HESS CARLED TO BRITAIN, GERMAN LEADERS CLAIM

Mystery of Hess Flight Hits Battle

By JOE ALEX MORRIS
United Press Foreign News Editor

The mysterious case of Rudolf Hess threw a lengthening shadow over warring Europe today with Nazis asserting that the "tragic illusion" of Adolf Hitler's deputy included plans to return to Germany within two days and the British scolding a sinister scheme for peace on axis terms.

Both Winston Churchill and Adolf Hitler were believed likely to enter directly into the Hess affair with speeches designed to get the greatest possible propaganda benefit for their contrary viewpoints. The British prime minister may interview the No. 3 Nazi, Hess was said by the British to be talking. There was increasing hope that his words would be of military importance to Britain, although nobody knew how accurate the statements might be that Hess knew nothing of the high command's plans.

Responsible British sources increasingly leaned to the view that Hess might have been the "tragic illusion" character in a plot that only Hitler could have imagined; that he flew to Britain to try to circumvent "unconquerable" British resistance by organizing a peace movement with the funder's knowledge. Whether he acted with Hitler's consent or without Hitler's knowledge, all neutral observers who knew Hess were inclined to agree that he had acted in a "tragic" manner. It was said that the Hess flight was a "tragic" error, that the Hess flight was a "tragic" error, that the Hess flight was a "tragic" error.

Had Peace Plan
The official German explanation today, given to the foreign press but not to the German public, included a charge that Hess sought to persuade the duke of Hamilton, who now is in the R.A.F., to act as leader of a peace party in England, and that he had requested permission to China, where he was expected to return to fly back to Germany in two days.

In the house of commons, meantime, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden warned Japan that there would be no softening of British policy in the far east. Hess British interests in China were expected and asserted that the French government had permitted Germany to send troops down the Rhine river to the Mediterranean.

Eden said that British support of China would continue and that Japanese complaints regarding the British economic policy would not get, any respite unless Japan retroceded.

Negotiations Approved
In Vichy, the French council of ministers under Marshal Henri Philippe Petain approved the negotiations Vice-Premier Admiral Jean Francois Darlan is being conducting with the Germans. He gave no indication as to the results except an unofficial hint that the two countries would work to keep the United States out of the war. The French incentive toward this goal presumably would be increased because of general belief that if the United States entered the war it would immediately attempt to seize Dakar, but the method by which France would seek to keep America out was not suggested.

Unfavorable weather resulted in marked decrease in air activity over the British Isles, which suffered scattered lightning raids, and over northern Europe, where the RAF bombers were restricted to attacks on the big sea base of Heligoland, a few ships off the coast and military targets at Ostend.

The Germans sank seven dead and some damage at Heligoland, where they said no military objectives had been hit. London reported.

Mechanized Ninth Army Rolls in Review

This was part of the impressive scene at Fort Lewis, Wash., when 60,000 troops of the 3rd and 41st divisions, plus more than 3,000 trucks, armored cars, tanks and guns passed in review before Lt. Gen. John de Witt, commander of the fourth army. The review was a preliminary to the departure of a large part of the ninth army for maneuvers in California.

Army Slates Intelligence Examination

WASHINGTON, May 14 (UP)—Effective tomorrow prospective soldiers for the U. S. army will have to prove that they have the equivalent of at least a fourth grade education. The army will turn down in the future anyone who isn't aware of the fact that eight plus ten makes nine, that water won't burn regardless of how long you boil it, or that fish, for one reason or another, spend more time under water than birds.

New literacy tests will be given to all men before induction starting tomorrow. They were drawn up by army chief of staff Gen. George C. Marshall said, in effect, that the army doesn't want recruits in its ranks with the presence of anyone who hasn't the equivalent of a fourth grade education.

BOMBED

DUMFRIES, Conn., May 14 (UP)—The Wurdig family had a rough time today as a Victoria was bombed from the air. Three Wurdig sisters, Louise, 10, Lorraine, 12, and Maureen, 8, escaped injury yesterday when a lead weight fell from the antenna of a "living fortress" bomber on the Wurdig home, a two-story, brick, white, single-story house, and bounced against the wall. The three sisters were within a few feet of where the weight hit.

Ten High-Average Youths Win Flight Scholarships

Making the highest averages of any students ever to compete in Twin Falls, and showing great grades, 10 students of the local civilian pilot training program today were selected for flight scholarships at the municipal airport.

Thirty-two students, who have been attending classes for two and a half weeks, took the final OAA written examination on ground school work last night at the farm labor camp classroom. The examination was given under the direction of federal and local course officials. Of the 32 taking the three-hour test, 22 received grades of passing (70 or better) and nine failed. Six students, all in the non-competitive bracket, took the test and three passed.

