ITALIANS, GREEKS BOTH CLAIM WIN IN BIG BATTLES

BY JOE ALEX MORRIS
United Press Foreign News Editor
Greek and Italian armies fought with great ferocity today along two main fronts in the mountainous Albanian border zone, with both sides claiming progress.
On the northern front, protecting the route to Salonica, the Greek counter-offensive into Albania was reported stalled before reaching the big Italian base at Koriza. A furious battle was in progress in the mountains for domination of the main road to Koriza, according to the Greek messages, with Italian reinforcements attempting to rally against the Greeks.

Messages to the Yugoslav border reported the Italian advance toward Janina had been halted but they indicated the Greeks were talking back to Pargis, which would threaten the encirclement of Janina.

The Balkan conflict intensified speculation on a possible German thrust into the southeast in support of the Italian offensive in London sources, which recently claimed that 70 German divisions were in position for possible service on the coast (encircling Philates) toward the port of Pargis.

Thousands Cheer as FDR Returns to Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (UP)—President Roosevelt returned to the capital today where he was acclaimed by cheering thousands that lined flag-bedecked Pennsylvania avenue.
In honor of Mr. Roosevelt's sweeping third term victory, the district commissioners had declared a virtual half holiday and government workers, school children, tourists and others turned out by tens of thousands. They stood 20 deep in many places along the historic route of state parades to give Mr. Roosevelt rousing welcome.

Members of his cabinet and his running mate, vice-president, elect, Henry A. Wallace, walked almost a half hour in the early morning chill of the station platform to greet him. A parade route taking him past the senate office building, the capitol and the long rows of government buildings had been roped off and was under heavy guard of police and military forces.

At the station, the navy band struck up "Happy Days" as his private car, with Mrs. Wallace, was being driven to the White House. An informal reception was held aboard the President's train in the White House.

Wallace Board Train
Mr. Roosevelt, in a white-collared tweed suit and a shawl tied to his neck, was the first to board the train. He was followed by Mrs. Wallace, who was seated in the first car. They were followed by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan, and other cabinet members.

NEW $4,000,000 SPAN COLLAPSES
TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 7 (UP)—A 100-foot section of the huge Tacoma narrows suspension bridge collapsed and fell into the water today.

The bridge at the time was an automobile owned by Leonard Costowatz of Tacoma. A 100-foot section of the bridge collapsed and fell into the water today.

While spectators watched from shore, the bridge swung, twisted and turned in the high wind, which is sweeping the Pacific northwest. Suddenly the concrete decking began to crumble. As it buckled, pieces of concrete were torn off.

Then with a crash the 100-foot section fell to the water far below. The bridge was completed this summer at a cost of more than $4,000,000.

IRON LUNG AIDS Nampa Boy, 19, in Battle for Life

Roosevelt Ready To Lead Country Another 4 Years

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (UP)—President Roosevelt today leads the United States and the western hemisphere into four years in which war or peace, prosperity or depression will be in the balance.
$15,000,000,000 rearmament program is stoking the furnace of industry for defense of the United States and to make it the supply depot of democracy's world-wide resistance to aggression.

Continuing tremendous expenditures foretell a business boom. On the pledge to lend all material aid to those nations which resist aggression, the United States hazards the issue of war or peace. That change has been wrought by a smashing political endorsement.

Mr. Roosevelt is chief of state today as no American has been before him with overwhelming popular approval for his policies of social reform and aggressive—if short of war—defense of democracy.

No vital changes in New Deal policy are indicated. Mr. Roosevelt's few words since his reelection portended merely "some more of the same." But the language of the British, the sternness of disapproval of Japan's activities seem due to increase the pressure on Mr. Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt is known to feel that old social provisions including old age pensions, fall short by millions of reaching as many people as they should. And his domestic policies is whether social gains which Mr. Roosevelt regards as vital, should be sacrificed to a more rapid rearmament would step up national defense. He has promised that they won't be.

There are rumors of cabinet changes—that Frank G. Walker may abandon his stop gap tenure as postmaster general and that Clark M. Reynolds are 78 years old.

Changes in the supreme court seem almost inevitable. Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Associate Justice Brandeis are 78 and 79 respectively.

The possibility of a break in New Deal-Democratic congressional alignments cannot be overlooked. The House and Senate Democrats were bolting in all directions just over a year ago when a long-term session ended on Aug. 10. The war hit Europe and legislators who had wanted to oppose a third term and practically all major legislative bills were shelved. The President swung back into line.

NAVY EMPLOYEES GET PAY BOOST
WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (UP)—Secretary of Navy Frank Knox today announced a 4 percent pay increase for the 117,000 civilian employees of the navy.

The navy declined to estimate the total amount of the pay increase involved in this first general pay raise since the war started in 1929. One of the three classifications, affected, the navy said, was the 40,000 workers in the navy yards—would get $2,000,000 more annually in their pay envelopes. There are about 40,000 workers in the navy yards.

The assembly was presided over by Mayor Arthur B. Langlie, who is superintendent, who will be in charge of the exercises.

GERMANS REJECT PASSAGE OF SHIP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (UP)—The state department announced today that the German government has refused to give safe conduct guarantees for an American ship to go to a port on the west coast of Ireland to repatriate American citizens still in Great Britain.

