WHEELER MAPS ANSWERS TO ROOSEVELT'S PLEDGE

WILLKIE PLANS TO TOUR NATION SUPPORTING FDR

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D. Mont., said today he would answer President Roosevelt's pledge of enough aid to bring "total victory" for the democracies in a radio speech Thursday night.

Wheeler, leader of the opposition to the lend-lease program, said he had no doubts that President Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie, the 1940 Republican presidential candidate, "will take the country into war" unless the people stop it.

Willkie's associates have said he would tour the country in behalf of aid to the democracies if Wheeler and his group carry out their plans for a nation-wide speaking tour. Wheeler indicated he would welcome an opportunity to debate foreign policy issues with Willkie.

Wheeler Speaks

Wheeler speaks over a nationwide National Broadcasting Company radio network Thursday at 10:30 p. m. He said it would be an answer to the President's address if Wheeler and Willkie, the White House Correspondents' association.

"I have no doubt but that Mr. Roosevelt, with Mr. Willkie's aid, will take the country into war unless the people let the President know in no uncertain terms that they are opposed to letting Great Britain and a few international bankers determine our foreign policy," Wheeler told reporters.

Double Wisdom

"Ever since the November election, they (Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Willkie) have been vying with one another in their advocacy of steps that will lead to war. I doubt if the wisdom of the all-out policy when it was introduced. Now that Mr. Willkie favors it, I'm sure the President is wrong."

He said no definite plans had been made for beginning his stump tour against Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy but that he hoped arrangements could be made for speeches in various parts of the country by himself and some of the other senators who opposed the British aid measure.

"I'd be very glad to see Mr. Willkie have Mr. Willkie follow me or any of the other senators and attempt to defend the Roosevelt foreign policy."

Hitler Fails to Reveal Why He Didn't Go to Italian Aid

By J. W. T. MASON
United Press War Expert

In his memorial address Fuehrer Adolf Hitler declared Italy bore the whole brunt of the British attack during the winter but he did not explain why Germany allowed that tragedy to the axis to occur. The further assisted Germany herself would resume its share of the load, without saying why the Nazis have permitted the winter to pass before coming to Italy's help.

As a matter of military fact, Hitler permitted Britain and Greece to gain a great strategic advantage in the last three months which does not speak well for the Fuehrer's conclusions of policy. In a war such as the present, where the British are faced with two enemies, it is of primary importance that they combine their efforts together and try to prevent their war efforts from being separated.

Failure in Strategy

Germany, however, failed in this essential teaching of strategy. The axis permitted itself to be divided and allowed Britain and the United States to retain the offensive both in southern Europe and northern Africa.

Hitler yesterday boasted the German army was in the strongest military instrument in Germany's history. It was equally strong throughout the winter, but it did not offer battle while Italy was being defeated week after week.

The more the Fuehrer emphasizes invincibility of his war machine, the more the British and Americans see themselves why they were left to fight without winter help from their invincible ally. The Fuehrer said Italy's objectives are the same as Germany's. They cannot have been dissimilar during the winter, when the German army did no more than watch the Italians retreat and surrender.

Militarily Split

The paramount fact of the winter warfare, which ends this week with coming of spring, is that Hitler allowed the axis to be split, militarily. He committed the blunder of permitting Italy to receive one of the worst defeats in Italian history without making even a gesture of help.

It is incredible that the head of the German military state should have to confess that Italy alone has carried on the land fighting for more than three tragic months and that only now is Germany preparing to take over her share of the battle.

Argument Not Convincing

When, after this acknowledgment of a gross strategic blunder, the Fuehrer immediately declares, as he did yesterday, that no power anywhere in the world can prevent and reverse the march of the axis, scarcely be called convincing. Though German commentators have said repeatedly that aid to Britain will arrive too late, they do not explain why German aid to Italy has been so long delayed, even though Italy was fighting under blows that all Signor Mussolini's forces could not parry.

