The Mayor Mediates—About Corsages!

The duties of a mayor are varied and strange, if you ask us.

Some kind of hullabaloo was brewing yesterday when it was learned that nobody was supposed to purchase corsages for the junior prom. The prom, as you know, is a thing of the past and has been abandoned by the kids and lasses at Twin Falls high school.

The delegation waited on Mayor Joe Koehler.

The delegation was pretty irate. Especially the girls, who get—don't have to buy—corsages.

Hitzner scratched his head. This didn't sound exactly like anything the law books call the duties of a mayor.

But Hitzner (then acting, Off. Prof. to cover with Prince Ed Rogel, then to Orlo Williams, the eminent forest agent.)

"What worried the mayor was that some of the ladies and gents were planning a protest parade with signs, banners and what-not."

When the one-man mediation board got finished, the results were: (a) There still weren't any corsages purchased for the prom.

But—

(b) Every girl (and lady guest) and every boy (and male guest) got a carnation boutonniere!

A fresh mediation record that ought to catch the eye of bewildered Madam Prissy Perkins, whose labor day obligations has come upon hard times.

Real Cooperation Begins

Everywhere you look today you see signs that people are beginning to take the defense emergency seriously. It's about time, too.

The entire motor industry has willingly accepted an initial 20 per cent reduction in production of motor vehicles for the model year which begins Aug. 1, and is either reducing or eliminating model changes entirely. That means more man-power, more machines, more materials, facilities and management for the defense load.

All manufacturers of brass pipe are discontinuing production of yellow brass pipe, and are making red brass pipe instead, just as good for most purposes. Why? Red brass contains only 15 per cent of zinc; yellow brass 30 or 40. Extra zinc thus made available for defense equals 25,000,000 pounds of cartridge brass.

This sort of thing is going on all through industry in an increasing wave. And in the meantime, labor, too, seems to be settling down. Co-director Sidney Hillman of the office of production management believes that strikes in defense industries are dwindling, and that "labor is becoming increasingly aware of the need for cooperation."

In the meantime taxpayers (and that is practically everybody these days) are way ahead of congress in their willingness to bear the money burden in proportion to ability. If there was ever a time in history when the prospect of drastic new taxes was faced so calmly, we don't remember it.

As the German legions pound southward in the last act of the Greek tragedy, and as the Japanese invaders draw tighter the stranglehold they have on China, more Americans every day begin to think what ultimate success of these adventures means to them. Both have given ample proof that their aims go far beyond readjustment of local boundaries.

They have made the world a place in which only the strong can hope to preserve their rights, their living space, their way of life. And Europe has added the lesson that none is strong enough to fight alone.

Industry, labor, soldier and sailor, man and woman, America is beginning to fall into step in a marching cadence which means strength, the only safety for the future.

Caustic Commentary

The most caustic comment on the terrible toll from accidents which a civilized society permits every day in the year comes from James B. Forgan, Chicago Red Cross official.

Great Britain's loss of life is actually lower today, in the very face of the German bombings, than it was in peace time, says Forgan.

Does that seem impossible, when thousands are being killed by bombs? Forgan says it's true. Thousands have been trained in first aid, accident prevention, nutrition, hygiene, and sanitation. A large proportion of automobiles has been removed from the highways. Result: More lives saved than Hitler has snuffed out in months of blitz-bombing.

It shows what could be done in the peaceful United States if safety and health measures could be made as effective here as war has forced them to become in England.

Punts and Parachutes

That parachute-troop business in the army is rough stuff. Asking extra pay for officers of that branch of the service, Major W. M. Miley, commander of the first parachute battalion, summed up its casualties thus far as follows:

- 1 death
- 7 broken legs
- 2 broken shoulders
- 4 broken ankles
- 1 broken toe
- 1 broken rib
- 1 sprained leg
- 1 sprained back
- 2 sprained shoulders
- 26 sprained ankles
- 8 sprained knees
- 1 dislocated hip

The college men ought to take to this service like ducks to water. The whole summary sounds like the end of one football season.

