dards of living. We challenge our people to a loyal and patriotic stand of the people, against the exactions of profiteers, operating under the cloak of national defense.

Continuing the report stated that we believe in the practicability of the principles of Jesus. These we conceive to be: (1) the supreme good is human personality; (2) the ideal of unselfish service; (3) the principle of sacrificial love and true kindness and (4) the ideal of good will toward all men, and true love to all men, including personal and national enemies.

Challenge to Methodists
We challenge our Methodist people to an unwavering faith in the eternal God and in His Son, Jesus Christ. We call them to a spirit of humility and sincere penitence, as we all confess our unworthiness to cast the first stone.

In each church and in the hearts of us all, may there be throughout these times that try men's souls no other spirit than one of love, forgiveness and complete good will toward every man and every woman. This ministry report was expected to come before the conference later this afternoon.

Admitted to Conference
Announcement was also made this morning that Rev. Ray Mortensen, Boston, was admitted into the conference on Sunday morning. He is coming to Idaho to be director of religious education for the conference. His headquarters will be at Boise.

Bishop Baxter spoke only briefly this morning. He spoke of the influence of Christ on the church. He stated that the church is not of this world, and that it is a God-like world regardless of what man has done or is doing with it.

"SLOW BUT SURE" COURSE PRAISED

Although a democratic people embarks on momentous undertakings slowly because inertia, it "gets the job done" once it launches action preceded by forethought.

Historically shows that enterprises which have been badly done and have needed correction—while those that are planned and executed with forethought and care, have proved of value.

Democratic inertia, as declared, often is sufficient to impede the progress of those who for reasons of their own, seek to hurry the American people into a position of desecration.

SMALLEST WEST END BABY IS "BIG" GIRL AT AGE OF FOUR

BUHL, June 7 (Special)—With a birthday cake, traditional candies and a group of playmates, the smallest baby in Buhl to live, today celebrates her fourth birthday with a party arranged by her mother, Mrs. Helen Parsons, at their home at 1230 Birch avenue.

This vivacious tot in the height of her glory at the party was born Joan Lee Parsons, four years ago today, June 7. At birth she was so small and delicate the attending physician couldn't risk the time and danger of recording her actual weight, but guessed it at approximately a bare two pounds. She was quickly placed in a wicker clothes basket on a bed of warmed blankets. For three days she slept in the basket almost untouched with the temperature maintained at 90 degrees.

At the home of her parents, two nurses cared for the baby, feeding a special formula from an eye dropper every hour and kept her warm. After the third hazardous day the attendants gained hope of saving the miniature child. She had almost three months' existence.

Hint for Girls: Secretaries on Uncle Sam List

within the next two years, Uncle Sam will list 50,000 secretaries, according to authorities. And according to these same authorities, there is a present dearth of trained, experienced secretaries.

So it's to the advantage of smart girls to get the training, the experience and the proficiency required of this type of position, and to be ready for the opportunities that are bound to come.

Those who are already secretaries, if they are wise, believe Miss Shirley Dunlap, president of Alpha Iota, business girls' honorary society, "Your Boss is a Man!"

One of the chief advantages of being a secretary is that your boss usually is a man instead of a woman, Miss Dunlap frankly admits. That the woman executive, in many instances is still the dilemma of the business world, as far as the younger business and professional woman is concerned, was reflected in Miss Dunlap's summary.

"I've talked with dozens of girls during my five years in the business world, and I have yet to find one who wants to work for a woman boss."

"We women are going to have to learn how to be more agreeable with each other in business offices, or we have an awfully funny feeling if we ever get to be executives ourselves—remembering the stenographers, typists and secretaries' opinions of women in the 'top roles.'"

She wonders what can be done with the basic psychology of the man who makes her as congenial with other women workers, as the male seems to be.

"You find a man of varying degrees of importance working satisfactorily side by side in the same office in perfect harmony. But then—mayhap they take an oath on each other on the golf course or the bowling alley," she reasoned.

