BRITAIN DECLARES WAR ON FINLAND, HUNGARY, RUMANIA

SCOTLAND YARD ROUNDS UP ALL OF AXIS ALIENS

By FREDERICK KUH
LONDON, Dec. 6 (U.P.)—Scotland Yard secret operatives started rounding up Finns, Hungarians and Rumanians as enemy aliens today as Great Britain notified Finland, Hungary and Rumania that it was at war with them and thus was at liberty to exert all belligerent measures.

It was understood that about 200 citizens of the axis satellites were arrested at once and the round up continued.

Detectives of the Scotland Yard secret special branch and criminal investigation department, aided by mobile police units, visited the homes of selected Finns, Hungarians and Rumanians registered in London as aliens and took them to a clearing center here, for removal to internment camps. They will have the right to appeal to an advisory court against detention.

As the result of a Finnish rejection of the terms of the other countries to reply, it was said, communications were sent to the three powers and the American ministers at the respective capitals would deliver the notes today.

The British attempt to cause Finland to cease hostilities against Russia failed, and within a few hours Britain and Finland will be at war.

"Defenses" War
At the outset the Finnish government insisted that it had no aggressive intentions and was waging a defensive war in violation of Finland's requirement that Finland stay out of the war.

Finland, the statement continued, had announced its intention to remain neutral. The Finns also announced that they had never been a part of the German alliance, "undoubtedly very deep in Russian territory," for strategic purposes, the statement said.

At the outset the Finnish government insisted that it had no aggressive intentions and was waging a defensive war in violation of Finland's requirement that Finland stay out of the war.

Finns Get Back Ceded Territory
HELSINKI, Finland, Dec. 6 (U.P.)—President Risto Ryti today announced that the Hungarians had agreed to return to Finland the territory ceded to Russia at the end of the Russo-Finnish war, again has been incorporated as part of Finland and that the Moscow peace treaty of 1940 had been abrogated.

Official Finnish quarters said they had no official knowledge they were at war with Britain.

U. S. Expands Frontier—Troops in Dutch Guiana

Released by the war department in Washington, this is the first picture showing U. S. troops in Dutch Guiana after their surprise move to protect rich bauxite deposits there.

Japan stiffened its opposition to the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union today while further emergency precautions were taken in the Philippines, at Singapore and in Thailand.

Renewing bitter attacks against Washington as "insincere" in peace negotiations, the Japanese declared they were going ahead with creation of a new order in east Asia regardless of actions by hostile powers and that it now was up to President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill whether there would be war in the Pacific.

The Tokyo newspaper Hoshi also attacked Russia and charged that troops had been shifted eastward to boost the Red army to 840,000 men on the Siberian border at a time when the Soviets were reporting important gains on the Moscow front and continuing attacks along the Mius river against German forces driven back from Rostov.

In Libya, the British again were on the offensive in swift raids against axis forces in the desert, reporting strong attacks on four enemy columns which were scattered with heavy casualties.

At Bangkok, the Thai government said it had captured more enemy prisoners so far have been captured, a communique said, while British troops were attacking in the Burmese and East India sectors, regaining ground and captured more enemy prisoners.

At Manila, the government of President Manuel Quezon took new emergency steps, including preliminary martial law, to meet the Japanese and to regulate defense preparations.

On the Russian front, Soviet dispatches said that the Russians had counter-attacked on the important Moshinsk sector, 60 miles west of Moscow, had been repulsed, but Berlin claimed that the town had been captured.

On the vital Tula front south of Moscow, the Germans admittedly were making some gains and had taken a number of villages on the Tula-Moscow highway, but in the Tula-Moscow area, east of Tula, Russian soldiers were reported to have taken four German tanks, the dispatches said.

On the southern front, where the Chinese have been retreating, the Chinese, the Russian said, were taking a number of villages on the border.

NIPPON SITUATION STAYS DELICATE DESPITE ANSWER

By H. O. THOMPSON
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (U.P.)—The delicate far eastern situation generated mounting suspense today despite the temporary answer by Japan to President Roosevelt's inquiries on troop movements in French Indo-China which appeared to be threatening peace in the Pacific.

Any act of aggression by those troops probably would precipitate a general war in the far east, Japan, however, denied that the troops were there for aggressive purposes.

Next Jap Answer
Of more importance in determining the future of U. S.-Japanese relations—unless the military in Indo-China get out of control of the central government—will be the answer Tokyo makes to the proposal by Secretary of State Cordell Hull of Nov. 26.

Japan's two envoys, Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura and Saburo Kurusu, who have been representing their government in the exploratory discussions here, indicated yesterday that the reply to the memorandum was being prepared carefully by Tokyo.

