Pittsburgh Worried As River Climbs Up

Rise of Monongahela Brings Renewed Anxiety

By United Press

Pittsburgh's low sections, not yet recovered from last week's devastating floods, faced new inundations today when heavy rains sent the Monongahela river out of its banks. Effects of the rains were expected to be felt all down the Ohio valley, but no serious damage was anticipated. Low-lying areas in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky were under water and some small towns were flooded. Reconstruction went forward through Pennsylvania with 25,000 workmen and others on the job. Power was restored to Hartford, Conn. after 104 hours of failure. Relief work was progressing rapidly throughout New England. Rising rivers threatened serious flood damage in western Wisconsin. Three persons were drowned there.

Pittsburgh, March 25 (AP)—The Monongahela, one of the great rivers that cut through Pittsburgh, rose steadily today and caused new anxiety in this city of 1,000,000 people.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks on the north side already were under water. Many riverfront business houses ordered more boats to be moved out of the city.

The weather bureau announced that the Monongahela would not reach its unprecedented crest of last year when it and the Allegheny river overflowed the chief business district, causing property loss of more than $20,000,000. It was 46 feet, 21 feet above flood stage. Early today the stage approached 40 feet.

Heavy rains in the territory drained by the Monongahela tributaries and the Allegheny, poured down the channel from West Virginia.

At Wheeling, W. Va., 10 streets were inundated to a depth of five feet at night in a new rise of the West Fork river. The stage there early today was near the high point reached last week. Roads to the north were blocked. The rains were piling up a new flood crest for the Ohio valley. One of last week's still was in the channel. Last week's crest passed Cincinnati last night and moved on toward Louisville.

The new crest from the Monongahela, not in Ohio, now threatened to cause the Ohio to be rising at Wheeling, W. Va., one of the cities that sit on the river.

The Allegheny, which joins with the Monongahela here to form the Ohio, was not rising but weather forecasts for heavy rain in the Allegheny drainage basin tonight caused apprehension.

HOUSE SHELVES PROPOSALS FOR PROCESSING TAX

Powerful Committee Abandons Suggestions for Levies on 33 Commodities

ELIMINATES $221,000,000

Shift Leaves Corporation and Windfall Assessments as Revenue Measures

By EDWARD W. LEWIS
WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP)—The house ways and means tax subcommittee today shelved the proposals for $221,000,000 in new processing taxes covering 33 different commodity classifications.

The subcommittee decided against controversial consideration of the processing levies because of belief other taxes would yield more than $72,000,000 annually.

The other taxes are a corporate surplus tax and a so-called windfall tax on uncollected or returned processing taxes under the old AAA.

Repeal of the AAA would have a reversal of yesterday's proposal to suggest the processing taxes to Congress.

Hill said the subcommittee's tax report to the full committee will be made tomorrow.

"We decided today," he said, "to eliminate entirely from consideration by the full committee the subject of processing taxes."

That means that if our report is accepted, the processing tax question will not be discussed at the open hearings."

Hill estimated the corporation surplus tax would yield $20,000,000, temporary continuation in revised form of the excess profits tax would yield $50,000,000, the "windfall" tax $100,000,000 and that possibly $25,000,000 more revenue would be gained through withholding corporation taxable dividends from foreign stockholders.

Enough for Demands
This would raise enough to meet the demands of the AAA.

None of us were here on processing taxes," Hill said, "we felt we could get close to what the President wanted without having them even considered."

Congressional opposition to the processing levies has been powerful for political reasons. The agricultural department's suggestion was to spread the levies over more than 30 different commodity classifications.

Under the old AAA susceptible to reduced rates.

Accord Stresses Mutual Equality Of Ocean Forces

Announced at Signing
Of Three Way Treaty

By FREDERICK RATH
(Copyright, 1936, United Press)

LONDON, March 25 (AP)—The United States and Great Britain set an example to the world today by agreeing to maintain naval equality.

The agreement was disclosed while delegates of the United States, the British empire and France signed a six-year naval treaty which limits ships and aircraft in the Pacific and Atlantic oceans.