The chief foreign ministry said, in a formal note to the state department, the areas around England are areas of military operations and that the German government is not in a position to furnish any sort of assurances in the nature of guarantees of safe passage.

The Italian government previously had given prompt assurances that, insofar as the Italian government and its military and naval forces were concerned, an American ferry ship could be guaranteed safe passage to the Irish port designated and to bring home American citizens.

There are about 1,200 American nationals dealing to come home to the British Isles, according to the state department.

IDAHO DRAFT BOARDS AUTHORIZED TO ACCEPT VOLUNTEERS

APPLICATIONS TO JOIN ARMY WILL BE TAKEN HERE

Since Idaho's first quota of 58 men is to be filled by volunteers, the Twin Falls county draft board No. 1, as well as boards in all other areas of Magic Valley, are authorized today to accept such volunteers.

Big-Gen. M. G. McConnell, head of the Idaho selective service machinery, advised the Evening Times by telegram today that young men on the registration list may apply at their local boards.

"They may ask for voluntary induction," Gen. McConnell said, "before the questionnaire, take the medical examination and be inducted as of Nov. 18 and 19."

The selective service director said that young men from 18 to 21, age brackets below the draft, may volunteer if they secure written consent of their local boards.

Authorization for acceptance of volunteers, Gen. McConnell said, came from the War Relocation Authority.

The chief clerk of the Twin Falls draft board, Capt. J. H. Weaver, Jr., said that about 10 registrants have been indicated they wish to volunteer ahead of their order number in the drawing.

Total registration for this area had risen today to 3,501.

Arm Around Wallace
Wallace sat beside him and the chief executive threw his arm over the future vice-president's shoulder. Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Wallace sat in the forward seats.

"Being here all these years means that we and you get on pretty well," Mr. Roosevelt said. "We are very glad to be back here for a little while longer."

"We like farm life pretty well, but all this Washington life can think of me like Washington," Mr. Roosevelt said. "I want you to know how glad we are of the results of two days ago and of the chance to stay here just a little while longer."

Roar of Approval
The crowd, extending in an unbroken mass from the station to the capitol roared its approval. Mr. Roosevelt waved and the procession started.

The crowd that lined Pennsylvania avenue and the station plaza extended all the way to the capitol.

The White House, which was crowded in new uniforms, was drawn up along the drive inside the White House grounds as the drive ended.

The White House staff stood along the south wall of the White House and gave Mr. Roosevelt a cheer as he entered the building. He has come again for the next four years.

SNOW ARRIVES AT RESORT TO START SKIING

SUN VALLEY, Nov. 7 (Special)—Six inches of snow today gave this resort its first touch of winter and improved the possibilities for a successful first week-end of skiing which is to be held on Baldy mountain Saturday and Sunday.

The new fall would make a depth of 10 inches on the Baldy at runs when added to the two feet reported there yesterday by Friedl Pfeifer, ski instructor.

"The ski lift on Baldy will be running Saturday afternoon and Sunday for the convenience of Idaho and Utah skiers," Pfeifer said. "We have been skiing on Baldy since Sunday and there are many slopes which will be in perfect shape with many runs thoroughly skiable." The early snow, he said, gave skiers a good opportunity to get in shape for the winter.

CASTLEFORD HOLDS WELL BABY CLINIC

CASTLEFORD, Nov. 7 (Special)—A well baby clinic was conducted in connection with the meeting of the Y.W.C.A. at the home of Mrs. Henry Graybeal.

Eleven babies were brought to the clinic. Four were vaccinated for measles, four for diphtheria.

Dr. V. H. Anderson, Buhl, and Mrs. Vera Kope, of this city, Castleford's health unit, were in charge of the clinic.

Doctors Voice Tribute For Medical Colleague

Leaders of the medical and Boy Scout world of this section of Idaho today paid a tribute to Dr. J. N. Davis, who will soon be filled. He was a personal friend of mine and he was an inspiration to all of us in the medical profession."

Dr. George C. Bailey: "I was associated with Dr. Davis at Kimberly from 1922 to 1925. He was a very kind and always working for the welfare of the physicians of Idaho and of the public. He was an inspiration to us to better the practice of medicine. He was particularly generous in the care of the needy. His death came all too soon."

Tribute by Doctors
Various physicians were contacted by the Evening Times and all of them said that the medical field had lost one of its greatest workers. Statements from physicians, typifying the feeling of the profession in general follow:

Dr. Charles B. Beymer: "As a leader in medical advancement and organization he will be missed greatly throughout Idaho. As a personal friend he was one of my timely death came as a shock. The community, as well as the state, has lost a true friend."

Dr. L. H. Blower: "Idaho has lost one of her most valuable men. I know Dr. Davis all my life and I can say that I never saw anyone with so much energy to devote toward helping others. He was a true sportsman and the first word he was doing in many fields will be sorely missed."

Dr. Alfred A. Newberry: "I had known Dr. Davis since 1912. He was always devoted to the practice of medicine and care of the sick. The community and the state will miss him."