"It's a planning, appearance, speed, competent training and adaptability to the requirements of the organization in which she is working. Miss Dunlap stressed an agreeable personality and the ability to be loyal, and to assume responsibility, as requisites of a good secretary."

Must Be Loyal
"A girl may think she is being loyal, but she is not, if she is not loyal to her boss's absence from the city, or on an extended business appointment. They 'take an oath' on each other on the golf course or the bowling alley," she reasoned.

"That sort of thing is disloyal, according to my code of office ethics." Other advantages of being a secretary are a five and one-half day week; a better-than-average salary in any community, and the variety of human contacts.

"If you change jobs, and go from one business or profession, to another, you become acquainted with the various attitudes of people, various attitudes on life, and your scope in handling people of varying opinions should constantly improve if you are progressive."

This is a pitfall, however, to this profession. That is the fact that the secretary may take an oath on the routine of a job or industry, it is likely to "stay put" too long in one place.

"It's somehow easier to get stuck in a routine job, and await that shining knight in a tri-motor plane, than to stalk a career job," she admitted.

"Take me, for instance, in my five years of secretarialship—two and one-half in government work and the same period in a law office—I have never once had a yen to be a 'bad lawyer.'"

Miss Dunlap received most of her business training in South Dakota, where she took secretarial courses. She thinks there is no disadvantage to a small town—it's difficult to keep up one's education in the culture of a big city.

Letter Ament Umbrellas, From Two Noted Gents

Dear Editor: An appropriate, touching and beautiful movement is being the state of New Hampshire. Begun under the able patronage of Mr. John W. Hayes, of Center Ossipee, N. H., the Umbrella Fund is progressing as rapidly as one would expect. To quote Mr. Hayes: "Ever since Columbus discovered the symbol of appeasement, isolationism, defeatism and surrender, and an end to General Tobey's fighting effort to keep the United States from sliding Britain, and to commit this country to an international policy of doing-nothing-until-it-is-too-late, the supporters of the movement are convinced that the umbrella is none too good for the foe."

STEPHAN RETURNS CHAPTER V "THERE wasn't much more. The letter was written on hotel stationery and Stephan had not suggested any address to which she might reply. . . Deborah read it again and again.

What it all amounted to, she told herself in the end, was—just nothing—except that he remembered her as a chance acquaintance who had been kind to him that summer and that she had owed her the courtesy of this non-committal note.

One afternoon shortly afterward, Deborah went for a long walk on the dunes beyond the town. . . She had often dreamed of bringing Stephan here if he came to see her. . . He would be chilling with the fury of the waves. . . Not quite safe to think about that yet, though—no! about Stephan.

TOWARD dusk Deborah struggled through the mud to a little wind. She walked fast and furiously, as if she could run away from those forbidden thoughts which always crouched, waiting in the shadows of her mind. . . What, for instance, had she said to Stephan? Her hand that he had not been recalled home.

The World After the War The United States, in the midst of "an unlimited national emergency," is still far enough from "a shooting war" to look ahead to the world as it will be after the shooting is over. Granted, the first order of business is to see that the world shall not be a mere playground for Nazi "master men," who would then be in a position to remold it in arbitrary accordance with a Nazi desire.

Enough free customers, or potentially free customers, remain, so that the British have at last had to hint at their blueprint. Foreign Secretary Eden has backed up the general lines of President Roosevelt's Four Freedoms: Freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of fear, freedom from want. And an India governed "By India, For India, and in India." The last comes late, but it is better late than never.

The "American Division" Ottawa estimates are that 8,200 Americans are already serving with Canada's fighting forces; 6,400 in the army, 500 as staff men or ferry pilots in the Atlantic service, 1,300 in the air corps. That is equal, if these men were organized as a unit, almost to a whole division. It means that more than 8,000 Americans have offered much more than the simple sacrifices being asked of those at home.

The Navy Needs Men! We have been so absorbed in the vital problem of building the two-ocean navy, waiting and watching breathlessly as each new ship slides down the ways, that we have forgotten that it takes men to operate them.

