions he posed for Mr. Roosevelt, Willkie said the American people "are entitled to know the answers" before election day.

Willkie denounced Mr. Roosevelt for "attacking" Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. and Mr. Charles McNary, home state, asserting the Republican leader of the house was "one of the distinguished of American public men."

GREEK TROOPERS SLOW ITALIANS' MOUNTAIN GAINS

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 31 (UP)—Greek troops rallied and halted an Italian advance from the Albanian frontier, the high command reported today as the government enforced drastic precautions against fifth column activity on the home front.

Although Italian aerial operations appeared to be increasing with new attacks on Patras and Navpaktos, the high command said the Greek defense forces had slung sporadically to their positions near the frontier during 24 hours of sporadic fighting.

Other fronts were reported quiet, but the high command said guerrilla bands were operating with the (Continued on Page 2, Column 4)

GREEK KING'S BROTHER MAY BE ASKED TO ASSUME THRONE

ITALIANS POINT TO EARLY SHIFT IN COOPERATION

By REYNOLDS PAGEARD
ROME, Oct. 31 (Special)—Possibility of an early agreement with Greece under which Crown Prince Paul would succeed his brother King George II on the Greek throne, pledged to cooperation with the German-Italian "new order" in Europe.

It was reported that Paul was the leader of a secret plan to take Greece in Greece and that after Greece had felt the full force of Italian attack there might be a change of feeling which would result in speedy conclusion of peace.

Prince Under Heavy Guard
 Newspapers gave prominence to reports that Gen. John Metaxas, the Greek strong man, had confined Prince Paul to his palace under heavy guard and might hand him over to the British to be confined on the island of Crete.

Paul, 38, is married to Princess Francisca Louisa of Hanover, a German.
 Under any agreement, it was said, Greece would agree to Italian occupation of strategically important areas for duration of the European war, and probably would be asked to agree to post-war territorial adjustments, including the cession of Calamaria province to Albania and Aegean sea ports to Yugoslavia and Bulgaria.

Follow Rumor on Style
 It was said any change in the Greek rulership would be effected in similar manner to that in Rumania where King Carol was succeeded by his son Crown Prince Michael.

Gen. Metaxas would be required to change the government, and Paul would become the political leader.
 Reports of possibility of an agreement with Greece seemed to be based partly on a feeling by Fascists in Britain had promised big scale aid to Greece and would not be able to give it, and that consequently the Greek people would soon tire of fighting Italy.

ITALIANS REVEAL 'SECRET WEAPON'

ROME, Oct. 31 (Special)—The Italian industry has unveiled a secret weapon against Greece—a bicycle built for two.

The "driver" sits on the front saddle, a rifle is fastened to the handle bars. On a saddle behind rides a light machine gunner, his weapon fixed in a stand.
 The "bikes" were designed for Greece's narrow roads. They have two-wheel brakes, three-speed gears to facilitate riding over hilly country, and can be folded like an accordion and carried on the back up steep paths. The tires are solid rubber.

CANDIDATE TELLS TRADE RELATIONS

Opponents of reciprocal trade agreements are mentioning only half the facts in their arguments, Earl E. Walker, Democratic candidate for probate judge of Twin Falls county, declared when speaking before a Democratic rally at the Tuttle school house.

"Opponents of trade agreements are forgetting to mention that while the United States had permitted the importation of produce as well as manufactured goods from other nations, this country had exported to those other nations agricultural produce and manufactured articles of greater value and amount than had been imported," Walker said. "When the real facts are studied, they show conclusively that foreign trade was greatly stimulated by and increased by the trade agreements and that the American market benefited."

The speaker explained the trade setup in detail and added that his information about the results of the agreements "came from the most important sources which were available." Walker's talk was given Tuesday night.

USB TAKES ON WEBER GRIDDERS

POCATELLO, Oct. 31 (Special)—Three games remain on the Idaho Southern university football schedule, the next date being with Weber College on Friday. Each game has won from Western State college, the Bengals of Idaho Southern opening the season with a 7-0 score but Weber did a better job with a 13-0 total over the strong Mountaineers.

Weber and Idaho Southern have not met since 1933 when the Bengals, held to 6-0 at the half, broke loose to run up a 45-0 score against a battered squad. Weber is not to be toyed with this year as the Utahns now bear little resemblance to squads of a few years ago and on the basis of the comparative score, a tight game should result on the Ogden gridiron.

