School Champions

Two girls are the school attendance champions of the U. S. Florence Mall of City Center, Kansas...

Frank Hamilton Spearman, author of the story and Joe Le Fors, from whom Spearman drew his chief character, also assisted in making the production notable.

Spearman and Le Fors were in the employ of the Union Pacific Railway in the early days when that railroad blazed its trail westward.

Much of the action in this picture is true to life, while a few scenes and locations described in the story and production clearly are fictitious, nevertheless, the story in the main, is part of the history of the winning of the West.

Short Forest Fire Season Is Expected

Indications are that the 1927 fire season in Idaho's timbered lands will be short, officials of the Sawtooth national forest report, and in view of the particularly bad season of 1926, the foresters look upon present conditions with considerable relief.

The Union Pacific Railroad was used in all of the railroad scenes and particularly those of the holdup at Power SW. The picture is romantic and thrilling.

SHOW KIND OF ADS BEING RUN

Tract Being Given Wide Publicity in Newspapers

Returns continue to be received at the Chamber of Commerce office in response to the series of classified advertisements being run by that organization and the Twin Falls County Real Estate board in 22 middle-west and coast newspapers.

Questionnaires have been prepared, and are mailed to inquirers asking them to state what type of farming they are interested in; whether or not the prospect seeks business or professional opportunities or employment; what his present occupation is and when he desires to make a change.

Space in the sheet is provided for inquirers to write the names and addresses of any friends interested in the Twin Falls country or who might desire literature.

Illustrative of the kind of advertising being run on this country in the following:

Come to Twin Falls, Idaho; the Banner Irrigation Project of the West. Seeing is believing.

We HAVE: (1) The greatest diversity of crops grown in large quantities. (2) The lowest priced irrigated lands considering the improvements, perfect paid-up water rights, and fertility of the soil. (3) The best of marketing and shipping conditions for this diversified crop-raising or poultry method of farming.

(4) The highest average yields of all crops grown in commercial quantities. (5) We have livestock and dairy production advantages equal to those of any other irrigated territory in the west. (6) Ideal climate with no cyclones, floods, earthquakes, droughts, blizzards, or subzeroes.

Write for full information to Twin Falls County Real Estate Board or Chamber of Commerce, Twin Falls, Idaho.

"Apple A Day" to Aid Fruit Business

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away." So runs the proverb. Now it may become a national advertising slogan under some "ambitious" advertising man can think of a better one.

Paul Stark, member of the famous nursery firm of Louisiana, Mo., visited Idaho, only Saturday in the interests of a national apple association called "Apples for Health, Inc." He met with a group of growers at Boise and said the Mills advertising agency of Indianapolis was taking over the national publicity campaign for apples. This concern, with the slogan "Say it with flowers," doubted the "business in five years," says Stark. "We all know that an 'apple a day will keep the doctor away," but we have forgotten it."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Twin Falls, 160 Ninth Avenue East, Sunday, June 19, 1927. The subject of the lesson sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, June 19, 1927.

Golden Text: Isaiah 45:22 "Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth; for I am God, and there is none else."

Among the citations which comprise the lesson sermon is the following from the Bible: "Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God; the powers that be are ordained by God." Remans 13:1.

The lesson sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. "Let us rejoice that we are subject to the divine power that be." Such is the true science of being. Any other theory of life, or God, is delusive and mythological." Page 249.

Sunday services are held at 11 a. m. Sunday school for pupils under 20 years of age, is at 10 a. m. The Wednesday evening meeting, at which testimonies of Christian Science healing are given, is at 8 o'clock.

A PRAYER

Mrs. Lindbergh has received over a thousand congratulatory letters and telegrams with the message, "I prayed for your son."

Prayer is something that most of us do not easily talk about. The flyer's mother will never know the thousandth part of the prayers that went up to heaven for her son's safety in those long hours of flight from Newfoundland to the shores of Ireland.

Millions of newspaper readers read with blurred eyes the bulletins of Lindbergh's take-off in the morning mist, his passage over New England, Maine, Nova Scotia, and finally his circling over St. John's N. F., and his disappearance into the blackness of night.

Those tears were tears of pride and joy and anxiety, and each carried a prayer for protection of the lad who had vanished into the void where no human hand could longer help him.

"More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of."

Our Young Eagle is home again.

Try as he will he can never understand or know the depth of the national pride, joy and gratitude at his safe return. Of such stuff are heroes made.

