TENSION TIGHTENS IN FAR EAST

Let's Light up for Christmas--Cash Awards Offered by Times and News

It's time to think of "lighting up" for Christmas. Downtown and business decorations already indicate that Twin Falls this year will be more than ever "the Christmas city."
 So, should be getting busy on plans for lighting decorations at their homes—large or small, the lighting schemes will help spread the Christmas spirit in a year when good will to men is needed more than ever before.
 The Times and News Christmas lighting contest for 1941, announced today, will offer a total of $65 in cash prizes to householders and business firms. There will be $50 awarded for residential lighting and $15 for downtown effects.
 So prizes are simple—no entry blanks are necessary.
 Lighting decorations should be exterior, or can be interior if clearly visible from the street. The ideal plan is a combination of the two—Christmas lights gleaming outside and a cheery Christmas effect from within.
 Merchants, for instance, can utilize display windows since these are visible from the street.
 Remember, it's a year in which Twin Falls is seeking to stress the Christ-honored in Christmas decorations. That isn't essential to win prizes in the Times-News contest, but it may help you in planning your own entry.
 As in past years the Twentieth Century club will cooperate in the judging. The women's committee will be assisted by one or more committeemen from the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce.
 Here are the official rules:
 1. Contest open to any householder in the city limits; for business divisions, contest open to any store in the entire business district.
 2. Total prizes $65 in cash. Home division, $25 first prize; $15 second; $5 third; five awards of $1 each. Business division, first prize $15 and second award $5.
 3. Lights must be exterior, or interior if clearly visible from the street.
 4. All decorations should be in operation by Dec. 15, which is one week prior to Christmas day. The decorations must remain lighted through the night of Jan. 1. Lights should be kept on until 10 p. m. so that judges may tour the city on the evenings they select.
 5. Type of decorations: Any type desired by the individual householder or merchant, whether carrying Christmas theme, religious motif or abandoning central theme for varied effects.
 6. Judging basis: General effect most important. Elaborateness of displays will not be the decisive factor. A small but grand award over others more elaborate.
 7. No entry blanks or entry lists necessary. Simply decorate and enter in upholding Twin Falls as "the Christmas city."

Japs Warned to Halt Aggression In Asiatic Area

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP)—President Roosevelt can vassal the far eastern situation with congressional leaders today while this government awaited Japan's answer to United States proposals for peace in the orient and an explanation of Japanese concentrations in Indo-China.
 Well-informed sources said Japan must furnish evidence soon that she is renouncing her policy of aggression if she desires "to save the U. S.-Japanese 'peace' conversations."
 Congressional leaders talked with Mr. Roosevelt nearly two hours. As they left, House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack, of Massachusetts, and Sen. Walter G. George, D. Ga., told reporters:
 "The far eastern situation was thoroughly canvassed in connection with the defense of our territories and our vital interests in the far east."
 Others attending the conference were Vice-President Henry A. Wallace, House Speaker Sam Rayburn, Chairman Carl Albert, D. N. Y., of the House foreign affairs committee, and Acting Senate Democratic Leader Lister Hill of Alabama.
 There was no word from the Japanese embassy about Tokyo dispatches from Tokyo which reported that Japanese Foreign Minister Togo was saying that Japan faces an "unprecedented crisis because of recent most serious developments."
 Secretary of State Cordell Hull was scheduled to meet Mr. Roosevelt later today.
 Mr. Hiram Boren, Oklahoma Republican, said that Japan can "rescue the 'peace' talks from failure if she reduces promptly her garrisons in French-Indo-China and French Indochina and agrees to negotiate on the principle of self-determination."
 The Japanese embassy reported that the reply to President Roosevelt's proposals regarding the islands and purpose of Japanese troop concentration in Indo-China was expected soon, possibly today. But there was no word from the embassy whether the reply would be acceptable to the United States.
 Optimistic Outlook
 Hull's frank discussion yesterday of the completely opposite viewpoints of the United States and Japan, was interpreted as reflecting a possibility of settlement.
 It also was looked upon as a background for the American public in case events in the Pacific lead to war.
 Hull, in his press conference, pictured Japan as a conquest-hungry power which had been "driven to political suicide."
 A reliable source said, however, that the investigation was being continued and a report may be made at the January meeting of the parliament of the League of Nations for Johnston case.

Officials Map 150 Billion Dollar "Victory Program"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP)—Top-ranking defense officials have approved details of a $150,000,000,000 "victory program" to defeat the axis and said today they have agreed to build up the defense spending rate to a peak of $5,000,000,000 a month by June, 1945.
 Such a program is more than twice as much as congress has authorized or is contemplating spending. If approved, it will amount to $100,000,000,000.
 Broad details may be announced within the next three weeks, one high defense official said. He said sponsors of the program are confident of winning President Roosevelt's approval.
 The existing program, including an appropriation of $2,639,031 approved by a house committee yesterday, totals $7,900,254,000. The house took up the new bill today. It includes money for increasing the army to 2,000,000 men and acquiring huge stocks of guns, tanks and airplanes.
 But the "victory program" envisages appropriation of at least $75,000,000,000 more, a well-placed defense official said.
 Appropriation of such an additional sum would not, of course, add to the national debt, which now is above $55,000,000,000. Part of the new funds would be covered by taxation. The national debt represents the difference between income and outgo—the sum the government has to borrow to balance its books.
 Weapon Plans
 Most of the new funds, if made available, will be spent for tanks and other combat vehicles, planes, anti-tank and anti-aircraft guns, and a large portion of the funds is proposed to allocate for planes would be for four-engine bombers.
 The officials would not disclose specifically how many of each of the required war weapons the new program envisages but he said it would be safe to say that the possibility that present requirements for some of the major items would be doubled or tripled, and in some cases quadrupled.

COMMITTEE TOLD OF HUGE PROFITS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP)—Special Investigator Gordon K. Miller today told a house military affairs sub-committee that Leon K. Shannack, alleged New York "defense broker," has made $25,000 in commissions for his services in obtaining defense contracts for one firm.
 Miller, who searched Shannack's confidential records, said he also stands to collect an additional $31,950 on pending orders for the same work done at a substantially lower figure than that which he approved by Remington. On one deal, Miller said, Shannack made a clear profit of $50,000.
 The same papers were sent from the interstate commission on crime to be signed by Gov. Chase A. Clark. It was about dusk that he had signed the agreement, but the agreement had not yet been approved by the legislature. In 1941 session approved the compact and to assure legality of the compact the papers were sent here for Clark's signature.

Reds Advance as Nazi Army Suffers Set-Backs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP)—Lend-lease officials said today that aid already is en route to Turkey under President Roosevelt's order declaring that country's defenses essential to the defense of the United States.
 Turkey will pay for it in part with raw materials, primarily chrome, a strategic mineral for which the United States is almost wholly dependent upon imports.
 The actual effect of the President's order, however, was said by some officials to be more apparent than real, inasmuch as Turkey has been receiving lend-lease goods from the United States through Britain. The British agreed early in the war to apply the Turks with needed equipment in return for Turkey's promise to be a non-belligerent ally.
 Under the new arrangement, Turkey will receive the goods directly from the United States.
 If the United States receives payment for this work as planned by the lend-lease officials would counter the new policy a "good bargain."

CLARK WILL SIGN PAROLE COMPACT

BOISE, Dec. 4 (AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today signed a parole compact for supervision of paroled prisoners.
 The same papers were sent from the interstate commission on crime to be signed by Gov. Chase A. Clark. It was about dusk that he had signed the agreement, but the agreement had not yet been approved by the legislature. In 1941 session approved the compact and to assure legality of the compact the papers were sent here for Clark's signature.

BEET CHIEF WILL BE HERE SUNDAY

Charles M. Kearney, Washington, D. C., president of the National Beet Growers association, will arrive in Twin Falls Sunday for the conference preparatory to the national convention scheduled to open here Wednesday, Dec. 10, he advised the committee.
 Mr. Kearney is at Pueblo, Colo., for funeral services honoring the late Alvin B. Adams, 66, Colorado beet grower, who died early Saturday morning at Washington. The beet growers' president accompanied the committee delegation to the Adams funeral by special train from the national capital. The train arrived at Pueblo today.
 Senator Adams was a strong supporter and spokesman for western beet growers. Mr. Kearney welcomed the committee.
 "I know all our people share by sorrow over Senator Adams' passing, an irreparable loss to Colorado and the entire nation."
 The beet convention, first national gathering ever held in Twin Falls, will have a banquet at the Elks lodge here. Last year the nationwide sessions were held at Ball Lake City, and in 1939 at the Frankford Hotel, President Kearney's home city, where he resides at Morrill, Neb.

REDS ADVANCE AS NAZI ARMY SUFFERS SET-BACKS

HEAVY PRESSURE IN SOUTH AREAS
 BY JOE ALEX MORRIS
 United Press Foreign Editor
 Red army successes were reported gaining momentum on the eastern front today and the Japanese press bitterly charged that the United States was plotting aggressive action in the far east.
 Although fighting died down temporarily after Great Britain's setback in the Libyan desert campaign, the eastern front was ablaze from Leningrad to Moscow and the Black sea with the Russian reporting the enemy "in full flight" on important sectors.
 Berlin acknowledged heavy Russian pressure in the south and said the Soviets also were counter-attacking the axis along lines at the west and Leningrad. In a campaign attacks were broken up.
 In occupied Europe, the Moscow radio reported that Serbian guerrillas had recaptured the towns of Ulice and Cacak. Ulice had been described in German dispatches earlier this week as blasted by explosion of a "Communist" munitions depot, killing "about 9,000 persons."
 Third Front
 The refugee Jugoslav headquarters at Cairo claimed that the Germans had been forced to send three divisions—from 30,000 to 40,000 men—eastward to fight the "third front" in Serbia. In a campaign against the guerrillas.
 The far eastern situation continued increasingly critical, Japanese Foreign Minister Hirota today said that "an unprecedented crisis" confronted the nation and the controlled press intensified its attacks on the United States.
 The extremist newspaper Jochu-sen said, Franklin Roosevelt's request for information regarding Japanese reinforcements in Indo-China was "a scheme to shift responsibility of war injuries."

JOHNSTON CASE PROBE CONTINUES

BOISE, Ida., Dec. 4 (AP)—An appeal for pardon by Duncan McD. Johnston, former Twin Falls mayor, convicted of murder, today began reports that investigation into a note "concerning the slaying of George L. O'Leary is being continued."
 Chase A. Clark, who received the unsigned note last March exonerating Johnston of slaying the 36-year-old man, later in the investigation, declined comment on the investigation.
 A reliable source said, however, that the investigation was being continued and a report may be made at the January meeting of the parliament of the League of Nations for Johnston case.

