BRITISH FIGHTERS BREAK UP LARGE-SCALE NAZI DRIVE

INVADERS TRY TO 'RING' CITY WITH BOMBING ATTACK

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP)—British fighters, diving to the attack despite poor visibility, broke up large formations of German fighter-bombers on an extremely heavy night attack on London's communications.

The attack last night by probably 20 enemy raiders failed to record a number of incendiary bombs on London and appeared to be an attempt to "ring" the capital with bombs in an effort to create havoc in the communications system.

Near Capital

The weight of the onslaught was concentrated on immediate districts of the capital. The German pilots used flares on a much larger scale than usual, apparently in an effort to make the best possible use of the bombs instead of dropping them indiscriminately.

The attacks continued during daylight hours today and about 100 German fighter-bombers dashed across the Kent coast in groups.

They were met by British fighters which broke up most of the formations but a few got through to London and dropped bombs on Cranes Building.

One heavy bomb crashed into a building in the London area, trapping a number of persons. They were rescued.

Some officials theorized the Germans were testing the capital's defenses in the belief anti-aircraft guns had been shifted to recently raided provincial towns such as Birmingham, Liverpool, Bristol and Southampton. But the guns roared ceaselessly until shortly after midnight.

Sections of southern England also were bombed and today long range guns emplaced on the French-Belgian channel coast gave Dover a 30-minute shelling.

morning they persuaded some of the women to go home. The German pilots used flares on a much larger scale than usual, apparently in an effort to make the best possible use of the bombs instead of dropping them indiscriminately.

The disaster was the second in Ohio this year and the third in the Ohio-West Virginia peninsula. Several men died last March in an explosion in the Willow Grove mine of the Hanna Coal Co., and in the year 1939 22 perished in a mine of the Pocahontas Coal Corp. at Bartley, W. Va.

WOMEN'S GROUP PLANS CLUBHOUSE

Officers of the Twentieth Century club of Twin Falls today announced plans for construction of a $5,000 clubhouse in the 200 block of Sixth avenue north.

Announcement of the proposed project was made after application for a construction permit had been filed this morning with the city clerk by Mrs. A. J. Peavey, on behalf of club members.

Matter of granting the permit will be discussed by members of the city council at regular session Monday night. Some controversy might develop over the fact the structure will be used for a meeting place rather than a home in that district of the city but this point of law will, in all probability, be settled at Monday's session.

JAPAN, MANCHUKUO, OCCUPIED CHINA SIGN AGREEMENT

PLEDGE TO FIGHT AGAINST REDS IN ASIA TERRITORY

NANKING, China, Nov. 30 (UP)—Japan, Manchukuo and occupied China signed a treaty today that granted Japan virtual control of the Yangtze river valley, north China and inner Mongolia, and united the three governments in a joint defense against Communism.

Arranged after months of diplomatic maneuvering, the treaty was signed by Lieut. Gen. Nobuyuki, special envoy of the emperor, for Japan; by Wang Ching-Wei, head of the Japanese-sponsored regime in Japanese-occupied China, and by Gen. Tsang Shih-Yi, chairman of the Manchurian puppet council. Manchukuo also is a Japanese sponsored state, converted from the former Chinese province of Manchuria.

The treaty officially was termed a "readjustment of Chinese-Japanese relations." It was intended to be a regional "refuge regime" of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist China government, but provided that Japan would be paid full indemnities for its war losses in China.

The treaty permitted Japanese troops to remain in north China and inner Mongolia indefinitely as a bulwark against Communism, and gave them the right to station wherever in China until at least two years after peace is restored.

The Japanese navy was given unspecified rights to bases, "for the required duration" which, it was said, would be determined in future negotiations.

The hall where the treaty was signed was lit with searchlight and photographers' flash bulbs were banned. Everyone attending, including foreign correspondents, was searched for guns. Guards carrying sub-machine guns escorted officials to the hall.

"Drops of peace" were released during the ceremony. Five Japanese airplanes also were in the sky.

