

Five Persons Killed When Motor Failure Causes Plane Crash

Scotch Aviator's Ship Goes into Nose Dive, Crashing Through Roof of Root Cellar on Wyoming Farm

WORLD, Wyo., June 11—Four men and a woman were killed today when a plane piloted by William O. Bashaw, 34, Seattle, crashed on a root cellar of a farm near World, in north central Wyoming.

The dead in addition to Bashaw were: Miss Helen Brattin, Renton, Wash., who was traveling with Bashaw; Lloyd Paris, 28, a local pilot; Wesley Bard, 28, Spokane, Wash.; W. B. Bledsoe, valley Falls, Kas. Sheriff John Nicola said reports from witnesses to the crash indicated the plane's motor failed and caused it to go into a nose dive and crash onto the ceiling on the farm of Charles Catvannagh at the estate of World about 4 p. m. (mountain standard time).

The plane after taking off from the airport here circled over town, and as it passed over the postoffice the motor quit. The plane went into its spin, the sheriff said. Flying at Low Altitude The plane was flying at an altitude of about 200 feet at the time. When it went out of control Bashaw cut off the switch to the motor. Sheriff Nicola said the plane pitched into a nosedive and crashed. Bashaw, a former Seattle automobile dealer who left Seattle last month on a high altitude flight, arrived here Thursday with Miss Brattin.

He was the orchestra director and pilot, was the son of H. B. Paris, former mayor of World, and Bard, a musician at the college. Bard operates an art studio at Spokane, Wash., and has painted pictures here and at Greyhound, Bledsoe, who was identified by slips of paper found in his clothing.

The plane, an engine built 4-place cabin monoplane bearing license NG 5311 and the words "Washington Air College, Tacoma, Wash.," took off from the World root cellar shortly before 4 o'clock. The crash occurred a few minutes after the plane was in the air.

George Nagata and Bobby Kirkpatrick, members of the American Legion, were on duty at the airport in a field two blocks from the Catvannagh farm, where the first to reach the wrecked ship. They were followed shortly afterwards by several other persons who saw the ship fall.

Paris was the first removed from the wreckage, and Sheriff Nicola said it was believed he was still breathing. He died, however, before he could be placed in a car to be taken to a hospital. The other four passengers were killed instantly. Bashaw's body was badly mangled.

Dr. L. S. Andrews, Washnake county coroner, said the bodies would be held here for relatives. He had not yet made plans tonight for an inquest.

Airport attendants said Bashaw and his companions planned only a short flight. The plane was to have taken off Thursday at 10 a. m. and was to have flown to Lander, Wash., where it was to have been used for a flight school. It was to have been used for a flight school where it had been before coming to World.

Crashes Through Roof The plane crashed through the roof of the root cellar, which was about 20 years old. The first-ripped roof of the cellar which was used to store vegetables, was blown away by the crash.

SUSPECT IN MATTSON CASE HANGS SELF

Held for Investigation in Connection with Mattson Slaying, Nevada Man Commits Suicide in Jail

(By The Associated Press) CASADE, Idaho, June 11—Sheriff Robert L. Wilson reported tonight that "a suspect" in the Charles Mattson kidnaping case hanged himself in the Valley county jail today.

The officer identified the suicide as Thomas F. Lannon, 52, of Reno, Nev. The sheriff said the 10-year-old son of Dr. W. W. Mattson of Tacoma, was kidnaped December 27, 1936, and his body was found January 11, 1937. A $25,000 ransom was asked. Lannon's body was found hanging from the neck from a kitchen belt attached to the top of the cell.

FBI Issues Order "Lannon was arrested here May 15 on a charge of being a sexual pervert after his fingerprints were examined, the federal bureau of investigation agents at Butte, Mont., instructed me to keep him on suspicion of being involved in the Mattson case," said Sheriff Wilson. The sheriff said he had arrested the case "a suicide" and said no inquest would be conducted. Sheriff Wilson said Lannon was a World war veteran and was born at Providence, R. I.

He had been in Cody, Wyo., recently, the officer said, because a social security card found in his possession was made out there. The sheriff said he had a card in the man's clothing indicating he was a member of the Kansas City, Mo., post of Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He told officers shortly after his arrest that he had no immediate relatives and that he was a native of Idaho.

Answers Description "The man answers the meager physical description of the Mattson case slayer," Sheriff Wilson declared. "He did not seem depondent and nervous, but rather calm. The federal agents were checking up on him in connection with their investigation of the Mattson case. He was the type of man that might be suspected.

"He picked him up a short time after he arrested him, but he had been annoying some children." There were two men in the jail with him when he took his life. Officers said they found Lannon when they left their bunk this morning.

