Motorized Nazi Units Bend Back Greek-British Line

GERMAN TROOPS MOVE AHEAD 40 MILES IN ONE DAY

ATHENS, Greece, April 15 (AP)—German motorized troops bent back the western end of the Greek-British defense line in lower Macedonia today and carried the battle almost 40 miles deeper into Greece.

The Greek high command said German and British-Greek motorized columns now were battling in the region of Ptolemais, 30 miles south of Thessalonica, which had been one of the key points in the Macedonian defense line. Skirmish Ptolemais, other German forces were advancing on Kozani, a village south of Ptolemais; on Kozani, 20 miles southeast of Ptolemais, and on Sitia, 20 miles southwest of Ptolemais, the Greek high command said.

(The implication was that Ptolemais, a city of 125,000 with a population of 125,000, had fallen to the Germans. Salonika, second Greek city, fell last week. Athens is the largest and Ploesti, the port of Athens, the third largest.)

Evacuate Coriza

"Because of the German capture of southern Yugoslavia, enabling German troops to use the roads leading to the flank and rear of the Greek army in Albania, Greek forces were ordered to evacuate Coriza, Albania, for strategic reasons," the high command said.

"The enemy, perceiving the withdrawal, attacked the city after 24 hours. Some dozens of Greeks were captured. At all other points on the Albanian front enemy offensives everywhere were repulsed and hundreds were taken prisoner."

The reports of German advances indicated the British-Greek defenses now extended on virtually an east-west line. Anchored to the Aegean sea above Mount Olympus, and to the inland mountains almost due west of there, below Coriza.

Italian Army Enters

Coriza, original base for the Italian attack on Greece last October, is 15 miles from the Greek border. It is 35 miles southwest of Ptolemais.

(An Italian communiqué said the Italian ninth army entered Coriza at 12:30 p. m. yesterday and firing columns led by bersaglieri on motorcycles and by small tanks continued on to the plain, "pursuing the Greeks" to combat positions.)

The Greeks had captured Coriza Nov. 22 in their first major victory of the campaign in Albania.

A Greek spokesman had said earlier German mechanized forces had made localized attacks in lower Macedonia but that Greek units were holding their positions as ordered.

MEETING FAVORS BIGGER HOSPITAL

PILER, April 15 (Special)—Residents of this section of the county, attending last night's session of the Twin Falls County Taxpayer's league, went on record favoring expansion of the county general hospital at Twin Falls.

The session, held at the Orange hall at the fairgrounds, was one of several being staged throughout the county by the league in an effort to aid the commissioners in formulating plans for a proposed bond election to finance the needed improvement. The next meeting, it was announced, will be held tonight at 8 p. m. at the Hansen high school. Residents of Hansen, Kimberly and Merida are invited to attend.

Eight Speakers

Presenting at the session here last night was J. F. Cordes, league chairman. Eight speakers were heard during the session. They were Dr. George C. Halley, Carl Irwin, Chris Reinke, state representative; Dr. R. S. Armes, retired Piler physician; H. C. Jeppesen, legislative supervisor; C. B. Nicholson, Piler, Commissioner; C. B. Lindsey and N. V. Sharp, Piler rancher.

Added Hospital Ruled As Legal

Ruling on the statutory aspect of a west end proposal that the county establish a branch hospital in Buhl, Prosecutor Everett M. Sweeley had advised the board of commissioners today that such procedure would be permissible under the 1941 law relating to hospital expansion.

The board had asked Sweeley's opinion after the west end proposal was voted at a Buhl meeting. Sweeley's opinion said that if the board decided to enlarge the present hospital and also to set up a unit at Buhl to care for part of the increased load—and if voters approved the plan and necessary bonds—the action "would be fairly within the scope of the statute."

In its request to the county attorney, the board of commissioners had asked, in substance: If bonds should be authorized, could part of the funds be used to install a branch at Buhl and the other part of the money be used to enlarge the hospital at Twin Falls?

