ICKES BLASTS U. S. "APPEASERS" READY FOR NAZI PEACE

CABINET MEMBER HITS LINDBERGH, FASCISTS, BUNDS

NEW YORK, Dec. 18 (AP)—Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes charged last night that a group of appeasers in the making "are ready to come to terms with Hitler" to gain money for themselves and protection for their fortunes.

He said they were isolationists, Nazi sympathizers, "soft sentimentalists" and profit-seeking business men whose activities were as harmful as the attack on the United States by foreign powers that is now going on and has been going on for a long time.

Ickes spoke before 1,000 members of the Columbia Institute of Arts and Sciences.

Difficult to Deal With

"Moreover, they are difficult to deal with," he continued. "They are native born—often of old lineage; they have wealth and position and many have honored names; they confuse the shrewd patriot by a caustic expostulation of their devotion to American institutions; their social arguments and their pretended willingness to sacrifice themselves for the common good are calculated to bring about divided councils, until the truth they do is irreparable."

He described Col. Charles A. Lindbergh as a "pernicious appeaser" who would abjectly surrender his word even before it is demanded.

Four Classes

Ickes said the fifth column was divided into four classes: Native Fascist groups and individuals, the German-American bund, 200,000 Italian Fascists, and Communists and fellow travelers.

Father Coughlin, Lindbergh, Merwin K. Hart, president of the New York economic council, and Charles Dennis, author, are "native Fascists," he said.

The charges against Eddings grew out of an accident Monday afternoon involving cars driven by the defendant and Harry W. Hamilton, Kimberly. The crash occurred at the intersection of Third avenue and Third street west.

PROBE OPENS ON CINCINNATI BLAST

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 18 (AP)—A coroner's inquest began today into cause of the terrific explosion which reduced two tenement-houses to buildings into shambles and killed 13 persons yesterday.

Mrs. Julia Koebbe, widow of one of the victims, will be one of the first witnesses. Coroner Frank Coppock seeks to find out what her husband, Joseph P. Koebbe, was doing in his appliance shop in the basement of one of the buildings at time of the explosion at 2:25 a. m. Koebbe was the only victim fully clothed when taken from the ruins.

Firemen resumed their digging in the wreckage in the late chance that the body of Jack Campbell, 41, business partner of Koebbe, may be buried there.

Campbell was listed as missing when a body previously identified as him was found to be Julius Schmeizer, 55, who had not been reported in the building at time of the blast. Eight members of the Schmeizer family died in the disaster.

A gas explosion was still held as the most likely theory for cause of the blast.

Bill McKechnie Pilots Three Teams To Victories Over American League

Detroit Tiger Championship Top Surprise Standouts of 1940

By DON SANDERS (SEA Service)

Nineteen forty turned out to be the year the National league was waiting for.

Not only did the Cincinnati club break the American league's grip on the world championship but Bill McKechnie, the Reds' manager, piloted National league teams to victories in the pre-season all-star game for Finnish relief in Tampa and the regular, 24-carat game in St. Louis in July.

The season saw the supposedly invincible New York Yankees fall like the one-hoss shay at the season's start. They were so highly rated that the American league passed a rule prohibiting its pennant winner from obtaining athletes within the league except on waivers.

The Yankees pulled themselves together toward the lag end, and with the aid of superlative pitching by big Ernie Bonham, brought in from Kansas City, managed to make a race of it near the close.

No one figured that what appeared to be a decrepit den of Detroit Tigers would be a serious contender.

There was no holding that Tiger in the run down the stretch. Dick Bartell turned up on two legs.

The underpinning of was ready when Ernie Lombard twisted an ankle.

Cleveland was eliminated from the American league race in the first game of its closing three-game series with Detroit. A home run by Rudy York beat Bob Feller. The winning pitcher was Floyd Glendon, a result revealed from Buffalo.

Cleveland's chances were not improved by the Indians' June rebellion against Oscar Vitt. A dozen Fredkins also headed for the outfield for they could not play winning ball for Vitt, but Bradley Stone firm behind the manager. On the surface the breach was healed, but morale suffered a heavy blow.

Feller easily was the pitcher of the year with 27 victories and 23 defeats. He became the first pitcher in a major league history to turn in a no-hit, no-run game on opening day. He performed the feat against the White Sox at Comiskey park.

Doc Cleton rounded a no-hit, no-run game against the Red Sox Friday night at the season's start. While the Brooklyn club was showing remarkable early form.