Following are the 10 flight scholarship winners with the grade each received:

World War I Hero Hits at Draft Rules

JAMESTOWN, Tenn., May 14 (UP)—Alvin C. York lashed out today at a 1941 draft regulation that would have kept him out of action in World War I. He said that the regulation required that a soldier have the equivalent of a fourth grade education.

York, now chairman of the Tennessee county draft board—and a champion of education when it doesn't concern a man's right to fight. With nothing better than a second grade education, he managed to wipe out a German machine gun outfit in single-handed.

"I just think," York said, "that if a man is a loyal American citizen, he ought to be allowed to fight for his country regardless of his grade and education."

He said he checked over lists of the boys who fought at Kings Mountain and with Andy Jackson at New Orleans you wouldn't find a fourth grade education.

RADIO PRESIDENT QUILTS U. S. POST

ST. LOUIS, May 14 (UP)—Resignation of Mark Eldridge, former president of the National Association of Broadcasters, from his post as director of governmental survey of the radio industry was seen today as an indication of the bitterness of the struggle between the NAB and the federal government over control of the industry.

President Roosevelt's report of the federal communication commission. He said that as a result of the commission's ruling directing drastic changes in relations between major networks and outlets he felt it would be useless for him to continue the job. He said the survey had just begun and he had "only sent out two preliminary letters."

Nazis Assert No. 3 Man Planned Return Flight

BRITISH WARNED AGAINST SINISTER TRICK BY NAZIS

By EDWARD W. BATTIE, JR.
LONDON, May 14 (UP)—Great Britain was warned today to beware the possibility that Adolf Hitler was using his personal deputy, Rudolf Hess, in a sinister trick designed to win the war by trojan horse methods.

Although Hess was said to be talking freely and Prime Minister Winston Churchill was expected to interview him in the British press emphasized belief that the long-standing loyalty of the No. 3 Nazi to his Führer might indicate that Hitler had sent him on a fantastic flight to Britain to create a "false scent."

That attitude, some British sources believed, was likely to be intensified by a sudden shift in the Nazi statement about Hess which put emphasis on his past "patriotism" and on Hitler's past declarations in favor of a "reasonable" peace.

ISLAND ATTACKED
BERLIN, May 14 (UP)—Two British bombers attacked Heligoland island in the North sea last night, killing several civilians, wounding several, and causing slight property damage but not to any military or economic objective, the official news agency said today.

BERLIN, May 14 (UP)—Rudolf Hess flew to Great Britain in the belief he could pave the way for peace through influential British friends, including the duke of Hamilton, and he expected them to enable him to fly back to Germany within two days, Nazis asserted today after studying papers left by the No. 3 Nazi.

Hess apparently hoped to persuade the duke of Hamilton, on whose estate he landed by parachute, to lead a peace party in England, according to the claims in official sources, but he had "no knowledge" of the war plans of the Nazi high command.

Hess' papers revealed that he expected the British to furnish him credits for the gasoline necessary for his return to Germany after he had convinced them of the "folly of their rulers," it was stated.

It was said to have written that he did not desire to speak with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill, but he would accept "any direct stance."

Hess had "no knowledge" of war plans of the German military leadership, the statement said. "As these are well known are accessible only to a very few persons."

The No. 3 Nazi, however, was acquainted with information in the possession of the reich that war would be ended "only by the defeat and destruction of England."

Authorized sources put much emphasis on the fact that Hess was under the impression that he could promote peace before the British entered the war.

"Hess was fixed by the messianic idea that by an audacious personal undertaking he could achieve cooperation between the two great Germanic nations—Germany and England," it was explained.

Governor Denies State Will Absorb Costs of Liquor

PRICE MARK-UP TO BE RETAINED AT 55 PER CENT

BOISE, May 14 (U.S.)—Gov. Chase A. Clark today denied reports the state's markup on the wholesale price of liquor will be reduced from 55 per cent to 35 per cent to absorb a new 20 per cent state levy.

At the same time, Idaho Liquor Department Superintendent Fred Davis said retail price of liquor purchased from the state-owned monopoly would increase "about five cents to the dollar when we get around to making out a new price schedule."

The increase in price will represent a net gain to the state because the former state liquor board declined to absorb rather than pass it on to the customer.

Clark said a statement, attributed to Davis, that the state's margin on liquor would be reduced was erroneous. The incident occurred earlier this week when the state board of examiners approved claims of liquor distillers for goods purchased by the dispensary.

The new claims revealed a 20 per cent increase in the wholesale price and showed that distillers had included the amount of the state tax in establishing their net prices.

No Profit Charge

"I want to say emphatically that no change in the profit on liquor will be made that will in any way effect the revenue now received by the schools, cities and counties," the governor stated.

The new price schedule would reduce liquor revenues to schools, cities and counties would have been less because they and the state divide profits equally.

