"POOR LITTLE RICH GIRL"

FLAME-TRAIL

BY MADE DE SEWARD

SYNOPSIS: When Ray Crandon's Lay Nine ranch house and barn burn, Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, tries to buy the ranch and rebuild. But he hates her and is determined to keep her ranch and rebuild. Ted Gaylor, a puncher the impulsive hired, sets the outfit to cut its own timber and rebuild without pay. Hastings sends his cowhand Scrap Johnson to tie up the only available timber land. But Ted wins the option race, then whips Scrap for molesting Kay. Hastings finds Scrap on the mesa and berates him, but Scrap turns the boss's gun. He takes his horse, sending him home afoot.

Chapter 20.
CHANCE FOR REVENGE
Alternating between thoughts of Ted Gaylor as a rival, and his fury at Scrap Johnson, Josh Hastings found himself cherishing two distinct plans of revenge.

First of all, he meant to make the former puncher pay through the nose for his treatment. His plan here was definite and drastic, although it had to be handled with care.

He had no idea of telling the whole story of his plight, and being the leading star of the range. So this prevented him from calling the sheriff to his aid, and following on the trail of Scrap Johnson with a posse.

He had a hunch that Scrap was trained for the Idaho state line, and that he planned to make his getaway through the one pass that led over the "Bitter Root" from this region.

If he followed right after him, there was a good chance of overtaking him. Scrap Johnson would be pretty sure to figure that his one-time boss would rather lose his mount and call quits on the situation than let the story leak out of the fix his cowhand had landed him in. Therefore, he wouldn't feel pressed for time, and it would be a fairly easy matter to catch up with him.

And there wasn't any doubt about how he would drop the story. Josh Hastings thought voiced itself aloud, with malicious intensity of tone that boomed ill for Scrap Johnson when that moment should come.

He stooped down to ease the heel of his boot, then limped along with a "grin" that said "damn blisters, too," he muttered savagely, as he forged ahead, his eyes squinted into the distance for a glimpse of the scattered buildings of the Flying Six.

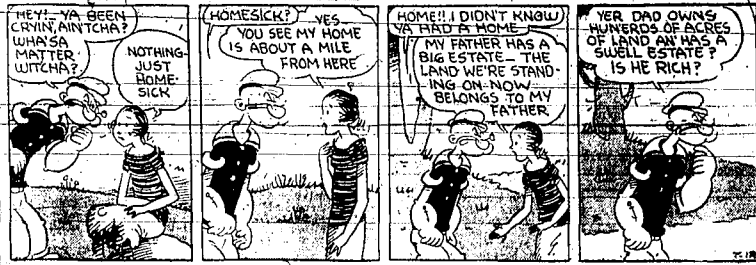

Finally they loomed in sight, and Josh Hastings stopped up as he planned his campaign of action. Then, a messenger of his misfortune, he broke into a run for a nearby corral. He had no time to lose. He was going to make his lower corral and get a horse without being seen.

When he had left the ranch to look for Scrap Johnson, he had announced that he might spend the night in town, so no one was expected to see him. He was sure that would be either in the flesh or at least in the news. He was sure that he was safe.

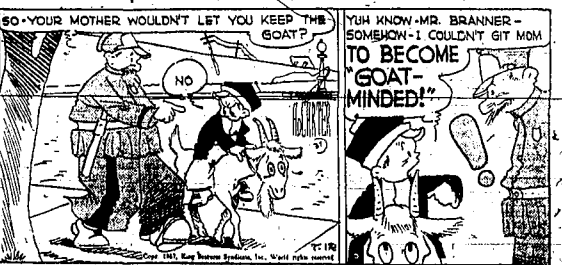

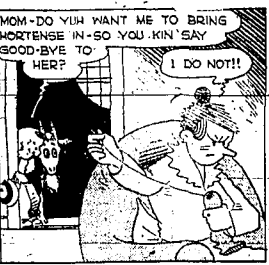

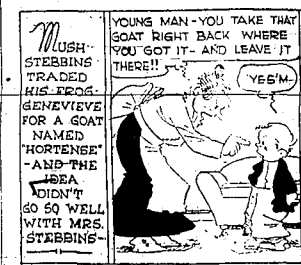

At the Central Divide
Following the corral, he came of last to the lower corral, which was hidden from the ranch buildings, and located a good 200 yards distant from the upper corral.