"The body all was warm and indications were that the man had been dead many hours," said the sheriff. "Death was caused by strangulation." The body is at an undertaking parlor here.

BUTTE, Mont., June 11—H. E. Anderson of the Butte office of the federal bureau of investigation, Butte, Mont., today reported that linked Thomas P. Lannon of Denver, with the Mattson kidnaping case.

Anderson said a routine investigation of the man was made in connection with the Mattson case. Anderson said he had reported Lannon hanged himself in the county jail.

Southern Senators Win Flexible Wage-Hour Bill

Joint Congressional Committee Yields to Threat of Filibuster in Re-writing Measure

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 11—A thoroughly compromised wage-hour bill, including a provision for pay differentials within a given industry, received unanimous approval of a joint congressional committee today.

Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) announced the conferees would draft a formal report on the bill at a meeting tomorrow, and sent it to the senate for final passage early in the week.

The threat of a filibuster against the measure by southern senators, who have been fighting for agricultural wage differentials, appeared eliminated by compromise draft. They remained, however, the possibility of opposition from a section of organized labor.

The committee capitulated to the demands of Senators Eilender (D-La.) and Pepper (D-Ill.) in writing the bill. It inserted a classification clause that went far toward meeting the southern objective of lower wage rates in the south than in the industrial north.

Under this section, boards which will be set up for each industry will be empowered to classify the units of that industry as to size and other factors and set a varying scale of minimum wages which each classification must pay.

An arriving act of this nature, the pay rate solely on the geographical basis, but must consider also transportation costs, prevailing wages, taxes, operating costs such as light, heat and power rates, and other factors.

The boards would classify each industry and fix minima for each classification. Once their orders were accepted by the labor department, they would appoint boards for each industry to set the minimum wage.

State Officials, Signs Owners Sign Contract

Year's Lease and Option Brings Fulfillment to Long Waged Campaign; Opening Set for June 24

Contract for a year's lease and an option to buy the Twin Falls-Jerome intercounty bridge spanning Snake river north of Twin Falls was signed at Boise late yesterday afternoon by representatives of the state and bridge company.

Under provisions of the agreement the lease becomes effective June 24 on which date the state will take charge of the bridge and discontinue collection of the customary tolls.

The deal was consummated between Allen C. Merritt, recently appointed commissioner of public works, and C. Shogren, executive vice-president of the Twin Falls-Jerome Intercounty Bridge company, who signed the contract in the presence of delegations from Twin Falls and Jerome.

Governor Barzell W. Clark who has taken an active interest in the project, said he is pleased that the state will take over the bridge and do away with the toll charges on that route. He was in Moscow attending commencement exercises at the University of Idaho.

Extended Campaign Actual signing of the contract was the culmination of a campaign waged by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and extending over a period of several years. During the campaign, the chamber, headed by Governor C. Ben Rice, a movement was started to get the toll lifted from the bridge, but no definite action was forthcoming.

Shortly after his election as governor Clark called for the removal of the toll bridge. He was of the opinion the toll bridge stood as an economic barrier between the north and south of the state. It was a distinct handicap to have such a bridge on as important a highway as U. S. 93 which extends from Moscow to the south end of Sun Valley in the Jerome county made the removal of the toll bridge a most important.

Meantime the Four-States Highway association, interested in the removal of the toll bridge, continued to urge the state to remove the toll. The state, but to remove the toll bridge.

Condemnation Sought As a forerunner to actual signing of the contract, condemnation proceedings were instituted against the bridge July 12, 1937, by Attorney General J. H. Tamm, who then and upon the authorization of Governor Clark. Since that time the bridge has been in the hands of the state.

MURDER CHARGE HEARS HEARING Prosecution and Defense Attorneys Continue Investigations

Four days before the presentment most bodies in the hotel where the murder of the Salt Lake City jewelry salesman, George J. Olson, was being investigated, the prosecution and defense attorneys continued their investigations.

The two Twin Falls men accused of the murder have called for a preliminary hearing which Probate Judge John J. Kinney has set for today.

Evidence disclosed by Mrs. Mildred P. Macken, Park Hotel owner, and corroborated by a hotel physician who testified to the murder of George J. Olson, that the body was found or within a few minutes diving distance.

However, the evidence that was heard before the jury, it must have been there for some time, she explained. "It was obvious that the body had fallen on the dried spot only after the automobile was lifted to be removed from the car."

According to the physician, the vertebral artery was covered by the rib either before or after the fall. With fresh blood pouring from the wound, a man of Olson's size would have lost enough blood in three to four minutes to die," according to the doctor.

EUROPE JOLTED BY EARTHQUAKE

Three Persons Killed as Five Nations Feel Tremors

LONDON, June 11 (AP)—An earthquake born in the North sea jolted five nations today, rattling over a 400-mile front from England to the Rhineland.