SOCIAL ITEM: BALL PARK PERSONNEL

Pot Shots:

Out on the Cowboy ball park. I made some interesting discoveries which I herewith pass on:

These labor day obligations has come upon hard times.

(b) Every girl (and lady guest) and every boy (and male guest) got a carnation boutonniere!

A fresh mediation record that ought to catch the eye of bewildered Madam Prissy Perkins, whose labor day obligations has come upon hard times.

CHAPTER XV

BOB came to Carolyn's home because it was the quickest way for them to meet. She had matched on the first clothes available and she literally ran into the night when his car swerved to the curb. He stopped halfway out the car door, hatless, his hair uncombed, wearing not even a coat or tie. His voice was a study in misery.

"Oh, Bob!" She tried to speak calmly. "The X-999 was not on that freight train! It is still safe here in the city!"

"I helped put it on myself, yesterday morning!"

"Not you put on dummy packages?" Bob listened. "I know you don't understand, but Ken Palmer and I removed those inner leaden boxes and substituted rock! Yes, rocks!"

"But Carolyn—" He was beginning to believe, at least to hope. He gripped her shoulders now.

"I was going to tell you but you were away all day yesterday. Ken and I did our work at 2 in the morning. The start is safe."

"I—Bob, I had a sort of tip. A hunch! Don't ask me any more yet. Just come on! Let me drive!"

She ran around to the wheel and when he had collected his wits again they were well out toward their Schoenfeld laboratory.

"What are we going to do?" he asked.

"I want to stop your worrying. If you won't ask too many questions. Bob, I—oh, you must trust me! You must! I mean, about why I did it!"

He was silent for a block longer.

"Of course, Carolyn. I am so deeply grateful now that I would do anything you ask. Frankly, I am almost glad with the detour. You have no idea what a strain this has been!"

"Yes, I think I have."

SERIAL STORY

CHAPTER XVI

Carolyn looked at the laboratory compound and to the laboratory proper. He was surprised to see the color of their hired guards still on duty. "I ordered them to stay," she explained. "And paid them."

She had a key to the laboratory door. "I copied your key, Bob. Had it done. Stuck yours on chewing gum to get a mold, then used candle wax. A keymold cut one easily from that. I—forgot me, Bob! and wait!"

She led him in and the door closed behind them. For a moment they stood in semi-darkness. Only the great looming form of the Schoenfeld cyclotron assailed them, silhouetted in part against the high windows. Lesser machines, bulky and strangely ominous even by day, were lurking beasts here at night, great black forms about the vast room.

"Perhaps it is best not to turn on the main lights," she said. "Well—a desk lamp—" She crossed to the sturdy oak cabinet table where work sheets were usually spread out. In a moment she had the small light burning.

"Be—please."

"How—over. He was still in somewhat of a daze. While he transferred the box to an airplane, a powerful cabin ship now under her personal lease, with pilot awaiting orders. She held the pilot's hand.

"What are we going to do?" he asked.

"I want to stop your worrying. If you won't ask too many questions. Bob, I—oh, you must trust me! You must! I mean, about why I did it!"

He was silent for a block longer.

"Of course, Carolyn. I am so deeply grateful now that I would do anything you ask. Frankly, I am almost glad with the detour. You have no idea what a strain this has been!"

"Yes, I think I have."

HIGHLIGHTS FROM LATEST BOOKS

NEUTRAL GROUND

BY FRANK O. HOUGH

FRANK O. HOUGH makes an important contribution to the growing story of the new fiction in his latest novel, "Neutral Ground" (Lippincott, $2.76). The story is set in the "New Man's Land" between the British in New York and the American in the city. It is a story of the Westchester County, which is divided throughout the seven years by a bitter and bitter battle between brother and brother. America's war of independence was a civil war.

Restricted to a definite area, and therefore less encompassing than Kenneth Roberts' "Oliver Wiswell," though a story may find more interest because it pictures the Rebel army less as a ragged mob, without attempting to inspire the reader with blunders and personal ambitions.

