BRITISH, NAZIS KEEP YULE 'TRUCE'

Solon Raps FDR For Law Evasion In Aid to Britain

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25 (U.P.)—Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., charged today the administration is "evading the law" in its aid-to-Britain policy, and called on President Roosevelt to try to "bring the warring factions together and insist on a just peace."

In a Christmas interview, Wheeler, a leading foe of Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy and spokesman for the senate isolation bloc, told reporters: "I'm satisfied a majority of the American people are not for repeal of the Johnson act or the neutrality act, nor for conveying supplies to Britain, nor for lending guns, bullets or bombers to Britain."

Wheeler, who returned to Washington yesterday after a western tour, said he believed in aiding Britain "within certain limits and within our statutes." But he added: "I think if Wendell L. Willkie had taken courageous stands at the onset of his campaign that he was going to keep us out of war and had not kept harping on the subject of British aid, things might have been different."

Wheeler said he was not a high or low, set an example by evading the laws, we shouldn't complain if there is a wholesale breakdown of law and order in this country."

In my judgment, he said, "before we give any more aid or become further involved, the President ought to make a determined effort to bring the warring factions together and insist on a just peace. In my opinion, this government of ours could force peace in Europe at this time."

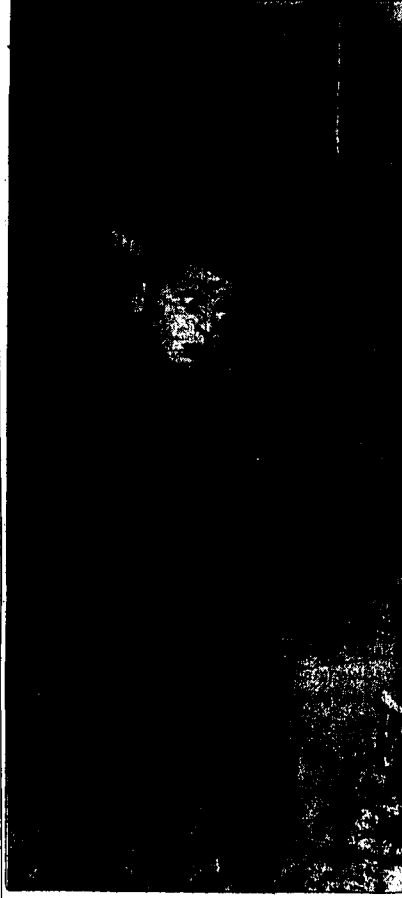

The Montanan said "the American people have a right to know what our foreign policy is before we give any more help to Britain."

"It is going to be to lease property and millions to every country that we may say is attacked by an aggressor?" "And we ought to ask ourselves where such a foreign policy will lead us and where it has led Great Britain."

Another Verallian? "If we give Britain all aid and she would win this war, what kind of a peace is she going to ask? Will it be another Versailles?" Wheeler added that it is his belief that "peace could be brought about at this time if a sincere effort is made."

"We want to see the small countries in Europe reestablished, the nations to emerge from the shadows, there must be a breaking down of the economic barriers in Europe so that people can survive economically."

Magic Valley Is "Land of Plenty" for Christmas Day

CLEAN GATHERINGS FEATURE DAY IN HOMES OF AREA

Good will and plenty reigned in Magic Valley today—even for less fortunate families—a comparative plenty compared with savagely poor people of other lands.

The home was focal point for Magic Valley observance of 1940 Christmas day. Family abstracts and clan dinners provided the highlight of the day following early-morning gift sessions beneath countless Christmas trees.

Most fortunate homes were those with children... to offer abounds to ever newfound toys left by Santa.

Religious Note Services in a number of churches provided the basic religious note of the anniversary of the Savior's birth; some services were held last night; some this morning. Most were conducted Sunday.

In Twin Falls, final distribution of Christmas baskets packed with every packet of Christmas food was underway this morning as the Elks started delivery of 100 baskets. The Salvation Army was concluding distribution of 160 more, and other organizations and individuals were busy by mid-morning in completing their own basket distribution.

Similar scenes were being enacted in every part of Magic Valley community. No underprivileged or jobless family went unremembered as far as it lay within capabilities of the individual and neighbors to prevent that Yule tragedy.

600 Given Toys In Twin Falls, too, nearly 600 children whose parents could not afford new toys were playing with shiny playthings distributed by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and repacked by the firemen.

At every home, perhaps a triple more subdued but nevertheless intimate, marked the Yule dinner in Twin Falls. Some had their own Christmas trees, some had their own Christmas trees, some had their own Christmas trees.

City jail had only two incarcerated inmates, one of whom was a man (and any "palshons" who may join them by evening) will be served a turkey dinner from a local canteen.

THUNDER of WAR

By United Press ROME—British royal air force planes bombed Naples at noon yesterday in punishing attack and dropped leaflets, a communiqué said today. From the sea, meanwhile, British warships shelled the city and the Libyan port of Tripoli, chief Italian base in Libya.

It was reported in London that the British are planning to show Italy with copies of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's special calling on Italians to give aid of Benito Mussolini.

LOS ANGELES—Backlog of southern California aircraft factories, working on military planes for Great Britain and the United States, total $125,000,000, a survey showed today.

BANGKOK—Premier Luang Biplu Songram said today Thailand is determined to retaliate against attacks from French Indochina. He placed responsibility for hostilities on French authorities.

VATICAN CITY—Pope Pius XII celebrated the three traditional Christmas Eve midnight masses in the private chapel of the papal apartment in the presence of personal friends and relatives.

FLORENCE, Italy—Five successive street tremors shook the Val d'Ara region near Florence between 2 and 8 a. m. today.

Firemen at Buhl Answer Two Calls BUHL, Dec. 23 (Special)—The Buhl fire department responded to two calls Monday afternoon. The first report came from E. O. Eastley ranch near the Black Spur service station. A straw stack burned and caught a truck nearby but the fire was cut out for the most part before the Buhl firemen arrived on the scene.

The second call was from the residence of Dr. F. A. Kallucky. Only a slight damage was reported.

Fourteen consecutive days without a fatal traffic accident in our Magic Valley.

AVERAGE LISTED IN IDAHO HOMES

Average number of persons for each occupied home or apartment in Idaho—including the Twin Falls and Magic Valley sections—is 3.7, according to census reports received late yesterday by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce.

The report from the census bureau shows that the entire state has 140,742 dwelling units, according to preliminary figures. The final population total is 528,373.

