MARTIN POINTS TO NEED OF STRONG MINORITY PARTY

GOP CHIEF MAY BE DRAFTED TO STAY AS LEADER

WASHINGTON, March 24 (UP)—House Republican leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts today said that the need for a vigorous, virile minority is greater than ever. The safety and security of our people depend upon an intelligent, constructive and courageous opposition to be had.

Martin's advice was given in a speech at a meeting of the committee which is scheduled, in interest of party unity, to "draft" him to remain as chairman. The split among Republican leaders over foreign policy had created an intra-party row that most leaders believe can only be resolved by keeping Martin in the major political office.

Comes as keynote

Martin's address came in the nature of a keynote for the G. O. P. selection of a new national chairman—original reason for the meeting—became a side issue since the meeting was called. With no outstanding candidate for the position, Martin appeared the only leader satisfactory to all factions.

Martin, however, planned to submit his resignation. The committee will vote to reject it.

The Republicans are expected to provide Martin with one or more assistants of his own choosing. The new assistant would replace John D. M. Hamilton, former national chairman who was defeated by Martin during last year's campaign and who resigned after the election.

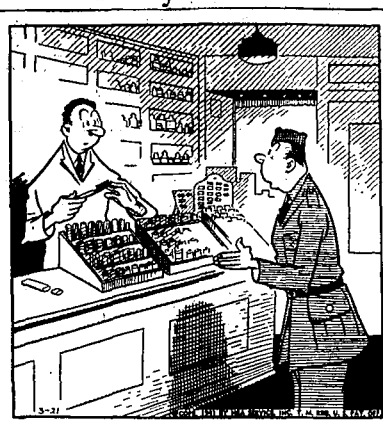

Asa Empfield heads

Similar action was taken in the case of C. B. Goodspeed, committee treasurer, who seeks to resign because of ill health.

There was nothing else on the committee's agenda, although Rep. Hamilton, Fla., R., urged the group to take an emphatic stand and assume the leadership to keep this country out of war.

There is no record, Martin said, for Republicans to feel discouraged over the campaign of last fall. Under the vigorous, dynamic leadership of Wendell Willkie, we polled more than 22 million votes."

NEW RULING SETS PAY FOR MINERS

WASHINGTON, March 24 (UP)—Gen. Philip B. Fleming, administrator of the wage-hour division of the U. S. department of labor, today had ruled that working time in America's metal mines must be calculated on a "portal to portal" or "collar to collar" basis.

Fleming's ruling was based on reports of hearings held Dec. 11 and 12 in Salt Lake City and Jan. 14 and 15 in Birmingham, Ala., and followed recommendations made by Harold Sten, assistant director of the hearings branch of the wage-hour division.

In his announcement of the opinion, Fleming ruled it would take effect April 1.

Although Utah and Arizona mining operations already operate on a "portal to portal" basis, the decision was expected to have an important effect in other western states, notably Montana.

One of the principal opponents of the portal to portal principle at the Salt Lake hearings was the huge Anaconda Mining company, with headquarters at Butte, Mont. Operation procedures in Nevada, Idaho and other metal-mining states probably would have to be revised drastically.

Under the portal to portal plan, miners are paid for time spent in traveling from the entrance to the mine to the base of operations, and in returning to the gate. The other system provides payment only for the time spent at the actual site of the day's work.

Public Forum

RAISES QUESTIONS ABOUT POWER CONTROVERSY

Editor, Evening Times:

I have read considerable in the papers lately about the proposed power sites along the Snake river canyon, and it appears to me that there has not been much information given as yet about the facts.

I have heard many rumors. I hear people say that they have heard so and so. It appears to me that it would be a real public service if you could publish more about the facts. For instance, it is true that under the constitution of Idaho the public waters belong to the people or at least the framers of our government and the pioneers who built and made our country thought they were leaving it that way.