The Dodgers presented a pile of slumps in Pre War times and never had a better record than they put out for the remainder of the season by an injury. He played no more than 44 games.

Fredrick Fitzgerald numbers listed grand ball for the Philadelphia club. He finished his 20th year.

with the Indians, Lou Boudreau, a brilliant shortstop, generally was regarded as the finest regular of 1940.

Frankie Pytko, just traded by Cleveland to the Boston Red Sox, established a major league record by winning 51 consecutive games without an error.

Versatile Jimmy Foss finished the season catching for the Red Sox, hit his 500th home run and set his sights on Babe Ruth's record.

Greenberg was adjudged the most valuable player in the American league. Frank McCormick, the Cincinnati first baseman, won the award laurels in the National League.

Managerial changes saw Roger Pennington returned to the helm of the Cleveland club and Herb Jimmy Wilson returning to the dugout as coach of the Chicago Cubs. Philip K. Wrigley named Jimmy Connerly, a baseball writer, general manager of his organization.

Despite exceptionally bad weather conditions, attendance was satisfactory everywhere in the nation. Fourteen night games, got the 211,000,000 fans out of bed.

University of Indiana basketball team, national intercollegiate champion, is headed for the Pacific coast for games, while the Santa Clara hoop squad is headed for the east for a three-weeks' schedule.

Coach Clark Shaughnessy of Stanford is fighting off influenza, but found his team in fairly good shape when it turned out for the first practice since the California game Nov. 20. At Lincoln, Neb., the Nebraska eleven scrimmaged in ankle-deep snow and 15-below zero temperatures.

Buck Shaw, Santa Clara coach, will be given a new contract following a substantial increase in coaching salary. He will replace Francis Schmidt at Ohio State.

Fight Season Opens Tonight At Kimberly

KIMBERLY, Dec. 18 (Special)—Boxing season will officially get under way here tonight with a series of intra-team bouts that will get under way at 8 p. m. in the Kimberly gymnasium.

The bouts are sponsored by the Kimberly Commercial club and proceeds will be from a collection taken on among the fans—which will go toward paying of the Yale lighting decorations down town.

Eleven bouts and a total of 23 rounds are scheduled by Coach Al Harsbarger.

Eight Lettermen Return at Buhl

BUHL, Dec. 18 (Special)—As the basketball season begins its beginning at Buhl high school, Coach Floyd Lutz reports that there are good prospects of having a championship team this year. Although three letter-men graduated last spring there will be eight hard-fighting letter veterans back on the team.

The first basketball game of the season will be Friday, Dec. 20, when the boys' team plays Genoa Perry in Buhl's gymnasium.

Buhl will play 16 games this season with one-half of them being home attractions.

College Boxer Dies in Ring

DAVER, Dec. 18 (UP)—Physicians today completed a post-mortem examination of the body of Richard Henry, 30-year-old Regis college star, who collapsed and died during the second round of a boxing match here last night, and announced death apparently was due to a "heart block."

Dr. Ernest P. Zaelensky, heart physician, blamed a heart condition for the death and said it had not been caused by a blow during the fight.

Henry had just felled his opponent, Leo Tatter, when he staggered to a corner of the ring and collapsed. His mother and two brothers were at the ringside.

Vandals Score 56-41 Victory

BOCK ISLAND, Ill., Dec. 18 (UP)—University of Idaho Vandals defeated Augustana college, 56-41, in a tough basketball game last night.

Idaho held a 39 to 22 advantage at the half.

The varsity-four of Idaho's points were made from the free-throw line.

Owning a Race Horse Affects Man's Judgment, Mac Is Told

By HENRY McLEMORE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18 (UP)—A man who owns a race horse that affects a man's judgment is the subject of a new book that says justice could own one and still retain his full powers of reasoning.

Give a judge a away-losing case with a horse and the chances are he'd back it, at even money, against Clinton and so around telling his friends to just wait until next May and they'd see his silks come home in front in Louisville.

If this isn't true, how in the world can you explain the nearly 20 nominations that have been made for the next running of the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap in March? I was looking over the list of names named for that race today (in view of sending Uncle Claude a 50 winter book titled One Day to a Book on Christmas presents) and you never saw such a collection of chaff and wheat, goals and sheep, buckshot and cavalry.