GERMANS BATTLE COUNTER-ATTACK

BERLIN, Dec. 4 (AP)—German Italian and Slovak forces are battling to reverse the gains of the Russian counter-offensive in the Donets basin. It was disclosed today.
 The high command, announcing the action in its daily communiqué described the Russian attacks as strong but said they had been checked and the Russians had suffered severe casualties.
 Official news agency dispatches said the Russians were attacking still west of Rostov where they met their men against the axis forces farther north.
 Dispatches said that on the Moscow front, the Germans had gained new ground, and had repulsed repeated attempts by the Russians to break through the German lines in the Leningrad area.

THE GOOD LORD DELIVER ME—

From people who make speeches that are supposed to be the minutes log but which last on and on into eternity. A half hour, or more.

And from people who say, "If you've heard this before, stop me." And you know—and they know, too, the speaking sort of Gabriel and his trumpet. Could accomplish that.

And from people who, when they have talked you into utter weariness; where you think you can't all through any more of this and live. Keep saying, "There's just one thing more I want to bring out!"

But then, The Good Lord deliver me from people who KICK TO make speeches anyhow!

99 Per Cent's Pretty Good

Tax collections are a problem to almost every city in the country. Just how serious it may become was shown by a recent survey in Cleveland which revealed so much tax delinquent land that it could not be sold without disrupting the real estate market; acres and acres just hanging, useless, and virtually without any owner at all. The same situation holds in many cities which have not yet realized it.

Norwalk, Conn., Tells a Different Story

This year's tax collections are expected to total 99 per cent of the levy. Intrigued, the Municipal Finance Officers' association found the reasons simple: (1) plenty of publicity and advertising; (2) good periodic reports to taxpayers; (3) diligence in getting after delinquents; and (4) efficiency and courtesy in the tax office.

No miracles, not even anything up the sleeve.

SERIAL STORY

LADY BY REQUEST

BY HELEN R. WOODWARD

THIS STORY is set in the drawing room of the home of Diana Adams. At dinner Adela was sullen but apprehensive. Diana sought her surreptitious glance more than once and knew that she held a weapon over Adela's head which might be used to advantage. Also that Adela's hatred of her had increased a hundred fold.

AFTER dinner Stephen asked Diana to help him correct manuscript and agreed to do so. Adela watched them go jealously but dared say nothing. Tonight she could not invent an excuse to keep them from spending hours alone together. A short time later Diana heard voices, then the outer door slammed and she supposed that Adela had gone out with some member of the reckless crowd she called her "kindred spirits." Joy Long, the pianist, came in and sat down. Stephen worked until late, at times almost seeming to forget Diana, so absorbed was he in his thoughts, and it was only when he wrote of the South American republics and the necessity of cementing friendly relations with them in order to keep the front of defiance to the totalitarian governments of Europe.

MOMENT OF TENDRENESS

CHAPTER XIV

AT the sound of her startled movement they sprang apart. Gull was written large on their faces. Richard clasped his fist tight in one hand, laughed unpleasantly. "Why, it's the lady of the manor, herself! The cried out, and then, with a great lurch of heart, thought of Evelyn's loving words concerning him.

Adela's face was livid with rage. "Lady, my eye!" she shouted, regardless of listening servants. Her zircon, dark eyes flashed with fury. "I suppose you think if your note is to tell my brother what you took pains to spy upon! And I'll tell that you're a lying, cheating, eavesdropper!"

"Great heavens—how time has flown! And you must be dead if you didn't stop me!"

"It was all so interesting," she smiled broadly, and then she clasped a hand over her mouth roughly. He was flushed with embarrassment and Diana felt that she would have given a great deal if she had not witnessed that embrace.

Without a word, Diana turned and walked out of the room and into the kitchen. She was keeping silent could she maintain her dignity. But her heart was sick within her as she thought of the scene which had taken place in her husband. Even she, herself, had been led to think well of him because of Evelyn's praise. But now she knew that she had been the true one after all.

She lay down on the bed, her hands over her eyes, her heart full of misery. The feeling of her note followed him to the house where she had been. She felt spent, utterly tired. She wished fervently that she might she lifted her gaze to his and saw that his eyes were fixed on a look that exceeded friendliness. Her lips trembled and suddenly he drew her closer against his heart and kissed her, softly at first, then with unexpected fierceness and passion. And to her surprise her lips responded with all the ardor of her being.

Then he released her, pushed her from him, drew himself up sharply. "I'm sorry, Diana—that wasn't in the bargain, was it? Forgive me, my dear, and I promise it won't happen again!"

And then Diana, chilled by this sudden expulsion from his arms, remembered, too! Stephen loved Evelyn Thorpe and had only been carried away for the moment by her nearness and willingness to be taken in his arms. The brief embrace meant nothing more than that she was not risen higher at his feet. Half an hour later General George Marshall, chief of staff, protesting against waiting for years to receive a promotion (12 years for a major before commission as a major) but the general says that while this is a hardship in certain individual cases, he considers the regulation a good one.

New U. S. Envoy to Berlin Can Walk On Egg-Shells Without Cracking Them

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service

WASHINGTON — In naming 49-year-old George L. Brandt, chief of the American Embassy in Berlin, President Roosevelt is sending a man who can talk Turkish as well as German to the Nazi rulers of Germany.

And as a matter of cold fact, Brandt is one of the most versatile men who have been trained to talk bluntly when need arises, there are few who know more of German, Turkish, Italian and Spanish.

This is one of the many accomplishments of the new chief of the American embassy in Berlin. A native of Washington, Brandt graduated from the Business High School here, then became a stenographer in the Washington Navy 1915, longing for a sight of the big world, he applied to the state department for the post of student interpreter at Constantinople. The government used to name, as minor attaches at Constantinople, the men who were to learn the language of the country to which they were assigned. This was mostly done in the days of the Ottoman Empire. Brandt was not taught in American schools and colleges and which was difficult to learn well.

Sent to Istanbul Brandt was named student interpreter to the American embassy at Istanbul, at the time still called Constantinople. His chief was Henry Morgenthau, Jr., father of the present secretary of the treasury.

When the German flag flew over Constantinople, he had all the adventures of a 23-year-old could possibly have desired. His ship took him to Naples. Next he went to Rome where the American Ambassador Thomas Nelson told him that his youth up with passage to Bari by train and arranged for his trip on the Greek ship allowed to sail out of the straits. His journey occasioned by war conditions. Brandt landed at Corfu in Greece, then from there to Athens, then to Salonika, thence to Bulgaria and finally to Constantinople. He had about a year in which to get his Turkish language when the German flag flew over Constantinople. Once more, owing to the war, the Germans, Italians, and British, he had to make his journey two weeks, so that by the time he reached the Egyptian capital any news he might have about Turkey would be old stale news. Brandt perfected his Turkish and picked up quite a bit of Arabic on the way.

After a spell of duty in Washington, he was sent back to Egypt, but to disaster in December, 1919, as vice consul and a full fledged career man. By his industry and ability he consistently advanced in grade and was consul at Messina, Sicily, in 1922. In June, he was made chief of the visa office in Washington. Then he got a series of interesting consular appointments — Beirut, Syria, 1928; Cologne, 1930; Genoa, 1932; Mexico, 1933.

New Post a Comment

In the latter year he left for Europe, having the important job of technical adviser to the meetings of the international committee on political refugees at London and London. Later in the same year he was named chief of the government of the Philippines on immigration matters. Since July, 1939, he has been detailed to the state department in Washington.

His new post is a compliment to Brandt. Ordinarily a charge d'affaires holds down the embassy job while the ambassador is away. It is usually given to the first secretary of the embassy or to the counselor of the embassy. Now the German post is doubly important, because Brandt will not only be the highest ranking diplomatic officer at the United States in Germany, but almost the whole works, because all communications have been cut off. In the present tense condition of affairs between the United States and Germany, the job takes one who is able to walk on egg shells without cracking them. The state department evidently thinks he can.

High command of the army is looking to Roosevelt for a list of the 50,000 Junior officers required if Uncle Sam gets into war with a land force as large as that of Germany. That number of junior officers if congress authorizes increase of the army to 100 divisions (there are now 33 divisions of all types) and every ROTC on the campus can rest assured he will receive a commission.

To offer the new division the high command says that 100 competent major generals can be promoted and 500 colonels, but the junior officers are a problem. There is some talk of establishing 90-day schools to hatch second lieutenants, as was done in World War I, and of recalling into active service captains who have been retired because they had not risen higher at their own expense. Half a million in Idaho have addressed General George Marshall, chief of staff, protesting against waiting for years to receive a promotion (12 years for a major before commission as a major) but the general says that while this is a hardship in certain individual cases, he considers the regulation a good one.

Forecast that the insurance companies were being hit hard and were figuring on plans to come out with new rates scheduled in the making. Major companies have instructed their representatives in Idaho that come Jan. 1, next, new rates scheduled will be adopted and anyone desiring insurance must pay more for it than in the past. Old policy holders will have to struggle to meet payments on premiums and this will mean a decline in the deposits of savings banks. Also it will result in the lapsing of many policies as the new tax pressure forces against them. Many companies had put out of the insurance companies, but reserves are not yielding as much interest as formerly and major companies are attempting to overcome this decline by charging more for insurance. POTA TO GROWERS HEAR PEST DATA

JEROME, Dec. 4 (Special)—Two meetings for Jerome county farmers interested in insect control of potatoes were held here Tuesday...

Dr. H. C. Manis, assistant entomologist from the University of Idaho branch experiment station at Parma, had charge of the sections.

Insect Research Told Discussions of research work that has been done on potato insects were conducted and Dr. Manis stated that there were no insect pests on potatoes in Idaho for which data are to be applied.

Dr. J. M. Haeder, assistant plant pathologist from the University of Idaho, discussed the potato diseases and stressed the importance of certified seed as a means of most effectively avoiding many of the potato diseases.

Of particular interest were his slides and other illustrations on the comparatively new disease in Idaho known as bacterial ring rot.

Dr. Kraus mentioned the storage studies on seed potatoes and on commercial potatoes as it affects the final yield and the quality of the potatoes; irrigation experiments on potatoes carried on in conjunction with the agricultural engineering division of Idaho; and fertilizer trials on potatoes in cooperation with the agronomy department; studies on the cooking qualities of Idaho potatoes as affected by storage.