EXTRA SESSION

President Coolidge is now in the Black Hills of South Dakota prepared to rest, recuperate and get himself fit for official duties which promise to be as strenuous as any pro-eclection year the nation has seen since Teddy split with Taft. The Seventeenth Congress will be summoned into session during October or November or at least a month in advance of its regular convening date in December—because the legislative calendar is already crowded with momentous matters—virtually every one of which will no doubt be jockeyed into 1928 campaign issues.

Permanent Mississippi flood relief; seating of Vare and Smith; tax reduction; and, the fact that every member of the House and one-third the Senate members will be up for re-election in 1928 is promising of much action.

In the Senate, only one vote separates the Democrats and Republicans. If either Smith or Vare fail to be seated—the Democrats can organize the Senate in the way they want. The real party fight is in prospect over the next tax slash. With Secretary Mellon already estimating a surplus of $600,000,000—a reduction of at least $300,000,000 is expected by the tax-paying public and naturally a struggle will be made by each party to have a bill of its own drafting enacted.

Political leaders in both parties are fully aware of the fact that 1928 is not going to be any pink tea affair. Added to the grief is the agricultural situation—Early lenders, even where have at last commenced to realize that the farmer must have some attention else he can and will spill the beans.

Maybe the President will get some rest at his western summer camp—but it is doubtful. Conference after conference will be held there this summer on major problems which even now are clamoring for attention and action.

A Natural. He spells it ChamBERLIN.

The man who always has an ax to grind—seldom if ever makes the chips fly.

Cold, hard facts are usually just that—except on many cold hard tombstones.

Aspiring young flappers are now said to be favoring a revival of old songs, the favorite being "Lindy, Lindy, Wop-it-You-Be Mine?"

One record Chamberlin and Levine seemingly have overlooked is that of "long distance diving record." New York to a German swamp.

We wouldn't be a bit surprised now if some daring young American airman hopped to Paris and back over the three-day Fourth of July holiday.

A "foot-fault" is said to have cost Big Bill Tilden an international tennis title in France, which is not at all an item of real news value. Sooner or later a "fault" of some kind always shows up in these love games.

After reading the ads in the newspapers one is led to believe that Lindbergh Chamberlin-Levine in their European air hops carried or depended upon some of every kind of merchandise made here in the U. S. A.

The Treasury Department estimates a $600,000,000 surplus for the year—which shows how really easy it would be to have permanent Mississippi flood relief or farm relief if Washington actually wanted to co-operate.

An insurance company tells us that baseball, hunting and golf—in the order named—arg, the three most dangerous sports. We always thought there was something the matter with golf—being as how the Scotch GAVE it to us.

Lindbergh ate only a sandwich and a half and the Chamberlin-Levine crew consumed only one sandwich each while flying from America to Europe—which gives promise that the Trans-Atlantic air lane will not be cluttered up with hot dog stands in the days to come.

"Safe ocean air service far off!" says Orville Wright. "Commercial service soon!" says Secretary Hoover—and while experts disagree we citizens buy throat lozenges getting our vocal cords in trim again to celebrate early performances of our young American eagles.

Winged Ambassadors to Germany

The first trans-Atlantic air passenger to Europe, Chas. A. Levine, and Clarence Chamberlin, pilot of the second successful American flight to Europe, are now the "Toast of Berlin"—creating good-will and styled the "U. S. Winged Ambassadors to Germany." Their 3905-mile hop is the world's long-distance flying record.

Newspaper Columnist Is Witty Speaker

Dr. Alexander Cairns Briggs "Right Angles" at Chautauque Here July 3 to 8

When Theodore Roosevelt declared Chautauque to be the "most American thing in America," he probably had in mind the fact that it has some representatives in it, from practically every part of the world, and public activity, says the Elliston-Whitely bureau in announcing the annual chautauque at Twin Falls, July 3 to 8.

This year's program, as usual, includes speakers, writers, pianists, musicians and novelty attractions and entertainers.

The writing profession is represented by Dr. Alexander Cairns, who is the author of a column known as "Right Angles" which is read by hundreds of thousands of people every day as it is syndicated through a great many metropolitan newspapers, scattered from coast to coast.

Dr. Cairns, not only is a keen writer, but a brilliant speaker. He has had a marvellously interesting experience, having taught four years in Japan, traveled around the world, lectured in almost every state in the nation, preached in the leading churches in the country, and having a wide interest in all forms of public activity.

