BELLEVUE BUDGET LOWERED

LaGuardia Named to Head U. S. Civilian Defense Efforts

Voluntary Basis to Be Followed in New Organization Set-up

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt today created the office of civilian defense to mobilize full powers of civilians for home defense efforts and named Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York as its director. LaGuardia will retain his post as mayor of New York. The OGD, which will give every American man, woman and child an opportunity to do his or her "bit" for the defense effort, will be organized under the office of emergency management on a strictly voluntary basis, the President said. He disclosed that he signed the executive order setting up the new agency this morning. LaGuardia will arrive in Washington tomorrow to get the program under way. Under terms of the executive order, decentralization will be the operating basis of the new agency. The federal OGD will recommend and guide, but actual administration will be centered in state councils of defense and in OGD regional offices. Mr. Roosevelt envisaged a regional system under which regional offices will be established in nine cities corresponding with the nine corps areas of the army. Two chief divisions were set up in OGD: 1. A board of civilian protection, with LaGuardia as chairman ex-officio presiding over representatives of the war and navy, justice and federal security departments, representatives of the council of state governments, the American Municipal Association, and the U. S. Conference of Mayors. A committee participation committee, with LaGuardia also chairman ex-officio, presiding over a membership of not more than 20 members. LaGuardia, as other officials of OGD, will serve without compensation. The President envisaged local cooperating units financing any training programs that might be needed. He said that financing in the event of such a need would be through the Washington OGD office and regional offices will be defrayed from his own personal expenditures. He indicated, however, that he expects ultimately to ask congress for appropriations to meet these relatively minor needs and to finance the presidential emergency fund. The executive order directed LaGuardia, with the assistance of the OGD, to advise and to advise measures to "afford adequate protection of his and property in the event of an emergency." He was charged with sponsoring and carrying out programs calling for recruiting and training of civilian auxiliaries. MRS. LINDBERGH BACKS ENGLAND

NEW YORK, May 20 (AP)—Anne Morrow Lindbergh, wife of Charles A. Lindbergh, said in the Atlantic Monthly today that she favors the United States to Britain in the questions whether "prolongation of the war will contribute to the survival of the United States." She reviewed what she called the evils of Europe—suppression of free speech and free action, relinquishing of individual rights to one person, unrestricted use of force and terrorism, class warfare and racial and religious persecution, and said: "I note with growing concern their rise here, following like a steady thermometer the rise of war fever. It is because I suppose these evils flow from the bottom of my heart that I oppose war. I believe our entering the war abroad, and that we are not prepared either externally or internally will be the quickest way of bringing these evils upon us. It is for this reason I have opposed our entrance into the war. I believe we should help England. I have drawn two days ago and have love and admire... but my mind asks me if the prolongation of the war will contribute to their survival."

Officers Probe Throat Slashing

Because an itinerant Mexican had his throat slashed early today with a knife at or near Contact, Nev., but he did not know who had slashed him, Twin Falls police this afternoon were conducting a long-distance investigation. The Mexican, who gave his name as Miguel Mora, was brought to the local police station this morning by Sgt. Walter R. Goddard of the OGD camp located 14 miles south of Contact. The trip from the camp to town was made in a OGD truck. Mora is California. The Mexican, who gave his age as 39 and his residence, as Sacramento, Calif., came to the camp about 6:30 a. m. today with his throat slashed. Sgt. Goddard said. He was given first aid by the camp physician and was immediately transported to Twin Falls, being brought to the police station here at 10:50 a. m. Mora was apparently unable to speak. He was brought to the office of J. L. Primo as interpreter. Mora told Primo that he didn't know who came to his camp and slashed because he was drunk at the time. He said that he had left Wells, Mo., about two days ago and had come to Contact, accompanied by another Mexican by the name of (Continued on Page 3, Column 2)