And who is the "Idaho Power Co."? Is it an Idaho organization or do they just use that name for a blind? I have heard that they were incorporated under laws of the state of Maine, and that they are a part of the great national or international power trusts, whose apparent purpose is to get hold of all power sites everywhere, and then control as dictators control.

I have also wondered if they need this water or have any use for it. I hear that they are not developing nearly all the power sites that they have, and that they have no market nor prospects for markets for all of this additional power, but that this is a move to keep all other out; many municipalities or industries in the way of creating factories, what not that might want to come to this valley.

I hear that some of the agents of the power company in Gooding county have worked up a patriotic fervor about getting more taxes. Other people seem to think that this is a movement of the power company among other motives to spend their money rather than to pay income tax and that actually it is a move on their part to keep from paying taxes; for we know that these additions to their already enormous system would make very little difference in their general taxes, and I have not heard a word regarding rates.

We all know that nature provided this valley with numerous power sites and that instead of people here benefiting it appears that the benefits go to the great power trusts, and that here remain high and out of all proportion to the circumstances, that we are right next to these power sites where in most places they have had to pay a high cost to ship and generate power.

One of the things that has been of interest to me is the parrot-like conversation of all power company employees. They are all of a single

ADAMS PROPOSES 4-WAY PROGRAM

Homer Adams, candidate for one of two city council posts to be filled at the April 1 municipal election, today had declared himself to be in favor of obtaining "the city's share of federal funds."

He outlines a four-point program:

- 1.—A better parking plan which can and will be secured.
- 2.—Curing of all unimproved streets.
- 3.—Improvement of alleys.
- 4.—Support of major developments now before the citizens, such as new water mains and attention to recreational and city facilities.

Adams declared that he would not "leaf on the job" and promised progressive and businesslike administration.

"I believe in sound principles of city government, and I feel that our present administration has not met the needs of the city and is not keeping up with rapid modern developments. I believe that the people want a more progressive administration and that they will go forward. Since the government is spending money to assist communities we should receive our part."

A REPORT to America

The Ford Motor Company's business has always been to serve the needs of the American people. In providing them with low-cost transportation for the past 38 years, we have developed one of the country's largest and most useful industrial units. During a national emergency, we feel that these facilities should be devoted without reserve to our country's needs. Toward that end we started rolling months ago, with these results:

- 1 A $21,000,000 Ford airplane engine factory, started only 6 months ago, is nearly completed. Production will start with an initial order for 4,236 eighteen cylinder, air-cooled, double-row, radial engines.
- 2 We are building a new $800,000 Ford magnesium alloy foundry, one of the few in the country. It is already producing lightweight airplane engine castings.
- 3 Army reconnaissance cars—military vehicles of an entirely new type—are rolling off special Ford assembly lines at the rate of more than 600 a month. We have produced Army staff cars and bomber service trucks.
- 4 The government has given the "go-ahead" and work is now under way for the fast construction of an $11,000,000 Ford plant to produce bomber airplane assemblies by mass production methods.

Several months ago work was started, on our own initiative, on an entirely new 1500 horsepower airplane engine especially designed for mass production. This engine is now in the test stage and plans are being developed for producing it in large quantities when and if needed.

A Ford aircraft apprentice school has been established, to train 2000 students at a time.

That is a report of progress to date.

The experience and facilities of this company can be used to do much of the job which America now needs to get done in a hurry. Our way of working, which avoids all possible red tape, enables us to get results and get them fast. This benefits users of our products and workers who produce them.

We are ready to make anything we know how to make, to make it to the limit of our capacity if need be, to make it as fast as we can go, and to start the next job whenever our country asks us to. And to this end, we know we have the full confidence and loyal support of the workmen throughout our plants.

Fire Was Minor but Short Circuit In Siren Produces a Terrific Din

It wasn't much of a fire Sunday morning, but those who were awakened at the "unholy" hour of 5:23 a. m. were of the opinion the town was burning down—at least that's what the more or less incessant sounding of the fire station siren indicated.

