NAZIS CLAIM ADVANCE ON MOSCOW

Clark Pleads for Faith Renewal in July 4 Speech Here

LIVE CLOSER TO BIBLE, GOVERNOR TELLS LISTENERS

By O. A. KELLER
America today were urged to renew their faith in Christianity and to "live closer to the commandments as given us by divine law."
The plea was made by Gov. Chase A. Clark, Independence day speaker in Twin Falls, in a speech prepared at 1 p. m. "I called the attention of an audience to which I spoke a short time ago to a little girl who was evacuated from London and brought to the United States."
Her father and mother remained in London to assist in fighting the war. In the evening when this little girl knelt by her bed in the presence of the good American lady for whom she was staying, to say her evening prayers, she first repeated those of her mother, and then she said, "And, oh God, take good care of my mother, because if anything happens to you, you're sunk."
"Now, although these were the words of a little child, when I read them I could not help feeling the great meaning in those words. If we love God, we will be sunk."
"So let us live closer to the commandments as given us by divine law. Let us live closer to the commandments as given us by divine law. Let us live closer to the commandments as given us by divine law."
"The basis of these are immortal, and today we have no fear in our hearts for this democracy of ours. Let us not be terrorized by the horrible things that are happening in the world today. But enlist ourselves under the sacred banner of reason—prepare ourselves in mind and strength and steel to our own civilization and prevent the curse of poverty from ever being placed upon their memory."
In the address the governor discussed the founding of the United States, and said:
"No Fear of Future
"It is a long trail that brings us to the position that we enjoy today. We know that our future was carefully cast for us before we were born, and I want to say here and now that I have no fear for the future of this democracy of ours."
"The great ruler of the universe who guided the founders of this government in 1776, and who guides us now and, as we cherish their memory, we will not forget the suffering and hardships that were endured by those who lived before us, before that we might have the blessings that we enjoy today."
"They gave us the people, owing allegiance to none but God, our country and ourselves. They gave us their fortunes and their blood for us, and an inheritance that will never come when we shall fall them in giving our all for our immortal destiny."
"And I say with confidence that such a time will never come."
"History records how, as the people walked, breathless, in the belief that was to be made, an old man stood with his hand on the rope of the Liberty bell, and how his grandson was to carry him the tidings as soon as the decision was finally made; and how he rushed to his death."

Manslaughter Is Jury Verdict for Jerome's Slaying

JEROME, July 4 (Special)—After deliberating nearly 12 hours, a district court jury at 4:30 a. m. today returned a verdict finding James J. Robertson, 69, guilty of voluntary manslaughter.
Robertson had been tried on first degree murder charges. He is alleged to have shot and killed Stanley Casto, 23, a laborer, last April 19, following an argument.
The case went to the jury late yesterday afternoon after Prosecutor Richard H. Seeley had urged that Robertson be "punished severely" and A. F. James, Gooding, attorney for the defense, had asked for acquittal.
After the verdict was returned, Judge T. Bailey Lee announced that Robertson would be sentenced next Wednesday morning at 10 a. m. State law reads that voluntary manslaughter is punishable by imprisonment in the state prison for a period not exceeding 10 years.
Robertson admitted the shooting of Casto when he took the stand during the speedy trial. He said, however, that the act was committed in self defense after Casto was advancing toward him and was threatening to "beat my brains out."
The shooting is alleged to have taken place over remarks which Robertson made to Mrs. Casto.

British Commanders Termed Amateurs in Handling of Warfare

HONOLULU, July 4 (UP)—The British are "just beloved amateurs at warfare," John Stuart Martin, war editor of Time and Life magazines said today as he arrived from six months on the near east battlefronts on the "California Clippings."
Martin said he had been unable to speak his views previously because of rigid censorship.
He verbally lambasted not only the British near east army but also its commander, Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell.
"Beloved Amateurs"
Commenting on the British campaign in the near east, Martin said:
"The British are just beloved amateurs at warfare, and if Americans are half as great amateurs, then God help us."
"They are doing things which never should have been attempted. The Greek campaign was launched when the general ordered military action as a political gesture toward London, knowing they were hopelessly outnumbered by Hitler's troops."
"In the Egyptian battle, against the Nazi and Italian forces of 27,000 British troops were split in half, including the royal air force, by a German dive bomber."
"Wavell Able, Concocted"
"Wavell is able but he is conceited and has miserable staff assistants. They waste entirely too much time. It is amusing the way they send weaker troops against the power of the enemy. They have too much of the wrong kind of courage."
"The British view of stunning defeats with the shake of the head. They had minor victories with the conviction of a job well done."
"If Great Britain holds Syria, it probably will have a chance to keep the strategic Suez canal, Martin added.
"But we must beat Hitler, no matter how much it costs," he said.