FRENCHMEN WILL RESIST ATTEMPTS TO SLICE EMPIRE

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—French Ambassador Gaston Henry-Haye today informed Secretary of State Cordell Hull that France will resist any attempt to take over any part of her empire anywhere. He protested the United States' action in placing coast guards on French ships in American waters. Henry-Haye's statement was believed directed at suggestions that the United States should take over French possessions in the western hemisphere and perhaps the strategic port of Dakar in French west Africa. He said he told Hull that the French government could not recognize any declaration aimed at the seizure of French possessions anywhere by anyone. Henry-Haye said that the primary purpose of his call was to give some clarification of the "emotional" situation which had arisen in the United States and which, he said, was unjustified because nothing that has been done goes beyond the terms of the Franco-German armistice. Those terms, he told reporters, give Germany and Italy full rights to use French air fields. It is under that article, he said, that French and Italian planes are using air bases in Syria in their attack on British troops in Iraq. He said that the United States had given a strong warning to the French government not to follow the lead of the Vichy government in a policy of cooperation with Axis powers. It was asserted that the United States had threatened "some sort of retaliatory measure" if Indo-China did cooperate with the axis. Yumuri, in a dispatch from Hanoi, Indo-China, said the alleged warning had caused the Chinese government to sympathize to the Vichy government's policy and at the same time, an "attempt to disturb Japanese-Indo-China rapprochement." The United States, the dispatch said, regarded the prospect of Japanese cooperation with Indo-China seriously because of Indo-China's political, economic and strategic importance in the south Pacific. The dispatch predicted the Indo-China would "flatly reject" the alleged American threat.

American Is Acting Chief Of Peru Navy

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Capt. William M. Quigley of Brewster, N. Y., who went to Peru as chief of the U. S. naval mission, has taken on another job—chief of the Peruvian navy. The president of Peru appointed him chief of Peruvian naval operations in the absence of Admiral Carlos Rotondo, on tour of U. S. naval stations in this country along with other Latin American naval chiefs. Admiral Rotondo is expected to remain in the United States for some time. Capt. Quigley still remains in charge of the U. S. naval mission in Peru and he retains his commission in the U. S. navy. The navy department, which announced the appointment, said that move was not "unusual."

JAPAN REPORTS THREAT BY U. S.

TOKYO, May 20 (AP)—Newspapers reported today that the United States had given a strong warning to the French government not to follow the lead of the Vichy government in a policy of cooperation with Axis powers. It was asserted that the United States had threatened "some sort of retaliatory measure" if Indo-China did cooperate with the axis. Yumuri, in a dispatch from Hanoi, Indo-China, said the alleged warning had caused the Chinese government to sympathize to the Vichy government's policy and at the same time, an "attempt to disturb Japanese-Indo-China rapprochement." The United States, the dispatch said, regarded the prospect of Japanese cooperation with Indo-China seriously because of Indo-China's political, economic and strategic importance in the south Pacific. Off Again, on Again—FDR Changes 1942 Thanksgiving

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt decided today that his experiments in changing the date of Thanksgiving have been a failure and that beginning in 1942 the holiday again will be established on its traditional date—the last Thursday in November. The President said that Thanksgiving day this year "will be proclaimed for the next to last Thursday in November because it now is too late to revise previous commitments to calendar makers and other groups. But next year, he said, he will proclaim Thanksgiving day for the final Thursday of November, the day on which the holiday had been celebrated until 1939 when he changed it. His original move, he said, was made at the earnest solicitation of retailers and retail agencies who felt that Thanksgiving and Christmas fell too close together. For some time the President said, the department of commerce and the U. S. conference of mayors have conducted surveys to discover whether retail business actually had been assisted. In general, they found that the large majority of retail stores reluctantly agreed that the change had not made much difference, he said.

Britain Places Sea Power In North Atlantic Areas

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Great Britain is concentrating sea power in the north Atlantic at the expense of other maritime areas and that fact explains the relative safety of aid-to-Britain goods en route from North American ports, it was indicated today by a well-informed source. The information was accompanied by suggestions that Great Britain is far from content with the security of the seas in general, although the situation in the north Atlantic unquestionably has improved. President Roosevelt at his regular press conference today appeared indirectly to support the foregoing information when he was asked by a questioner whether he had any statement to make regarding the possibility of German convoys to deliver defense materials. Mr. Roosevelt disavowed any intention of sending a special message to congress on international affairs, but acknowledged he has discussed the possibility with congressional leaders yesterday. Reports prevailed that he shortly would assume a more positive leadership of defense activity, partly to arouse the nation in its assistance to the administration regarding an increasingly dangerous emergency.

Straw Hats Ushered in; Sun Shines!

It was strange, observers pointed out, but Twin Falls residents observed a previously planned event today and the sun was shining all the time. The event was the annual Straw Hat day, which featured a downtown parade led by the American band from the local club and other members of the "latest" in spring and summer headgear for the male. The parade attracted crowds of thousands in the line of march. In addition to the band, was a city fire truck, city firemen, various representatives of local and state organizations all decked out in straw hats. W. I. McFarland, of the merchant's bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, and J. H. Blanford, in charge of arrangements for the observance.