OIL CONTROLLED BY FOUR NATIONS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP)—Oil, the main source of power and energy in modern warfare, is controlled almost entirely by four nations now seeking to bring about the defeat of the totalitarian powers, a navy survey has revealed.

The research, conducted by Rear Admiral Harry B. Stuart and R. O. Tracie, navy senior petroleum engineer, showed that the combine interests of the United States, Great Britain, the Netherlands and Russia accounted for 94.8 per cent of the world's oil production in 1939.

This is highly significant, the report said, "Any country somewhat superior in armaments, but with limited petroleum resources, attempting an aggressive war or even fighting defensively against a nation having access to practically unlimited supplies of oil, will encounter a disadvantage almost impossible to overcome."

Figures released by the survey showed that the United States, Great Britain and the Netherlands accounted for 84.3 per cent of the world's oil production in 1939. Of a world total of 2,379,464,000 barrels (42 U. S. gallons each), the United States accounted for 1,428,624,000 and British and Dutch interests for 22,377,200.

Furthermore, the survey indicated that those nations in Europe now under control of the axis powers accounted for a very small percentage of the total world production.

Two years ago Europe produced 274,000 barrels of oil, but the percentage of which was controlled by Great Britain and America. The combined total produced in Asia and Africa, North America and South America was 1,805,280,000, the survey said. Most of this oil was controlled by interests of the two English-speaking nations.

Last Rites for Oakley Pioneer

BURLEY, Dec. 4 (Special)—Funeral services were held Nov. 22 at the Oakley L.D.S. tabernacle for Solomon F. McIntosh, well-known pioneer, who died Nov. 19 at the age of 87.

A mixed quartet sang "Guide Me to Thee" and Joseph Wilson sang the invocation. Speakers were Moses B. Martin, Orville Heister and George H. Sever. Bishop Lloyd Martin sang "Perfect Day," and Althea Hardy and Forest Seaver sang "Whispering Hopes." John H. Fairchild gave the benediction.

Burial was in the Basin cemetery, with J. B. McIntosh dedicating the grave. Acting as pallbearers were Albert McIntosh, Gene Praetor, Herschel Becke, Edson Fairchild, Carl Becke and Althea Fairchild.

Flowers were carried by Myrtle McIntosh, Marietta McIntosh, Ethel Becke, Margaret Becke, Vera Fairchild and Martha Martin.

Grange Cleanings

By A. HARVESTER

GOODING With an attendance of 66 members present and Master Joel Brummett in the chair, the Gooding Grange met last Friday night for a very interesting session.

The two drill teams of the Grange, announced a practice for the week of the two degrees at King Hill this week. Quite a lengthy discussion was held concerning the building of a new Grange hall; however, no decision was reached at the meeting.

It is a matter of much encouragement that so many of our Grangers are laying plans to own their own Grange home, as the starting of a building project would give all the members of the Grange something to do and would serve to hold them in the Grange. If they can get the priorities, the priorities will get you if you don't watch out.

The main order under new business was the election of officers. For master, Joel Brummett was re-elected, and will be assisted by the following: Overseer, Harold Steele; lecturer, Wilma Steele; steward, Frank Grove; chaplain, Pauline; Byram; treasurer, Sam Redington; recorder, secretary, Frances Brummett; gate keeper, Bud Quigley; lady assistant steward, Evelyn Grove.

At the next meeting, a Christmas program will be the feature and Helen Engels, lecturer of the Juvenile Grange, will be in charge.

The Juvenile Grange was in session Friday night, with 11 members in attendance. They also held a meeting of officers, with the following result: Master, Kenneth Steele; overseer, Danille Gorrell; lecturer, Helen Jean Engels; steward, Charles Vance; assistant steward, Calvin Gorrell; chaplain, Rosemary Bookman; treasurer, Vera Varin; secretary, Edna Steele; gate keeper, Alvin Gorrell; lady assistant steward, Elaine Brummett. Arrangements for installation will be announced at a later date.

WEST POINT And over at West Point the Grange also met last Friday night, with 33 members present, and only routine matters claiming the attention of the members. It was announced that the Juveniles would hold a state Grange meeting at the home of Idaho Blue Grange, at Twin Falls, next October. The lecture presented a program as follows:

Roll call, relating some interesting thing in the community; a talk on education, Prof. Bremore; talk on various topics, Ray Smith; community singing of a number of songs. At the conclusion of the program, refreshments of sandwiches, cookies and softies served, followed by a social hour.

CEADAR DRAW Cedar Draw Grange met last Friday night at the school house, with Master Creed and Mrs. Creed back in the chair. Three applications were received by the Grange for membership. There was a good turnout of members and the Grange was Brother Postpaid out to Grange again, and also good to see the Grange back home. For a number of people for granted until they are gone for a time. And then you somehow seem to miss them and are glad to see them come back at the Cedar Draw Grange will be the guests of Northville Grange at the Dec. 8 meeting of the latter. The next regular meeting of the Cedar Draw Grange will feature the election of officers for 1942 and a good turnout is desired.

After the regular Grange session, the Cedar Draw school held a box social and an interesting program, which was very much enjoyed by the members of the Grange and others who attended. Boxes sold well and the sum was turned to the school children.

A letter was received by the Grange from Harold Knight, who is in the army service now. Harold is located at San Francisco at present, but expects soon to sail for Manila. I wouldn't wonder if Harold would appreciate a card or letter from some of the Grangers, but to sort of remind him that we haven't forgotten him.

KNUEL Well, I finally caught up with that bunch of good Grangers from Knuel. I've been trailing them all summer, trying to get some Grange news. All these years I've tried to do just what he said to do, but at times my technique has been so good that I have found myself under the object of my tender ministrations, or it may be, carried rather wildly across the calf pen, outside the over enthusiastic, sentimental cow, or was it a bull? I've always longed for the opportunity to teach one of Leo Gramma's little Brahmas darlings. What one of those babies couldn't do to you!

I've always longed for the opportunity to teach one of Leo Gramma's little Brahmas darlings. What one of those babies couldn't do to you!

After hearing Elmer Haught's formula for teaching a calf to drink, I am puzzled. All these years I've tried to do just what he said to do, but at times my technique has been so good that I have found myself under the object of my tender ministrations, or it may be, carried rather wildly across the calf pen, outside the over enthusiastic, sentimental cow, or was it a bull? I've always longed for the opportunity to teach one of Leo Gramma's little Brahmas darlings. What one of those babies couldn't do to you!

SENATE SHEETS NEAR IN HOUSE-APPROVED ANTI-STRIKE ACT

SENATE SHEETS NEAR IN HOUSE-APPROVED ANTI-STRIKE ACT

SOLON ASSERTS SMITH MEASURE IS TOO DRASTIC

By JOHN R. BEAL
WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (Special)—Senate leaders sought today to route drastic house-approved labor legislation outlawing mass picketing and "involuntary" strikes to the labor committee where a milder bill could be substituted.

Most of the key figures connected with Senate efforts to revise labor legislation are in Colorado for the funeral of Sen. Alva B. Adams, but the initial reaction of labor committee members was that the bill, passed by the house 252 to 138 yesterday, was "too drastic."

Members of the Senate White House press, those by a 2 to 1 margin to approve the most drastic of the three bills offered in conference with the defense strike situation.

Although the captive coal mine strike is now all but settled, it ignited the fuse of congressional action on the labor situation which exploded yesterday in the Senate chamber by the bill proposed by Rep. Howard W. Smith, D. Va. The Smith bill would:

1. Prohibit mass picketing in defense labor disputes.
2. Prohibit strikes on union or organizational issues, such as the closed shop.
3. Prohibit strikes not sanctioned by a majority of workers in government supervision.
4. Require labor unions to register with the government, furnishing data on officials, members and dues.
5. Establish a statutory mediation system under which strikes could be prohibited during a 60-day cooling off period.
6. Deprive unions of Wagner act benefits for "knowingly or negligently" permitting Communists, bundlers, or fellow travelers to become members.

Sen. Lister Hill, D. Ala., administration whip and acting Democratic leader in the absence of Sen. Alben W. Barkley, D. Ky., declined comment on the bill, but said he favored the general provisions of a bill by Sen. Charles McNary, D. Ore., which is chairman of a senate labor sub-committee which last week revised the bill, later approved by the Senate.

The Hill bill provides:

1. That 30 days' written notice be given when changes are desired in existing agreements covering wages, hours and working conditions.
2. That employers and workers immediately undertake to negotiate the dispute.
3. That after five days either side may call in the labor department's conciliation service.
4. That if settlement is not obtained within a reasonable time the dispute may be certified to the mediation board—or to a special three-member board the President selected.
5. That no closed shop contract may be signed with a union which within the year has struck for such an employment condition, except for extension of existing closed shop agreements.
6. Any legislation passed, said Hill, "ought to carry the general provisions of the Hill bill."

FALL FURNITURE GOES PATRIOTIC

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (Special)—Current emphasis on patriotism is affecting household furnishing styles, according to Anne Ames, home decoration editor to the Chicago real estate board.

This fall, Miss Ames reported, the Federal American style has succeeded English Regency as the favorite of home decorators.

The patriotic style that fits the national feeling at this time, she explained.

According to Miss Ames, the Federal American style was originated at the end of the Colonial period in this country. Typical were the Hapgood style chair, the upholstered wing chair, the high back, curlicue and pineapple chair.

"But the one thing that most people think of when you mention Federal is the eagle you find perched atop a high-backed mirror, or incorporated in fabrics," Miss Ames said.

Modern interpretations of the Federal American style have succeeded them into a complete ensemble, including everything for home decoration and furniture.

"Men have taken on names of the period—Havers red, brigade blue, Trenton tan, federal gold, Plymouth green."

Miss Ames noted that defense priorities have forced home-seekers to build homes already built, instead of constructing new ones. This, too, has its effect on furnishing styles, she said.

Bumper Christmas Ahead as Peril Of Shortage Spurs Early Shopping

By JACK DEVLIN
NEA Service
NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (Special)—Santa Claus is coming, his pack bulging with defense dollars for the nation's merchants.

National Income has hit an all-time peak, stockrooms are loaded with Christmas merchandise and already the buying rush has started in some cities where cold snaps have served as reminders that you can't start shopping too late.

The only possible cheer in the Christmas bill of good cheer is that existing stocks may be sold out in some places with no replacements available because of the growing list of priorities or because manufacturers are too hampered with government defense contracts to handle large orders.

Only the national business and manufacturing associations in at least one case haven't even bothered to make the customary thorough Christmas season survey of conditions because general prospects have been so good.

Probably the optimism is based upon reports that consumer income in the United States is seventeen and a half per cent higher this year than in 1935.