Although figures are given for the average number of persons in each Idaho family, that average was 4.1 in the 1930 census. The nation as a whole showed a drop in family size, so Idaho probably will slump to four persons or slightly less.

GREEKS CONTINUE PUSH ON VALONA

ATHENS, Dec. 23 (UP)—Greek forces gave Christmas today to continue their push on Valona, vital Italian base on the Adriatic coast. Greek Evzone warriors, pushing ahead without let-up from the captured coastal town of Chimara, were said to have taken three more villages and "great numbers of prisoners and war material," and driven within 15 miles of Valona.

But Christmas was not forgotten entirely. While Greek soldiers continued to press their offensive, a fleet of Athens taxicabs carried thousands of Christmas gifts—cognac, cigars, chocolate and warm apples—to the fighting front.

Italian troops, retreating through blinding snow storms and freezing weather, were said by an official Greek spokesman to be heading for the strongly but hastily fortified 2,000-foot Logara pass, which guards the approach to Valona bay. Reports reaching Athens said the road to Valona ahead of the Greek land advance was heavily bombarded from the sea, but whether the warships were British or Greek was not indicated.

Defense Expenditures for Half Year $1,500,000,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23 (UP)—American defense expenditures for the first half of the fiscal year totaled $1,500,000,000, almost one third of the total expenditures from the general fund, treasury figures showed today.

Direct defense expenditures have risen steadily since July to approximately $300,000,000 for October. Total defense expenses for the first six months of the last fiscal year were $550,000,000.

Navy Leads The navy led in this year's defense spending with $770,000,000 compared to $371,000,000 last year. Comparable figures for the army were $753,233,000 and $322,084,000.

In addition to defense spending by the army and navy, approximately $21,750,000 was expended from the president's special fund and another $214,000 for administrative expenses of the selective service act. Neither of these items were included in last year's totals.

WPA Costs Drop The works project administration, which in recent years has dominated the expense items on the treasury balance sheet, spent $606,701,000 during the first part of this fiscal year. This compares with $690,000,000 for the corresponding period last year, but in 1941 share of the general fund is proportionately less.

The gross public debt, as of Dec. 20, stood at $44,997,000,000 and expenditures during the last few days of the calendar year are expected to put it above $45,000,000,000. The legal debt limit is $40,000,000,000.

NAVY TO SPEED 2-OCEAN FLEET

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23 (UP)—Rear Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, assured the nation last night that the navy will do everything possible to complete the two-ocean fleet ahead of schedule.

Stark said in a radio address that last year the fleet was strong, but not strong enough to meet the test of world events. For that reason, he said, congress passed bills providing for an 11 per cent and a 70 per cent naval expansion within a month of each other.

"You may rest assured," he said, "that the navy will spare no effort to expedite this program, not merely to complete it on time, but ahead of time."

"The all importance of time and of timing is now being realized by all—as also are the words—too late. We must exert every ounce of our national energy to insure that the words 'too late' are not checked up as the final reckoning on our national credit."

Here's the Tale of First Christmas Tree in Buhl--And the Date was 1906

By MRS. OLIN SMITH
 BUHL, Dec. 25 (Special)—You've heard of a chip off the old block—know people who carry a "chip" on their shoulder—but have you seen the chips that were sawed off Buhl's first Christmas tree?

HERMAN GEER

Like all Christmas entertainments that first one included songs of St. Nicholas, sundry recitations and poems given in customary kid fashion—sing song and staccato time—and there were treats and a Santa Claus.

Chips for Souvenirs
 After the excitement died down and the smaller children were put to sleep in the corners on blankets and coats Herman Geer, prominent Buhl businessman, stripped the Christmas tree of its meager decorations, chopped off all the limbs and then and there sawed off chips and shelled them over the date line "Buhl's First Christmas, 1906." These souvenirs were distributed to all the folk present that night in the school building on Broadway.

This week with all the town gaily decorated and redolent with spruce and pine boughs, brightly illuminated at night, and with every one of its inhabitants busy bustling around to get everything done before the ragged edge of the time closed in, Mr. Geer sat down with his pipe, reminiscent of that meager Christmas, to write a genuine community affair, sponsored by the Sunday school for all denominations with H. S. Hobson as supervisor.

In Old School
 The entertainment was held in the school house, one of the few buildings scattered over the townsite on the location where the Jack Moss bakery now stands. Everyone of course was invited and guests came from Hagerman along the valley to Oakley and from Blue gulch. The Christmas tree was brought from Clear Lake by Will Snodgrass and Henry Tschannen. They worked two whole days to get it across the then hazardous Snake river on a row-boat.

The committee from the Sunday school purchased every orange in town, 13 dozen in the pile, and there were popcorn balls, serving first as tree decoration, and second as treats for the youngsters.

The Younger Program
 The small children of the early community life who appeared on the program in recitation or song and still reside in the west and were Irene Ford Banbury, Vida Hobson Shelton, Easter Howard Barron and Ruth Howard Shields.

Mr. Geer recounted that first Christmas entertainment as being little different from the observances held in the dozen different churches of the same town this week. "That first Christmas saw no 'clicks'—everyone belonged to the 'big family' of a few half dozen residents in the tiny west end town of the county. "One for all and all for one" was the motto those days and it was practiced.

Mr. Geer in reminiscence, called the names of the late Nathaniel Layton, (father of George Layton) had previously designated. So there was nothing to do but take the heavy colored lead back to Buhl for exchange and walk back.

Mr. Geer is full of tales and reminiscences of this humorous incident that served as amusements for the early settlers, including the time he insisted the cook be holding one of her biscuits up to the window to see if there were any flies on the inside.

Introduced Pheasants
 John Hinckley, owner of the first hotel, who hauled all the water for the town in barrels and charged for it 10 cents a bucket; L. J. Johnson the undertaker; Bob Hays the hardware man; W. S. Hubbell and Mr. Geer raised the price of 12 pair of Chinese pheasants and ordered them from Albany, Ore., early in 1907. They were the first in the county and were protected by the state with closed seasons for several years.

When "The Buhl Pioneer" made his initial bow to the public Mr. Geer's pale and papers, Miss Mary Hinckley, who cooked and served the meals in her brother's hotel, has preserved her copy of that first paper. The masthead line reads: THE BUHL PIONEER
 Buhl, Cassia county, Idaho, Thursday, December 20, 1906.