"The only person who will suffer by reason of the tax on liquor will be the person who drinks it," Clark said. "If the price in price prohibits them from drinking it, they will be that much better off."

Defer Buying of Columbia Lands, Idahoans Advised

Plans it from the Spokane Chamber of Commerce and the U. S. bureau of reclamation, it's not wise to purchase lands at present in the Columbia basin irrigation project.

W. P. Bomans, secretary of the Columbia basin committee of the Spokane organization, advised Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce officials today that the reclamation bureau has issued a warning against activities of certain land companies.

The Columbia basin project won't have water available until at least 1944, he said, and "purchase this far in advance would seem ill-advised." He asserted that certain land companies are "misrepresenting the facts."

The Spokane warning advised potential land buyers to Magie Valley that there will not be any skyrocketing of Columbia land prices, because the government has fixed appraisal values.

MEN IN UNIFORM MOLEST PICKETS

(From Page One)

Smith, who has been assigned to protect the pickets, apparently was Watson's answer. The servicemen gathered late last night in LaFayette park, across the street from the White House. When they started to cross the street, Smith came out of the White House grounds, ordered them to attention and told them:

"You men like myself are wearing the uniform of the United States and when you do that you've got to be orderly."

"When the pickets suggested that they might return in civilian clothes, Smith answered:

"In uniform or out, the White House is a military installation and when you are in uniform you are to be orderly and when you are in civilian clothes, you are to be respectful."

Then men returned to the park and when one insisted upon trying to get them to try to break up the picket line again, Smith returned and ordered him out of the park.

The unidentified soldier refused to leave and Smith seized him by the collar and rushed him to the White House guard room. He later was turned over to Fort Meyer, Va., military authorities.

The pickets, meanwhile, continued their march.

Mama's a Pony, Baby's a Mule

Hazel Mae Bernard, 13-year-old Hansen girl, is the proudest young lady in Hansen these days. Her trained pony, Ginger, has become a mother—and the baby is a mule colt. (Times Photo and Engraving)

Pony Has Mule Colt and Stirs Owner, 13, to Poem

When a trained pony has a family and the family turns out to be a mule colt—Hansen residents figure it's unusual enough to be worth boasting about.

And the 13-year-old owner of the pony and the baby mule thought it was so unusual that she set down and composed a poem about the new arrival.

Hazel Mae Bernard, Hansen, the proud young owner. The pony in the case is named Ginger; the mule colt will either be named Andy. Hazel Mae hasn't decided which.

The colt is frisky and very leggy. He has a band of white above his nostrils in the same spot as his mother.

Hazel Mae figured out just how to make her colt unique. She says no other baby mule in America has ever had a poem printed about him. The editor didn't have the heart to refuse. Here's what Hazel

Mae wrote about "My Pony's Colt":

I have a trained pony I have taken pains to groom,
And what do you think she found
This spring? A little baby mule
I was in hopes he'd be spotted but
I'm sure I feel all right
For he has a cute little body and both hind legs are white.
His ears are like a rabbit's, his legs are long as can be.
But oh! He is so very cute I'm afraid
he belongs to me.

For a name for my colt I have tried to think
And I've thought of Jingles, Ginger
and Blink.
But I've found that my colt is much too small
So none of these names will do at all.
But I know that he will be such a dandy
I've decided to name him Amos or Andy.

HOUSE APPROVES PARITY PAYMENT

WASHINGTON, May 14 (UP)—The house has adopted a conference report on a bill guaranteeing farmers at least 85 per cent of parity prices on wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco and rice.

The bill would achieve this by increasing the government's price-pegging loans on these crops to the 85 per cent level. Together with cash benefits paid by the government to farmers who cooperate in the farm programs, this apparently will assure them full parity return on the 1941 crops.

Also according to farm experts, it will increase retail food costs 10 per cent or more.

Early in the price fixing process must receive in order to have the same purchasing power, in terms of non-farm products, that they had in 1910-14.

Proponents of the bill argued it was the "cheapest" method of aiding the farmer.

The alternate method, it was pointed out, was a $450,000,000 cash grant for parity, which the senate put into the 1941 agriculture appropriation bill, which is in dispute with the house.

Federal and state gasoline taxes, standing at an estimated $1,116,000,000, amounted to 60 per cent of the 1940 automotive tax burden.

Feller Cool as Yankees, Fans Apply Full Pressure

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, May 14 (U.P.)—They may be able to steal signals from Bob Feller, but the time has passed when they can't get his goat.

seen enough of his fireball and his lightning curve. They tried a little psychology on him. In the eighth inning Phil Rizzuto laid down a bunt along the first base line. In the old days Feller would have fielded it and thrown it away. He made a perfect play for a close out. But he tried the same thing. The bunt rolled out toward the box and Feller picked it up cleanly and rifled it to Hal Trout for the out.
