THE CHURCH ON TOP.

TUBERCULOSIS AND CANCER WHO WILL RIDE?

WHEN OLD AND POOR

Man builds the house for God to dwell therein was the old idea. The modern idea is a combination sky-scraper church, stores, offices, apartments, swimming pools, gymnasium. New York's Munhattan Congregational church will spend $2,000,000 on such a building, twenty-three stories high. The clergymen will live on the ground floor.

A Frenchman, Doctor Calmette, has developed an anti-tuberculosis vaccine, so successful that its use for all children is suggested.

There is no injection of tuberculosis germs. The vaccine merely "suggests" the disease, and rouses to activity the anti-tuberculosis bacilli in the body. The new remedy, called "BCG," was tried on monkeys and other animals for thirteen years in the Pasteur Institute before experiments were made on humans. "BCG" is said to reduce consumption in twenty-five cases out of twenty-six.

The famous American doctor, William J. Mayo, believes that science will find a way to immunize against cancer. A woman, Doctor Maud Slye, of Chicago, has bred mice in which cancer can by no means be developed, and other mice invariably born with cancer.

When consumption and cancer are conquered, as they will be, men will be rid of their most deadly microscopic enemies. They already know how to deal with the deadly plagues from Asia, one of which, the black death," wiped out nearly half the population of Europe.

• • •

Commercial flying, including ocean flights, may become a reality soon. Commander Byrd was besieged by would-be passengers willing to pay "any price" if he would take them to Europe.

Young Lindbergh casually flew from St. Louis on a little trip to New York via Washington.

Bellanca, the Italian genius, builder of the Chamberlin-Levine airplane, is building airships for a commercial air line between Chicago and New York. Five ships are ordered, guaranteed to make the trip in seven and a half hours. Each car will carry twelve passengers, have three engines, and cost $28,500.

• • •

When you ask yourself, "Who will ride in them," remember that when the French built the railroad from Paris to Marseilles, actors and actresses were hired to sit in the train looking out of the windows, smiling as though they enjoyed it. And when the first elevator with a steel column under it was installed in the Grand Hotel in Paris, about sixty years ago, old French ladies and gentlemen continued to walk up stairs to the fifth floor.

MAMMOTH SIGN IS PROPOSED FOR AMERICAN FALLS

Blue Prints Out for Map Showing Lands Under Big Reservoir — Financing Problem Remains to be Solved Says Thomas

A giant sign, 100 feet long and 23 feet high to be erected at American Falls, has reached the blue print stage, and now awaits the raising of sufficient money to finance the project, reports C. D. Thomas, president of the Twin Falls County Real Estate board, who originated the idea.

It is proposed to place this sign on or near the American Falls dam for the guidance of tourists and others, and graphically portray the entire Snake river valley extending from American Falls to Bliss.

A blue print of the proposed advertisement as prepared by the Cosgriff Outdoor advertising company of this city, shows every town in the valley, together with the rivers and streams, the railways, canals, highways and other matters of interest. The map covers the entire sign which includes the wording "This is the Country Covered and Irrigated by the Waters of this Dam."

The proposed sign would be erected of wood, with white cornice columns, and lattice work underneath, and would be financed by the different organizations in the towns mentioned on the map, these being Bliss, Gooding, Shoshone, Jerome, Wendell, Hagerman, Buhl, Filer, Hollister, Rogerson, Twin Falls, Kimberly, Hanson, Murtaugh, Eden, Hazelton, Burley, Paul, Rupert, Minidoka and American Falls.

Whether or not the proposition can be financed, is the problem now confronting its sponsors, but it is hoped to enlist the support of the state publicity bureau in the project, which is considered a meritorious one and of incalculable value.

Reveal Progress of Farmers' Cooperatives

Some ideas of the progress being made by cooperative organizations in this section was revealed at the grange picnic at Filer Saturday in graphic charts displayed in the speakers stand.