A check today with Fire Chief Zeke Bartlett revealed that a short in the siren switch at the station apparently caused the "trouble." Under ordinary circumstances the siren blows three to five times, then "cuts out." A fireman pushes the switch just as the engine leaves the station.

Sunday morning, however, the siren sounded three times—then three times more—and then threw in three or four "spurs" before it finally became silent.

An electrician was checking over today to find the exact cause. Oh, yes—the fire was at the corner of Second avenue west and Broadway street. Someone, Chief Bartlett said, had evidently gone to sleep while smoking a cigarette. The mattress and bed clothing were destroyed. The chief said that the name of the "sleeper" was not learned. He apparently "checked out."

Red Note to Turks Points to Russian Reaction in Balkans

By J. W. T. MASON
United Press War Expert

Reports coming from Ankara that Russia has given assurances to Turkey that she will not attack in event of war indicate the highly disturbed reaction in Moscow to German pressure on the Balkans. Such an agreement would be tantamount to granting Turkey a free hand for full cooperation with Britain.

Under the Anglo-Turkish alliance, the Turks are absolved from actively supporting the British if relations between Turkey and Russia were thereby menaced. Russia holds veto power over Turkish war policy because the Soviet could strike at Turkey's northeastern frontier any time the Turks became entangled in a Balkan conflict, at the other end of the Turkish boundary.

An agreement, however, would mean that Russia would not engage in any such offensive operation. Turkey thus would be released from fear of Russian encroachment if Ankara were to take active sides with Greece and Great Britain in southeastern Europe.

It is certain the Russians would not consider any such agreement with the Turks except under conditions requiring protection of Slav interests. The present pro-German course of events in the Balkans menaces Russia's future influence seriously and there can be no doubt of Stalin's strong desire to take counter-measures.

A Russo-Turkish agreement would not necessarily mean the Turks intended to declare war on Germany if Hitler ordered an attack against Greece. It would mean, however, Russia had freed Turkey's hands to take such action any time Ankara believed conditions favorable.

This implication cannot be discounted.

Mrs. Charlotte Roberson as chairman, assisted by her committee, Mrs. Ethel Sturgeon, Mrs. Sally Pyle and Irven Roberson, presented a well-received program. The welcoming address was made by Mr. Roberson to guests of the evening, and since the occasion was also visitors' night, there were a number of guests present, including Mrs. Florence Lane, Los Angeles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schag, early pioneer residents of this community.

Miss Vera Romaine, instructor of music of the Washington elementary school presented a number of her pupils in costume, who danced the Virginia Reel.

The little girls were each dressed in long frocks and bonnets, while the young boys were dressed in black trousers and white shirts. Each of the Star members were also attired in quaint old fashioned costume, and following the dance of the children, they also took part in dancing the reel to the music of a phonograph.

Following the program, the committee served dainty refreshments in the St. Patrick's day theme; there were 75 present.

Name Suits Fish

Found in the river mouths off the northern Pacific coast of North America, the candle fish is so named because of the extreme oilness of its flesh. Indians convert the fish into candles by running a wick through the length of the body.

THEY FOUND 90 extra miles an hour IN A DROP OF OIL

A drop of crude oil will spot your clothes—dirty your hands—make you sniff. Nasty stuff! Yet scientists at the "University of Petroleum" (Shell's $3,500,000 research laboratories) look at it and love it... They discovered how to produce iso-octane, on a commercial scale, from a waste petroleum gas. This was the key to 100-octane fuel for American aviation which led to an increase in the speed and flying range of America's planes up to 30%!

Because Shell scientists saw extra miles in a drop of oil, and were able to get them out.

