HARTFORD, Conn., March 26 (AP)—Almost a third of Hartford and its suburban area, home of 200,000 persons, was under water today as the usually placid Connecticut river spread out in a great yellow lake 10 miles wide at spots.

The water was five feet deep in parts of the city. Coast guard cutters battled their way 50 miles up stream.

Telephone and power services were crippled. Two thousand national guardsmen, armed state and local police in herding refugees to points of safety and preserving order.

CRUELTY AND INJUSTICE OF WAR

Maybe, if we took the time to understand what that little word "war" really means, we wouldn't toss it around as casually as we have been doing lately.

The way the word has been handled you'd think war was a sort of exercise or discipline which, while mildly unpleasant, didn't really amount to enough to make anyone think twice about it.

It might be wholesome to pause for a minute or two and consider the case of Otto Stukart, of Vienna.

Twenty-one years ago, when the World war was young and some millions of young men had not yet found the graves for which they were destined, Stukart was a soldier in the imperial army of Francis Joseph of Austria. Serving on the Russian front, he was captured and stuck into a prison camp far back somewhere in the lonely Russia wastes.

The war ground its bloody way down the years, and Stukart stayed in prison. Revolution swept across Russia, the war ended, the house of Hapsburg fell, and his empire was dismembered—and still Stukart stayed in that desolate prison camp.

For this particular batch of prisoners had simply been forgotten. So many things had been happening that the Russian authorities just let it slip their minds. So Stukart remained in prison, along with his comrades, until at last, in the year 1936, somebody remembered them and turned them loose.

So Stukart, finally, after 21 years in prison, made his way back to Vienna and was reunited with his wife and daughter, who had supposed him dead.

That's all there is to this particular story. The cables didn't reveal what the husband and the wife said to each other when they thought about things. Someone did take a picture; and you can see the third, haggard face of this former Austrian soldier looking out at you with the blank stare of a man who has come to understand that life is a sellout and a fraud. But you have to imagine the rest of it.

Now the point of all this is that this monstrous injustice is just a small sample of the sort of thing war hands out indiscriminately. War, in other words, is blind and stupid and heartless. It completely ignores the individual. It can gouge out of a man's life as heedlessly as it can gouge out his eyes or break his spine or drape his entrails over a barbed-wire fence; not because any purpose is served by so doing, but merely because that is the way war works.

If we can only remember that war is nothing but an infinite number of such cases of cruel and everlastingly useless injustice, we might stop talking about it so glibly—and, instead, renew our determination that we are going to remain at peace, no matter what happens in Europe.

SAFE FROM THE INSECTS?

In these days of grim national and international stress, it is comforting to be assured, at least, that the insects are not likely to crowd man off the earth. Since some entomologists have said that the insects might do exactly that, the assurance is worth getting.

The good word comes from Mayton Eddy, scientist and philosopher. Of course, says Mr. Eddy, the insects have better physical equipment than man, but they require special conditions to prosper. Moreover, the insects are their own worst enemies, adding self-destruction to the exterminating efforts of humanity.

"If the insects wished to maintain their supremacy on earth," Eddy explains, "the time to have done it was when man was getting a foothold here. Insect life antedates human life by many millions of years."

Life does have its little blessings.

STRANGE OCCURRENCE

In the excitement of the Lacerne declaration, the world may have missed a significant point in Herr Hitler's brilliant Reichstag speech, "that was the allegation that Soviet Russia has 'debauched' God and is 'laying waste the world of supernatural imagination beyond'."

It is this Reichstag coming to the defense of religion. Admittedly a new role for him and is he not a bit mischievous?

There is, of course, no question of Hitler's war on religion. That has the chancellor set a much better example. Already Nazi Germany has evidenced pagan friends, and the persecution of Jewry together with Catholic and Protestant "heretics" certainly cannot go down on record as any defense of religion.

But perhaps no one should expect condensation of a detractor. Didn't Mussolini shout for world solidarity even while Fascist legions marched on Ethiopia?

To escape head prostration, says a Dayton physician, out, all. He didn't reveal how much to take, but a gain for every campaign statement should suffice.

A Smithonian authority says now makes the nose longer, the mouth broader; but since life is short, there, never, never be a rival for Duranto or Jho E. Brown.

PAUL MULLON'S NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

An Exclusive Evening Times Daily Report on Events in the Nation's Capital. By an Expert Interpreter and Commentator. (Copyright, 1936, by Paul Mullon)

ELUVIENESS—WASHINGTON—Only one man has ever been elected to the office of Secretary of the Treasury. The laurel goes to Treasury Secretary Morgenthau.