These statements were made:

"Three successful farmers' cooperatives operating in Twin Falls county. The farmers get all the profits. Why not join now?

"Idaho Egg Producers—Volume of eggs handled: 1924, 69 carloads; 1925, 80 carloads; 1926, 101 carloads; estimated volume for 1927, 150 carloads.

"Southern Idaho Bean Growers' association—Over 250 cars shipped in 1926; over 30 per cent increase in membership in past four months; over 500 members now; they're satisfied—watch us grow.

"Twin Falls County Dairymen's association—Pounds of butter handled: 1924, 105,439 pounds; 1925, 632,311 pounds; 1926, 898,252 pounds—six months in 1927, 365,347 pounds; total, 1,896,349 pounds."

Bruins Win Game Here on Sunday

Winning their games Sunday and Thursday, Twin Falls Bruins have broken even with the Salt Lake Bees in the last four contests played. The Thursday win for the Bruins was by a one point margin of 4 to 5; Friday the Bees had a similar advantage with the result 10 to 9 in their favor; Saturday they took the full nine innings to take a 12 to 10 victory, but Sunday the locals emerged on top with a 7 to 5 score.

Phil Apperson, Bruin manager submitted his resignation Saturday and it is reported he will be succeeded by William (Wild Bill) Leard.

OREGON TRAIL HAS NEW SIGNS

"Idaho—U. S. No. 30" is Official Designation of Highway—City Asked to Help

Final arrangements were completed Wednesday by representatives of the state bureau of highways and federal bureau of public roads for the "signing" of the Old Oregon trail highway, known as United States highway No. 30. More than 1800 signs will be erected along the highway through Idaho.

All signs and markers will be identical with those used on United States highway No. 30, which extends from Atlantic City through Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Omaha, Cheyenne, Wyo., Portland, to Astoria, Ore. The United States standard route marker, a white shield with "Idaho" and "U. S. No. 30," will be placed along the highway on an average of two to each mile, in addition to all cautionary and directional signs. Cautionary signs will be yellow with black lettering.

As the state and federal governments are prohibited from placing signs within the city limits of cities of over 2500 population, the cities of Montpelier, Pocatello, Burley, Twin Falls, Boise, Nampa, Caldwell, and Weiser will be asked to co-operate in erecting markers through city limits.

"LINDY" COMING TO IDAHO SOON

Lone Eagle Plans Visit to All States This Fall — Details Tuesday

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the "Lone Eagle," will visit Boise, probably late in September, in course of a flying trip he is to make into every state in the union.

Definite dates have not yet been announced, but he will go west through the northern tier of states, swinging down to Cheyenne; then to Salt Lake along the transcontinental air mail route; thence to Puget sound, and down the Pacific coast returning through the southern states.

Colonel Lindbergh expects to make a stop of at least a day in the principal cities of all states he visits.

His primary purpose in making the trip is to promote commercial aviation, advices indicate. He will fly under the auspices of the Guggenheim foundation of New York, which is backing his venture, and will announce full details of the trip Tuesday.

Annual Grange Picnic Saturday is Addressed by Prominent Men

Taxation Matter Provides Keynote to Talks at Fairgrounds Listened to by Two Thousand Persons in Grove—State Master Early Submission of Definite Plan

Taxation and the success and importance of cooperative effort in agricultural and kindred pursuits was the keynote that pervaded the addresses and discussions at the annual grange picnic held at the fairgrounds at Filer Saturday afternoon. Although not as large a crowd was present as was expected, it is estimated that there were more than two thousand persons on the grounds to hear addresses by W. W. Deal, state master of the grange, William E. Borah, United States senator, Addison T. Smith, congressman from this district, A. J. Shearer, manager of the Idaho Egg Producers, of Caldwell, and M. J. Sweeley, Twin Falls Falls. F. L. Atkins, master of Pomona grange, presided.

