SPENDING THE TAX PAYER'S MONEY

The present board of county commissioners is composed of three men who are naturally inclined to perform any task at hand to the best of their ability. The board consists of two republicans and one democrat, all three of whom were not elected by any political machine, but in spite of the opposition of the dominant county political machine. For once, the people elected their own choice of men to this important office.

This fact places the board of county commissioners in position to "show to the line and let the chips fall where they may" as they have the voters and tax payers to answer to and are not handicapped by any obligation to any political machine or bosses.

The board has a big grist of duties to perform and lots of changes to make in the old methods of extravagance practiced by their predecessors. They have started a consistent program of investigation and analysis of the costs of conducting the various departments of the county's business, and will be guided in their decisions by sound business discretion.

It appears to be the plan of the board to get competitive bids on all purchases to be made as far as possible and endeavor to give the tax payers the benefit of getting as nearly 100 cents of value from every dollar spent.

The matter of the cost of boarding county prisoners runs between four and five hundred per month and is being from the various departments of the county's business, and will be guided in their decisions by sound business discretion.

It appears to be the plan of the board to get competitive bids on all purchases to be made as far as possible and endeavor to give the tax payers the benefit of getting as nearly 100 cents of value from every dollar spent.

THE WINNING OF BARBARA WORTH AT THE IDAHO

A great photoplay of the American desert is Henry King's production of "The Winning of Barbara Worth" for Samuel Goldwyn, at the Idaho Theatre. Based on the famous novel of the same name, the motion picture version takes none of the power of the Harold Bell Wright story which thrilled more than ten million readers.

The production is another triumphant success for Mr. King, whose "Stella Dallas," an entirely different type of photoplay, is still casting brilliant reflections on his genius. Masterful touches of supreme direction are evident throughout the desert masterpiece.

The general and romantic story of the water reclamation of the vast western wastelands is the theme of the picture. It opens with the first feelings of humanity coming slowly to the desert. It portrays the sufferings, trials and disappointments of the pioneer, and unlike most photoplays carries the work of reclamation through to ultimate success, affording, by the way, an interesting and complete education on the great and important water reclamation.

Ronald Colman, hero of many moving picture ballrooms and heretofore photoplays, steps forth in a new and delightful portrayal of Willard Holmes, young eastern engineer who comes to the deserts to manage the irrigation projects of his father. His part calls for strenuous outdoor ability, climaxed by a less desert ride with Abe LeVee, western youth, to bring a hayroll through land-infested country to the struggling town of Barba, founded by Jefferson Worth, rival of Holmes' father.

Vilma Banky, blonde beauty of the screen, cooperates with Colman and a beautiful Spanish moon in supplying the love element. A Barbara well worth winning is Vilma, whose radiance in the desert setting inspires young Holmes and Abe LeVee, the western lad, to great deeds.

In addition, Miss Banky demonstrates her versatility by playing the mother of the infant Barbara in the prologue, which sets a high pitch for the action which follows—some eighteen years later. The role calls for the maximum of dramatic interpretation, the "cubette" mother being a decided contrast to the gay Barbara of later years.

The two stars are supported by a strong cast. Charles Lane creates a strong role as Jefferson Worth, father of the desert country and the man who is the moving spirit of the reclamation work. As Abe LeVee, the young westerner who loved, lost, but still loved, the work of Gray Cooper, a relative newcomer to the screen, stood out. E. J. Ratcliffe, veteran character actor, plays James Grenfield, money-loving eastern capitalist, who financed the building of a great irrigation dam and founded the desert town of Kingston, plotting Willard Holmes, his foster son, in charge.

OVERLAND STAGE ORPHEUM FEATURE

There's a wealth of Western scenery in "The Overland Stage" starring Ken Maynard, which comes to the Orpheum today and tomorrow. The "Big National" company, directed by "Alfred" Hedges, was first to Deadwood, S. D. where the great pageant and celebration of "The Days of '49" was filmed as a costly part of the story.

The celebration, held in August, was on a particularly impressive scale this year, because of the fact that it was the semi-centennial of the days that Deadwood celebrates. Of course, the beautiful scenery of the Black Hills was utilized to the fullest extent.