And, compared with the last year before the market fell down and went down 12 years ago, national income has jumped about 16 billion (not million) dollars to a new annual record estimated at $6 billion.

Shortage of Employees
The new prosperity has almost been too rapid, from one point of view. Department stores have complained of difficulty in obtaining enough employees to handle the business. While there are enough potential salesgirls and salesmen available, they say, it's getting harder and harder to get behind-the-scenes workers.

Into this category fall skilled and semi-skilled workers who make up 50 per cent of the personnel with which the public has no direct contact in a department store, men and women who have found defense jobs elsewhere.

Similar complaints are sounded by manufacturers situated in areas where big national defense industries are luring away faithful employees with offers of more money, and, in some cases, a five-day, 40-hour work week. One result has been a general increase in wages of many workers so they will stay at their old jobs.

Christmas buying prospects have been so good that generally merchants have increased their orders of goods from 10 to 25 per cent.

The increase in the size of the orders also has been considered frequently as good insurance against a possible work week cut in the season and finding no more available.

Best Priorities Cut
The fact that plenty of Christmas stock is reported on hand, despite the shortage of stock in the streets, that has blanketed some mills, presents an interesting picture.

In the toy field, for instance, a fair is held in New York each March and about 3,000 buyers flock to the place to inspect the goods. The auction begins immediately and deliveries start within a few months.

As a result, when priority orders were first issued last year, tremendous numbers of toys had been already manufactured. Following the issue of priorities, they were taken wherever possible to cut down on the consumption of scarce metals such as brass, aluminum and some types of steel.

Plastics or different type metals were substituted where possible. In some cases, wires leading to transistor sets for electric toys were cut a foot or two shorter. Many shiny gadgets on toys have been either left out or made of tin or brass or a substitute has been used.

The musical instrument field is now having its troubles because of the shortage of brass and steel for instruments and steel for stands. But, here again, merchants placed orders for electric toys in the past.

The same holds true in the paper industry. Book publishers got off to an early start. Making of paper, cardboard boxes and twine were in steady production before the threat of shortages loomed, but the paper shortage has cut into cotton and woolen mills, some of which are now tied up with government contracts for cloth in under the wire months ago.

Film Writer Tells How to Get Story Read by Producers

By KETTI FRINGS
(Studio secrets and gossip—Submitted by Paul Harwood.)
HOLLYWOOD—Almost everyone some time in his or her life, has heard or read a story which seems to need writing—and selling. Today, as always, Hollywood is crying for new material. We hear everywhere the demand for new story ideas, but there also is a wall between the writer and the studio.

Well, your name means nothing to a studio when the story arrives. And, bluntly, there is always a risk that a contributor has borrowed his story from some other person or source, perhaps quite unintentionally. No studio cares to risk a plagiarism suit. In fact, it doesn't even dare to read unsolicited manuscripts from writers about whom it knows nothing.

Two Routes to Glory
So the first problem for the unknown is how to get a story read. This can be done in two ways: Either you are represented by an accredited agent, or, if you're lucky, you can get the attention of a studio executive because for several years before I had written for pictures, I had been writing about them.

Whether you bombard an agent or the studio directly through someone you know, the next most important thing is to remember the Golden Rule: "Surround it with showmanship." Attractive packaging always helps, yet too many people overlook this in trying to market stories.

Elas Bowers, counselor to Bishop Hanks of the Starry Ferry L.D.S. church, officiated at the service. Family prayer at the mortuary was led by Pres. R. C. Hatch. Friends at the service was played by Annie Beck, and Leonard Berg sang "Open the Gates of the Temple." Bishop Norman, Norma Lou Rees, Ellen Egbert, under the direction of Sam Buckley, sang "Oh My Father," and Mrs. Paul Zeller played "Largo," as a violin solo.

Speakers were Bishop J. D. Hogan, William L. Wate and John Brown. Owen Holyoak sang "Going Home," and Theron Jacobs gave the benediction.

Burial, under direction of Vern McCulloch, was made in the Burley cemetery, with John Craner conducting the grave. Sons of the deceased acted as pallbearers and Relief society members and grandchildren were flower bearers.

BRITISH WOMEN TO FACE DRAFT

LONDON, Dec. 4 (AP)—The house of commons today defeated by a vote of 218 to 40, a bill to give proposals to conscript key industries such as transport, mining and munitions manufacture and women to 10 to give the government sweeping power to conscript men and women for the war effort.

The proposal was advanced by the Labor party as an amendment to the government's sweeping bill to conscript men and women power for the British war effort.

Commons acted after Ernest Bevin, minister of Labor and powerful Labor party spokesman, attacked the amendment but assured commons that the government is prepared to give careful consideration to specific proposals for requisitioning industries or factories.

Labor rebels, in submitting their proposals, expressed concern over the government's mobilization of industry behind the war effort and one member, George Buchanan, charged that Britain is busy building a Fascist state "at home while seeking to destroy Fascism abroad."

The bill would give "neither interest, property, persons nor prejudices will be allowed to stand in the way of achieving" victory in the war.

MISSOURI TESTS USES OF PATROL

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 4 (AP)—Missouri's state highway patrol, a model force that some states have used as a pattern, faces a court test in its power to continue the criminal investigation work through which it built much of its reputation.

Attorney General Roy McKittick announced that he would bring the test in state supreme court after a ruling from his state supreme court restricting the patrol's activities prompted protests from civic and police authorities.

McKittick's ruling was requested by Gov. Forrest C. Donnell following a preliminary opinion from the state's general attorney which said the patrol must confine itself to enforcing highway regulations—rather than solely as an investigative force.

Donnell sent McKittick a long list of specific questions touching on the patrol's criminal investigations, its radio system which has been used by virtually every large police organization in the country, and its general police activities.

Use Highway Funds

To almost every question McKittick replied that the operations were within the jurisdiction of the patrol because it draws its appropriations from highway funds. Use of these funds is contained in the state constitution to construction, maintenance and regulation of roads.

The patrol has operated 10 years ago when the state legislature passed a law which McKittick—then a state senator—opposed. It created a force of police officers to be chosen by merit examination and divided equally between Republicans and Democrats.

Among its first major cases was the slaying of a patrolman and a sheriff in a robbery case which was solved that crime. Nearly every major crime in Missouri since has received some patrol attention, quite a few resulting in arrests that read like detective fiction.

Blark's Actions Criticized

McKittick, some highway and politicians generally have criticized former Gov. Lloyd O. Blark's use of the patrol to help in the Kansas City political cleanup and as an escort for the chief executive's automobile.

McKittick pointed out in his ruling, the law contains no specific provisions granting the patrol power to act up the elaborate layout for criminal detection.

But the patrol did set it up, including a highly efficient laboratory. And he probably did it operate the sheriffs, who have no such facilities, called in the troopers to solve everything from chicken thefts to murders.

Among the patrol's major accomplishments was the establishment of what has become the nation's major relay point for police radio messages. Centrally located, the big station operated here by the patrol, as the fountainhead of its own state-wide system relays nearly all police messages moving in the east-west and north-south channels.

Idaho Adds 1 Manufacturing Establishment in Ten Years

BOISE, Ida., Dec. 4 (AP)—Idaho has added one manufacturing establishment to the total number operating in the state in the last 10 years, but the number of persons employed in manufacturing dropped nearly 3,500 during the period, the U. S. census bureau reported.

When the 1929 census was taken Idaho had 546 plants, and the 1939 studies showed an increase of one for a total of 547. In that period, however, the number of employees dropped from 18,853 to 12,222 persons, and the amount of salaries and wages paid plummeted from $43,419,670 to $15,366,638 for the year.

These manufacturers turned out products in 1929 valued at $92,496,313 but, despite the decline in industrial enterprise in the state during the last 10 years, manufactured products were valued at $90,475,147 in 1939.

Ada county led all others in the state with the number of manufacturers. It had 52 plants, Canyon county had 44, Blaine 33, Bonneville 32, and Bonner 31.

On the basis of census returns sawmills and other related wood processing plants made up the largest portion of the varying drops in manufacturing enterprise. There were 83 sawmills in the state in 1929; 84 factories, 83 newspapers, 83 creamery butter plants, 28 cheese plants, and 28 flour and mill product plants.

Sawmills employed 5,738 of the 12,238 factory workers in the state, the report said. The next largest manufacturing group was employed in sugar beet factories and related 1,007 persons.

Chicago Sun Makes First Issue Today

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 4 (AP)—The Chicago Sun, a new newspaper, was born today with an initial press run of 150,000 copies.

Backed by Marshall Field III, publisher of the founder of the famous Chicago mercantile dynasty, it entered the morning field monopolized for two years by the Chicago Tribune, which is published by Col. Robert R. McCormick, of another famous Chicago family.

The Sun stated its editorial policy in an editorial headed "The Sun's Oredo." It said that it believed the best interests of America "can best be served by the complete defeat of Adolf Hitler and everything he stands for."

REDS WITHDRAW FROM FINN AREA

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 4 (AP)—Russia was reported in usually reliable quarters today to be withdrawing from all Finnish territory as part of a big Anglo-Russian diplomatic move aimed at eventually alienating Finland from Germany.

Finland reported officially that the Russians had started to withdraw their garrison, estimated at 30,000 men, from the big Hangoo naval base on the southwest Finnish coast.

Informants here said the Russians were starting to evacuate all the Finnish territory they acquired in the winter war of 1939-1940, which remains in their hands, including the important fishermen's peninsula on the Arctic coast.

The reports were not confirmed officially. It was believed here, however, that Russia and Britain intended to deprive Finland of any reason for siding Germany against Russia.

Britain is understood to have given Finland until midnight Friday to make clear its position, the alternative to a satisfactory reply being a British declaration of war.

JAP FOREIGN MINISTER SEES 'UNPRECEDENTED CRISIS'

NEWSPAPERS SAY NO NEED TO GIVE ANSWER TO F. D. R.

By ROBERT BELLAIRE
 TOKYO, Dec. 4 (UP)—Japan faces an "unprecedented crisis because of recent most serious developments," Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo said today.

Togo addressed the east Asia economic council as newspapers stormed at a paper. Others in the photo are the ultra-nationalist Kookum, said it was not necessary for Japan to answer President Roosevelt's request for an explanation of Japanese troop concentrations in French Indo-China.

In Bangkok the Thailand radio called for extreme vigilance and said a surprise attack on Thailand should not be unexpected.

Kookum said Mr. Roosevelt's request for an explanation of Japanese southward troop movement was "a scheme to shift responsibility for the Pacific situation to Japan."

