

COURT APPROVES NEW DEAL'S TVA

Endorses Power Program on Every Contested Point
Vote is 8-1

The energy itself which is the mechanical energy, incidental to the flowing water at the dam, converted into the electrical energy, which is susceptible of transmission.

The question here is simply as to the government right to concede a title in substance, that it was without constitutional authority to acquire or dispose of such energy except as it comes from being in the operation of works constructed in the exercise of some power delegated to the United States.

Lawfully Constructed
"As a matter of fact, the transmission lines lead directly from the dam, which has been lawfully constructed, and the question of government to acquire or operate local or urban distribution systems is not involved."

The court did not go into the authority of the government to finance power lines, since this was not at issue.

It appeared from the opinion the possibility of future tests of some power of the government's power program remains. However, by upholding the fundamental principle of the TVA, the court assured that the present experiment could go forward without precedent.

There are No Safer Brakes Made than the Super-Safety Brakes on the 1936 Ford V-8

No other car in America has the same basic design as the Ford V-8. And because of its unique design—the Ford car could use any type of braking system now in common use.

BUT, with the whole field to choose from, Ford stands by mechanically-operated, Super-Safety brakes as the safest, surest, most positive for the Ford V-8. This is the type of braking system used on many of America's conflict cars and on most racing cars. And because of its unique design, Ford can give you better safety than any other automobile built today.

Drive the Ford V-8... Notice how it "holds its road" on curves... Ford never has to "fight" Ford around turns... Notice how dependably the Super-Safety brakes work on steep hills—or anywhere else. You can arrange to do this easily by calling: Your Ford Dealer.

FOOTBALL RULES CHIEFS MAKE TWO MAJOR CHANGES

RESTRICT ACTION AT 1936 PARLEY

Minor Shift Made in Forward Passing Regulations on "Screen" Players

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., Feb. 17.—First session of the national football rules convention...

held west of Philadelphia ended today with only two major changes in regulations...

1. A blocked kick which did not pass the line of scrimmage hereafter will be a "free ball" which may be advanced by either side...

2. The "slow whistle" was eliminated because it apparently resulted in too many hasty decisions...

Other rule revisions included: Teams will be given no warning to return to the playing field...

Recommendation that will not be adopted by committee is that a player who is ejected from the game...

Gridiron officials and newspaper men have complained that they frequently were unable to identify small numbers on the backs of players...

Overweight now considerably slower by virtue of his 228 pounds, the former champion boxer Frankie Hammer...

But future clowning will be restricted to the most he displayed yesterday, Max insisted.

"I've got the bright lights on me and for all," he claimed, "I haven't touched a cigarette today by the way."

"That's what killed me in my fight with Braddock in Louisville," Max believed he can be in shape within a month and he wants Phil to believe it.

The praise with which ring critics have greeted Brubaker's steady advance into the heavyweight ranks has been apparently a source of jealousy in the Baer brood.

"If they're already saying he can hit me," Baer declared indignantly, "Well, I'll be ready to fight him in two months—maybe in a year."

"He's just a kid and they're rushing him along too fast—just because he hit me in New York," Baer said. "I knowed out Levey before Joe Louis did."

Max said he still thinks he can beat Joe Louis.

"I can't punch. I proved that at the fight attracted by the fact that he said he still thinks he can beat Joe Louis."

Maxie Modestly Says He Will Be Champion Again Within Year and Half

OAKLAND, Calif., Feb. 17.—(AP)—Maxie Baer, the former champion boxer, today announced that he will stage a ring comeback and he'll be heavyweight champion of the world again within a year and a half.

"I'll be ready to fight again in a matter of three months," Baer announced today. "I've got the bright lights on me and for all," he claimed, "I haven't touched a cigarette today by the way."

"That's what killed me in my fight with Braddock in Louisville," Max believed he can be in shape within a month and he wants Phil to believe it.

MAGNATE DIES

Philadelphian Baseball Magnate Dies at 70

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Thomas S. Shibe, ruler of the Philadelphia Athletics, died last night of complications of a long illness.

1. A blocked kick which did not pass the line of scrimmage hereafter will be a "free ball" which may be advanced by either side...

2. The "slow whistle" was eliminated because it apparently resulted in too many hasty decisions...

Other rule revisions included: Teams will be given no warning to return to the playing field...

Recommendation that will not be adopted by committee is that a player who is ejected from the game...

Gridiron officials and newspaper men have complained that they frequently were unable to identify small numbers on the backs of players...