Tarzan, the beautiful white horse ridden by Ken Maynard, star of "The Overland Stage," came by his name because of the film star's friendship and admiration for Edgar Rice Burroughs, author of the famous "Tarzan" stories. Burroughs has a beautiful home in Hollywood, at which Maynard is a frequent and welcome guest.

Maynard has a saddle-bag full of new tricks in riding, and routine.

Richard Collins, the beautiful blonde who appeared opposite him in "The Overland Stage," is again the leading lady, with an impressive supporting cast, headed by Tom Santschi, Sheldon Lewis, Dot Marley, Florence Turner, Jay Hunt, William Malin, Paul Hertz and Fred Burns.

INSECTS DISCOVER CAUSES OF TOMATO BLIGHT

Injurious to Beans

By CLAUDE WAKELAND
Field Entomologist, U. of Idaho
Caterwurm

Beans, in common with many other crops, frequently suffer from the attack of cutworms which cut off the young plants at the surface of the ground. Cutworms of which there are many species, are the larvae of dusky colored moths that fly at night. It is these moths or millers that, nearly ever year, become a nuisance in June or early July by flying into houses and fluttering around lights.

Most of the cutworms are gray or grayish-brown, smooth, shiny and sluggish. In the day time they remain concealed in the soil and when dug out usually curl up and "play dead" on the surface. Eggs are laid on the ground or on plants near the ground. Most of the injury to beans is caused early in the spring by partially mature larvae that hatch from eggs the previous fall and survived the winter.

When a field is known to be infested with cutworms at the time beans are planted, they can be almost entirely averted by the use of poisoned bran mash. The effectiveness of this material is due to the habit of the larvae to come to the surface to feed at night. They are attracted to the mash and eat it freely. The formula follows:

25 lbs. coarse bran, 1 lb. white arsenic or Paris green, 2 pts. Molasses (Beet sugar or cheap cooking), 3 lemons or oranges, 3 or 4 gal. water, to make a thick, crumbly mash.

(1) Mix thoroughly the bran and the poison. (2) Grind the lemons in a food chopper. (3) Mix the water, fruit and juice and pulp. (4) Pour the liquid mixture over the dry mixture and stir the entire mass until it is thoroughly mixed.

The mash, when completely prepared, should be moist, but not so thick that it should break apart when handled. It is effective only while moist. It should be scattered in the early evening just before the cutworms become active. Usually 25 pounds of bran is sufficient for 100 plants.

Cutworms are active in the spring before beans are planted. For prevention, the bran mash should be scattered after the beans have been planted and before the young plants appear above the surface of the ground. If cutworms are found to be attacking plants after they are up, effective results may be obtained then by sowing the mash as directed, but loss can not be entirely prevented.

Thrips
Injury to bean plants by an undetermined species of thrips has been observed in Idaho. The extent of injury has not been great, but in other states these tiny pests often cause serious damage.

They cause the epinervis of the leaves, causing it to assume a whitish or silvery sheen and the leaves sometimes turn a pale yellow color. Injured leaves become dry and parchmentlike and are likely to drop prematurely.

Spraying is not effective under practical field conditions because of the protection offered the insects by the foliage. Thrips feed on numerous plants and seek protection under leaves, weeds, rubbish, etc. Keeping down weeds, cleaning up old bean fields after harvest, maintaining fertility, to force vigorous growth and rotation of fields are the most effective preventive measures.

Idaho Beans Free From Anthracnose

The canning industry can not afford to lose Idaho and Colorado as sources of high seed supply, George F. Starr of Michigan State college told members of the National Canners' association in convention at Atlantic City recently. Seed beans produced in the mid sections of these two states and certain parts of California are comparatively free from anthracnose, a disease which makes the beans unfit for canning.

TWINLAND SUPREMACY
By Newton Hibbs

Advice and more advice is proffered by the Twinland farmers. Now comes semi-official advice to restrict production of potatoes, beans and onions. Almost an official order is promulgated by the professional prognosticators and Twinland crop specialties are all included in the taboo list. The Twinland potatoes, beans and onions will command premiums in all market centers, when effectively advertised and properly graded to insure a production profit regardless of any possible surplus. Protection of grading rules to warrant the consumer of our superior quality of our special crops will maintain high prices for all time. All of these products sell for profitable prices because of our superior quality consumers for many times the supply of perfect potatoes, beans and onions. The russet potato of the Twinland grade has been dominating in the markets by false grade brands. Measured by accepted rules of commerce the Idaho russet off command a premium over cost of production.