When the management of the Elliston-Whitely circuit, which is to be here, shortly, began looking around for a new writer, they came upon the type of writer who could amuse and enlighten through his address, and, at the same time, have something definite and concrete to say, they picked on Dr. Cairns and after a long negotiation persuaded him to leave his church for a swing around the most interesting Chautauque circuit in America.

Dr. Cairns' subject at the Chautauque will be "The Goss That Lays the Golden Egg" in which he will deal in characteristic Cairns hammer and tongs fashion with the problems which are pressing upon the country from moral and educational standpoints. He is a witty Irishman and every time he makes his hearers squirm with some thrust at the frailties of human nature and the modern evils in America he solves it over with a clever phrase that brings a shiver and that brings a gasp of merriment from the audience. He is very much worth hearing.

Nevada Rancher Gives Notice to All

C. E. Glazier, Nevada rancher, has found that hunters pay but little attention to the ordinary "no hunting" signs, so in conspicuous places around his ranch he has posted the following classic: "No hunting. Notice! Trespassers will be prosecuted to the full extent of two mongrel dogs, which were never over so close to strangers, and one double barre shotgun, which ain't loaded with no-foaf-pillers. Dam if I ain't getting tired of this hell raising on my place.—C. E. Glazier."

BERGER

The ball game last Sunday between Berger and Castleford resulted in a very decided victory for Castleford, the score being 11 to 2 in favor of Castleford.

Children's day exercises were observed by the Berger Sunday school last Sunday. A splendid program was rendered by the children to an appreciative audience.

Mr. and Mrs. Murel Stanbury and children visited at the home of Mr. Stanbury's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Stanbury, last Sunday.

W. H. Pierce, of the plant pathology department of the University was down for a few days last week, planting some experimental plots of beans and spent Sunday with his parents Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Pierce.

Word was received last week of the death of Stephen Hills, who lived a number of years resided near Berger. He and the wife moved to Washington several years ago with their sons, Chester and Leo Hills. The deceased was a half brother of P. C. Hills of Berger.

Arthur Sowder of Coeur d'Alene, who is in Twin Falls this week in the interests of the forestry department of the University, and Leslie Morgan were dinner guests of W. H. Pierce, Monday evening at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Pierce.

Mrs. Charles Carter, who is well known in this vicinity, having resided north of Berger for several years, was taken to the Twin Falls county hospital last week, where she underwent an operation for gall-stones.

Summer Conference Program Arranged

A program of superior excellence is being arranged for the summer conference, the annual assembly of Presbyterian young people, according to word received from the Rev. M. G. Montgomery, of Parma, who has been placed in charge of arrangements by the synod of Idaho.

Some of the leaders who are to conduct courses at the conference which starts July 14, are as follows: Dr. J. S. Armentrout, of Philadelphia, a member of the headquarters staff of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, in charge of leadership training, who will be dean of the faculty.

Dr. William H. Oxtoby, professor in the San Francisco theological seminary, who will conduct courses in Bible for adults and young people. Dr. William M. Levin, of Denver, secretary of the General Council of the Presbyterian church, who will lead the study in stewardship.

Miss Ruth B. Mead, Idaho's field worker in Christian Education, who will teach methods of the work with children, and will be in charge of the demonstration Daily Vacation Bible School provided for the children of Bellevue and the Conference group.

Miss Frances Davis, Y. W. C. A. secretary in Salt Lake City, who will handle courses in missionary methods.

Other leaders will be added before the opening of the conference, which will be on Thursday, July 14. Sessions continue for a week. The mornings are spent in class work, the afternoons in recreation, and the evenings are filled with inspirational meetings. For the latter, two stereopticon lectures and a Biblical film are being arranged.

It is expected that a larger number than usual of the young people of south Idaho will take advantage this year of the privilege of attending the conference in the beautiful Wood River valley. Expenses are kept to a minimum in order that there may be no hindrance to attendance.

Dairy Herd Improved By Three Practices

Three ways of improving the dairy herd—better feeding, rigid culling, and intelligent breeding—were explained by J. C. McHenry, husbandman of the United States department of agriculture, in a talk at the recent farmers' week at Oro, Maine.