AROUND THE WORLD

WASHINGTON—Diplomatic circles believed today Japan's formal recognition of the national government of China would have little, if any, effect on the United States' far eastern policy or U. S.-Japanese relations. Japan's recognition of the Nanking regime had been anticipated here for some time.

British Public Clamors for 'Knock-out' Blow on Italy

By J. W. T. MASON
United Press Staff Report

Pressure on the British government by a section of British public opinion to deliver a "knockout blow" to Signor Mussolini by heavier attacks on southern Italy and in Albania is based on belief a collapse of Fascist morale is imminent. More evidence than is yet available, however, of Italian weakness probably must be forthcoming before Britain would be justified in that course.

British war leaders differ from the axis conception that victory can be won by bombing civilians into a total loss of morale at this time. German and Italian air raids over Britain have that purpose in view; but the British government considers it more important to attack military objectives and thus weaken the fighting power of the enemy.

North Italy Attacked
Thus, although southern Italy has been brought within easy reach of the British air force by operating from Greece, nevertheless, attacks on northern Italy are being given preference. That plan of campaign is consistent with the British conviction that military damage is more important than killing or frightening civilians.

In north Italy munitions and industrial plants are heavily concentrated. The Fascist installations of hydro-electric plants in the northwestern mountain regions are the source of 50 per cent of Italy's power. Railways entering northern Italy from Germany carry constant streams of coal and other supplies. British strategists believe if these strictly military centers can be destroyed or seriously disrupted, the effect on Italian war effort will be much greater than if bombings were concentrated on southern cities. An eventual break in morale among the sturdy northern Italians that might follow grave damage to factories and power plants and railways would have more practical meaning than a collapse among southern wine growers.

Need More Planes
If Britain had more planes, air offensives against Italy could be scattered over different areas; but, for the present, it is necessary for the British to concentrate their attacks. A shortage of ships for transport also makes it necessary to limit the movement of troops to assist the Greeks in the Albanian fighting. However, large British military help to Greece is not yet imminent. The Albanian mountains impose limits on the number of troops that can be used. Cautious tactics by the Greeks have been advisable in the face of stiffened Italian defenses and a large increase in Greek strength might lead to their reckless use in the mountain detours.

British planes are more important at present in Albania than troops. The British can spare only a limited number from their other combat areas; so it is good strategy to confine their use to field operations and bombardment of ports instead of detaching some for bombing the southern Italian population.

LEGION PREPARED FOR EMERGENCY

American Legion posts in the south central and southeastern Idaho areas are ready to act in emergency to do their part in event of emergency. Les G. Nelson, Buhl, vice-commander of the Idaho department, said today after completing his inspection trip.

Nelson said the Legion enrollment will be the largest in history. Greater preparedness was highlighted by the mobilization of the entire membership held recently there at the Buhl camp. The vice-commander urged all World War veterans who have not contacted their post leaders to do so at once. South central Idaho will top the state in membership, he indicated, and the fourth district headed by Commander Lambert E. Spalding, Shoshone, now holds a narrow edge over the fifth district, whose leader is John D. Twin Falls. Nelson praised both district commanders and lauded the efforts of all post leaders in the two regions.

Roads Reported in First Class Shape

KETCHUM, Nov. 30 (Special)—Highways in central and eastern Idaho are in first class condition for traffic at this time, states Traffic Director Jerry Lounsbury. His report covers a considerable area and cities there is comparatively little snow, and while there is a little ice on the roads, conditions the past month have been few. In night and early morning driving he urges the greatest care because of occasional slippery sections and the holding down of inclination to snow.

The road from Ketchum to Twin Falls Tuesday was a little glazy, but the day following was in good shape. On both sides of the Panhandle the highway is all right. Galena Summit is still open and the route to Salmon can be negotiated without any inconvenience.

Temperature has been down to a low figure for several mornings, but there is no ice on the roads. Drivers are urged to exercise care on steep, turns and slippery surface at all times.

LIFE OF MATANUSKA COLONY THREATENED

By PHILIP R. CURRAN
SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 30 (UP)—The Matanuska valley farm colony, founded to aid stricken midwestern "dust bowlers," faces drastic reorganization in interests of national defense.