Papers Pessimistic

Japanese newspapers generally continued pessimistic regarding prospects for a Japanese-American understanding. The newspaper Yomiuri said Britain and the United States were about to start war in east Asia but that Japan was not frightened "because of our strength."

It had denigrated British and American military weakness.

The Domei news agency said that authoritative Japanese quarters regarded comments by Secretary of State Cordell Hull on the Washington conference as "a necessary step to the realization of our policy."

Hull's pessimistic statement on prospects for a Japanese-American understanding was described as "incomprehensible, darkening the prospects for negotiations for the future."

Domel Said

Domel said that authorized Japanese quarters expressed disappointment regarding the "futile" nature of their intention of supporting time-worn documents no longer applicable to the present situation in the east.

The reference apparently was to United States' desire for enforcement of the nine power treaty, to which Japan was signatory.

Togo complained that the United States and Britain refused to understand Japan's position and that they were continuing in attempts to hamper Japan's efforts to create a new order for east Asia.

It said that Japan, Manchukuo and the Japanese-sponsored Nanking regime should get together to realize economic self-sufficiency.

National 20-30 Club Leaders Visit Here

20-30 club leaders had just heard the latest joke told by the national president when the picture above was snapped here last night. The national executive, Howard Mason, is third from the left, holding the Domei news agency. In the photo are the national secretary, Bud Taylor, local treasurer, and Edward Ryan, Sacramento, Calif., national secretary. (Times Photo and Engraving)

Many 20-30 Club Youths Serve U. S., Leader Says

Approximately 15 per cent of the 20-30 club members throughout the United States are now serving in the armed forces of the nation.

That was the statement made here last night by Howard Mason, El Paso, Tex., national 20-30 president. En route to Pocatello to attend an inter-mountain conference, he spoke before members of the local club at a session staged in the Park hotel.

Highest Hill

The national official explained that the 20-30 club membership is probably "harder hit" than any other organization in the matter of members being called into the service.

While members are in such service, however, their club dues are paid from funds in the treasury of the various units.

Mason said that at the present time there are more than 200 20-30 clubs throughout the United States. The first one, he said, was organized in Sacramento, Calif., almost 19 years ago.

During his discussion he outlined a three-point program designed to

SNOW BLANKETS STATE OF UTAH

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 4 (UP)—A warm wind which sent temperatures soaring into the sixties in Utah yesterday had been revealed today as a deceiver, and most of the state was blanketed by one to five inches of snow.

The mercury dropped rapidly last night as the wind loosened heavy rains, and by mid-evening the rain turned to snow. Salt Lake City was gutted by a near-blizzard, and nearly all other parts of the state reported similar conditions.

However, the storm moved spitting east and the U. S. weather bureau forecast called for fair weather with occasional light showers near the mountains.

The peculiar succession of warmth and snow was attributed to a meeting of two different storms. The temperature wind blew in from the southwest, but was overruled by a cold front moving eastward out of the Pacific northwest and the Gulf of Alaska.

Clearing skies this morning prevented interruption of all-day service, and all intermountain highways were open except for a few of the more remote roads in the high Rockies.

CEILING SET FOR MEDICAL BENEFIT

BOISE, Ida., Dec. 4 (UP)—A $10-per-month ceiling has been tentatively set on the amount of medical aid benefits to be paid pensioners under the pension law of the state.

Scott, Idaho national representative for the "Twentieth Organization," said today.

Scott here to revise the initiative proposal placed for consideration at the 1941 general election. His committee decided to limit to $10 a month or $100 a year the amount of medical aid and hospital aid provided by the measure.

Another amendment to be made in the proposal was to treat married couples receiving pensions the same as individual cases, Scott said.

He has withdrawn the initiative form in the election, he said, but the bill will not be re-drafted with the new changes will merely be inserted.

The original proposal would have permitted unlimited medical aid to persons over 65 years of age.

Scott expressed confidence sufficient confidence could be obtained to place the measure on the ballot. "We have set our sights at 80,000 signatures, more than double the number needed. I don't think we will have any trouble getting them," he declared.

LETTUCE WORKER STRIKE IS ENDED

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 4 (UP)—A four-day strike of 4,000 union lettuce shed workers in 35 Salt River valley sections here was broken today by hundreds of men returning to their jobs in at least half the sheds involved.

John Jacobs, president of the grower-shipper association, said it was only a question of time until a harvest of the valley's record-breaking lettuce crop returned to normal operations.

Striking workers scheduled a mass meeting at the state fairgrounds late today to take a secret ballot on the question of returning to work. A union spokesman said field workers had agreed not to go into the fields if replacement crews appeared at any sheds to pick lettuce.

The strikers sought a 10 cent per hour blanket wage increase. Shipper-owners, with a compromise proposal offering concessions in hours, rate of pay for overtime and working conditions but not in the basic wage scale.

The DeBoards wed Dec. 19, 1939 in Twin Falls.

The district court criminal action against DeBoard was scheduled for the current term but was ordered continued until further notice.

Jugoslavs Report 100,000 Men Under Arms in Revolt

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
 Of the United Press War Desk

The nucleus of a widespread European revolt against German rule may exist in Yugoslavia, where the Serbs are in arms against the conquerors in what has developed from guerrilla fighting to organized warfare.

The Yugoslav middle eastern headquarters in Cairo reports that the Germans have sent three divisions against the Serbs holding forth in the Morava river valley and the Dinaric Alps overlooking the Adriatic. If true, that would indicate fighting on a fairly large scale. The Serbs claim to have in the neighborhood of 100,000 men under arms.

The latest report, from the official Russian news agency, is that the Serbs have taken the towns of Utice and Cacak and "disposed of" the German-dominated authorities. The manner of "disposal" is left to the imagination.

Claim Big Gains

Only in Jugoslavia is resistance so far organized and open. The Serbs, according to apparently reliable reports, have taken more than 75 per cent of their country.

In the other occupied countries, the will to resist manifests itself repeatedly, but what organization there is remains strictly under cover. A fresh wave of reports came from all over the continent today of violence, sabotage and unrest. The Germans dissolved the Belgian Legion and German officers in suspicion.

Such incidents are multiplied daily. They come from France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Norway, Yugoslavia, Greece, Bulgaria, Rumania, Hungary and Slovakia. Severe retaliatory measures have not seemed to lessen them. In fact, they seem to have been growing in recent days.

Three Reasons

This may be due to three things: increased hunger and cold as winter sets down; the depletion of forces of occupation to bolster the armies in Libya and Russia; and the psychological effect of the German reverses in southern Russia.

Except for Serbia, where a German military mission elsewhere seems to be of no immediate consequence. The time is hardly ripe for a general revolt anywhere. But all the incidents are symptomatic. They serve to keep alive among the conquered people the spirit of resistance.

If the time ever comes when Britain feels capable of invading the continent in force, a general call to arms is not impossible.

CHILD WELFARE TO BE DISCUSSED

SUN VALLEY, Ida., Dec. 4 (UP)—Child welfare in relation to national defense will be the principal topic discussed tomorrow by western states' representatives to the annual two-day school conference of the American Legion and its affiliated organizations.

More than 200 child welfare leaders from 11 western states, Hawaii and Alaska were expected. They will represent the Legion, its auxiliary, the Forty and Eight and the Eight and Forty.

Reports on child welfare progress in the last year will open the conference.

Judge J. L. Downing, past Idaho department commander, will speak on the future for youth in America at the Friday afternoon session, and Gov. Chase A. Clark and National Adjutant Frank E. Samuel will be principal speakers at the annual banquet Friday night.

FARMERS URGED TO LOOK AHEAD

Although agriculture is now entering a period of prosperity, farmers must prepare for a post-war slump, J. B. Newport, Idaho commissioner of agriculture, warned here yesterday.

Newport was one of the speakers heard during afternoon sessions of the annual meeting of members of the Bean Growers' Warehouse association held at the I. O. O. F. hall. More than 200 persons attended. Annual election was held in the morning and results were announced in yesterday's Times.

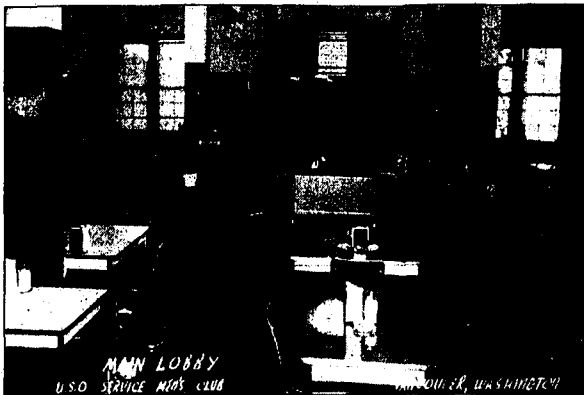

The Idaho commissioner, during his talk, pointed out that plans were being formed at the present time by the federal government in an effort to "set the stage" for cushioning the slump which will come after the war in order to ease the situation.

Also speaking yesterday was C. O. Youngstrom, Idaho extension division marketing specialist. He warned against inflation and pointed out that defense needs had boosted production 20 per cent at the present time.

Bean strains were discussed by Bert Bollingbroke, Twin Falls county agent.

The audit report showed assets of $120,000 of which $40,000 is growers' equity.

VANCOUVER BARRACKS, Vancouver, Wash., Dec. 4 (Special).—Our army is full of rumors; every day brings another set to the soldiers' ears. But recently one came my way which did seem to have a solid basis. That rumor was that the "folks back home" were wondering where their USO money was going.

EVICTIION ASKED AS LEASE ENDS

Restitution of farm premises because the lease ended Dec. 3 is asked in a postwar court suit filed by Asher B. Wilson, Twin Falls, against Harry A. Studley and Marie J. Studley, his wife.

The property is located northwest of Bulli. Lease was entered into, according to the suit, Oct. 28, 1940. F. C. Stueberger is counsel for the plaintiff.

at a cost rate to visiting mothers, sweethearts, wives of the soldiers, but at present funds are not available to put the rooms in shape.

Now, just a word about the financial end of the unit. This club is run on a revolving fund. It was told, and was in the bank a certain sum from which the expenses are paid. These expenses would include light, heat, water, help, etc., as well as the bills for the furnishings and remodeling. The bank account is brought up to the full total by allotment, upon request, from the USO headquarters in San Francisco.

The San Francisco headquarters then brings the fund up to full by requesting replacement from headquarters in New York City. All bills, then, are taken care of by each individual unit and then the fund is brought up to total again by allotment from the next higher headquarters of USO. That explanation, I realize, is not very detailed, but should be sufficient to give you a general idea of the financial setup.