The speaking took place in the grove at the fairgrounds, and through the use of a number of amplifiers spread about the grounds, every word that came from the platform was heard with remarkable clearness. The program followed the serving of basket dinners during the noon hour. Lemonade was dispensed free during the day. Joining in the picnic besides the grange were members of the Southern Idaho Bean Growers' association, Idaho Egg Producers, and the Twin Falls County Cooperative Dairymen's association.

One of the outstanding developments of the picnic was the statement made by W. W. Deal, state master of the grange, that a policy is now being formulated that will be presented to the people of Idaho in the course of a few months outlining a solution of the taxation problem in Idaho. To The Citizen, Mr. Deal asserted that the granges of the three states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho are cooperating in the program, and it is planned that the proposals be uniform in the three commonwealths. Mr. Deal stated that the plan will attempt to solve the proposition of state expenditures and that through it those persons and organizations who can afford to bear the brunt of taxation will be compelled to pay.

In this connection Senator Borah asked the granges of the United States not to be inactive between now and the time "we begin to play politics" in the matter of taxation legislation. "Do not wait until the polls are formed," he warned, "but insist you be heard beforehand."

"Reduction of taxes and their proper distribution is of paramount importance," he urged. "Everybody is in favor of reducing taxes," said the senator smiling. "When they start talking taxes," he said, "I would like to see the grange of the United States ask: 'Just whose taxes are you going to reduce?'" With a national debt of 19 billion dollars and three and a half billion dollar annual tax bill, it is time some concerted effort be made not only to reduce, but to distribute this load more justly."

F. L. Atkins, chairman of the meeting, who introduced the speakers took occasion at the outset to announce that the presiding officer of the grange had been voted membership in the Twin Falls chamber of commerce and unanimously they would attend an important meeting of that organization Tuesday evening.

Mr. Atkins made the statement and Senator Borah complimented him highly for it, that farmers should look ahead in the matter of legislative and taxation problems, take part in discussions, interpose their views and take an active part in shaping legislation.

Mr. Deal stated that Twin Falls county had the largest grange membership of any in the state. He, along with the rest of the speakers dwelt on the remarkable prospects of this crop year, adding that they never have been equalled at this stage of the season. Senator Borah stated that nowhere between the capital of the nation and the capital of Idaho had he seen such excellent crops and that he never appreciated or know of the remarkable crop value of this valley until this visit.

Congressman Addison T. Smith spoke at length on what congress had done for the farmer, pointing out the rural free delivery system, parcels post, federal farm loan acts, cooperation in foreign exports, and the possibilities of agricultural aid through the building of the proposed dam in the Colorado river.

He paid high compliment to Senator Borah and explained that contrary to reports circulated throughout the country, Mr. Borah is in sympathy with the Coolidge administration.

A. J. Shearer, manager of the Idaho Egg Producers, with headquarters at Caldwell quoted statistics on the shipment of eggs from the state since the organization of the cooperative and urged for higher quality and greater quantity hereafter.

M. J. Sweeley, representing the West-end Pioneer association recounted the hardships of the early-day men and women of this section and paid a glowing tribute to pioneers in all lines of endeavor.

MINTYRE IS PARDONED

Roy McIntyre was granted a complete pardon by the Idaho state board in session at Boise, Thursday. He was convicted in this county of robbery. Seven others were pardoned by the board and 27 paroles were granted; 58 applications for pardon were denied.

WILL MEET HERE

Federal and state highway officials of Idaho and Nevada will meet here Tuesday to determine routing of six miles of the Yellowstone highway between Rogerson and Nevada state line.

Federal recognition for this road has been secured.

Odd Fellows Picnic Attracts Hundreds

C. D. McKinley, Filer, was elected president of the I. O. O. F. picnic association at the annual gathering of that organization at the county fairgrounds, Sunday.

The affair was attended by approximately 500 persons from 11 different Odd Fellow and Rebekah lodges in this part of the state and is declared to have been a most successful event.

S. G. McAuley, retiring president, presided and introduced the speakers who included Rev. C. C. Curtis, Hon. Addison T. Smith, and Rev. A. J. Slimp.