There are six pages with a Hagerman and Piler supplement. Miss Hinckley's issue is Volume 1, No. 1. In this issue considerable space is given inviting the public to the first Christmas entertainment and the program is announced.

Those who accepted that invitation, received souvenirs of the first Christmas tree, and today are celebrating the greatest of Natal days in Buhl, are Miss Mary and John Hinckley, M. D. L. Barstow, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Moore, Ray Overbaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Hilding Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Hobson, Mrs. Tom Clinton, Mrs. Guerrero, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smalley, Judge J. C. Gates, H. E. Wilkinson, George Layton, Charley Coker and Mr. Geer.

SLAVE DEAD AT 120
CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UP)
 —Mrs. Anne Magdalina Murphy, a former slave in Cape Colony, has died at the reputed age of 120 years in the Malay camp at Klerksdorp. According to her only daughter, Mrs. W. M. Murphy, who is 70, Mrs. Murphy died without knowing there was a war on, and she had never heard of Adolf Hitler.

Pink Livery Stable
 His interesting career was begun when John Schaefer bought some pink paint that was mixed with water as a bargain in Hagerman. Mr. Geer heated it in a pan on top of a stove to evaporate the water and proceeded to decorate the livery stable a vivid pink.

"It can see it yet," he said, "something new under the sun, a pink livery stable."

"It's a woman's privilege to change her mind, but in the early days of our cars, no roads and only three modes of travel, wagon, horseback or foot it was different, and a more serious offense. Mr. Geer had taken his paint and walked two miles the other side of the present site of Clearford, (14 miles), through dust knee deep in places to find a housewife had changed her mind, and wanted a different color scheme than she

The Leaven of Christmas

"I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people."

In such words the angel reassured the trembling shepherds, that night in Judea so long ago when they were overcome by the glory of the holy night.

"On earth peace, good will toward men."

To untold millions across the world today those words must have a hollow and miserable ring. On earth peace—when there is no peace? Good will toward men—when men are killing and bombing and maiming?

Where is the good will, where the peace? Have men made a mockery of this promise, which came to them from a more-than-earthly source so many years ago?

Blame the men, then, not the promise. For the earth is good, and productive, and splendid for men to live upon. Peace has been offered them; peace they could have, for the taking. But they would not have it. Good will toward men is nullified if there is no good will among men, and between men.

Christmas comes again, offering its bright promise of peace and good will. It is too much to hope that men throughout the world will accept it at its face value and instantly upon the midnight cease their warring and hating and killing.

But each and every man, woman and child can, in some little private corner of his heart and soul, reflect some glow of the glory of that night in Bethlehem.

Our own land is still at peace; here we can still strive for increasing grace and good will, for tolerance and understanding and love. Is there no ill will among us to be overcome, even to one another as countrymen? Let good will begin there to grow and spread like the leaven "which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened."

So with the precious leaven of Christmastime, with its promise of peace and good will. Until that leaven has perished utterly, as long as men turn even for a day to Christmas and its promise, the world need not abandon hope that it will turn again to good will and peace.

Loaded Letters

Newspapers are usually glad to print letters from readers for two reasons: (1) They are a forum, a means of expression for people who might otherwise be unable to speak, and (2) Other people like to read 'em.

Abusive and scurrilous letters can't be printed. That's because the law prohibits it. Law makes responsible not he who writes, but he who publishes. The true name of the writer is required simply as an evidence of good faith.

A smart New York publicity firm is now trying to take cash advantage of the letter privilege. Let's say it has Malsie Dishface, movie star, as a client. It writes a sample letter saying, "I thought Malsie Dishface was marvelous in 'Hot Hearts.'" She brought home a great moral lesson to our people." It then distributes that letter to people who are supposed to copy it and send it in to local papers under their own names. For every three letters these "clients" succeed in putting over, the agency pays $1 plus postage.

Readers sometimes wonder why editors insist on checking and reserving the right to reject letters to the editor. This new dodge shows why. Some super-smart New York press agent has injured every newspaper reader to whom his "letters" column was a means of getting his honest opinions into print.

What Expansion Means

Airplane production has been disappointing to all but the most pessimistic onlookers. Most people, however, have only the sketchiest idea of what expansion of that industry means in concrete terms.

The Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce has provided some figures which give a little insight into what expansion of an industry means. Last January it employed, the Chamber states, 60,000 shop employees. Today it has 164,920: By next June, when current expansion programs are completed, it will have 382,000.

You can't just step out on the sidewalk and hire the first man who comes along as a shop man in an airplane factory. To triple the number of skilled employees in an industry within a year, and to have laid the foundation for sextupling it within a year and a half is something.

True, it is not enough. But it does not exactly indicate creeping paralysis.

Hiller gives certain individuals the Iron Cross and most any country the double.

SERIAL STORY CHRISTMAS RUSH

BY TOM HORNER

CHAPTER I

THE doctor hurried up the snow-covered walk. Across the street a lad in a blue coat, "Hi, ya, Doc!" and followed his greeting with a snowball. The doctor waved back, laughing as he ducked.

"At the door he started to wipe snow from a gold and black sign—"Dr. H. T. Connelly." He liked that sign, but Martha and the girls insisted it was an antique. It was out of date. He thought of the day when he had first hung it beside his door 28 years ago.

A wave of warm ladies with mixed odors of burning logs and freshly baked pie, greeted him as he opened the door.

"Martha! Martha!" he shouted. "Thought you'd be ready."

"I am—almost," his wife's voice answered from upstairs. "It's only 6 o'clock, and the train doesn't get in until 5."

"Five-seven, to be exact," the doctor reminded her as he bustled out of his coat. From above came a black Cleo crowded her 200 pounds into the hall doorway.

"How soon my babies coming home, Doctor Hugh?"

"Only an hour more, Cleo. Is everything ready?"

"Everything fine, Doctor Hugh. Don't you worry none about my nener. Just wait till Mr. Jerry sees that roaster!"

"And pie, Cleo?"

"The colored cook chuckled happily. "Yes, air... apple pie and ice cream for Mister Jerry, cocanut cream for Miss Sheila, and chocolate for Miss Kathleen—"

"No nutcracker?"

"She shook her head. "No nutcracker. You been having custard pie for nights a week ever since September. Tonight I'm cooking for my babies!"

Snatches of an old Negro spiritual came to him as she waddled back into the kitchen. "Thom Martha was bawled him."