There was scattered damage, surprise, alarm and even panic among the countryside in Belgium and northern France, who dropped to their knees in prayer as chimneys toppled, walls cracked, windows broke and furniture tumbled.

Damage was minor but extensive, apparently most serious in Belgium. Three persons were killed and about 20 injured in Belgium. In Brussels a frightened man leaped to his death from a balcony in an out-of-control structure killed a pedestrian; a crumbling wall killed a bicyclist at Cray-chaucourt.

HULL CONDEMNS BOMBERS SALES

U. S. Secretary of State Would Shut Off Supply to Japan

WASHINGTON, June 11—Secretary of State Hull undertook today to shut off the sale of American-made bombing planes to Japan. He made public opinion as the means of accomplishing this objective.

In carefully-worded phrases, Mr. Hull told reporters that this government's repeated condemnation of the bombing of civilian populations was directed especially at the manufacturers of military planes, and the general American public as well as foreign powers.

The repeated damning of ruthless warfare would discourage sales to regions where planes were being used to bomb civilians, he predicted. Other American condemnations would be voted in the future, he said.

Aimed at Nippon Though Mr. Hull named no nation specifically, it was obvious that Japan would be chiefly affected if his policy were successful. Shipments of war material to both sides in Spain have been banned already by invocation of the neutrality act.

The neutrality law has not been invoked against the sale of planes to Japan, because the United States' best customer has cut off supplies in the last six months.

From December 1 to June 1, Japan imported $100,000 for war equipment in the United States, compared with China's $8,919,720 of purchases. Aircraft and parts, commercial as well as military, comprised the bulk of the exports.

In using such pressure against the sale of bombing planes, the administration is pursuing a course similar in one respect to its action in the United States, compared with China's $8,919,720 of purchases.

Vandermeer Pitches No-hit, No-run Game For Cincinnati Reds

CINCINNATI, June 11 (AP)—Young Vandermeer, the Cincinnati Red, pitched a no-hit, no-run game today with a minimum-run performance against the Boston Red.

In his first full year in the major league, the 26-year-old Vandermeer pitched as if he were a veteran. He had no errors, no walks and only three reached first base, all on walks. None got past first as he came in with a 2-0 victory, the first National League no-hit no-run game since Duffy Dean turned the trick back in 1934, and the first to come to accomplish the feat in the majors since Don Burke did it for Washington Senators in 1931.

"I had no idea of pitching a no-hitter," Vandermeer told his mates. "My arm felt better as I went along, and I saw down basemen, particularly in the late innings."

The Red recalled him from Syracuse this spring, and with Vandermeer, the club's new manager, worked on Johnny's control during most of the spring training camp. He liked his delivery slightly, with the result that Vandermeer has shown marked improvement.

Today he settled the first nine men to face him, but lost momentary control of his fast ball in the fourth and fifth, and then breezed in by finishing off the final 12 Boston batters in a row. He fanned four.

Cardinals 2, Giants 2
ST. LOUIS, June 11 (AP)—The Cardinals just beat out the rain today in seven two runs and the New York Giants at 2-1 in a game tied to eight innings by a sudden downpour.

Don Chatteridge hit a homer to start off the eighth with the Cardinals first run. Then Jimmy Brown and Pepper Martin walked, and Ducky Mendick struck the three-run homer.

The Giants had scored both runs in the sixth, after Bill Metzger had pitched a hitless ball for the frame. Harry Diamond struck things off by leading out an infield hit. Alx Vanclay and Bill Jones with a little muffed center field ground, and Cliff Melton singled to bring Knipmuller across.

Both Melton and Metzger pitched the full eight innings.

After the game, the Cardinals outfielder, suffered a brain concussion when he tripped into the corner of the center field stands in trying to field Knipmuller's three-bagger. He was carried away from the field and later taken to a hospital for an X-ray examination.

MAX HOPES TO REPEAT

Joe Still Lacks Ability to Protect Chin, Sports Reporter Asserts; German's Punch Faster Than Ever

ANOTHER 'KO' like the one he gave Louis in 1936 is Max Schmeling's dream as he trains for June 22 bout.

DROOPY LIDDED the Loats will be wide enough awake June 22 in New York, following the heavy weight title.

Max, Joe Agree To Third Fight

Promoter Mike Jacobs May Stage Title Bout in September

BY LOUIS LOMAX

THEY ARE TO BE THE MOST IMPORTANT fight in the history of boxing for a long time in the eyes of the fans. It will be the third fight between Max Baer and Joe Louis.

The fight will be held in New York City on September 12, 1938. It will be a title fight for the world heavyweight championship.

The fight will be held in New York City on September 12, 1938. It will be a title fight for the world heavyweight championship.