U. S. INVESTIGATES PRICES FOR GAS

BOISE, May 20 (AP)—Thurman Arnold, chief of the department of justice anti-trust division, today informed Gov. C. Clark "the matter of gasoline prices in Idaho, as well as throughout the country, has been under investigation by the department for a long time." He submitted to Clark a complaint of members of the Boise American ambulance corps unit bound for Korea with $26,000 worth of equipment, including 20 ambulances, field kitboxes, and 3-ray trailers.

Axis Troops Drop On Greek Island; Battle Defenders

LONDON, May 20 (AP)—German parachute and air-transported troops made a spectacular landing on the Mediterranean island of Crete today and battled British and Greek defenders in one of the boldest over-water offensives of the war. In a possible rehearsal for a future attempt to invade England by air and sea, the Germans flew 70 miles over the sea from conquered Greece and landed forces that were reportedly strong enough to develop an important battle with the defenders although some of them were quickly eliminated. "A number already have been accounted for," a British communiqué issued at Cairo said, without detailing the exact military situation. A fleet of German Junkers 52 planes was understood to have rescued the army of paratroopers on the Greek island in the first real test of air-borne attack since Crete was taken. The attack also was the first real encounter of British Imperial with a major parachute invasion although they have dealt with paratroopers in Belgium, Greece and elsewhere. Heavy Offensive There was no information as to the exact number of troops involved but the German attack was said to be the heaviest parachute offensive of the war. (Some estimates put the number of British-Greek defending troops on Crete at 50,000 to 60,000 men.) The German attack began after several days of increasingly severe air bombardment of Crete bases and air fields, especially Suda bay from which British warships were understood to be operating. "The British troops were 'kissed' at the Nazi offensive," a British communiqué said, "and neither the British nor other forces were able to meet it more effectively than they have been offering stern resistance. The Nazis troops may have been transported both from Greece and from the Italian Dodecanese islands, which are only about 50 miles east of Crete. British dispatches made no mention of any German water attack on Crete, which is the seat of the Greek government, since the British fleet was understood to be guarding the water approaches to the island and normally would be in a position to smash any surface craft that either the Germans or the Italians might put into the water. Crete is of great strategic importance as a naval base in the eastern Mediterranean, lying adjacent to the axis pathway to Syria and commanding the route across the Mediterranean from Greece toward the Suez canal. The British had made preparations to defend it to the end with naval forces, airplanes and coastal artillery.

CLARK MAY SET DATE FOR IDAHO SPECIAL SESSION

BOISE, May 20 (AP)—Gov. Chase A. Clark said today he may first set a date for a special session of the Idaho legislature after conferring with legislators in the next few days. Clark said the call for a special session has delayed by legislation which would be required to fulfill Idaho's part in the civilian defense program, set up today by President Roosevelt. The governor disclosed he was awaiting word from Washington, D. C., to determine whether any new law would be needed to put the civilian mobilization plan in operation in the state. "The prospect of a special session has delayed my program moving departments," he said, "the state which have been pending outside the legislature after conferring with legislators on a special session up with legislators around the state, I don't want to go to the expense of having a special session unless there is a general feeling there should be one. "The part the state will play in the national defense program will require a special session by itself." Previously Clark indicated he would call a special session to enact a law permitting the state to fix the price of gasoline and to obtain an increased allocation for old age pensions and other relief work.

Wednesday in the Buhl cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Hedge are former residents of Buhl. William was born at Hailey. Surviving in addition to the parents is a sister, Betty Joan Hedge, Hailey.

GERMANS REPORT ATTACK ON CRETE

BERLIN, May 20 (AP)—The high command said today that the Luftwaffe had made a powerful attack on the island of Crete, where dive-bombers set fire to a British cruiser of the York class, destroyed a dozen British war planes and battered the air field. (The York class cruisers are of 2,500 tons and carry 4 normal complement of 600 men. The York was built in 1928. London reported a German parachute attack was believed started at Crete.) Crete is the principal British naval base which was held after the Greek collapse. Both British and Greek forces are on the island. The communiqué said that six British Hurricanes were shot down during the attack and six others were destroyed on the ground. The official news agency described the attacks on Crete as heavy.

