

Shifting of Ministers to Army Posts Points to Italian Instability

CIANO LEAVES TO JOIN AIR CORPS ON FIGHT FRONT

By J. W. T. MASON
United Press Wire Special
Six leading ministers of Mussolini's cabinet, including his son-in-law, Count Ciano, who have left their posts to engage in active service at the front, apparently are acting under deep emotional stress which now seems to be spreading through Italy. It is unprecedented and unnatural for such action to occur in a first world war.

These officials are: Il Duce's right hand associates in the administration of national affairs. They should abandon their home positions and assume inferior posts in the army at the time of uncertainty in Italy indicates the existence of much confusion in Rome.

Policy Disagreement
One possible reason for abandoning their ministerial work is disagreement with new Fascist policies. They may not approve of the infiltration of German influences and instead of offering their formal resignations they may have taken this means of expressing their disapproval from responsibility for future developments.

It is extraordinary that Count Ciano should have left his position as foreign minister at this time to become a war aviator. He is the only present minister who might be thought Mussolini would want his son-in-law to be home, for consultations. It is hardly possible that Count Ciano is intimately familiar with Italian foreign affairs and the international complications which have been generated. His sudden flight from Rome may have some relationship with German efforts to influence Italy in the present normal situation. Now a movement of Italian ministers is moving out of office to join the army for secondary duties.

Far From Normal
However, it may be regarded as a bitter conflict about the war situation. Now a movement of Italian ministers is moving out of office to join the army for secondary duties.

GROUP NAMED TO SPEED DRI-SPUDS

Appointment of a 10-man committee to work out details of the program for manufacturing and distributing potato-shredding factory in Twin Falls had been carried out today as the movement pushed steadily forward.

The committee: Archie Colner, chairman; Guy H. Shires, secretary; E. H. Hager, Truman Greenhall, M. J. Neumann, Ray Steiner, R. S. Touffiere, Mart Miller.

Key Report
Selection of the committee was made at dinner meeting in the Rogerson hotel last night, when 35 potato producers, spud handlers and others gathered to hear the report of the C. of C. investigation committee. That group had visited several potato-shredding plants in Burley and had made exhaustive inquiry into feasibility and financing of the proposed four-unit plant here.

Carl Babiker, chairman of the investigating group, introduced Mr. Touffiere who presented the report. He stated that the plant was envisaged along with other major developments of the new industry. Limited Attendance
Attendance at the banquet will be strictly limited to 100 persons—and in the 100 will be the unannounced number of award winners.

Order for the gold keys has been sent out, according to Chairman Ferry. Bala of the awards will be conferred by the members of 1940 community efforts. Since the program this year marks inauguration of the project, however, some of the efforts to be honored will include 1939 work which culminated in 1940. Civic endeavors prior to those dates are not included.

Council Okay Makes Third Voting Ward

When voting citizens of Twin Falls march to the polls for the city election April 1 a new polling place will have been established, making three wards in the city, as a result of council action taken last night.

Before the city has been divided into three wards, all territory within the city being north and west of Shoshone street being in ward one, and all territory east and south of Shoshone street being ward two. With the new setup one new ward will be formed out of one of the old sections.

Idaho Proposal
The idea was advanced by City Clerk W. H. Eldridge who told of crowded conditions which existed at the last and at previous elections because all citizens had to vote at one or the other of the two ward headquarters. Councilman, under suspension of rules, adopted an ordinance which becomes law in 10 days and which therefore will be in effect for the next election, coming April 1. As designated by the ordinance, the three wards will be as follows: Ward one: All the territory within the limits of the city of Twin Falls, or which may hereafter be annexed to said city, lying north and east of Main avenue north, and north of said city, lying north and east of Main avenue east and north of Kimberly road and lying south and east of Shoshone street east and west of Blue Lakes boulevard north.

Ward two: All the territory within the limits of the city of Twin Falls, or which may hereafter be annexed to said city, lying south and west of Main avenue west and south of Addition avenue west and lying south and east of Main avenue south and south of Kimberly road.

Ward three: All the territory within the limits of the city of Twin Falls, or which may hereafter be annexed to said city, lying north and west of Main avenue west and south of Addition avenue west and lying south and east of Shoshone street east and west of Blue Lakes boulevard north.