Expert Rejection
If the press reports from Tokyo are borne out, the answer will be unable to accept the Hull document as a basis for negotiations on the issues which have brought Japan and the United States to the brink of war.

"Precautionary" Move
The reply said that Nippon troops had been shifted to the northern border. It also described reports of the number of Japanese troops in Indo-China as "reduced."

Some quarters interpreted the Japanese note as marking a slight change in attitude from the traditional Japanese policy of non-interference in the international situation favoring the Japanese.

2,000,000 for Army Likely by Month of April

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (U.P.)—Selective service officials are considering plans to reclassify draft registrants deferred for reasons of occupation to provide additional manpower for the rapidly-expanding army in event of an emergency, it was disclosed today.

Present war department plans call for a 2,000,000-man army by next April. This will be attained by induction of some 500,000 selectees after Jan. 1, as announced yesterday.

Official army concern over the means of obtaining additional men, if needed, was expressed by Lieut. Col. Joseph F. Battley, a selective service adviser, in an address to army, navy and OPD representatives gathered here to discuss "United States Army and Navy Occupational Deferments." New England and middle Atlantic defense plans.

Thinks of Future
Battley said the army now stands at a strength of about 1,600,000 men, but that "no person knows when we may have to double, or triple our strength."

One of the leading officials of the war department, he added, "stated publicly no longer ago than we may have to think in terms of an army of 8,000,000 men."

He told the group that he was sure the official he referred to was Assistant Secretary of War John J. McCloy, McCloy, reached at his home here, said he could recall never having made the statement.

The $400,000,000 new defense appropriations bill passed by the house yesterday provides funds to equip an army of 2,000,000 men.

Studies made by the army and navy departments, which included the Chicago Tribune, contemplate an army of 6,745,000 men, plus 2,000,000 for the air force. The two departments' studies continued their investigation of how the Tribune obtained the secret documents, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson said the published plans "have never constituted an authorized program of the government."

FINN MINISTER CONFERS WITH HULL AFTER BRITISH ACT

AMERICA SLATES RE-EXAMINATION OF ALL TREATIES

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (UP)—Finnish Minister Bjelma Procope conferred with Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles today, presumably on United States-Finnish relations in the light of Great Britain's declaration of war against Finland, Rumania and Hungary.

Procope declined to discuss his talks with Welles, but said that this country's relations with Finland, Rumania and Hungary were not affected by the British declaration. He told his press conference that United States diplomats are, and transmitted British notes to the three countries. Notes from New Zealand to the three also were delivered by United States officials. Hull said, but he declined to discuss their contents. It was assumed that the New Zealand messages also were declarations of war.

No Surprise
Britain's classification of the three states as enemies came as no surprise to either American officials or diplomats here. It was understood, however, that Rumania, which has been a belligerent, since the outbreak of the war, would not be re-examined.

Permanents Tolerant
Diplomatic quarters were inclined to be tolerant of the demands that define demands made on Britain and Germany was adopting a persuasive, rather than a belligerent, tone with the British government. They pointed out that a year and a half of efforts to bring pressure on Hitler for closer cooperation had failed to obtain any concrete results.

CAR LICENSES ALL-TIME RECORD

Soaring to new all-time records, sale of passenger car licenses and truck plates in Twin Falls county reached the highest point in history today.

County Assessor George A. Childs said that passenger license sales climbed to 10,947 at noon today. Highest previous sale was last year, when 10,715 set of plates were distributed.

The rush this year is so great, Mr. Childs said, that the county is "dangerously" near the end of its second order of passenger car plates. Farm truck licenses, too, had to be reordered.

Bull Gets More
Because the sale of licenses at Buhl has been so heavy, Deputy W. Lee Howard this afternoon took possession of 1800 plates to Buhl. He left the Twin Falls office at the courthouse with exactly 68 passenger car licenses.

SOVIETS KEEP ON TRAIL OF NAZIS

KUBYSHEV, Russia, Dec. 6 (AP)—Russian troops, driving across the Mius river, have established a powerful bridgehead on the eastern bank as a base from which to continue the pursuit of the demoralized southern German army, special dispatches said today.

The bridgehead centered at the village of Ruzsk, apparently in the general neighborhood of Matveyevsk, 35 miles north of Zaganor, which Russian shock troops stormed and captured Thursday night.

On both sides of the bridgehead, Russian troops were mopping up the Germans who remained on the eastern side of the Mius, and dispatches said the Red army had firmly consolidated its jumping-off positions along a considerable stretch of the river.

German rear guards were bitterly contesting some reaches of the river, dispatches said, after heavily mining its approaches.

Other Germans were reported hastily digging in on the high banks of the western side of the river, hoping to prevent a Russian attempt to prevent mass crossing by the Russians in continuing their advance.