Human Brain Harrier
The human brain is larger and heavier relatively to the size and weight of the body than the brain of any other animal, with the possible exception of some of the smallest birds and mammals. It is larger and heavier absolutely than that of any other animal except the elephant and the larger whales.

It has not been possible to induce the disease in the human brain.

Meanwhile, Professor McKay notified government specialists in various parts of the country, who were studying the beet and tomato diseases. A few considered the idea too fantastic to consider, but those who gave it the same test, tried here, reported the same positive results. The disease was immediately confirmed nationally as of great importance and Professor McKay was asked to present a paper on his work before the American Phytopathological society in Philadelphia last month, his paper being one of three out of some 70 to be given before the general assembly.

Control measures remain to be worked out—and a big task it promises to be, for no practical method of controlling the hoppers in the years it has been known in sugar beet areas, has yet been devised. The most promise now lies in the development of resistant or immune varieties, thinks Professor McKay.

Plan More Experiments
Crops thought to be more or less susceptible in bad years like the one just experienced are spring and autumn, sweet potatoes, watermelons, melons, zucchini, straw flowers and casters. Experiments will be run with all these as soon as possible to determine positively the range of the insect.

The hopper itself is roughly an eighth of an inch long and narrow in proportion. When young it is greenish ink white changing to straw color or reddish when mature. It flies readily and hops long distances.—Idaho Farmer

WOODWAY STORES ARE PURCHASED BY A. W. TINGWALL CO.

Addition of Two Stores Gives Tingwall Co. Chain of Five in Southern Idaho

A. W. Tingwall, of Glenns Ferry, president of Tingwall Stores, Inc., has announced the purchase of the Woodway Cash stores in Twin Falls and Piler by his company, the deal including entire stock and fixtures, and the consideration being in the neighborhood of $75,000. The Tingwall company will take charge of their new addition as soon as a stock has been inventoried.

The Tingwall company opened its first store in Glenns Ferry in 1914 and has maintained its headquarters at that point. It is operated so that the main office will be established in either Caldwell or Twin Falls at an early date however. In 1917 a store was opened in King Hill; in 1924 two stores were opened, one in Fairfield and the other in Hegerman and in 1926 another was added by the purchase of holdings of a large company in Caldwell.

The manager of the local branch has not yet been chosen but George Andrews, formerly treasurer of the Woodway company, will be retained as manager of the Piler store. It was announced by Mr. Tingwall.

The company here will carry a complete line of dry goods, men's furnishings, shoes, women's ready-to-wear goods, groceries, and meat.

Neither A. B. or J. E. Wood has made any announcement regarding the field to which their future efforts will be devoted.

Mr. and Mrs. Tingwall will remain in Twin Falls for at least three months and later may establish their residence here.

First Borrower of Federal Land Bank Is Made Director

WARRNER, Kansas, February 10, 1927.—The recent selection of L. A. Stockwell, a Pawnee county farmer, the first farmer in the United States to borrow from the Federal Farm Loan System, to be a director of the Federal Land Bank of Wichita is a recognition of the principle of promotion in this co-operative farm mortgage system.

In April, 1917, Mr. Stockwell helped to organize the National Kansas association of his district and became its first borrower, securing a long-term loan of $5,000 on his 400-acre farm. Not only was this the first loan borrowed but the Pawnee County National Farm Loan association was organization number one in what has grown to be the greatest co-operative farm mortgage system in the world.

In the nearly 10 years which have passed since then, nearly 5,000 National Farm Loan Associations have been established, there being an average of more than one to each agricultural county in the United States, which through the 12 Federal Land Banks have made loans to nearly 400,000 farmers aggregating about a billion and a quarter dollars. The Wichita bank covering this territory has served 28,000 borrowers with loans totalling more than $90,000,000.

The Stockwell farm, located about a mile off the Santa Fe trail, near this place, is one of the best farms in the State. Mr. Stockwell was born on a Kansas homestead in 1871 and has been an active participant in the development of his state. Today he is personally operating over 4,000 acres of highly improved lands. On his own big farm near here he does not grow a spare of wheat, although

Extreme Care of Very Young Calves Should Be Taken

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Feb. 10.—Give the calf a good start. The first six months of its life, not only the most expensive time but also the most critical period and the time when most difficulties appear.