One hundred and 40 colonist families are threatened with eviction after Dec. 1 by an ultimatum designed to help solve the serious problem of feeding the United States army's new-created Alaska defense force, quartered 50 miles southwest of the colony at Elmendorf field, Anchorage.

The ultimatum came from General Manager Herbert Hansen of the Alaska Rural Rehabilitation Corp., which formerly governed the colony and still is creditor of individual colonists.

Hansen threatened to dispossess colonists in arrears to the corporation unless they make definite payment arrangements by the Dec. 1 deadline.

Protective Association
Alarmed, the colonists have organized a protective organization, retained an attorney and appealed for help to national cooperatives associations in Washington.

It is "impossible" to meet Hansen's demand, Mrs. Carl Rasmussen, told United Press. Mrs. Rasmussen is the wife of the secretary of the cooperative which took over control of the colony's producing and marketing units this year.

"The average colony family's indebtedness is $1,200 whereas the average farm's income for 1940 was only $300," said Mrs. Rasmussen.

"The edict, if enforced, threatens to make homeless refugees of the colonists in the snow covered, subzero valley and jeopardizes the colony's future."

Permits Consolidation
Eviction of the colonists would permit immediate consolidation of the colony's original 173 tracts of 40 acres each into larger farms capable of producing a greater volume of foodstuffs.

Such consolidation would be in line with the program announced last September by Col. O. F. Johnson, president of the directors of the Alaska Rural Rehabilitation Corp.

Gilson said then expanded production was required to meet demands of the rapidly increasing defense force. Under the expanded program, farmers "who are good operators and good credit risks" will be given more land.

Due to the Matanuska valley's limited tillage area the only way this could be done would be by elimination of Olson's statement, followed a conference with Brig. Gen. Simon

MARCO POLO... UNITED PRESS... First to report, alone to report

...FIRST to travel upward into China, along the route of the Burma Road of today, and to report what he saw for all the world to read was Marco Polo—nearly seven centuries ago. What he wrote was the only news the world had then of that region.

In his footsteps another first-reporter has just followed, George Wang, of the United Press.

Since Britain reopened the Burma Road, Wang has been the only press correspondent to travel over this historic, vital highway. He has since been cabling back dispatches about what he saw on his eight days' journey.

United Press often gives first news. Of the Burma Road it has done more. It has, like Marco Polo, given the only news.

Lucile Thomas Elected Head of District Girl Reserve Clubs

Miss Lucile Thomas, Twin Falls Girl Reserve, was elected president of the Magic Valley district and Twin Falls Girl Reserves of the Y.W.C.A. at this morning's session of the annual fall conference, at the Christian church. She succeeds Miss Lillian Laubenstein, also of Twin Falls. Burley, Eden, Hazelton, Kimberly, Filer, Buhl and Twin Falls clubs were represented.

With other new officers, Miss Olive Wells, Twin Falls, vice-president; Miss Jackie Davis, Buhl, secretary, and Miss Josephine Jones, Filer, treasurer, she will be installed at vesper services at 5:30 o'clock today at the Methodist church.

"Each girl must tame the lion that is herself," Gerald Wallace, vice-principal of Twin Falls high school, told the 175 registered delegates in an address this afternoon at the Christian church. Topic of his talk was "Lion Tamer," in keeping with the conference theme, "The American Circus of Life."

Wallace enumerated "lions" to be tamed, stressing the fact that the most important was a girl's knowledge of herself and her individual personality. He recommended that a girl's interests should include home arts, humorously adding "even chicken pie."

Development of one's abilities and intellect are necessary to successful living, and good character traits should also be stressed, he added. Emphasizing the importance of good character, Wallace said, "Character is a currency acceptable the world over."

Sharing the speakers' spotlight on the afternoon's program was Melvin Sprague, who presented a check talk entitled "Acrobats."