Sweeley's opinion sketched legislative action concerning county-owned hospitals, and summarized the history of the local county hospital.

The commissioners have taken no definite action so far as regards the type of expansion program for the hospital, or as regards the total amount of the necessary bond issue. The board is awaiting completion of the series of taxpayer meetings.

WITH THE Gentleman in the Third Row

A Meal, a Roof, and Democracy

"Democracy," cried the young man earnestly, "is three square meals a day and a roof over your head." The youth forum before which he was speaking burst into an approving uproar. The definition is scarcely accurate, yet it ill-behaves any of the more fortunate elders of this youth, with their last skipped meal twenty years in the background, to laugh off the words. They are too important, and the applause which greeted them is too important, for off-lauding.

No. Democracy is not three square meals a day and a roof over your head. Slaves have been well fed and housed with reasonable comfort, but whatever you might say about their condition, it was not democracy. But the fact that this pat definition was not strictly accurate did not mean that the young man had nothing to say. He had plenty to say, and people had better listen.

Three squares and democracy are not the same thing. But the question that demands an answer is this: Can democracy exist for long when perhaps a third of the people do not have the three squares and a roof? Forty feet of the foundation at one corner of the First National bank building are not the building, but if you removed those forty feet of foundation, the building would no longer be safe.

Economic security, in other words, is not the same thing as democracy, but a democracy which fails consistently to offer conditions in which the vast majority of people have a high degree of economic security is allowing an important corner of its foundations to crumble.

The democratic way of life is a vast, monumental building; the fairest and finest man has yet built. Its foundations and rooms are many—equal political rights, toleration, restricted governmental power, equality of opportunity, no special privileges, freedom of discussion and thought, no permanent class lines, the general underlying feeling deep in every man that he wishes nothing that is not available to other men under the same circumstances. It is greater than merely "three squares a day and a roof." But without those simple elements, it can be ashen in the mouth. That is not because men no longer prize their freedom above mere comfort, but simply because they realize that in our United States, there is no sane reason why they should not have both.

Did you dine well last evening, and the evening before that, and every evening for many years before that? Then do not laugh away this young man's definition of democracy. It is not a very good definition, but it is full of meaning to America.

It Comes as a Shock

For the first time in its history, the United States in January actually imported more farm products than it exported.

That comes as a shock, for we like to think of the United States as a great food-producing country with vast surpluses to send abroad. The surpluses are there, all right, but the people abroad who would like to buy American foodstuffs can't do it on account of the war. And so American import of foods like coffee, tea, pepper, and cocoa beans, not produced in the United States, have at last reached up and passed the war-shaken exports.

Yet there are those who still believe that the United States is beyond being affected by things that happen in "far-off" Europe.

Opportunities Still Beckon

The way to success is not yet a dead-end street. Two weeks ago George Batson was a bus-boy in a New York restaurant, not the most stimulating occupation in the world.

Today he is the author of a successful play starring Ruth Chatterton, which opened to great applause in Amherst, Tex., and seems in a fair way to become a hit.

Of course Batson must have had unusual abilities, but he must have had also unusual ambition and courage. And it is good to know that this country is still one in which such a man can get a hearing, and, when he proves to have "stuff on the ball," can succeed. If America has any meaning for the world, that's it.

WRONG ENVELOPE DEPT.

Bob Leighton, Report agent up at the University of Idaho in Moscow, sent a letter to the Evening Times. He got an extra sheet of paper into the envelope before he sealed it.

What was written on the sheet of paper is interesting. It proves us that the modern collegian is in earnest about getting an education, even if it pains him.

Said the note which Bob put into the envelope by mistake: "I've—Waka me up for breakfast, please. If I'm late, be sure I get up in time for my quits at 8 o'clock! Bob."

We don't know who Joe is, but we trust he fulfilled his duty.