The plain realistic fact is that the axis has had a divided military policy throughout the winter. There is a lack of command, for when two dictators ally themselves, neither can accept direction from the other, without losing prestige at home.

Hagen Convinces Mac That Old Golfers Were Just as Tough

By HENRY MALINOWSKI
 MIAMI, March 16 (AP)—Give Walter Hagen two hours of your time and I'll guarantee you'll concede you beat the modern golfers, with their sensational scores in the middle strokes and threesomes, aren't one bit better than were the champions of the days when he was in his prime.

The Hag started making his point to me as the clipper rose from Biscayne bay and moved out over the sea toward Nassau, and he had me on his side two hours later when the big ship settled down on the pastel waters of the harbor of the lovely little island playground.

Hagen, whose eleven British and American titles give him the authority to speak as an authority on golf, doesn't believe, as most critics do, that the fantastic scores of the Sinesis, the Hovans, the Nelsons, the Littles and the like is largely due to the improvement in golfing equipment. He admits that steel-shafted clubs, a livelier ball, and the sand wedge have helped in the almost complete destruction of par, but considers such things of secondary importance.

"The big reason for the low scores of today," Hagen said as Bimol dropped behind us, "lies in the different objective that golfers of today have when they step on the tee. In my day Vardon and his accuracy was our pattern. We wanted to hit the ball straight, and were content to get down in par, because par has always been good enough to win. Then, just as in baseball, fence was supplanted by slugging, and the boys went in for the spectacular. And if you have enough boys trying to be spectacular—that is, trying to make the longest carries and hitting every shot right for the flag—two or three or four of them are bound to make it come off, and get sensational scores.

"Soon all the golfers knew they had to do this or run the risk of having the gamblers pull down the money and the prize. So they all started playing like desperadoes, and this kept up until that sort of play became the common-place thing. At my time, a man played that sort of golf when he was behind and the holes started running out. And a lot of us could bring off a string of birdies when forced to. So you see, if our goal had been 67 say from the start instead of 72, we undoubtedly could have done just what the boys are doing today."

Hagen is of the firm belief that a champion is born with the gift of being a champion, and that no matter what age he lived in, would have won his cups and titles just the same.

"How many of the boys who are shooting courses in nothing flat shoot the same kind of golf when a national title is there for them to aim at? You mean to tell me that Bob Jones wouldn't have been a champion if it had been born ten years later? Or that Vardon or a dozen others you can name wouldn't have been the same?"

"What about yourself, Hagen?" I asked.

No false modesty in the Hag. "I would have won my share, I think, if I had this. When I'm 70, you can roll me out to the final tee of the National Open and give me a hole in one. You can't get it for me, and you can't get a birdie too. I'll come closer to getting a birdie than a buzzard."

Gomez Tries out as a Fireman

When New York Yankee pitcher Vernon Gomez retires as a smoke stacker, he wants to become a smoke eater. Here he tries a tryout as a back-seat driver on a hook and ladder truck at St. Petersburg, Fla., where the Yankees are in spring training.

THE SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
 NKA Service Sports Editor
 Joe McCarthy is the most successful of managers, but it is the height of something or other to see him showing Phil Rizzuto and Gerald Friddy how to make double plays.

The Yankees' new second base combination made only 193 for Kansas City in 1940... an all-time record.

The best thing to do with a pair like that is to let them alone.

The slightest change could only be a handicap.

Johnny Sturm, who again seems headed back to the AL's as the result of Joe Gierten switching to first base for the New Yorks, has the distinction of having played with three of the four finest shortstops who have recently come up to the big show—Foe Wee Reese with Louieville and Eddie Miller and Rizzuto in Kansas City.

Sturm says you could put all three in a hat, and couldn't miss pulling out a remarkable tender, but that Rizzuto is much the superior hitter.

That doesn't brighten Frank Crosetti's chance to remain at shortstop for the New Yorks.