CURTISS P-40 PURSUIT

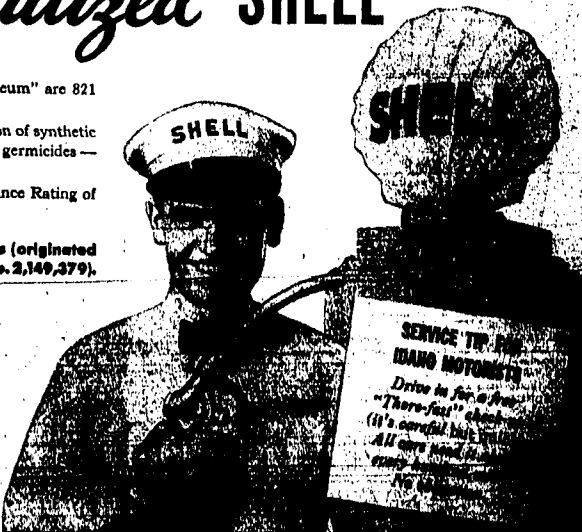

You get this research "by the gallon" in New Solutized SHELL

At work for you at the "University of Petroleum" are 821 research scientists and assistants. They found in petroleum a key to production of synthetic rubber—glycerine—plastics—fertilizers—germicides—and even T. N. T.

Now they've advanced the Road Performance Rating of Shell Gasoline to an all-time high:

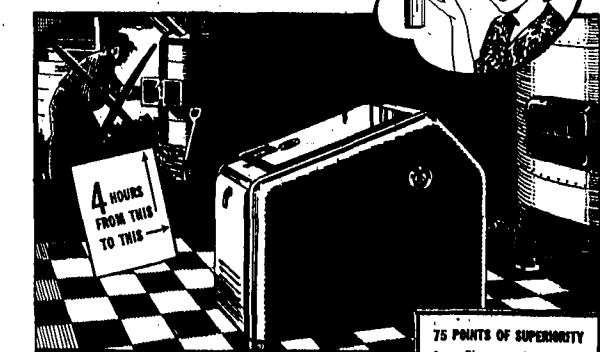

1. It is refined with the Solutizer Process (originated by Shell's research laboratories, Patent No. 2,149,379). This steps up performance by removing the "pro-knock mercaptans" which have always been a drag on performance.
2. Thermal conversion makes it extra rich in iso-compounds similar to those in aviation gasoline.

These two factors save on the costliest driving you do—Stop-and-Go. And improved road performance means a new thrill in motoring! Your Shell dealer has new Solutized Shell (at regular price) and Shell Premium—try a tankful today!

REGISTRAR AIDE HITS AT MAYOR

With the political pot reaching the boiling stage in the Twin Falls city election race after last night's primary, majority candidate, Fred Verbal, blasted at his opponent, incumbent mayor, one of three deputy registrars had entered the fray today with a broadside aimed at Koehler. The deputy registrar is Paul Kraft. He attacked statements in a circular distributed by Koehler. Referring to the inference that voters might be deprived franchises by officials misplacing or losing their registration cards, Kraft said:

"It seems to me that the deputy registrars are or have been influenced by friendship toward certain candidates for city office. We say 'deputy' because nobody would be foolish enough to accuse Mr. W. H. Eldridge, chief registrar and city clerk, of being deliberately dishonest.

"Perhaps no implication was intended against the honest work of the three deputies. Nevertheless, the wording was such as to cause many to 'josh' the deputies by saying they had deliberately misplace or destroyed their registrations later. Some even interpreted the warning to the effect that the city administrator (except the mayor) was conniving with the deputies to cheat certain people out of their votes."

In defense of the deputies, it does not seem necessary to refer to the publicity given the registration through the chief registrar, Mr. Eldridge, and the explanation of why the deputies could not return. It was impossible to know how long it would take to cover the city. Printed cards advising people, absent at the time the deputy called, that they had been missed and should call at the city hall were left at their residences.

Under Oath

"Another little possibly overlooked is the fact that these deputies are under oath to faithfully discharge all of the duties of the office. It would be interesting to know how many people were missed in Ward 3, comprising all of that district south of the city, including South Park, as the deputy, in that ward estimates better than 50 per cent as registered.

"Politics may be interesting things, but can it justify anyone accusing directly or indirectly, these three men of misconduct without one iota of proof?"

