

JAPANESE AGREE ON COMPROMISE

Army Officers and Leaders of Revolution Reach Accord
at Tokyo

men who at the moment are glad to offer their lives for their ideal, the country's traditions?

Efficient Revolt.

The compromise, and its release of the revolutionaries, was agreed upon by the leaders of the Third regiment of the First division, which participated in the revolt, had done their work efficiently.

In places which they held, the premier's residence, the general staff property and the new old grounds, as well as the center of the city's heart across the moat from the Imperial Imperial castle. The American embassy is just to the south.

The Groups Ponder
What to do. The compromise reached, there are leaders now considering the situation — army, and many officers of highest rank, the civilian political figures who were certain they have cracked the nut, and the revolutionaries in administration; and royal princes who met with Emperor Hirohito at his palace.

Each group is considering its position in the immediate future of the government, intending to recommend a course to the emperor.

It is an acute national crisis, due to the boiling over of extreme army spirit after the liberal victory in the elections, which brought to the front again the question of the immediate future of the government, intending to recommend a course to the emperor.

Whatever the outcome, it was indicated by the young officer who led the revolt would submit to formal arrest and stand trial, perhaps being made a scapegoat.

The king and his forces thus had many of their predecessors who gave their lives for their ideals.

Charter Cruelty.

Mr. Thomas Wilson has commenced a legal suit seeking divorce from Cliff Cox on grounds of cruelty. The couple married Dec. 24, 1927, at Shoshone, Wilson, and Mrs. Margaret Scherzer.

Non-Support Charged.

Charming, Mrs. Fannie Cole, 21, of Twin Falls, is plaintiff in a divorce action against Douglas Cole, whom she married at Shoshone April 12, 1931. She is represented by A. J. Myers, Twin Falls attorney.

Groves Invited.

All growers of beets are invited to a meeting at the Jerome County Beet Growers' association to meet at the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce club rooms today at 8 p.m. to hear a discussion on the proposed 1936 contract officers announced.

Brother Dies.

Brother died today from Coach Pratt. Twin Falls announced the death of his oldest brother, Mr. Pratt, Feb. 25. Mr. Pratt was at the bedside of his brother, the oldest of six brothers. The brother, a graduate of Idaho State University, was buried at the northeast corner of the large family. He will return March 6.

Day of Prayer Set.

World Day of Prayer will be observed tomorrow at the Methodist church by women of all ages. The service will begin at 12:30 p.m., for which those attending are asked to bring sandwiches and table napkins. The service will be for nine years and is arranged so that prayers for peace begin in the Pacific ocean and continue over the world to make 40 continuous hours of prayer.

Johnson, Burley; Mrs. John W. Boles, Twin Falls; Patients dismissed: H. W. Wooley and Mrs. J. D. Barnhart, Twin Falls; Mrs. C. Y. White, and Mrs. H. H. White, Twin Falls; Mrs. M. E. Gandy, Twin Falls; Mrs. Lawrence Bell, Burley; Mrs. Victor H. Vincent and son, Twin Falls; Mrs. Jim Hyder, Henry Hollister, Buhi; Les McFarland, Hansen; Rex Harting, Jerome.

Transportation.

It is believed that Transportation Coordinator Joseph B. Endocrin opposed the measure because he was seeking "government ownership" of railroads, and that the bill would permit railroads to charge less than the total short haul over the same route.

Opposition Admits.

Pettengill asserted that Endocrin's opposition was that he was an "outright and honest advocate of government ownership of railroads, although he says that this is not true."

"If, however, the railroads are to be kept disengaged while employing transportation agencies are free to offer them to pieces," Pettengill said, "then the bill is good."

He added:

"The railroads are being driven into bankruptcy."

Prisoner Sets Fire to Cell Mattress.

Clayton J. Chishow, Toledo draper, who last week terrorized an entire courtroom by threatening to blow up the jailhouse, came to the aid of a man who had been impaled by a sharp metal spike.

Chishow, recently the most dangerous prisoner ever held in the building, defied efforts to take him into court for a trial. He waved his right arm in a cat-like manner, and then went about his business as turnkeys passed water through his cell bars.

Two Small Children Die Out-Man, Grieved Wife, One Child Feared Dead

bodies from the smashed passenger coach of a local Northern Pacific train caught in an avalanche last night east of Lookout summit. The bodies were identified as those of two persons who subsist on the mountain. The truth is stranger than fiction.

