Prospects of new legislation to supplant the AAA, invalidated by the supreme court ruling, partially offset the blow dealt this agricultural recovery measure.

Despite its declared unconstitutionality, the benefit payment plan proved highly acceptable and had gone a long way in speeding recovery in an industry sorely in need of such assistance.

The administration has to its credit the fact that it exerted itself in behalf of agriculture, and, continuing to recognize a keen need, may be able to supply other such assistance.

For these efforts it is to be congratulated. Had there been a more nearly unanimous decision of the court on the question, it would have been better for the country as a whole. As it stands, a different view held by two justices would have changed the decision. Lacking unanimity, there can only continue to be widespread belief in the soundness of the AAA act and that, invalidated though it is, the principle of bounty is sound economically, justified for the industry, and highly beneficial for the country.

These are reasons enough to encourage the shaping of similar legislation within the scope of the Constitution.

AN OBJECTIVE FOR 1936
Small satisfaction is to be gained from the knowledge that in this county last year deaths from motor car accidents dropped to 10 from the 1934 total of 16.

Sixteen was an abnormal number, and 10 is just that many more than there should be. To be sure, the drop is significant, proving that the number of such tragedies can be reduced when effective steps are taken to prevent them, and the citizenry is to be congratulated on the fact that the number last year did not actually increase over the total for the year before. In south-central Idaho it is estimated that 25 lives were sacrificed on the altar of highway carelessness. In the state, the figure is expected to approximate 160 when all returns are in and totalled.

The test in this county will come this year, to see if it will be possible to still further reduce the annual toll. There is no good reason why it can't. Tragedy and accident have struck enough homes to make a large percentage of drivers conscious of the dangers of the road, and to bring home the lesson to pedestrians.

This year a greater campaign than ever is to be waged for safety on the highway.

Although traffic fatalities for the nation in 1935 were approximately the same as for 1934—about 86,000, all told—an analysis of the figures, as compiled by the Travelers Insurance Company, discloses some dismaying new tendencies.

A steadily increasing number of deaths is due to pure carelessness on the part of drivers. To be exact, two-thirds of the year's deaths can be laid to driver-carelessness—speeding, driving on the wrong side of the road, and that host of offenses which come under the general heading of "reckless driving."

Furthermore, the average accident is more deadly than it used to be. That is, the rate of death per accident has risen—by 7 per cent. Cars are traveling faster; when they hit something, the occupants have less chance of coming out alive.

It is a sorry record that these figures disclose. When and how can we find a way of saving motorists from their own folly in 1936?

THE BLISSING BRIDEGROOM
Sidney Summerfield is head of the marriage license bureau in Chicago, and in that job he has come in contact with bridal couples without number; and he rises to remark that the "blissing bride" of tradition is as rare as the cigar store Indian of blessed memory.

As a matter of fact, says Mr. Summerfield, it is the man who gets all trembly and colors up to the ears when he approaches the altar. The little woman is as cool and self-possessed as an archdeacon.

And this, it seems to us, is a useful bit of puncturing of a very old tradition. Men like to believe that they are the level-headed ones, in moments of emotional stress, and that women get amovien with the jitters.

In reality, however, it is usually just the other way. The ordinary woman can give the ordinary man curds and spades in the business of keeping a grip on flutery nerves.

Human beings first used edged rocks as cutting instruments 100,000 years ago, which shows how all but women who sharpen pencils with razors have progressed.

PAUL NALLON'S NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

An Exclusive Evening Times Daily Report on the Fast-moving Events in the Nation's Capital. By Paul Nallon, Editor, Interpreter and Commentator. Copyright 1935, By Paul Nallon.

SANDBAGGING—WASHINGTON—If the facts in the ever get out about Postmaster General Patrick's Jackson and his per promotional campaign, there may be a public clamor to make him director of the budget. The fact is, however, that he has been so busy with his newly developed genius type groups outside congress that he has not had time to publish his comments.

NOTES—Only one member of the house of representatives has been selected for the opening session, which is probably a new record. If anyone wants to make a second study of legislative problems, he should read the book of that name by Congressman Luce.

SUGGESTIVE POWER—It seems the general's friends were correct in their opinion that the invitations to the 1936 congress, but next year, some New Dealers feel a healthier appearance for it would be secured if the party's sponsors, sandbagging were tried on it. Modesty and opposition may be the best policy for the party to follow. Through them you may get the best of this remarkable year for deficits.

BEAT FITTING—The cost of the new federal building in Washington, D. C., was estimated at $10,000,000. It was won by Colonel E. H. Bailey, capable secretary of the Senate.

TECHNIQUE—In the same department, there was a new trend. A lawyer who had been in the line of those old-fashioned clasp-lock purses, now generally used by the police, had been seen with a new one. It was a small, square, black leather bag with a clasp.

CAUTION—You may have noticed President Roosevelt's new recommendation of neutrality in his Friday night message. This was a new departure for him.

VIEW—W. A. Clegg and Roy McKinnon, who had been in the line of those old-fashioned clasp-lock purses, now generally used by the police, had been seen with a new one. It was a small, square, black leather bag with a clasp.

HISTORY of Twin Falls City & County

By Olive Roberts Barton

As gleaned from files of the Times

A year of optimism has in some measure replaced the gloomy atmosphere of the past few years. The market is beginning to show signs of recovery.

A telegram has been received by J. B. Russell of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company from a reliable source in Boston.

Although the price offered is much lower than the prevailing market during war time and immediately following, property feel that the price of hay they have a much better chance of emerging from the depression.

TANNER'S HERD LEADS AVERAGES

H. F. Steele Receives Best Average for 10-20 Group During December

Victor Dupuis, tester for the Idaho Livestock Testing Association, reports that the 21 herds of cows tested during December had an average of 17.4 pounds of milk per cow per day. The highest average was made by Arnold Tanner's herd, who own 20 milking and four dry Jersey cows. His herd averaged 60.7 pounds of milk and 32.5 pounds of fat.

The report states that 210,201 was the total number of pounds of milk produced and 10,002.1 the total number of pounds of butter fat produced. Sixty cows produced 40 or more pounds of milk per cow per day. The average amount of milk, 664.4 pounds, for both milking and dry cows.