WONDER OF WONDERS — WE ACTUALLY REFRAIN!

Because we have it so faintly good actually that a certain prominent Idahoan... who lately momentarily while giving a talk... after backing up to a wall to break the force of descent... had been ordered by Boise doctors to stay in bed at least half of each day... thereby apparently proving he is physically under-the-weather... we refrain from mentioning the incident in any facetious manner... and further refrain from mentioning the gent's name... which strikes us as a noble act, and we trust the gent appreciates it.

Wisecrack of The Week

Alroy, Fisherman Falls: The stevedores are running up around Salmon city, the trout catches are getting better in the Snake, and the general opening of the season isn't too far away. So... won't be too long until a lot of our Twin Falls business fellows will be too ill to work—and too well to stay home from fishing.

TECHNIQUE FOR SOFTENING THE BLOW! Churchmen on the island included a number of citizens heretofore who hadn't been inside a church for many a moon.

This is probably a very encouraging trend. But that isn't why we bring up the matter now.

What we wanted to note was the very considerable technique used by a Twin Falls lady.

This lady hadn't gone to church to enlighten her soul, but to see her sister Sunday. But she didn't wish anybody in the congregation to collapse at heart failure.

So, two weeks before Easter, she did a "practice" churchgoing.

DOLLARS TO DOUGHNUTS

BY EDITH ELLINGTON

YESTERDAY, Mrs. Anthony doesn't want to see Sheldrake. She's finally admitted that she knows the man. She doesn't want to see Sheldrake. She's finally admitted that she knows the man. She doesn't want to see Sheldrake. She's finally admitted that she knows the man.

"THAT MAN"—AGAIN

CHAPTER XXIX

BRUCE SHELDRAKE paid no attention to Beatrice. "So Mr. Curtis Weening finds it necessary to plant stool pigeons in my store, does he?" he shouted. "He finds it necessary to provoke me into a row with a man who is no trouble. He is not satisfied with heckling, with criticizing everything I have ever done. He is not content with sitting up home, he comes at the bank. I've got to have them at the store, too!"

"He's sabotaged every piece of work I've done on my store," he said. "He's got many other spies he has spotted throughout this store? How many stool-pigeon reports have you been getting out to him every week?"

"I have not been a stool pigeon, Sheldrake!" Anthony retorted. "I happened to need a job, and I applied at this store and got the job. Mr. Weening had nothing what I ever do with it in fact, he didn't let me in to work here. But I was fool enough to think I could be a careerist—I was fool enough to think Huntington was still the boss, the workable organization it used to be."

Beatrice had never seen this Anthony before. "Mr. Weening mentioned your name in the angle of your activity, Mr. Sheldrake. I am of the opinion that it's a damn good thing. But he has had a thing against me. If he's been investigating?"

"Should Bruce Sheldrake. He was a godded bull, seeing red. You got him to see his boss, and he got him to see his boss, and he got him to see his boss. I happened to be in my guardian office while she came in, and I got out of the look. But I couldn't help hearing it. Look here, Bee, getting the matter. I didn't want you to—"

"You didn't want me to know you had a thing against me?" she asked. "I haven't made a single move in this store without backing Weening's paid old-limers at even. He didn't want anyone in the store to know!"

"So you were spying on me, you worthless—" Mr. Sheldrake was in a rage.

Beatrice turned on him. "Be quiet!"

She went back to Anthony. "You didn't want me to know you were spying on me, did you?" she asked. "I didn't want anyone in the store to know. I see." She tried to keep down the sickening rage which filled her.

She was evidently very plainly now. You were that unspeakable

Evading These Questions

WASHINGTON, April 15 — As much misdirected and wasted energy goes into the average congressional hearing as is put into any other known form of human endeavor.