Unquestionably, the most amazing true story is that of the tiny little Hobo Bob, who died on the Southern Pacific's Onalaska-Sacramento train, the Senator and his wife, both passengers, pulled out from beneath the burning car.

Lionized in Crowley.

Emmett Lemery's story begins at the Sixteenth street station in Oakland, where none in the milling crowd could identify the tiny, tattered, starved, climb-up beneath a car of the train.

Thus, Bob was aboard when the train exploded when it hit a rock.

Bob, however, recovering from his injuries, told rescuers there had been a sixth man in the car. In fact, the fourth body had been found.

Emmett, Coach.

The average reader down the mountain about 6 p.m. yesterday. It split before striking the railroad tracks, one part cascading across the way of the train, the engine and passenger car and the second engulfing the passenger coach.

The rear car was tipped from the track, the front end from the bridge and jammed with debris. Workers who rescued Florraine and Wheeler found the interior of the car crushed and torn. None aboard the car or engine were hurt.

Details of the rebellion indicate it was the most serious in recent Japanese history. The fact that such a younger brother had been killed in the rebellion has been a source of worry in the imperial office.

Chichibu, a career army officer, extremely popular with all ranks, and his presence probably helped to hold any wavering regiments in line.

Sei, the train started again and the life and death drama went on through the night until the train reached Sacramento. Then Ed Malenky, a car inspector, flashed his light over the broken tail-hanging on.

There, more dead than alive, the narrow glaze of the light reflected on the tiny, fury, terror, still clutching the beam in terror.

QUINTS SCORE IN SCREEN PREVIEW

Advance Showing Wins Critic as Famous Babies Make Movie Debut

(Copyright, 1930, United Press)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27 (UPI)—The five little Duke quintuplets, last seen in "The Country Doctor," are presented once more, the quintuplets now all grown, critics into sentimental nostalgia.

Although they received star billing, the quintuplets appear in only the first 10 minutes of the picture, and their theatrical technique is anything but finished.

Unorthodox—But Good

They waddle or creep out of scenes on stubby, uncertain legs. They crow and "bronx" cheer at camera men, and steal scenes from each other and the supporting cast outrageously.

The story is not that of the quintuplets, but of a country doctor, evidently inspired in part at least by the early days of the famous Dukes, who brought the little Dukes into the world.

Jean Hersholt plays the part in much the same manner of life as too. He is a medical anarchist, a worth wood-village, struggling to gain a hospital for his little community.

Solves Problems

Because of his insistence, he is replaced by a new doctor and threatened with arrest for failure to obtain the medical license. He was too busy to care for the needs of the quintuplets, making the village a national monument and solves all problems.

John Qualen, sharp-nosed and a bit of a boor, is the father of the Silly Summerville team, with him in comedy as a bush-league policeman. The picture is smartly directed by Henry King, particularly his bit of "cuckoo" (cuckoo), which is a gale of laughter.

The story ends rather abruptly with some explanations wanting, but with the Dukes on the screen, there can be no question about its success.

John Wayne, cowboy (in actor, you mean), is the father of a girl born to the former Josephine Sienz, and promptly named her Antonia.

The doctor and Mrs. Wayne had to call themselves Antonia if a boy but changed the name to feminine form when the girl was born.

Trial of an $86,400 damage suit against Hal Le Beau, film actor and brother of Joan Crawford, screen star, continued today in supreme court.

Le Beau, being sued by Golda Goss who charges she was permanently crippled in an automobile accident involving the actor.

"Grand Old Man" of Balkans May Stage Comeback Soon in Greece

BY MILTON BRONNER

LONDON—Times premier, eight times a rebel, and always the nine-lived political cat of Greece, Eleutherios Venizelos, is back in Paris after a visit to the Balkans. At 72, this "grand old man of the Balkans" is a political exile in Paris. But the combined break of victory of his party at the polls in January and the recent unexpected death of General George Kondylis, his bitterest opponent, have set the stage for yet another

The importance of another Venizelos comeback at this time lies in the fact that he is known to favor the British in the present crisis. He would rally and support the military understanding that now exists between Britain and Greece in case of trouble with Turkey.