WEST WEATHER BEST FOR 4TH

By United Press
Perfect holiday weather blessed half the nation today, but thunderstorms and intermittent showers damped festivities in the other half.
In the far west and throughout the northern central states the sun was shining, temperatures were mild or seasonal, and reports indicated generally "fair" weather would continue through the week-end. It also was raining in the southern Ohio valley, and numerous thunderstorms raged from the lower Mississippi valley to the eastern gulf states. Thunderstorms also were predicted in the Rocky mountain area.
"It was cooler in the middle and north Atlantic states and throughout the northern Ohio valley, while temperatures were steady on the southern and central plains."
The heavy downpour continued in the Rocky mountain states, including Idaho, and in the north, including Michigan, Ky., and Tappan, Mich., reports more than two inches of rainfall within 12 hours.

NEW YORK, July 4 (UP)—The Moscow radio today broadcast an address by Joseph Stalin, the Soviet Union's premier, on the occasion of the American Independence day.
"The Soviet Union, now fighting a great patriotic war of defense, stands with the United States in the American people on the occasion of their glorious national holiday," the broadcast as heard by CBS said.

FINNS ADVANCE ON ALL FRONTS

HELSINKI, July 4 (UP)—The Finnish high command in the first communiqué of the new war said today that German and Finnish troops had crossed the Russian frontier in several places and had "occupied" important points on the Soviet side of the border.
"Everywhere the enemy was prevented from crossing our frontier," the communiqué said, adding that "since Germany had not yet crossed the eastern frontier the advance has been systematic."
The high command claimed that 48 Russian airplanes had been shot down up to July 3 and added: "Our air defense protected railroad, telegraph, and bombed enemy transport, train, airbases and highways."
LITHUANIAN HELD
ASHTON, July 4 (UP)—Elmer David George, 54-year-old lineman, was killed yesterday in a fall from a utility pole, when his office reported an accident report was filed on a pole George was helping remove and the lineman was thrown to the ground.

NEGOTIATIONS TO OPEN ON STRIKE

By United Press
Officials of the Western Cartridge company prepared today to open bargaining conferences with AFL chemical workers who had threatened to strike for recognition.
The company bowed to a national defense mediation board ultimatum to recognize the union at its Altam, Ill., plant. It insisted, however, on retaining the right to a court test of the national labor relations board decision certifying the union as the bargaining agency.
The NLRB asked that production continue pending negotiations, which begin tomorrow. The union had threatened to strike Sunday unless it obtained recognition. Defense officials predicted the government would seize the plant if a work stoppage threatened.
A federal conciliator was seeking a settlement of the dispute between the White Motor company at Cleveland and the United Automobile Workers union (UAW). A union vote authorized a strike to force recognition of an existing contract. The UAW has asked a 10-cent hourly wage increase, but the company denies that raising living costs justified modification of an existing contract which expires in July, 1942.
Shipment of defense materials was stopped at Buffalo, N. Y., by a strike of 400 members of the National Maritime Union (N.M.U.). The union demanded an increase in the shipping space will be allowed for the importation of fireworks from China during the next year.

Writer Believes War Scare In Washington Is Retarding

Involvement of the United States in the European war is more remote at the present time than it was a few weeks ago.
That, according to Walter R. Botcher, staff writer and paying reporter for the Associated Press, "among the things" he has heard discussed at the nation's capital during his rounds.
Botcher, former Twin Falls newspaper writer and also former Idaho head of the Associated Press with headquarters at Boise, is visiting in Twin Falls at the present time. He was accompanied here by his wife and daughter, Barbara Sonia. Botcher is a son of Mrs. Alvina Botcher, Marin avenue, and Mrs. Botcher is a daughter of Mrs. Cora Hicks, also of this city.
Red-Nazi War Hopes
The "increasing talk" which is heard in Washington to the effect actual involvement of the United States in the war is more remote, Botcher said, is based on the following points:
1.—The war between Germany and Russia.
2.—The inclination of observers to believe that England is now so strong that invasion would be unlikely and the possibility of a negotiated peace because of non-vulnerability of both England and Germany.
"But that a change in the British government is not an impossibility. Doubt exists that Churchill would ever negotiate for peace but a governmental shift might change the picture."
Also pointed out was the fact that a good deal of talk is being put up in Washington to test public opinion, and the belief exists that President Roosevelt seems to be the stabilizing influence in keeping this country away from any further involvement.
Botcher said that he also heard in Washington that a great deal of talk by administration leaders is part of a war of nerves just like that which is being waged by the Germans. Washington officials point out as an example of the "war of nerves" the fact "friends chat" by the President which was shortwinded to Europe. The talk was short but at a press conference which followed it was toned down.
As a member of the White House Correspondents' associations, Botcher has attended many press conferences held by President Roosevelt.
750 Idahoans in Capital
As a roving reporter Botcher came to Washington today as the 750 former Idaho residents now residing in Washington and more than 100 of the number have "moved back" in the past 10 months.
"Leaving conditions in Washington are exceedingly high," the writer pointed out that a modern, two-room apartment rents for around $50 a month.