Parade of Youth. Apparent to see the typical American high school girl through an exciting Christmas season, including one-minute skits, afternoon frocks, luncheon robes and pajamas and smartly styled formal attire, was advanced by Melvin Sprague, who presented another highlight of the afternoon's program.

Setting for the fashion review, clothing contributed by a local women's wear shop, was a "Model Shop" with Mrs. Tom Alworth, sponsor of one of the local Y. W. C. groups, as the saleswoman.

Miss Lucile Thomas, as the mother, and Miss Betty Ann Thomata, as the daughter, catered to the array of Christmas merchandise and incidentally to "wet pointers" on appropriate Christmas gifts for the active young American girls. They even had a "preview glimpse" of a 1941 spring suit before they had finished their shopping.

Music was played as six Twin Falls Girl Reserves promenade, displaying the special features of the various ensembles worn.

Banquet Tonight. Final event of the conference will be the banquet at 8 o'clock this evening at the Methodist church, with Miss Barbara Solomon, Burley, presiding as toastmaster.

Miss Thomas will be the address of welcome; Miss Jones, Filer, will respond; Miss Betty Ring, Buhl, will give a reading; Miss Lucile Elenow, Kimberly, will sing; Miss Josephine Jones, Filer, will give a "cat and trainer" dance; Miss LaRue Williams, Filer, will sing a solo; and Miss Olive Wells, Mullica, dean of girls at the Burley high school, will give an inspirational talk.

Registration began at 9 o'clock this morning, followed by the morning session, featuring a club exchange with the Burley Girl Reserve presenting a silk camp as a side show attraction. Theme music was played by the Kimberly Girl Reserves' club band.

A no-host luncheon for advisers and district women's council members was served at noon at the Blue Arrow cafe. The girls had luncheon at various cafes and coffee shops.

Insall at Vespers. Vesper services, including the installation of officers, were to take place late this afternoon, with Miss Josephine Thomackson playing the processional and recessional marches. Miss Ann Lee Skiles, Burley, was scheduled to give a Scripture reading; Miss Ruth Lyons, Burley, to sing a solo; a sextet of Burley Girl Reserves to sing; Miss Geraldine Thompson, Burley, to officiate at the installation, which will be played; the customary candle-lighting ceremony was observed in connection.

The circus theme and the American flag colors, red, white and blue, are featured in all decorations and atmospheric touches for the various sessions.

BILLY CONN GIVES SAVOLD LESSON IN BOXING

Shoshone Captures South Central Idaho Class B Gridiron Title Light-Heavy Title Holder Easily Wins Over Iowan

By HARRY FERGUSON
NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (UP)—Lee Savold, a pleasant young man from Des Moines, got paid $5,000 for taking a boxing lesson last night in Madison Square Garden. It's nice work if you can get it, and for rates applied to Prof. Billy Conn, general delivery, Pittsburgh, Penn.

Prof. Conn began with the rudiments of the left jab, worked into the technique of footwork, demonstrated the left hook, head and body and then wound up with a classic exhibition on how to slip across a foul punch. Savold took it. Took it for 12 long, dullish rounds and lost the decision.

Thirteen thousand persons paid $2.10 to watch the boys who were gunning for a chance at Joe Louis' heavyweight title. A web bit stirred by now with Prof. Conn's pedagogy, they let out hisses and occasionally, because he had come out of the corn belt with the reputation of being a killer-diller puncher. Somewhere along the line from Des Moines he forgot the fundamentals he had to arm. The result was he didn't throw a right hand punch until the eighth round and then it was much too late. Savold did everything wrong. Being a puncher, he should have slugged. Instead, he tried to get fancy and box with Conn, a gesture equivalent to lying down on a railroad track just before the Twentieth Century limited comes round the bend.

Conn won his usual dazzling self last night, flashing the best left in the business, moving in like a cat, hitting fast and hard, coming out of clinches and sliding easily out of trouble when pinned against the ropes. Savold, peering out of a bloody face, made futile, bewildered attempts to land blows, but the will-of-the-wisp was always a step and a half ahead of him.