The every horse who has a chance to win the race that is entered, there are 10 fugitives from there, silk, wages, truck farm, and public shop. You can understand an owner entering a horse just for the thrill of seeing his silks race by in the lead on the post, but there are horses entered for the handicap whose only chance of getting to the post without breaking down would be for the jockey to lead them and limp them along with carrots and hand sugar.

Why are owners this way? Why do they throw away their money? It costs approximately $1,000 to send a horse to the gate in the handicap.

How can they own a horse myself, and be doing justice to answer my own question, I turned to a couple of Hollywood turf-men for the answer. How Gladys and Dave Butler.

"A man's pride in his own judgment is the answer, I believe," Gladys said. "The owner is the one responsible for purchase of the horse and he just tries to admit his horse is wrong. So he strings along with him even after he obviously also knows the horse can't run a lick. Take me with High Stride and Belmont. I layed out with them long after it was evident to everyone else they couldn't beat a fat man out of the front door. And there's another angle that accounts for an owner hanging on when everybody else has given up. That's the natural liking for a horse a fellow gets. When a horse has been racing out of your hand for a year or two and jangling you when you enter his name, well, he becomes a sort of friend and you don't quit on friends, do you?"

Butler says he is a genuine fan much about horse-ies as any one in three parts, should it all surprised by my question.

"Hell, you just own a horse name and see what happens," he said.

"In the first place, the bestest advice you can get is to buy a horse when you see the human loss possibilities of a Man's War. If it takes him 20 minutes to run a mile then he's not worth anything. If he runs along slowly or he will hit himself in a week or two, or he can't hurry him in his work, well, he's a sick snake all two months off. When you begin to believe your horse is a potential Santa Anita winner, that's when you should buy. If he's a little fat to win a fortune. Then, there's the outside chance all the good horses will drop out and your horse will be dropped in there with his own class class dogs to beat. There are few men who can resist a 100 to one shot."

Clear-bodied Quality clear through!

ORE SHIPMENTS NEARING RECORD

CLEVELAND, O. (AP)—Although national defense pressure has boosted output of the nation's steel mills to record levels, Great Lakes shippers here express confidence that the present fleet of iron ore carriers will be able to meet the demand imposed by the rearmament program.

During much of the shipping season now nearing its end, the fleet that supplies eastern mills and is operated at virtual capacity—294 out of 297 available vessels.

The year has been one of the heaviest in ore tonnage down the lake route. The 1940 fleet was called upon to deliver an estimated 92,500,000 tons. In 1916, with the World war in progress, the figure was 64,734,938 tons. In the last two World war years, 1917 and 1918, it fell below this year's probable total. The all-time high of 85,193,478 tons was set in 1929.

W. J. McGarry, manager of the Cleveland Ore and Coal Exchange, said: "On the basis of current reports of near-capacity operation of the steel industry, I believe that the present ore fleet is entirely capable of taking care of whatever volume of shipping the industry may require within the next few years."

Alex T. Wood, president of the Lake Carriers Association, said that he was "quite confident that the present lake fleet is of sufficient capacity to supply steel's demands."

According to Adolph H. Ferber, vice president of the Pittsburgh Steamship Co., a subsidiary of the U. S. Steel Corporation, his company has made no decision regarding the addition of new steel freighters to the fleet. The last four vessels built by Pittsburgh Steamship for lake service were launched in 1938.

Shippers point out that the fleet was pressed to deliver this year's industrial supplies, although several shipping records were broken.

The high trade figures of 1940 resulted largely from heavy operations during only a part of the season. Ore carrying, for example, reached this higher level brought on by increasing steel production late in the summer and during the early fall. Two monthly ore shipping records fell when 9,938,618 tons were delivered in September and 10,661,127 tons in October.

Coal Activity High

In coal, which travels from the lower to the upper lakes, the earlier part of the season brought the most activity. There was little doubt that the 1940 coal tonnage moved via the lakes would reach 45,500,000 tons, which would beat the previous record of 45,440,688, set in 1938. Coal tonnage carried during each of the World war years was 40,000,000 tons, which would beat the previous record of 45,440,688, set in 1938.

This year's coal movement came early in the season in anticipation of higher prices set by the Guffey weather conditions affecting shipping also tended to hold down the year's volume. Unusual ice conditions delayed the opening of navigation until April 1 in 1939 vessels were moving by mid-March.

November, 1940, also brought the 90-mile an hour gale which resulted in the death of scores of seamen and in millions of dollars of damage to the trade—the worst storm since the November blow of 1915 in which 233 lives were lost.