So there you have the Vancouver USO unit. The fellows like it and patronize it, well. You are doing something for us in these USO clubs, and there is not a one of us who does not appreciate your efforts to help make our "year" more enjoyable.

Cadet and Plane Hunted in Hills

STOCKTON, Calif., Dec. 4 (UP)—Searching parties entered the woods and canyons around Lake Tahoe today seeking aviation cadet Stephen Grundy of San Bruno, Calif., whose training plane disappeared and presumably crashed in the Sierra Nevada late yesterday.

Grundy became separated from two other planes on a training flight about 70 miles north-northeast of Stockton. A resort owner between Placerville and Lake Tahoe said he heard a plane crash during a heavy fog.

UTAH TO GET 56 LANDING FIELDS

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 4 (UP)—Joe Bergin, director of the state aeronautics department, said today that an extended airport construction program would result in the eventual building of 56 landing fields in Utah.

Latest appropriation for emergency airport construction, was recommended by the house banking committee. It would provide for more than $57,000,000 for airport construction throughout the United States, and $500,000 would be earmarked for Utah.

He said that the best project would be somewhere in southern Utah. However, he would not give the location since a part of the land has not yet been acquired.

Bergin indicated that a secondary airport program was to be started at Provo, Utah, shortly and that sites near Cedar City and Brigham City were being considered for municipal landing fields.

Planes of the present, such as the new airliners with four 1100 horsepower engines, can carry 32 passengers and crew, as well as a ton of mail at a speed of 350 miles an hour.

BRITISH COMMANDER MASSES TROOPS FOR NEW OFFENSIVE

TANKS, INFANTRY GET READY FOR DESERT ASSAULT

By ROBERT W. DOWSON LONDON, Dec. 4 (Special)—Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, British commander in chief in Libya, has massed tanks, armored cars, artillery and infantry along a right angled line pivoted on Sidi Omar and is awaiting reconnaissance reports before resuming the offensive, military dispatches said today.

The line extends from Bir el Gobi, 30 miles south of the defenses of Tobruk, to Sidi Omar on the Egyptian frontier and thence northward to Bardia on the coast. Semi-enclosed in the area where the 10th and 21st German tank divisions, under Gen. Erwin Rommel, and the Italian Arde division which had forced a material British withdrawal and had thus seriously disrupted the British offensive plans.

Blamper Operation Rain and wind hampered operations for the moment and forces on both sides were busy repairing equipment, while the British moved up formidable bodies of reserves and supplies.

A ministry of information communique, reviewing Libyan operations, said the British still had to deal with powerful axis forces not only in the Bir el Gobi-Sidi Omar-Bardia area but also west of Tobruk but it said that in operations so far most axis strong points along the Egyptian frontier had been taken, the axis coastal defenses had been isolated and axis advanced supply bases had been seized.

In their initial advance, the ministry said, the imperial forces sought first to take the Bardia-Sidi Omar line on the frontier and secondly to enter the German tank divisions to the west.

Sweep Westward British armored forces swept westward from a point south of Sidi Omar toward Bir el Gobi, it said. British infantry followed from their posts and followed the armored forces.

The British were successful in forcing the Germans and Italian division to battle, the ministry said and it intimated that despite the German resistance the substance of this phase of the plan was expected, especially as the British imperial force enjoyed local air superiority.

Military experts said it seemed clear 1) that British initial surprise advantage has vanished and its drive had been stopped; 2) whatever decision might be gained now must come from the air and air superiority and a probable edge in the number of tanks, guns and men available.

Idaho History on Day-to-Day Basis

BOISE, Dec. 4 (UPI)—A huge filing case in the basement of the Idaho statehouse now holds a day-to-day record of Idaho history since the gold rush days.

The cabinets—three tiers high and 100 feet long—contain thousands of newspapers gathered since the first newspaper was published in 1862. Many of the old copies contain such stories as the death of George Washington and the assassination of Abraham Lincoln are considered valuable.

Recently read newspaper editions have been reconditioned. Torn and aging pages were covered with cellophane and bound with strong covers.

The museum preserves about 29 Idaho newspapers regularly. Most authorities consider the elephant, not the lion, as the "king of beasts."

Filer's Student Pledge Sets New Traffic Safety Pattern

Safety pledge movement inaugurated by students of Filer high school set a new pattern today for Magic Valley student participation in efforts to cut the traffic toll.

At a meeting addressed yesterday by State Officer V. K. Barron and Attorney E. M. Rayburn, Filer, the pledges were distributed for signature by the students. Barron urged this afternoon that "other schools throughout south central Idaho join in the movement by preparing and distributing their own pledges."

The Filer pledge, which Barron said "could be used by other schools as a model, says:

"I, a student of the Filer rural high school, appreciating the seriousness of the traffic death rate in southern Idaho; and recognizing that carelessness, negligence and a wanton disregard for the law of the road are primarily responsible for this grave condition, gladly pledge myself that I will to the best of my knowledge and ability obey and observe the law of the road, and all traffic regulations, and will show courtesy, respect and regard for the lives, property and safety of others."

"I understand that this pledge is given as a move to cooperate with the law enforcement officers in helping to make the roads and streets safe."

"The Filer pledges, according to the state officer, are being returned to school authorities who will keep them on file.

At Wednesday's meeting in Filer high school Mr. Rayburn discussed legal and other aspects of the safe-

STUDY OF WATER SLATED IN IDAHO

BOISE, Ida., Dec. 4 (UP)—U. S. Bureau of reclamation engineers were planning to launch a study soon of water use on the upper Snake river.

The study was being sought to determine means of conserving water from the head of the river to the Minidoka diversion dam. State reclamation commissioner E. V. Berg said the investigation was necessary because it was imperative to find out how much of the present water supply could be saved before the Fallsades dam on the south fork of the Snake river was constructed.

Berg said federal engineers indicated that the proposed reservoir could only be constructed if full utilization of water was assured.

He pointed out that about 2,000 acres feet of water a day was being sent through canals of the Twin Falls north and south side projects but only about 400 acre feet was actually used for stock and domestic purposes. If means of conserving the unused 2,000 acre feet could be found from American Falls, could be found then an additional 80,000 acre feet of water a month could be stored in the Fallsades reservoir.

The study, expected to take from six months to a year, was to be directed by C. C. Covey, chief engineer, U. S. bureau of reclamation engineer here.

Work on State's Prison Building Near Completion

BOISE, Dec. 4 (UP)—Warden C. Van Clark has set New Year's day as the date for completion of the Idaho penitentiary's newest building project.

Work was progressing rapidly on a new prison chancel, classroom and remodeling of two cell blocks at the prison. The work was being done by convict labor under a $35,000 state appropriation for materials. The chapel and class room, both in the same structure, were nearly completed but work on the cell blocks was held up temporarily until the other projects were cleaned up, the warden reported.

The convict construction crew will next undertake work on a $15,000 dormitory at the Eagle Island prison farm.

Intensive Research Shows Value of Sensational New Dandruff Treatment That Kills Germs!

Amazing antiseptic massage brought improvement in 76% of test cases

Bothered by flakes and scales, inflammation, itchy scalp? Then you may have the infectious type of dandruff... the type in which millions of germs are at work on your scalp!

Here's the verdict of a number of leading skin specialists... dandruff is often infectious. And the results of recent scientific research reinforce this view.

But, fortunately, there is an amazing antiseptic treatment, Listerine and massage. Listerine Antiseptic kills germs on the scalp by the millions—even including the stubborn "bottle bacillus" (Pityrosporum ovale), which many authorities consider a causative agent of infectious dandruff.

What Science Found

1. Rabbits, inoculated with the "bottle bacillus," developed typical dandruff symptoms—scales and flakes. When treated with Listerine Antiseptic, their symptoms disappeared completely within 2 weeks, on an average!
2. Then severe clinical tests were undertaken, on men and women. Dandruff sufferers used Listerine Antiseptic and massage twice a day. Inside of a month 76% showed complete disappearance of or marked improvement in the symptoms!

What Listerine Does

Start today with Listerine, the same antiseptic famous for over 50 years as a gargle. Here's what happens:

Your scalp and hair get an antiseptic bath. The "bottle bacillus" and other germs associated with infectious dandruff, are killed in vast numbers. Ugly flakes and scales begin to disappear. Irritation and itching are relieved. Your hair feels cleaner, your scalp looks healthier.

Listerine Antiseptic is an easy, quick, delightful treatment, with no mess or grease. (Get the large economy-size bottle today.)

LAMBERT PHARMACAL CO., St. Louis, Mo.

LISTERINE for Infectious Dandruff

Recent research by skin specialists supports the view of many authorities that dandruff is often of the infectious type, accompanied by germs.

Pityrosporum ovale, the strange "bottle bacillus" regarded by many authorities as a causative agent of infectious dandruff.

THE TREATMENT

MEAN: Douse full strength Listerine Antiseptic on the scalp morning and night. WOMEN: Part the hair at various places, and apply Listerine Antiseptic right along the part with a medicine dropper, to avoid wetting the hair excessively.

Always follow with vigorous and persistent massage with fingers or a good hairbrush. Continue the treatment so long as dandruff is in evidence. And even though you're free from dandruff, enjoy a Listerine Antiseptic massage once a week to guard against infection.

FORHAM REVEALS ROSE BOWL BID REJECTED

Oregon State Sent Request 8 Hours Late

By WILLIAM TUCKER
NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (U.P.)—Maybe the fates that hover over the football fields held a hand should never go to the Rose bowl.

That theory receives strong support in the latest announcement from the football school overlooking New York's Teeming Bronx, to wit, that last Sunday morning Fordham received an invitation to Pasadena, Rams' country eight hours after the Rams had committed themselves to play Missouri in the Sugar bowl.

It was the pay-off. For 10 long years Fordham's battle cry has been "from Rose hill to Rose bowl" and for 10 years the Rams have been denied fulfillment of their dream. The teams have been consistently good under Giuseppe J. Greenleaf, coaching but incredible upsets and perhaps a sprinkling of bowl politics have kept Fordham east of the great divide.

One year underrated Georgia came up and tied the Rams when their line was known as the "seven blocks of granite." Another time N. Y. knocked them from the undefeated ranks in the last game of the season. Last year St. Mary's dealt the unkind out when it seemed Fordham was a sure shot for the Rose bowl.

This season the Rams won their early games handsily and the chant began to float only more "from Rose hill to Rose bowl." The team suffered a humiliating 13 to 0 defeat by a Pitt eleven that had lost all its previous five games.