Dr. J. H. Murphy: "Idaho has lost one of its best doctors. The

TOOK OFFERS TO RESIGN POSITION

Mrs. Clara Pratt this morning reported that the break news she was driving had the headlights and grill smashed. She told officers that a pickup truck immediately after the accident stopped on Main avenue without the driver giving any signal. Mrs. Pratt stopped too. The truck backed up, the rear end smashing headlights and grill on the car.

Mrs. Pratt then told officers that the man asked her to follow him to a nearby garage and he would make arrangements to have the damage repaired. The man drove toward the garage, but turned down an alley and disappeared.

TOOT

If the prolonged tooting of a railroad whistle in and near Twin Falls in early morning has disturbed your slumbers in past months, Mayor Joe Koehler had good news for you this afternoon.

The mayor said that the Union Pacific division superintendent, R. E. Tull, answering a letter in which the city's executive passed along "many complaints," announced that his office has given instructions to "taper down" on the tooting. Only short blasts are to be utilized.

Koehler had written that train No. 429, which arrives here at 4 a. m. daily, seemed to have the habit of entering the city "with the whistle tied down."

AXIS ARMY GAINS GROUND IN SOUTH

held territory. The communists said.

Wellington, which has been a Greek and British plane, cooperating closely, had flown low over the city's executive machine gunning concentrations.

These sources disclosed it was a combined Greek-British airplane formation which had bombed the Balkan points in southern Italy and Albanian ports.

Severe damage was done to the newly captured Albanian port of Valona, informants said.

Resistance Surprised
Italians, which had been in recent fights in the Salonika area, were quoted on their arrival here as saying the Italians had been surprised.

The aviators were reported to have said that Count Graziano, former Italian minister of foreign affairs, and Mussolini's son, Bruno and Vittorio, took part in last Saturday's raid on Salonika.

The public security ministry said the Italian yesterday bombed Corfu, the D. D. islands, the islands of Janina and the surrounding territory on the southern front. Corfu island also was bombed.

A government statement denied a report by the Belgrade newspaper Vreme that Greece had asked Germany to mediate a settlement with Italy.

Russia Hears Warning Against "Tricks" by Neighbor Enemies

United Press War Expert
Indications that Russia is not satisfied with her recent territorial gains and remains suspicious of possible future attack are contained in the address delivered today at Moscow's celebration of the Soviet union's birthday by the Soviet commissar Marshal Timoshenko. His appeal to the army not to remain "tricks of our foreign enemies" have direct association with present events in southeastern Europe.

Marshal Timoshenko's statement is the first formal Russian pronouncement since Italy invaded Greece and remains significant involvement in the war became a subject of pressing interest for Moscow. His emphasis that the entire Russian front must maintain a state of mobilization and preparedness because of the danger of military attack, undoubtedly is designed to produce psychological effects in the capitals of the axis powers and probably Tokyo as well.

The Russian army has shown no such sympathy for German and Italian military operations in the present war as would imply mutual interests. Moscow military publications have frankly expressed admiration for Germany's military conquests. Great Britain and the United States have indicated doubt about the results of Italian ambitions in Greece.

Now Marshal Timoshenko reiterates Stalin's instructions for Russia to continue on guard against "tricks of foreign enemies," and the danger of surprise. Moscow considers all non-Communist states to be potential enemies but more specifically only Germany and Italy in Europe and Japan in Asia call for continuous alertness by the Russians against their attacks.

The whole tenor of the defense commissar's declaration shows clearly that Russia is ready to show off her powerful neighbors and does not intend to let down her guard.

The Country 'Stands Pat'

The people have spoken. Franklin D. Roosevelt is to be President of the United States for the next four years.

The American people, in riding rough-shod over the tradition against third terms for Presidents, have given President Roosevelt a tribute that should at once make him very proud and very humble. Many people have believed honestly that election of Roosevelt would mean the end of American democracy. The responsibility rests all the heavier on Roosevelt to demonstrate quite clearly that these fears were groundless.

The strong campaign by Willkie should be a warning to the President. One of the arguments advanced in his behalf has been that his long experience in public life and in the presidency itself have taught him what may and what may not be done. The clarity and power of opposition which developed during the campaign are a clear signal for an end to miscellaneous experimentation, and concentration on such industrial progress as will solve the one most pressing domestic problem—unemployment.

As to foreign affairs, it seems clear that American prestige abroad will have been enhanced by the people's decision to stand by the President. The weakness of American foreign policy has always been that other countries never know when a change of administration may bring changes in policy.

The imperatives of the international situation, however, are such today that our foreign policy is pretty much what it must be. Willkie's virtual adherence to it was the proof of that.

No President ever made a more solemn pledge that the country had no commitments abroad; none ever pledged more explicitly a peace policy so long as the actions of others left peace remotely possible. Those pledges the re-elected President must not forget.

There is a task before us—a double task involving maximum military preparedness at the fastest possible pace, and also the rebuilding of a better economic structure on the firmest possible foundation. These are tasks which require a united people for successful completion. The election results show that the people are determined to continue to move forward along the general line laid down during the past eight years. To the weight of a third consecutive verdict to this effect is now added the international situation, demanding the utmost co-operation from every American.

It will be forthcoming. It is in the best tradition of democratic government to accept with grace the verdict of the people, and to support whole-heartedly the President who is the choice of the majority.