Idaho Southern pulled its last week's game out of the fire with a forward pass in the last few seconds of play, winning 30-26 over Albion Normal. Early in the first period Idaho Southern led 24-12 but relaxed too long, permitting Albion to forge ahead and then had to fight its way back in a drive that went from the Idaho Southern four to Albion's 19. A halt was called there but a minute later the Bengals were again in possession of the ball and a pass from George Atkinson of Idaho Falls to Woody Erickson of Donkey brought victory as the gun sounded the end of hostilities.

Conech Guy Wick of Idaho Southern plans no changes in the starting lineup and reports only one injury, a muscle bruise by Evin Soromon of Bancroft, right halfback.

After meeting, Weber, the Bengals will play the annual homecoming tilt here on Saturday with Montana State college, and close the season Nov. 23 at Compton, Calif.

WRITERS FAVOR FDR AS WINNER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—A survey by the magazine Newsweek among 50 political writers showed today that 27 of them predicted that President Roosevelt would be re-elected for a third term while 22 believed Wendell L. Willkie would win.

The other writer said he believed the contest was too close to venture a guess on its outcome. All agreed that the race would be the closest since 1916 when one California county turned victory in to defeat for Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, then the Republican candidate.

LAWYER ATTACKS F. D. R. PROGRAM

JEROME, Oct. 31 (Special)—Ray D. Agee, assistant prosecuting attorney of Twin Falls, addressed the meeting of the Jerome county women's G.O.P. organization Monday in county court rooms. Mr. Agee stated that while the President of the United States had been able to spend some $44,000,000,000 for relief and his program of administration, this country still has 10,000,000 unemployed.

Mr. Agee stated that after the President had congress in line, he found that the supreme court refused his "crackpot legislation." When he found that he failed in his efforts to sway the court, he sought to change it by adding to its personnel and by forcing retirements. Not succeeding in this, he attempted to make the office untenable for those who opposed him, until age, ill health and death at last gave him opportunity and power to pack the supreme court with "men of his own ilk," Agee stated.

He added that the agricultural adjustment act was then passed and held constitutional. The President found he was powerful enough in being able to step into a farming community and control growth and production of agricultural and livestock production. He also found it possible to control manufacture of goods in plants and factories.

In conclusion, Mr. Agee stated, "Check our present government against the dictatorial powers in Europe today and see if they can out-stand the powers of Roosevelt."

TRAFFIC DEATHS REGISTER CLIMB

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (AP)—The nation's traffic toll mounted steadily during the first nine months of 1940, the national safety council said today, and it challenged motorists to a "now or never" campaign to reduce fatalities the last three months of the year.

September's record 3,260 deaths brought the nine-month mark to 23,830—a seven per cent increase from the same period last year. Except for July every month of 1940 has shown increased fatalities from the previous month, the council reported.

"It's now or never," the council said. "Fatalities must be cut 15 per cent the closing three months of the year to bring the total for 1940 below that of 1939."

Only six states reported decreased death tolls for the nine months. They were Montana, Nebraska, Maine, North Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee. States in the Rocky Mountain area showed the greatest sectional boost in fatalities this year, while the South Atlantic states had the least traffic deaths in proportion to their previous year's marks.

Probe Opens After Discovery of Body

IDAHO FALLS, Ida., Oct. 31 (AP)—Sheriff Henry Meppen today started investigation into the death of S. H. Robinson, 74, who had been missing from his home here for more than a month.

Robinson's body was found yesterday in the Idaho canal but Meppen said condition of the body made it impossible to determine immediately whether Robinson had met with violence. Robinson was the father-in-law of E. W. Manning, president of the Idaho Falls city council.

PUBLIC SERVICE!

Never was America's dependence upon the newspapers better demonstrated than this past week when 17,000,000 young men were voluntarily enrolled for the draft—a stupendous feat which could not have been accomplished without the active co-operation of the nation's press.

First came the enrollment, with newspapers throughout the land publishing all draft registration places, the detailed instructions and regulations—information which only the printed word can convey successfully.

Then came the draft "lottery" itself, in which only the newspapers could be relied upon to provide all of the thousands of names that were drawn. Irrespective of the tremendous amount of work and expense involved, the American newspapers remained true to their responsibility.

And so it was throughout the nine counties of Magic Valley. The Idaho Evening Times and Twin Falls News were the only mediums through which the selection of names could be reported completely and promptly.

When public service rises paramount to everything else, it's the nation's press that's expected to shoulder the burden.

Comparison With Australia Stresses Citizen Induction

Citizenship Induction ceremonies, such as will be conducted Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Twin Falls high school auditorium, have the enthusiastic approval of Mrs. Claude Brown, who said today, "I think this is one of the finest moves ever made in our country to promote pride in citizenship and instill the love of country."