Joe Still Lacks Ability to Protect Chin, Sports Reporter Asserts; German's Punch Faster Than Ever

(Editor's Note: Gaby Talbot, Associated Press sports reporter at the training camps of Max Schmeling and Joe Louis, tells how the two fighters are being trained for the world's heavyweight championship bout and gives interesting possibilities of how the battle will be fought.)

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—When Joe Louis and Max Schmeling face each other again in the glare of the lights at Yankee stadium a week from Wednesday night and start shuffling and fiddling around for the first opening, they will look just like they did on that memorable evening two June ago.

Neither has changed to outward appearance. Max, at 32, doesn't look a day older, and he still fights in the same precise methodical fashion.

Louis, the Negro, has a more mature look about his jawline and seems a little fiercer at times, but outside of that he is the same Joe—a devastating puncher with a curious inability to protect his chin from a good right.

"They will look the same, but this time the crowd stretching far up under the dark eaves of the stadium will be filled with a tense expectancy that was lacking the other time."

Instead of wondering how long Max can last, they will be watching breathlessly for Schmeling's right fist to explode on the champion's chops, and to see if Joe has learned his lesson.

At that instant, when Max connects for the first time, they will know whether he is to return to the Champ's shops, and to see if Joe has learned his lesson.

But with a snap on the end that tears men's faces apart, if Louis is seriously stung early in the fight, he might even try to stay clear from Schmeling and job out the scene. He did it to Tommy Farr, the Wehrman, last autumn, after he had cracked his right hand.

Whatever Joe's tactics, Schmeling is dead certain he will reach his chin with a right sooner or later. His sparring partners will bet you on it. And they also will bet you a few bob that Louis doesn't survive it.

The present odds of 6 to 5 in Louis's favor reflect the careful judgment of those who think the prod two years are bound to have taken something out of the veteran German.

Maybe so, but you can't tell it from watching Max run up and down the Adlon-Cocktail bar at a time or from studying his work-out. If he isn't even a better man physically than he was two summers ago, he is a lot of person's fool.

Including, incidentally, this observer.

Ernie Lombardi Leading Swatter

Catchers Setting Fast Pace In National League Batting Race

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—The catchers had the time of their lives in the National League hitting race last week.

The pitchers just couldn't seem to throw anything but base hits to the fellows who wear the mask and mask. As a result, Ernie Lombardi, catcher of Cincinnati's Reds, leads the league in hitting in the standings up to and including Friday's games. Gaby Hartnett, the Cubs' backstop, is in fifth place, and Blump Phillips, Baseball's only polycreator, is sixth.

Lombardi, in fourth place a week ago, collected six hits in 15 appearances during the seven day span ended Friday, boosted his average six points, to .359 and took the lead from Baseball's Cookie Lavender. Cookie dropped the points to .356 and second place.

Hartnett, gained 12 points, and closed a fifth-place mark of .339. He was only two above Phillips, whose 19 hits to the plate resulted in nine hits. For a 31-point gain of .337.

Whatever Joe's tactics, Schmeling is dead certain he will reach his chin with a right sooner or later. His sparring partners will bet you on it. And they also will bet you a few bob that Louis doesn't survive it.

The week's walkover also featured the beginning of a comeback by Ducky Mendick of the Cardinals, who climbed from eighth to fourth place in the hitting race, with a .354 mark, and two ret-batters.

LARRY GULLAHL RETAINS U. S. OPEN CROWN

Helen Wills Moody Captures Deciding Match of International Series

New Jersey Golfer First Repeater Since Bob Jones in 1930

Decisive Six-Stroke Triumph Climax to Brilliant Comeback; Metz Finishes in Second Place After Bloopup

By ALAN GOULD
DENVER, June 11 (AP)—Ralph Guldahl, burly Texas-born professional from the Braidwood club of Madison, N. J., today won the American open golf championship for the second straight year with a smashing last round-come-back. He spread-eagled the field with a final 69, two under Cherry Hills' par for a 72-hole total of 284 to become the first repeater since Bob Jones did it in 1930.

Guldahl, trailing handsome Dick Metz of Chicago by four full strokes at the close of the third round this morning, came from behind with an electrifying finish to prevail himself every inch a champion.

His victorious total, comprising successive rounds of 74, 70, 71 and 69, was three strokes short of the world record he set for major open championships in capturing the title at Oakland Hills last fall. Metz, who had led the field with 281, but was today by a much more impressive margin—six strokes.

This was the biggest winning margin in 17 years of U. S. open championship history or since 1921, when Long Jim Barnes finished nine strokes in front of Walter Hagen at the Columbia club, Chevy Chase.