"Better feeding of the cows now have," he said, "increases average production, increases total production, and, finally, increases net profits. Rigid culling out of low producers increases average production, decreases total production, and, finally, increases net profits. The use of better dairy sires eventually increases average production, increases total production, and, finally, increases net profits."

"All dairy herd improvement due to better breeding tends to increase profits to the producer and to decrease costs to the consumer. It is one of the ways by which the world may become richer without decreasing the prosperity of any individual. Therefore, as I see it, the breeders of good productive dairy cattle are among the world's greatest benefactors."

"It is a common practice to select dairy bulls on their appearance and their pedigree. This is incorrect. When dairy bulls will be selected on appearance, pedigree and progeny. The production records of a large number of daughters of a sire will when compared with the production records of their dams determine the breeding value of the bull as certainly as the records show the reproductive ability of the cows themselves. If a sire has a high producing dam he may transmit high production to his daughters, but if he has a dam that transmitted high production to every one of his five or ten daughters it is a practical certainty, not that he may, but that he will transmit high production on an average to all his offspring. The record of the dam of any dairy sire is a promise, but the record of a large number of high producing daughters is the fulfillment of that promise."

HERE IS A NEW LAW

During the next few weeks, The Citizen will publish in this department, several of the laws passed by the recent Idaho legislature. Only those believed to be of universal interest will be printed.

TRESPASS LAW

Of universal interest to readers of The Citizen is the context of the new trespass law passed by the last session of the state legislature. The law that was formerly in effect, required land to be posted, in order to legally bar hunters, while the new law makes posting necessary only on land not intended for legal purposes. In order that there shall be a clear explanation of the law and all its provisions, The Citizen is printing the measure in full and suggests to those interested that they clip the law and preserve it for future reference. The insertion of * * * indicates that part of the law has been eliminated and the part set in bold face type indicates that the matter is new.

CHAPTER 160 (Senate Bill No. 101) AN ACT AMENDING SECTION 2592 OF CHAPTER 121 OF THE IDAHO COMPILED STATUTES OF 1919, RELATING TO TRESPASSING BY HUNTERS UPON INCLOSED LANDS AND PROVIDING THAT WHEREAS THE OWNER OR TENANT RESIDES UPON INCLOSED CULTIVATED LANDS, WARNING SIGNS NEED NOT BE POSTED UPON SUCH LANDS, SUCH OWNER OR TENANT MUST BE OBTAINED BEFORE PERSONS MAY ENTER UPON SUCH LANDS FOR THE PURPOSES STATED IN THIS SECTION.

Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Idaho, SECTION 1. That Section 2592 of the Idaho Compiled Statutes of 1919 be amended to read as follows: SEC. 2592. TRESPASSING IN VIOLATION OF WARNING SIGNS. Whenever a tract of land shall have been inclosed by the owner with a fence and signs legally printed or painted in the English language, warning persons not to trespass thereon, shall have been posted on a conspicuous building, on a stake thereon upon or near the boundaries at intervals of not more than 80 rods, it shall be a misdemeanor for any person to enter upon said inclosed land and discharge any firearm thereupon or to enter said land for the purpose of hunting or trapping thereon without the consent of the owner of the person in charge of said land. All fences * * * of any description sufficient to show the boundaries of the land inclosed that present * * * an effective obstruction to stock shall be deemed a sufficient fence under the terms of this section. An entryman upon land under the laws of the United States, or a lessee, or contract purchaser of state lands, shall be deemed owner, within the meaning of this section.

Provided however, That if the owner or his authorized employees or tenants as included, he shall not be required to post hours 9 to 5—ad.

under the provisions of this section post warning signs on such premises and any person desiring to enter thereon for the purposes stated in this section must first secure from the owner or his authorized employee or tenant consent to enter thereon. Cultivated lands within the meaning of this section shall be lands of which not less than 50 per cent of the area within the inclosure is used for cultivated crop purposes and or artificially irrigated pasturage.

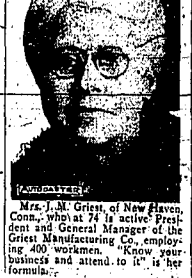

Any person violating the provisions of this section on cultivated land shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by imprisonment in a county jail not exceeding 6 months or by a fine of not less than $25.00, and not more than $300.00, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Approved March 7, 1927.