Dispatches said a strong German counter-attack against the Russian right flank had been repulsed.

Christmas Turkey Trade Booms These Days

After the cooling process has been completed, the birds then go to the packing room, shown above, where they are graded, weighed and packed into wooden boxes ready to be sent to markets over the United States. The birds shown in the picture here were ready to "travel" to New York City and, in all probability, some of them will spend Christmas on Park avenue. The plant at Wendell operates to full capacity for about 45 days of each year. This year about 40,000 birds will be prepared and shipped out.

Gobble, Gobble! Big Wendell Turkey Plant Sends Birds All Over America

The "gobble" business is good over at Wendell this year and Idaho gobblers (turkeys to the sophisticated) will find their way to Christmas dinner tables over the nation.

The "gobble" business—that of preparing turkeys for shipment—is carried on at the Ernest O. Commons plant at Wendell. The plant, incidentally, is the largest turkey plant in Idaho and the largest privately owned one in the northwest. Some of the business carried on can be gained from the fact Mr. Commons estimates 40,000 birds will be shipped from there before the present season is over.

125 on staff at the plant, more than 125 persons did work and the tasks required of them keeps them busy.

The live birds make their "last ride" in trucks and are killed immediately upon arrival at the plant. They are then put on a chain, conveyor which first dips them into a bath of boiling water that loosens the feathers. An operator then starts the belt of plucking off these feathers and by the time the bird comes to the end of the conveyor the job is completed. The pin feathers are removed while the birds are suspended from stationary ropes. The birds are then cleaned.

The birds then receive another scalding bath and are transported into the cooler, where they remain for a period of some 24 hours, the temperature being maintained at 36 degrees.

Packed, then shipped from the cooler the birds are then taken to the packing room where they are graded, weighed and then packed into boxes for shipment to the various markets. They are sent out usually a tall cartload at a time and, of course, the trip is made in refrigerated cars.

This is the first year that the Wendell plant, at least to some extent, has been operated on a co-operative basis. This year, however, it is being operated exclusively on birds grown by Mr. Commons.

The birds are raised in flocks, of approximately 3,000 and each flock is tended by an operator who feeds them and cares for them during the growing season. The birds thrive in warm, dry areas and the same deserts outside the Wendell irrigation district are ideal. The turkey, however, when they are fed and sodium spray off into the brush. The birds are handled at a special plant also at Wendell, and four to five thousand are the light of day for the first time each week during the hatching season.

All Parts of U. S.

The marketing is done on a sort of co-operative basis which routes birds to all sections of the country and prevents any one market from becoming too heavy. This individual producer, since the Commons do not have to find their own markets.

The bird being packed when a "Bump" arrangement is started. A considerable discussion was held, the subject being "Are we offering a constructive program in our community to answer to the needs of our children and youth?" Christmas carols will be sung by the assembling. All parents and friends of the children are invited to attend.

"POLIO" DANGER PERIOD ARRIVES

Greatest frequency of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) may normally be expected in the last months of the year.

This was the information received here today by officials of the district health department. Dr. J. C. Bridger, statistician for the state of Idaho department of public health, pointed out that this year is no exception. During the first 11 months, 10 new cases were reported, four of these being in November.

This same distribution apparently holds true for typhoid fever. In fact this coincidence of case incidence of infantile paralysis and typhoid fever has been noted sufficiently often in the past to warrant the U. S. public health service to make a case study of possible mode of transmission of infantile paralysis.

In Idaho, at the present time, every child has a chapter in his life in the "fight infantile paralysis" campaign. The chapters have been organized under the direction of the State Health Officer, Twin Falls, state organizer of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

VISIT TO NEW ORLEANS LIKE TRIP ABOARD, P. E. O. LEARN

BULLH, Dec. 6 (Special)—A trip to New Orleans will rival any trip to Europe, according to the author in his paper on that city before the P. E. O. meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Busmann Monday evening.

"New Orleans is different in many ways from all other American cities. It is an ancient city as well as modern one, a city of charming contrasts, a development due to its colorful history."

It was founded by Bienville, a French Canadian, as a French colony in 1763 and passed on to the United States, with the entire Louisiana Territory (now all and part of 17 states) for $15,000,000.

The floats are brilliantly colored and are unique representations of historical, legendary and mythological significance. They are the product of corps of highly skilled designers and builders who work in secret dens. The average parade costs $20,000 to $30,000.

The Mardi Gras parade is the climax of the carnival season of elaborate private balls held every year from Jan. 6 on into February until the scene of New Orleans recreation.

Prior to the program hour names were drawn for the gift exchange and names announced for the Christmas party which is to be held at the home of Mrs. Carl Harder, Dec. 14.

Streets are pretty much alike in all cities but Canal street in New Orleans has no parallel to any other.