Third Ward
Ward three: All the territory within the limits of the city of Twin Falls, or which may hereafter be annexed to said city, lying north and west of Main avenue west and south of Addition avenue west and lying south and east of Shoshone street east and west of Blue Lakes boulevard north.

DAMAGES ASKED IN TRUCK CRASH

Second damage action resulting from death of a 21-year-old Twin Falls truck driver last Nov. 5 was filed in district court today.

Rodney Madron, Twin Falls truck owner, asked judgment for $11,880 against Leo McCoy and the Carstens Packing Company. He charges negligence against McCoy, operator of a stock truck involved in the mishap that sent White in a loaded brick truck and semi-trailer crashing into a tree. The Carstens vehicle driven by McCoy, according to the complaint, lacked adequate safety devices.

Madron owned the big machine being driven by young White at the time of the crash two miles east of Kimberly on U. S. 30. The $11,880 damages asked in the suit represent loss to the wrecked truck and semi-trailer as well as loss of use.

In the first action which followed death of White, his youthful widow, Mrs. Leslie White, sued McCoy and the Carstens company for $28,300. The suit was settled out of court for $3,760 last Dec. 6.

Attorney in Madron's action, and also in the prior suit, are Rayborn and Rayborn.

AWARD DINNER'S PLANS PROGRESS

Plans for selection of a toastmaster and an inspirational speaker for the first annual Twin Falls community awards dinner were underway today after choice of F. J. Vallion, former chairman of the merchants' bureau, as the speaker who will present gold keys to the recipients of the outstanding community efforts in 1940.

Loyal I. Perry, general chairman of the awards dinner planned for Tuesday Feb. 11, announced selection of Mr. Vallion.

Unique Project
The project—termed unique in the community—is being sponsored by the Twin Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce as a community-wide annual program. Recipients of the keys are those who have been Twin Falls men and women of varied ages and the Jaycees are acting only as cooperating units.

SHOES

Whoever left his shoes and socks in the city park last night didn't jump out of them, police officers said this afternoon, because the shoes were unlaced.

A passerby noticed the pair of shoes near the main sidewalk in the park and notified police who investigated to find the man who walked across the park barefooted last night he must have had cold feet.

The shoes and also the pair of socks are now at the police station awaiting identification.

The World is flat!

By NORMAN CHANDLER
Chairman, Newspaper Publishers Committee

YOU BELIEVE WHAT YOU READ? HEAR. Don't deny it—because if you do, you're admitting you can't learn anything!

If you had lived all your life in a place where you were told the earth was flat, you'd know no differently. You'd say the world is flat.

But if you lived in a country where all the facts, all the ideas, all the opinions were brought to you in a handy everyday package, you'd be able to make up your mind about the shape of the earth or the worth of a law or the value of a certain kind of shirt.

And you do live in the latter kind of a country. You live in a democracy—a place where people, making up their own minds, can govern themselves, make a living for themselves and convert their money into bread and butter and permanent waves.

Where do they get this knowledge, this power to decide for themselves? Just where you are getting it now—from your newspaper.

Don't let anyone ever tell you you don't need news about people and laws and events. And don't let anyone tell you that you can get along without the advertising news you read.

Just watch a man or woman who reads the ads make a dollar do its full job. And watch the well-read man support the right kind of government. Watch him guard his freedom. Watch him increase his security and protect his liberty.

Isn't it strange how few people stop to realize that America's newspapers are the very key to America's freedom?

lord privy seal; Arthur Greenwood, minister without portfolio; Arthur Cardinal Hinsley, archbishop of Westminster and head of the Roman Catholic church in England; Sir Kingsley Wood, minister of the interior; and Lord Beaverbrook, minister of aircraft production. He had lunch with Attlee and Greenwood, and dinner with Beaverbrook.

Willie described Prime Minister Winston Churchill as "a most inspiring man. I have great confidence in him. He's a man with a first class brain." He had lunch with the prime minister and Mrs. Churchill yesterday.

"Great Guy"
He also met Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and remarked, "He's a like a great guy. I would have liked to have spent another hour with him."

Willie had planned to tour the air raid shelters of the east end last night, searching out the "rottenest places" in the town, but he did not, however, when Herbert Morrison, minister of aircraft, offered to accompany him on such a tour later, possibly in company with E. H. Wilkinson, "angel of the shelters," who is a member of parliament and secretary to the home security ministry.