Kondylis Was Foo

It was Kondylis, too, who led the Greeks in their military restoration of King George in the last October. Then when the Venizelist party polled a small majority over the Kondylists in January, Kondylis had to go. His forces prevent Venizelos's return despite an orderly and honest decision by the pols in his favor. Then Kondylis suddenly died.

Marmots and other stones, taken up two rooms of the exhibition, were scattered about the floor, the stones producing them and from Alaska and Puerto Rico. One room is devoted to interior, and the other to exterior, of this form of building material.

The interior room contains 192 polished or honed specimens of decorative marbles. The floor is divided into three main displays, each from various producing districts.

Lighting for daylight inspection is the feature of the exterior room. Samples of granite and other stones are divided by aluminum strips with floors of highly colored cast stone and slate.

Marble Tiles—Displayed

In the sample room of the floor and wall clay tile industry, two sections of post office wall screens have been installed to picture the tile produced with sections of the floors adjoining. Other sections of the room are devoted to displays of floor and wall tile both in installed form and in cut sizes.

More than 400 samples of paving

The aluminum industries exhibit combines aluminum, marble and phenol-formaldehyde.

Aluminum products, such as marble with aluminum plaques showing various finishes. Floors are of marble with aluminum strips and the ceiling is of phenolic resin.

Aluminum blinds have been used in various window treatments. In the center of the room is a phenolic-formaldehyde table, with a pedestal marble top with inlaid aluminum strips.

Similar general arrangements are followed in other spaces displaying earth and stone, Glass, Brick and Tile Institute, Metal Window Institute, The National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, National Terrazzo and Mosaic Association, Structural Clay Products' Association, Glass Manufacturers' Association, and the Reinforcing Steel Industry.

HANSEN

At the regular meeting of the Girl Scouts recently at the Q. A. building, Robert Fornari, a member of the Boy Scout organization, demonstrated the Morse code. The patriotic instructor of the Q. A. It's a good program for the birthday of Lincoln and Washington. Miss Eale Lindgren acted as speaker. An original reading on the life of Lincoln was given by Mrs. C. E. Johnson. There were also several readings given by girls of the troop. The number of the mothers of the girls were given. Lloyd Johnson, who was up to attend with his group of boys who were also scheduled to take part in the program, had to stay home because his boy father spent the week-end at home in Dodge where he was called because of the illness of his father.

Mrs. Ray Pool, was honored at a special Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harvey Fornari. The afternoon was spent in playing games. Mrs. Pool was formerly Miss Ethel Fornari.

In a test run recently made on smooth pavement a new armored tank reached a speed of 104 miles an hour.

Fight Against Financial Barons Back of Revolt

(Editor's note: One of the little known motives behind the recent young officers' rebellion in Japan is emphasized by James Omura, a Japanese lawyer in the following dispatch written for the United Press. Dr. Omura points out that the fight against the military and capitalist aristocracy is a primary reason for the revolt. Junior officers in the Japanese army practically all come from the poor, obtain "more than half-life" for these classes than have them to rise against the capitalist dominated government.)

By BUNJI OMURA
Japanese Publicist
(Copyright 1936, United Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—The financial and political outrages in Japan are deeper than Japanese officials care to acknowledge. Rather than admit the truth to themselves, they cling to the publicly stated theory that the disturbances are due to the dissatisfaction of the army and navy regarding military policies. The true cause is to be found in the typical decadence, revolution, and children's complaints, by destroying the breeding places of flies.

"In the east, where flies breed, there has been a noticeable increase in such diseases," the supervisor says he is informed.

Models on Display

He says human yards have model buildings on display and take orders for those. Additional information is available through Post at the city hall, or from Dr. D. Wilson, Bush, and Charles Baker Hansen.

Aim of the program, Post adds, is to develop and assist the typists, dietitians, and children's complaints, by destroying the breeding places of flies.

"In the east, where flies breed, there has been a noticeable increase in such diseases," the supervisor says he is informed.

COW OFFERED AT RADIOLAND SHOW

The Moo Cow weight Judging contest, delayed already several times, by inclement weather conditions, is now definitely scheduled for Friday's Radioland performances and shows. According to convention manager, Harry Hargrave, the offering of cow weight will lead away the cow which is offered as the prize. The Moo Cow will be in attendance, and the judges will be present.