The revenue director of the New Deal has tenaciously negotiated to appear before the House ways and means committee on the tax bill. He is the first Treasury secretary in history who has failed to testify about an administration tax program.

The official excuse is that he has been suffering from a gripe. Some of his pals say he calls it "the belle gripe." It appears to be a peculiar kind of gripe that fluctuates widely from hour to hour. For instance, the other morning he announced that he was attending the Treasury calling off his press conference. But two hours later he was back in the office, and the Treasury calling off his press conference. But two hours later he was back in the office, and the Treasury calling off his press conference.

Later that day he intended to leave for San Francisco, Cal., in the midst of a press conference. He was in the middle of a press conference when he was called to the office. He was in the middle of a press conference when he was called to the office.

Note: The secretary's chauffeur has given a rise to erroneous rumors that he is against the presidential tax program. He is very much against it. He is very much against it. He is very much against it.

House writers of the bill have been equally evasive. They are doing all they can to avoid publicity. They are doing all they can to avoid publicity. They are doing all they can to avoid publicity.

Newsmen after Douglas have been equally evasive. They are doing all they can to avoid publicity. They are doing all they can to avoid publicity. They are doing all they can to avoid publicity.

The significant thing behind all this seems to be that they would all like to pass the bill. They would all like to pass the bill. They would all like to pass the bill.

Even the frozen faces of Supreme Court justices cracked the other day, when they heard a New Deal lawyer, when they heard a New Deal lawyer, when they heard a New Deal lawyer.

Times have changed since President Roosevelt asserted the Schechter decision recalled hours and bugged days. Also since, a New Deal lawyer, when they heard a New Deal lawyer, when they heard a New Deal lawyer.

Brins Upset.
Another surprise was the defeat of Pocatello, which averaged an early season defeat by winning from Twin Falls 21 to 17. Twin Falls, due to its more impressive regular season record, had been favored to win.

All the teams, except Pocatello, are champions of their respective divisions.

The first round of the consolation tournament will open today's play. In it Boise will face Post Falls, starting at 2:30 p. m.

Twin Falls in Consolation. In the championship game, Lewiston will be pitted against Blackfoot. This game starts at 3:30 p. m. The third game will be the second of the consolation tournament—between Salmon and Twin Falls at 8 p. m.

Junior Chamber Hopes to Get Illumination; Sponsors Dryden to Report

With the Junior Chamber of Commerce planning on a lighted fire to permit doubleheader games tonight, plans for the 1936 Idaho League have been underway today.

Organizations and business houses interested in sponsor teams were requested by Chairman Lloyd Young to indicate their intention as soon as possible to Al Westgren or Jimmy Mullin at offices of the Idaho Evening Times.

Expected 12 Teams.
Under Junior Chamber sponsorship, the league will probably have membership of 12 teams divided into two divisions. It was indicated by Young, location of the lighted fire is still indefinite, he said, but the chamber's athletic committee expects to attend the next session of the school board to request use of Lincoln field as the committee with Young are Westgren and Jimmy Mullin.

Presidents of the Idaho League have promised cooperation in securing the floodlighting according to Chairman Young. Plans for raising funds to pay for operation of the light will be drafted by (team managers) at a meeting to be called soon. League officials, including Young, are planning to hold a meeting with other necessary matters will be carried out at the gathering.

Mr. Jerome Dean, Esq., Wishes Low 'Dizzy' Nickname Dropped

By HENRY MCLEMORE
IRADINGTON, Fla. March 20 (AP)—Dizzy Dean, pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, wishes to be called Dizzy Dean.

He would appreciate it very much if the American public, his public, would, in the future, call him Dean.

Mr. Jerome Herman Dean, Esq., of Jerome Herman Dean, Esq., wears of Buffonery.

He is weary of being a buffoon. To believe that he has advanced to a point where the nickname "Dizzy" is no longer in keeping with his dignity.

He hopes that in the future the pressmen will make no mention of his cotton-picking days down Arkansas way, nor keep a record of his rather long and rambling career.

In short the order of the St. Louis Cardinals that he is the foremost player of baseball in the United States today, he is not a cotton picker.

Wants it in Contract.
Mr. Dean's lawyer, Mr. Dean, has demanded that any contract which contains the clause which prohibits the team publicity man from mentioning him in any discreditable manner. There must be no what-so-ever on his part.

He has demanded that when he is to pitch a game the club announcer speak of him as Mr. Dean, and not as Dizzy Dean.

ST. With a batting average of .100, Albus is a sure sign of a new star.

