Navigating Bureau Executives Disciplined by Department of Commerce

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (UP)—Suspension of two ranking officials of the bureau of navigation and steamboat inspection resulted from violation of department of commerce regulations regarding issuance of information to newspaper.

Director Joseph B. Weaver said today.

and three in the bureau, are Frederick L. Adams, chief investigator and special agent, and Commander H. McCoy Jones, senior navigation officer.

They were notified of their suspension at noon yesterday and were granted 24 hours in which to make explanation.

Weaver said reports were grounded that Adams and Jones were suspended as a result of their complaints that efforts to increase safety at sea were being balked by high-ups.

Gave Out Information

He said the two officials had given out information in the bureau before it was submitted to the department, thus disobeying department rules.

The information, he said, was a report by a passenger on the steamship boat "Maudslayi."

Action was taken shortly after complaints from newspapers that they had not received the report.

Weaver said, adding that the suspension followed immediately upon refusal by Adams and Jones to subject themselves to questioning regarding this action.

McClintock, Kerlin, executive assistant to Hopper said, "when absolutely nothing to it," there's no comment."

Jones and Adams that sea safety regulations had been hindered.

HEADWINDS STOP CLIPPER'S MAINT

Gale Over Ocean Leads Pilot Of Giant Plane to Turn Back on Hop

ALAMEDA, Calif., Feb. 14 (UP)—Landing headwinds blowing across the storm-ridden Pacific today delayed for the second time efforts of Pan-American Airways giant, four-motored China Clipper to fly the 2,410 mile transoceanic air route to Honolulu.

Only 1,000 miles along its route after 18 hours flying, the clipper per turned back, then turned back for its Alameda base where it took off at 4:25 p. m. on what was intended to be the first trans-Pacific air express to arrive at Alameda about 12 o'clock noon, P. M.

Severe Weather

Pan-Am officials said Capt. Edwin C. Musick decided to turn back after buckling severe headwinds all the way and after trying various levels in search of a wind-free airway. Unable to do so and with conditions indicating the winds would increase further out over the Pacific, Musick turned back, then turned back.

The big ship, carrying seven crew members and two passengers, was scheduled to arrive at Alameda about 12 o'clock noon, P. M.

Levee Collapses

MERIDIAN, Calif., Feb. 14 (UP)—A temporary levee on Bear creek collapsed today and flood waters swept the levee, cutting off the city within four blocks of the city's business district.

"Traffic along the Golden State highway was cut off and hundreds of individual plants were surrounded by two or three feet of water which had not yet subsided through hastily erected barricades.

Industrial Products Too Costly, Says Economist

A. C. Woodbury, Declo, Offers Solutions to Current Production Problems

Most industrial products are generous share of profits derived from their labor, the economist of A. C. Woodbury, Declo, said in an interview with the Evening Times points out what he believes are some of the solutions to current problems, namely, cost of production, as well as better distribution.

Mr. Woodbury, who speaks for the producers of the farmer's products, said today.

Shortage of Homes

"Recent statistics indicate there is a shortage of 10,000,000 homes in this country, and federal agencies so far have failed for short of accomplishing what had been hoped for in encouraging building and modernization. Many deserving persons are deprived of the benefits because of the increased cost of building."

He said that the cost of building is the principal factor in the cost of housing.

Costs Go Up

"Secretary of Labor Perkins reports residential construction in the last reported month gained 180 per cent from the year previous, while the cost showed a boost of 207 per cent. Another report shows that while automobiles cost only half as much as 80 years ago and are very much better, building costs have doubled in the same period. Yet no one is willing to take the blame for this situation."

"In England building costs have been reduced to meet the level of the families needing houses, instead of waiting for the income of the family to rise enough to meet the cost of housing."

Wages Lag

"In industry, during the past year profits have increased 80 per cent, while wages have advanced only nine per cent."

"I say the way to correct this is for leaders of industry to accept a reduction in profits by lowering prices of their products, and at the same time inducing high-priced labor to consent to a material reduction in wages. There should be no cooperative profit-sharing plan whereby employees would receive a share."

POLITICAL PARADE

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The more congressmen think about it the more resentful they are against the salary increase which took effect last month. Smith thinks Congress is composed of rubber stamp congressmen who can't think for themselves.

Congressmen always are on the defensive. They have better jobs—$10,000-a-year—than 80 per cent of their constituents. They hire their own relatives at comparatively good salaries which also are paid to their families.

It is paid to them that it costs to travel to and from Washington for sessions of Congress and they get luxurious office space free here and sometimes get quarters gratis back home.