"You're early, darlin'!" She reached up to kiss his cheek. "Didn't expect you to be home until the last minute. A Hugh, your cold. Come over here to this fire and get warm. What are you trying to do, catch pneumonia about the Christmas dinner?"

"Now, Martha, I'm all right!" he spread his hands before the blazing logs—"I've been making calls all afternoon waiting to get finished so I could stay at home tonight. . . . This fire does feel good."

"How about a glass of wine before we go to the train? I'll get it. Cleo has her hands full with dinner."

"He returned quickly with two glasses. "To a very Merry Christmas, Mrs. Connelly!"

Martha Connelly smiled at the memory. How could she ever forget Jerry's first Christmas? "You were so funny, Hugh," she said. "Decorating a gigantic tree and buying a hobby horse for a tiny baby."

"Jerry had his heart set on that train. I got along all right with my old suit, the doctor defended. "And will you ever forget how I doled you when I tried to play Santa Claus and Jerry piped up with: 'That's not Santa Claus. That's my Dad. He smells like cotton.'"

"We've had a world of happiness, Martha, in good times and bad. Now tomorrow—Say, did that tree come yet?"

"It'll be ready by the porch, and it'll tall enough to reach the ceiling. The ornaments are all in a box upstairs. Cleo wanted to trim it today, but it's ready when the children get home, but I knew you'd never forgive me if I let her. You and Sheila and Kathleen can fix it tomorrow. And I'll bring stockings of the mantle, too. I found them downtown—one for each of our seven kiddies."

"Here will have to be the biggest. She still chuckles over Jerry asking to borrow one of her stockings to hang up, because he thought he'd got more in it. He couldn't have been much more than 8 or 9."

"I wonder if Cleo will pull that 'Loudy' Doctor Hugh. It's five dollars! She's been doing that for 20 years now, and it's just as funny as it was the first time she got more in it. He pulls her and only give her a dollar."

"You'd break her heart, Hugh."

She really is surprised every year. You keep telling her that she'll only get a dollar, and actually convulse her. That's Cleo's contribution to the Christmas fun. The doctor laughed again. "All right. Cleo shall have her chest. Now how about the other things?"

"Hugh, will you stop worrying?" Martha scolded, but there was no anger in her voice. "Sheila and Kathleen's girls are wrapped, hidden away. Jerry's will be delivered tomorrow. I have some perfectly hideous new neckties for you."

Cleo's voice boomed from the kitchen. "If you folks are going to meet that train, you'd better hurry. Quarter of a right now."

DR. HURRIED MRS. CONNELLY through the crowded station. A glance at the arrival board told them that the train was on time. Five more minutes. The doctor's arm clutched the doctor's arm. "It seems like they've been away for years. I know I'll cry, Hugh, and I don't want to."

"They'll be here in just a minute, darlin', there's a train coming in now. Let's get up close to the stairway, so we won't miss them."

Hand in hand, they waited. They saw a crowd of redcaps surging down the train shed, heard shouts, laughter as the crowd of college students came toward them.

"The door swung wide; the crowd closed in around them. On every side fathers and mothers greeted homecoming sons and daughters. "Hi, Mom! Hi, Dad!" "Great to have you home, son."

Then they were standing alone again. "Hello, Doctor Hugh, welcome home, teachers, tourists, eloped by. Martha gripped the doctor's hand. "Hugh!" she whispered. "Hi, Hugh! They weren't on the train. Something happened to them!"

"Yes, air," came the answer. "They was all in a hurry. Ain't nobody down there now."

"Dr. Connelly's arms were around his wife. She sobbed, pressing her face down into his coat. "Hugh! Hugh! They weren't on the train. Something happened to them!"

Evening Times Washington

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25—A cloud no larger than a man's hand is beginning to rise in front of the administration's projected spending program at the next session of congress.

Everybody agrees that defense appropriations will be as plentiful as ever. But lines are beginning to form for real opposition to other forms of spending. More important, there is going to be determined and effective resistance to avoid defense spending of the billion-dollar type.

At the moment this opposition centers in the able person of Cong. Clifton Woodrum of Virginia, one of the most influential members of the appropriations committee and a long-standing leader of the economy bloc. Standing with him in the probability of Mississippi bloc of the senate finance committee. Other important figures in both houses will also be lined up.

INFORMAL GROUP MIGHT BE SET UP

Strategy will be to try to get members of the house appropriations committee to agree on a general program for economy. Such a program, as Woodrum sees it, would have two principal points:

- 1.—To prevent any unnecessary expansion or extension of regular appropriations in all cases, making sure that all money appropriated for specific purposes would be lumped together to be spent at the administration's discretion.
  - 2.—To keep appropriations down to budgeted levels in all cases, making sure that all money appropriated for specific purposes would be lumped together to be spent at the administration's discretion.
- If the house leadership could be brought into line on this program, a committee could be set up by vote of the house to scrutinize all appropriations bills and see that they conform to the two points. It is not that simple—and it probably won't be, since the administration is already moving to fight the program through the senate. It is, however, interesting members probably will be interested in Woodrum in a more or less informal committee or bloc to see that the program is carried out.
- Point is that if the bulk of the appropriations and ways and means committee members go along with this idea, as seems likely, such an

Gamble-Fajen Rites Planned for Tonight

Christmas day wedding nuptials are scheduled for Miss Roma Lorraine Fajen and Robert S. Gamble, the vows to be pledged at 6 o'clock this evening at Immanuel Lutheran church, with Rev. M. H. Zagel officiating.

Miss Fajen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Fajen and Mr. Gamble is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gamble. Following the ceremony a small reception for 35 guests will take place at the Fajen home, 146 Addison avenue west.

Following a Sun Valley wedding trip, the couple will be at home at Apartment 33, 146 Addison avenue west, after Dec. 30.

The church will be stately with taperlight for the event, white tapers burning in six gold floor candelabra. Baskets of bronze and white Christmas ornaments will mark either side of the altar.

To Wear Satin
For her wedding, Miss Fajen has selected a slightly trained gown of old ivory slipper satin, designed with short sleeves and a fitted bodice and flaring skirt, with which she will wear long ivory gloves.

Her veil is of coronet style, and she will carry a shower bouquet of Joanna Hill roses. Completing her wedding ensemble will be a ruby lavalier belonging to her mother.

Miss Dorothy Miller, maid of honor, will wear a peach formal, the bodice fitted and the skirt flaring. Tea roses will form her corsage.

Miss Carmen DeWitt, one of the bridesmaids, will wear a light blue taffeta gown, with a long skirt and fitted bodice, and will carry a colonial bouquet of pastel sweet peas.