Harry L. Hopkins, President Roosevelt's personal representative in Britain, called on Willie yesterday. It was understood that his visit was "purely social."

Theater Balcony Gets New Chairs

Work of installing 264 new chairs in the balcony of the Orpheum theater was under way today, it was announced by B. L. Paquin, manager.

The manager said the new chairs have cushion bottoms with upholstered backs and replace the former solid wood seats. The new seats are two inches wider than the old chairs. Because an aisle was widened, the new chairs are larger, the seating capacity will be reduced by 40.

The installation is expected to be completed by Thursday. Meanwhile the balcony is closed during performances.

National Art Gallery Described for Group

The late Andrew J. Mellon, former secretary of the United States treasury, who built, endowed and gave to the nation the new national art gallery at Washington, D. C., to be opened to the public this spring, specifically did not want it regarded as the Mellon art gallery.

This was pointed out by Mrs. J. E. Langenwarter when she addressed the members of the Fine Arts department of the Twentieth Century club this afternoon at the American Legion Memorial hall on the subject, "Old Masters in a New Art Gallery."

Mellon, a patron of the arts, requested that the gallery be regarded as a national possession, and encouraged others to contribute.

Choice Collection
Kress, of the newly store chain, is one of the largest contributors. Mellon's entire art collection, including rare pieces from the Hermitage gallery in Leningrad, Russia, which he paid between six and seven million dollars, has been contributed.

There are 10 rooms in the gallery, and the art objects will be classified according to schools of art, as was the case in the Louvre museum. Copies of 43 of the paintings exhibited in the gallery, were displayed by Mrs. Langenwarter in connection with her informative address.

Mrs. M. E. Snow, chairman, appointed Mrs. William Middleton, Mrs. R. A. Suttell and Mrs. O. C. Hall as tellers, to officiate at the election next meeting.

Valentine Tea
Mrs. R. W. Carpenter, Mrs. Melba Cosgriff, Mrs. L. A. Chaplin, Mrs. Ted Davis and Mrs. M. J. Doerr were members of the hostess committee.

Red tups centered the tea table, and the Valentine motif was reflected in the menu and other appointments.

Miss Gertrude Shepherd, program chairman, wearing a beautifully embroidered and fringed shawl of a Spanish gaucho, presented the missionary activities of the Methodist church in all Latin-American countries, including Mexico, Central and South America.

Cards were distributed inscribed with the name of the country or capital and its population. A stamp of each country was placed on the card and the holder of the country and capital or other city stood while that country was being discussed.

Mrs. Gus Callen, attired in authentic costume of middle class Spaniard, was presented, and the song, "From a Backony." This story's setting was in Lima, Peru. The quartet sang, "South of the Border."

Mrs. Guy & Simons of the program committee, also attired in Mexican costume of a peep, with large hat and arape, presented Miss Lorraine Berkha who told in Spanish, her impression of Helen Keller.

Novel was the manner in which the bathroom shower gifts were presented to Miss Magel last evening at the C. A. Bailey home. Hostesses were Miss Shirley Smith and Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. George DeWitt.

Guests Turn Served
Shower gifts were distributed to the 32 guests, and each was invited to write a poem about what she thought the package contained.

Ludicrous in some instances were the combinations of verse and gifts, and in some cases, the verse writers were accused of having psychic power, so accurate were their guesses.

At bridge, Miss Dorothy Reed and Mrs. W. I. McFarland won honors. Mrs. W. I. McFarland will give Miss Magel's luncheon hostess duty after afternoon, and Miss Marie Newton will give a kitchen shaver for her tomorrow evening.

PASSAGE LOOMS ON FOUR AMENDMENTS TO AID BILL

REJECTION SEEN ON PROPOSAL OF NAVAL CONVOYS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Four amendments to President Roosevelt's British-aid bill, including a specific prohibition against use of naval convoys as convoys, appeared to have a good chance of adoption today following a bi-partisan conference at the White House.

There were no commitments made, but there were indications that the bill would pass at least tonight's unusual conference of congressional leaders with President Roosevelt.

In an hour and a half of discussion of the pending bill, these proposals, in addition to the prohibition against convoys, appeared to have the most general support:

1. A time limit on the grant of power to President Roosevelt to manufacture arms for foreign countries would expire on June 30, 1943.
2. A requirement that the President report to congress every 90 days on all arms and munitions manufactured or produced by the United States for foreign nations without specific consent of the army chief of staff and the chief of naval operations.
3. A provision that no articles manufactured or produced by the United States shall be released to foreign nations without specific consent of the army chief of staff and the chief of naval operations.