CLARK ASKS FOR SANE IDAHO 4TH

By United Press
Thousands of Idahoans headed for lakes and streams or into the mountains today as the 4th state celebrated a Fourth of July week-end extending from Thursday to Monday. Other thousands attended celebrations that marked the holiday in every city and hamlet in the state.
Banks, state institutions and business houses were closed, and cities where special observances had not been planned were deserted in favor of the cooler mountains and lakes.
Authorities appealed for a "safe and sane" Fourth, and Gov. Chase A. Clark warned against "careless" driving on crowded highways. "Let the week-end leave Idaho something to regret."
The forest service urged care in Idaho's forests, and asked campers to extinguish all camp fires.
Elaborate celebrations were planned throughout the state. Boise had an air show, and Coeur d'Alene, in north Idaho, held its annual regatta on Lake Coeur d'Alene.
Gov. Clark was to speak at Twin Falls, and later attend a rodeo at Rupert.
The weather, a worry to most Fourth-of-July celebrants, was indeed good. Bright skies and a heavy sun marked the opening of the holiday, but the weather turned to a drizzle and showers, particularly in the mountains.

HEAVY FIGHTING RAGES ON LONG LINE OF BATTLE

By United Press
Heavy fighting was in progress along a 400-mile German-Russian war front today from Finland to the Black sea.
The German high command said Nazi troops had crossed the Berezina river east of Minsk, in the Borisov region. That would mean the Germans are straddling the highway which leads to Moscow, 360 miles away. Hitler's headquarters said the Red army was in retreat along the entire front.
Moscow said Red troops had blown the Germans across the river and had inflicted thousands of casualties. The Moscow claim was that the Russians were checking the German advance all along the front and were "moving into new battle positions."
Reds Admit Nazi Advances
The Russians admitted German advance in the Baltic sector. The Germans apparently had crossed the Dyvina river from Lithuania and moved across Latvia to the Soviet frontier.
Communique of both sides said the Russians were putting up a stern fight. Although the German high command had said yesterday that the positions of the Red army "seem to be broken," the official news agency report spoke today of the "stubborn resistance" of the enemy. The agency said:
"Fighting on the east front, which now as before is marked by the stubborn resistance of Soviet troops, is further made difficult by weather conditions. In the Low area (on the southwestern Polish front facing the Danube) over a sector is reported."
Finland Speaks
In the north, Finland's high command declared that German and Finnish forces had crossed the Russian border as several hundred Finnish troops made a surprise attack on the Finnish front from the Arctic to the Baltic. Helsinki observers believed the Finns were making progress in their attack on the naval base of Hangoo, west of Helsinki, which was ceded to Russia after the recent peace talks. The agency said the communiqué did not specifically mention Hangoo.
The whole picture was one of a fierce struggle in which the Germans were making progress at widely scattered points, especially in the central zone facing White Russia and in the Baltic sector, but apparently as considerable cost. The speed of the advance did not seem to come up to earlier German expectations.
On other fronts, the main activity was a continuation of the British aerial pounding of important points in northwestern Germany and the channel "invasion" coast. The air ministry announced that the RAF had heavily bombed Essen, which was one of the principal objectives. Fires also were started in the Ruhr, the announcement said.
Welsh to Invasion
In connection with the British drive, news in their latest communique was written in the British publication, The Aeroplane, suggested that they might be a prelude to a British attempt to invade the continent. Declaring that Germany believes British incapable of a continuing offensive, the British official communique did not specifically mention Hangoo.
The RAF has been busy for nearly three weeks casting doubt on that assumption. Before this month is out, there may be developments which will cause Germany more doubts and hearten all those who believe the struggle must be renewed.
In Syria, the British continued their slow progress. Beirut, capital of Lebanon, was bombed three times by the RAF and five were started. Some casualties were reported.

