

Dr. Frank Crane Says

LET'S STOP THIS ENDLESS RACE Representative Butler, chairman of the House Animal Industry Committee recently asserted that the United States ought to build practically a new navy to cost but $400,000,000.

We are lagging steadily behind other nations and from being along toward the front we have dropped to fourth place. This he holds to be a great danger.

Just where the competing nations in armament are to stop he does not suggest. About the only way we can be made to stop it is for one nation that is unduly strong to cease competing with the others.

The danger in this course is that the others will take advantage of it. It will be looked upon as a trading and lamblike sucker. A lamb among the wolves, and the danger is that the other nations may get it up.

This is a favorite idea among a certain class of people that they own their own nation, and that all other nations are evil-minded and grasping.

There is no national in the world in which this idea is not common. It is a notion that is not confined to nations. There are many individuals who have it. Many people in a family refuse to be kind and gentle because they think the other members of the family will take advantage of them.

It seems to be an absurd idea that was in the mind of Christ, and that he was to beget kind treatment on the part of others to give them kind treatment first.

Many people believe that doing unto others as they would have others do unto them is all right, but they neglect to add the corollary that they must first do unto others.

It looks as if it would take some time yet to get the idea in the minds of people that the way to keep from being attacked by others is not to attack them and not to be able to attack them.

The idea of the United States is to go to war with the weaker nations. It is a popular one among certain classes. They do not take into account the utter futility of this program.

During the late war it was the feet that preparation for war in the way of armament can easily become an intolerable burden.

The best way to get rid of war is deliberately to turn our backs upon it and the only thing we should do in the way of armament is to see to it that our affairs are in such a position that we can be quickly mobilized in the event of national danger.

Our Army and Navy, for instance, cannot be too big if they are employed in constructive peace-time work and can be easily switched into war at short notice, but to maintain them too big merely because of the comparing to destroy is to subject ourselves to the old-world burden of armament.

MEMORIAL DAY WELL OBSERVED IN TWIN FALLS

Fully 2000 People Listen to Former Mayor Deliver Address

Whether we hold positions of prominence or live in obscurity, during our brief time on earth, we are all equal in death. The men who died in the cause of freedom deserve our gratitude for this reason, because in this country, enjoy the results of their sacrifice. We decorate their graves with flowers in token of the love with which they are held in our hearts.

The above was one of the remarks made by the former mayor of Twin Falls, at a gathering of fully 2000 people at the Twin Falls cemetery.

A more fitting day for the celebration of Memorial Day, could not have been asked than the one provided. The sun lent its warmth and the streets, in patriotic attire, with the marching columns of the veterans of two wars and the soldiers of a third, carried off honor and glory.

With Capt. P. W. McCorber as speaker of the day, the following address was made to the assembly:

The idea of the United States is to go to war with the weaker nations. It is a popular one among certain classes. They do not take into account the utter futility of this program.

PUBLIC APPROVES NEW FLAG DISPLAY

Grouping More Effective for Decoration Than Former Method

Twin Falls gave its hearty endorsement of the new manner of decorating the streets of the city for holidays and festival occasions when it held the first glimpse of the new grouping of the colors on Memorial Day, as provided by the city council.

An iron collar fits around an electric light post, having four sockets for creating the streets of the city for holidays and festival occasions when it held the first glimpse of the new grouping of the colors on Memorial Day, as provided by the city council.

The present arrangement furnishes a good display that exceeds the former one and may be extended on several of the streets of the city to even a further patriotic display of the colors, to the advantage of the city's decoration.

Secretary Work May Become Party

The Canal company seeks to obtain a court order compelling the company between 700 and 800 second feet of return duty to the Snake River between the American Falls and the Milner dam. Natural Tints Used In Filming "Long Pants"

Setting another precedent for film comedy, Harry Langdon has introduced technical color in his new First National film feature, now at the Orpheum.

The step is absolutely revolutionary for comedy, as much so, in fact, as Langdon's coloration of a blind heroine into "The Strong Man," his current sensation.

During weeks of preparation, a battery of special color printers were moved onto the Langdon set at Burbank, Cal., during the last week of production, and an entire quantity of the new picture was filmed in natural tints.

An elaborate special setting was built for the sequence, representing a medieval castle, its towers and battlements. Against this background Langdon and Alma Bennett, one of his five leading ladies, enacted scenes which were color and pushed very far into the future.

It is understood that Langdon introduced, technicolor into his latest picture as an experiment, and that he is known to be tremendously interested in color photography, and it is possible he will proceed with plans for an experimental feature, in which the public reacts favorably to his experiment in "Long Pants."

Boley estate, against the irrigation district to prevent overflow water from the ditch being diverted.