No restrictions on the number of ships or submarines may build. Japan, Germany and Italy were not parties to the treaty.

Norman H. Davis, chief American delegate, and Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, effected the equality agreement by an exchange of letters.

Davis' letter emphasized that the United States would maintain equality of the United States and Great Britain's naval forces.

Eden's letter emphasized that the British empire would maintain equality of the British empire and the United States' naval forces.

The agreement was announced at the signing ceremony, which took place at the Admiralty in London.

ANGLO-AMERICAN SEA AGREEMENT UPHOLDS POLICY

Reaffirmation of Parity Seen as Assurance Against U.S.
British Race

By JOSEPH H. BARD
WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP)—Reaffirmation of Anglo-American naval parity was emphasized here today as continuation of a policy upon which the two English-speaking nations agreed at the 1930 London conference.

The reaffirmation of policy, expected to be made today in an exchange of letters between American Ambassador at Large Norman H. Davis and British Secretary Anthony Eden, was regarded as important because it gives new assurance against a naval race between the two English-speaking sea powers.

Reaffirmation of naval parity by exchange of letters, it was believed, was for the purpose of avoiding the impression that the agreement was in any sense an Anglo-American alliance.

State department officials declined to comment publicly on reports from London, but it was believed the letters would be made public there.

American officials have been alarmed recently by reports from London that the United States and Great Britain plan to pool their resources in the Pacific in the event of trouble with a third power, Germany, which possibly had their own interests in mind.

They emphasized that there is no agreement, even implied, of an alliance.

U.S. AND BRITAIN ADOPT EQUALITY

Agreement Stresses Parity of Naval Forces of English Speaking Powers

sure of reduction in existing naval armaments.
"Our attitude in this respect has not changed," he continued.
"We still believe that only by some method of limiting and reducing both numbers and types will it be possible to stabilize fleet relations sufficiently to exclude all competitive building."
Haven't Dropped Hope
"Therefore, while we recognize that qualitative limitation is of value, we have not abandoned the hope of achieving in the future a quantitative limitation in navies and in addition to the treaty we are today signing a supplementary protocol in which we register our desire to achieve further measures of restriction in any substantial form."

LIMITS—SIZE, TYPE
WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP)—Diplomatic observers have viewed the three-power naval treaty signed today as a landmark in naval disarmament.
The treaty replaces agreements signed in Washington, 1922 and London, 1930, places no check on the number of ships a power may build but only defines the type—tonnage, armament, etc. Even the restrictions on type may be thrown around if some power, not a signatory, builds a ship that should alter the naval world by construction of a vessel larger, or having more powerful armament, than those described in the agreement.

35,000 Tons
Battleships are limited to 35,000 tons. This is as great as any previous limitation, except the "treaty battleships" in the British fleet. If Japan should decide to construct a 40,000-ton monster, it would be a violation of the treaty.
France, after notifying each other, might do likewise.

Final feature was seen by observers in a protocol attached to the treaty indicating that the powers have agreed to certain that they could stand by their modest agreement until it is replaced by a more comprehensive one. It is believed that changes in world conditions indicate it is desirable to go through with the agreement. The powers should consult about modifying it, rather than nothing.
Even if the powers do not alter the treaty as better than nothing, it will, carried out, prevent competition in the arms race. It is an exchange of information, as they will be asked to do.

Future of the nations to conclude more detailed, limited agreement which would have been reduced or at least limited in scope. It is believed that the powers will be asked to do.
From an American point of view, one of the greatest difficulties of the treaty is that it leaves completely unattended the political problems of the Pacific. It is believed that the powers will be asked to do.
Among the powers in the Pacific will be played without rules.