There is no pampering of passengers on the German Lufthansa's Barcelona-Berlin flight. There was a 55-cent breakfast; four thin ham and sausage sandwiches, an apple, an orange, coffee, sugar, and skimmed milk. We reached Munich long after noon. A hot meal was what I wanted and a sausage sandwich for 20 cents and a bottle of beer was what I got.

As sea duties

At the customs barrier, officials took it as a matter of course that I was bringing into their country quantities of soap, coffee, and shaving things for myself and members of the United Press staff in Berlin, and all stockings, a girle and such for the American girl with the United Press office.

They carefully counted and weighed every article except the stockings, and assessed a stiff duty on the lot.

Two hours later the Junkers J-1 was grounded in Dresden, unable to proceed to Berlin because of a crash which involved three automobiles in the 400 block of Main avenue east at 4:30 a. m. Sunday.

Records show that the machine operated by Johnson, which was badly damaged as a result of the crash, ran into another machine owned by Bob Pullin, Twin Falls, which was parked at the curb. The Pullin machine was demolished. Johnson's car then struck another machine parked at the curb on the opposite side of the street. The rear end of that machine was damaged. It was owned by Alma Hennigan.

At the meeting, members directed criticism at Gov. Chase A. Clark's veto of a bill providing for a state director of the fresh fruit and vegetable industry. L. L. Hurst, Caldwell, secretary of the association, said the board felt the governor's veto of the bill was a setback to the industry.

JOHNSTON BRIEF GOES TO COURT

Last documentary effort to avert Duncan McD. Johnston's life sentence for murder was mailed today to the Idaho supreme court.

It is the brief prepared by Attorney W. L. Dunn in support of Johnston's petition for re-hearing of his appeal. The re-hearing has been asked on claim of eight errors in the decision on the ex-mayor's original hearing.

The high bench on Feb. 25 rejected the Johnston appeal against district court conviction of guilt and judgment of life sentence. It was his second appeal. His first brought reversal of the verdict returned at his initial trial for slaying George L. Olson, gas salesman.

If the supreme court refuses the re-hearing, Johnston will have exhausted his last legal recourse. Removal to the state prison would follow almost immediately.

In regard to the re-hearing petition, Dunn said the so-called "profession" letter received by Gov. Chase A. Clark from an anonymous writer carries no weight whatever.

BURGLAR SEIZES TROUSERS, CASH

Police today were investigating a series of burglaries in which various articles were taken, including watches, jewelry and a considerable amount of money.

The burglaries occurred over the week-end and police today reported that much of the loot has been recovered. The cases, as listed on the police blotter, follow:

Mrs. Margie Holloway, 188 Sidney street, reported that Sunday night while she was at church, someone entered her home and made away with a coin bank. Amount of money in the bank was not known. Entry was made through a bedroom window.

Kenneth Self, 138 Tyler street, reported that sometime Saturday night someone entered his home and took a ladies yellow and white watch, 85 cents in cash and a small cedar chest containing other articles. Police said the chest contained the chest, contents and the watch had been found thrown away. The money is still missing.

Boy Compton, 459 Second avenue north, reported Sunday that sometime Saturday night or early Sunday someone entered his home and took a pair of trousers containing two billfolds. Also taken was a 44 revolver. Everything but the revolver had been recovered by the police after the case, as listed on the police blotter, follow:

O. P. Jacobs, 257 Second avenue west, a representative for the Fincher Oil company, reported that his trousers were stolen from his home about the same time and that a wallet containing $200 in checks and $45 in cash was stolen along with the pants. All but one check had been recovered, police records show, but the cash is still missing.

CRASH LEADS TO DRUNKEN CHARGE

Beauford Johnson, a Nevada resident, was being held in the city jail here today and will face charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, police records show.

He was placed under arrest after a crash which involved three automobiles in the 400 block of Main avenue east at 4:30 a. m. Sunday.