In such a course lies the only assurance of victory over our domestic problems and of the stability of free government in a world which has gravely challenged it.

The Beam in Our Own Eye

We are appalled at the slaughter of civilians in Europe by indiscriminate bombing. How many men, women and children have been snuffed out in London and Berlin while going about their daily tasks, we do not know, though figures released from both countries show the toll in mounting thousands.

Meanwhile, the death toll of our own streets and roads has also mounted, in the first nine months of this year, to 23,830. That is 1,500 more than in the same period last year, the National Safety council reports.

The man, woman, or child suddenly struck down on the highway without warning is just as dead as the bomb victim; the sorrow of their family and friends is just as great; the loss to the country as terrible. And however useless war may be, it is no more useless than the death we permit to stalk our streets.

The season of slippery pavements and rain-dimmed windshields is upon us. Don't let death thumb a ride in your car!

Being two-faced never doubled anybody's face value.

GOAL TO GO

BY W. H. PEARS

YESTERDAY, Bill Mentor watched his own... team lose to Benton, 6-5. With a chance to score, he let it pass. He called a spectacular pass, but the receiver dropped it. He was angry. He was angry. He was angry.

CHAPTER II

BILL MENTOR eased his hand... young body into patched pajamas. For a moment he stood listening to Buck toss restlessly in the next room. Then, frowning, he drew from the dresser drawer a packet of yellowed clippings. Some were nearly 20 years old, but he studied them eagerly as if he didn't know every word by heart.

"BUCK MENTOR PICKED FOR ALL-AMERICA," "BUCK MENTOR STARS IN SEASON'S UP-SHOT," "BUCK MENTOR TO COACH ALL-STAR'S."

A warm glow spread up through Bill. His dad! It was something for a fellow to live up to, all right.

Slowly indignation replaced his pride. Those rummies on the board had turned down Buck without an interview. J. Conrad Siskind had written a letter. It would be bad for the team's morale to have an invalid coach, he thought, but if an opening occurred later...

Bill gave a successful moor. Any dope could put the squad through grass drills and stuff like that. It was brains that counted. And there wasn't a fellow on the team, except maybe the Bulthead Peck, who wouldn't fight for Buck.

The last clipping was two years old, but still a fresh report in Bill's hand. It was the comment of a widely known sports columnist:

"... today the driving seat... legged Buck Mentor is still set, because he saved a little Italian workman whose name he didn't even know, from death under a falling beam. We salute you, Buck Mentor, All-American guy..."

Bill remembered those weeks of running from school to the hospital and finally how the doctor had broken the news to him:

"With cancer, your father can walk a little, son, but your job is to keep him quiet. In a year he'll be dead, and you'll see a famous friend of mine. If anyone can operate successfully on Buck, he can."

With Bill's job and Buck's savings they managed to get along, but now, two years later, Bill realized that Buck's operation was farther away than ever. Surely they had replaced the clippings, unshamed of the tears that burned his eyes.

WHEN Bill awakened, Buck had breakfast ready.

"Sausages," Bill said, smacking his lips. "You should have called me sooner."

"Obliging, fellow. Sunday's your morning to sleep in."

Bill finished eating and unfolded the Sunday paper. "Jumping Jacob, Buck, get me that red book!"

"Coach Landis defended his boys, but admitted no wrong play had been called."

"Does he do you think of that?" Bill gasped.

"Maybe it's true, Bill. Maybe Calvert did blunder."

"No hat tennis, no order the play, why did he replace Peckin'?" Bill demanded.

Buck said thoughtfully, "If that's true, Landis has managed rather nicely to duck the blame."

Bill's black eyes smoldered. "Gee, what a dirty trick! I bet those guys won't take it lying down."

Illustrated by G. P. Whitford

Yesterday, Helen was just the neighbor girl who listened to his problems. Today, he felt like singing.

Bill carried dishes to the sink, began to scrape them. Buck wheeled over and took his arm.

"Look, fellow, this is your day off."

"Nothing doing, Buck. I—"

Shadows crossed the man's deep-set eyes. "Bill, I feel like a heel already. Don't make it worse. If I were doing what other men do for their sons you'd be playing football and leading a normal 18-year-old life. Instead, you make a living for both of us. Bill, I'm sorry."

"Will you forget it, Buck?"

Bill's hands met in a crushing grip. Bill swallowed hard. Buck stared at the worn lineaments, said huskily, "I'll do dishes. Okay."

"Okay," Bill said.

HE went out on the porch intending to read the newspaper, but he lost interest when he saw Helen on the steps.

"Hello, Helen."

He sat tensed in the pale sunshine. It fell gently about her, striking warm, deep tones from Helen's chestnut hair. Looking aim hands around her fuzzy wool skirt, she gazed up at him shyly.

"I was kind of hoping you'd come out, Bill. It's too perfect a day to sit alone."

For the first time Bill noticed that it was a perfect day. The still, warm air was spiced with autumn haze. Now and then a limited leaf detached itself from the tall maple and whirled lazily to the ground.

His fingers touched, faced to gether. Helen studied him with wide feminine eyes. "You're worried about something, Bill?"

He nodded. "It's Buck. He's pretty low about not working."

"I know, Bill."

"But I'm tickled pink to work for him, Helen."