Reese swatted the ball a fair piece for Brooklyn last summer, and Miller is not precisely an All-American out with the Boston Red.

The fourth course to keep interest in shortstops alive is Lou Bourdreau, who perhaps is the best of the lot.

Bill Rizzuto catches in on his opportunity. Bourdreau must be the most formidable batter of the bunch.

The Illinois product stands at the plate like a question mark but comes into his own in the 25th and 26th and in 1st runs in the first full season in the American league.

In addition to his playing capabilities, young Bourdreau is a natural leader.

The Cleveland club rallied around him as though he were a general.

Speaking of shortstops, the continuation of Bill Wright's duty spells leave the Giants a player short. Joe Creighton is too slow to perform satisfactorily at shortstop.

Clumey Egan's spinning shuttling to the outfield suggests the disappearance of the Polo Grounders.

But, as Bill Terry explains, they have not yet the players for the money with which to make a deal.

A poor organization has pre-empted the Giants to slip to a precarious position.

This in New York, long the backbone of the National league.

KETCHUM

Train No. 225 Saturday morning, unloaded three extra cars of ad enthusiasts here. There were 70 people in all, including the Los Angeles club, which will remain until March 22, and a girls' club from Salt Lake City. The latter returned Sunday on a train from Denver. Sunday brought in a contingent of 100 film players and equipment, and a local shot will be taken during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Cummins have returned to Ketchum after spending the greater part of the winter in the southland, most of the time in Florida and Maryland, where they have been spending the winter. There is still plenty of snow in that region, and some of the trip had to be made with a bobbed. Many deer were spotted on the hillsides on the way down. The family returned to camp Monday.

CENSUS SHOWS 3,000 MORE FARMS IN STATE OF IDAHO

VALUE DROPS IN 10 YEARS; CROPS GROWING SHIFTS

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—The 1940 agricultural census disclosed the number of Idaho farms increased nearly 3,000 during the 10-year period covered, for an aggregate of 42,623.

The greatest portion of the farms was operated by full owners, the report shows. It showed 26,150 persons owned their own farms in 1940, compared with 24,194 in 1930. The number of farms operated by managers increased greatly and the number of tenant-farms increased about 600 during the period.

Value declined

Although the number of farms increased, the value decreased considerably during the 10 years. Total value in 1940 was estimated at $332,194,381 as compared with $417,249,972 in 1930. The figure was based on the value of buildings and equipment.

Nearly one million acres more land was under cultivation in 1940 than in 1930, the comparison shows. There were 10,277,745 and 9,249,906 acres, respectively.

The census showed Idaho farmers were raising a smaller number of horses, mules, chickens and sheep in 1940 than in the previous decade, but increased production of hogs and cattle.

Less Wheat Harvested

There was less wheat harvested during 1940, but more corn, soybeans, oats, barley, mixed grains, potatoes and sugar beets than in 1930.

Figures for selected crops harvested were as follows:

Crop	1940	1930
Wheat	72,227,774	28,851,837
Oats	6,611,517	4,244,701
Barley	7,312,358	4,247,259
Sugar beets	390,401	527,251
Potatoes	26,268,119	14,206,205
All hay	3,222,831	3,332,191

Noted Horse Trainer Arrives

With 46 years of horse training behind him, including work in major circuits of the nation, H. A. (Blackie) McDonald, shown above mounted on Chief Nuisance, a registered American saddle stallion owned by C. H. Sigman, Twin Falls, has come to this city to train horses owned by local residents. He expects to spend the summer here. (Times Photo and Kurgavov)

Veteran Circus Trainer To Handle Local Horses

By G. A. KELKER

Figuratively speaking, H. A. (Blackie) McDonald has been in the "training saddle" for 46 years—and that's a long time to be anyone. The nationally known horse trainer arrived in Twin Falls yesterday and plans to spend the summer here, training horses owned by local followers of the riding sport.