Conn won the first nine rounds on the United Press score sheet, and then decided to try out his punch. He mixed it with Savold to the 10th and took a stiff left that brought blood to his nose. Savold won that round, but in the 11th Conn took command again. Savold won the 12th when Billy threw a left hook below the belt line.

Indians Down Albion 21-12 in Thrilling Championship Battle

SHOSHONE, Nov. 30 (Special)—Coach L. T. Dolphin's Shoshone Indians today prepared to hang up their meekskins for the 1941 season—after tucking the south central Idaho Class B championship away yesterday afternoon with a 12-12 victory over the invading Albion Blue Devils.

The victory gave the local club undisputed possession of the north and south divisions of the Class B 11-man league. It was the second post season contest in which the Indians had been victorious.

The battle yesterday turned out to be a thriller and Albion presented a team that kept the local boys on their toes from the opening minutes of the game.

However, Shoshone was in the lead from the start and the visitors were never quite able to catch up.

The Indiana counted in the first minute when Chaney, Shoshone guard, intercepted an Albion pass on the 25-yard line of the game and raced 68 yards for a touchdown being some fine interference on the part of his teammates.

The next play was just as spectacular, however, as Merle Hopworth, Albion's star back, took the kick-off and raced through the center of the line for a touchdown.

The Albion attempt for extra point was no good, making the count stand 14-6.

Shoshone counted next when a 63-yard drive with McCain, Saras and Betta carrying the ball, ended on McCain's plunge over the one-yard line and then kicked the point to make the score read 14-6.

Albion Reserves Fumble: All this scoring took place in the first quarter, with no scoring in the second frame. In the third quarter McCain plunged over the line and Betta went around end for 15 yards and then Albright went the rest of the 45 yards on an end-around play and a duplication of the same play brought the extra point.

The final count came in the middle of the fourth quarter when a Shoshone fumble was recovered by Albion on the Indian's 20. From there the game was a close race for 18 yards and Engking went off-lack for the rest of the way. The kick was wide.

At the game the two teams were battling in mid-field.

Starting lineup: SHOSHONE: RE, Albion; Mabbitt, RE, Braut; Fiberglass, RE, Braut; Scott, RE, Braut; Cheney, RE, Braut; Thompson, RE, Braut; Wright, RE, Braut; Saras, RE, Braut; Betta, RE, Braut; McCain, RE, Braut; Engking, RE, Braut.

GOOD HUNTING AT KETCHUM REPORTED
KETCHUM, Nov. 30 (Special)—Duck hunting on Wood river, the stretch canal and on Silver creek has been reported as exceptionally good during the past few days, as the weather has been steady and an abundance of birds abound.

Large flocks of mallards are constantly in the air and the birds are in fine condition, with plenty of stubble in hand. Since the first domestic water runoff in Pleistocene canal a good many pot holes remain, and the shooting has been excellent.

Then again some of the boys who essayed long trips down to Snake river in quest of game, returned home to find that during their absence several hundred geese have been frequenting several of the fields a short distance below Ketchum. Some of the gunners managed to get in on them with good results.

A good many ducks are seen along Wood river as far up as Stanton creek. The shooting here is reported to be in a closed area for this season.

NO RETROACTIVE TAXES SCHEDULED ON 1940 INCOME

AGREEMENTS ON LEVIES REACHED AT CONFERENCE

By RONALD G. VAN TINE
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (Special)—Individuals and corporations were assured today that general tax revision of the next congress will not affect 1940 incomes.

Agreement to refrain from imposing retroactive taxes on personal and corporate incomes was reached at a 3 1/2-hour White House supper conference last night between President Roosevelt and treasury, budget bureau and congressional tax experts.

Chairman Pat Harrison of the senate finance committee said on leaving the White House he can say definitely there will be no additional taxes on 1940 income.

“Welcome thought” will be added to the agreement, he added, “will welcome the thought there will be no retroactive taxes.”

The conferees held a general discussion of means of financing the country's huge national defense budget, agreed levies must be increased, but reached no decision on policy.

It indicated results of the March 15 income tax returns would guide legislators in determining the extent to which the next congress would have to boost taxes.

