A World of Wanderers
 Perhaps no war of the past has ever driven from their homes so many people—has ever created literally millions of wanderers on the face of the earth.

Everyone knows, in a vague general way, that many people in Europe have been forced to leave the places where they had built their homes and their lives. We have many of them in the United States; to that extent we are usually aware of the problem.

It is, however, a tragedy of such mountainous size that only a survey like that made recently by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. can reveal its appalling extent.

Had you realized that these fruits have been gathered by the men who rashly decided to make Europe over by force?

More than 300,000 people have been forced to leave Germany.

Perhaps 400,000 other Germans have been brought back into Germany from the Baltic, Polish, and Bessarabian territories seized by Russia.

Several hundred thousand people, mostly Ukrainians, were received back by Russia in her conquered territories, mostly from Poland.

About 175,000 Austrians are being moved into Germany from the Italian Tyrol.

A hundred thousand were expelled from Alsace-Lorraine by the conquering Germans.

A half million Finns would not live in the part of Finland seized by Russia, but moved into distressed Finland itself.

In occupied France there is a horde of fugitives, estimated at 2,500,000, who fled when the German machine rolled across Belgium and northern France.

A half million fled from Spain when the Spanish republic fell, and a good third of those are still on foreign territory, unable to return.

Virtual forced labor in Germany, recruited in Poland, France, Holland, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, and Italy, totals almost a million, with not less than another million prisoners of war.

Other wars have not failed to create their rows on rows of dead, their ravaged villages, their ruined farms and cities.

None has ever uprooted and scattered like this across a continent these millions of helpless, homeless, and yet generally innocent people.

Love and Stomach Ache
 Love! Poets have been vainly trying to define it—"the wine of existence"—"the sweetest joy, the wildest woe"—"an egotism of two"—"a smoke raised with the fume of sighs"—"a reality born in the fairy region of romance"—"the life of the soul"—"the emblem of eternity"—"a dream"—and so on, and so on down through all the literature of the ages.

Remained for 1941 to discover that love is a stomach ache, or, more precisely, that a stomach ache may be caused by love. Dr. Leon J. Saul of the Institute of Psychoanalysis in Chicago imparted this melancholy information to the National Conference of Social Work.

Thus man's fate: No sooner have you steered junior through the anxious period when stomach aches were constantly following too much enthusiasm for ice cream and cake, than he enters into a period lasting until death when love will subject him to the same complaint. From death, taxes—and stomach aches—no escape.

The Sympathetic Warrior
 It was a bitter Al Smith who slipped out a side door of the Congress hotel in Chicago July 3, 1932. He was an hour before train time, but he was eager to avoid the crowd gathered at the front entrance to greet Governor Roosevelt, triumphant winner of the presidential nomination Smith had sought and lost.

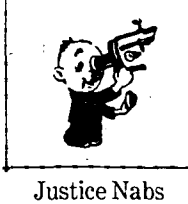

It was a bitter Al Smith who through the succeeding nine years snarled criticisms of the New Deal and aided and comforted its enemies.

Was it the memory of the days when he, too, bore the crushing weight of leadership and public responsibility that led Al Smith to the White House the other day? It was just a friendly call, he said. "I wanted to shake hands with the President and wish him well."

It was decent and gracious thus to dissolve old bitterness in sympathetic good-will toward one who is beating a staggering burden.

The most weather-beaten man on earth is the Chalk up as the most stupendous surprise of the year to them as got surprised—the "gangster" court trial of Capt. Joe Seaver, Jr., and Mrs. R. W. Jones, the office staff of area No. 1 draft board.

They were guests of honor at an informal luncheon staged Saturday by courthouse employees. The occasion, imminent removal of the draft office from the courthouse to a downtown spot, the luncheon was very impressive and Capt. and Mrs. Jones were grinning wide grins.

Suddenly the luncheon atmosphere changed... Deputy Sheriff Virgil Borden strode in and slapped handcuffs on the two "beavers". They were dragged off to probable court closed for the afternoon by the way... and then ensued the most striking trial in all Idaho jurisprudence (dramatic juris and practically no presence).

SERIAL STORY FOOTSTEPS IN THE FOG
 BY ELINEOR COWAN STONE

CHAPTER XXII
 WHEN Deborah struggled back to consciousness, she was sitting on the floor of a small, cluttered room. She felt a sharp pain in her head, and she was disoriented.

"Nothing—except that he was the lad who recognized Mr. X, and with the help of Wilhelm and others, ran his operations to the East coast." Deborah remembered. "Mr. X was to meet another European agent here and turn certain papers over to him. Stephen planned to anticipate the meeting and intercept the papers."

"But Stephen was taking a boat out of the Harbor last night. He was..." Deborah remembered. "Exactly. If for any reason the first plan seemed impracticable, he intended leaving the Harbor on a fishing boat which was to take Agent Number Two and the papers out to a small freighter which was waiting to pick him up and deliver the papers to his contact."

"But why weren't those men simply arrested?" Deborah asked. "The situation had developed so rapidly that von Thalman was not sure we should have time to get here after he sent word to me that he had proper authority, himself, to make the arrest."

"Now that's more like it!" Deborah smiled at Deborah. "You gave me quite a jolt, Miss Lovett. It was a minute or two before it occurred to me that maybe my last few words had given you an unnecessary shock."

EDSON IN WASHINGTON
 BY PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON STRIKE NOTES TO SPARE
 Some random figures in the bureau of labor statistics study of the strikes in 1940 are these: New York City had 445 strikes, more than any other city. Philadelphia was second, with 770 strikes. Chicago was third, with 704 strikes. The average number of workers involved in strikes was 26,000. Eighty-four per cent of the workers involved in strikes were men, 16 per cent women. The textile industry had more strikes than any other, 314. Building and construction industries were second with 310 and wholesale and retail trade establishments third with 275. Greatest strike year was 1917 when there were 4400 or more than there were in 1940.