A few years ago, when you attended a major circus, chances are that the horses you saw carry the pretty girls into the tent, dance the music of the circus band, bow to the audience and do other such tricks were all trained by McDonald.

Many Circuses

He has been connected with Bellagosa Shows, Ringling Brothers, and Hagenbeck and Wallace to mention a few. He estimates that he has trained well over 1,000 head of fancy saddle stock during the 46 years he has been "in business" in addition to scores of other types of horses.

He has even broken horses for the government forces and at this stage in the game he recalls, with a chuckle, that "many times I ended up on the ground during the process."

COLEMAN FAVORS NEW WATER LINE

Pointing out that when formerly a member of the city council he advocated construction of a new water main from the filter plant to the city, O. H. Coleman, independent candidate for a council post at the coming municipal election, today declared that he still favored "this necessary improvement."

Fact that the new construction is a necessity, Coleman said, was clearly shown when a portion of the main recently collapsed, leaving the city without water for about 18 hours.

Platform

In stating the platform on which he will seek election to the council in which he had previously served, Coleman stated:

"I believe that the city council should cooperate with the agencies of the federal government to the end that federal money can be obtained for the construction of worthwhile projects in this city.

"The selection of projects to be constructed is a very vital matter and the council should direct its best efforts toward sponsoring projects which, when completed, will be a permanent asset to the city.

Adequate Airport

"In this connection, if elected, I would favor construction of adequate airport facilities, a storm tunnel or sewer from Rock creek to carry away surface floodwaters, sewers which are not now served by sewers, street lighting and improvements to streets in the outlying parts of the city and a new water main from the filter plant.

"When I was formerly a member of the council, I urged construction of a new water main from the filter plant.

"If the council keeps projects of the nature I have pointed out in course of construction, it will aid in the outlying parts of the city, which are now unemployed, which I deem to be of primary importance."

STANFORD GETS BLAME FOR KIDNAPING 'BEAR'

BERKELEY, Calif., March 18 (AP)—California's golden bear—at least a reasonable facsimile of ursus major from the talented hand of sculptor Bennington Bufano—has been kidnaped, and the finger of suspicion today pointed strongly to the campus of Stanford's long-time rival, Stanford University.

Benny's bear, a statue damaged by art critics at a head dream but approved by the students, was lifted from its glass cage in the city room of the Daily Californian.

In its place was left an overturned bucket surmounted by an empty white jug, a white hat, two old tennis shoes.

It was about 10:30 before the student newspaper began to receive a string of notes which seemed to be leading up to a possible ransom.

GARDEN ACREAGE FOR LABOR CAMP

Five acres of land at the farm labor camp south of the city have been set aside for use as a community garden for the coming season. It was announced this afternoon by Roy O. Lane, camp manager.

Lane said that truck crops will be planted in the acreage and that women of the camp as well of families will care for it.

Planting of the garden will start as soon as possible. The camp is set for official opening April 15 but it is possible that the ground will be prepared and seeding started before that time. Some families, which would cause no school problem, will be allowed to enter the camp shelters before the official opening date.

500 THROG TO BAND'S CONCERT

EMERSON, March 18 (Special)—A large crowd of about 500 persons gathered to hear a band concert at the high school here today.

The band members presented a varied program in which specialty numbers were outstanding. Although "rough" in spots, the best performance gave indication that Kimberly will be a top-notch contender for district honors.

Following the concert, the Band Parents association met at the high school and elected D. Jan Day, president; Mrs. Sun Walton, vice-president; and selected Mrs. Mary Kinney, secretary.

The parents voted unanimously to give financial support to send the Kimberly band to the Intermountain regional festival at Ogden, Utah, in May if the organization rates a "superior" ranking at the district festival in Jerome next month.