Roping himself in a horse, Josh Hastings quickly saddled him and rode back toward the corral, which he had just reached. He gave the ranch house a wide berth, and headed off to the mountains at a run.

It was more than an hour later when he reached the trail that eventually led to the spot across the divide.
The last streams of color from the aftermath of the sunset were fading into light pinks and lavenders, and twilight was well under way, as he started up the steep climb between the living walls of pines.

EXPERT VIEWS MURDER TRIALS

Interest in Ordeal With Life at Stake Called Normal
NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—If you follow a murder trial with interest, you are neither abnormal nor inferior; rather, your interest shows you are normal. It is indifference that is abnormal.

These are the opinions of Frances Lutz, mystery story writer, who contributes a chapter to a new book, "The Anatomy of Murder," which critically considers recent real life murder cases.

"Deprecate interest in murder trials as a morbid, or sensational, seeking, yet the fact is that the public is difficult to see how any normal person can remain indifferent to a trial that involves a man's life. One might go so far as to throw the challenge to the American person that actually it is the interest which is normal and the indifference abnormal."

"Very quiet apart from the responsibility of the people, there is no democracy should feel concerning those who are being tried in our name and by our citizens' representatives... there is the common humanity which draws each of us to sympathy for the victim and sympathy for the man who is being tried."

"Political responsibility commonly assumes a part of each of us. To know the truth, psychology, like as it is lived by others, the feelings of justice, and the fact that a trial is a public act, and to exact retribution for wrong-doing, to exact the right chief head of the community, but the public interest in a trial for murder, and not one of them is abnormal."

The light of the setting sun gradually faded over the wide landscape, and by the time he reached the crest of the pass it was high in the heavens and the shadow of the saddle of rock was a small grassy plateau, which harbored a spring-fed stream. From the arroyo the water was flowed in both directions, part clearing the bitter root river in Montana, and part flowing in the Clear Water river in Idaho.

An Hastings heard this strange story, and he turned back to the inviting water that gleamed along in the moonlight. He had heard through the pass again, Hastings headed the animal and urging him to a sharp cut of the rocky meadow that bordered the stream.

The light of the moon shined through the trees, and the moonlight, he made out a strange hundred forms lying by the edge of the water.

As Hastings made his mount merry at right angles and headed him away from the gruesome scene, he was mounting at some little distance he came back on foot to investigate, a baffled sense of rage in the him as the thought of being cheated of his revenge.

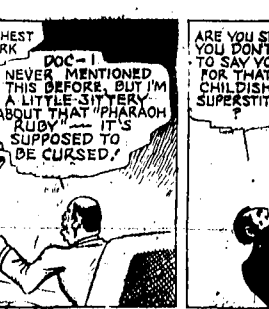

He turned over the next figure.

Yankee Outfielder Moves Up to Third Place During Week

New York First Sacker Retains Leadership With Gerald Walker Occupying Runner-Up Position

CHICAGO, July 10 (P)—Two of the New York Yankees' brightest stars, veteran Lou Gehrig and young Joe Di Maggio, rode the crest of a wave of heavy hitting in the American League during the past week.

Gehrig, according to official averages, which include games of Friday, held the league leadership with an average of .378, representing a gain of eight points over his mark for the previous seven days. The brilliant Di Maggio, in addition to crushing out five home runs during the week, bludgeoned his way from a spot, outside the circuit's "first level" to third place, with a mark of .359.

Walker in Second

Gerald Walker, the Detroit outfielder, kept himself from slipping to second place by picking up five points which gave him a mark of .356. The Detroit catcher, in addition, added four points to a .355 average. Charlie Gernier, the Detroit catcher, held his average even during the week, his mark of .355 giving him a tie for fifth place with Sammy West of St. Louis.

Other batsmen in the leaders' group were Rip Radcliff, Cleveland, with 72 and one point to tie for second place; George Selkirk, New York, .344; and Roy Bell, St. Louis, .341.