DIRECTING IDAHO TOURISTS

In various sections of the state just at present there seems to be a selfish ambition to attempt to control the tourist traffic for the season.

One can easily see how very easy it would be for certain cities on the main highways in the eastern or western parts of Idaho, to direct tourists over any route they might determine upon, to the almost complete isolation of certain other sections. This would be a great injustice to those places so unfortunately situated as not to be along the routes that had secured preference.

For instance, Twin Falls is so situated on the Lost River highway that certain cities in either the eastern or western part of the state could easily combine to cut off Twin Falls from all the tourist traffic going east or west. This would be a double calamity. Twin Falls would suffer and so would tourists passing through Idaho. Twin Falls takes a great deal of pride in what may be seen along the Snake river that passes by its door and in its fine farms, and tourists deprived, whether intentionally or unintentionally of passing this way, would feel keenly their disappointment in not having viewed the scenic wonders this section affords, when later apprised of the same.

The fact is, every section through which the various highways go, has its attractions and these should be advertised, just as energetically as word of mouth, posted signs or displays and advertising. Let the truth be told, the truth only is told. The motto of the Idaho Chamber of Commerce, "The Truth about Idaho is Good Enough," should not be forgotten, for the truth itself is sufficient to sell any highway that is worthy of being sold to people passing through the state. As the Idaho Times-Register states, "the truth is the best at all times." There are many highways yet undeveloped and the hardship in traveling some of them detracts too greatly to have them overrated. Let the truth be told and no part of Idaho is going to suffer unduly and every part will receive the consideration it deserves.

Idaho has made a wonderful start in its development but, as the years continue to unfold, there is not a single section that will not profit by the increased cultivation, settlement, and tourist travel that is certain to come. No city and no part of the state can afford to jeopardize its future, therefore, by either taking advantage of the tourist or by misleading tourists or tourists-over by overstating the exact truth about their own section of the state.

BILLION DOLLAR CORPORATION PERIOD

That the United States is rapidly making its way into the billion dollar corporation period is evidenced by the fact that today there are eight billion dollar corporations in the United States; with two others that are within a close range and a score that trail on down to half billion.

The eight companies that make up the billion dollar coterie are the United States Steel Corporation, with total assets of $2,465,000,000; the Southern Pacific railroad, with total assets of $2,147,000,000; the Pennsylvania railroad, with assets of $1,819,000,000; the American Telegraph and Telephone company, with assets of $1,616,000,000; the New York Central railroad with assets of $1,440,000,000; the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, with assets of $1,369,000,000; the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, with assets of $1,369,000,000; and the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, with assets of $1,071,000,000. The two corporations that are just under the billion dollar mark are the General Motors Corporation, with total assets of $915,000,000 and the Ford Motor Company, with assets of $900,000,000.

The above reveals the fact that the railroads are the richest corporations in the United States, with a general utility corporation next, then a public utility corporation, a general commodity corporation following and the automobile corporations coming last.

This, however, is hardly a fair arrangement, since the General Motors Corporation is conceded today the finest growing corporation of the United States, and it is probable that the Ford Motor Company would show equally as well as the General Motors if a complete financial statement of that company were available.

With the above ten companies representing total assets of more than $15,000,000,000, naturally it leads to the question as to the probable control of the wealth of this country by a comparatively few corporations. This, however, does not follow, since the assets of these ten companies represents but five per cent of the total wealth of the country.

While the most profitable corporation in the list is the General Motors, earning over $180,000,000 last year, the greatest dividend payer was the American Telegraph and Telephone company, that out of its $107,000,000 of earnings paid $80,000,000 in dividends.

The safety and the security of these corporations, if not their capitalization, rests in the fact that, with the exception of the Ford Motor company, that is owned by only three persons—Henry Ford, Edsel Ford and Mrs. Henry Ford—each of the other companies is owned by tens of thousands of stockholders, the lowest number being that of the Union Pacific railroad with 51,000 shareholders.

As long as billion dollar corporations are owned and controlled by thousands of good American citizens, found in every walk of life, there is no danger of their becoming a menace to the people or to the American Government. The stockholders alone are a sufficient safety valve to prevent corporations from abusing any power that may be vested in them.

Stretching the truth is one way of making things go as far as they can—but look out for the snap-back.

We never looked at it this way before but it is a fact that there are an awful lot of "u" curves in Mississippi.

It is said that woman has no sense of humor,—that she cannot take a joke. After looking at some of their husbands—we know differently.