JAPAN PONDER'S ZONE OF SAFETY

TOKYO, July 4 (UP)—The government disclosed today it is considering the establishment of a safety zone for Japanese warships and a leading Tokyo newspaper urged progressive measures to bring about a "safe and sane" Fourth of July through Vindictive.
"Declaring that a safety zone is under consideration, the Japanese government information spokesman. Such a zone would be established in the waters of the western hemisphere, particularly in the Pacific, to protect Japanese warships from the attacks of the United States Navy."

ISOLATIONISTS BLAST AT TROOP USE OUTSIDE HEMISPHERE

WHEELER CLAIMS U. S. MEN WILL BE SENT TO ICELAND

By LOUIS J. SCHAEFFLE
 WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—Non-interventionists claimed today increasing congressional opposition was developing to an army proposal to remove restrictions on the use of soldiers, national guardsmen and reserve officers outside the western hemisphere.

Chief of Staff George C. Marshall recommended the step to Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson as a move to protect ourselves against the coldly calculated, secret and sudden action that might be directed against us.

His proposal that these men be retained in service more than a year also was criticized by some non-interventionists as a "breach of faith." Only congress could remove the geographical and time limitations, since both are written into law.

Troops to Iceland?

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D. Mont., predicts strong opposition to the proposal, as he disclosed he had been "reliably informed" that American troops are to be sent to Iceland in the near future. He did not reveal the source of his information.

The war and navy departments declined to discuss Wheeler's disclosure.

Sen. Lister Hill, D. Ala., assistant majority leader and a member of the military affairs committee, said, however, that "the necessities of the situation" require the action recommended by Marshall.

"I am in favor of protecting the interests of the United States wherever they may be," Hill told reporters, "and they may be outside the western hemisphere."

Wheeler Assails Policy

Wheeler also charged that the United States foreign policy is "being determined in London by a joint board of British and American officers." He suggested that the United States would occupy Iceland as a base for trans-shipping goods to Britain. Iceland is outside the European combat zone prescribed by President Roosevelt, so United States vessels could take goods there to be picked up by British vessels. Iceland, now occupied by British troops, is within the counter-blockade zone proclaimed by Germany.

Sen. Hiram W. Johnson, R. Calif., said he could find no reason for the government to "break its promise" to men serving limited enlistments, except "that handsome Joe Stalin has been washed white as snow of all his villainous characteristics and that this country, with all its high ideals, is to be made the instrumentality for making the world safe for Communism."

Sen. Robert A. Taft, R. O., said: "Until congress, representing the people, orders that we shall believe it ever will—our army should stay in the western hemisphere."

The proposals were supported by Sen. Elbert D. Thomas, D. Utah.

EXPANDING NAVY NEEDS NEW MEN

With the rapidly expanded two-ocean navy far ahead of building schedule at the present time, need exists more than ever for applicants to be trained to "man the navy and also the very best branch of the air force," C. A. Edmondson, navy recruiter with headquarters at the postoffice, said here today.

Edmondson made the announcement concerning need for additional recruits as he completed plans for a tour which will take him to Burley and Gooding next week.

The recruiter said that he will be at the Burley court house, room 205, on next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. each day. He will be at the Gooding county courthouse at Gooding on Thursday and Friday, office hours there also being from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

"Many vacancies exist for all classes of naval reserve for the duration of the emergency," Edmondson said today. "Men between 17 and 18 years of age can enlist until their 21st birthday, those between 18 and up to 35 years old are being accepted for four years while the applicant who sees ahead to his old age is offered the security of the six year enlistment.

"We are especially anxious to interview youths who have had CPT courses under the CAA or who now hold private pilot licenses.

"A card to the navy recruiting office, postoffice building, Twin Falls, will bring full information," Edmondson said.

Kovacs, Tennis' Best Showman, Settles Down to Be Funnier

Frank Kovacs comes to net and defies opponent to ace him. Humorous Hungarian takes it out on racket when touch goes wrong, then expresses boredom with whole thing.

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK—All Francis Louis Kovacs II has to do to win the national singles championship, they say, is pay strict attention to business.

Frank Kovacs has "settled down" to be funnier than ever.