"You're pretty grand to him, Bill."

Mrs. Lester T. Wright and Mr. T. J. Woods, before the departure of the guests at the hostess served dinner refreshments.

BY BRUCE CATTON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The U. S. navy is pretty good when it comes to telling about the progress of construction work on the new advanced-post submarine and air-ship bases which were recently advanced to the British. It is not at all loath, however, to remark that getting them fixed up properly is going to take a lot of time and money.

So far, Secretary Knox has admitted that work is under way on three of these bases—Pacifica, Newfoundland and Bermuda and Trinidad. The navy will be able to make good use of these bases in a few months, although it will be two or three years before the finishing touches have been put on and everything in shape.

It's easy enough to see why the job is so long and so costly when you think of the things that have to be done.

ONE BASE COSTS ABOUT $25,000,000

All this costs money. Take a couple of the jobs that are under way on Midway Island in the Pacific for instance. Storage facilities for fuel oil other than aviation gas are costing $25,000,000. Fifty thousand more are going into Diesel oil storage. General defense equipment, including barracks, anti-aircraft emplacements, and so on, runs to $120,000,000. The navy is spending $250,000,000 to improve the water supply.

In the estimates for the naval base at Eniwetok, 1,200 miles from the navy asked for $100,000 to build a laundry, serving facilities for the planes, and recreation facilities.

All in all, the navy figures it takes about $250,000,000 to set up one island base for planes and submarines and takes at least two and one-half years to finish it.

PLENTY OF PROJECTS

To build a medium-sized base for submarines and airplanes, plus a small machine shop for seaplane repairs, plus a storehouse for spare parts, plus a water tank for the water to be used for the submarine, and the pier must have an overhead crane for servicing the craft. There must also be a rather expensive distillation plant to provide the 100 per cent pure distilled water for the subs' batteries; and if your island's natural water supply isn't okay, you've got to have another distillation plant for drinking water.

There must be a submarine repair shop, adequately tooled and equipped with a warehouse for spare parts. There must be a power house to provide electric current. Barracks for the officers and men must be built, and roads

PRODIGAL'S LIFE FRANKLY RECORDED IN AUTOBIOGRAPHY

The life of Joseph Hilton Smyth has been one of ups and downs, from the gutter to the penthouse, over and over again—alcoholic, riotous in "Prodigal's Return" (Carroll & Francis, $2.00). One of the most interesting life he makes an equally fascinating book. It was in 1935, when he was 40, that he began publishing serious magazines, that Smyth first became aware of the perspective of his life. He has been going on around him. Briefly, he tells about it: As I read the speeches of Chamberlain and Hitler and Mussolini, I began to read in fuller detail half-forgotten incidents out of the past. Riots in Vienna, election murders in Berlin, financial scandals in France. I remembered the saboteage of democracy in Austria. I remembered the work of the present leaders, and I thought of the return of their lost territories, beavelling of their minorities in Slovakia or Rumania.

Mauree Crigger, Anton Suchanek, and Hercul Harger were each given a roll of crepe paper and three copies of the Grange paper, Mrs. M. J. Farrar and Mrs. Frank Atkins, and required to fashion a dress for their respective models, which proved very entertaining after which the gowns were modeled.

Remainder of the evening was enjoyed in dancing to music furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Farrar.

UTAH DEMOCRATS CONTINUE GAINS

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 7 (AP)—Utah's second congressional district found Democrats stranded in a political desert today, with the nearest coast at least two and a half years farther.

Late returns swelled the Democratic margin for state and national offices to approximately 60,000 votes, and revealed only two contests in which party support was sufficient to do the Republicans any good.

Not only were all the major offices filled by Democrats in the state legislature the grand old party made only slight gains in the two congressional districts. It appeared certain today that Republicans had gained three seats in the state senate, thus swelling their total to five against 18 Democrats.

House Line-up
The house line-up indicated 16 Republicans would oppose 44 Democrats, a shift of one seat to the O. P. banner.

Specific returns from 818 of Utah's 873 precincts gave President Roosevelt a total vote of 153,494 against Wendell L. Willkie 92,824. Rep. Abe Murdock won the U. S. senate race by an almost identical majority over Phil Farnsworth, and in the state contest the Democratic advantage did not vary by more than five thousand votes.

J. Will Robinson scored an easy victory over A. Sherman Christensen, in the second district, but in the first district Republican Leroy B. Young gave Walter E. Oranger a stiff battle before accumulating 60,747 votes to Oranger's 61,573.

This Race Close
The other major contest, of course, was for governor. There Don B. Colton, the Republican candidate, won approximately 25,000 Democratic votes—enough to cut Governor-elect Herbert B. Maw's majority to less than 10,000. The vote: Maw 129,385; Colton 117,368. Incidentally, Earl Browder, the Communist presidential candidate, outpolled Norman Thomas, the Socialist nominee, 172 votes to 117. And Mrs. Ada Quinn, independent candidate for governor, netted 422 votes.

Here's New Twist-Candid Candidate Takes You Behind Scenes in Politics

By G. A. (GUS) KELKER (Who Ran for Coroner)
Oh, to have lived in almost any other county in Idaho than Twin Falls last Tuesday.