The two Republican leaders who attended the conference told Mr. Roosevelt they would be glad to consider other amendments. The Democrats made no promise to concede any of the changes proposed, but they refused to take the position they were without authority, since the bill is now pending in the senate and house foreign relations committees.

Gets Out of Bed

The White House conference was arranged late yesterday and was held in the President's study. Mr. Roosevelt got up out of bed to which he had been ordered by his physician because of a slight cold.

The conferees were Speaker Sam Rayburn, House Democratic leader John W. McCormack, House Republican leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., Chairman Sol Bloom, and Rep. Louis Brandeis, D-N.J., who is in charge of the foreign affairs committee. Senate Democratic leader Alben W. Barkley, and Senate Republican leader Charles McNary.

With the President were Morgan H. De Haven, secretary of state, and Green Hackworth, legal adviser of the state department, and Arthur Hays Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times, who also had a cold and went home to bed.

Keep England Afloat--Or Else!--Vanderbilt Warns

By FRANK ELLSWORTH

"The United States must keep England afloat. It will not be 'God bless America' but rather 'God help America,'" was the prophetic statement made by a bi-partisan conference last evening at Twin Falls high school auditorium by Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., roving reporter.

In case England should fall, Hitler plans to invade the United States at once, not in a year or so, but in a few weeks, according to Mr. Vanderbilt.

Into South America

In describing the method by which Hitler plans to invade the United States, Mr. Vanderbilt said that he would move across Spain into Africa and from Dakar would cross the Atlantic ocean to Natal, Brazil, South America, where he would divide his army into two branches, sending one branch to the Caribbean Sea and the other through the Central American countries into the United States.

Throughout his address Mr. Vanderbilt told of the most interesting persons he had interviewed during his career.

The speaker said that "the most interesting hours in my life were those which I spent with you, the possible exception of those spent with the late Pope Pius XI."

He described Stalin 17 times, the Hitler he now talks figures, giving the impression of an American who had been in contact with a Soviet leader. He told of how Stalin described his Russian army as being divided into three divisions--A, B and C, and a division of the C to our regular army, the B to our national guard and the A to our front army.

The division was sent into the battle first to wear out the enemy and the other two divisions were sent in afterwards to finish the fight.

Hitler isn't Mad

Mr. Vanderbilt said he had talked with Hitler many times and that contrary to belief that he is a mad man, "He is no more mad than any of us. He is a genius."

His quoted Hitler as saying, "You nation is a nation of cowards. The next war will be fought in your hemisphere, between the two yellow nations--Japan and the United States."

Vanderbilt said that before the invasion of Poland, in an interview with Dr. Goebbels, he was told by Goebbels that Hitler had been in England and France in 60 days. When asked how long he expected it would take to overcome the United States, Goebbels as quoted by Vanderbilt asserted: "When we get ready to invade your important nation, it will be from within."

Describing Mussolini, he told the audience that he had seen Mussolini in a small child in the street and turning to Vanderbilt and saying, "I would look back--That's Mussolini," the speaker told the audience.

I Don't Will Flee

"I don't think that trouble will break out internally in Germany for a long time, but when trouble breaks out in Italy, you will see Hitler fleeing for his life, with the king and the Catholic church remaining in power. This was the opinion of Mr. Vanderbilt.

He told of interviews with Gandhi, who asked him which caste he belonged to--a cowboy, gentleman or gangster; Molotov, who reminded him that Alaska was only 25 miles from Siberia across an ice-land sea; Chiang Kai Shek, who predicted a war 10 months before it began; Mata Hari, who predicted the end of the world; and an American doctor, who predicted international peace.

KOEHLER BLASTS 'AT PROTESTORS'

Declaring that he would secure for Twin Falls "every damn cent of federal money I can," Mayor Joe Koehler today had flayed those protesters of the city who "protest every time the government wants to give us something."

Koehler's blast came during discussion of the present status of the airport at last night's city council session. A complete story of that particular phase of the season appears elsewhere in today's paper.