The defeat might have been expected to quiet the Rose bowl dream and for all but this season nearly every team was taking a beating. When Fordham won its final two games the fever returned.

After Oregon State won the western Rose bowl role Saturday, Fordham kept its collection east coasted toward Corvallis, Ore. most of the night but when nothing had been heard by 3 a. m. Sunday the Rams closed a deal with the Oregon State. Then, at 3:30 Oregon State got on the wire and tendered the invitation.

Fordham declined with regret and Oregon State subsequently chose Duke. The regrets were more than those of the college. Fordham is going to New Orleans but a bowl by any other name, Rose is not so sweet as the Rams, even if the name is sugar.

Panthers Win Five, Lose 3 for Season

ALBION, Nov. 4 (Special)—Football stars at Albion Normal have been tucked away to end another successful grid season.

The Panthers, host five wins and three losses, beating Eastern Michigan, Oregon Normal, Weber College, Green Field Flyers, Lewiston Normal and the Montana State School of Mines and going to the College of Idaho, Boise Junior college and the University of Idaho, southern branch. This record proves more impressive than what shows on the surface when taking into consideration the small squad of inexperienced boys that turned out at the beginning of the season; the long, hard schedule of tough schools met during the season and the constant injury with which the injury list has stayed around the Albion camp throughout the entire season.

Coch Hult, the Panther mentor, announced that two boys, Paul Fandaz and Ferris Freestone have been chosen as honorary co-captains for the year. A captain is generally selected at the end of each season with Coach Hult choosing a honor captain for each game. These two men equally deserving this honor, the Panther club decided to elect co-captains for this year.

Many outstanding athletes will be missing from the Panther ranks next season due to graduation. The list of those that will be graduated this year are Ernie Millard, Bill Price and Kenneth McCombs, ends; Kenneth Promel, Bill Matthews, Bob Albreton and Wesley Handy, tackles; Jack Wright, Bill Price, Melvin Widmer, guards; Coll Winn, center; James Kamel, Elmer Clute, Ferris Freestone, halfbacks; Max Johnson, Ernie Knie, quarterback, and Paul Sanders, fullback.

The returning listerms are Bob Elmbrough, Mike Coillanese, center; Leland Cough, guards; Lewis Chasler, Merle Noyes and Roger Jorgenson, halfbacks. Only three men, Harry Frith, Gilbert Hall and Olan Cannell of the entire squad did not see enough playing time to earn a letter.

PREDATORY

Champion Horseshoe Pitchers Decide to Settle in Twin Falls

By HAL WOOD
Evening Times Sports Editor
Nine years ago the world's champion trick horseshoe pitcher and his bride came through Twin Falls.

They visited a brother-in-law at Buhl and otherwise looked over this country.

"When I decide to quit this traveling will settle down in Idaho," New York's Jackson to his wife, the former Grace Morgan of California.

At that time the wife couldn't tell horseshoe from a horse's bridle, but today she can outdo her husband at all particulars of the game and holds more championships than he does.

Settle in Twin Falls
And the two have settled down in Twin Falls—to make this their permanent home.

Right now they have the Sinclair Service station at the corner of Shoshone and Truck Lane—and it things so well they'll make this their permanent headquarters.

Of course, they still have a certain amount of wanderlust and the chances are that when spring comes and the smell of blossoms is in the air they'll take to the high roads again—at least for a few weeks.

The great sport of "barnyard golf" is probably more highly developed in the middle-west than it is in this comparatively new sector—but where the crowds really "go" for horseshoe pitching is in the east, Jackson opines.

Record Crowds
"We've played before record-breaking crowds at most of the big shows in the east," says the champion, and he wasn't bragging.

But to start at the beginning: "I first began to come by horseshoe pitching naturally. You see, my dad held the world's championship for 13 consecutive years and the boys in our family just picked up a lot of things from watching him."

"I've been on the road for 20 years since my father's 100,000 miles, all in the United States."

Slightly more than 10 years ago Jackson met Grace Morgan in California, and they were married. At that time she didn't have the faintest idea of how to throw a horseshoe. But husband took wife in hand and...

In less than three years she could do everything I could—only one thing.

Look at the Record!
And Jackson isn't a bit reluctant about admitting it came by horseshoe pitching held by Mr. Jackson are as follows:

Western state championship 1933-34
Fourth in world tournament in 1933
Third in world tournament in 1934
Second in the men's open tournament at Atlantic City, N. J., in 1935

Placed in each state in California and New York, playing 87 games in all and losing only one contest. Average for the 87 games was 10.5 for the "best" average ever made for a season. This record was made in 1930.

His record in horseshoe pitching in trick horseshoe championship in trick horseshoe pitching.

Life Names Pictures
And the Jacksons aren't dying at all. In fact, just the other day he received a letter from Life, the national picture magazine, asking for dates at which a special photo-grapher could be sent to make a feature story on the Jackson style of trick horseshoe pitching.

Which, of course, will mean more fame for this pair of artists, and possibly, in a minor nature, a little added publicity for the city of Twin Falls.

Cowboys Sign 2 Prospects To Contracts

Work of remodeling the Twin Falls Cowboys for the 1942 season was definitely under way today with announcement that two players had been signed to contracts.

The two boys are William Pepin, pitcher, and Donald Baker, a catcher. Both will report to the spring training camp of the Cowboys and will get through try-outs to see if they have the ability to advance in organized baseball.

Pepin is a right-handed hurler, 21 years old. He tips the scales at 180 pounds and stands six feet, one inch tall.

Husky Catcher
Kukuluk works behind the plate with 160 pounds of weight, stands six feet tall and is 20 years old. He bats and throws right-handed.

Both boys come from California. Both boys come with high recommendations and were signed by Manager Andy Harvath to a 1 year contract in California. However, the two boys are from Everett, Wash. They have been in the Wash. pro baseball for the past year.

Meanwhile, the local baseball magnates awaited word from Jacksonville, Fla., where the minor leagues are in season and where Manager Bill McCorry of the Oglethorpe is attempting to line up a big league connection for the Cowboys.

Other Possibilities
It is thought probable that if McCorry failed to make a major league connection he might still be able to wrangle some sort of an AA tie-up for the Wranglers.

Word drifted in here today, incidentally that McCorry is slated for a promotion in the farm ranks of the Cincinnati Reds. McCorry has long been in the Red organization, managing the Albany club in the NYF league before coming west to handle Oglethorpe in this circuit.

Long noted as a fine developer of pitchers, he may get a bump in Class A baseball—which, of course, would be a substantial hike in pay. McCorry, incidentally, was probably the highest priced manager in the Pioneer league during his 3-year tenure in this loop.

NEW YORK—Early season "upsets" frequently are attributed to the fact that clubs aren't ready.

Harvard and Washington State came on this fall, for example, after shoddy beginnings.

There are "upsets" from start to finish because not many teams can be brought to a pitch for a big occasion and kept high week after week.

Tulane may have illustrated that, if the Greenies grotesque season can be explained at all.

A string such as the one now boasted by Minnesota is phenomenal, especially when the class of opposition is taken into consideration.

A winning team makes its own breaks, but Bernie Bierman would be the first to testify that a school winning 18 in a row has to have a lucky break here and there.

Idaho Shoots At Tail End Of Duck Flight

BOISE, Dec. 4 (U.P.)—It's just the tail end of the fall migration of ducks and geese that Idaho hunters are now shooting at but it adds up to several million birds.

Robert S. Bach, U. S. game management agent here, said countless numbers of ducks are wheeling over Idaho since it is located where the Pacific and Central flyways overlap.

Ducks are now averaging between 200 and 300 miles per day in their southward flight, he said. The majority of the ducks passing through are one of several varieties—mallard, baldpate, golden eye, ring neck, teal, redhead and pintail.

Bach said many ducks are being injured by "mule high" hunters—those who fire when the birds are beyond the effective killing range of 60 yards—but most of them will recover.

He said that ducks with broken wings and minor injuries often recover if they reach cover. A winged duck, he explained, will wedge itself into grass or other foliage so that the broken wing heals properly. The broken wing usually knits in about four weeks.

As an experiment, Bach once picked up 30 wounded ducks and all but one recovered when left to treat themselves.

witnesses the biggest "upsets" of all. The reason is that you can't laugh the tradition, though I never knew a coach who would trade a good tackle for all the archaic atmosphere in the world.

The fact remains, however, that young men can be inspired to dizzy heights in meetings with ancient and legendary foes.

The great impponderable, as old Herbert Reed, "Right Wing" of happy football writing, memory used to call them, must be weighed, and their scope simply cannot be fully realized. The mental phase is highly important.

That and the element of surprise, though the loss of Chief Standlee and Hugh Gallenauer, backs who more than made good with the Chicago Bears, no doubt had more to do with Stanford's three defeats.

Stanford's "T" was so venerable on the Pacific coast in 1940 that it was new, and the modified version with man-in-motion made it more effective. And with Standlee and Gallenauer, Clark Shaughnessy had the backs with which to round out a real "T" party.

But to return rivals got a good look at the "T" and Stanford's back blocking last trip, and knew what to do this autumn.

Frankie Albert handled the ball on every play, and Washington State and California felt back on the finest system yet devised for stopping trouble—at its source.

All that fancy ball-handling is fine behind a line like that of the professional Bears, but Albert had no plink "T" with Nick Sussoff and

LEIBER TRADED TO GIANTS FOR BOB BOWMAN

Rehabilitation of Gotham Club Gets Underway at Meet

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 4 (U.P.)—The New York Giants made their first move early today to rehabilitate their fading fortunes by swinging a deal with the Chicago Cubs which returned Hank Leiber, temperamental but hard-hitting outfielder, to the Polo Grounds.

Goes to Giants

The Giants gave the Cubs Pitcher Bob Bowman and an estimated $10,000 for Leiber, who enjoyed the best years of his major league career under the shadows of Coogan's bluff. Leiber, who twice has been a victim of bean balls, has long been recognized as one of the National League's power hitters but somehow never has fully capitalized on his ability.

Mel Ott, new manager of the Giants, believes that Leiber, who has been an unhappy individual in his three years with the Cubs, will regain some of his former glory in a New York uniform. Leiber played on the pennant-winning Giants team of 1936-37 but never was a dominant ball player with the Cubs.

Felled by Melton
 Last season Leiber was felled by a pitched ball thrown by Cliff Melton, Giants southpaw, and had the worst year of his career. He batted only .217 in 52 games, many of them as pinch-hitter.