Yes, I was on the Democratic ticket. I've been in a lot of snow-storms but never one in which the "flakes" were ballots and were coming "straight down" or, in other words, out of the top of the column in which my name didn't appear, and a long list of the "opposition" under that X.

But let's skip that part of it. You all know the election results—the fact that the Democrats (all excepting two) are all out and the Republicans are all in—and I don't mean Tied.

Let's get right down to a discussion of this thing called politics. It's Funny Animal Politics is a funny animal. It toys with you for a little while and then stings back and stings you in the face.

Frankly speaking, I got into this mess of running for coroner because I thought it would be fun. So, by a lot of asking, I got 163 persons to write my name in on the primary ballot after getting promises from some 700 that they "wouldn't forget to do it" for me.

So the primary was over, and I was nominated. Then what? My name of grave, the county clerk, called me. It seemed that a little matter of $2 was due for a nominating fee.

All went well until the Democrats decided that they had better get organized if they were going to do anything in this county (my if they could have just seen into the crystal ball).

The organization meeting came up and I was informed that $15 ought to be just about right from me to aid in running the campaign in Twin Falls county.

I hadn't been married long and all things adding up, I balked. I'd work it out, I told Ed Babcock, the county clerk.

Well, Ed took me at my word and I worked it out. He named me chairman of the publicity committee.

Then the Republicans got organized.

Morrin Dean, Albion Normal school student, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Dean. Paul American Legion auxiliary entertained the Upper Legion and auxiliary at an operator and social night at the Legion hall. About 40 guests were present. The evening was spent in playing cards and socially. The guests were served at a long table, and several card tables.

CHILEANS CLAIM LITTLE AMERICA

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Chilean government laid claim today to Little America and thousands of miles of wasteland in the south polar region explored by Richard E. Byrd.

An official decree, which said the United States never had officially claimed the Antarctic territory, fixed boundaries on a vast triangular area from the South Shetland Islands to the South pole.

Chile's action came at a time when a Byrd exploring party was waiting in the territory for ships to return them to the United States.

The area is known to contain quantities of low quality coal. There also was believed to be gold, titanium and oil deposits.

The decree revealed the United States never had officially claimed its activities in Antarctica were only scientific.

Old Idaho Silver Mine Is Reopened
IDAHO CITY, Ida., Nov. 7 (AP)—Reopening of the Banner mine, once one of the largest silver producers in Idaho, was heralded by the week by the shipment of 14,000 pounds of ore to Salt Lake City smelters.

Mr. Greenbaugh, Banner mine official, said the shipment, which carried 300 ounces of gold and silver, foreshadowed the return of the property to its place as one of the leading quartz mines in the state. The mine is located 30 miles north-east of here.

'Noxious Weed' Is Made Fertilizer By Idaho Farmer

PARKER, R. 7, Nov. 7 (AP)—By converting a noxious "weed" into fertilizer, Charles Peterson, Parker rancher, has developed a once despised soil into heavy productivity.

Peterson related that he took over his present farm 12 years ago and found it was in bad condition because potatoes had been grown on it year after year without rotation.

The farm was also covered with morning glory and what he terms "volunteer yellow sweet clover."

By destroying the morning glory and plowing the yellow clover deep into the soil, Peterson has built up the earth so that now he does not worry how to get a result. He encourages it, plows it under and nets $80 an acre as a result.

BURNED GRAZING AREAS RESEED
BOISE, Ida., Nov. 7 (AP)—J. O. Beck, regional trailer, reported most of the grazing areas in southern Idaho which were burned over during the summer months have been reseeded.

Ranches of Owyhee county were the most seriously affected by fire. Beck reported, and required more work. Fall rains have aided the growth of grass and fire loss was not expected to be as great as in 1939.

The average speed of freight trains in America is 62 per cent faster than in 1920.

QUESTIONS READY FOR VOLUNTEERS

BOISE, Ida., Nov. 7 (AP)—State selective service headquarters mailed county draft boards this week to prepare for questioning and examination of volunteers who are expected to fill Idaho's first draft quota of 88 men.

Lieut. Col. Norman B. Adkison, executive officer of selective service for Idaho, said the state's first quota of 88 men would be more than filled by young men who sought to advance their order number by volunteering for service.

He explained that each registrant who wants to volunteer must file form for voluntary induction with his local draft board. If the board accepts his questionnaire and he is approved as "physically fit for military service" by the board's medical examiner, then the order number of the volunteer is placed at the top of the county list. Whenever a new draft quota is established, those whose numbers head the list will be accepted for service.

Adkison said the first group would be inducted into service at Spokane and Boise Nov. 18 to 19. A second group will be called Nov. 12 but will not enter service until Dec. 2.

BIG DRIVE LOOMS TO UNITE AMERICAN LABOR UNIONS

MINE AND STEEL LEADER TO PLAY DOMINANT ROLE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Phillip Murray, mine and steel workers union executive, seemed to have a dominant role today in a drive to unify organized labor.

Peace between the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations, built by four years of bitter strife, had become a live issue following the election.

CIO officials here proposed Murray as successor to John L. Lewis as president of the CIO. Most of them thought Lewis would give up the non-salaried job because he had promised he would if President Roosevelt was re-elected. There were other sources that hinted Murray might be considered as secretary of labor should Mr. Roosevelt reorganize his cabinet.