CRUCIFIXION? HELP SOUGHT IN CASE OF MAN

Sheriff Asks Public Assistance in Locating E. B. Wilkerson, Missing Here

Continued disappearance since Monday of Eugene Wilkerson, 35, respected local resident, whose home is at 424 Walnut, led Sheriff E. B. Frazer today to ask public assistance in establishing his whereabouts.
Fear felt for Wilkerson's safety as he was in ill health, it is learned. He was engaged in contracting carpenter work at a Main avenue structure now being erected and left home Monday morning, ostensibly to resume his whereabouts.

This is the last his family, consisting of Mrs. Wilkerson and children, saw of him. When it was learned that he did not appear at the building that day, officers were notified and a search has been carried on since with futile results.
The family, growing frantic at the continued absence of the husband and father, and hopeful that a public appeal may aid in finding the missing man, is asking for cooperation possible in the case.

Widely Known
Wilkerson, resident of this section and the Bailey country for the past 17 years, is widely and favorably known. Sheriff Frazer said, "I don't even think he has been engaged in farming."
He is described as being six feet in height and weighs about 160 pounds with medium complexion, weighs about 160 pounds and has a dark gray hair, a dark blue upper lip, and a dark blue upper lip. He wore work clothes, a dark gray hat, and a dark blue upper lip.

Robinson Cites Data Showing
New Deal Pulling U. S.
Out of Slump

By RALPH W. OLIMSTEAD
WASHINGTON (Special)—The Republican campaign against President Roosevelt is now centered on the general thesis that the New Deal is bogging but not getting the U. S. out of the depression.

Senate Minority Leader Robinson stated the other day, "Labor department statistics disclose a 22 per cent decline in employment from April, 1930, to April, 1933, and a decrease in payrolls during the same period of 33 per cent.
Industrial employment is shown to have risen 31 per cent between April, 1933, and December, 1935, and industrial payrolls have increased 61 per cent during the same time."

On these figures Democrats are cracking. "Taken all in all the New Deal is getting us out of the depression just about as fast as Hoover got us into it, and to do that, brother, you've got to be good."

Report Misunderstood
The much discussed report in-congress on FWA projects, is being misunderstood. Many sponsors are moving heaven and earth to get their projects on the approved list, which, if accomplished, won't mean a thing. Senator Hayden introduced a resolution calling on FWA to submit a list of approved projects for which no allocation has been made, and a list of all projects not finally approved.
Presumably all Idaho projects will be on one or the other of the two lists, but the listing has no necessary relationship to allocation of funds which may be made available by congress. It is merely a report on what FWA is doing.

Snake River Hearings Hearings are being held by the army engineer corps on the proposals for navigation dam and channelization of the Snake river to Lewiston, Ida., to permit low cost water transportation.
Locally army engineers found Lewiston dam "uneconomic" but the inland Empire Waterways association has found a nest com-back.

In southeastern Idaho are located about 100,000 tons of the well known deposits of phosphate rock.
It is proposed that a power plant be built near the deposits, and the power be used in a factory to convert Idaho's phosphate into fertilizer for sale to the farmers who are losing its fertility.

The delegation is backing the proposal. If it goes through Idaho will profit not only from the phosphate deposits, but from the cargoes of fertilizer to the coast. A study to determine the feasibility of navigation on the Snake river is being conducted. Idaho is also propounded.

inches compared to last year's 638.

AUSTRIAN PLANS WINTER RESORT

Eight Ski Instructors Trained
For Ketchum Playground
To Be Built

KETCHUM, March 25 (Special) Plans to erect a large resort on the Edwin Brass ranch near here have been revealed by Count Felix Schafgotsch, of Austria, announced as purchaser of the property at a cost of $35,000.
He recently arrived on his second visit here and is accompanied by Count Hans Erwein Graf Wil-czek, and Charles Proctor, skiing instructor, Boston. They are expecting to build a winter resort at Bald Mountain hot springs.
Since Friday morning he has been going out every day with his two friends, accompanied by eight ski instructors and thirty other persons. They are building structures and guides next winter for the winter resort that is to be built this summer.