Leiber, somewhat an unlucky fellow, was named by Biller Bob Fowler in an exhibition game at New Orleans in the spring of 1937 and, months afterward it was doubtful whether he'd be able to play another game.

With Leiber back on the Giants, Ott believes that his outfield problems will be solved. He plans to play Leiber in left, Johnny Rucker in center and himself in right field.

Both Clubs Happy
 While the Giants are happy over the deal, the Cubs are equally elated. They came here with one thought in mind—to dispose of Leiber, who never seemed to fit into their organization. After several preliminary conferences, the deal was closed in a two-hour knock-out-and-drag-out conference which ended at 2 a. m. between three Giant representatives, Horace Stoneham, Bill Terry and Mel Ott, and General Manager Jim Gallagher of the Cubs.

The deal was drawn out into the two hours because of the Cubs' desire to get pitcher Bill McGee, the former Cardinal pitcher who was a terrific flop with the Giants last season. But the Giants, strangely enough, refused to give up McGee, who won only two games while losing last season after coming to the Giants. They wanted to trade Bob Bowman even up for Leiber but finally had to add cash to swing the deal.

Pearl Babel Wins Title In Badminton

Pearl Babel holds the Inter-class championship at Twin Falls high school for badminton, after four-week tournament, conducted by Miss Madeline Garvin, physical education instructor and sponsor of G. A. A. After elimination series within classes, Miss Babel defeated her sister, Olea, who is a senior representative, in the first of the inter-class games. Three games were played; Olea won the first, with a score of 15 to 12. Pearl took the next two with scores of 17 to 15 and 18 to 16.

Next Opponent
 Pearl Babel then played Betty Jacky, winner within the junior class. Double elimination brought her to 15 to 12 and 15-11, in Pearl's favor.

Runner-up for the senior class championship was Elnor Atlin. Other players included Lewis, Ellen Howard and Ann Allen.

Junior girl who placed second in her class was Fay Hoover, and other players were Dorothy Langdon, Helen House, Mary Jane Chuge, Maxine Flaher, Rudiann Hayes.

Sophomore section placed 4 was Nancy Hart, and her fellow-classmate were Leah Jean Bagley, Helen Tyler, Helene Simonson.

Wins Points
 As a result of the sophomore championship that class will win 50 points toward the citizenship cup.

Volley ball and table tennis tournaments and instructions will be held at the high school next Monday, said Miss Garvin, and girls are urged to report to the meetings being called for the purpose of establishing tournament schedules. If interested in playing, winners of the inter-class tournaments will also win points for their class for the citizenship cup.

Bernie Bierman Chosen as Nation's "Coach of Year"

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (U.P.)—He was widely heeded for playing dull ball, yet he unveiled the most spectacular scoring trick of the season. He was supposed to command more man-power than any other coach, yet he was forced to squeeze through most of two games without a regular halfback. The United Press presents as 1941 coach of the year Minnesota's white-haired boy—Bernie Bierman.

He wins the selection by a slim margin over two standout challengers, Frank Leahy of Notre Dame and Lon Stiner of Oregon State, because he never needed an excuse. His team forced power and speed, rain or snow, and a schedule as tough as any in the nation—and he answered every question with a triumph of mind his Golden Gophers were hailed as national champs.

Bierman is a chucky, methodical veteran who has devoted all but 90 of his 47 years to football and he is as good a choice as any as the top man in his trade. He is Minnesota born, Minnesota bred, and Minnesota schooled, and right now he could well rank as his state's favorite son. For in five of the ten years he has spent at Minnesota, he has brought Gophers football teams through their season without defeat.

Bierman first arrived on the Minnesota campus in 1912. By 1914 he was performing as a regular back in his senior year; he was named as a brilliant player and inspirational captain although he missed several games because of an injured hip. His first coaching job was at Butte, Mont., high school and his 1916 team scored 300 points to 1917 team scored 300 points to 1918 team scored 300 points to 1919 team scored 300 points.

After a few months as a second

Coach of Year

BERNIE BIERMAN

Lieutenant in Cubs during the war, he went to University of Montana to coach football, basketball and track. In his three years there his teams maintained a .500 average. Then he left sports again for two years to sell bonds, but bobbed up as assistant to Clark Shaughnessy at Tulane. From there he went to Mississippi A. & M., and in 1927 he returned to Tulane as head coach through 1931, when he went to Minnesota.

Vandals Take Opening Cage Game, 29-23

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Dec. 4 (Special)—Led by Center Ray Turner of Twin Falls, the University of Idaho basketball team opened its season here last night by eking out a narrow 29-23 win over Whitman college.

The Vandals held a narrow 15-11 edge at the half-time after the score had been tied at 11-11. But from there on the Idaho club had command of things. Turner collected eight points the last half, seven the first half.

Here You Are, Folks: New Year's Day Victors

By HARRY FERGUSON
NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (U.P.)—Rushing in where angels fear to tread in an attempt to pick the winners of the New Year's day bowl games: Missouri over Fordham in the Sugar bowl—this one should be the best of the bunch. It pits two high-scoring teams against each other and both of them are loaded with fast, powerful, colorful players. Here's the way I think the game will shape up:

Missouri, moving along the ground and breaking away for long gains, probably will score first. Fordham will come back with a passing attack—and the game will see-saw fairly evenly into the final period. At that stage, I think, the superiority of the Missouri Tigers will come out about one touchdown ahead.

Duke over Oregon State in the Rose bowl—this one, I think, is just a case of one team being too good for the other. The Pacific coast probably remembers Duke as a strictly defensive team that kicks and waits for the breaks, satisfied to get a tie or win by a score of 9 to 0 or 7 to 0. Not so this year. Wallace Wade has offensive strength and can start the boys rolling toward pay dirt anytime he feels like it.

Georgia over Texas Christian in the Orange bowl—this is the game where Oregon—Frank Sinkwich of Georgia—is going to have a lot to do with the outcome. TCU is going to have to find some way to stop Sinkwich from running, and the catch in that is that if you mass a line closely against him he will drop back and start slinging passes.

Texas Aggies over Alabama in the Cotton bowl—maybe I'm off on a tangent here because I see the Aggies play this season and didn't see Alabama. Another angle is that the day I saw the Aggies they were busy mopping up the gridiron with New York university, which isn't much competition. Nevertheless, I think Homer Norton has a slick, powerful and resourceful team that should be able to nose out Alabama.

U. S. FUNDS WILL HELP SPEED ROAD

BOISE, Dec. 4 (UP)—Early completion of the Lewis and Clark highway, the aid of funds from the new $220,000,000 defense road appropriation was forecast by Col. E. D. Pottin, president of the Lewis and Clark Highway Association, Inc. Pottin was here to confer with state highway officials and reported the most difficult of the defense highway—a 38-mile section along the Black canyon of the Lochsa river.

Federal Grant

A work projects administration crew with a $300,000 grant was working on the worst six miles of the stretch and Pottin said it was hoped an allocation will be made from the new defense road appropriation to complete the other 22 miles.

The road will connect Lewiston and Missoula, Mont., with a water grade route.

Pottin said the road will provide additional revenue for Idaho from gasoline taxes. He pointed out that the U. S. highway No. 10 only covers 53 miles of the Idaho panhandle, whereas the Lewis-Clark highway traverses 180 miles of the state. This longer distance, he pointed out, would give the state greater gas tax revenue.

Saves Mileage

The new highway link will provide a route from the east to California points about 500 miles shorter than the present highway system. That by going on the Lewis-Clark highway to Kootenai and then down the north-south highway to Boise and thence to San Francisco via the Idaho-Oregon, Nevada cut-off, motorists could save a considerable distance.

The road is also important from a historical standpoint, he said. It will go through important national forests, and touch historic locations such as campsites of the Lewis and Clark expedition, scenes of Indian war battlefields and various pioneer memorials.

PRIORITIES MAY CUT ROAD WORK

BOISE, Dec. 4 (UP)—State Highway Director Sam E. Johnson today reported construction of defense highways in Idaho may be curtailed because of priorities.

It was expected that the near future will see all federal-aid highway funds will be restricted to construction of roads rated as defense projects. Johnson said that future work will be concentrated on projects of direct defense importance.

Federal highway officials have urged state engineers to adopt designs which reduce or eliminate critical materials in construction. Johnson proposed deferring all highway construction projects from which critical materials can not be obtained and suspending all maintenance operations to curtail highway construction, Johnson said.

Reckless Driver Back for Trial

JEROME, Dec. 4 (Special)—Edward Aamodt, about 38, was returned here to Jerome at about 6 p.m. Friday by his bondmen. He had returned from a 10-day stay in the Jerome county jail until further proceedings can be filed against him.

According to Probate Judge William G. Comstock, Aamodt was arrested here earlier this fall on a charge of reckless driving. He allegedly struck down a pedestrian, James Wray, Jerome resident, who was walking along the highway. Wray was knocked down and sustained a badly lacerated eyebrow and facial burn. Aamodt provided bond through his bondsmen at Gooding, and failed to appear, according to Judge Comstock.

The judge immediately informed bondsmen to produce Aamodt or forfeit the bond. Bondsmen immediately sought out Aamodt and brought him here Friday evening.

COSTLY

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 4 (UP)—June Le Page, 14, ran away from her home in Newark, N. J., about 10 p.m. Tuesday and returned to it Tuesday, but not before she had outlived herself with $106 worth of loot.

The girl found seven $100 bills which her father, a naval construction engineer, kept in a chest and decided to do some shopping. When she got through, she registered at a Newark hotel as Doris Day and spent the night there.

A taxi driver saw her flourishing $100 bills, recognized her from a published description and notified her family, who asked the police to take her home. June had $500 left when the police arrived.

Lighthouse Kills

Until recent years, lighthouses built for the purpose of saving lives caused the death of hundreds of birds every year. The steady white light of the old-fashioned beacon lured the birds, and their bodies were dashed to pieces against the glass.

THE VALUE of a SMILE AT CHRISTMAS

It costs nothing, but creates much. It enriches those who receive without impoverishing those who give. It happens in a flash and the memory of it sometimes lasts forever. None are so rich they can get along without it and none so poor but are the richer for its benefits. It creates happiness in the home, fosters good will in business and is the counterstrain of friends. It is rest to the weary, daylight to the discouraged, sunshine to the sad, and Nature's best antidote for trouble. Yet it cannot be bought, begged, borrowed, or stolen, for it is something that is no earthly good to anyone till it is given away! Let's make this Christmas the merriest of them all—make the whole family smile this Christmas by giving them practical, useful gifts that will last for many Christmases to come. Buy now while stocks are complete! Use our lay away plan.