Has No Comment

Murray had no comment. The reports began following Mr. Roosevelt's disclosure Monday at Hyde Park that unification of labor might be the first goal of his third administration.

The impression was current at CIO headquarters that Murray was about the only leader who would not encounter Lewis' opposition for the post should Lewis vacate and devote himself to his $25,000 a year job as president of the United Mines Workers.

There was every indication the issue of unity of the labor movement would come up at both the CIO and AFL conventions which start simultaneously 10 days hence in Atlantic City, N. J., and New Orleans.

Full Cooperation

AFL President William Green opened the way unification in a telegram congratulating Mr. Roosevelt on his reelection. Green said he had assured the President of his full cooperation.

Lewis' aides admitted Mr. Roosevelt would be able to exert considerable pressure on many CIO unions. Lewis was represented as fearing Mr. Roosevelt might insist on union of the two labor groups at the expense of the CIO's industrial organization principles.

Lewis, as head of the UMW with a membership of 800,000 would have a strong voice in selecting a new CIO leader.

Mr. Adolph Coors

Dear Mr. Coors,

I had occasion to travel through the West the past few weeks and on this trip I became thoroughly acquainted with your beer. My first introduction to Coors was by a waitress in a small town in Arizona. She recommended a very highly and after tasting it, I remarked to Mrs. Stoffer that without a doubt it was the finest beer I had ever tasted. Consequently, throughout the remainder of the trip I insisted upon Coors Beer, and if it was not available I bought it as highly as I am quite positive that the management would at least order a trial case.

Mr. Coors, it has been a policy of mine to write congratulatory letters to anyone, in fact, this is the first, but I know I would like to receive a letter from any one who was so highly impressed with the good food and service rendered in any of your restaurants.

I would like to know if it would be impossible due to high transportation costs, etc., to serve your beer in our establishments. We have 12 restaurants located in the western part of the bottom of this letterhead.

I am especially interested in the Blinnette type and would like to have you send 10 cases to my home, 2349 Stanford Road, Shaker Heights, Ohio, billing same to my office together with the information desired as requested above.

Wishing you and your company the success you deserve, I am
Very truly yours,

MURTAUGH, Nov. 7 (Special)—Although he was dragged over rocks, weeds and brush by runaway horses, Ezra Shaw escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Serious injury was averted because neighbors in an adjoining field stopped the runaway team.

Mr. Shaw was driving a side delivery rake on the Lloyd Davis farm, when the breast strap broke loose, letting the rake tongue fall on the knees of the horses. The team bolted. The tongue broke, a wheel came off and Mr. Shaw's coat caught on the lever.

The neighbors, at work picking potatoes, ran across the field to halt the horses and get Mr. Shaw loose from the rake.

Mac Gets an Early Review of Texas Aggie Power

By HENRY MCLEMORE
TULSA, Okla., Nov. 7 (U.P.)—Chet Bonfield is a good coach of a good football team.

His Tulsa U. Hurricane have looked T. C. U. and Detroit, among others, this season. It is a matter of fact, the Hurricane have blown with tremendous violence except for one Saturday afternoon.

That was the afternoon of Oct. 5, at San Antonio, when they ran into Homer Norton's national championship Texas A. & M. Aggies. They still are flying like a hot air balloon in Tulsa for what happened down there in the home land of the Aggie.

They've Got Everything.
The result was something like 41 to 0, with Johnny Kimbrough and his comrades on you guess what end of the score. I was talking to Coach Bonfield yesterday, and as I am going to see the Aggies again in Dallas Saturday, I asked him a few questions about the club. You know—the stock stuff, is Kimbrough as good as his press outlet? Do the Aggies have the pulverizing power they are credited with? What about the defense? Power? Passing, punting, or all around ability?

Coach Bonfield didn't answer a single one of the questions. He simply reached into a drawer of his desk, pulled out a passel of papers, and handed them to me.

"That's the report of my scout, who watched the Aggies in a couple of games before they played the 'A's." "The scout's name is Jack Stretzet and he is one of the

Huskies and Indians Clash For Bowl Bid

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7 (U.P.)—Washington's Huskies and the Indians of Stanford, the high and low of this season's clash, clash this week-end in a red-hot contest that probably will decide the west coast championship and forge a key to the Rose bowl.

The two own the only unblemished conference records and on the difference between Washington's power and Stanford's deception will rest the chances of keeping one team's state clean.

Since Washington dropped its opener to Minnesota and since the same will be played at Palo Alto, the Indians probably will hold a narrow edge.

But Washington, with its seasoned head-charger line, will be Stanford's toughest competition to date and unpredictable Jimmy Stroman has had a week-end to point his squad for the blue clip game.

THE SPORT SPOTLIGHT

By United Press
Joe Louis will defend the world heavyweight title against Al McCoy at the Boston garden, Dec. 16. The engagement was one of two title bouts announced by Promoter Mike Jacobs. The other brings together middleweight champion Ken Owens and Young Steve Bellisio at New York's Madison Square Garden Dec. 13.