This suggestion is made by Prof. F. W. Atkinson, dairy husbandman for the University of Idaho. Professor Atkinson stresses the necessity of raising calves properly and carefully so that they will be suitable cows. Otherwise, he declares, the expense will not be justified.

"Most dairymen," he says, "make a practice of leaving the calf with its mother for at least the first day or possibly longer depending on the condition of the cow and calf. The first milk, called colostrum, is high in minerals and protein which start the calf's development. It also tends to put the digestive tract in good condition and it develops disease-preventing antibodies in the blood.

"After the milk is removed from its dam it should be fed a mixture of milk for four or five days, after which time it may be given mixed milk from the entire herd. For calves of the smaller breeds, like Jerseys or Guernseys, from six to eight pounds per day, divided into either two or three equal feeds at regular intervals may be fed. For larger breeds, like Holsteins, will need 10-12 pounds per day. In a few days the quantity may be raised, two pounds at a time, until the calf is getting well to her in mind, however, that more calves die from overfeeding than from underfeeding.

"The milk may be safely changed from whole milk to skim milk at any time after two weeks of age, the time depending upon such conditions as the value of calves and milk. The

Change should be made gradually by substituting one pound of skim milk for one pound of whole milk each day.

As the calf gets older, the milk allowance may be increased until at three months it is receiving from 10 to 20 pounds per day. It is important in mind that the fat removed from the milk must be replaced by grain. The calf should be encouraged to eat grain as early as possible and for the first three or four months should be fed little or no milk at each feeding. After this grain may be limited to five pounds a day. The calves should have water and salt before them at all times. Fresh, good quality hay should be fed regularly as early as the calves will consume it.

Location of Trees Important in Landscaping Says Bennett

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Feb. 10.—Location of trees and shrubs is more important than kinds of plants chosen in the home landscaping scheme, according to E. R. Bennett, extension horticulturist, who is pointing the university home demonstration service in its five-year home-improvement project.

"The amount of open space included in lawns," he says, "that is, front and side yards, must be determined by the area that can be used for this purpose and by the amount of time that can be devoted to its care. In general, space occupied by lawn should require less care than the same space planted in shrubs or flowers. Unbroken areas of greenery, either in front or at the sides of the house, add dignity and a feel## ing of repose to the place that cannot be obtained in any other way.

This feeling may be enhanced by outlining the boundaries of the lawn by irregular plantings of shrubbery and trees. Well planted trees add very materially to the appearance, comfort and value of the home. In many cases the trees about the place are not located to the best advantage; nor are they of the best species for the locality. Unlucky, however, as it requires many years to grow a tree to full size it is seldom advisable to remove all these already on a place at least until others are started to take their places.

"Every home owner has a more or less happy picture in his mind of what he would like his place to be. This is the first step toward improvement. The next logical way is to carefully think out and put on paper a definite plan, after analyzing the situation. It may be expedient not to make any immediate radical changes ## but it undoubtedly will be found that great improvements can be made."

RUSSELL LANE GRANGE
The Russell Lane Grange met in regular session at the Home Community church Thursday evening with about 65 in attendance. After a short business meeting preliminary to the initiation ceremonies, fifteen candidates for membership were given into the hands of the capable Ladies Degree Team and were led through the impressive and beautiful initiation ceremonies.

The Ladies Degree team gave the drill part on before the State Grange at Twin Falls two weeks ago and was a sight of rare beauty. After the final obligations were taken, a recess was declared to welcome the new members after which the banquet was served and the remainder of the business was completed.

Russell Lane Grange was well represented at the Butte Pomona meeting held at Eden Saturday. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Orsk, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Prunkie, Mr. and Mrs. E. Scheeler, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Kaut and sons, Donald, and Mrs. and Mrs. R. W. Teague.

Thursday evening, Feb. 10, there will be an open meeting of the Russell Lane Grange at the Hanson Community church at which meeting Rev. J. D. Deal, State Master, will deliver an address. All members of Grange and any one interested in the Grange movement is welcome.