Metz, who looked like the winner when he led Guldahl, 211 to 215, at the 54 hole mark, participated in a general bloopup that blasted the chances of all but the defending champion. Metz finished second as he staggered to the finish with a last round 79 for a total of 290.

Here was another golfing Man of War, spreading-angled all opposites and adding a new chapter to the 42-year-old history of America's biggest golfing sweep-stake. Only two previous Guldahls were there to greet him. One was in 1933, when he was runner-up to Johnny Goodman at Chicago. But he started a comeback with a new record-making performance and put his name in the game's exclusive hall of fame.

Only three players, up to today, have won the national open. Besides Jones they were Willie Anderson who won three times in a row in 1913, 1914 and 1915, and a total of 294, ten strokes behind the winner.

Meanwhile Guldahl, having rated himself exactly four strokes off the pace for three successive rounds, fared on the heat. The tall, stoop-shouldered champion, with par under control and his best shots scattered to give it a heating if necessary, overtook Hines on the second hole of his final round. He caught up with Metz at the fifth and also took off Zimmerman's challenge.

The hour, to all intents and purposes, was decided on the fourth, fifth and sixth holes. In that stretch Guldahl picked up five strokes on the following Metz and three on Hines. The champion shot 4-4-2 on these holes against a par of 4-5-2. His finish today dropped him to 15 and nine feet on his birdies on the fifth and sixth.

Guldahl went on to the 18th in 34, no less than seven strokes on both Metz and Hines and four on Zimmerman. From there on only a creaking of the champion himself could affect the outcome. He never strayed from the lead, however, leading under the pressure as a swarming crowd of nearly 10,000 spectators saw him march through a shower of rain to victory.

Metz applied the crowning stroke in his final hole, but fell away on the homecoming hole. The roaring delight of one of the biggest crowds that has topped over the hills since 1929 was his last, open at Interlachen eight years ago, but Ralph lagged a lance of Hines' ball at the 18th and 19th. He struck long into to the greens so accurately that he needed to get down putts of only seven and six feet for birdies.

Even Lady Luck rode with the winner. On the 13th, he went two holes for the pin but his ball struck a tree and he lost nearly 20 feet of the green. He slipped in his track and rolled back onto the fairway. Just as if it were searching for the hole, his only mistake on the last round putt was to hit the hole. He had seven one-putt greens and averaged one stroke completely under that. A possible hole was extracted from the stretch run.

Far back in the heap of shattered hopes of potential winners were Virginia sophomore, whose aggregate of 289 was a sharp contrast to the second place 292 last year at Oakland Hills.

Other stars who missed the money and sympathy were Johnny Thompson, the slug out, at 293; Lawson Little, ex-minister, King of 290; Bobby Griekbank, of 291; and Vern, third place man last year, at 312; and Tony Mauro, the 1935 champion at 313.

Oliver did drop at the root of a fern and slipped his growth.

CHAMPION

Sleeping in front with a final 69, Ralph Guldahl won the U. S. open golf championship for the second straight year today at Cherry Hills course at Denver. Metz finished second as he staggered to the finish with a last round 79 for a total of 290.

Budge Conquers Roderich Menzel In Final Match

American Star Becomes First Player in History to Hold British, Australian, French and U. S. Titles

By ROBERT F. PARKER, Jr.
AUTREUIL, France, June 11 (AP)—Don Budge completed his tennis "grand slam" today.

The red-headed Californian crushed Roderich Menzel, huge Czech, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4 to add the French hard court championship to his American, British and Australian singles titles and became the first player in history to hold all four at the same time.

If that's no honor enough, Budge can add to repeating his British and American championship victories later this summer and thus win all four singles crowns in the same year.

Menzel did not brack on the service court with Budge today. After the Czech had cracked his own ace for a 3-2 lead in the opening set, Budge showed the crowd with a series of winners that left Menzel helpless.

Budge became the seventh conqueror, but the first American, to win the French title. Tomorrow he and Gene Mako will seek to annex the doubles title in a battle with the French team of Bernard Destignat and Yvon Petra.

The women's singles championship went to France's veteran No. 1, Mme. Simone Mathieu, who defeated Nelly Anderson of Belgium, 6-0, 6-3.

Earl Averill Top Batter of League Cleveland Outfielder Takes Over No. 1 Position at Expense of Trasky

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP)—Earl Averill, the Cleveland Indians' star outfielder, who has been named the top ranking American league batter since the season opened, took over the No. 1 position this week at the expense of teammate Hal Trasky.

Averill, according to averages which included games of Friday, added only one point to his plate percentage during the latter week period, but his mark of .371 was five points better than Trasky's average of .356.

During the week, Averill batted out 11 hits in 22 times up while Trasky, bumpy in the lead-off, slumped 22 points with only seven safeties in 27 official appearances.