Records show that the machine operated by Johnson, which was badly damaged as a result of the crash, ran into another machine owned by Bob Pullin, Twin Falls, which was parked at the curb. TRUMAN T. GREENHALGH Independent Candidate for COUNCILMAN

In announcing my candidacy for councilman, I should like to explain that I am not obligated to any class or group. For that reason I can and will work for the general betterment of Twin Falls and the people. I am not motivated by any political aspirations or grievances, nor do I have any axe to grind. I do believe, however, that Twin Falls needs a change in the make-up of its city council—a belief which I believe will be shared by many of its time, we should start to mend. We have already marked time for long, fruitless, and favor a progressive, but not an extravagant, administration. If you agree with me in my convictions, I shall do my best to serve you well, and your support will be greatly appreciated. Remember, you must be registered before you can vote in the city election, April 1st.

Ernie Lombardi Termed "Most Loved Man" in Major Leagues

By HENRY MELKMORE
TAMPA, Fla., March 24 (UP)—It won't appear in the record book, but Jimmy Wilson gets an assist for this story.

Talking baseball with Jimmy in his apartment in the St. Catherine hotel on Central Island just a month ago, he suggested that when I got to Florida for a look at the spring training, I should stop on Ernie Lombardi, the massive catcher of the world champion Cincinnati Reds.

"There have been hundreds of stories done on big Lom," the new manager of the Cubs said, "but they all have dealt with him as a baseball player. You know, what a tremendous hitter he is, how smart he is back of the plate, and how well he handles pitchers. But I never had read a story telling how Lommie is the most loved man in all the major leagues."

Jimmy gave me part of the story right there.

"It have played on lots of ball clubs in my time," he told me, "but not until I went to the Reds was I ever on a team that had a player who had the respect and love of the other players the way the big Italian has. That goes from the fastest rookie to manager Bill McKechnie. There never is an unkind word spoken about him, no matter what he does on the ball field.

"Slow, easy-going, patient, understanding and kind, that's how I got down to Tampa and the Reds' training camp. I made a check on Lombardi. Everything I read about him was right as rain. The first man I talked to about the big fellow was his boss, Bill McKechnie.

"There never was one just like Lommie," Bill said. "I think Wilson used the right word when he said the players loved him. A great personality, and a great ball player."

Bucky Walters, Paul Derringer,

Frank McCormick, and all of the others confirmed Wilson's report on Lombardi's standing with the team.

"Remember last world series game with the Yankees—the one in which the writers and the camera made Lommie the goat? A Red regular asked me, 'Well, there wasn't a man on this team who ever criticized Lommie, and he never said a word about it, either in the clubhouse or later on. He just took the blame and let it go at that.'

"I asked McKechnie if it were true. Lombardi sometimes removed himself from games without a word from his manager.

"Yes," laughed McKechnie, "he does that once in a while in the summer when the heat begins to get him down. He just walks into the dugout, sheds his protector and mask and says 'Too hot for ol' Lom.' I know he is a man who gives of his best all the time, so that satisfies me. If big Lom is too hot, well he's just too hot, that's all. He's all man, big Lom—and two yards wide."

Dead Pheasant Came to Life -- Now Lives in Coldest Climate

KETCHUM, March 24 (Special)—He came to camp in a game bag last fall, near the close of the hunting season on pheasants. As the hunters laid the birds out on the floor he was admired as the prize cock of the bunch.

Later—when the birds were about to be picked up and taken where it could be seen by everybody was somewhat surprised to see him strutting around among the other trophies and contentedly preening a stray plum or two.

Then they were all taken to the woodshed and locked up. Still surprised that one of the birds apparently was unhurt, he was turned loose in the shed. For days after he was fed grain and watered and appeared to thrive. Then one morning an individual incautiously left the shed door open and the pheasant immediately took off, sailing in beautiful plumage through the trees to a bunch of quaken asps on the dry and sunny slope of the hill. The incident was forgotten, as it was believed he would sail down the canyon of Warm Springs and out into the lower country, his natural habitat.