Also in blue will be Miss Mary Graybeal, the other bridesmaid. Her gown has a fitted bodice and a long skirt, like that of Miss DeWitt, and will carry a colonial bouquet of sweet peas. All attendants will wear colonial motifs to match their gowns, and flowers will complete their coiffures.

Attending the bridegroom as best man will be Ceil Dosselt, and wedding guests will be escorted to their seats by Austin Wallace and Luther Evans, ushers.

Nuptial Music
Ed Werner will play the wedding marches and Miss Juliette Werner will sing "Jesus Pender Shepherd."

Assisting in serving at the reception will be Miss Helga Rommetveit and Miss Betty Rommetveit. Refreshments will be served buffet style from a table centered with a wedding cake in pink and white, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, and illuminated by white candles.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding will be Mr. and Mrs. Ace Medford, Denver, Colo.; Mr. Medford is the son of Mrs. Fajen.

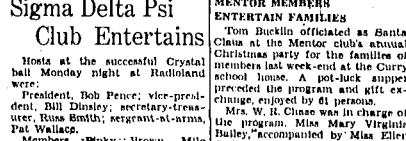

The bride's mother will wear an old rose crepe model with black accessories, and a corsage of red roses, and Mrs. Gamble will wear a navy blue ensemble with a corsage of red roses.

When the bride leaves on her wedding trip, she will wear a black suit under a deep brown fur coat, a matching fur hat and black accessories.

Schooling of Fajen
The bride is a graduate of the high school at Clay City, Kan., and of Spokane College of Cosmetology.

Mr. Gamble, following his graduation from Twin Falls high school, attended the University of Idaho, southern branch, for two years, and Georgia Technical institute for one year. He is presently associated with the Annapolis Sugar factory here.

Views in Verse

THE GIFT WITHOUT THE GIVER IS BARE

Devoid of silver trappings and bright bows,
The erstwhile tokens of the holiday,
Undorned, save by the brilliant hue
Of friendship, such as we hold true.

My gift, wrapped in the tissue of a thought—
The Christmas with I feel for you,
Of hope and happiness and perfect love
And harmony—'Tis wishes all come true—
Conveys the message I most wish to say
And leaves me never very far away.

CHRISTMAS, 1940

(The gift of real friendship, how precious and how strangely rare, is the theme of the Christmas day poem which the editor of "Views in Verse" is happy to share with Times readers on this holiday. It was written by Mrs. Anna H. Hayes, Twin Falls, who has a talent for friendship as well as writing, public speaking and organizing ability.)

McNEILL RISE TOPS NET YEAR

Van Horn Is Termed Chief Failure

By NEA Service
Shadows of war abroad fell across the tennis picture in 1940, robbing the game of some of its brightest stars and forcing abandonment of Davis cup play.

Two events stood out on the domestic scene:
1. The rise of Don McNeill as top ranking men's singles player.
2. The retirement of Alice Marble, four times national women's champion and outstanding woman athlete of 1940, from the ranks of the amateurs.

Blond, 23-year-old McNeill was not a complete surprise. Before his graduation from Kenyon college in Ohio last spring, he had played around the world.

Battles to Win
He had beaten the national champion, Bobby Riggs, to win the clay court title. But still he took McNeill very seriously until the third set of the tournament final match.

Riggs had won the first two sets in slow play before McNeill broke loose with the best tennis of his career to take the match, 4-6, 6-8, 6-3 and 7-5.

A number of younger stars won their spurs in the tournament. Victor Getz, 17, came close to topping Frank Kovacs. . . . Jack Kramer, 19, did beat Sidney Wood and Frank Parr.

Young Welby Van Horn, who became the sensation of the 1939 tournament by beating John Bromwich and going to the final, was the principal disappointment of the year. Joe Hunt, the midshipman, failed to reach the heights he touched in Davis cup play.

Marble Turns Pro
In November Miss Marble—who won her third straight singles title with an easy 4-1, 4-3 victory over Helen Jacobs—was induced to abandon her amateur status to inject glamour into the languid pro game.

Her decision left the ranks of women players singularly destitute. Replacing her are Miss Jacobs, who held the title four times in another era, Sarah Palfrey and Dorothy Bundy, as well as a number of younger stars like Pauline Betz, Virginia Wolfenden, Helen Bernhard and Hope Knowles.

Rains Hamper Work on New Turf Club

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 25 (UP)—If the rain doesn't stop pretty soon, the Golden Gate Turf club will open next Saturday on muddy days.
For 10 days it has been raining on the pretty $2,000,000 layout on the east shore of San Francisco bay, and the boys are getting worried.
The track is taking it well. It was carefully built and designed to take it, and the floating action of the rain will settle it for a good, permanent cushion before the track has a chance to kick the bottom out of it.

Hundreds of workmen have been building the rail to finish construction and painting on the triple-deck grandstand and other buildings. They had to stop painting and go to work on the mud.
The mud has delayed the schooling of some 80 yearlings who became two-year-olds on Jan. 1. Starter Eddie Thomas hasn't been able to have the babies up to take their first lessons in not getting left at the post.

By Thursday night there will be 850 horses in the grandstand, and perhaps 1,100 by opening day. The rest of the 1,400 stalls are expected to fill in a few days.

Blaik May Get Army Post

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 25 (UP)—Earl Blaik, a 1920 graduate of the U. S. military academy who is now head coach at Dartmouth, may return to coach the Cadets' 1941 eleven, but there was not an offer at the "Purple and White" camp to confirm the report today.

Officials were besieged with queries last night, for reports that Blaik would succeed Bill Wood as Army football manager. Wood, who completed his three-year football hitch this year, was assigned to active duty at Fort Bliss, Tex. Blaik's contract at Dartmouth still has a year to run, but the University, N. H. institution, has no official word for the holidays and no official could be reached for comment.

No Contenders Listed for Champion Louis

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 25 (UP)—Joe Louis was listed in the quarterly edition of the National Boxing association today as the world champion of the heavyweight class, but the position "no contender" was inserted in the column which ordinarily lists local contenders.
The list released by Fred J. Sauter, N.B.A. championship committee chairman, named Max Baer, Arturo Godoy and Red Burman of Maryland as outstanding boxers in the heavyweight division. The champion of New York, regarded as a likely opponent for Joe Louis in March, was listed as honorable mention along with seven others.