Ought to Be Wise
To deserve all of that a congressman should be a comparative-wise and conscientious person. But many of them are not and in election years few measure up to standards which their good and responsible jobs would demand to establish. This is a general incident which can be supported sufficiently by looking at the record on the matter of taxes to pay the cost of the veterans' bonus.

These remarks on congressional foibles are not intended to infer how the bonus should be paid. The various possible methods are by and by borrowing. Congress tried to pay off in printing press money but was blocked by a presidential veto. Now it has passed a bill authorizing the expenditure but failing to provide revenue. The constitution is perfectly within its rights there too, and don't let any phoney experts tell you otherwise. The constitution expressly gives to the house of representatives a great many prerogatives, among them: "Power to lay and collect taxes."

2. Power to borrow money on the credit of the United States.

Within Rights
Therefore, if Congress wants to pass a bill appropriating funds and prefers to meet the bill under the second borrowing authority rather than under the first authority, which is the power to lay taxes, Congress is within its rights. The authority to borrow money to more than meet the bonus payment was voted by Mr. Roosevelt long ago.

But any constituent, including Al Smith, who is called to task that Congress make up its mind whether to tax or borrow. It is distinctly not the responsibility of the executive to tell Congress what to do. The constitution is explicit in that respect. But Congress evidently prefers to have the executive take the rap, if any, on the subject of taxes. President Roosevelt it appears, is none too willing to take it.

Supports Charges
Congress record on financing the bonus payments supports all the rubber stamp charges which have been made against the servants of the people. From top to bottom—$10,000-a-year with heavy expenses for the house, the Senate and begged the question. Why they should be annoyed when mentioning the matter of their delinquency is difficult to comprehend. The men on Capitol Hill know very well that they are afraid of a tax bill in election year and most of them will admit it privately. They're meaning the Democratic Caucus to break supply with President Roosevelt. They are afraid of any definite step that would vote to borrow but not to tax for bonus revenue for fear Mr. Roosevelt will come along and recommend that they tax and not borrow. It is not an inspiring picture, this particular phase of the political situation.

Typical of the congressional attitude is a recent statement by Chairman Robert L. Doughton of the House Ways and Means Committee. He is a New Carolina Democrat. The ways and means committee is the most powerful subdivision of Congress. It originates all tax legislation but it functions as the Democratic steering committee. Therefore, its chairman is a wealthy figure in a position to impress his judgment upon history. But Doughton decided with his colleagues. Asked how the bonus would be paid, he replied:

"The administration should say whether it needs additional revenue. They know their needs better than we do."

RED LITERATURE WANES IN SOVIET

MOSCOW (U.P.)—A new turn in the Soviet official attitude toward literature, away from purely propagandistic works glorifying Communism and back to the Russian classical authors is strikingly apparent these days. This trend has been under way for several years, but of late it is much more pronounced.

With official encouragement, Soviet literary circles recently commemorated the 25th anniversary of Leo Tolstoy's death. A national-wide tribute to Alexander Pushkin is being planned for this century, Jan. 27, 1937.

42 STATES HAVE LIABILITY LAWS

Loss Caused by Non-Resident Motorists Now Covered by Statute

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The law now reaches across most of the state lines throughout the country to compel payment of damages caused by non-resident motorists, according to a report from the American Automobile association. Residents of 42 states and the protection of non-resident, service process have, the A.A.A. statement said. Ten jurisdictions have adopted such legislation during the past year and with the exception of Colorado, Georgia, Missouri, Nevada and Utah, the non-resident motorist now is in effect throughout the country.

Expense of Litigation
"Prior to passage of the laws, the injured party was forced to file suit for damages in the state in which the motorist causing the accident was resident," the report said. "The difficulties and expense involved generally presented insuperable obstacles. With the non-resident service process law in effect, however, the injured party is forced to answer the suit in the state in which the accident occurred."

"When a non-resident motorist enters a state with such a law," the statement continued, "the automatically appoints the commissioner of motor vehicles as the lawful attorney authorizing him to accept service of process in a civil liability suit. Should the motorist cause an accident and then leave the state, the process is served on the commissioner and the motorist is informed of the return by him."

"Should he fail to respond to the suit and judgment be returned against him, the court of the state in which he resides has jurisdiction to collect the damages."

"To residents, this means that they no longer are threatened with inability to obtain payment for damages caused by out-of-state drivers. Motorists now are faced with civil and criminal liability when traveling outside the boundaries of their home state under existing laws."