Walter Kirby High, right-handed pitcher of the Philadelphia Phillies, will be sold to the highest bidder. Owner Gerry Nugent said it was necessary that he part with High to pay for players he bought this year. Bidders include the New York Giants, Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers. Nugent is asking $150,000 for High.

Sammy Baugh of the Washington Redskins is leading the national pro league in forward passes. He has completed 68 out of 88 throws for 950 yards, 10 touchdowns and a 70 per cent passing average. Walter White of Detroit is leading in ground gaining.

Rain Protects Pheasants in Southern Idaho

While south central Idaho hunters in general grumbled about the weather today, the pheasants that the enforced "vacation" from pheasant hunting that has been dogging the hunters' trail since Nov. 1 will mean that the population of the shy game bird will be given a chance to grow to vast proportions with the weather protection.

This was the opinion of Grover C. Davis, conservation officer, who states today that the pheasant hunting is anything but pleasant, what with the birds keeping under cover as the wettest fall in recent years straddles the sector.

"Tough on Hunters"
"While it's tough on the hunters," opined Grover Davis, "at the same time it's really a life saver for the birds. Now there's a chance that the pheasant population will get up where it used to be."

The current crop of pheasants was reported in the early fall to be the greatest in history, so it was believed here by sportsmen that if the rainy condition continues there will be an abundance of the "chicks" for 1941, the like of which has never been seen in Idaho before.

Field Day for Duck Hunters
However, the pheasant hunters bemoaned the general condition, the duck hunters were having field days as low-hanging clouds and rain sent the speedy fliers down to low altitudes and brought more and more northern flights to stop off in this sector.

Stargazers continued to boom in the flyways of the Snake and Salmon canyons and although much of the shooting was at "single" there was bountiful hunting for all and the average hunter was coming closer and closer to the big limit—something few have reached this fall on the migratory water fowl.

Kimberly Club Wins 9-7 Grid Thriller

KIMBERLY, Nov. 7 (Special)—Kimberly high school Bulldogs played their best offensive game of the season here last night as they came through with a 9-7 victory over the invading Aberdeen club in a thriller that was decided in the last 20 seconds of play.

With the score tied at 7-7, Kimberly drove down the field to the Aberdeen two-yard line. There they lost the ball on downs. However, when Davis, Aberdeen back, attempted to run the pike out, he was caught behind the line of scrimmage by Elmer Graybeal, Kimberly end—which resulted in two points and victory for the Kimberly club.

The Bulldogs scored first in the second quarter when Woodland hit the line for a touchdown and then plunged again for the extra point. Previously the home club had pounded down the field to the two, four and seven yard lines on sustained drives—only to be stopped by stout Aberdeen defenses.

Aberdeen knotted the count in the third frame when Davis took a Kimberly punt 50 yards for a touchdown and then kicked for the extra point.

Kimberly had a big edge on first downs.

Brothers May Lead Utah to Loop Crown

By CARL REICH
DENVER, Nov. 7 (UP)—Two brothers who weren't satisfied with the final Big Seven conference football standings last year took over Utah University's offensive this season as a pair of unknowns to try to rearrange things to suit themselves.

Today—aided by a veteran wingback—they've reached the halfway point of their endeavors. Utah rests atop the standings. Uted with Colorado university with three victories and one defeat, and has a downhill stretch drive to what should be at least a tie for the title.

Sophomore, Junior The brothers are Gerhard and Horst Adel, Gerhard, known as "Gay" even in the official lineup, is a junior and the starting tailback. Brother Horst, called "Ruck" by football followers, is a sophomore. The two Salt Lake City youths so far have divided play and honors almost equally, aided by veteran left tackle and center, Leo Stasler, who passed for one touchdown and started a lateral pass play that figured in another. Ruck passed for the third score.

Of the 11 touchdowns Utah has scored, the Adels have run up four themselves and passed for five others. Spectator, 1939 conference scoring favorite.

Utah Aggie attack here last Saturday. Sophomore Herman Longhurst was expected to take over ball-carrying duties in next Saturday's game with Denver university, replacing either George Wing or George Jackson, both of whom were injured in bolster spots weakened by the strone

FOOTBALL BRIEFS

By United Press
MISSOULA, Mont., Nov. 7 (UP)—Five veteran Montana State university football players will make their last college starts here Saturday when the Grizzlies meet University of Idaho in Montana's homecoming game. Those who will play their last game were Capt. Tom O'Donnell, John Duncan, Coley Vaughn, Neil Johnson, and Hugh Edwards. All are linemen.

LOGAN, Utah—Coach Dick Romney said today De Whiteides probably would start at fullback for the Utah Aggies in next Saturday's game with Colorado State college at Fort Collins. Whiteides will replace Bill Twitchell, who has been out of the Aggie lineup for three weeks with an injured foot.

SALT LAKE CITY—The Utah Redskins ran through a light scrimmage today preparing for Saturday's game with Wyoming, tail-end club of the Big Seven conference. Coach Ike Armstrong predicted many second-string Utes would be action in the game in which Utah is the overwhelming favorite.

PROVO, Utah—Although injuries may deprive the Brigham Young Cougars of at least three members of the first string eleven, Coach Edie Kimball said today sophomores might be thrown into the game to bolster spots weakened by the strone