BRITISH LAUNCH AIR AND LAND ATTACK ON IRAQ

DUKE OF AOSTA FORMALLY GIVES UP EAST AFRICA

By FREDERICK KUH
 LONDON, May 20 (U.P.)—British forces launched a combined land and air attack on the Iraqi army today, it was said authoritatively today.

British troops entered Faluljah, 35 miles west of Baghdad on the Euphrates, where Iraqi forces had strengthened themselves by flooding the swampy countryside, at 2 p. m. yesterday, it was said.

British planes, it was made known, began dropping pamphlets demanding that the Iraqi forces surrender the areas which they held.

The British offensive obviously was designed for a quick knockout of the Iraqi in an effort to regain control of the great Mosul oil fields before the Axis could move strong forces into the near east.

Formal Surrender
 The Basra and Habbaniya sectors as well as the western Egyptian fronts were reported relatively quiet, but the formal surrender today in Ethiopia of the duke of Aosta, supreme Fascist commander in Ethiopia, released British forces there for participation in the defense of the middle east.

The duke of Aosta and his staff, who were permitted to surrender formally at Amba Alaja at noon today, were taken to Italian prisons that area as prisoners but only minor resistance continued in southern Ethiopia.

About 10,000 men surrendered at Amba Alaja yesterday.

Faluljah Falls
 The Iraqis at Faluljah, it was made known, surrendered after British planes had bombed and machine gunned them.

With their capture of the town, the British forces now control that important crossing of the Euphrates, and a continued advance toward Baghdad, the capital, would present only a few topographical difficulties, though a crossing of the Tigris would be necessary.

Eloek said authoritatively that there was no confirmation of axis reports that Iraqi troops had invaded Trans-Jordan.

Rancher and Dog Who Saved Him

E. J. McNece, 73, Eden rancher, is shown patting "Pudge," the pet dog which saved his life Sunday by baying a bull which had thrown McNece to the ground and had rolled him some 30 feet. Recovering from his injuries, McNece got out of bed and outside his house so that a picture above could be taken. "Pudge" had been trained not to enter the house and no amount of begging would bring results so Mr. McNece dressed and came outside. "I'd do anything for that dog," he said.

PRINCESS OUSTER PROCEEDINGS END

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20 (U.P.)—Deposition proceedings against Princess Stefanie Holtenlohe, renounced friend of high-placed Nazis, have been dropped and she will be allowed to remain in the United States. She gave the government "interesting information" and promised to "cooperate" in the future.

Stefanie moved back to her luxurious Palo Alto apartment last night after having been held in the San Francisco immigration station since March 8.

She smiled and shook hands with newspapermen as she left the immigration station with Maj. Lemuel B. Schofield, director of the U. S. immigration service.

Her lawyer, Attorney General Jackson, said in these anxious times he could find time to give such careful consideration to my case.

Maj. Schofield was asked whether he could explain the "interesting" information she had given.

"Obviously not," he said.

Stefanie was ordered deported last December, when her visitor's permit expired. She was placed under technical arrest on Jan. 13, and on March 8 was removed from her apartment to the immigration station.

EUROPE'S WEEDS PESTER AMERICA

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Dr. M. L. Fernald of Harvard university, the annual report of the Smithsonian Institution says that more than a thousand European "weeds" have invaded America in the past three centuries.

In their native lands many of them were lovely flowers, but in this country they have become pests. Dr. Fernald said an example is the St. James-weed, one of the beautiful plants of the British hillside. About 70 years ago this species appeared in Nova Scotia, and by 1900 it had become one of the most common plants of the country.

Farmers in that locality rechristened it "Sinking Willie" and now it is feared as a pest in Massachusetts.

The "weed army" enters the United States with every arrival of unclean European seeds, in stockings, trouser bottoms, skirt-hems, and blankets of immigrants and travelers, also in the litter and old straw used in packing from abroad.

Dr. Fernald said:

"The devil's palmbrush," a lovely plant with purple and scarlet blossoms, which was highly prized in New England gardens a half century ago, now is a weed.

Dr. Fernald said "the palmbrush" has ruined thousands of acres of field and clearing from the New England coast to Michigan and southward to Pennsylvania.

"These weeds are more of a menace than common, but purely injurious species, such as poison ivy, fireweed and pennyroyal, which are not only a pest to the farmer, but with many of the European weeds," he said.