Overweight now considerably slower by virtue of his 228 pounds, the former champion boxer Frankie Hammer...

But future clowning will be restricted to the most he displayed yesterday, Max insisted.

"I've got the bright lights on me and for all," he claimed, "I haven't touched a cigarette today by the way."

"That's what killed me in my fight with Braddock in Louisville," Max believed he can be in shape within a month and he wants Phil to believe it.

The praise with which ring critics have greeted Brubaker's steady advance into the heavyweight ranks has been apparently a source of jealousy in the Baer brood.

"If they're already saying he can hit me," Baer declared indignantly, "Well, I'll be ready to fight him in two months—maybe in a year."

Max said he still thinks he can beat Joe Louis.

"I can't punch. I proved that at the fight attracted by the fact that he said he still thinks he can beat Joe Louis."

LEISURE CLASS

When J. P. Morgan laid his hand down and allowed that some 30,000,000 Americans—meaning, we take it, 6,000,000 American families—are far enough "up in the bucks" to be able to keep a maid, he started something.

First, he set people wondering whether employment of a maid automatically puts one in the leisure class—which, if it does, will come as a stunning surprise to a lot of hard-worked housewives.

Next, he jarred a good many people into trying to figure out just how widely the material blessings of civilization are distributed in this country.

How many Americans, in other words, have actually laid their hands on those little luxuries and conveniences that go to smooth out the rough places in the business of living? How many are we to have a large, well-distributed leisure class? How do we really stand on such matters as maid service and automobiles, telephones and radios, and so on?

Figures are hard to get. In the matter of domestic servants, we have only the statistics compiled for the year 1930 by the National Industrial Conference Board. These show that in that year there were 6,121,000 Americans engaged in domestic and personal service. Of these, substantially more than half were women—maids, laundresses, cooks, housekeepers, and the like.

The United States contains—or did contain on Jan. 1, 1931—10,710,858 telephones, 20,750,000 radio receiving sets, and 21,504,000 passenger automobiles. Of our 6,228,000 farm homes, some 895,000 were equipped with running water and 841,000 had electric lights and power.

Slightly more than 32,000,000 ordinary life insurance policies are in force—some 14,000,000 Americans have money on deposit in savings banks; and in 1934 some 3,000,000 Americans made enough money to file income tax returns.

Lump all these statistics together and you get—what? A picture of the America of today, with rough outlines of the state of well-being of the average man.

While we seem to fall a long way short of Mr. Morgan's estimate of 30,000,000 people in our leisure class, we nevertheless do present a pretty fair general level.

American today contains slightly fewer than 30,000,000 families. Glancing at the statistics quoted above, we find that better than half of our families have telephones and more than two-thirds enjoy such comforts as radios and automobiles.

It is pretty clear that the fact that one family in 10 has a maid—and the income tax figures indicate that about the same proportion enjoyed enough of an income to pay a tax on it.

This could be a great deal better; it could also be a great deal worse. We may not have reached the level hopefully suggested by Mr. Morgan, but we are getting within shouting distance of it—especially when you remember that these figures were taken at the end of our worst depression.

JURAL GRAPEVINE

There is a revealing human touch in a disclosure made recently at a gathering of telephone company officials in Minneapolis.

This disclosure was to the effect that while rural communities welcome all manner of new mechanical gadgets, there is one old-fashioned way to which they cling: they do like the old party line telephone, which permits all and sundry to listen in on their neighbors' conversations.

"It is an intimate part of rural life," said one official. "If a doctor is to be called, if baby swallows a button, or if almost any other sort of emergency arises, the housewife runs to the phone, twists the bell, and gets the persons urgently wanted. And the rest of the neighbors know all about it in a few minutes, for there are as many as 20 parties on one line."

"There is more to this than simple nosiness. A farm can be an isolated, lonely place, breeding a great thirst for intimate human contacts.

"The old party line helps to meet this need. Informally, but effectively, no wonder the rural community doesn't want to give it up!"

MAN'S ENTHUSIASM

Amateurism is a funny race.

For several days, in bizarre, narrow-chilling weather, a corps of men labored valiantly, unflinchingly, on a Pennsylvania mountainside, cutting a path in a crevice. What was the valuable object they sought, for which they endured such hardships and discomfort? Well, down in the crevice, crouched firmly in a wedge, was a shivering, whimpering puppy, weak from starvation and exposure.

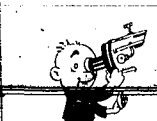

And why—to revert again to the opening sentence—was American a funny race?