Bob Trowbridge is the hero who finds time in his service with the Continental Army to romance with Kate Van Drusen, daughter of a Tory family. Bob's adventures are told in a romantic and gripping style. He is a reckless, dare-devil Rebel unit headed by old Kronkhyte, from Dyckman and John Odell, supply plenty of action. As Kronkhyte will be remembered as the hero of Hough's "If Not Victory."

Particularly important for Americans is the fact that Hough's "1776" is General Montgomery's war: "It will be a sad day for America, gentlemen, when Americans come to feel the nothingness of the world is worth more to them than their property and their peace of mind." In short, when they feel that the world is worth more to them than their property and their peace of mind.

In Washington

BY PETER EDSON

Evening Times' Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Thomas Nelson Taylor, an insurance guy who was sometimes called T. N. T., because he was worse than dynamite, was crushed, and at other times called Half Nelson because the government usually had on his back—threw down his paper and started the war machine. He got the treasury estimates of which increased taxes were going to cost him. He knew it was coming and he was prepared to buy up some of the government's defense, but he saw the day's figures, he realized fully that he was going to have to tighten his belt and loosen his purse strings till it hurt. Three billion five hundred million dollars was a lot of money for the government to be taking in increased taxes.

It wasn't just the increased income taxes estimated yield, $2,472 million, $2,500,000,000. He had expected that. And business could make out too, in spite of increased taxes on the main line. The government (estimated yield $3,545 billion).

MATCH THIS IF YOU CAN

Also, increased gift taxes and increased estate taxes (yield, $2,472 million) were all right. The more money you gave your kids and your relatives, the worse it was for them. He said out loud to himself: "I'll work, starting at the bottom, it would mean the value of a dollar is worth less than a cent."

"The dickens of it," mused T. N. T. Taylor. "That is a program like his doing things, not even a closed shop and bath lace (till he remembered that the revised tax on toilet preparations was to yield $5 million).

T. N. T. mused Mrs. T. Taylor's every minute of the day. Like my Uncle Sam, all right, but even though the old girl is in a bad way, she could out do him. He said to himself: "I'll be leaning on me like this."

T. N. T. pulled out a match. The match was worth $7.1 million from the tax on matches. He got a cigarette ($18.3 million from increased tobacco taxes). As he was going to play golf that afternoon, (club dues would yield $2.8 million) T. N. T. picked up his clubs (increased sporting goods tax would yield $1.8 million). He had carried his golf clothes in. It was old and he needed a new one. (The increased baggage tax would yield $4 million).

T. N. T. walked to his car and threw the stuff into the back seat in a hurry. He had a lot of things in it and tubes on the back seat. (Increased tire taxes would bring $32.8 million.) He stepped on the starter, and the old bus coughed and spluttered. (Gas taxes were to be increased a cent a gallon, yielding an additional $1.8 million.)

It was getting late and he had to get home.

Gooding Girl Scouts Attend Boiee Meet

GOODING, May 3 (Special)—Girl Scouts of Gooding troop No. 1 went to Boise Wednesday. When Mrs. Margaret Gooding, president of the Girl Scout movement, and Mrs. Paul Ritenhour, national president of the official visit. A luncheon was held at noon for Girl Scout leaders and Girl Scouts from four towns attended a tea at the Boy Scouts Club. The girls were to be increased so as to yield an additional eight hundred and sixty-seven million, three hundred thousand dollars. He had a lot of things in it and tubes on the back seat. (Increased tire taxes would bring $32.8 million.) He stepped on the starter, and the old bus coughed and spluttered. (Gas taxes were to be increased a cent a gallon, yielding an additional $1.8 million.)

It was getting late and he had to get home.

PORTER'S CAP MADE FAVORITE FOR DERBY

100,000 Will See Annual Classic At Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3 (AP)—The advance guard of a throng expected to make Mat Winn's dream of a 100,000 crowd come true moved at dawn today toward Churchill Downs to see lucky Charley Howard send Porter's Cap to the post at 3:45 (MST) favored to give California its first Kentucky derby winner in 67 years.

Special trains, special planes and special everything roared into the capital of the blue grass country until it bulged like an army camp. At the historic course itself, the lunch-box crowd already was settled in the infield before the $100 box-holders had stopped wondering whether Friday night's mint juleps were worth it all.