Aid Industries, Don't Attack Them, Regional Group Urged

Eloek made his remarks at last night's session of the regional chamber, which was held at the Park Hotel. They followed discussion of gasoline prices in Idaho, which again came before the group although at the last session at Carey it was decided to table the matter.

The local chamber leader recalled that the organization first was "fighting" the Union Pacific and might make them the Idaho Power company and its desire to gain more electrical energy by utilizing springs in the Snake river canyon, and "run the gasoline concern."

Too Many Attacks
 "I can't for the life of me see why we must attack all these things," Eloek said. "It seems to me that as a regional group we should be working for the benefit of all communities and should be addressing our scenic and business benefits in this portion of the state."

Eloek declared that his organization kept up "we will fight ourselves" trying to regulate everything and some day it will strike home.

"At this point Ray Holmes, representative of an oil concern and regional chamber member, declared that the actions of Gov. Clark in "jumping" on the gasoline concern before him had some big industry to jump on because it makes good publicity.

"We are getting a precedent here and the wonder is, when is it going to stop? It's something to think about," he said.

Holmes then started to discuss gasoline rates but, Eloek, calling for a pause, declared that "we've talked this gas thing so let's skip it."

Earlier Approval
 Prior to this time, before Eloek and Holmes spoke, the association had voted to send Gov. Clark a letter telling him that the chamber approved of his efforts to investigate the gasoline price situation.

Previously, after at the session was Earl W. Murphy, Holmes, secretary of the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce. His topic was reclamation.

The speaker declared that "substantial" progress is being made in Washington in the reclamation program of the state.

War Spirit Hurts
 "At that," Murphy said, "it is very difficult for senators and representatives from Idaho to steer this program through a congress which here and breathes in a spirit of war. Nearly 45 million dollars has been spent in Idaho on reclamation since 1909. In the eyes of the Senate, it is money spent that can't seem to get it through their heads that practically all of this amount has been returned."

"During the present situation in Washington, as is observed on a recent trip, Murphy said:

"There are literally hundreds of

Wickard Calls Farm Vote May 31

Declaring safe management of the country's large wheat supplies an important defense measure, Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard (above) has proclaimed a marketing quota for wheat and has announced May 31 as the date of a referendum at which wheat farmers will mark ballots such as the one shown to determine whether quotas shall continue in effect on the big 1941 crop. Marketing quotas are provided by the AAA farm program, and enable farmers to store their surplus for use as needed. Wickard said. All Magic Valley wheat growers are eligible to vote in the referendum.

OFFICERS UP FOR COURT MARTIAL

PENSACOLA, Fla., May 20 (U.P.)—Two young naval officers were called before a court martial today, charged with decapitating a farm woman while stunting their service airplane.

Not only their naval careers but their liberty was at stake. The court, composed of seven officers, may sentence them to as much as 10 years in a federal prison for manslaughter, or they could be demoted and dishonorably discharged from the service.

The men are Ensign J. E. Thompson, 29, of Herculesburg, Calif., and Ensign Paul Brown, 27, of Chicago. Authorities of Baldwin county, Fla., where Mrs. Robert Phillips was decapitated in a turnip field March 25, said that if the officers were acquitted by the military court, they would be tried in the Alabama civil courts.

Germans Strike at Strategic British Stronghold in Crete

By United Press
 The Germans, in attacking Crete, have struck at one of the most strategic British strongholds in the eastern Mediterranean. It is a bold stroke, one of the boldest the Germans have yet made in that area.

The attack looks more like a gamble than anything Hitler customarily undertakes, because he has the British navy to contend with, it is because of the British navy that Hitler did not attempt to transport troops by sea, even across the narrow 70 miles which separate the island from the Greek peninsula.

Instead, he sent his troops by air and landed them by parachute. That in itself is evidence of the air strength Hitler has been able to mass in the eastern Mediterranean to match the royal air force in the struggle for the near east.

Fleet vs. Air
 It is thus the air versus fleet issue which has been raised again. Hitler is banking on his air force being capable of overcoming the handicap of the fleet, which is capable of isolating the island and cutting it off from any source of supply or communication except by air.

The obvious reason for Hitler's move is that Crete, occupied by the British and Greek forces routed from Greece, is a real menace to his campaign in north Africa and Asia Minor. Crete is an outpost from which British ships and planes can operate over comparatively short distances from the scene of enemy operations.

A look at the map shows its strategic location. It is near the Italian Dodecanese islands, which flank the Turkish coast, and only 250 miles from the fortified Italian island of Rhodes.

