FACTIONAL LABOR DISPUTE HALTS TANK PRODUCTION

VESSEL BUILDING ALSO DELAYED BY CIO, AFL BATTLE

Efforts of federal conciliators to settle an AFL-CIO jurisdictional dispute paralyzing army tank and other combat vehicle production bogged down today.

In a second jurisdictional fight, involving AFL factions, cancellation attempts continued in an effort to restore construction on $150,000,000 worth of "urgently needed" defense vessels.

Conferences aimed at resolving the dispute between AFL and CIO United Automobile Workers, impeding production of army mobile equipment for the fourth day, were suspended at Hillsdale, Mich., today while Federal mediator James J. Spillane went to Washington to confer with his superiors.

Spillane received an urgent summons from Director John R. Steelman of the conciliation service to come to the capital to report on progress of negotiations in the dispute which affects the Spieker Manufacturing Co., Toledo, O., and the Hillsdale Steel Products Co.

Observers foresee possible federal action in the tie-up which is under surveillance of the war department, although Spillane said he would return to Hillsdale for further conferences today.

The Spieker factory, holding contracts for 70 per cent of transmission parts for motor vehicles by a key unit in the entire manufacturing program for tanks, "jeep" cars and other motorized defense equipment. It has been shut down since Saturday because its CIO employees refuse to handle parts shipped from the subsidiary at Hillsdale. The CIO seeks reinstatement of 28 CIO employees at Hillsdale where the AFL is the recognized bargaining agent.

Factional Fight
In the shipping controversy, Conciliation Service P. Holcombe met with Joseph P. McCollum, international organizer of the AFL, Bolleymakers' union in an effort to settle an AFL-factional fight which has bogged down yards of Ingalls Shipbuilding corporation, Pascagoula, Miss., yesterday.

Two other strikes vitally affecting the defense program were a walkout of AFL carpenters on a $20,000,000 improvement project at the Houston, Tex., ship canal and a second AFL jurisdictional dispute halting work on the $25,000,000 munitions plant at Weldon Springs, Mo.

At Chicago, where a presidential fact finding board is hearing evidence on demands of 1,300,000 railroad workers for 30 to 41 per cent wage increases, the firm definite sign of a compromise came yesterday in the offer of the carriers to grant "emergency compensation."

Hang on to Your Hats: There's Full-Fledged Boom Underway

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Hang on to your hats!
Don't look now, but while everybody is busy with national defense something happened to the depression.
Experts disagree on exactly when the depression ended and the boom began—in 1933 or 1935 or 1936 or yesterday. But it happened.

Out to Iowa a farmer just sold 110 head of hogs for $5,000 and bought an electric stove.
In Chicago a department store reports its best month in 22 years.
It's a boom—with sound effects, too. The crowd in Manhattan's night club belt was never louder.

There are those who say it's just a defense boom and will leave the nation badly hung over.
Can't Match Boom
But their voices can't match the hum of airplanes in the Call of the North, New York, New Jersey and New England where production lines move at lightning speed.

A few years ago—in the memory of the youngest reader—the nation's steel plants had a graveyard look. Today their stacks and furnaces glow.
Last week somewhere in the land a heavy man with hair on his chest poured a steel ingot and made history.

The ingot sent tonnage for 1941 to date above the total for all 13 years of 1929. And 1929 was considered an excellent year—up to a certain black day in October.
Tonnage for the week was 1,621,000 net tons—the largest in history.

Tanks roll off production lines and gun barrels come off the lathe. They mean defense for the democracies and death to the depression.
The roar of factories, the babel at store counters and bars, the voices raised in alarm—all add up to "the boom is on."
When Depression Died
Experts admit it. They agree the depression—the one which started in October, 1929—is dead. They are not sure when it died.
The depression started to die in 1932 after the low, some economists say. Others date its demise from the bank holiday in 1933.
One economist told United Press the depression gave up the ghost on July 1, 1935, and the boom started squawking the very next day.

An almost uninterrupted rise started then and is still going. There were, of course, setbacks in late 1937 and early 1938, but they have been explained away as "normal secondary reactions in a long recovery movement."
At any rate, Joe Doakes is working again and plans next week to take Mrs. Doakes on a tour of the night club belt for the first time since repeal.

Active pallbearers were Jim Divilbiss, Wendell H. H. Baker, Joe James, Pence and Ralph Morse, all of Buhl; Roy Haley, Castleford, and Roy Vander, Hagerman.
Honorary Pallbearers
Honorary pallbearers were John W. Jones and Martin Curran, Hagerman; Frank Dolana and N. I. Jordan, Buhl; Del Hudson and H. A. Kinyon, Castleford.
Theasket was carried from the church under pikes joined to form an arch.