Mac Thinks There Must Have Been a Mistake Santa Bought Him the Wrong Set of Presents

By HENRY McEMORE
HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 25 (UP)—Dear Santa Claus: Thanks very much for the Indian suit, the roller skates and the tricycle.
I naturally feel there has been some sort of a mix-up in my case, and that somewhere in the United States an irate youngster is sadly contemplating a copy of "For Whom the Bell Tolls," a batch of nickles, a clear lighter, a key ring and an assortment of handkerchiefs that don't even have his own initials.
As for myself, I rather welcomed the obvious switch in presents. It has been years since I whopped down streets in an Indian suit,

SANTA FAILS TO LEAVE YULE GIFTS FOR THESE COACHES . . .
ANDY HARRINGTON AVAILABLE AS MANAGER FOR COWBOYS

It's Christmas and the sportsmen of south central Idaho are looking into their stockings today—some with joy and many another with a sour expression.
Santa Claus didn't do it, but he might have brought:
Coach Bill Squire at Kimberly a little more speed to go with that tremendous height he has on his basketball team.
Coach Dole Granney at Twin Falls a little height to go with his team's speed.
And Coach Cleo Shorthouse at Wendell a little weight to go on his basketball youngsters—who looked like midgets the night they played Kimberly to a standstill.
President Carl Anderson of the Twin Falls Cowboys a tie-up with an up-and-coming baseball organization—such as the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The supporters of the new state site south of Twin Falls a little snow for the holidays.
Coach Ted Hank a new contract at the University of Idaho.

Regarding the latter, a gent from Moscow dropped in on us the other day—collecting data in the interest of one of the coaches in this state who is a candidate for the Bank here.
Nald collector said the "situation is bad" at the university—with the main trouble being discussion between Bank and Graduate Management College. The squad entered one of the good talents in Idaho is getting away from the state uninvited.
It was his opinion that there would be a shift at Moscow before another year rolled around—either Mike or Hank.

And speaking of a new tie-up for Carl Anderson and his Twin Falls Cowboys, remains in that Andy Harrington, manager and second baseman of the Home Phone CAN be purchased—and if Anderson is unable to make a direct tie-up, then it would appear to be a good choice.

We are told that Andy is for sale—to aid the Twin Falls club—and President Hadyn Walker would take considerably below $500 for the popular pitcher who is regarded in Twin Falls as the best manager in the circuit.
Acquisition of Harrington would really be a Christmas gift to the Twin Falls fans.

Los Angeles Writers Pick Miss Marble

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25 (UP)—Los Angeles sport editors believe tennis star Alice Marble is southern California's athlete "most which there is no whither."

She recently turned professional.

DENVER GRIDDERS BACK
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 25 (UP)—The University of Denver football team returned to the field in a game late yesterday from Honolulu where the Rocky mountain team defeated University of Hawaii in a post-season game. The squad entered here, some heading for Denver and others going south to California and Arizona points for the holidays.

Ancient Guns On Display In Ketchum

By CHARLES G. SUMNER
KETCHUM, Dec. 25 (Special)—Among the interesting recent acquisitions of guns of which a local club has a large exhibit, is a 38 caliber revolver, well rusted, unloaded and quite out of commission. It was found by C. E. Denning, in the Rock creek section, and was lying in the sand of a deer bed. Through some means it was identified as having belonged to a man named Gray, now living in Alaska, and is of old manufacturing.

Another gun in the collection is a flintlock pistol of far greater age, the period being about 1700-80. It was a gun in common usage in those days and figured in many a shooting scrape. The caliber is about 50 and it has a 12-inch barrel. It was made in England and was found near Richfield, Ida. It would be difficult to figure the history behind a gun of that type found near Richfield.

A cap and ball pistol of the later period is also in the exhibit.
Then there is a 41 caliber derringer, known at one time as a "vest pocket pistol." It is a well-finished gun, made in Philadelphia, Pa. in 1859. It has a hard rubber grip, and was picked up on the site of the Sheepeater war, in the north part of the state. There are many other ancient shooting irons in the interesting collection, including long-barreled fowling pieces and rifles, pistols and revolvers.

Joe Hill has a similar exhibit of old-time weapons, and likewise a collection of marvelous big game trophies, the elk heads being especially distinctive, along with a moose, cougar, goshawk and other fine mountings.

George Hesser has one of the most beautifully mounted buffalo heads in the country and it is valued at a high figure. Other trophies add to the interest of visitors.

Many other rare exhibits of rare old guns exist throughout this section of the state, and the ensemble would create a most interesting study for anyone curious as to the origin of firearms and, this being a great game country, most people visiting the region are interested. At one camp there is a repeating rifle 140 years old, it being figured as a great many that repeaters were not in existence at that time.

Mrs. Ethel Keech Logan, official army hostess at Camp Dix, N. J., shows rookies how to blow balloons properly. Balloons were used for dance decorations.

When the army inserted an ad in the papers asking for applications for the job of hostess in training camps, a lot of people got the wrong idea.

The replies gave the army a severe headache. Many applicants seemed to think all they need have was oomph. Many indignant mothers, wives and sweethearts wrote in scolding missives because they objected to this "lure" of the draftees.

Now the cold hard fact is that the army officials take this hostess business very seriously and have set a high standard that applicants must reach before being considered. Glibly-gurgly girls are strictly taboo.

This does not mean that an applicant will be rejected merely because her face is not painful to behold. But she must have other qualifications than mere looks. The government pays its army and the government requirements are accordingly high.

Each army training camp is to have an army service club, run by private enterprise, but by the army. Each club is to have a senior hostess and two junior hostesses. The senior hostess must be between 30 and 50, must be a high school graduate and must have had at least three years of experience in a similar occupation. Her pay is $21.00 per year plus a bonus.

The junior hostesses must be between 25 and 45, graduates of a high school and must have had at least one year's experience as a hostess. Salary, $18.00 per year.

The senior hostess will have general charge of the club, provide and conduct all social and recreational features, such as games and dances, in which women from the nearby towns may participate. They will make provision for taking care of women and children relatives of draftees who may visit the camp.

One of the junior hostesses will have direct charge of the cafeteria and visitation to the camp. The other junior will perform such tasks as the senior assigns to her. All in all, the army will employ a writing room for 31 service clubs.

Wherever possible, they will be selected from applicants living near the camps, who are familiar with local conditions.