WILKIE TERMS LINDBERGH "RECKLESS, MISGUIDED"

REPUBLICAN HEAD WANTS SUPPORT FOR ROOSEVELT

CHICAGO, June 7 (Special)—Wendell A. Wilkie, Republican, for United States Senator, has called for support for Roosevelt's foreign policy last night and labeled as "reckless and misguided" the charges that Lincoln's assertion that the nation needs a new leader.

"We in America do not choose new leaders between elections," Wilkie told 2,000 persons in Chicago stadium, where he denounced the national administration during his final administration campaign last fall.

"We cannot, under our constitutional system, have a new leadership until 1944 without revolution and destruction of the very values we seek to preserve."

The address, at a "unity rally" sponsored by the All-Citizens citizens committee, was delayed 45 minutes by boos from seven women who were ejected by police.

Lindy Boode

Wilkie did not mention Lindbergh by name but referred to the flyer's statements at a recent Philadelphia meeting of the American first committee. There were boos when Lindbergh first was mentioned by Carl Sandburg, the writer, who shared the speaker's platform with Wilkie and Mayor Edward J. Kelly.

Referring to Lindbergh's assertion that the people were given no chance to vote on foreign policy in the 1940 election, Wilkie said:

"As a matter of fact, in the very nomination of their candidate, they expressed their views. President Roosevelt's foreign policy was well known. And my position about aid to Britain was taken at the conference of the administration's and has been unaltered since beginning of the war. Frankly, I think one of the principal reasons why I was chosen by my party to be its nominee was because I had been more moderate and consistent than any of the other candidates in urging all-out aid to Britain."

Wants Unanimous Support

Wilkie professed his prepared address with the statement that it is time for unanimous national support of the government. He departed once again to express his opinion that President soon may establish bases in Iceland to protect our own shores.

"Wilkie said none could predict when America might become involved in the war and that "all we know is that we are in it. He thinks it is to his advantage, he will make war upon us."

Wilkie called for an end to "petty politics" and for "no sympathy with efforts to use this emergency to demand unnecessary powers and curtail liberties which are a mere skill for inadequacy and procrastination, or to our support of the blind of national defense."

"Labor and industrial peace must come and come quickly," he said, "and our business must be able to perfect democracy may be, under totalitarian rule will be a slave. War business will be a slave under has found freedom under Hitler."

BOYS' STATE LIST RISES TO ELEVEN

Twelve boys are expected to go from Twin Falls to take part in the second annual Boys' state at Boise which will be held June 22 to 26, inclusive. Ivan Johnson, member of the American Legion committee in charge of selections said this afternoon.

Eleven boys have been selected at the present time, Johnson said, the last being Edward Chapin. One more selection is expected before deadline.

Each youth is sponsored by a civic, fraternal society, religious or veterans organization.

Twin Falls List

In addition to Chapin, the other boys to represent Twin Falls are: Norman Johnson, James George, Robert Van Enghel, Otto Florent, Glen Terry, Alton Sept, Ted Becker, Preston Henman, Leroy Ehlers and Bob Zarney.

Ernest Emerson, Kimberly, fifth district Boys' state chairman for the Legion, reminded south Idaho communities today that deadline for submission of applications is next Tuesday, June 10.

"The eligibles are named from the three upper classes in each high school of the state," Chairman Emerson said, "and from this list I select a boy to attend the Boys' state camp for an entire week at a cost of only $15, including all expenses except transportation."

Last Year

"At the first Boys' state last year there were 45 boys from all over Idaho. This year it is expected the number will be doubled or possibly tripled."

Each Legion post is taking an active interest in the enrollment and the committee of Legionnaires managing the camp itself have made careful plans for the instruction, entertainment and care of the Boys' state members.

Coaching director is Norman B. Adkins, Boise, and chief counselor, Earl Garrity, Nampa attorney. The boys will choose a governor and other officials for the instruction, entertainment and care of the Boys' state members.

"There will be special lectures by state officials and officers. The entire program is non-partisan and is not military in any sense. Problems of government will be considered without reference to any existing political party."