"Undoubtedly," the report continued, "this type of law gives a greater measure of fair treatment to the injured party and, because of its far-reaching effect, should prove a powerful incentive to safer driving."

OVER 50 MAJOR LEAGUE STARS BALK AT CONTRACT SIGNING

GREENBERG TOPS HOLDOUT RANKS

Both Batting Leaders Included Among Axes Demanding More 1930 Salary

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (AP)—More than 50 major league baseball players have refused to sign new contracts.

Among the most prominent holdouts are Hank Greenberg, Detroit Tigers' slugger; Augie Galan, Detroit Chicago Cubs' outfielder; Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh's National League batting champion; Van Mungo, Brooklyn's ace pitcher; Luke Appling, Chicago White Sox shortstop; Bud Meyer, Washington's American League batting champion; Bob Johnson, Philadelphia Athletics' pitcher; Sam West, St. Louis Browns' outfielder; and the two Dean boys of the Cleveland Indians.

No. 1 Holdout
Greenberg, first baseman of the world champion Tigers, perhaps is the No. 1 holdout. He performed last season for a salary said to be about $7,500. He indicated early in the season that he wanted approximately $10,000. The club is understood to have offered him a contract for twice his 1930 salary, but he is still holding out for more money. It is unlikely that Greenberg will sign for less than $12,000.

Mr. Moosey, then Helen Wins, came out of the west with her piglets and her poker face to overthrow the veterans who had long dominated the sport, and by the sheer appeal of her dynamic game, combined with her unusual personality—to give women's tennis new and vibrant life.

Galleries Follow Her
Now Patty has come out of the mid-west with her freckles, her small nose, her curly hair and her little smile. Already she has challenged (and beaten) many of the best, and already the galleries are deserting the other ways to follow her in the wake of this colorful youngster.

Her appeal is many-sided. There is her youthfulness, for one thing. She doesn't look like 17 years. The women in the gallery mother her from the first.

Four members of the Cincinnati Reds, to sell with the second squad to the Puerto Rico training camp as scheduled yearlings. The other three are outfielders: Mike Herman and Ival Geronzi, and Tommy Thayer.

Red Sox Have Four
Tom Yawkey's high price "Boston Red Sox" with a payroll of about $250,000, have four prospects: Mike Herman, Ival Geronzi, and Tommy Thayer.

Two batting champions, Mike Meyer of Washington and Arky Vaughan of Pittsburgh, failed to accept the contracts first offered them. Meyer, because of the $20,000 price placed on him when Col. Jacob Ruppert of the New York Yankees wanted to buy him, is the one of the year's most interesting holdouts.

Freckled Patty Berg Puts New Attraction Into Women's Golf

By HENRY McLEMORE
MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 14 (AP)—What Betty Lane Moody did for women's tennis, Patty Berg, the titaness of golf, may do for women's golf.

Her appeal is many-sided. There is her youthfulness, for one thing. She doesn't look like 17 years. The women in the gallery mother her from the first.

Two batting champions, Mike Meyer of Washington and Arky Vaughan of Pittsburgh, failed to accept the contracts first offered them. Meyer, because of the $20,000 price placed on him when Col. Jacob Ruppert of the New York Yankees wanted to buy him, is the one of the year's most interesting holdouts.

Slenderizing Designs Stressed as New Trend

Advance Showing Bees Fabrics And Colors as Stars of Fashion Parade

By ROSETTA HARGROVE

PARIS is a place where the most daring and bizarre designs are seen! Long live the new gracefully slenderizing creations that silhouette the body and make women look Diana-like.

This, in effect, is what the famous couturiers said when they flung open their carefully guarded doors and let us look at their latest spring collections.

There is a definite return to simplicity. Plastic Greek draperies are treated in the modern manner. Waistlines are lifted at the front, then allowed to slip toward the back, creating an illusion of line to hem, and emphasizes the waist.

Fabrics and colors are the real stars in the fashion spotlight. Daytime dresses in tulle, short or by the way) are fitted to insure freedom of movement as well as to be flattering to the figure. They continue to be simple. The military mode is out. SLIMS are in!

And still, there is a touch of the past. The wide, flowing, and swaggy jackets are featured. These vary from extremely short to hip and three-quarter length.

Button fastenings arrested attention. In metal, mother-of-pearl, leather, porcelain, these take the shape of flowers, birds, fish, or even handles, mandarin heads and so forth. Zippers, too, which, for late afternoon, are finished with plaits and tucks. Some skirts are cut high and have suspenders, tops. Sunray accented plaits is widely used, sometimes for an entire dress of suit.