Army Does Job Itself

In the World War the hostess business was entirely in the hands of civilian organizations. But the army thinks it best to do the work itself in the army job. The organization, such as Y.M.C.A., Knights of Columbus, Young Men's Hebrew association and Salvation Army will not be allowed to have houses in the army camps. But the army wants them to establish quarters in nearby towns.

The army service clubs are intended for the private and non-commissioned officers. In these quarters there will be billiard and table tennis and other games, a room with a phonograph, a library and a writing room. The large camps will have guest houses where women relatives of draftees can put up for the night.

The libraries will not be run in amateur fashion. The government is employing only trained librarians to run the army libraries. The big camps and $8,100 per year for the others. The large camps will have a staff of 100 men. Traveling libraries will supply the smaller camp. In every instance the books will be loaned without charge.

Army Has A Moral Division

The army has a morale division whose job it is to keep the men happy and amused when the day's training duties are ended. This division is going to have a highly organized system for distributing motion pictures to all training camps. They plan to have a motion picture system for 1,000 to 2,000 spectators, in each camp. The plan is to provide the soldiers big-name movies as well as shorts. A small admission will be charged.

Games will be encouraged. There will be basketball and football matches and track team events. The morale division will be very pleased if the spirit of team rivalry can be aroused.

Elaborate preparations are also being made to create a singing army. Recently the morale division sent out a questionnaire asking the morale in the regular army to suggest songs that were their favorites. By an overwhelming majority the songs chosen were clean, sentimental or romantic songs or rousing marching or patriotic songs. None of the Amertenters stuff. Based on this survey, the morale division is preparing an army song book for the draftees. The men will be encouraged to go in for amateur shows. Often professional will be found among the drafted men. In the World War, Irving Berlin was a rookie at Camp Yap Hank. He got up an elaborate show which was so successful with its soldiers audience that it finally won the New York City for performances before more civilian audiences, who paid good money to see it.

Autoists, in Crash, Forget Introduction

Two local men early this morning crashed the police station in 10 minutes of each other to report that their machines had been involved in a minor wreck—each with the other—but their development had failed to be properly introduced.
Police records show that the first to come into the station was Arthur C. Snyder, 426 1/2 Second avenue west. He arrived at 3:05 a. m. and said the crash occurred at 3 a. m. He reported that he was driving a car bearing Idaho license 6R-8142 and that he was going southeast on Main avenue west. He collided with a pickup truck bearing license 6R-344 which was making a left turn from Fourth street west. Damages were slight. Mr. Snyder reported, and added that he didn't get the name of the driver of the truck.

U.S. Economic Revolution Now Entering New Phase

By JOHN T. FLYNN
NEA Service Financial Writer
The year which now closes may be the economic front, so down in history as one of the most remarkable in our annals.

It marks the third phase in an economic revolution. The only question that remains to be settled is whether that phase shall remain for an indefinite period as the pattern of our economic life.

I speak of this as a third phase. The first phase of it would be that which has persisted since the beginning of our history until 1933. In that phase the money power in the business economic system was private investment.

The second phase began in 1933 when government spending of borrowed funds was substituted for private investment.

The third phase is now here. It is the substitution of a defense or armament industry for direct public spending. It is, in effect, any other form of public spending. It differs from the second in one important particular.

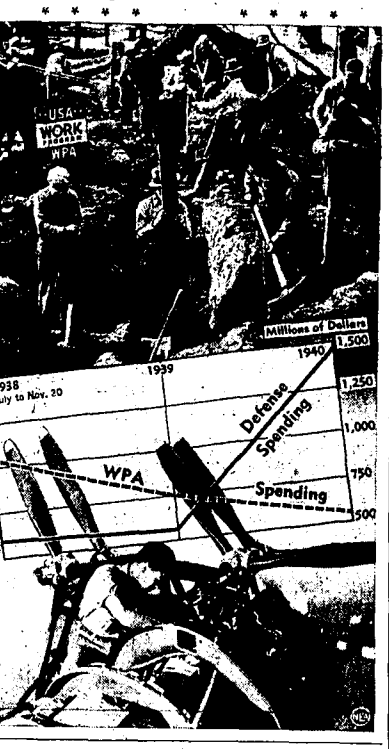

In the plan employed since 1933 the government paid out its funds—or the great bulk of them—directly to consumers who thereby are kept in business. The funds were syphoned into business through direct payments to consumers. But in this phase the government's funds are paid out, not to consumers, but to producers—the consumers benefit indirectly.

Money Going to Producers
These two systems differ in this respect: Where the government pays its funds directly to consumers, the payments are small—retail or weekly payments to WPA workers. In the second system, where government spends its money by paying out to producers and contractors, the workers who benefit are paid full time standard wages and the payments include profits to private individuals. The sums that must be expended are invariably much larger by this system than the former one.

Unless, therefore, the observer who is trying to look into the future understands this immensely important fact he cannot possibly understand the forces that are now moving upon floating on a sea of government expenditures raised by loans, but they are of a wholly different type. The following simple figures will illustrate this:

Table with 2 columns: Year and Amount. Rows include 1929-1939 for Bank loans, U.S. government borrowing, WPA Spending Falls, and WPA spending, July to Nov. 30.

What has happened and what is the outlook, under these strange and difficult circumstances, we will see in succeeding articles. But the first thing to bear in mind is that the important extent today—see them, they have not yet exercised their full force upon the business world.

MOTTLED TEETH FOUND SOUNDER

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Fluorine, while teeth may have more appeal, but mottled, chalky appearing ones require far fewer trips to the dentist, according to Dr. Wallace D. Armstrong, professor of physiological chemistry and dentistry at the University of Minnesota.

Mottled teeth, Dr. Armstrong said, show a greater resistance to decay. Data obtained from seven years of research in a bilberry mottled field show promise of developing an effective technique in the prevention of tooth decay—an affliction affecting more people than any other chronic disease.

Fluorine Believed Key
Dr. Armstrong's experiments have revolved around the theory that the cause of dental caries—decay—is in a deficiency of fluorine, an extremely active chemical substance when present as a gas in the enamel of teeth. High fluoride content, Dr. Armstrong said, tends to mottle the enamel.

Dr. Armstrong said his experiments conclusively demonstrated a direct relationship between mottled teeth and the fluoride in sound teeth is greater than amount in carious teeth.

He has examined so many specimens, he said, "that the probability of error is about one in five million."

Child Treatment Urged
Controlled administration of fluorine in childhood would "virtually eliminate" tooth decay, Dr. Armstrong believes.