The 5-foot, 3½-inch, 180-pound bronzed Hungarian out of Oakland, Calif., still insists upon playing tennis for the sport of it.

His explanation is that he tightens up when deathly serious.

Kovacs' delightful antics have made him the most magnetic attraction in the game, so he remains a headache and a headache to the staid officials of the United States Lawn Tennis association.

Kovacs' antics so annoyed the brass hats in the nationals at Forest Hills last summer that in an early round they had the tall Californian and his opponent play on an obscure court.

But Kovacs' crowd appeal is such that the out-of-the-way court quickly became the main one.

Blowdown Strike

Kovacs' clowning so upset Joe Hunt in the quarter-finals that the midshipman sat down on the court.

So Kovacs found a nice, shady spot, and flopped down, too. There they were on a sidown strike.

Kovacs' chats with spectators, lineamen and ball boys.

He laughs at the man in the chair and lineamen when they make mistakes that go against him, and in such a way rouses their ire. He guffaws when rivals become put out at officials or themselves.

He comes to the net and defies an adversary to ace him.

He puts himself on the back when he gets off a good shot and often hits the ball behind his back. He stops matches to have a soft drink, often consumes three or four bottles of it in a match.

A natural comedian and mimic, a wrestler's number is included in his repertoire.

Once when he found long trousers too warm, he had the ball boy cut them off above the knees.

During the University of Miami tournament last winter, he vowed he wouldn't shave until he won the national title. He had a three weeks' growth, had complained to look like a member of the House of David, when, as he explained, he fell asleep in a barber's chair.

MUSTY EXCUSES CHECK PAROLES

ALBANY, N. Y., (AP)—The New York state parole board has a special technique for dealing with the gunmen who appear before it and who frequently deny vehemently that they carried a firearm during a robbery.

The commissioners drop the subject and then later in the hearing suddenly pop the question: "What did you carry a gun for?"

"Just to scare 'em," is the typical resort of the gunman, caught off guard.

At least 70 per cent of the prisoners who ask for release either deny they committed a crime or give elaborate explanations designed to show they were "victims of circumstance."

The force of small checks almost invariably maintains the sums he got illegally "didn't hurt anybody seriously."

Thieves usually got into trouble, they explain, in one of two ways—"I was drunk and didn't know I was drunk," or "I was broke, had no job and needed the money."

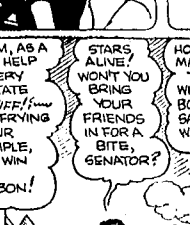

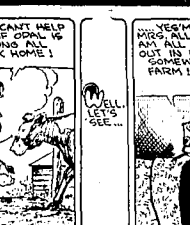

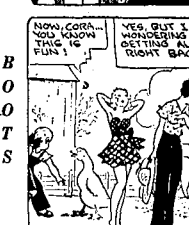

The records show that most gunmen either "found" their weapons or "a fellow gave it to me."

Grange Gleanings

By A. HARVESTER

HOLLISTER

You have to hand it to the Hollister Grange when it comes to keeping busy. They met June 25 with a good attendance and then came right back with a party to raise funds with which to improve the Grange home. What a splendid idea! The committee to be in readiness to make a move for the fall when the grain is in will be busy for some time. Also a committee was appointed to make a fire guard around the Grange building just in case they might get out. Final plans were made for the party of the following evening.

The program was presented at each of the meetings, the regular Grange program being as follows: A piano recital by the Leaning sisters; two poems read by Mrs. Dale Kunkel; summary of what has been accomplished in our Grange so far this year by Secretary Edna Frazier; outline or work program by Master Eastman of what he'd like to see accomplished during the remaining six months. Thursday evening's program was two readings by Edna Frazier, a reading by Mrs. J. M. Pierce, a musical solo by Mrs. Eric Jones, played on a saw; reading by Mrs. Rhonda Polhaman; piano solo by Mrs. Edna Frazier; and a play acted by Eric Jones and Fred Beer, with the new Pomona Grange picture.

It was decided at the regular meeting to have the degree team that met on the first and second nights of the month. The team is working on learning the third and fourth degrees that decided to only serve lunch at every other one of their meetings, but I believe that Grange did long ago.

On Thursday night, June 26, the home economics committee held by party that had been planned for some time. Those attending were: Edna Frazier, Richard Wardell Coleedge, Chester Troy Bryant, Alvin Ernest Graves, Rupert Golococha, William Edward Lewis, Jr., Eugene Charles Nash, Joseph E.