100-Room Building
The count, when questioned about the resort said, "We plan on erecting a stone and log building of about 100 rooms. Construction is to be started in May and will be finished by December."
And about the boys being trained, he says, "I believe we have one of the best instructors of this country in Mr. Proctor. Under his tutoring these boys will be quite good in about a month.
They will have to work hard every day. We don't want more than eight boys, for there is such a

UNIVERSITY WILL HELP SOIL PLAN

Extension Division Will Assist
By Staging Educational Campaign

MOSCOW, March 25 (Special)—The agricultural extension division of the University of Idaho college of agriculture has been officially requested by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and officials of the agricultural adjustment administration to organize the educational campaign in Idaho, necessary to put the new soil conservation and domestic allotment act into operation. The extension division's part, explains Dean E. J. Janning, director, will be educational. Actual administration of the new program will be handled largely by committees of farmers, state and county working in cooperation with the state extension service and the federal administrators of the act.

As the first step in putting the new program into operation, federal officials have called a regional meeting at Salt Lake City Thursday and Friday, at which time the state and county representatives will meet with representatives of the Idaho extension division and county agricultural agents to further work out phases of the educational program. Following this preliminary advisory, county agents will hold community meetings at which data on the programs will be passed along to producers.

BLAZE RUINS FATHER COUGHLIN'S FIRST SHRINE

Shrines which raged through Father Charles F. Coughlin's original Shrine of the Little Flower at Royal Oak, Mich., left only these ruins of the $30,000, 10-year-old frame structure in which, during the last decade, the radio priest rose to national fame. An expensive organ and broadcasting equipment were destroyed in the early morning blaze, witnessed by thousands. It was believed due to defective wiring. Firemen prevented spread of flames to the new $75,000 shrine, dome of which may be seen in the left background.

BILL WOULD AID KARAKUL GROUP

Senator Pope's Move Termined Protection from Soviet Underlying

By RALPH W. OLMSTEAD
WASHINGTON, March 25 (Special)—From Idaho has come word that within the borders of the Gem state are about 250 breeders of karakul sheep from which is produced Persian lamb fur—the attractive curly stuff worn by women's fashion-style coats. And, we are told, are the 250 by the Pope resolution to protect them from unfair competition by the Russian government which is now selling furs below cost in the New York market.

For the past six months almost every town or city in the United States has possessed a militant pamphlet affecting cotton weavers with alarm on the inflation-disagreeable to southern senators question. If sentiment for the Frontier-Lemke farm, left the cotton features he struck out, planning bill serves as a criterion, the grain exchange regulations enacted, and cotton senators left to take today, there is no need for worry, but their own salvation.

62 senators definitely opposed to the Fraxier-Lemke bill. Only 15 are for the measure.

President Roosevelt recently sent a confidential letter to northern senators and representatives regarding Columbia basin power legislation—Two senators promptly released it and a lovely free-for-all fight is now in prospect. Mr. Roosevelt desires the creation of a "Northwest Power agency" to handle power generated at Bonneville. A permanent set-up would be worked out later. Some northern senators desire that power be leased or sold to power companies so as not to interfere with the existing monopoly. The President's recommendations will not countenance such an arrangement and we understand that several Chambers of Commerce on the coast are preparing to fight.

Secretary Henry A. Wallace has requested Senator Pope to handle the commodity exchange bill to curtail speculation in grain on the floor of the senate. Action is expected this week. The bill, long since passed by the house of representatives, has lain dormant on the senate calendar because States has possessed a militant pamphlet affecting cotton weavers with alarm on the inflation-disagreeable to southern senators question. If sentiment for the Frontier-Lemke farm, left the cotton features he struck out, planning bill serves as a criterion, the grain exchange regulations enacted, and cotton senators left to take today, there is no need for worry, but their own salvation.

SOCIALISTS RAP ANTI-TRUST LAW

Idaho Party Favors Adoption of Swedish System for Regulation

BOISE, March 23 (UP)—Idaho's Socialist party favors repeal of anti-trust laws and is on record as favoring a system similar to that of Sweden, according to a report of the Saturday-Sunday executive committee meeting today.