STEALING THE GLORY FROM DR. TOWNSEND

Editor, Evening Times: I am a constant reader of the Idaho Evening Times. I enjoy every nook and corner of it. Your editors are instructive and no one can say they are not the product of a fertile brain. Yours is a noble vocation. I am certain you must prize the ability to advance your ideas full of sound logic and useful knowledge to your readers.

Now let us suppose that some dirty low down sneak comes along and boxes your pl and publishes his own editorial, while he flatters it with just what his wishes to use your ideas and poses as the Father of the whole works. Would you say thank you? Or would you take him by the scruff?

Bruce Catton's letter of Saturday, if read and digested, will tell the people of this country a tale just as shocking. When the New Deal won over the Townsend plan I sent to Washington a copy of this country to compare it with the Townsend bill. I knew in reading the New Deal that the author was familiar with the Townsend bill. It doesn't take a detective to note the similarity, yet the author declared time and again that he was unfamiliar with the plan introduced by the Townsend people.

The Townsend bill is the best bill that has ever been conceived as a recovery measure. It is the culmination of a long line of thoughts and covers many years of his service to his friends and neighbors. Who ever mutilates that bill or introduces it under any other name is a traitor to this country and should be dealt with accordingly.

The truly mistake Dr. Townsend has made is that I can see it is not having his ideas patented; then no dirty sneak could rob him of the glory. Respectfully, J. W. WYATT

UNION TO ALLOW ARMY BROADCAST

NEW YORK, Dec. 18 (AP)—Military training camp bands broadcast today under an agreement between the networks and the American Federation of Musicians that they would not displace union members in radio studios.

James C. Petrillo, president of the federation, who Saturday forbade the networks to broadcast a Fort Dix military band, Petrillo agreed with representatives of the three major networks.

PRESSURE DID IT

FORT DIX, N. J., Dec. 18 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Clifford Powell, commanding officer of Fort Dix, said today that "pressure" from musicians within the American Federation of Musicians had forced Petrillo to "eat crow" and rescind his order forbidding the broadcast of non-union army music.

It is possible that a supreme dictator who apparently could still the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" broadcasted by the free air of America when rendered by an army band, I spoke with a large number of union musicians and performers last Sunday. Powell said that Petrillo did not represent the members of his organization when he wrote this decision.

STURDY COTTON GROWS IN WEST

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—The development of cotton in California came directly as a war preparedness measure before the United States entered the World war, according to W. C. Camp of Bakersfield.

Camp formerly a research agronomist for the U. S. department of agriculture, is credited with having developed the species of cotton—Arava—which is grown in California.

"Cotton came to the San Joaquin valley directly as a war measure," Camp said. "I was sent here with instructions to find places, varieties and methods—all on account of war emergencies."

Sturdy Staple Desired

Camp said military authorities in 1916 wanted developed a long staple cotton that would produce strong fabrics for uniforms and airplane material. There was no cotton produced in California before the World war and it was decided to develop the type of cotton needed for defense purposes.

California cotton always has been considered a premium crop because it is grown in a dry climate and generally is not soiled and weakened by rain.

The Arava cotton is a medium long staple cotton. Gravel said that irrigated cotton usually has been considered of better grade because it is grown in a dry climate and generally is not soiled and weakened by rain.

With the normal annual export of 3,000,000 bales of U. S. cotton cut off by war conditions, cotton growers count heavily on increased domestic consumption of the 1940 crop in national defense contracts and an increasing flow of war material from this country to England.

There are 37,000 acres planted to cotton this year in the San Joaquin valley and the production will be about 450,000 bales with the rest of the country producing approximately 1,000,000 bales.

Thousands of migrant "refugees" from the "dust bowl" have flocked to cotton picking for their livelihood during harvest.

U. S. BUILDS HUGE STORE OF RUBBER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—One of the most important keys to national defense is rubber. The United States consumes more than half the world total, but produces virtually none.

The agriculture department and the national defense administration are cooperating on a two-fold program to assure the nation an adequate supply in the event of an emergency.

The defense commission, through the rubber reserve company, organized by the reconstruction finance corporation, is building a large store of reserve supplies as possible.

The agriculture department through a $500,000 appropriation by congress, is seeking to start rubber plantations in this hemisphere.

Transport Route Long The route over which the major part of the United States' rubber supply is obtained is a long, narrow and a highly vulnerable one—that stretches 10,000 miles to the Dutch East Indies and British Malaya.