Conferees said they had not discussed the possibility of increasing the tax rate which Mr. Roosevelt denounced at his press conference yesterday. They indicated, however, that had been considered because of the possibility of broadening the personal income tax base and increasing corporate taxes.

May Boost Limit
The group also considered boosting the national debt limit beyond the present $40,000,000 ceiling, but those who participated in the meeting said no decision on the question had been reached. Conferees spent considerable time talking about “overlapping” taxes between the federal government and the states. They agreed the subject was one which must be settled in any proposed general tax revision, he added.

R. E. Shepherd Goes to Meet Old Friends After 30 Years

JEROME, Nov. 30 (Special)—The fulfillment of a promise to meet after 30 years will become a reality next week for R. E. Shepherd, distinguished pioneer businessman, and two old friends, George Hornel and Mr. Hornel, who were business associates in the old country.

The three men, who became co-partners in a small meat packing enterprise 30 years ago in a small town in Minnesota, will reunite in Beverly Hills, Calif., at the Hornel residence.

Mr. Shepherd, accompanied by members of his family, left Thursday morning by car for the California coast and will remain two weeks. Following the reunion of the three there will be a reunion of the members of the Shepherd family at Los Angeles—the home of Mr. Shepherd's daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Stewart.

The 30-year-old agreement was only casually made, but as the time grew shorter, the three have been “counting the days” for the gathering.

In a way, the occasion will be a triple birthday anniversary for the trio, who will all celebrate their natal days within a few days of one another. Mr. Hornel's birthday anniversary is Dec. 1, Mr. Shepherd's on Dec. 12, and Mr. Shepherd's on Dec. 13.

Mr. Shepherd will be 80 years of age, while Mr. Catherwood will be 81. Each one is in good health, with few, if any, infirmities.

Despite his illness, he will be at Beverly Hills for the meeting “if I feel up to it,” he said.

All have prospered. When the three met again, they will recount early day occurrences when they were in business partnership, and will tell of the successes and failures of their later lives. Notwithstanding, it would appear that fate has favored each of them. They all have prospered and have been at the helm of successful businesses, which are still increasing.

Begin in a small town in Minnesota, which later grew and became a meat packing firm.

Thirty years ago the partnership was dissolved. Mr. Shepherd went to Montana; Mr. Hornel to California, while Mr. Catherwood remained in Idaho to carry on. Mr. Shepherd and Mr. Hornel still retained an interest in the business, however. On many occasions the three met in the old country and in various ways of curing and preserving meats.

Upon his arrival in Montana, Mr. Shepherd became so impressed with the charm of the true west, and foreseeing its possibilities of becoming a great cattle country, he established a residence and purchased livestock and land. He still says that the future of this country is in cattle raising.

Now Growth of West
While a resident in Montana, Mr. Shepherd dug his first ditch on his Flying-U ranch. He also entered into contracting, building canals and roads to improve the country.

Coming to Idaho, Mr. Shepherd figured prominently in the development of the American Falls reservoir, which has become the ultimate means of bringing water to miles of fertile farm lands which, without the irrigation system, would otherwise be worthless.

No. 1 Jerome Citizen
Beloved by hosts of friends, all over the section of country, Mr. Shepherd is one of the state's most prominent citizens, and Jerome counts him as its most distinguished citizen.

At the Shepherd reunion in Los Angeles, following the meeting of the three old friends, he will be in addition to Mr. Shepherd and his daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hayward, Mr. and Mrs. Billings, Mont., who flew by plane to accompany the members of the family at Jerome; Mr. and Mrs. R. Parry, Twin Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. daughter, Ann; Miss Gertrude Shepherd, sister of Mr. Shepherd, Jerome; and Mrs. E. J. Hayward, of the Fox Film corporation, Hollywood, and his wife and family; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hornel, and other close friends, who flew by plane to present head of the Hornel company.

Mrs. Tiffany and Mrs. Parry are daughters of Mr. Shepherd. Mr. J. W. Hornel is the only son of George Hornel.