Why do the Japanese look at the army and navy as the way out? They are willing to try.

With Masses

At least to respect the latest court ruling, the Free Revolution is aimed. In both instances the army allied itself with the masses. In Japan, the army, representing proletarian interests and sympathies, has been the public for long years of exploitation and oppression.

Why do the Japanese look at the army and navy as the way out? They are willing to try.

Usual Way

The usual way is to continue to attend higher schools of learning, cities, etc., as abroad, to become more and more popular. The army, too, is popular, and many of the younger officers are drawn from the poor. Service is required of every male citizen over 20, but the 20-to-25 classes know how to escape the duty.

Facism Only Hope

Communist and other leftist interests were discounted, and as the army's power grew, it saw to it that these elements were so effectively wiped out that Facism.

This has happened time and again. The increase in population as well as the growth of investment, and the like, are important matters. So the army feels that it has gained enough power to take things into its own hands, and end want and hunger.

Potatoes kept in a well-covered bin, with some ripe apples, will not sprout.

BY IDAHO POWER
in Post as Commercial Manager

BOISE, Feb. 27 (UPI)—K. M. Robinson, president and general manager of Idaho Power Co., told of personnel changes in Idaho Power company personnel, effective immediately:

J. C. Baldridge, division manager of Payette division, has been transferred to the general office of the company at Boise where he will be assigned to special duties.

L. W. Bradnard, commercial manager of the company, will succeed Mr. Baldridge as division manager at Payette.

R. E. Gale, division superintendent of the Payette division, will be transferred to the general office and will succeed Bradnard as commercial manager.

Former Local Man

Gale started work with the Idaho Power company in April of 1920 in the power plant construction at Shoshone Falls. In February, 1922, he came to Boise and served in the engineering department until November, 1924, when he assumed the post of division engineer at the Twin Falls division. In the fall of 1928 he was transferred to the Boise division of the company on rural electric distribution, and in October, 1932, as division sales manager.

In 1933 he became division superintendent of the Boise division.

would be the only hope of escape from the treasury of finance.

If the day comes when the army succeeds in regaining the reins of government, it will be the fault of the ambitious money men.

The banks did continue and the answer is now making international headlines.

Politics is a big one. Certainly the soldiers have had much more voice in the country's affairs than have the masses. Manhood suffrage was granted to the soldiers, so the voting franchise has little meaning.

Facism Only Hope

The first plan produced at the national radio factory, the Radio-Philips, under provisions of the Venon-Trammer Act and then flown by naval personnel at Philadelphia.

POLISH-LITHUANIAN CLASH UNABATED

By MARY MCBRIDE
(Special to the Times)

NEW YORK.—The designs on your table silver and your dining room furniture—really ought to match. If you are to be strictly up-to-the-minute, At least people who can afford it are copying their silver from their antiques. If you can't quite run to silver made to order, then at least try to have your plain furniture and silver agree, and if possible let both be in the same mood as the house itself.

According to the authorities, however, which during the bad days fell upon evil days, is on the way back. Chromium and pewter, which had their turn are out or nearly so, and the newfangled are again buying sterling.

Fander Design.

A revival of formality in dining room brocante pieces and silver designs that have been in vogue recently. There are two schools of thought—one favors the ornate patterns inspired by the Italian Renaissance; the other prefers the less mutual desire-for-friendship relations was reported to have been act at night because Joseph Beck had been invited to dine there. Vile and Stansky Lorzoralski could not surrender Lithuania's claim but.

One a Grand Duchy.

From about 1290 until 1772, the year of the first division of Poland between Austria, Russia, and Prussia, Lithuania and Poland had combined to form the Kingdom of Poland and Grand Duchy of Lithuania. Thereafter, they formed part of the Russian empire under the Versailles treaty for which they emerged as autonomous, and independent states.

Since 1920, grass has covered the country guarded frontier, 300 kilometers long, between the two countries. No post-or-mail-service communications exist today. The former Russian railway-line between Vilna and Warsaw has been cut off by miles short of the border on both sides. No one may cross the frontier from one country to the other.

Poland Rept. City.

The most unfortunate situation is the so-called Vilna question. When Poland retained possession of this city after 1920 despite the protest from Lithuania and the League of Nations, the Lithuanians were forced to set up their camp in Kovno, "provisionally," as they said, until Poland could regain possession of what they consider their rightful capital.