It is 200 miles from Derna, in Libya, and less than 250 from besieged Tobruk. It is 450 miles from Alexandria and 800 from Fort Said, at the entrance to the Suez canal. It is 350 miles from the Dardanelles, placing the straits also within easy bombing distance.

Crete therefore is a menace which Hitler needs to get out of his path, not only to prevent it being used as a base to harry German and Italian supply lines and bases, but to use it himself as a much closer approach to north Africa.

How much of the British fleet is at Suda bay, the island's only available anchorage, is problematical. Because Suda bay, on the north side of the island, is so easily accessible to German bombers from Greece, it is possible that many important units are there, but operating in nearby waters. (A Berlin communique claimed damage to a cruiser of the York type.)

There are some minor harbors besides Suda bay, but nothing at all on the south shore of the island. The British have laid out some fairly good air fields, but not as good as might be wished. The island is mostly mountainous and available sites are few.

Century Club Presents Figures to Boise Home

Those bits of enchantment, fashioned of celluloid and oil paints and ingenuity for the annual May breakfast of the Twentieth Century club, will not be relegated to storage bins.

They are being sent this week to the Children's Home at Boise, where they will interpret for the children, the magic that is found in the Walt Disney production, "Fantasia."

Accompanying the figures, that the children will "dearly love," is a child's story book, beautifully illustrated, and telling in the language of boys and girls, the various stories of "Fantasia." The book was contributed by Mrs. Edith McDonald Graham.

The book contains six stories, one concerning Baby Pegasus, in illustration of "Fantasia," another, the Dewdrop Fairies, representative of "The Nutcracker Suite," Mickey Mouse, "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," the prehistoric animals, "Rite of Spring," ostrich ballet, "Dance of the Hours," and such creatures, "Night on Bald Mountain."

And the white candles have bases shaped just like tulips. This idea could be carried out interestingly with red tulips and ruby glass or bronze tulips and amber glass.

Annual Garden Show to Be Held Here June 5th

With classifications and sections more than double the number last year, the Twin Falls Garden club is making elaborate plans for the second annual flower show, to be staged Thursday, June 5, at the Twin Falls public library.

Both basement rooms will be utilized this year, to accommodate the additional entries anticipated, according to Mrs. O. T. Koster, general chairman.

There were 22 classifications, with 106 entries last year, and the paid attendance during the six hours of the show was 300. Mrs. Koster commented that if the exhibits remain in good condition, the flower show may be kept open two days. This year, there are 48 classifications.

Results Far-Reaching

The purpose of the flower show is to educate the community to understand the value and far-reaching effect of flowers, trees and shrubs.

"The interest created and its relation to the good of every citizen, as well as the value of the show, is what we really wish to see," Mrs. Koster commented.

The following sections have been arranged:

Roses, peonies, delphinium, iris, miscellaneous, baskets, artistic arrangements, 11 classifications, cactus, children's, men's (special arrangements).

SOUTH IDAHO FANS MISS MANY THRILLS BY NOT ATTENDING TRACK AND FIELD MEETS...

TIMM HOLDS OLDEST RECORD

The sports fans of south central Idaho don't know what they are missing when they just about 100 per cent refuse to attend track and field meets.

You can go to nearly any other sector of the country and see from 500 to 1,000 high school track and field meets—but not in south central Idaho. Here even the papas and mamas won't come out to see their off-spring win a sensational race.

What can be the reason for this? And it wasn't the fact that the biggest crowd for the event—hand-come Hank Powers says—was the biggest crowd he ever saw in south Idaho for a track meet.

Now, in a football game, if some player on your team makes a long run—you have something to stand up and cheer about, and probably hold your breath. But the changes are that such a long run won't happen more than once in a half century.

baseball game isn't really exciting until the last four minutes of play—if the score is close.

DOGGERS DROP THIRD IN ROW

Athletics Tip Indians; White Sox Advance

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK, May 20 (AP)—

The Brooklyn Dodgers, no longer leading the National league, appeared today to be keeping company with a genuine slum. They've lost three in a row and had their "big three" of Kirby Higbe, Whit Wyatt and Hugh Casey beaten in succession. All failed to finish and the three of them allowed a total of 24 runs in three days.

The Cubs were hitting yesterday and slugged the Dodgers, 14-1. Unable to handle the Cubs on a straight field, the Dodgers have switched their tactics to technicalities. Manager Leo Durocher protested the Cubs victory in the past two days on grounds that Chicago has 26 men on its roster.