"All negative legislation has actually made conditions worse. Therefore, the government should reserve the right to enter any business field contaminated by private profit, exploitation and corruption," said C. V. Dean, Pocatello, chairman of the meeting today.

Speaker Leads

A motion was passed urging the state party to sponsor the American League Against War and Fascism, Dean stated. Committee members' Dean added, expressed belief that fascism could best be avoided by cooperative development of both producers and consumers.

An agricultural program was outlined upon a cooperative basis recognizing the trend toward and necessity for large scale production by collective units.

There will be no satisfactory relief for farmers as long as their methods of production divide them into small scale, inefficient units," Dean continued.

A broad educational plan was discussed by the committee, asking for complete academic freedom and proportional representation on the state board of education by educators and labor and farmer organizations.

The labor legislative program adopted by the convention included proposals for liberal old age pension benefits, unemployment insurance and a 30-hour week law without pay reduction.

Rap Sales Tax

The retail consumers sales tax was condemned and an increase in inheritance and income taxes in the higher brackets was urged as a substitute.

A plan to clarify the constitution was proposed for Idaho, together with a recommendation for a federal plan to expend a billion dollars throughout the nation annually in sum removal.

Unification plans for a more efficient state government were advocated to combine legislative bodies into one house of representatives on the Nebraska plan. The combination of Idaho's 44 counties into five districts, will be also urged.

Urges Law Repeal

It was urged, during the meeting, that the present Idaho law prohibiting municipally owned and operated power plants from bonding future revenues be repealed.

The committee discussed caning plans and a state nominating convention to be held Aug. 11. The state chairman and secretary were authorized to select the site which will be determined by the results of committee conferences between Socialists and Farmer-Laborites.

Here's Help for Business Girl Who Has Eyes Open for Easter Wardrobe

By MARIAN YOUNG

NEW YORK—Practical, no-nonsense daytime clothes for working hours and dapper, frivolous ones for recreation and pleasure are the backbone of the business girl's spring wardrobe. She wants to fit behind counter or desk in trimly tailored suits and dresses that make her look extremely efficient and mean alert. She wants to go to dinner Sunday teas and parties appearing as charmingly feminine as her non-working sisters who have all day to primp.

First and foremost, she chooses a suit—preferably a three-piece one with skirt and jacket for the office and toposet that can be worn over separate dresses. This year, she's likely to pick one of stock wool flannel or men's wear styled in a three-piece suit, picked that no one color predominates to clash with any frock. In this three-piece suit category, she can choose between swaggy, double-breasted reefer models.

Sweaters and blouses To go with the suit, making it a veritable wardrobe in itself, she gets bright sweaters for week-end and several blouses for office. These are the presentation of style, of course. The brighter the sweater or blouse the more interesting the fairly dark suit.

Keeping the suit in mind, she

In the evening, there's nothing too feminine and too lovely for the business girl preparing to enjoy herself—this pencil-skirted event gown of printed silk crepe steps a brilliant floral design.

POST PROPOSES CENTRAL POLICE

State Trooper System Is Now Necessity, Says Chief of Enforcement

By ENMITT PFOST
Commissioner of Law Enforcement

The time has come when the hard worked patrol force can no longer carry on all the duties which successive legislatures have imposed on them if the roads are to be properly patrolled. I advocate a state police force, under civil service, as an urgent necessity.

We have 23 men for service on the highways and another six at our ports of entry. Even at that figure, in such conditions that we have to pay them this month out of the caravan tax, next month out of the beer tax, and the month out of the motor vehicle appropriation, and so on up and down the line.

Widespread Duties
The duties of the present highway patrol include the enforcement of prize fights, collection of athletic club licenses, supervision of the collection of the kilowatt tax, collection of beer taxes and license, checking up on members of 17 licensed professions to make sure they have their licenses, checking up on the motor vehicle license, checking trucks and stages for overweighing, checking their licenses, checking certificates of title, watching out for violations of the driver's license and chauffeur's license laws, making sure the mail tax is collected, watching out for violations of the caravan law, manning six ports of entry where motorists from outside the state must register. The clunks and cranks of their time after they have filled these jobs to the satisfaction of everyone concerned are filled up with the minor task of patrolling 5,000 miles of state highway, in 44 counties to watch out for violations of the traffic laws.