KIMBERLY GRANGE

HUMOROUS ANTICS OF LAUGHING BROOKLY

A Series of Historical Sketches and Happenings in the Early Days of Snake River Valley, By C. S. WALGAMOTT

EVERY isolated community has its character, and during the days of the early west the camp or community character was always in evidence and much encouraged. He was in reality a god-send to the people, who on account of the isolation that surrounded them were in need of diversion. This community character might have been Jew's Harp Jack of Dry Creek, known miles around and still remembered by the old settlers now living, for his accomplishments as a player of a Jew's harp.

He played two Jew's harps at one time, carrying the lead or soprano on one harp and the alto part on the other, rendering music that tickled the ears, performed in a manner that was as unique as it was amusing.

Or it might have been Captain Stewart, a big burly Scotchman, who besides being the first Justice of the Peace of the Black Creek section, was a story teller that commanded attention. Captain Stewart spoke from a life ripe in experience and a mind teeming with imagination. In either case his stories interested and furnished amusement for the settlers, who in most cases, were bachelors, with the exception that just occasionally there was a cabin, where lived a housewife whose influence for better living was reflected, not only in her own household.

For those western women were endowed with that high spirit of loyalty to their homes, their neighbors and to the community that surrounded them to generate through the entire scope of their acquaintance, a spirit for better citizenship. These western women need the knowledge of the new life with such fortitude, were sometimes unconsciously patterned after their courage.

Jim Snodgrass with his young wife, recently returned from the Marsh basin country, where they related their family. In later years, the mother, Mrs. Snodgrass, in relation to the experience of their early life said to her children:

"My worst dread was that solitude and loneliness when left alone. At times I felt that I was being compelled to be away from home the very day and often well into the night. It was during these periods that my mind was most depressed on account of that awful quietness and solitude that induced the mind to great imagination. The fear of Indians. While in the most part the Indians were friendly with the whites, the settlers knew that they were far from being satisfied with the settlement they had made with the government for their land. The Indian could see his hunting grounds fast being settled by the pale-face. Knowing the uncertain nature of the Indian and his great majority over the whites, kept the settlers in suspense and on the alert. Our first home in the basin country was on the Snake Creek about eight miles below the present town of Albion. Our nearest neighbor was the Bridger Ranch, some five miles away. One day when Mr. Snodgrass, City Assessor, and I knew there was no white person within miles of me, I constantly kept water over all ways of approach. After a time I discovered a dust arising that seemed to be traveling rapidly in my direction, and very quickly it could be seen that this dust was caused by horsemen who were riding single file and were Indians. I hastily entered the cabin, bolted the door and under the bed I went, and as get as far from the light as possible I crawled as far back as the wall would allow. Presently I could hear the Indians arrive. I could tell they were peering in at the window. They apparently looked over everything on the outside and on finding nothing they wanted came around to my side of the house where the sun shone brightly. Here they sat down on the ground, with their backs against the house. I could hear them breathe; hear them talk and laugh. I was fearful every minute that they would hear my breath. After what appeared a long time, one of them said to the others, then mounted their horses and rode away in the direction from which they came. They were on a peaceful mission, but I was better satisfied that I was not compelled to meet them.

"After the children began to come in to the family, the fear of the solitude was not so great, but the fear of the Indians became manifold. I remember one day when Mr. Snodgrass was in the field working, but I could not get out of the house. I was busy at my work when I thought I heard a noise at the front door as I entered the room two Indians with their faces stood in the doorway. I did not get frightened but on the other Indian face was registered a smile. My friend, Mr. Snodgrass, who stepped over and examined it, while the other went to the crib where lay my first baby. I was afraid from both sources and with all the courage I could muster and a hand as free from trembling as I could manage, I gave them some biscuits and they went away. I grabbed my baby and spent the remainder of the day in the field near my husband trying to dispel the thought from my mind of those horrible Indians.

"If laughing Brookly had called at the Snodgrass home that night he would have been a welcome visitor, for although Brookly was one of the community characters, a man at that time about 35 years of age, rather stockily built with a pair of laughing blue eyes set in a face that registered good humor; horn with a smile that gradually broadened until it resolved itself into a laugh that seemed to make his way through life. He was not a beggar, but most people refused to take his money and others gave him substance for the real reasons they received from hearing him laugh, and for the vibration and shake up their system had received in being made to laugh, for some of our best laughing Brookly laugh with out their mouths being made to vibrate to their full capacity, and no one ever paid him much. A hearty laugh shatters the appetite, the digestion clarifies the mind, and is a sure cure for home-sickness.