Junior Chamber Hopes to Get Illumination; Sponsors Dryden to Report

With the Junior Chamber of Commerce planning on a lighted fire to permit doubleheader games tonight, plans for the 1936 Idaho League have been underway today.

Organizations and business houses interested in sponsor teams were requested by Chairman Lloyd Young to indicate their intention as soon as possible to Al Westgren or Jimmy Mullin at offices of the Idaho Evening Times.

Expected 12 Teams.
Under Junior Chamber sponsorship, the league will probably have membership of 12 teams divided into two divisions. It was indicated by Young, location of the lighted fire is still indefinite, he said, but the chamber's athletic committee expects to attend the next session of the school board to request use of Lincoln field as the committee with Young are Westgren and Jimmy Mullin.

Presidents of the Idaho League have promised cooperation in securing the floodlighting according to Chairman Young. Plans for raising funds to pay for operation of the light will be drafted by (team managers) at a meeting to be called soon. League officials, including Young, are planning to hold a meeting with other necessary matters will be carried out at the gathering.

With a batting average of .100, Albus is a sure sign of a new star.

DEFENDS TOLL BRIDGE
Editor Evening Times:
Dear Sir:—I read your column of your issue of March 16 there was a letter from Wendell regarding the toll bridge. I am a resident of this community and I am a taxpayer. I would like to have this free bridge just as much as anyone else in fairness to all concerned. I will not pay a toll for a bridge that is not a toll bridge. It is not a toll bridge. It is a public bridge. It will include a study of parole, probation, conditional release, suspended sentence and other aspects of release procedure.

The owners invested their money in the bridge and they had every right to expect a return on their investment. It is not a toll bridge. It is a public bridge. It will include a study of parole, probation, conditional release, suspended sentence and other aspects of release procedure.

The state or county cannot be expected to make the state or county a present of the bridge at this time. The state or county cannot be expected to make the state or county a present of the bridge at this time. The state or county cannot be expected to make the state or county a present of the bridge at this time.

When better travel was provided at great cost some of our citizens do not want to pay for the service. The same was true of the Blue Cross. I don't believe the citizens to use the grade without cost. Much time is saved over the former route. The bridge has been always been most courteous and the city registrar of course is necessary part of any business. I don't like to pay 60c for toll. I want to be fair in this matter. If you make more thorough analysis of this proposition I believe that you may change your attitude.

The bridge has been a splendid public service, time-saver, safety factor, scenic attraction and a wonderful asset to the community. H. H. G.

HAILEY
Mr. and Mrs. Merwin Cameron and daughter, Barbara, of Wrightwood, Calif., are visiting for a few days in Hailey with Mrs. Anna Hailey and son, Les Verne.

The Catholic ladies of Hailey sponsored a St. Patrick's day dance Tuesday evening. A large crowd attended. Music was furnished by John's dance band.

LATAH OFFICIALS GIVEN ACQUITTAL

Road—Commissioners—Cleared of Nepotism Charges by
Supreme Court

BOISE, Idaho, March 20 (AP)—Three Latah county highway commissioners, T. H. Rogers, John Randall and P. G. Pilzen, were today freed of nepotism charges by a decision of the Idaho supreme court.

The court ruled that highway districts were not included in Idaho's anti-nepotism law. "Had it been the wish of the legislature to include within the prohibitions of the act, they would have amended the act in some manner so as to express their desire," the opinion said.

"We concluded that the anti-nepotism act does not apply to officials of highway districts," the court said. "The act is so ordered." Judge J. F. Athlete wrote. The commissioners were charged with nepotism following the hiring of the relative of one of highway work in Latah county. After their arrest, the commissioners appealed to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus.

Justices Morgan and Bulge did not participate in the hearing.

Separational charges of threats and intimidation alleged to have induced the secret marriage of a Boise bride to a divorcee.

Boise, Idaho, March 20 (Special)—A divorcee, Mrs. L. R. Adams, is now in the court. The marriage was made here in the filing of a suit for annulment in district court yesterday.

In her complaint, filed through O. G. Hall, Twin Falls attorney, the plaintiff declares that the marriage was entered into by her through "fear of bodily harm," and was to be kept secret between plaintiff and defendant for at least one year during which time Adams was to establish a home and prove that he could provide for his wife.

Despite this alleged agreement, the complaint says, at a public dance hall there March 14, Adams attempted to induce her wife to live with him, and when she refused, he published the facts of their marriage. The couple never lived as husband and wife, and the defendant has not supported his wife, according to the complaint.