The present difficulty, however, is the method of administration. Dr. Armstrong said there were two methods known. One is accomplished by the addition of fluoride to the public water supply; the other, the so-called prophylactic method, consists in the treatment by dentists in which the chemical is absorbed directly by the teeth.

Fluorine treatment for prevention of decay is more effective among children, he said.

Aid From Sea Helps Greeks In Advance Against Valona

By J. W. T. MASON
(United Press War Report)
Reports from Athens that warships are shelling Italian forces along the Albanian coast, leading to Valona should give the Greeks an important advantage if the vessels are of sufficient size. The Athens statement does not identify the nationality of the warships and no announcement of the action has been made by the British admiral.

The Greeks have few ships in their own navy capable of such operations at a sufficient distance from shore to escape retaliatory fire. Unless some of the heavy units of the British Mediterranean fleet are involved, it is improbable that an attack of this kind from the Adriatic can be very powerful.

Coast Advance
Yet, the coastal advance toward Valona is now occupying the principal attention of the Greeks, and any small assistance from off shore warships would be of some help.

Three-quarters of the way from the coast road and now face the first line of Valona's outer defenses. The roadways move some distance east of the coast and the Italian part becomes more uneven. Italian mechanized units, which were reported in operation during the earlier phases of the Greek advance, should now have greater difficulty amid the mountainous terrain.

Move to Mountains
The capture of Chimara by the Greeks gives them the last Italian stronghold in the comparatively level part of the battle front. Chimara commands the surrounding plain and overlooks the final mountain ranges leading to Valona along the Italian coastal flank.

PACIFIC COASTAL STORMS AT END

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 25 (AP)—Pacific coast communities today dug out of the mud and debris of the season's most violent storm. Torrential rains had slackened and danger of floods decreased.

The Palm Springs-Indio highway was blocked by flood waters between Palm Springs and Cathedral City, but the Southern Pacific railroad said that it had resumed service. Several of its tracks were washed out.

The S. S. Matsonia arrived eight hours late in Honolulu last night from San Francisco and her officers reported she had weathered the heaviest Pacific crossings since she had entered the mainland-Hawaii service.

HISTORIC HOME SAVED
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The Glen Green home, a rambling house in the Tara country of Georgia that survived Sherman's shells but hasn't fared so well against the ravages of time, will be restored as a historical museum. DRUNKEN OFFICER KILLS PEDESTRIAN

DETROIT, Dec. 25 (AP)—A Detroit policeman under the influence of liquor today shot and killed a pedestrian after terrorizing a neighborhood for more than an hour with his service revolver and a blackjack.

The patrolman was Thomas Urquhart, 31, and the victim was Alexander Ruddy, 53, a restaurant dishwasher who was going home when Urquhart opened fire at a busy downtown intersection. One bullet struck Ruddy below the heart.

Spectators said Urquhart had threatened pedestrians with his gun and blackjack and was making a boy do a jig by aiming the weapon at his legs when Ruddy walked past.

STUKA BOMBERS NAMED FOR BIRD

WASHINGTON, W.D.—The Skua, a fierce, brutal killer bird that recognizes no law except self-preservation, has been added to the specimens at the Smithsonian Institution.

Southernmost bird on earth, it was shot by members of the Byrd expedition.

The skua, for whom one of Britain's dive-bombers is named, ventures as far as 300 miles inland and sometimes may cross the pole itself. All about Antarctic highland areas close to the shores of the desolate continent.

The chief food consists of penguins eggs and chicks, which is devoured by the hundreds. Scores of half-eaten bodies of young penguins always can be found during the hatching season near the sites of penguin colonies.

The Skua is adept at separating the young from the brood and killing them when they have no protection.

The Skua is born to a hard life utterly devoid of parental affection. Usually hatched in pairs, the weaker of the two is devoured by the stronger. If the young grow to maturity it is in spite of the parents' neglect rather than because of them. In many cases the parents themselves devour the eggs or chicks and in any event afford the young no protection from the harsh elements, hardly even feeding them.

Yes: It Was a Man Who Invented Pinless Diaper

Joseph LaKris shows his new pinless diaper.

Baby cries. Maybe there's a pin sticking him, says mother. Dad fusses. Was punctured when he tried in his awkward masculine way to put a diaper on baby. All that's a thing of the past now, according to Joseph LaKris, of Cleveland, O., who has invented a pinless diaper.

The diaper is in one piece, with sanitary rubber insert. It goes on with simple fold. A belt with an adjustable buckle fastens it. Instead of the traditional separate pieces, the new boon to babies and shows how it works.

Here's Junior—all snug and comfortable—with no pins to cause unfastened and stick him.

SURVEY SET ON U.S. MANGANESE

SALT LAKE CITY (U.P.)—Tests to determine America's ability to produce sufficient manganese for defense needs, particularly in an emergency when foreign supplies would be cut off, have started at the Salt Lake City experiment station of the U. S. bureau of mines.

More than 100 tons of ore, trucked in from 50 deposits in five western states, awaited examination by the metallurgical division of the station.

Officials did not minimize the importance of the tests. At present, the United States imports 98 per cent of all manganese used and virtually every ton of steel contains a percentage of the vital metal.

Dean recently revealed plans for establishing a $200,000 pilot plant under the direction of Paul T. Alisman, head of the bureau's mining division. Dr. R. S. Dean, chief engineer of the metallurgical division, is directing the manganese experiments.

Movie Stunt Girls Amazed—They're Hired Just to Sit and Drink Beer

BY PAUL HARRISON (NEA Service)

HOLLYWOOD—Dressed in their own western outfits, 10 of Hollywood's 14 stunt girls dismounted from couples and roasters at Paramount and headed for the city to meet the set now in use for "Las Vegas Nights" is a slick western cabaret with everything from Tommy Dorsey and band to a gambling room.

"Guess we're in a tight scene," said one of the stunt girls. "Maybe we gotta do a Brodie off the balcony into the bass drum."

"Gotta into a Martini," said another. "Like that dive I did down at—oh, here's the director. Hello, Mr. Murphy, what's our stunt?"

"No stunt," declared the boss. "We just needed some good, healthy-looking girls who seem to belong in western clothes, so we called you. We'll want you about two weeks on this night club thing. You'll sit at the tables and drink beer and dance and maybe dance with cowboys now and then."

Two weeks—$35 a day—sitting around listening to Tommy Dorsey. No fights, no falls; and the dancing cowboys don't wear spurs!