Jimmy Foss, veteran Detroit Sox center fielder enjoying a great comeback, added 23 points to his average to jump from sixth place to second in the league. Foss, 34, of the junior circuit, with a mark of .359.

Henry Heilmacher, the hard hitting Chicago White Sox infielder, was in fourth place with a 342 average. Other leaders were: Earl Tracy, Washington, 341; Gladys Meyer, Detroit, 337; Cliff Dickov, New York, 328; Hank Ives, Philadelphia, 326 and Pete Fox, Detroit, 325.

Patty Berg Wins Golf Tournament

"THE U.S.A. Okla., June 11 (AP)—Little Patty Berg of Minneapolis has her championship at last.

The red-headed stylist, often a runner-up, played her finest golf today to defeat the veteran Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, in the 36-hole final of the Trans-Mississippi tournament, closed today.

Mrs. Hill made a great battle of it on the morning round, the first eighteen ending with Mrs. Berg on top.

It was a different story in the afternoon. Patty Berg, in the fairway and into the hole in 15 strokes, while Mrs. Hill, who is 25 years older than her 29-year-old opponent, averaged 18.

Her only mistake on the last round putt was to hit the hole. He had seven one-putt greens and averaged one stroke completely under that. A possible hole was extracted from the stretch run.

North Idaho Golf Complaint Denied

Boisean Declares No State Tournament Invitation Received

BOISE, June 11 (AP)—C. R. Critchell, Boise secretary-treasurer of the Idaho State Golf Association, denied tonight an assertion by E. E. Winkler, manager of the Idaho Country club that North Idaho had not been given "a break" in the state amateur meet.

The tournament scheduled this year for July 1, 2, 3 and 4 on the Plantation course here.

Winkler, who said North Idaho players would not participate in the meet here, charged that the tournament had been held at the Plantation course "for consecutive years without giving North Idaho a break."

For 10 year since 1923 the state association received an invitation from any North Idaho club to hold the tournament in that section of the state," Critchell said. "The state association was founded for the betterment of golf in the state of Idaho and in no way violates the location of the tournaments but is aided by the invitations received at the annual meeting."

Strong Field Completes Salt Lake City

SALT LAKE CITY, June 11 (AP)—Utah's biggest golf show, the annual state open championship, will begin at the Salt Lake Country club Friday with a strong field vying for the $1,000 cash prize and the five amateur awards.

The tournament scheduled this year for July 1, 2, 3 and 4 on the Plantation course here.

Winkler, who said North Idaho players would not participate in the meet here, charged that the tournament had been held at the Plantation course "for consecutive years without giving North Idaho a break."

Kay's service, lost the record, then ran away with the final set, 6-3. Miss Stammers came back with some of the finest driving of her career. But no matter what miracle she produced, Helen always could conjure up one more, and she won the set, 6-3, and the match.

Thus, in her first cup competition since 1922, 16-year-old Helen Wills Moody gained two of the four U. S. titles.

By winning the trophy again, the 16-year-old beauty is the youngest player to win the cup since 1923, to United States, 12, Britain 4.

OCTAGON HOUSE

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The Story So Far: Asy Mayo, Carr's chief detective, is investigating yesterday's murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post of office mural has aroused suspicion. She was killed by a left-handed man from her sister's knife and Pam Fry is suspected. Pam discovered her hiding $50,000 worth of ambergris she found, Hoddy Stratt's alibi plays crash looks deliberate, and the alibi of Asy Mayo's Carr, founder of the Fry's Octagon House, is false. Asy overhears Tim's grandstand speech to him, "Where did the girl put it?" Then Jack Lorne brings startling news. He has discovered he was never married to Marina, because she was already married to Tim Carr.

Chapter 23

Incriminating Evidence
"And this other, this note," Asy picked it up. "Twenty-five thousand dollars, payable to Marina Carr. On demand. Signed by Thomas Carr, and witnessed by two people. Where, Lorne, in heaven's name, did you find these two checks of twenty?"

"I found them this morning, in a tin box in the bottom drawer of a wardrobe trunk in my room. I never saw such a box, and I was hunting for a will and insurance policies—I told her to put 'em in the bank box, but they weren't there. So I hunted, and I found this box. There were lots of other trinkets there. Diamonds, everything you want me to tell you about those diamonds?"

Asy nodded. "Or you could let me see them?"

"No one'll ever see those!" Lorne said savagely. "I burned them, paid by gas."

"Was that wise?" Asy asked.

"I see how you might have wanted to, but this note and this marriage certificate put Tim Carr in a hole—"

"The diamonds," Lorne said, "wouldn't be the same. The one of the minor reasons I burned them. The real reason was me, Me, and Aaron, and Pam. I decided that the three of us had taken enough. We—we gulped. We took plenty, we did."