There is the happy Charles Lindbergh in Paris with background view of a flight around Eiffel Tower, in his monoplane. "The Spirit of St. Louis" has taken our youthful and intrepid air man to its heart as he plans vacation "hops" to the different capitals. Lindbergh's love for his plane, which carried him from New York to Paris, in 33 1/2 hours—shown when in speaking of the feat he always says "my flying plane and self."

Want to save money? We'll tell you how. Our coal is down you should BUY NOW

Storage Prices On Coal

Effective at once, and subject to change without notice, we are pleased to announce very attractive storage rates on coal. Our mines have made us liberal concessions on coal for our customers, but owing to strike conditions in the East, they are not able to guarantee the reduced prices for any specific length of time; so accordingly we cannot guarantee the present storage prices for any definite period.

In buying storage, there are a number of things which should be taken into consideration. In the first place, you want a coal that will not go to slack in your bin; second, you want a coal that is not apt to heat and catch fire, as some coals have a tendency to do. You also want a coal that will not clinker when it burns, and that is as free from SOOT as possible.

We have THE coal that measures up to these qualifications 100 per cent.

UTAH GRAND COAL is absolutely CLINKERLESS and free of STRINGY SOOT. It is the HARDEST coal mined in the West, absolutely does not SLACK or HEAT in storage. It lasts longer, is cleaner to handle and by far, the most economical coal to use.

Many of our customers save from 10 per cent to 25 per cent on their coal bills. WHY NOT YOU?

We have a size and preparation for every need and purpose. Phone us TODAY and we will have our experienced representative call and assist you in selecting the coal best adapted to your individual needs.

A ROBIN WEDDING

Little Miss Robin was preening her feathers in the sun, when down for it was the fourteenth of February and she had received a valentine.

"Naturally she was very much excited, and she looked at her reflection as she stood over the brook.

"Yes," she said to herself, "I am looking well today. I hope Mr. Robin Redbreast will surely think so too."

"My, what a fine bird he is!"

"And, oh, how lucky I am to have received a valentine from him!"

"Now Mr. Robin Redbreast for a long time had admired Miss Robin and thought she was the most beautiful bird he had ever seen."

"And so he began to get his valentine ready very long before the autumn when the trees had turned red.

He would fly from tree to tree and spend hours each day looking for the most beautiful and perfect tree, and he wanted it to be a real crimson color.

"At last he found it and put it away in his nest, very carefully covering it over with moss and straw to keep it well protected and so it would fade or shrivel up at the end.

"The next few days before Valentine's day he got a little sick, which he attributed through the red leaf, which he had picked off into the shape of a heart, and this was the valentine he sent to Miss Robin.

"Of course the sick was to mean that his heart had been pierced by love.

Mr. Robin Redbreast sent his valentine by a messenger, and then he waited what seemed hours to him before he was to call on the robin, and it seemed hours to Miss Redbreast, who had smoothed her feathers so many times.

"At last Miss Robin heard him singing the most beautiful song, with such high notes it seemed as if they almost reached the sky.

"And the more proud Miss Robin was to feel that such a beautiful singer was to be her mate!

"In a few moments Mr. Robin Redbreast came in sight and stood before her by the brook.

Miss Robin was all a flutter with joy and nervousness.

"To come," said Mr. Robin Redbreast, "to ask you if you'll be my wife and come to my new nest in the apple tree."

"And then he sang another little song.

"I would love to, I would love to!" chirped Miss Robin.

"You'll be married today, then," said Mr. Robin Redbreast, "for I've invited the guests, hoping you would surely accept my humble robin's love."

"Then he gave a long cry, and count his robins flew down and hovered around.

Mr. Robin Redbreast and his bride flew to the branch of a nearby tree, and all the others perched about them singing such merry, happy songs.

"And when they all went back to Mr. Robin Redbreast's nest, where a banquet of fat, juicy worms awaited them.

Had a Suspicion

Peggy, aged two and one-half, was left downstairs, while her mother made the bed upstairs. On seeing that Peg was so quiet, her mother suspected that she was at the table. She called out: "How you know, mom?"

"Peggy, get away from that cheese," she called down. To which Peggy came to the foot of the stairs and called out: "How you know, mom?"

A Long Visit Yet

Little Marjorie (age four)—Grandma, tell me an awful story, isn't it?

Grandma—Yes, dear, very, very hot. But what do you want to know about such things for?

"I just wanted to be sure you wasn't going home soon. I heard daddy say he reckoned you'd stay till it freezes over."

Reading Hens Legume Hay Favored Plan in Winter

Legume hay, either cut in one-inch lengths or left in its natural form placed in a wire basket or box may be fed to laying hens during winter as a substitute for succulent green feed.

The second and third cuttings of alfalfa are the best for this purpose, the most vitamins and proteins being those they have a higher percentage of leaves, according to the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y.