Dances will be held the first and third Thursday nights of each month, and the season will open with an informal "get acquainted" dance this Thursday evening, Oct. 16, at the American Legion Memorial hall. Interest is running high among the members and prospective members, the officers of the club announced today, following a final preliminary meeting last evening with members of the ticket committee. All Masons and their wives and Eastern Stars and their escorts are invited to join, and those who have not been informed are asked to purchase tickets at the door Thursday evening, officials announced. ### Parents have a real responsibility

Every parent realizes the importance of good teeth, good eyesight and general good health if children are to make the most of their opportunities for an education. But comparatively few parents appreciate the importance of proper diet in maintaining good physical conditions. Fatigue, nervousness and the like can easily result from improper feeding.

BUTTER-KRUST Bread helps to keep your youngsters alert and healthy

Realizing that important food elements are too often lacking in the American diet, the Committee on Food and Nutrition of the National Research Council has recommended that Vitamin B1, Iron and other vital ingredients be included in bread as a most convenient method of providing these elements. They transform food into energy, build resistance and make you generally more alert and healthy. It's your advantage to eat more BUTTER-KRUST Bread regularly, because it's "Enriched" with all these added elements.

Kimbrough, Harmon Gone, But Clubs Win

By JACK GUENTHER
NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Notes from the football press boxes:

There once was a time when the graduation of one big star meant a certain decline in the team which lost him, but not today. Harmon, Frank Reagan and Kimbrough were the big backs of 1940 but from the new Michigan, Minnesota, Penn and Texas Aggie are rolling along it would appear that none of them even has been missed.

If sports writers receive the Army's handouts read even half of their mail this season there would be seven military experts for every football expert. For some reason, Army publicity no longer is restricted to football but includes treatises on such subjects as procurement of supplies in the desert, operation of traveling shoe shops and conservation of gasoline on jeep junkies.

Washington's Huskies are the only big time football players tutored by only two coaches.

Personal nomination of the best back in the east: Portmouth's Steve Philipowicz, who can run, block and tackle almost as well as he passes. Don't blame the quarterback for his judgment on crucial plays this season. Under the new rules, incoming players may speak as soon as they report. If a sub rushes in at a critical moment you know the coach has called the play. If there is no sub, you may guess the coach doesn't know what to do, either.

The new players of men fouling the eventual downfall of Stanford, but most expected Santa Clara to apply the push. Now that all conference teams have lined up, Oregon State looks like an even bet for the west's Rose bowl bid.

When the seasons opened, national magazines were louing the far west and the south as the two strongest football sections. Today there are only four undefeated, united teams in both areas while the middle-west and the east boast more than a dozen.

It took Dana G. Bible a long, long time to get set at Texas, but look at him now. Against two supposedly unbeaten teams, LAVER and OREGON, the Longhorns have amassed 74 points.

"SPUD" VACATION FOUND NEEDLESS

Harvest vacation won't be necessary in the Twin Falls school system, the board of trustees has decided today after surveying the farm labor situation in the immediate Twin Falls vicinity and after hearing explanation of the plan by which some 60 high school boys have already been given permission to work in the fields.

Regular labor channels are apparently handling the harvest demand satisfactorily, the board found. Supt. A. W. Morgan advised the trustees that boys are leaving school in 10 days leave from school if this is required by parents. The students are given an opportunity later to make up the classwork they miss.

Would Prolong School

It was indicated that if a sudden emergency should arise, the school system would take steps to assist the farmers. Lacking any such emergency, however, trustees believed that a harvest holiday would prolong school in May when farm boys are needed at home for spring work.

After hearing an opinion from R. P. Parry, attorney for the district, the board has adopted a resolution that the board will be authorized to be approved and executed with the PSA for schooling of children at the farm labor camp. Mr. Parry's letter discussed the PSA memorandum of understanding giving terms of the proposed contract, and said the memorandum is satisfactory to him providing the $2,500 payment for the 1941-42 school year is acceptable to the board. He pointed out that the board's district court decision held recently that tuition contracts must call for the cost of education.

Weighty, Momentous Matters Occupy City Council Session

By O. A. KELKER

Decisive and discussant at last night's city council meeting was a momentous nature.

Held at the city hall as usual, the session attracted two councilmen, the city attorney, the chief of police, the building inspector, the electrical inspector and this Times reporter.

No Quorum

The "business" wasn't much but the discussions and discussions were many. Reason was that only two of the councilmen were present, and three were necessary for a quorum.