In Australia, the young man with interest for years "the time when I attain my majority," and the 21st birthday is more than just another anniversary, because it has the significance of becoming a citizen.

She was privileged to attend one of these "coming of age" parties on a visit to Australia, and her comment was, "The teaching of the pride of citizenship begins in the home. We can give our children a lesson in just from Australia."

Presentation of Key
It is quite customary, when a young man or young woman comes to Australia, to give a dancing party, or some other form of entertainment, highlight of which is the presentation of a key symbolizing the fact that as a citizen, the honoree has new privileges and responsibilities as well as new duties. This day is looked forward to with interest for years. At the party Mrs. Brown attended, the girl and her presentation key, as Mrs. Brown approached the large birthday cake in the center of the dancing hall.

Here, a brief talk, emphasizing the importance of being 21; complimenting his daughter on her past accomplishments, and expressing his hope that she would become a fine citizen of the country.

Then he presented her with the ceremonial key to the house, and she cut the first slice of the birthday cake, the same as one would a wedding cake.

"Public Induction ceremonies, such as we are now conducting in the United States, should be instituted in this country that they have a voice in the government, that being 21 is a new responsibility, and should make them feel that their country is something worth living for, and working for," Mrs. Brown commented.

Everyone is invited to attend Friday's program, when youths who will receive the first slice of this year will be presented with certificates of citizenship.

Several employers have consented to let their employees off work that afternoon so that they may be present to receive their certificates, the Board of Education, and the project, announced today.

Those young men and women who have not yet been contacted, and who will vote for the first time this year, are asked to telephone Miss Margaret Hill, district home demonstration agent, or Mrs. Doris Straley, county superintendent of schools, and leave their names so that certificates may be prepared for them.

Gerald Wallace will speak on the subject, "A Thought for New Voters," and Blaine Tolman, Minto, will present the certificates.

Notice, GOP: Demos Still Want Debate

The third-term debate issue flared here again today with announcement by Edward Babcock, Democratic county chairman, that Marshall Chapman, local attorney, would speak on that topic at Murtaugh at 8 p. m. Friday and that any Republican designated by L. H. Van Ripper, county chairman for the opposition, is welcome to be there at that hour and debate with him.

Babcock said that Chapman would speak at a Democratic rally which will be held at the Murtaugh high school auditorium on Friday evening.

The Republicans have said that they are too busy holding meetings to debate, Babcock said. Well, we've arranged the matter to do for ourselves, after they wouldn't do it, and so now Mr. Van Ripper has to do it in name of a man to debate on the third term against Mr. Chapman and have him at Murtaugh Friday night.

Under terms of a previous challenge, no decision will be given as to the winner of the debate. Rather both men, if the Republicans select a representative talker, will present their party's side of the third term issue in addresses which will be limited to a certain length of time.

At the Murtaugh rally Friday night Democratic county candidates will be introduced and Lawrence E. Turner will serve as master of ceremonies.

General chairman in charge of arrangements are Mrs. Frankie McAllister, candidate for the legislature, and Mrs. Cora Stevens, candidate for treasurer. Charles Romk, Jr., a member of the Young Democratic club, is chairman of the reception committee.

Refreshments will be furnished by Lawrence E. Turner.

Mann Book Given Review for Club

JEROME, Oct. 31 (Special)—Erika Mann's "The Ladies Go Down," a story of the impact of the Hitler regime on 10 German individuals, was reviewed Tuesday by Mrs. Tony Pauline, Twin Falls, for the members and guests of the Jerome Civic club.

Mrs. Pauline, in a preliminary introduction of the book, explained that it is supposedly 90 per cent factual.

Mrs. Erika Mann, high school standard, sang two selections, accompanied by Mrs. Eugene W. Williams, pianist, who also played "Glad Herd America," while the club sang.

Mrs. E. E. Connor, president, introduced new members who were recently accepted into the plumeria organization. Mrs. William White, Mrs. Wilson Churchman, Mrs. Mae Hilly and Mrs. Bert Miller were unanimously accepted for membership.

Refreshments were served, Mrs. George Chubbart and Mrs. Blanche Hawker presiding at the services.

The serving table was covered with a lace cloth, and centered with a bouquet of golden-brown chrysanthemums. Hostesses were Mrs. L. W. Grant, Mrs. J. H. Russell, Mrs. Daley, Mrs. Ann Hartman and Mrs. E. M. Churchman.