Highlights of Borah Speech on Saturday

Highlights of the remarks of Senator Borah, at the grange picnic at Filer Saturday afternoon are given here. Mr. Borah addressed a similar gathering at Burley, Monday afternoon.

He appeared to speak with perfect ease despite a recent tonsil operation, and said among other things:

You in Idaho have been most generous to me during my twenty-odd years of service in the United States senate. You have displayed consistent patience and kindness, so I guess I shall go right on serving you in the future as I have in the past.

• • •

The question of production is not your problem. You know how to produce. The question is one of marketing. The leakage between the farm and the table is the solution to be sought.

• • •

I voted against the McNary-Haugen bill, for I could not convince myself that it would be of benefit. I do not believe you can turn over the farmers' business to a political bureaucracy in Washington, and I beg the American farmer not to do it.

DEATH SUMMONS PIONEER CITIZEN

L. E. Prothero Dies Suddenly at Family Home Here Friday at Age of 67

The sudden and unexpected death of L. E. Prothero, aged 67, took place at his home here Friday evening following an illness of long standing.

Funeral services were conducted at the Grossman parlors Monday at 10:30 o'clock, with Rev. H. M. Zagel officiating.

He was one of the original pioneers of the tract, having come here in 1902 and during his career in this section has been restaurant proprietor, rancher, chief of police, and street commissioner. Together with Frank Smith, he erected the St. Regis block on Shoshone avenue south, and in many other ways contributed to the growth and development of the city.

He is survived by Mrs. Prothero, who shared with him the pioneer experiences incident to the reclamation of this tract. Mr. Prothero is credited with having hauled the lumber and built the first farm home on the tract; and of establishing the third business enterprise in the city.

He was preceded in death by two brothers, also residents of this section, Frank Prothero and A. W. Prothero.

Twin Falls Man Heads Association

Twin Falls was chosen as the next meeting place of the State Association of Letter Carriers at the annual convention of the organization held in Idaho Falls last week. Addison T. Smith, congressman, addressed the gathering.

Glynn E. Smith of Twin Falls was elected president and James A. Evans of Preston as vice president. J. A. Phillips of Twin Falls was named secretary and treasurer.

O. Royce of Caldwell, James H. Bickel, Weiser and L. H. Ingram, Nampa, were named as the executive committee for the state organization.

HAWLEY ACCEPTS INVITATION TO SPEAK AT FILER

Old Settlers' Society Invites Senator Gooding to Address Annual Gathering at County Fair Grounds Wednesday, August 17.

Hon. James H. Hawley, former governor of Idaho, and a pioneer citizen of the state, will be one of the speakers at the annual picnic of the Old Settlers' society of Twin Falls county at the fairgrounds at Filer, Wednesday, August 17. In a letter to C. D. Thomas, president of the society, received Friday, Mr. Hawley accepted the invitation to be one of the speakers at the event, which is expected to attract 500 persons.

United States Senator Frank R. Gooding has also been invited to attend the picnic and address the gathering, but word has not yet been received from him. Others who will speak include Mrs. H. W. Clouchek, who will give a paper on the history of the county since its organization in February, 1907, and C. S. Walgamott, local historian, who will present the history of this region prior to that time.

One hundred twenty-five members are already members of the society, which was reorganized last year with the election of Mr. Thomas, president. It includes persons who came to what is now Twin Falls county, prior to its creation, and the families of these persons.

The picnic in August will start at noon with a community basket dinner, at which ice cream will be served free by the organization. Following this there will be singing, music, a business meeting and a program of speeches. The musical program will be featured by the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Stricker of Rock Creek who will present old time melodies on the organ and violin.

All members of the society and their families are invited to attend and everyone eligible to membership is urgently invited to be present and join the organization, the membership fees of which are nominal.