Yanks Kick Away Game

The Yankees infield kicked away the game as the Browns defeated New York, 5-1. An error by Joe Gordon in the first on a double play ball and Frankie Crosetti's error in the fourth led to all the Browns' runs.

Records Fall In Junior Track Meet

Records fell at the junior high school track meet held here at Lincoln field. The track meet preceded the annual junior high school athletic meet.

Bradshaw Hurls 2-Hitter To Win, 7-0

Coach Rulon Budge's powerful Burley high school Bobcats, featuring some of the finest all-around athletes in the state, today had added the district baseball crown to their collection of sports trophies and prepared to go for the state title at Boise this week-end.

The Bobcats yesterday got their second shut-out performance in a row as they turned back the Class B champion Shoshone Indians by a 7-0 count. The hurling was by Ralph Bradshaw, who also pitched the 18-0 victory over Filer on Saturday and who is a member of the state championship Burley basketball club.

Yesterday Ralph led the usually hard-hitting Lincoln county crew down with two safe blows as his teammates went to work on Winters and McCain for 10 hits and seven runs. Both teams put on good defenses, with the only error being charged against the winning club.

The Bobcats pushed across two runs in the first and followed with two more in the second, all off Winters. McCain came into the game then and pitched creditably, striking out five batters, but walking the same number.

The first frame saw two singles and then a double by Harold Seeds

Reds Stretch Advantage by Winning, 6-1

The Ogden Reds stretched their lead over the Idaho Pioneer Cardinals last night, defeating Idaho Falls 6-1 in the Pioneer league here.

The Pocatello-Bolse game was postponed because of cold weather.

Ogden got away to a two-run lead in the first inning, and the margin all the way. The Russets used three pitchers in their efforts to keep the Reds from scoring.

Salt Lake had to come from behind to win. The Cowboys led until the last of the seventh, when a terrific fire rally sent five men home.

Buddy Baer Not Afraid of Louis—Sleeps Well, Eats Well—And Doesn't Worry

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, May 20 (AP)—Scattered paragraphs containing scattered thoughts:
Buddy Baer is worried because he finds he is not worrying about Friday night's fight with Joe Louis.

Carthy has a special treatment for rookies who are under a strain as a result of pre-season ballyhoo. He lets 'em all on the bench, watch a few ball games and then puts them back in after the attack of the same treatment his first year with the club, and the patient recovered.

Thursday night without benefit of his manager, Joe Vella. Sema Vella, whose name outside pugilism is Nicholas Iacocca, is a private at Fort Eustis, Va. When he offered for a leave so he could see his lighter-colored officer of the fort inquired: 'Who's Lesnevich?' Vella explained and was then told that the leave might be granted if he made a guarantee in a marksmanship test today.

ATTORNEY GENERAL ASKS NEW LAWS TO FIGHT ALIENS

WANTS RULES TO MAKE DECISIONS ON DEPORTATION

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Attorney General Robert H. Jackson today appealed to congress to give the justice department authority to "deal vigorously with disloyal aliens."

He contended that the recent roundup of almost 5000 aliens would be wasted effort unless a bill sponsored by Rep. Sam Hobbs, D., Ala., is enacted quickly. The bill creates an administrative board to decide whether aliens who are legally not physically deportable should be interned or "paroled."

"We are taking into custody large numbers of aliens who adhere illegally," Jackson said to the United Press. "We are holding them in deportation proceedings, although we know full well that because of world conditions we will not be able to deport them. We are going ahead with our present limited powers because the situation demands it."

Given Power
The Hobbs bill in its present form would give the justice department authority with disloyal aliens who ought to be deported. At the same time it would afford just treatment for the loyal alien."

A justice department compilation showed that at least 5000 aliens were seized over the week-end in major seaports by immigration and naturalization officials. About 20 German, 2 Italian, 2 Scotsmen, 2 Poles, 1 Canadian, 1 Norwegian, 1 Cuban and 1 Danziger. Thirty-six have not yet been classified.

Most of the arrests involved charges of overlying 60-day leaves.

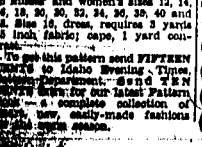

'Buddy' Poppy Sale May 24th

Arrangements have been completed for the sale of Buddy poppies in Twin Falls Saturday, May 24, by Twin Falls post No. 2143 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S. The sale will be conducted by approximately 3500 other posts on the same day.