As the crowd pressed on for its two minute glimpse of the 11-horse dual in prospect, South Fourth street in downtown Louisville looked like a section of Hollywood boulevard and that accounted for the overnight shift in sentiment from the home-town favorite, Royce O. Martin's Our Boots, to the strapping Howard colt.

Two-Horse Race Most observers called it a two-horse race with the leading colt, Porter's Cap, rated in the morning edition. That question-mark was Warren Wright's Whirlaway. The government-bred son of Blenheim II was saddled by Max Baer, who brought home Bold Venture in 1936. Despite his disappointing showing in the experimental handicap at Jamaica, was the eastern favorite at 8 to 1.

Just such a disaster cost Whirlaway his last two starts in the mile derby trial last Tuesday. Porter's Cap, rated in the morning line at 2 to 1, Our Boots (8-2) and Whirlaway (5-1) faced a strong challenge from King ranch's Dipse, saddled by Max Baer, who brought home Bold Venture in 1936. Despite his disappointing showing in the experimental handicap at Jamaica, was the eastern favorite at 8 to 1.

Speedster on Base Paths

Here's Frankie Pacheco, Cowboy's speedy shortstop, in action. The young infielder collected a home run and a double, drove in three runs, scored two and started two double plays last night to spark the Cowboys to a 6-2 victory in the season's opener against Boise Pilots. (Times Photo and Engraving)

Pacheco Wins Most Prizes In Ball Opener

Besides the glory of the game, the Cowboys came in for a little cash on the side last night as they collected on various prizes set up by Twin Falls merchants as features of the opening day contest that saw the Wanderers defeat Boise, 6-2. Big winner of the evening was Frankie Pacheco, youthful shortstop, who collected $10 from Mayor Koehler for a home run, won $2.00 in merchandise from Idaho Department store for his share in a double play, got a steak dinner from Detweiler's for the same play, $5 credit at Sterling Jewelers for the most hits for the most bases, and $1 credit at Modern Bros store given to all Cowboys. His total win approximated $150 for the evening.

It was announced today that the Log Tavern would give every player who did not win a prize last night $1 in trade. Complete list of prize winners: First single, $2 from Mayor Koehler—Vernie Reynolds. First double, $3 from Mayor Koehler—Andy Harrington. First home run, $10 from Mayor Koehler—Frankie Pacheco. Winning pitching job, $5 from Mayor Koehler—Paul Piscovich. First double play, $2.00 in merchandise to each participant from Idaho Department store and steak dinner to each participant from Detweiler's—Pacheco, Harrington and A. Lowe. Most hits with most bases, $5 from Sterling Jewelers—Pacheco. First walk, suit cleaning from Paul's Laundry, $2.00 in credit at Kugler's Jewelry—A. Lowe.

The Cowboys got another in the sack of the seventh when Pacheco led off with a double. He drove home Reynolds' grounder as Pacheco went to third. Then he hit the first ball out to the outfield. Harrington got another in this inning, but there were no more scores. During all this Pacheco had the pilot eating out of his hand. They never threatened after the first inning. The first run came from a small error to let one run come in on Lowe's double and Price's single. For seven innings no Pilot bats were in the mix, when they were only two hits in that stretch—one a scratch single. Pitcher struck out nine batters in the nine-innings.

Short Program Proceeding the game a short program was presented, including presentation of President Jack Hill-well of the Pioneer League, and other notable, including the city council, directors of the local ball club and the managers of the two teams. A short "one-on-one" ball game, featuring Mayor Joe Koehler on the mound and President Frank Magel of the Cowboys behind the bat ended when Lou Chasin, who had singled, was thrown out trying to steal home.

Travis Easily Keeps Lead In Bat Race

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—Before Cecil Travis, Washington shortstop, dons his baseball uniform in exchange for Uncle Sam's khaki he's going to give the boys something to remember him by. Due to be inducted into the army in a couple of weeks, Travis is leading the American League in hitting with an average of .370 according to the figures released today and including games of Thursday.