The Yankees' Di Maggio's five homers during the week gave him undepicted lead in that department with 22 circuit homers. Hank Greenberg, Detroit's husky first baseman, continued to lead in runs batted in, with 72 and one point in the scoring lead, having crossed the plate 55 times.

Total to 95

Walker held on to the lit total, getting three safeties during the week to run his season total to 95. The Yankees' Di Maggio, and Joe Vasmataz of St. Louis each had two-base knockouts. Mike Krawcheck, Chicago, hit Chicago ball hawk, got a triple during the week and led the circuit with nine.

Tarpon Rodeo Lures Anglers To Gulf of Mexico Waters

THIS IS a big moment in the life of a tarpon fisherman: ICI is reeled at the 4th Annual Rio Grande Valley Fishing Rodeo, August 4-8, with anglers from several states on hand.

By (P) Feature Service.—Ride on "Paterman" Tarpon.

That's the rallying cry for the fourth annual Rio Grande Valley Fishing Rodeo, August 4-8, in the Gulf of Mexico off this little fishing village and seaport at the tip of Texas.

Anglers from several states will come to try their luck with the jumping tarpon and snafish that abound in the Gulf waters hereabouts.

The first champion was Dr. L. Henry Smith, Silverport, La., who won in 1934, when 70 contestants caught 63 official registered tarpon. The next two years the champion was R. J. Montenegro of Rio Hondo, Tex., who will not only defend his title but will try to gain permanent possession of the trophy that goes to the first three-line winner.

The prize list has leaped from $1,500 in the first to $4,000 this year, with a deluxe motorboat, automobile and cash among the inducements to catch big fish. Expert lists also are awarded for the best fish species.

MISS JANE JOHNSON, Rio Hondo, Tex., queen of the 1937 rodeo, shown with a tarpon caught when queen candidates put in a day at fishing as guests of the rodeo committee.

HOPE MOUNTS IN IDAHO FOR T. B. HOSPITAL

Federal Officials Consider Project in Allocation of New WPA Appropriations; Legislature Anticipates

By WALTER H. BOITCHER. BOISE, July 10.—There was new hope today in the hearts of Idahoans, who for a decade have awaited establishment of a state tuberculosis hospital.

Word from Washington, D. C., indicated the hospital project is one for consideration in new public works administration appropriations.

The 1937 Idaho legislature adopted a measure setting aside approximately $14,400 to match a WPA grant of 45 per cent of the total cost of the hospital and equipment.

Among the bills advanced here was the bill, interdepartmental, which would be among the legislative program.

REBELS CLAIM SMASHING WIN

Government Drive Against Madrid, Siege Halted, Insurgents Report

RENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, July 10.—Insurgent field commanders reported tonight the government offensive against the Madrid siege was smashed.

The republic's army, they said, "suffered a great disaster." "Official communiqués" asserted that 3,000 of General Jose Milla's central front government troops were killed and 6,000 wounded when insurgents counter-attacked near Brunete, about 15 miles west of Madrid.

Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces were reported on the Brunete front and its forces had penetrated deeper to the rear of the line.

Official communiques reported capture of large stores of war materials and heavy insurgent counter-attacks against the government. One company of "Pascist infantry," it was said, surrendered in a body and there were numerous other desertions.

A telegram from Teruel front, northwest of Valencia, said government forces occupied the outskirts of Castillo De Albarraz and held remaining insurgent garrisons under artillery fire.

They lauded many of the 27,000 scouts in expressing the opinion the $200,000 mass demonstration of scouting tradition and handcrafts was "the greatest jamboree in the history of scouting."

Dr. James E. West, chief scout executive and jamboree chief, said he had "no idea" whether he would recommend to the scout executive council that another be held.

BEEF PRICE INCREASES BOOST CATTLE FEEDING

Estimate 8,000 To Be Fattened in Area, Many By Individual Growers

Encouraged by generally higher beef prices and an apparent shortage of feed, Twin Falls cattle raisers are expected to fatten more than 8,000 head of beef cattle this summer.

Formers will feed more than 400 calves in the area, an increase over the number privately fed during the past few years.

There are currently plenty of local feed for market-cattle. Salisbury said, and increased beef prices have caused many individual farmers to fatten up more cattle for the market this year than he was warranted in doing during 1936.