For one thing, these shows are a waste of money, which has anything to do with could hardly be expected to drag it into a public hearing room as big as a sidewalk and there display it. For a second thing, too many investigations go off half-cocked. Some investigations are conducted in such a way that they think something should be done about it. So, no matter how nobly conceived, if preparations for the trial and delivery of a congressional investigation child are inadequate, the baby is bound to be an outlaw and a disgrace.

Congressman Andy May's committee on military affairs got off to an investigation of national defense during the handling of the other day and a pity it was, too, for this was to be the first-born of the inquiry which had been sponsored by this congress to be-definitely the governmental agencies who are trying their best to get the country ready for defense in case of war.

HAZELTON

The American Legion auxiliary met Friday at the home of Mrs. Guy Dixon with 12 members present.

Letter Brought Fame

In resigning as postmaster of Laramie, Wyo., Bill Nye wrote a letter to President Chester A. Arthur. The letter was so amusing that it brought Nye fame as a humorist.

One woman, however, knitting automatically on a sweater during the whole opening session, got a lot done. It is said that the session of this committee's hearing and knits through every session. Besides for Britain will have another heat-load, and that will be something constructive, at least.

INTRIGUING

By DORINE LAVISHED LAVA

Until his recent death few Idahoans realized that Gutzon Goetzland was a native son of the state while many Omaha residents were admiring his love of his natal state—Idaho.

To many this may seem strange until they know that Borglum's home, near South 33rd and Mason streets in Omaha, had a six-foot visible foundation fashioned of lava bricks. For this link, the famous sculptor had several carloads of lava shipped from Idaho, and it was there that he chiseled into shape for his own home.

A GRAND OLD LADY FINDS ADVENTURE

By CAROL RYERDALE

Folk thought old Ma'am Cambrin was crazy when she rose from her deathbed, packed her belongings in the coffin they've made for her and set out on her journey. The legendary silver mines and a new home for her brood in Kentonville, Wisconsin. It would have been insanity for anyone but Ma'am Cambrin.

Clark McMeekin—Dorothy Park Curtis and Isabel McMillan McMeekin recount Ma'am Cambrin's adventures in a new novel, "Holding With the River" (Appleton-Century). It is an interesting, readable yarn, liberally sprinkled with historical characters. It's a worthy successor to the earlier work, "Ma'am Cambrin opus, 'Snow Ma'am'."

Ma'am Cambrin dominates the entire novel. She has been captured by Mohawks as a child, grew up as almost-slave to Chief Tavandaganee, Joseph Brant, her husband and lover, and was rescued by the discovery of Brant's black mark of the legendary silver mine and gold strike so off set her adventures.

She did not find the going easy, even with money. There was a new war on, her grand-nephew, Jess, was scholarly and impractical. And there was Strawn Vandevan, co-conspirator of Aaron Brant, who was a man of the West. Tavandaganee knew of the silver, struggled to gain possession of the mine in 1800. Here are pioneers who built their lives on the river and frontier to penetrate the west. Here is Mine King, the white fur trader who was a brutal and cunningly crawling in to Ma'am's will and will. There's Johnny Appledod, too, sowing the seeds of civilization, and along the frontier for future settlers.

And there's more of Strawn Vandevan and his secret that you'll enjoy far more than with the grand old lady of the novel.

YANK HURLING BRINGS OPENING-DAY VICTORY

Russo, DiMaggio Combine to Trim Senators, 3 to 0

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—If the pitching of the New York Yankees remains anywhere near that showed here yesterday—then the Gotham club as rebuilt by Manager Joe McCarthy will be a shoe-in for the American league pennant.

For in the opening game of the season Marlin Russo, sophomore hurler, had the Senators eating out of his hand as he limited Bucky Harris' boys to three singles—one every third inning—and the Yanks went on to chalk up a 3-0 victory with President Roosevelt and other high government officials watching from the stands.

DiMaggio Gets Two
Coupled with Russo's great hurling was the stand-out slugging of Joe DiMaggio, the "Vox center-fielder." Joe flouted a healthy triple in the first frame to score Tommy Henrich and came through with a rich round to a place where he could score on Charley Keller's long fly. Joe, incidentally, was the only man on either team to get more than one safety.