Quoting the Ohio experiment station, the college says that, from November to May, 46 good results were obtained from laying pullets confined indoors and fed legume hay from those hayts access to an outside range of dry grass.

The hay should be carefully cured to preserve the green color for the valuable properties of the plant seem to be linked with the color. Alfalfa and clover hay, and others are often obtained when these hays are fed to other animals.

The Ohio experiment station reports that no benefits were derived from confining alfalfa moist mixed in the mash at a rate of 5 per cent by weight. Whether the recent product, alfalfa leaf meal, will prove valuable like the hay, remains to be determined.

Another good way to feed the legume hay is to use it in a bundle and suspend it from the ceiling within easy reach of the birds. This department says it is surprising how the birds relish the hay and the quantity they will eat.

About Your Health

Things You Should Know
(By John Joseph Gales, M. D.)

REST
Rest is the cure of many complaints and it will be reached of every man and woman; the trouble is we do not treat the subject with intelligence.

Since my last letter to this paper, I note the deaths of two distinguished men and one distinguished woman, nationally known, 65-and-over, and a politician of state-wide notoriety. They were all endowed with all that make for long life; neither knew how to rest. Neither of these men had the muscular body, one hour out of the twenty-four; both brought the nerve-cord to the meaning of mental or digestive rest. The newspaper diagnosis was, of course, "heart disease."

When shall we learn that the nervous and digestive systems are the universally overworked of the body? Our digestive apparatus, which is really governed by the nerves, needs rest, must have it; otherwise, food swallowed is absorbed without digesting, hence it is once poisonous to the heart and brain. A spur of protracted over-mental work, and the curtain goes down—Heart-disease!

Some men practically never allow the nervous system to rest; especially in this time of the more brilliant men and women. They love work—rest by accomplishment—and—do before their time. Eating too much and taking with the brain-incessantly, affords the most certain passport to the great beyond.

The average worker, whether with brain or brawn, invariably receives ample warning of the danger ahead; a nervous system that will stand six hours of activity, will crack at ten or twelve. The heart is driven and regulated by nerves—the digestive system also by nerves—the same force. If all the nerve-energy is expended on the business, there will be a deficiency—a deficiency in the thinking-brain, and to drive the heart.

Twin Falls Takes Series From Logan

The double header played on Sunday, in which the Bruins took both games, cinched the series here for the local team. It was evidently Twin Falls' day to win and a homer by Rosenberg in the frame, with two on base, and a circuit club by Shell in the second game with the ball still followed by another from young Hong, secured the victory that could not be swayed by the visitors. The final score of the two games was 8-7 and 6-5.

The visiting sixties team on Monday carry off the laurels, for even a lift over the left fence by Hoag and the substitution of Dolan for Farber. The seventh-inning homer by Logan, taking the afternoon's performance by a 10 to 2 score. The team left immediately for Osgood, where it will play the rest of the week.

26-Piece Set SILVER Tableware

—but— I had the right of way

Here lies the body of William Day. He died maintaining the right of way. But he's just as he is laid along. While he was dead as though he were wrong.

The fight of way gives you the basis for an argument or a law suit.

Automobile Insurance gives you protection prompt payment of your loss without quibble.

Holding the Public Good Will

Our opinion is that a Value that is good today will also be good tomorrow and every day.

If an article, for example, is worth $4.98, that is a just price to sell it for. To reduce the price would be to admit that it was not properly priced in the beginning. We never have two prices for the same article. However, we do continuously keep our prices as low as is consistent with current market conditions and replacement costs. We never name comparative prices.

Here you receive the same fair consideration every day which means that your Dollar always buys 100 cents' worth — no less, no more! And that 100 cents' worth is measured in the most liberal way possible.

Operating without spasmodic "sales" or other unnecessary price-changing methods, selling for cash only and giving the customer the full benefit of the far-reaching buying power of this countrywide institution, we have found it possible not only to win the good will of the public but to continue to hold it.

Confidence Earned by Service

A service rendered is evidence of appreciation. It is reciprocated by customers. A friendly business relation results. Both merchant and customers benefit.

This is so obvious as to make it appear unnecessary to mention. Yet, the kind of service we have in mind is not common, generally speaking.

Packing the utmost Value into every purchase for each Dollar expended and doing it constantly, is Service of the highest order.

Value must be measured by Quality as represented by correct style, superior materials, reliable workmanship, wear given for the price paid.

Determining a price not upon the basis of how much the public will pay but how small a price an article can be sold for and give a legitimate profit, is a Service that has won millions of customers for the countrywide institution of which this Store is part.

Our Service has earned the confidence of our customers.