"With the nation in the midst of tremendous national defense efforts being carried forward by a great wave of patriotism, the Buddy poppy of the Veterans of Foreign Wars takes on a new significance," declared Commander Floyd E. Bicknell of the local post. "With America's welfare dependent in the minds of all citizens, the people at large are inclined to view the problems of our disabled veterans of previous wars with increased sympathy and regard."

The wearing of a V. F. W. poppy on Memorial day has become an established custom in America, Bicknell said.

W. B. Summers has been named poppy chairman for the post and Mrs. Bertha Peters will act in that capacity for the auxiliary. They will organize a sales force of Buddy poppies distributed by the V.F.W. and made by disabled veterans in government hospitals.

Here's Story of Trooper Journey by Truck to War Games in California

They Roll
About 6 a. m. we started rolling about 125 trucks and 1000 men in 18th engineer regiment. We were loaded 10 men to a truck, each man carrying his bed roll, kit, and rifle. It was a cold morning and all were wearing our overcoats over a regular G. I. uniform minus tie.

Before I start on the trip, just a word about the trucks we rode and how we were packed. The trucks were both Dodges and Chevies, four-wheel drive, with heavy canvas stretched covered, wavy canvas stretched over the top. We had seats down both sides and every morning, when we loaded, the canvas was rolled up and the floor for any who wished to sleep on them—and we all did.

Surprisingly, the trucks were not too bad riding. Leaving Vancouver, the convoy headed for Portland, skirted it by and skirted for Mt. Hood on highway No. 50. It was still early morning when we started on our trip. Hood and late in the spring as it was, the mountain was beautiful. The vibration of the trucks made picturesque difficult but several of us tried it.

When we continued south, joined No. 97 and headed for Bend, Ore. for the night. Lunch was eaten on the road, just where I don't know, except that it must have been fairly close to Mt. Hood, for we could still clearly see it as we ate.

Lunches Disappear
What did I do for my lunch? Included two sandwiches, definitely butterless, an apple or an orange and a candy bar. The sandwiches were eaten long before noon, usually bit by bit during the 10-minute rest stops every two hours.

The first night we stopped in Bend, was really a-b-d. We camped about 4 p. m. in the old rodeo grounds, but a super wind and sand and dirt; the second and last, if you can divide it into that many, we ate the same. We had a tent in a pup tent, with sand and dust as both mattress and blanket.

That was a lousy 7 p. m. breakfast. The first course was a ham, a ham and a ham. I am walking now so bad because it was not too cold, and it was not too hot, and it was not too dry, and it was not too wet, and it was not too... (text repeats)

Beautiful Night
We ate lunch just a few miles from Bend, Ore., continuing on toward Weed, Calif., a small lumber mill town at the junction of highways 97 and 99 and situated right at the foot of Mt. Shasta. The night was so beautiful that evening, the shade from the setting sun to our backs slowly melting up the mountain, but nothing was left but the blazing snow-capped peak, in one we'll remember for a long time.

Off Early Again
Five forty-five the third morning we rolled on the road, this morning again through some mountain country which was very pretty. In the middle of the morning we passed the conveyor belt that carries rock 20 some miles to Shasta dam. And just before we got to it, we drove by some foundations for a railroad bridge crossing one of the deep, wide canyons of that region. The towers were of cement, and in bright light reminded me of San Francisco's Golden Gate bridge. It will really be something to see when finished.

They had fallen right through the road into the seepage ponds beneath, caused by the abundant rains of several weeks prior. We camped immediately and spent the rest of the afternoon digging out the trucks. One air compressor which really weighed something.

Trucks Stuck
We hardly got beyond the turn-off, though, because before 10 or 15 minutes we were stuck in mud. We had seven or eight trucks stuck.

.... and the Ferguson System

This picture is a good example of the way Ford and Ferguson system does a really difficult job of plowing with less power—consequently lower cost, both first cost and fuel. The Ferguson system causes the resistance of the soil on the implement to be exerted in the form of weight across the rear of the tractor. As the resistance of the Ferguson ground-engaging implement is increased by stubborn soil, traction also increases.

Come in and see the Ford and the complete line of Ferguson implements. Let us quote you the low first cost price of a complete change-over to this new economical system of farming. We will be glad to demonstrate on your own farm.