Leonard, knuckleball artist of the Senators, pitched good ball, but single runs scored against him in the first, sixth and seventh innings.

Injuries Shift Lineups
Injuries caused shifts in the lineups of both clubs. Local fans who came out to see the Priddy-Rizzuto combination performed for the Yankees. Chicago's top pitcher, Phil Niekro, was scratched. McCarthy started Sturm, the former Kansas City first-sacker in first, Joe Judge back at his old stand at second and Rizzuto at short. Gerald Priddy was out of the game with an injured ankle.

The Senators had Buddy Myer at second base, taking the place of Jimmy Blodgett, who was booted by Baltimore pitcher in an exhibition game on Sunday.

The seniors completed their walk-away in the inter-club track and field meet at the University of Idaho yesterday by copying first place in the relay and broad jump to run their point total to 40 for the meet. The Junior team finished second, 27½ and the frosh-soph third with 14½.

The senior 880-yard relay team chalked up a victory and the medley relay track ran that event in 3:17.7—1 3/16 of a second faster than the sub-district championship mark last year.

Here's One Writer Who Gives Billy Conn Chance Against Louis

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—So many boxing fans are betting on Billy Conn these days that his opponent gradually is being overwhelmed by a bunch that some warm, starchy evening this summer we are going to see one of the biggest upsets in the history of boxing.

Conn, as you doubtless know, is the slender Pittsburgh youngster who is being bet to win the title against Louis. Conn is the underdog in the fight against the champion because he is so young and because he is so new to the ring. But he has a chance.

Two or three rounds. After that Billy starts rolling like a runaway express down grade and by the eighth or ninth he is a mean customer. Billy has been an interested spectator at most of Louis' bouts—the most he fights this year and he claims he can outpace and out-punch the champion. If he sticks right he has a chance. He has a temper and if somebody tags him on the jaw he runs in and starts snapping punches. If that happens against Louis, the kid will be known thereafter as "Suicide" Conn.

Bertsch Takes 1st Place in Kegler Singles

Walker Bertsch, Kimble Super-Service bowler, today held the city singles championship after last night rolling the greatest three-set series ever performed on the new Bowldrome alleys.

Bertsch put together scratch games of 246-185—226 for 1925 series. With his 17-pin per game handicap added he had a 246-185 series—about 50 points better than anything else posted on the alleys.

Singles competition in the tournament ended last night after some 60 bowlers posted scores. Second place went to Willis Craig of the Union Motor Club from the minor league, who has had 976 series and third spot was held by Coley Colton, who had 665—both scores including handicap.

There were very few doubles games rolled last night, but one high mark posted is expected to be the record. Phil Schuchman, Chicago, probable that of Elmore Hagler and Corky Carlson, who combined to chalk up a 127 count—with handicap.

Doubles competition will continue through tonight and Wednesday. Doubles teams are allowed repeat entries if the repeating partner is not already a member of a team that holds one of the top three places.

Acers Meet in Collegiate Track Event

SALT LAKE CITY, April 15 (AP)—An 18-man track squad from University of Nebraska will compete in a four-cornered meet with Utah's three major universities—a meet scheduled as a "warm-up" for the Nebraska conference. The meet is scheduled for Saturday at University of California.

However, the stars from University of Utah, Brigham Young University and Utah State college indicated they were going to do their best to change the meet from a "hot." It will be the first performance of the season for the Utah Trackmen and there were no records for competition.

Headliners for the Utah team included Cy Ellsworth, B. Y. U. sprinter; Mack Speidel, Utah, hurdler; Earl Winger, Utah State, pole vaulter; and the champion, Fred Henry Bourne, B. Y. U. Big Seven conference champion half-mile; Don Anderson, Utah State, broad jumper; and Fruton Moss, distance runs.