DEWEY ARRIVES FOR GOP SPEECH

BOISE, Oct. 31 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey, New York district attorney, arrived here today to carry the cause of Wendell L. Wilkie to Idaho voters.

Dewey will speak at a meeting of Idaho Republicans in Caldwell tonight. His speech will be carried over NBC and Don Lee networks from 8 to 8:30 p. m.

The visit is the second Dewey has made to Idaho. He spoke here last February as a candidate for the Presidential nomination and secured votes of Idaho's delegation until the final tally was taken at the Philadelphia convention.

Waldorf Says deCorrevont Was No Bust in '39—Better This Year

By HENRY MCLENTORE

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (Special).—This would have been a much better story if I hadn't run across Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern football coach, while on the way to see Billy deCorrevont.

I was all set and primed to pull out all the Horatio Alger stops on Billy. First I was going to describe what a flop he was as a sophomore player, after getting the biggest built-up as a high school boy and freshman in the history of football. You were going to get, and in full detail, how he couldn't do anything right last year, how his press notices begged him down, and how he appeared to be just an ordinary halfback.

Then I planned to paint the spirit of a boy who, refusing to quit, swam gamely upstream to become one of the standout players in the country. This is the story of deCorrevont's today. He is the hottest thing in the conference with the possible exception of Tommy Harmon, and has been largely responsible for Northwestern's undefeated record. He has put behind him—I planned to say all the bitter memories of his failure of a year ago, all the heartaches of having been unable to live up to his publicity, and fought his way to the heights.

Then I ran into Waldorf, who coaches Billy.

"The kid's making a whale of a showing after that bust of 1939, isn't he?" I said.

"What's that?" Waldorf asked. "I repeated."

"Who said Billy was a bust as a sophomore?" Waldorf wanted to know. "Lissen," he went on, "if that boy was a flop I'd like to have a few more flops around. Let me tell you what he meant to us last season. The first thing he did was to save the Notre Dame game, not once but twice. He nailed Hargraves when he was loose for a touchdown, and later he took care of two blockers in front of a loose runner to save another score. He was a fair defensive fellow on passes, too. There wasn't a pass completed in his territory all season. And his kicking was instrumental in our winning the Illinois and Wisconsin games. He was a fair passer himself, completing 44 per cent of his tries.

The only thing he wasn't absolutely tops in was running with the ball. Yet it was his 61-yard dash that beat Minnesota."

So this year deCorrevont has been the standout back on the club. He has carried the ball 47 times for a gain of 212 yards and an average of 4.2 yards. He got two touchdowns against Syracuse, tallied the touchdown that licked Ohio State 6 to 3 and ran 80 yards against Wisconsin for a touchdown. Now he's laid up from an ankle injury received in the Wisconsin game.

There isn't a nicer boy in football. Good looking, smart, modest, and yet sure of himself, he told me he thought he was a better player this year than last.

"That publicity is a little tough. I tried not to pay any attention to it, but I couldn't help it," Billy said. "After all, a sophomore's a sophomore. You learn things as you go along, and now I've decided just to say as little as I have to, play the best I can, and get all the fun there is out of football. I love to play it. I'd rather play it than do anything else in the world."

Sportsmen Oppose Stream Pollution in Mountains

By CHAS. G. SUMNER

KECHUM, Oct. 31 (Special).—Following another season during which considerable stream pollution was recorded, sportsmen at large appear to emphasize the theory that something should be done about extending the policy of conservation in the mountains of Idaho.

The article in Outdoor America by John Baumann of Ketchum, who is president of the Ketchum chapter of the Isaac Walton League, is a plea for the protection of all round sportsmen. He was asked regarding the progress of the "anti" amendment to the Berkeley stream pollution bill, in which nationwide interest is shown by sportsmen.

Baumann's article dealt with "River of No Return"—the Salmon river—in which he presented an epitome of the vast game resources of Idaho's virgin wildlife country.

Incidentally mentioning, as a few species, big lynn sheep, mountain goat, elk, moose, mule deer, mountain lion, coyote, fox, martin, fisher, mink, badger, weasel, muskrat, bobcat, lynx, rock chick, pine and ground squirrels, several kinds of rabbits and so on, with passing allusion to the seven varieties of grouse and many of ducks without particularizing.

Oppose Road Building

In the main his story outlined the principle of conservation as vitally applicable to one of the very few "wilderness" areas now being joined with many public agencies in opposing further road extension in the greatest game section in the world, adding that the chief reason for this road building? Some say it is a short cut. If so, a short cut for what, and at what expense? So far as it has been able to determine, the chief proponents of this project are the small business owners of small communities at either end of the canyon.