N. B. the official news agency.

D. N. B. said the two men had traveled to Paris from unoccupied France without permission several days ago. The United States charge d'affaires at Paris, Walter D. REBUKES THOSE ANXIOUS TO SEND YANKS ABROAD

March 17, 1941

Editor, Times:

Who is this Mrs. W. A. Masters who, apparently, considers herself endowed with a mandate from the people of Idaho? Your reference to the "bad performance of the aggressor" applies equally well to Germany and England alike, as well as all other aggressors.

If Mrs. Masters is so anxious to help rescue Britain from the punishment which is due her, I believe they still accept volunteers in the Canadian army. Recently a very interesting incident occurred in Washington, D. C., Rep. Karl Mundt, of Idaho's second district in South Dakota, appeared on a Town Hall meeting panel program with Miss Dorothy Thomsen, who recently asked Miss Thompson this question: "Would you be willing to send overseas the four million American boys military district in South Dakota, to supplement England's army so that the continent of Europe can be successfully invaded against the forces now holding it?"

To this question Miss Thompson's reply was somewhat startling. She said: "Yes if necessary to see England win. I'd spend a million American lives, and I am willing to send my own son." Rep. Mundt did not know it at the time, but he started a little investigation of his own. He found out that Miss Thompson, her second husband is Sinclair Lewis, has a son, born in 1929. More than likely he will not be accepted by the army for quiet a number of years.

There are entirely too many people in the U. S. A. who are willing to help the English battle the Nazis to the last neighbor's son.

Again referring to your "past performance of the aggressor," and "when our cities are being destroyed," let me remind you of the fact that England has destroyed our cities as well as the White House, which is attested by the circumstances under which our national anthem was written.

Clark Orders Radio Change Day March 29

Gov. Chase A. Clark, before returning to Boise after the Southern Idaho, Inc. meeting at which he was featured speaker, made public a proclamation for "radio move" day" throughout the state Saturday, March 29.

The proclamation urges "our citizens to make any necessary adjustments of their receivers as promptly as possible" because reallocation of radio frequencies becomes effective March 29.

Change Push-Buttons

The chief executive said he took official action in order to impress upon Idaho citizens the fact that "push-button" radios must be readjusted if confusion is to be avoided. His proclamation was also signed by George H. Curtis, secretary of state.

Introductory paragraph of the proclamation explains the reallocation recently ordered by the federal communications commission: "... the government of the United States of America has entered into treaties with certain sister republics in this hemisphere for the improvement of radio-broadcast reception."

Change in frequencies affecting Idaho radio stations, the governor announced, is as follows:

Idaho Changes

KIDO, Boise, from 1350 to new frequency of 1380; KID, Idaho Falls, from 1370 to 1350; KRLO, Lewiston, from 1370 to 1400; KRPD, Nampa, from 1260 to 1230; KSEI, Pocatello, from 900 to 930; KTF, Twin Falls, from 1240 to 1270; KWAL, Wallace, from 1430 to 1450.

All frequency changes represent a 30 kilocycle "upping," the governor pointed out.

CLUB HEAD WILL ATTEND SESSIONS

John Kinney, president of the Twin Falls Kiwanis club, will represent the local unit at the Utah-Idaho Kiwanis district session which will be held at Salt Lake City April 10. It was announced this afternoon by club officials.

Attending the Salt Lake City session will be Mark A. Smith, (Thomson, Ga., international president. He was elected to that post at the Minneapolis convention in June, 1940. He had previously served on the international board of trustees. He was first elected to this board in 1937 and was re-elected in June, 1939.

Smith is superintendent of the Thompson public schools and also superintendent of the Upton county schools. He has served in many city, state and district offices.

Mr. Kinney will be accompanied by his wife. Although he is official delegate, club officials here point out that it is possible that other members will also make the Salt Lake trip.

The statesman John Hay served under five presidents — Lincoln, Hayes, Garfield, McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.

"Magic Valley" Wins Distinction With Its PUBLIC SCHOOLS

AFTER making a survey of the public school system of Twin Falls, the heart of "Magic Valley", Thomas R.