Today the squad was going through long and heavy drilling and fielding drills. The diamond has finally rounded into shape that permits snappy infield practice and some of the boys have been showing a lot of stuff on fielding ability. The battle between Lefty Pitsen and Al Lowe still continues at first base. Harrington, of course, will be holding down second—after it's all over.

Release of the five players still left a squad of well over 50 players and the fiery pilot of the Cowboys will have to make do with the bullpen again before the club is expanded to a workable size. In fact, it is expected that from five to 10 more players will draw their 10 more during the next few days.

Long, Heavy Drills
The Blues defeated the Reds again yesterday in a full nine-inning encounter—the first full distance game of the season. Harrington put the same teams on the field that he used in the previous encounter, with different hurlers on the mound.

Chuck Pitting, Hal Brewington, Tony Mellon and Jerry Bohner took the mound.

First Cut Turns 5 Players Adrift at Cowboys' Camp

PROSSER, Wash., April 15 (Special)—The pruning shears went into action at the camp of the Twin Falls Cowboys today and Manager Andy Harrington cut adrift five players as the first cut in the big squad was made.

Handed their outright releases were: Row Yaryan, Murching, Ida, catcher; Lawrence Fowler, Arlington, Wash. pitcher; Bill Broderson, Oregon hurler; Jim Dabow, Washington pitcher, and Wallace Graser, Portland, Ore., infielder.

"The squad was getting so big that I didn't know the players who would be the best," said Manager Harrington in making the cut. "So I just had to weed out some of the less-likely looking prospects. May Have Real Talent."

"You know, some of these boys may have real talent, but to date they didn't prove it. They'll have to go. They may bob up with some other club and become outstanding stars—but that's not one of the breaks of the game. It happens in the big leagues—all the way down to the lowest minors."

Release of the five players still left a squad of well over 50 players and the fiery pilot of the Cowboys will have to make do with the bullpen again before the club is expanded to a workable size. In fact, it is expected that from five to 10 more players will draw their 10 more during the next few days.

Two Thrilling Races In Prospect for American, National

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—It's nice to be an American today. You can go to the ball park, sit in the sun and, better than bites on a hot dog, yell yourself hoarse at the visiting "bums" or the "blind umpire."

For today the baseball season opens and the American fan can forget all about Europe's toil and trouble. At least he can forget about it for two hours or more out at the ball park in sun and fresh air.

Tomorrow, it may be a different story but today all the world's sound and fury is drowned out on this side of the Atlantic.

More than 200,000 fans will sit in on baseball's grand opening in eight major league cities and thousands of others will listen in on the radio and eagerly await first returns from the opening day skirmishes. The dedicated New York Yankees, battling to regain lost laurels, got away to a flying start yesterday in the "President's special" at Washington by defeating the Senators, 3-0. President Roosevelt, in the role of the nation's No. 1 fan, tossed out the first ball and remained throughout the game with a capacity crowd of 12,000.

Baseball fever is running its highest temperature in years. Interest in the spring training camps and exhibition games indicate attendance records are likely to be approached or smashed in both leagues. More than 10,000,000 persons are expected to attend the season's games unless some unforeseen development curtails the campaign.

Two thrilling races are in prospect, with the American league looking forward to a two-team battle between the Yankees and Indians, and the National league eagerly expecting a three-club struggle between the world champion Reds, Dodgers and Cardinals.

Established Favorites
Jack Doyle, veteran Broadway prizefighter, has established the Yanks as American league favorites at 7-5 and the Reds as National league favorites at 8-5. The Indians are quoted second choices at 3-2 in their circuit and the Dodgers are given the No. 2 spot at 9-5 in the senior loop.

Two new pilots will make their bow although they have seen action before. Jimmy Yarn, world-series hero as Ernie Lombardi's substitute, has taken over the Chicago club, and Roger Peckinpaugh, who was fired as manager of the Indians in 1922 after a five-year term, is back at the Cleveland helm again. Whether happens there will be.

