Attorneys Start On Challenges With Selection Of 12 Veniremen

Legal Battle Over Jury Nears Climax

By WILLIAM F. MCNAMARA

United Press Staff Correspondent

A panel of 12 men was passed for cavity by the defense, as well as the prosecution, at 3 p.m. today in the trial of Douglas Van Vickle, charged murderer being tried for the slaying of Mildred Hook, his ex-wife.

The court then ruled that the state had the first right of peremptory challenge. Each side has the right to 10 peremptory challenges and it was known definitely that the prosecution was not satisfied with the panel presented.

The prosecution immediately set up its first peremptory challenge to omit B. S. Taylor, and then the routine of questioning began all over again with H. A. Kinney in the first chair.

It was revealed during the questioning that L. R. Drake, a weather-beaten farmer in Owyhee, about 60 miles from Twin Falls, is a former student of the University of Chicago, and graduated from the Bennett Medical college in Chicago, Ill., in 1906, and practiced for five years. In view of the insanity angle, his presence on the jury panel was considered of great importance.

This morning's session had ended with seven of the jurors tentatively accepted by both sides.

Health of Psychiatrist

A break of eight hours in the trial of Douglas Van Vickle was postponed in the trial by the question of the prospective jurors by both defense and prosecution today.

In view of the fact that a defense of insanity in this case, Bert C. Miller, attorney general, thundered impressively, "I wish to be permitted a resuscitation of the defense,"

With no objection from the defense, the permission was granted. Facing the jury box, Miller cleared his throat and intoned, "It is my opinion that the defense of insanity is the defense of the day."

"I do," was the answer.

Family History

"Do you realize that family history is to be brought into the case that specialists are to be introduced? Do you know that the testimony of expert witnesses is subject to cross-examination?"

MAN DIES FROM BLAST INJURIES

Jack Borson, 47, succumbed To Hurts Received When Caps Exploded

Jack Borson, 47, for the past 10 years an employee of the Twin Falls Canal company, died at 7 a.m. yesterday after suffering injuries from a explosion of dynamite he had been receiving treatment for critical injuries sustained in an explosion of a box of dynamite caps while working on the construction of a drainage tunnel there.

Mr. Borson had been working on the canal project since last October. He was married to Miss Margaret McCoy in Elko, Nev., in 1929. Besides his wife, he is survived by four children, Mrs. Evelyn Boyce, Robert, Mrs. Clara Smith, Twin Falls, and Mrs. J. J. McNew, Between, Nev., and his mother, Mrs. Anna Falls, Twin Falls.

Dynamite arrangements have been tentatively made for Thursday with the Rev. Dr. S. church in the White mortuary. The body will be taken to the White mortuary.

MARKETS PAY KING TRIBUTE

United Press

Markets throughout the world reflected death of King George V today. A long list of them closed for the complete session. Others were partially out of respect for the late monarch.

The New York Stock Exchange remained open but the London markets were closed as were the New York Stock Exchange, the Paris Bourse, and the Stockholm market.

Mr. Borson was born Jan. 10, 1888, in Elko, Nev., and died at 7 a.m. yesterday.

Services will be held at 1 p.m. tomorrow in the Elko mortuary.

ABSOLUTE JUSTICE

Interest centers here now in the Van Vlack trial which opened just eight weeks from the date of the quiet November afternoon when the Tacoma man is charged with having killed the first of three persons in this county.

Heat of public temper since then has cooled considerably as the law takes over active prosecution of the person pledged to have started this bloody trail.

The fine display of citizenship revealed on that occasion by the people of this county will again be tested during the present trial as the prosecution's evidence and defense claims of the murderer charged man are unfolded.

As the Evening Times asserted two months ago, it can be reiterated here that the law is perfectly capable of dealing with the situation with the assurance that justice will be given full sway.

The fact that the case actually has been brought to trial within two months from the time of commission of the crimes, is evidence that justice can also be comparatively swift.

Crimes for which Van Vlack has been accused constitute about the most serious in the history of this county and section, and the state now is compelled to prove his guilt. The prisoner, by the law of the land, is innocent until so proved.

The judgment is to be determined by the evidence submitted to the court and the jury made up of Twin Falls county men.

No one can righteously contest this procedure or its method. Implicit confidence is held in the court which has a stern duty but one in which it is practiced.

The public will only hope that the trial is concluded with a minimum of delay, of expense and of bitterness.

The sorrow of this community in the loss of three persons by violent death, is only exceeded now by intense interest in a case where, it's logical to believe, only absolute justice, so far as it is given the minds of humans to administer it, will prevail.

FEAR IS PUBLIC JINGO NO. 1

Senator Gerald Nye spent his recess between the last and the present sessions of congress nosing about in Japan and the Philippines, and he told a newspaper recently that the Japanese people have no desire whatever for war with the United States.

And yet, at the same time, he discovered that it is fear of just such war, which is egging on the Japanese to build up their fleet, get their fighting planes ready, and prepare generally to make things warm for anybody who starts anything.

They aren't afraid of Russia—tense as the situation along the Manchukuan border may be—and they aren't afraid of England. They are desperately afraid of the United States, because they think that the American people are steathily and methodically moving for Japan's destruction.

New if you take this bit of news and tack it up on the wall alongside any candid discussion of America's sentiment in regard to Japan, you will make an interesting discovery. You will find out that the most dangerous thing in all the world can be plain, old-fashioned, unreasoning fear.

No American needs to be told that his nation does not want war with Japan. The ordinary American has no more desire to fight the Japanese than he has to fly to the moon. But if you question him, he will probably admit that such a fight may very well take place before many years have passed.

In other words, fear is pushing each nation toward war. There is a wide ocean between them, they are excellent customers of each other, there is every reason why they should be friends and no reason at all—no good one, such as friendly discussion cannot remove—why they should be enemies.

Yet each year sees them drifting closer to war, because each is afraid of the other.

There is a good deal of danger in a situation like that, because fear makes people suspicious, and suspicion increases their fear, and if they get frightened enough they are apt to start shooting from pure nervousness. But there is also reason to be very thankful that the situation is not worse.

For if these mutual fears are groundless, they can be removed. Japan and America are not a Germany and a France, divided by bitter memories of attack, bloodshed, invasion, and worse; they are two countries that can more easily live in mutual friendship than otherwise, once they are persuaded to put away their fears.

Persuading them to do that is a job which ought not to be too hard for the statesmen of both lands.

A Temperance, Mich., man is growing hair on a bald head. A non-Temperance man could probably prescribe something that would curl it in one gulf.