Travis had a .186 point lead over little Don DiMaggio, Red Sox, who is hitting at the terrific clip of .405. Lee Handley, Pirates' third baseman who's been in and out of the lineup is leading the National League with an average of .428, followed by Billy Jurge, Giants' shortstop, who is hitting .420.

The other leaders follow: Hilt (A) D. DiMaggio, Red Sox, and Gordon, Yankee, 25 each; (N) Lavaretto, Dodger, 27; Runs (A) J. DiMaggio, Yankee, 22; (N) Lavaretto, Dodger, 15; Doubles—(A) J. Angels Rally To Top Seats

By United Press For about six innings last night it appeared that the San Francisco Seals were about to take another home run lead from Los Angeles, for they were sailing along with a nice 6 to 3 lead behind the three-hit pitching of Larry Jansen. But the Seals woke up in the seventh, got wise to Larry's slant, drove him to the clubhouse with a five-hit attack and before the inning was over, had led the score, principally because Johnny Moore poked a home run with Phil Weintraub aboard and in the seventh, Weintraub came to bat, having already hit safely in his previous three trips, and drove one over the fence for the winning run. The other three games were rained out.

Bees and Cards Lose Openers In Loop Play

By United Press The Salt Lake City Bees won the Pioneer league championship in 1940, but today—less than 24 hours after the 1941 opener—they share the collar with Boise and Pocatello. The Bees bowed to Ogden last night, 10 to 5, while Idaho Falls measured the Pocatello Cardinals 13 to 8 and Twin Falls whipped Boise 6 to 2.

For seven innings, the Bees were the same championship club from last year. Pitcher Al Tate held the Reds to four runs—one of them unearned—and appeared likely to triumph over the opposition and his own clubs occasionally spotty support. But in the eighth the Ogdeners got the jump. They drove in six runs before the last out was counted. Tate was succeeded by Chappie and Venturini during the inning.

While the Bees pitching staff was pitching to Ogden, a Salt Lake cast-off led Twin Falls to victory over Boise. Paul Piscovich, who wore a Bee uniform last year, allowed only seven hits and got his margin in the fourth when Pacheco, Cowboy shortstop, slapped a home run with two on.

The new Pocatello club, playing under the former St. Louis star, Bill Delaney, joined Idaho Falls in a wild struggle which produced a new basketball score. Fitcher Osh and Peters were unable to scatter the Russes' nine hits, while Simpson kept the same number; Cardinal safeties well-distributed.

White Sox 4, Yankees 1

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—The White Sox, who were leading the American League in hitting with an average of .428, followed by Billy Jurge, Giants' shortstop, who is hitting .420.

The other leaders follow: Hilt (A) D. DiMaggio, Red Sox, and Gordon, Yankee, 25 each; (N) Lavaretto, Dodger, 27; Runs (A) J. DiMaggio, Yankee, 22; (N) Lavaretto, Dodger, 15; Doubles—(A) J. DiMaggio, Yankee, 8; (N) Camilli, Dodger, 8; Slout bases—(A) D. Maggio, Red Sox, 4; (N) Fry, Red Sox, 4; Runs batted in—(A) Dorr, Red Sox, 22; (N) Camilli, Dodger, 17.

Washington staged a four-run rally in the 12th to beat the Browns, 7-4. Sid Hudson went the route for his first triumph allowing eight hits. The St. Louis Cardinals continued their blaring drive by scoring their seventh straight, a 4-2 win over the Phillies.

Whit pitched the Dodgers to a 7-3 triumph over the Cubs, notching his fourth victory. He gave up only four hits and fanned eight. The Pirates and Giants battled to a 7-7 tie called by darkness at the end of 13 innings and 3 hours and 21 minutes of play. The Giants blew a four-run lead in the eighth despite homers by Jurgis and Ott.

RAILWAY STOCKS AID MARKET GAIN

NEW YORK, May 3 (UP)—Railroad shares developed strength near the close of the stock market session today and prices generally after an irregular day. Trading was light. Wall Street anticipated a sharp rise in wheat because of reports of the situation in the Near East. Loading steel districts were active and steel prices advanced. Steel shares were fractionally lower most of the session but improved slightly near the close as demand developed for rails and coils.