The United States, even in peace time, requires more than a billion pounds of rubber annually. Reserve stocks now in this country are sufficient to last only six months. There is no huge supply available to augment the reserve immediately.

The government is making every effort to obtain all available of that strategic material. It traded cotton to Great Britain for 200,000 tons of Rubber Reserve company has contracted for delivery of an additional 200,000 tons during the next 12 months.

These measures, it is admitted, offer no permanent solution of the United States' rubber problem. To bring that about the main reliance is placed upon the cultivation of rubber in tropical America and upon synthetic rubber production in the United States.

Synthetic Rubber Can Be Made Synthetic rubber presents a possible source of supply to be considered in an emergency, such as a blockade. Rubber-like material has been derived from a great variety of materials, such as natural gas, oil, coal, sugar, potatoes and grain. But the cost is high.

It would take months and perhaps years to increase synthetic rubber production sufficiently to meet the demand. That product last year supplied only one-fourth of 1 percent of the total national consumption.

The rubber plant originated in tropical America, where it grew wild. The plant was taken to the Indies and British Malaya and cultivated on plantations. Because of plant disease, South America and Africa ceased to be a factor in commercial production.

The agriculture department has sent a staff of trained experts to Latin America in an effort to revive production on a scale capable of meeting the demands of the continent. These scientists first must conquer the diseases which destroyed the wild plants. It is a hard and arduous task and its accomplishment still is years in the future.

Meanwhile, the government is building a reserve supply and hoping it will not get "caught short" in an emergency.

TRAILER LIBRARY BOOSTS READING

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP)—A pre-arranging library consisting of more than 500 volumes brings knowledge to remote corners of Oregon's Multnomah county in a streamlined trailer truck.

The bookmobile is an olive-green truck bearing the inscription on its side, "Multnomah county library." Inside it are the 500 volumes, constantly changing, and a little clerk where books are received and issued by a librarian.

The traveling library started as a move but has become a permanent, respectable institution. Farmers, their wives and children, know the approximate time of arrival and wait eagerly for the traveling library.

The truck makes its rounds about every two weeks. Lists of requests are kept and when the truck returns the book is supplied if it is available.

The first year the bookmobile was called on 65 families and issued only six books in her first trip.

It required months of visiting and talking before the idea began to take root and the bookmobile became a respectable institution. Farmers, their wives and children, know the approximate time of arrival and wait eagerly for the traveling library.

DOWN AN ALLEY AND UP THE REAR STAIRS OF AN APARTMENT HOUSE, LIVING A MAN!

LET ME KNOW WHEN WE GET TO THE AIRPORT!

WE HAVEN'T TIME TO EXPLAIN NOW, BUT I'M THINKING FOR EVERYTHING!

HAPPY LANDIN'

THIS IS QUITE THE MOST IMPORTANT TRAVEL I'VE EVER STARTED. THE ONLY ABSOLUTELY SURE OF IT IS THAT I MUST HURRY!

WHERE NOW, BOYS, COME IN THIS TRUCK IN WHICH YOU BROUGHT THAT STOLEN PLANE HERE!

WHAT? DENY EVERYTHING, BUT I'M SURE YOU SUIT YOURSELVES!

WHAT IS ALL THIS ABOUT? AN AIRPLANE AND A TRUCK?

YES, MISTER GEMAN, THIS BUSINESS IS STILL A MYSTERY TO US!

THESE BOYS STOLE AN ARMY AIRPLANE AND HALLUCINATED HERE IN A TRUCK!

BUT WHY WOULD THEY BRING A TRUCK HERE?

I DON'T KNOW, BUT I MEAN TO FIND OUT! COME ALONG, AND MEET GENERAL. I THINK YOU CAN HELP ME!

LOOK, MR. RIDGER! WELL RESEMBLE THE RUINS OF AN INDIAN CLIFF DWELLERS' HOME! AN INDIAN DISCOVERY!

YES, BUT THE CITY OF GOLD SHOWN ON YOUR OLD SPANISH MAP IS LOCATED HERE! CAUTION!

ENTERING A DOOR, WE THINK WE'VE FOUND THE BODY HAS FOLLOWED HIM!

DOWN AN ALLEY AND UP THE REAR STAIRS OF AN APARTMENT HOUSE, LIVING A MAN!

LET ME KNOW WHEN WE GET TO THE AIRPORT!

WE HAVEN'T TIME TO EXPLAIN NOW, BUT I'M THINKING FOR EVERYTHING!