He suggested slogan

Pointing out that the Chamber of Commerce has been "considering or at least talking" about getting a slogan for Twin Falls, the mayor said:

"If a certain group of people in this town, including some chamber members and officials, keep bucking everything like they are now, this city will have a slogan, all right, and it will be the biggest inland 'no-fly' slogan in the United States."

During his discussion of the mayor brought up the airport, the federal housing authority and the army building.

Regarding the latter, he said: "The money is all approved for the army building so now every one lays down on the job of securing property to place it and occurring to raise the 10 per cent sponsor's share."

Others Get It

He continued by saying: "While we are sitting on our haunches everyone around us gets federal money. Everybody here objects every time we want to get any, whether it is for the airport, housing or the army or anything else. Everybody always protests."

At one time he said that the Chamber of Commerce, because it is "afraid of getting its skirt dirty," doesn't do anything.

He declared that cooperation from the chamber is practically impossible on any point.

Cites Highway

"Take the instance of the designation of the highway on the north side as a federal highway," Mayor Koehler said. "We just sit here and let them get it because nobody would go after it."

"Well, I'm serving notice right now that I'm going after these things, and I'll continue to do these things. After all, they make a lot of noise but they don't represent the majority of the people who live here. We're going to pay for this federal money anyway and I intend to see that Twin Falls gets a good share of it."

Each one present was asked to write one idea on how to better the Grange.

A breakfast supper will be held at the next regular meeting with an award to be given to the prettiest basket.

AIRPORT BUYING HAD OKAY OF TAYLOR, BENOIT ASSERTS

Purchase of the ground which is used as the Twin Falls municipal airport, made by the city of Twin Falls on Oct. 14, 1938, was made only after J. W. Taylor, then attorney general of Idaho, ruled that the move was legal in all respects, Harry Benoit, attorney, had announced here today.

Benoit made the statement at the city council session last night after Mayor Joe Koehler, as announced in a story in the Times which appeared prior to the meeting, had declared that he had been informed by Bert H. Miller, present attorney general, that the purchase was "illegal" inasmuch as it was contrary to existing law.

Reads Letter

Benoit read a letter from Taylor, received just prior to the time of the purchase by the city at a price of $4,400, in which the attorney general approved the purchase. The land board also approved the purchase application at the same time and the result was that the land was bought.

"It was purely a question of law and we followed the opinion of the attorney general at that time in making the purchase," Benoit said. He added that the purchase was undertaken because WPA officials had informed council members at that time that no money would be forthcoming for use in improving the field here because the city didn't own it. Officially announced at that time that the government would not money on leased land.

Since that time, however, Mayor Koehler declared last night, they have spent "millions of dollars" improving leased land. They are doing it right now up at Boise.

Benoit's Assertion

Benoit suggested that with the two opinions given by the former and the present attorney general differing, it would be wise to take the matter up with attorneys representing the legal department of the organization, which will spend the money here, such as the WPA. In other words, it is the only safe necessary."

Koehler had said that Attorney General Miller declared last week that the 1937 legislature passed a law which made the purchase of the 40 acres of school land illegal and which made it so that the land could only be leased. Koehler said that he expected to have a copy of this opinion available today.

The mayor has announced yesterday that he would go to Boise "Wednesday with an idea of getting a bill through the legislature which would see the refund of the $4,400 purchase price to Twin Falls. If that, he said, could lease the acreage for 90 years at a price of "five cents or less" per acre.

Regardless of the outcome of the controversy, improvements at the field here are expected to be made.

The Church of England owns a forgotten acre of tobacco in the tobacco country near Franklinton, N. C. The deed never has been transferred, accrued taxes would amount to more than $6,000; but the property, though never improved, still is classified as non-taxable church land.

Plans were made for the annual Grange play which will be given some date in March. Plans were discussed for staging card parties and dances with proceeds to be added to the building fund. A letter was read from E. L. Mink concerning 4-H club work, and an announcement was read that Potomac Grange would have a banquet at Elias Jan. 28 with Gooding members to bring apple pie or baked beans.

A program under the direction of the local lecturer, Virginia Bell, was presented. Harold Steele and Gam Sims gave talks on happenings at National Grange. Laura Bryan read "The Blessed Trail." Anna Mink read "There's a Time," and Wanda Robinson read "My Gonna Try."

Demurrer Halts "Malice" Charge

Probate court ruling which upholds a demurrer against a $500 suit for defamation of character has halted today the only such action of the kind in that tribunal in recent years.