Councilmen Carl Ritchey and O. H. Coleman were there. Councilman Lionel A. Dean and Truman Green- (high) were absent, and the chief of police, Mayor Joseph Goehler was still in Washington, D. C.

The session was opened by City Attorney George Paulson with a discussion of the various types of judges before whose benches he has labored.

He announced that some western, some mellow and some just plain "tough" but that he loved his work nevertheless.

Then Chief Howard Gillette put in with a few memories of various criminals and one in particular who was given the right to freedom for the 10th or so time until the judge was informed of the true facts.

Here's a Poer!

From here the spotlight shifted to Mrs. Coleman who presented a question which stumped practically everyone.

What is the difference between a game reserve and a game reserve? Coleman asked.

RAPS FOREIGNERS WHO HEAD UNIONS

Editor, Times:

After reading the Evening Times of Oct. 9 I have finally found a man who thinks the same as I do about this union business.

First of all, just who is at the head of most of the unions? Second, just why do people have to pay some foreigner off, before they can go to work? Third, after he goes to work, of this same foreigner lets him to go out on a strike. Who keeps this poor guy in groceries while he is out on strike?

Does the union keep him well supplied? Not that is one thing the union is supposed to do. That is why you pay your dues, but nowadays the union is nothing but a pack they can't get to join the union; but they do not promise you a job. You have to wait your turn, maybe you get a job and maybe you don't, but some foreigner has your hard earned money when it gets to where you have to buy a job here in the good old U. S. A. there is something haywire somewhere.

Let me Mr. Menage of Jerome: it is high time that our government was taking a hand in such matters. Just why did such guys like these leave the country that they hold so dear? They just didn't get by so easy as they would never have left if they had our country, the good old United States of America, is far too good a land for such people to be allowed to slip in let alone try to run our business.

The C. B. & Q. shop workers at Creston, Ia., went out on strike in 1937 for higher wages. Did they get it? No, and that isn't all. They are still out. Did the union get them another job? No.

This is just a sample of our unions, so the sooner they are worked over, the safer our own U. S. A. will be.

Woman Released Over Protest of County Attorney

JEROME, Oct. 14 (Special)—Over protests raised by Richard H. Seely, Jerome county prosecutor, Probate Judge William G. Comstock today has dismissed charges of felonious assault with intent to commit murder which had been filed against Mrs. Blanche Kingcade, 28, who resides near here.

The case against her was dismissed at a scheduled preliminary hearing before Judge Comstock yesterday afternoon after her attorney, Frank M. Rettig, had made a recommendation to the court.

One of the witnesses at the hearing yesterday, Dr. Lauren M. Meher, testified that there were no bullet wounds on the injured man's head. Other witnesses were Dominic Ross, who lives at the Kingcade farm home, and Sheriff Johnson.

In dismissing the charges, Judge Comstock held that evidence against the woman was insufficient.

FOOD PROSPECTS POOR IN EUROPE

By United Press

Embattled Europe, with possible exceptions of Britain and Germany, faces the war's third winter with the prospect of food and fuel shortages that may be the worst of modern times.

A United Press survey based upon official statistics and information from reliable neutral sources showed the food situation in Europe is desperately acute in some axis-occupied areas such as Greece, parts of Yugoslavia and western Russia as well as some sections of Norway and Hungary.

Prospects for Italy, France, Belgium, Poland, Holland, Bulgaria, Rumania and Sweden were described as increasingly poor.

German supplies were described by all sources as ample and better than reported in better shape than a year ago because of the American pact with Italy in the Atlantic ocean and lend-lease assistance.

Grange Cleanings

ADVERTISING

We have been looking to the column this week in the paper of a scrub from the Eden Grange. Hope she likes us and continues to send us news of the North Side Grange. The news is a trifle old but I suspect Eric Jones told her of the column only recently. You all Eden folks, I can't help but feel that you would get more publicity for your Granges out of this column than you would out of other bits of news put any here from the second page to the last page of the paper. Good as the Times and News are, I believe scarcely a person reads all of the paper. Rather one reads special things that interest him, and looks for those things in rather definite places in the paper. Other items just happen or do not happen to catch his eye.

I hope the Grangea read this column and I know a lot of folks who are not Grangea read it, so why not take advantage of this opportunity to get your Grange in the news of the North Side Grange folks appreciate the value of advertising. Ask any wide awake business man and he will tell you the value of advertising is not as what he says in the news in regard to the activities of your Grange. Some of the liveliest meetings of your Grange are having out the writer of this column. Don't give them something to talk about. And don't forget there is a prize for the two best contributions at the end of the year, the awards to be based on promptness, completeness and attention to details.