The Public Forum Gibraltar All Ready To Battle

LAW PROVIDES HELP FOR FARMER IN DEBT
By ROSCOE SNIPES
GIBRALTAR, Nov. 30 (Special)—Gibraltar is ready for any attack which may be made up it, and its defenders express surprise that the “rock” can withstand any invader from land or sea or both.

One must look long to see the rock laid down from its top on the spreading Mediterranean and the Spanish African coast to really appreciate the origin of the air of cheerful confidence here.

From a distance Gibraltar appears merely a big mountain covered with trees and a large city sprawled on its sides. But when one starts from the Spanish line and moves southward along the top perches of the rock itself, the ease with which the position can be defended becomes apparent.

Could Be Isolated
Beginning with a movement of danger the fortress could be isolated by its defenders from land and sea and any invader attempting to approach from any side would find the reception so costly that even the attempt would mean terrific expenses and many casualties.

The roads and terraces already have been blocked so skillfully that any motored units seeking passage would have to move so slowly that they would be torn apart by unrelenting guns. The same applies to infantry.

Ships would be forced to stand off at a great distance from shore while other invisible guns battered them.

It is true that the city of Gibraltar would suffer heavily from any attack. Bombardment from a distant gun but that is not important from a defense point of view. It is “the rock,” not the city, which is military value.

Gibraltar's own guns have been lucked away when only the slimest chance would disclose them as targets. Under attack they would not be idle and they would have a tactical advantage over any guns set up in open exposed positions at a distance.

Long-Distance Guns
Some of the guns can fire far enough to make it most hazardous for any foe to try to try to shell the straits of Gibraltar between Tarifa and Tangier. Long range guns also would make any hostile danger and the use of nearby weapons would be impossible without Gibraltar's consent.

British officers here believe that any attack against “the rock” soon would be frustrated by the size of such as the French and Spanish navies tried in 1704. In that siege Gibraltar's garbion totaled 3,522 tons and the walls and the smaller force held off combined armies totalling 40,000 men for four years—at the end of the world war it served only as an outpost and control base.

PRIME FOR SPONSOR OF SAFETY “AD”

EDITOR, TIMES: For a week I've wanted to shout my appreciation of the full page Thanksgiving ad on highway safety which appeared in your paper on Wednesday. It's impossible to thank all who cooperated in this very worthwhile message but I feel it was striking my mind as I read it. I am sure one of my gratitude is so as you are the easiest one to reach, by communication goes to you. When such a large number of folks, nearly half a hundred, from just one community are willing to PAY to get this message of safety before the public it does seem that the rest of us should at least cooperate in the effort of disseminating and breathing the spirit of this message would not only add much to the pleasure of motoring but would prevent much needless sorrow, and save many a home from sorrow.

I'm grateful for the message. It gives vividly to us the great need of caution on the part of all who use the public highways. I wish I might say a personal thank you to each one who helped me by getting their attention. May we all give heed to it so the black flag will fly less often in my wish.

Sincerely,
ELIZABETH JOHNSON

Adults, 'Kids' Crowd Rupert Arctic Parade

RUPERT, Nov. 30 (Special)—Grown-ups vied with students in tiny lots for standing space on Rupert streets Tuesday afternoon to get a glimpse of Captain Earl Hammond, known as “brother of Santa Claus” with his reindeer and dog team.

Long before three p. m., the hour scheduled for the appearance, standing room in Central park and on walks around the square was at a premium. Every available bit of space was filled with enthusiastic spectators, big and little, old and young.

A busy cheer arose at first sight of the parade, led by a group of grotesque stuffed animals held high in the air on long poles. Other interesting features of the cavalcade were several pretty girls in Eskimo costumes; a car of Arctic birds; see ponies, burro; two teams of seven dogs each, hitched to realistic sleds on rubber tires; group of tiny reindeer with enormous horns; people in fantastic costumes and masks closely resembling totem poles; and lastly Captain Hammond in pure white Eskimo costume.

The performance was sponsored by the Rupert Chamber of Commerce and officially opened the holiday season in Rupert.