The Poles pay no attention to Lithuania's claims. They feel that Lithuania is a part of Poland.

Besides, it is the birthplace of Marshal Piłsudski. And what else? His heart was buried there near the grave of his mother.

Poland never will give up Vilna or the heart of its national hero—that is the view which prevails throughout Poland. Lithuania never will recognize that Vilna is Polish—this is the feeling which dominates Lithuania today.

Coming Spring

BY EARL H. LEAF

TRENTON (UP)—A permanent increase in Japanese military forces stationed in North China will be made this spring, probably before the next annual troop replacement is due to arrive in May, according to present plans.

An increase in force, an increase was reached during the recent visit of Col. Seiichi Kita, chief of the Chinese section of the army general staff, and Gen. Tomoaki Matsui, the military attaché, during his tour of the war ministry, who consulted with Major Gen. H. Tada, commander of Japanese troops in China.

It will be necessary to submit the proposal to the Diet as an addition to the army's budget. Details of the general staff's plans have not been disclosed, but it is expected that the North China garrison would be increased by at least one mixed brigade and an additional mixed regiment. This would bring the Japanese garrison in Tientsin for weeks preceding new structures to house the newcomers.

Gen. Tada has had discussions with the Chinese government on the question of the Japanese troops in Tientsin.

Under normal conditions, Japan maintains the largest number of troops in North China, and second largest, Japan, U.S., France, Britain, U.S.S.R., Australia, 1,270 Italian, 800. The U.S. Army troops in Tientsin number about 100 and are scattered in various posts around 800. The general complement of the Japanese troops:

Peiping 1,000; Tientsin 1,000; Tangshan 100; Linshouying 80; Tungku 45; Chinkiang 100; Changchun 50; Garrison Forces shifted.

However, it is believed more than three garrisons have been sent out of the country, and that the Japanese military spokesman said that the total garrisons had been reinforced due to the recent Japanese invasion of Manchuria.

It was accomplished by bringing in troops from other garrisons in the north, and that the total number was not more than 1,200.

Unanimity Cleared Over Status
Of Vilna Continues Rift
Between Nations

WARSAW (UP)—The Polish-Lithuanian animosity, created by the status of Vilna, shows no signs of abating in the controversy ends its fifth year.

No diplomatic or consular relations have existed between the two countries since 1920 when the capital of the one-time Grand Duchy of Lithuania, caused the indignation against Poland which culminated in Lithuania ever since.

So strong is the feeling between the countries over this city that when their respective foreign ministers met in Geneva last year for the first time since 1919, the mutual desire-for-friendship relations was reported to have been act at night because Joseph Beck had been invited to dine there. Vile and Stansky Lorzoralski could not surrender Lithuania's claim but.

From a Grand Duchy.

From about 1290 until 1772, the year of the first division of Poland between Austria, Russia, and Prussia, Lithuania and Poland had combined to form the Kingdom of Poland and Grand Duchy of Lithuania. Thereafter, they formed part of the Russian empire under the Versailles treaty for which they emerged as autonomous, and independent states.

Since 1920, grass has covered the country guarded frontier, 300 kilometers long, between the two countries. No post-or-mail-service communications exist today. The former Russian railway-line between Vilna and Warsaw has been cut off by miles short of the border on both sides. No one may cross the frontier from one country to the other.

Poland Rept. City.

The most unfortunate situation is the so-called Vilna question. When Poland retained possession of this city after 1920 despite the protest from Lithuania and the League of Nations, the Lithuanians were forced to set up their camp in Kovno, "provisionally," as they said, until Poland could regain possession of what they consider their rightful capital.

The Poles pay no attention to Lithuania's claims. They feel that Lithuania is a part of Poland.

Besides, it is the birthplace of Marshal Piłsudski. And what else? His heart was buried there near the grave of his mother.

Poland never will give up Vilna or the heart of its national hero—that is the view which prevails throughout Poland. Lithuania never will recognize that Vilna is Polish—this is the feeling which dominates Lithuania today.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

The prehistoric dragonfly, uncovered in Kansas, is believed to be representative of the largest species of insect that ever inhabited the earth. It lived during the Permian age, about 150,000,000 years ago, at a time when there were no birds or mammals in existence.