Marale Is High
It is a mystery to me how with all these multifarious duties piled on them, and with the bare necessities of life which they are subjected to, the men who are subjected to the boys do as well as they do. The marale is high, and they are doing a good job of it. I am proud of the service, and wish it could be put on the plane to which it should be elevated.

A central state police force with a proper bureau of identification would go far to solve such problems as the one now bothering Boise police in regard to the possession of a Boise value burglar ring, which works in the various towns and makes it escape by automobile. It would aid in solving the problems of jurisdiction which arise from time to time between the various counties, when one sheriff can't make an arrest of the man he is following because he has escaped into another county.

Would Aid Safety
It would go far to cutting down the traffic accidents in Idaho, and making the roads safer for those who use them. We do a lot of talking about the dangers of driving on the highways, but proper supervision by a state police force would make them devote more time to curbing reckless driving.

POLITICAL PARADE

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (U. S. Press)—Less than a month after the political division of the Roosevelt campaign is in full swing among the Twain Falls of Idaho, the political parade of Hyde Park do not speak the same political language. Few outside Ohio know that the son of former President William Howard Taft also has his political differences.

One Is Liberal
Brother Charles Taft and Brother Bob Taft are Republicans but "them" and "conservative" respectively. During years of municipal political battle in Cincinnati, the Tafts have aligned themselves with the advocates of a charter form of government. The conservative Taft has opposed that development. Brother Bob is the Robert A. Taft who recently led our country to victory in the supreme court decision which upheld President Roosevelt's gold policies. He was selected a few weeks ago as the Ohio Old Guard "favorite son" candidate for President and will oppose Sen. William E. Borah in the May 12 presidential primary in that state.

And now rolling from the press comes a book, "You and I—Brother Charles Taft and Brother Charles Taft" by Brother Charles Taft. The author is the younger of the two brothers. He has some kind things to say of Mr. Roosevelt in his book and also of Borah who will be Brother Bob's primary opponent. He commended Borah for his liberal Republicanism. Borah's backers are urging him to make campaign capital of the book, and Borah may—by fighting Taft with Taft, you might say.

Didn't Believe It
A majority of Washington reporters—your correspondent was not among them—believed long and some of them even made bets before they would concede that Borah was a bona fide candidate for President. The senator's name has figured in pre-convention speculation on so many occasions that most observers thought 1936 was the year when the story would be told. They believed that the "Borah boom" this time was being fostered by the senator himself with every indication that he would go through with it. No doubt could remain after the senator entered Lincoln, Neb., in the presidential primary, beginning with Illinois and Ohio. But if doubts remained they must have been convinced by the senator's quick anger at circulation of rumors which might damage his prospects. One such rumor reported recently that Borah was dead. Now, the senator is well along in years. He was born June 28, 1882—his age is being used against him by political opponents and the senator may have constructed the death rumor as a subtly suggestive political ploy.

Anyway, the senator told his temper and to the surprise of reporters who called to tell him of the "death" rumor, he would like to meet the man who started the story. Said he: "I would split his legs."

Another Story
If that phoney story tried Borah, what about the story now being circulating that the senator (Borah) looks with favor on the Borah candidacy and hopes the senator is nominated by the Republican national convention? If the story were true it could be interpreted as meaning only one of two things. Either Mr. Roosevelt considered Senator Borah the easiest Republican to beat, or the President felt that he must lose it should be to a Republican who has been friendly to many New Deal projects. Borah has voted for more New Deal bills than have most Republican senators. Neither interpretation could fail to be harmful to Borah's chances and if the senator concludes that another story has been planted against him he may lose his temper again.

The Hyde assumed management of the Hyde M. H. King variety store here this week. Mr. Hyde, who will leave Sunday for Utah, where they will reside for a while.