A hearty laugh shatters the appetite, the digestion clarifies the mind, and is a sure cure for home-sickness.

If Brookly had a home it was in Silvestria, but he made his way all over southern Idaho and blazed his trail with sunshine. Laughing Brookly had another qualification. He was a good fisherman in these parts. He seldom spoke of this accomplishment—and never gave a recipe for his never-failing success. Some of the boys thought that he just laughed at fish and was not when a motley crowd of miners, cowboys and freighters, had congregated at a trading store on the Oregon Trail, laughing Brookly entered into camp with a light team and wagon, and a commissary department from a business trip in Wyoming. But had heard of his success in these parts when he entered the store, I studied his face with boyish interest, and must say I liked him, liked his face, his manner and he was not by most of the crowd that knew him and before they had finished greeting him, the laugh was on—and such laughter. Men who seldom more than smiled now laughed until the tears rolled down their cheeks, other held their sides and pleaded for rest. During the time the laughing and when the crowd was trying to get back to near normal, Laughing Brookly was informed that the boys had paid the bill. When Laughing Brookly broke into a grin behind him a spirit of merriment and good humor that was lasting.

Brookly Goes Fishing
Seized with a sudden longing to indulge in his favorite sport, Brookly called on the office of the sheriff in Silver City to interview Sheriff Charlie Hoy, a man noted for his generosity and an appetite for fish. Brookly informed the sheriff that if he had a saddle horse he would go to Owyhee Creek and bring back a mess of fish. The sheriff told him to go to the barn and tell the stable man to give him an outfit and son Brookly was on his way to his favorite fishing ground. When he reached the creek and was preparing to fish he noted signs of a fresh camp. Someone had camped here lately and by the number of fish skeletons near the ashes of the camp fire, they had been successful. As he scrutinized the camp, he noticed a paper—a newspaper—piled in the fork of a small tree. He discovered it was a Silver City Avalanche, and the big head lines on the front page caught his eye, they read:

10,000 MEN WORKING IN THE MINE OF BUTTE, MONTANA
Brookly's face for a second took on a thoughtful sober look that soon turned to a smile, then a laugh, as he put his foot in the stirrup of his saddle and started to laugh his way to Butte, Montana. Brookly found human nature in Butte about the same as at other places and his laugh was appreciated here. He stepped into the saddle and headed for Idaho, the land of beautiful sunsets and true hospitality. When he reached the town of Butte, he was disappointed enough to catch a mess of fish, they hurried to the office of the sheriff

WHIPPET BEATS LIMITED - FROM ATLANTA TO MACON

Speedy Car Covers 92 Miles in One Hour and 53 minutes. Under official observation, Chick Murray, driving a Whippet touring car, beat the track Dixie Flyer in Atlanta...

Murray set off from Atlanta on time with the crack limited train and covered the 92 miles to Macon in one hour, 53 minutes, 20 seconds.

Seated beside Murray was Al S. Jones, official observer. At the end of the race he wired the following telegram back to the starting point at Atlanta:

"Chick Murray drove Overland Whippet stock touring car Atlanta to Macon, Georgia, 92 miles in one hour, 53 minutes, 20 seconds, beat Dixie Flyer."

Murray threw his throttle wide open after clearing the city limit of Atlanta, but many times was forced to slow down because of road traffic.

A portion of this journey was driven on over highways not in the best condition but despite this handicap Murray brought the Whippet into Macon ahead of one of the fastest trains in the South.

The Children's day program will be given next Sunday morning. A very splendid program is being planned.

In 1926, 7,423,000 tons in 1925, and 7,413,000 tons in 1924, including Canadian beets grown for factories in Michigan. Loss of beets after harvest was 7.1 per cent compared with 5.8 per cent in 1925, being heaviest in Wyoming, Montana, and Michigan.

Higher sugar content of the beets of the 1926 crop as compared with 1925, greater purity, and larger average were more than offset by lower yield per acre, which was 10.7 short tons in 1926 as compared with 11.4 short tons in 1925.

Nearly 40 per cent of the beets were grown in Colorado, 13 per cent in Nebraska, 11 per cent in Michigan, and about 1 per cent of the tonnage was imported from Ontario, Canada. Drought and insect pests caused heavy abandonment of acreage in Utah and Idaho, only 12 farms operating as compared with 22 in 1925.