Not so. At stray intervals during the winter his raucous crow was heard from time to time, and during the past few days, and it was learned he had been feeding near the hot springs, where the ground is dry and warm at all times, rooting in the quaken asps. A few stray seeds and some grain kept him in good shape, and at this time he appears to be king, as this altitude is close to 7,000 feet, and while fairly warm, a live pheasant has never been known in Warm Springs canyon.

Whether he crows from sheer freedom, or is making a few gestures toward some of the grouse family, has not been disclosed, but the presumption is that his memory returns to some modest member of his own tribe from the open spaces. But he is free, unmolested and content.

It seems that he had been stunned for a short time, and not hurt—in the least, unless he was just fooling and wanted to see more of the country in a hurry. Those things happen with the genus homo, at times.

THE RECORD... Facts That Concern You

EVERY SCHOOL AND EVERY BUSINESS HAS ONE OR TWO

In a school full of bright, self-respecting students, there are very likely to be one or two completely lacking in good common sense. And that goes for business, too... particularly the beer retailing business.

Out of thousands of beer retailers who conduct respectable, law-abiding businesses, there may be a few "dunce" retailers who disobey the law or permit anti-social conditions.

These few unwelcome retailers are a menace to the future of the beer industry... and also of the benefits beer has made possible. Right here in Idaho beer provides employment for 5,370 persons, supports an annual payroll of $3,665,101 and contributed $249,021.00 last year in state taxes.

It is the brewers' responsibility to make good beer—the retailers' responsibility to sell beer in wholesome surroundings—and the legally constituted authorities' responsibility to enforce the laws. All of these, working together with the public, are needed to protect the future of beer.

You, too, can help the cause of moderation by (1) patronizing only reputable places where beer is sold; (2) and reporting any violation you may observe to the duly constituted authorities.

VOTE FOR CHAPIN, TABER and AVANT

in the City Election, April 1st

During his campaign for mayor four years ago, Lem A. Chapin and the two men who are campaigning with him on his present ticket, pledged to administer the business affairs of Twin Falls to the best of their ability, to work for greater storage facilities to supply additional water needed by the city, to promote and encourage all worthwhile improvements for the city of Twin Falls.

The results speak for themselves. As an outcome of that policy, Twin Falls is in better condition financially than it has been for any period in the past 10 years. The 5,000,000 gallon storage reservoir was practically completed during that administration without increasing the bonded indebtedness of the city.

The new library was built as a result of the co-operation between these city officials and the library board, miles of streets and alleys were paved or gravelled, traffic lights were installed, the baseball park was built with the aid of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, land was purchased for our city airport, a new city waterworks flush line was installed, and numerous other projects were either started or completed while these men were working together.

If again elected to the respective offices they are seeking, these men will again endeavor to serve the city as fairly, energetically and unselfishly as they did before.

Famous Trails
into the Wilderness

First into the unknown wilderness of the mountain country went the daring explorers. They and the earliest settlers found their way over a trackless wilderness. Later as small settlements were formed, trails were developed greatly simplifying that primitive travel. Certain trail names stand out in our memories, bringing up visions of glamour and romance—the Santa Fe Trail, the Oregon Trail, and the Overland Trail.

The early settlements springing up in the mountains needed supplies, so their entire effort was devoted to the production of gold.

Everything they needed for food, clothing, their necessities and pleasures, even their mining tools, had to be brought from the East. As a result, a large freight business grew up between the Missouri River and the mining camps in the mountains.

Thousands of oxen, mules, and horses were used to draw the wagon trains. Shipment was slow. But the pioneer transportation men of those days not only made life more comfortable, life would not have been possible without them.

Today these frontier settlements have become modern cities and towns; the counterpart of the early trails are the gleaming telephone lines stretching over plains, mountains, and deserts, and uniting almost anyone, anywhere, almost instantaneously.

Business and industry which have grown space from modest beginnings find the telephone among their most important tools.