Each year we see an additional five or six miles of road advance in each end of the canyon. It is possible to see in this wilderness (I mean a parallel) to other so-called wilderness of the United States, that have robbed American wildlife of its natural habitat.

The forest service under whose jurisdiction the road is being built, avers that it is inevitable and desirable development in the interest of general public travel.

Wilderness Nearly All Gone

left in the United States to provide for the future needs of the nation. If we accept that premise then further inroads on wilderness resources are undesirable, and that goes for the Salmon river road, which cuts into one of the few real primitive areas designated by the forest service itself.

Outdoor America, adding "The Salmon river is the dividing line between two adjacent wilderness areas, one lying to the north, the other to the south of the river. Actually, both comprise one big wilderness area, as it is splitting hairs to contend, as the service does, that it is not very important to avoid locating a road between the two."

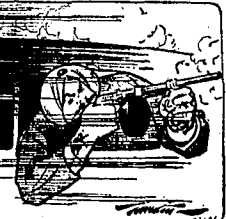

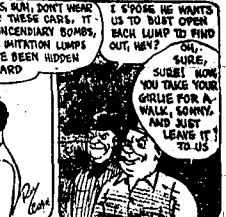

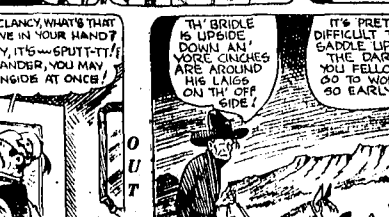

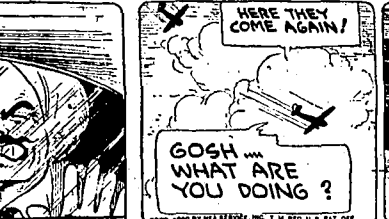

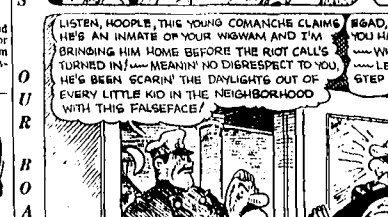

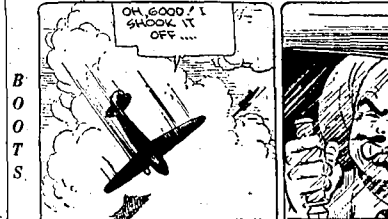

Stream Pollution

That is one end of the conservation proposition. Another point lay in stream pollution, as evidenced by sporadic placer mining and willful dumping of tailings into trout streams, along with pollution by sewage and other forms. Baumann, as league president, then cited that "the house or representatives, 199 to 165, reaffirmed its endorsement of the Mundt amendment to the stream pollution bill of Sen. Barkley, S. 685. Again the polluters were beaten. It is now up to the senate either to approve the bill with the Mundt amendment, which is a sub-section of section 2, or partially accept it. This favor pollution. Having passed the house July 9 the responsibility is now up to the United States senate. Out in this country we know that a murky stream is not clean water. It is pollution direct, regardless of the silly suggestion that it is void of oxygen. That idea is largely aimed to dodge the real and vital situation. Any sort of foreign matter contaminates water. If it is injurious to man it certainly will not fatten a trout, and if fish in brain food some of our alleged experts should go on a diet—ardines, at least."

"It is important," continued Baumann, "if special contact is made and urge support of the Mundt amendment to the Barkley bill. It is in the great interest of clean streams for clean people and is a cleaner sportsmanship to preserve to the people streams of their common property, and to avoid the careless practice of making such streams the dumping grounds of the thoughtless."

The advertisement once appeared in a North Dakota newspaper: "For sale—automobile. Drove it here from Illinois but because of roads I cannot drive it back."

WILKIE SAYS HE COULD GEAR U. S. WAR PRODUCTION BETTER

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 31 (UP)—Wendell L. Wilkie asserted today he could gear up U. S. production of airplanes and other war materials to strengthen defense and aid Great Britain better than President Roosevelt and added that in his administration a request for 12,000 more planes over Britain "wouldn't even be news."

Referring to Mr. Roosevelt's announcement at Boston last night that he was recommending that the production board give sympathetic consideration to a British request for 12,000 more airplanes, Wilkie said: "Well, who wouldn't?"

When applicants who are eligible for selective service present themselves, and are qualified as "desirable applicants" by the board, they are given instructions for the recruiting service of the United States navy. The board, selectively reviewing these men, lists the names of those who are to be inducted into the service.