TREND ISN'T PROMISING
 Government officials of government boards have a pessimistic outlook of nearly 41 per cent of the strikes—1006 strikes out of the total of 2500 strikes that were settled by direct negotiation between workers and employers. This is important because it indicates the growing work of department of labor's conciliation service.

RECOGNITION THE ISSUE
 The difficulty of classifying strikes according to cause is primarily the problem of involving two or more issues, but tabulating as carefully as it could, BLS comes forth with the conclusion that half of the 1940 strikes were primarily over issue of union recognition. You can attribute that to Wagner act or not, you choose. Wagner and hour issues accounted for 30 per cent of the strikes and the remaining 20 per cent cover miscellaneous groups.

LABOR STUDIES PLANS TO END "BLACKOUT" IN INDUSTRY

160-HOUR WEEK IS PROPOSED TO BOOST OUTPUT

By SANDOR S. KLEIN
WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—Organized labor's plan for ending the week-end "blackout" in industry will be presented to the office of production management within a week, it was learned today.

Details have not been disclosed, but the plan is expected to outline methods by which certain industries could be placed on a three shift, 160-hour week. The plan has been formulated by the OPM's labor policy advisory committee, composed of representatives of the American Federation of Labor, the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the Railroad Brotherhood.

The urgent need of more industrial production was emphasized by President Roosevelt last week in a statement deploring the "continued discrimination" against Negroes and other classes of workers in industry. He called for an "open door of employment" to all workers "regardless of race, national origin, religion or color."

No Exclusions
Mr. Roosevelt, in a memorandum to OPM Director William S. Knudsen, said "nothing is to be excluded from segments of the population from defense industry."

"Even more important," he added, "it is for us to strengthen our unity and morale by seeing that homes are not broken which we are fighting abroad."

Asserting the situation was one of "grave emergency," he ordered the OPM to take immediate steps to eliminate situations that have caused in repeated complaints that "available and much-needed workers are being barred from defense production solely because of race, religion or national origin."

OPM Director Knudsen repeatedly has emphasized the need for continuing operations in defense factories over the week-end.

8 Hours for 160-hour
Proponents of the 160-hour week would contend for an installation effectively and be maintained. The remaining eight hours of the week could be utilized for maintenance and repairs. This period, they suggest, should be between 7 a. m. and 3 p. m. Sunday.

The 160-hour week would involve three eight hour shifts every day except Sunday when there would be one shift.

Numerous problems must be solved before such a program could be made effective, for example, is the question of availability of sufficient materials and labor.

Numerous industries are already on two shifts and some on a three shift basis. Most of the major aircraft-makers are operating in two shifts at least one firm, the Glenn L. Martin Co., of Baltimore is maintaining two ten hour shifts.

Ruffing Pitches Seventh Victory; Red Sox Win Two

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP)—Turn on the sirens and rush for the tower cellars because here comes the Yankees, hotter than a forest fire at high noon.

With seven straight victories and two in a row over the league-leading Cleveland Indians, Joe McCarthy's men have served notice they mean to take over the American league stronghold any day now. The Yanks trounced Bob Feller Saturday 4-1, and then came back Sunday before 43,962 in Yankee stadium to vanquish the Indians again, 3-2.

Red Ruffing, winning his seventh game and his third from Cleveland, would have had a shutout if Joe Gordon hadn't dropped a pop fly in the eighth to let the tribe make two unearned runs. Joe Evers' 13th homer provided the winning run.

And right behind the Yanks come the Sox. They are still almost themselves right now, with 12 victories in their last 16 games. By knocking out the White Sox twice, 8-6 and 4-4, the Yankees have won the largest in the Indians again, 3-2.

ALLIED TROOPERS CLOSE IN ON ANCIENT DAMASCUS

FRONTAL ATTACK EXPECTED SOON; KISSOUE TAKEN

LONDON, June 16 (AP)—Allied forces are within six miles of Damascus and having passed Salda on the Syrian coast, are within 12 miles of Beirut.

A frontal attack against Damascus was expected at any time. Three columns had converged on the capital and were waiting for the command to advance.

One column, which came from the southwest via Kuneitra, was reported to have taken position six miles outside Damascus. A second, had occupied Kissoué, 10 miles south of the city, and had taken a hill dominating Damascus. A third column was working around from the Kissoué area to the east in a flanking movement.

It was reported Gen. de l'Honnin, former commander of the French garrison at Damascus, who arrived yesterday at Istanbul, was on his way to Sofia to communicate to the Vichy government all the terms for surrender of the capital.

News that the allies had taken the important coastal town of Beirut came first from Vichy. It was believed, however, allied troops already had skirted the city on their way to Beirut. It was indicated this force, if strong enough, might cut off the main Vichy coastal army.

The new line occupied more than 2,700 square miles of the coastal area of Syria in an eight-day campaign. The line consisted of a fertile rectangle between the coast and the desert.

His companion, Sam Walker, was aided to shore by Frank Hurt, operator of Nampa radio station KFSD, who was fishing nearby.

British Test German Strength In Africa, Fearing Suez Drive

By United Press
The British foray into Libya beyond Tobruk, described by the Germans as an attack in force, may be the start of an offensive, or it may be a feeling out expedition.

The British have been expecting a renewed axis drive in the north African desert towards the Suez canal and it is natural they would want to feel out Hitler's strength and prepare their own defenses in western Egypt accordingly.

London is highly suspicious of the lull in German activity, and of the reported German-Russian troop moves which have all Europe in a state of tension.