"I'm inclined to think," Asy said, "that maybe perhaps you all have now, she married Tim before she went through the motions of marrying you. That right?"

Lorne closed his eyes and leaned on his elbows.

"Today," he spoke as if he were quoting, "today I hooked Tim Carr."

In the same voice, he sketched the story.

"Hooked Tim Carr. Found today he's all front. No more. Thought was something for that grandmother. I hate her. Today I swapped his prize money and the old lady's jewelry. Going ahead with Lorne, the sap. He'll be famous some day. Got Carr fixed. The sample note he wrote for his monthly dues, when they learned about making out checks and notes and accounts. Grabbed it from waste basket and framed it out and had. Got Sammy and Peter to sign. They'd sign anything if I asked them, but Carr try to divorce him."

Asy whistled softly. "I get it. If Tim tried to divorce her, she'd raise hell with that note. But her witnesses—"

"She thought of them," Lorne said, "she thought of everything. They witnessed it in the apartment, while Carr was there. Just after he'd written something at the desk. She slipped the paper. The diary had all the details, she had him cold. For Carr to divorce her would have cost him $25,000, and a million as far as he was concerned. Marina hated the grandmothers. That's why she did it. The grandmother told her where she'd go, and she was going to make the Carrs suffer for it. She'd tell them, don't you see? If they tried to do anything about her, or her and me, all she had to do was to say that note, the bad item. And she also has some pretty raddled letters from Carr. I learned those."

Lorne nodded. "I started to give them to Hanson, and then I burned them up. They would have haunted him."

"And you don't want him to hang, even though you think he killed your wife?"

Played for a Sucker

"All of us, Pam and Aaron and Carr and I," Lorne said, "we're satisfied enough. I don't know, I'm not supposed to be very bright, and I'm not. I don't catch on to things quickly. But damn, I don't get laughed bitterly. That people who do things like Marina did, some time or other, think calls it up with them. They caught up with her. I don't know how to explain what I feel. I'm not angry with Carr now."

He lifted a shoulder, and Asy nodded his hands. "They were four slender feminine hands."

"The diamonds," Lorne said, "the whole story." Lorne went on "What she did to the family, and before she met me, and afterwards, and who she did, and everything. Except for Hoddy, this was playing him for a macker. Anyway, it's all over with Pam. Carr did it, and Hoddy, and Asy Hanson can't get him."

Know anything about ambergris?

"That's what Pam's always talking about," Lorne said. "What she always hunting. I never did know much about it. It's good for making perfumes, isn't it, or something like that? It's a whole lot, or half. I never could see why she made such a fuss over it."

"It's a sort of goshaw stuff," Asy said, "that sticks in the features of a whale. Patsy put a little candy, and sort of probably the middle. You can probably get another $25 an ounce for it."

"An ounce," Lorne said. "An ounce?"

"Yes, an ounce. Yesterday, Pam found a lump about 100 pounds out on the point. And Marina found Pam. After a squabble, Marina brought it back in Hoddy's beach wagon, to you and me. And—"

"Where is it now?"

Asy shrugged. "Pam went over there later, and found Marina dead. She was killed by a left-handed man brought it to Octagon House. It's not in the cellar, and the cops didn't discover it. I don't know where it is."

"That's swell for Pam, isn't it?" Lorne said. "She—oh, but if someone found it and took it to you, you've got to find it for her, haven't you?"

Asy looked at him curiously. "There was no doubt that the fellow was perfectly sincere."

"Yes, I got to find it before someone else does," Asy said, "and someone else is hunting it now— you don't breathe a word of this, you know. Not to anyone. But can you think of any part of the house where it might be?"

"No," Lorne said. "You'd think from the outside that the place was awfully queer, but it isn't, except for the shape of some of the rooms, and the arrangement. It'll get a postcard and see if I can think it out."

"Think hard," Asy said as he got up. "I've got to visit Hoddy and Carr. You know, it's just possible that this marriage certificate note was a witness, and not, as the ambergris—come on."

"All right," Lorne said. "You know, I keep wondering what this is going to do to my work."

"Huh?"

"My work," Lorne said. "Of course this publicity has got me dozens of offers—but what will this do to my work, you see?"

Asy nodded, and suppressed a smile. If Lorne had got to the point where he could gauge his reactions to the murder in terms of his work, then there was little sense in worrying about him, or feeling sorry for him.

"I see," Asy said. "Yes, I see."

As they walked up past the house, Asy paused by the cedar window on which he had been working.

"Might's well take two seconds," he said, "to finish up this piece here."

Before he finished with the pane, Peggy Lorne came up the road, vaulted the barbed wire barrier, and strolled up the driveway.

"Hi," she said. "Mr. Fix-it. You get around, don't you?"