Cater Contrast. Blouses supply contrasting color and a note of femininity. Many are in wool, silk, prints, mousseline, of the good line, and short, handkerchief length. They are to be tucked into the skirt and allowed to blouse over the top.

Evening gowns are divided into two categories. The first is formed of tulle, from waist to knees where fullness is introduced—generally at the back. The second is full and long, from waist to hem. Decorative effects are "grafted" rather than added.

The majority of evening skirts reveal ankles at the front. Decollete show tendancy to nude. Shoulders and arms are revealed with sheer boleros or capes. Here the ensemble idea is carried out exaggeratedly. Capes, boleros, boleros match the dress. Helm shows suits for every day and night and uses vivacious and modern lines.

Seventy-five couples attended the affair for which music was provided by Chuck Heintz and his Continental. Punch was served by Miss Dee Heppner and Miss Virginia Taylor.

Reception committee included Mrs. Richard Smith, Mrs. Nevil McCoy, and Miss Harriet Devlin. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lester Powell, Miss Margaret Newman, and Miss Amy Fowler.

SHOWERS GIVEN. Mrs. Albert Sharp, formerly Miss Wilton Butch, was guest of honor. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Norma Raynor, sixth avenue east. Guests donned "hand time" costumes and the play was well received. Refreshments. Candies, lighted—the table—dresses and plants were entertainment for the evening. Costume prizes were awarded to Miss Melba Duncan and Miss Margaret Metz, and Miss Ione Jensen.

KNOLL BAPTIST. Rev. Ernest H. McLean, pastor of the Sunday school at 10 a. m. Grand school for all ages. Church at 11 a. m. Subject, "God Planned Life."

MEETING ATTENDED. A joint session of the Purcell and Home association societies of the Methodist church was held yesterday afternoon with Mrs. C. O. Craver. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. C. O. Craver.

BY ROOM MOTHERS. An attractive tea for parents and students was arranged by the Junior High School of Twin Falls last evening at the home of Mrs. C. O. Craver.

WOMEN GIVEN. Miss Mary Robinson, president of the Junior-Senior I. O. O. F. A. Valentine theme featured the decorations. Refreshments were served by Betty Yarbrough, high school student, and Mrs. Carl Benson, who was hostess throughout the afternoon. Mrs. O. G. McMillin, president of the organization, and Mrs. W. C. O'Leary, secretary, were also present. The afternoon following Mrs. Evans and Mrs. John Hays, president of the Idaho League of Parents and Teachers.

Shlaparelli's new coat silhouette is reported as high-bosomed with fullness falling from underarms, as in this sketch drawn from cubed descriptions of a new creation shown in the spring collections.

This high-waisted, gored skirt—illustrating Shlaparelli's new silhouette—was sketched from cable reports. Note the exaggerated flare.

Bolero jackets, noncollared blouses with Medici collars and cuffs, slim skirts and navy satin are stressed in Paris fashion cables. From these items of cable news, we have sketched this costume.

Today ammonia is obtained on a commercial scale as a by-product, when coal-gas is made. Even the air we breathe often contains considerable quantities of it, formed by decaying vegetation. The name "ammonia" was given to it because sal ammoniac, one of its compounds, was made originally near the Temple of Jupiter at Ammon.

MOSCOW, Feb. 14 (Special)— Appointment of nine high ranking specialists in music, education, political science and sociology to the faculty of the University of Idaho summer school, June 9 to July 17, has been approved by the board of regents.

KINDNESS PAYS

Handel Bachman, nationally known band authority and director of the University of Idaho band, has returned to Idaho for his third consecutive summer term.

Dr. W. J. Harris, dean of the school of education of the College of the Pacific, will be back for his fifth summer, and Dean C. C.
Maxey, professor of political science at Whitman college, for his third.

Newcomers on the list include
Dr. R. D. Hahnel, school administrator at the University of Minnesota; Dr. Leo J. Keston, supervision specialist at the University of Minnesota; Dr. C. C. Clark, head of the department of sociology at the University of Kansas; Prof. Karl W.
Gardner, writer and head of the department of school music at Oberlin college; Edna M. Probst, principal of the Columbia demonstration school in Minneapolis; and Dr. D. S. Wheelwright, musician and composer, Chicago.

Thirty members of the resident Idaho faculty also will be members of the summer session staff.
The 1926 summer term, six weeks, will be the university's 24th. Last year's session established an all-time attendance record just under the 900 mark.

OTTAWA, Can. (14)—The Dom-