Visitors are invited to inspect the activities of Gem Boys' state at any time. Legion and auxiliary day will be Friday, June 27. The camp will be held at Boise barracks where there is ample housing and eating and sleeping accommodations.

JEROME MAN RECALLS YUKON AND LORD HAMILTON

To the Editor and Surrounding Friends:

In the recent news of Rudolf Hess' flight to Scotland to see his friend Lord Hamilton, my mind goes back to 1908, when I was the champion fly fisherman of the Yukon. It was here in the summer I worked and fished.

Now don't laugh. A recent letter from the Yukon tells me that she has the record, and the record was not hard to get, for the sparkling waters coming down from the glaciers back to the mountains—God knows where, gave splendid opportunities and as Bob Service said:

"The summers—no aweter was ever."

The stately woods all athrill, The graying alpine in the river, The highest asleep on the hill."

During the summer of 1908 there drifted into Dawson two apartment, Lord Hamilton, from Scotland, and Lord Monroe, from England.

They were settled out to the Gusegenheim power plant 45 miles behind Dawson on the Twelve Mile river, and it was here we had a two weeks fishing spree. But the mountains—God knows where, gave splendid opportunities and as Bob Service said:

BOXING ARRANGED FOR FARM CAMP

Townpeople today were invited by Roy C. Lane, manager of the farm camp south of the city, to witness boxing bouts which will be staged there throughout the summer.

Lane said that an outdoor ring is now being constructed and will be put up "as soon as the weather settles a little."

The amateur bouts, according to the manager, will be under the direction of J. O. Brinton, recreational director.

"When everything is ready to go we will announce the date and time of the first contest," Lane said. "Residents of Twin Falls and the surrounding territory are invited to witness the contests without charge. We expect to have one card a week during the summer season."

Regarding available farm work, Lane said that every able bodied camp resident is busy in the fields, weather permitting. Population at the camp at the present time is 400.

Lane pointed out that unattached singles are not permitted to register in the camp, only family groups being accepted.

"To date we have had no unattached singles, but we will apply for admittance, indicating that these younger persons are apparently obtaining work in the industrial centers."

This Thief Takes Heifer, Puts Bull Calf in Exchange!

JEROME, June 7 (Special)—If a heifer calf metamorphosed into a bull calf in a short period of 10 weeks, with the aid of Mother Nature, that would be a story for any newspaper, opined one Jerome farmer, Ernest Nelson, who resides in the Pleasant Plains district.

Farmer Nelson said his good old Swedish temper steered him when he found that one of his heifer calves, born two and a half months ago, had "changed" into a bull calf, but it was because Mother Nature took a hand in the situation.

Some clever thief "chained" the calf by replacing it with a bull calf, and pretty sly too, according to Farmer Nelson, who reported to the sheriff's authorities that the bull calf was identical in color to a front calf which one of his cows gave birth to recently.

Farmer Nelson explained that when the calf was born, she refused to drink from a bucket, and at long last he gave up trying to teach her to drink, letting her run to the field with her mother.

"No paying any particular notice for sometime, Farmer Nelson discovered in his diary this week that the little heifer was a bull calf, a little scruffy and rough, but still a male member of the livestock family."

RAIN BLANKETS SOUTHERN IDAHO

BOISE, June 7 (AP)—Southern Idaho was blanketed today with a general rain which brought precipitation figures for the year close to normal amounts.

The heavy valley precipitation was expected to end the prospect of an irrigation water shortage.

Most times at such of rain fell in Boise in its heaviest rainstorm of recent months. H. C. Carter, U. S. meteorologist here, predicted the storm would lift late today and forecast fair weather for Sunday.

The heavy rain had both adverse and beneficial effects on agriculture. Growers and farmers with dry ground and continued rain would seriously damage their crops while others felt the rain would delay the need for drawing on reservoirs thus providing sufficient water during more arid months.

Army primary flying training contractors have gone to 11 additional airports to make a total of 26.