"He's Asy Mayo, Peg. Jack said. I've told him everything."

"I began to think that was her," she said, "after I left Nettie's. Your eyes give you away, you know. Do you know where Pam is?"

"I've got a lot of faith in her," Asy said. "She can take care of herself."

"I've seen you—and have you heard about the town? Nettie has joined the midway, and between her and the Jan dancers, it's bedlam. There's a nickel-dance that been set up—Why, the whole place looks like a gold rush camp. Forty-five cents a dance."

"How are the deal boys taking it?" Asy asked.

"The invasion! Oh, they're trying to stop the hot. So it hangs, with some of his cops. But you might as well turn back a welcome with a lean on the door. How awful! I haven't seen the like since the last bootleggers dumped their bad loads on the club flats, and the town was kept down with bottles for days. It's the same sort of thing, only they're not coming to do the same thing. And it's not the hot folks. The natives are industriously trying to get the National Guard out, or something. They're here. The crowds got to the stage when it thinks it's fun to start firing."

"You're mad!" he said.

"You're mad!" he said.

"I'm not," he protested. "I'm not, I tell you it's an okey. There were three lunch bars when I was up there, and a small tent set up in times. And they've moved the machine over on its side of the street. It's really old and rusty, and it looks funny, and that ain't much funny, but still there's an okey. Oh, well, I suppose Hanson will solve the problem some how. Where are you going?"

Asy looked worried when he turned.

"I can't even get the office," he said. "The line connects dead."

Railroad Sued

In Fatal Crash

Butler, June 11 (AP). A fatal automobile accident at Caldwell last March 30 resulted today in the filing of a suit in third district court here to collect $250,000 damages.

The action was instituted by Mrs. M. Frank Butler of Caldwell, who, with son, Alfred Butler, 21, was killed.

The defendants are the Union Pacific Railroad company and F. Hubbs, on an on-call basis, of Clarno Park.

J. J. Hawley and Paul Hargis, both attorneys for the railroad, charged the fatal was traveling at a "high, excessive, dangerous, and unlawful speed" when it struck the automobile in which Butler was killed.

Federal Agent's

Slayers to Hang

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., June 11 (AP). Federal agents here today pleaded completed charges of Federal Agent Winchell W. Baker, who confessed today to hanging in the fall of 1937 a man and woman in a room in a hotel in Leavenworth, Kan.

"That's a good book," Butler said. "It's a book that's been recommended by a judge as a text."

"I could have been playing the fifth round."

The two were convicted for the fatal wounding of Baker in Topeka April 18, 1937. The young federal agent of Leavenworth was shot and as he needed the police he called at the Topeka police station.

FORD BUILDING SMALL PLANTS

Motor King Erects Twelfth of 'Little Factories' Near Dearborn

By DAVID J. WHELAN
 DETROIT, June 11 (AP)—Suburban Detroit, in and around Dearborn, where Henry Ford has plant industrial units and thousands of acres of farm land in production, he is erecting a $35,000,000 expansion and development program which starts in the building and plant of structural steel.

A part of the important unit in this plan is a new cabinet plant under construction at Milford. It will be the twelfth of the "Little Factories" Ford has erected as part of his plan to link more closely agriculture and industry.

In these small plants, men and women, machine tools and the villages where the plants have been located, make small parts—structure cores, wire, rubber, operator relays and the like—for Ford cars.

At the moment, Ford, head of a $200,000,000 industrial empire, would rather talk about these small plants, the many acres of farm land being operated under his urging and his new tractor than anything else under his direction.

Ford's emphasis a closer alliance between agriculture and industry is evident. He does not profess to know exactly when, but he says, "that's what's coming," with a finality that leaves no doubt as to his conviction; and he believes that little can be accomplished economically without adequate cultivation of the soil.

"If a farmer has 20 acres of land and cannot make a living from it, he ought to find that he can sell 10 acres of it and successfully cultivate the remainder to make a good living," Ford said.

"I know," he went on, "because I've worked and lived from the soil."

Volcano Fails to Disturb Couple

LEGASPI, P. I. June 11 (AP)—Eruption of Mayon volcano which sent thousands of persons fleeing for safety failed to disturb an unidentified American couple honeymooning on its trembling slopes, newspapers here learned today.

The honeymooners, from Manila spent Thursday night 2,500 feet up the 7,000 foot mountain in a rest house. The couple, refusing to give their names, said the rest house was not damaged but shook constantly under the volcano's rumblings and made sleep impossible. They said they went up the slope just for the thrill.

Meanwhile, Philippine commonwealth officials estimated at $100,000 the damage from volcanic ash to plantation crops, including hemp and coconuts.

Eruptions, which began nine days ago, became feebler today.

Luther Burbank developed white blackberries.