Because the same type of people who will almost submit to torture to find a suffering puppy, listen to harrowing tales of thousands of lives sacrificed annually to the great god Speed; and chuckle in sympathy at the thought of the great throngs of grieving mothers and heartbroken husbands and wives.

Then, muttering "Ain't that terrible," they clamb into their autos, glow with the feel of power in their hands, and—o-o-o-o—they're out of sight, with ruffled pedestals gazing anguilly after them.

FOR CARROT TOP

(Some Advice To The Lady Who Denigrated Men)

Say listen, Carrot Top, if it's Chevalry you're seeking, I'll quote the recipe and you can stop your sour squealing.

You wouldn't need to learn again that men are always looking. For girls who have the knowledge of a last bit of cooking.

Go back to virtues mother had. Be feminine once more. Don't be so modern all-fired.

Try clinging vine for strategy. Forget your college learning. Flatter us a bit and you'll find calvary returning.

EXACTLY FOUR WORDS WERE SO CRASSED FOR AL K. HALL, who captured our Pot Shots short story competition last week. These were: "good, good, good, good."

GET INTO THE swim this week with your own short story or short verse—maximum 50 words. You can submit as many entries as you want.

FOUR OTHERS who got honorable mention among the week's contributors are The Bat, Mary G. Sound, Vagabond, and Hunt, D.

THE week's winner, we think, is a resident of Buhl, but our secretary can't exactly remember his name. He is a resident of Buhl, but our secretary can't exactly remember his name.

AL K. HALL will send us his address or drop in at the Evening Times office, and we'll see that our Pot Shots treat you comes across with that 50 cents.

THE STRANGE CASE OF JULIA CRAIG

JULIA CRAIG, pretty young woman, was sitting in her room, waiting for her husband to come home. She was looking at the clock, and the hands were pointing to ten o'clock.

"He should be home by now," she thought. "He always comes home at ten o'clock."

"He must be somewhere," she said. "He always comes home at ten o'clock."

Some editors of Japan's conquest of China have been bringing bait towels to work these days to keep them from drying out by the side of the road.

Another unnoticed angle is that it is customary for congressmen to start a Japanese war scare each year, just before the war and navy department bills are considered. It helps to push the bills through.

Gooding Board Asks For Building Grant

GOODING, Feb. 17 (Special)—Gooding school board has authorized Chairman William Dyle to make application for a grant of $40,000 to match the $50,000 bond issue recently voted by taxpayers of the district for the construction of a new school building here. The bond issue was authorized by nearly 4 to 1 vote. Frank Hummel of the firm of Tourtelotte and Hummel, architects who drew the proposed plans for the building, was here from Boise for the meeting. He had prepared the details of the application, which will be turned over to J. Vernon Otter of Boise, head of the P. W. A. for Idaho. Mr. Otter has gone to Washington and will be able to tell on his return to Boise in about 30 days whether or not the requested grant is given P. W. A. approval.

Men at Gooding File Bonus Applications

GOODING, Feb. 17 (Special)—About 50 ex-servicemen have made applications for the soldiers bonus this far, according to Mrs. Leola Laidie who is handling the soldiers bonus for this community. She expects more, however, as there are an estimated 300 veterans in the county who are eligible for the bonus. The total who entered the service from this county in 1917 and 1918 was close to 400. Mrs. Lucke states that applications are also being received at the Legion posts of Wendell and Hagerman. Where there has been no loan obtained on the adjusted service certificate, the application goes to the city where the loan was obtained, Mrs. Laidie says.

Stuart Scott has returned home from Boise where he received treatment for sinus infection at a hospital.

Here's Swift and Direct Action to Relieve That Cold

External Treatment Helps End Colds Without Risks of Constant 'Dosing.'

JUST RUB IT ON AT BEDTIME

Two generations have proved Vicks VapoRub the most effective treatment for children's colds. Vapo-Rub is external and safe. Its use avoids the risks of constant internal 'dosing' which so often upsets digestion and appetite, thus lowering body resistance when most needed. Just rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, VapoRub starts to work immediately—two ways at once:

1. By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster.
2. By inhalation of its penetrating medicated vapors, released by body heat and breathed in direct to inflamed air-passages.

Continuing through the night, this powerful poultice and vapor action loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membrane—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion.

A Practical Guide for Mothers. Each year, more and more families are being helped by Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Vicks Plan has been clinically tested by practicing physicians, and further proved in everyday home use by millions. Full details of the Plan in each package of Vicks VapoRub.