Harrington has been working constantly on his pitchers' wind-up and follow-through, obviously adjusting several glaring faults in Brewington's effort. He also

First aid for the troublesome short-stop position came to Harrington with the visit here yesterday of R. C. Torrance, vice-president and general manager of the Seattle Rainiers.

Torrance announced that Francis Bellows, 18-year-old infielder who was with the Cowboys for a short time last year, would attempt to win a spot with the Twin Falls club. Only 17 when playing with Twin Falls last season, Bellows was obviously nervous and it is expected that the added year's experience may make a better player out of him.

Blues Win Again

White Sox Don't Look Like Much --But They're Managed by Dykes

By HARVEY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

CHICAGO—The White Sox don't look like much.

They were hard hit by the flu. It will be some time before the streptococcus bugs in his throat will permit their star pitcher, Johnny Linn, to get back to work.

Lodigiani, whom the Athletics shipped to Toronto, is playing a third base.

Bill Knickerbocker has been dragged out of the Yankee dugout and pressed into service as a second baseman.

Thornton Lee and leadoff man.

The Sox would be tossed off rather lightly were it not for the fact that they are managed by James J. Dykes.

Some suspicion it is about time Jimmy Dykes ran out of miracles, but I doubt it.

Spending no money to speak of, Dykes, the little wisecracker with the big cigar, has built well. He is a master salesman—$75,000 from Detroit for a faded Al Simmons, for example.

Working on Humphries, Hayes Dykes engineered advantageous trades—Zekie Bonura for Joe Kuhel for instance. Clark Griffith is still kicking himself for that one, though the year Fox did well financially leasing Bananas Bonura to the Giants and Cubs.

Clayton Kucherski and Mike Treash in a six-player transaction in 1937, and two years later he became Dykes' first-string catcher.

"Me? I haven't got a thing to do with it," says Jimmy Dykes.

Castoffs suddenly get tough under baseball's top jockey, Moose Batters being a striking example.

Connie Mack gave up on big and blond Eddie Smith and bespectacled Bill Dietrich, but they are effective workmen for Dykes.

The Sox acquired Thornton Lee from Cleveland for an old bat or something, and the team has come well since. Pete Appleton quickly picked up in Pale Horse livery.

Dykes made Clint Brown one of the sport's finest relief workers, and then swapped him back to the Indians for young Johnny Humphries. Don't be surprised if Humphries and Joe Haynes, obtained from Washington, turn out to be all right.

Kennedy's Can't Get Back to Steiner Webb played plenty of second base for the south siders when Eric McNair got off on the wrong foot a year ago.

Bob Kennedy made the mistake of taking time out to nurse a slightly aching arm on the coast. Now he can't get back on the field. Given a shot in the arm by Dykes, Lodigiani is hitting so well he can't be replaced.

Dykes builds confidence in his ebullient and optimistic way.

Players are pleased to play for him. He is still one of them, although in a position of authority.

Dykes took command of one of the worst clubs in the history of the American league in 1934. He took it from last place to fifth in '35, and the Sox have since finished only and fourth since.

Jimmy Dykes, great copy and a grand fellow, has come close to doing the best managing job in baseball.

Finds Excellent split

Terrance put in his welcome appearance with Bellows in tow and the youthful infielder started right to work. Torrey said he found lots of excellent split in the Cowboy camp—with all the lads hustling.

He voiced the opinion that besides looking a very definite interest in the Cowboy club and promised all the cooperation possible from the Rainiers.

The weather threat that had been bothering for several days has broken and it has now taken on a mid-summer complexion. New improvements on the infield are really showing on the club's morale and local fans are anticipating something in the way of a regular game competition as their favorite fight for a job on Andy's hustling nine.

Census figures show that there are more deaths in the U. S. from home accidents than from appendicitis.