In letters to Mr. Thomas, Mr. Hawley says: "I am very much interested in your society, in fact I am interested in pioneer celebrations of any kind, anywhere, but more particularly in your section of the state. "It will give me great pleasure to be with you on the occasion named. Unless something else comes up of such importance that I am absolutely compelled to attend, I will be with you."

Secures Release From Jail With Bond of $500

Theodore Thompson, thresherman, arrested here a week ago Monday by H. A. Buchenan, deputy United States marshal, on a federal charge of being in possession of a still at Pocatello, secured his release from the county jail last week on $500 bail.

The warrant was issued from the office of United States Commissioner Turner at Pocatello, and Thompson was brought before H. E. Powers, commissioner here, where he plead not guilty. He waived preliminary hearing and was remanded to the custody of the Twin Falls county sheriff, subject to bail to guarantee his appearance in the United States district court, eastern district, on the first day of the October term.

Thompson is employed in this locality.

Urges Attendance at Orchardists' Meet

The summer meeting of the Idaho State Horticultural society will be held at Nampa, July 26, according to Edgar V. Gibson, district horticultural inspector, who is urging attendance of growers from this section.

Sessions will be held at Lake Park, starting at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning. Matters of general interest will be handled at the meeting and government experts will be present to discuss arsenal residue. A Cutler washing machine for the elimination of spray will also be on exhibition. The apple air storage plant of J. P. Gray at Nampa will be inspected, states Mr. Gibson. This, he says, is one of the most elaborate plants of its kind in the northwest.

SHOWS NEW BRIDGE

On another page of this newspaper is being printed one of a series of seven advertisements of Vico oil, on "See Idaho." The first advertisement portrays the rim-to-rim bridge, now building north of here.

HOW FARM PROBLEMS MAY BE SOLVED

No. 2

By S. T. OSTERHOLD

NOTE: Mr. Osterhold is second prize-winner in the National Farm News Agriculture Problem contest for editors of weekly newspapers. He is publisher of the Holton Signal, Holton, Kansas. The first prize-winning solution has already been published by The Citizen. Others will follow.

Here is Osterhold's Contribution:

I cannot conceive of a plan for farm relief that permits unlimited production and at the same time guarantees a price. This is economically unsound. I do not believe that a tariff on farm products can help an exporting nation except in years of low production.

Three possible remedies suggest themselves to me:

First: The individual farmer must work out his individual problem on the farm and seek to produce in the most economical manner those things which will bring the largest return, instead of blindly adding each year to the surplus that can but result in lower prices.

Second: The farmers collectively must arrange to exercise some sort of control over production and releases of surplus upon the market.

Third: The individual farm has no exclusive service to sell and as a consequence its products must meet the competition of the combined output of all other farms regardless of their cost of production. This is true of no other industry. Yet, the farm, under our present system, is taxed a higher rate, income considered, than any other business or profession. To remedy this, the state must seek to lift a portion of the tax from the farm industry by a larger tax on intangible wealth by income taxes, fees and luxury taxes.

The third remedy in my opinion is the extent to which the government should go in the matter of regulation of farm prices.

ANVIL SOLO

BY ANDY HAMMER

Chicago, Ill., July 8.

Idaho Citizen,
Twin Falls, Idaho.
Gentlemen:

Just a line of type, 2 let you know as to my whereabouts. I presume my friends as well as debtors will be delighted 2 know I'm in Chicago. Arrived O. K. & am gradually learning the ways of the city slickers and wise ones. Stepped off the train at the Northwestern depot & the first shot out of the box a wise guy, dressed in a blue uniform yelled at me, "any part of the city for 25c." Being wise, I didn't fall for it, so probably passed by a good real estate bet. After dodging taxis, busses, street cars & trucks for several hours, finally landed at the Union League club. When I first heard the name I thought it was some printers recreation parlor, & was dumb founded when I discovered it was a much better hotel than the Perrine back home. Supper time came, we didn't eat in the hotel dining room, for reasons known only by myself. A friend suggested we go to an Auto-mat. I sure got a kick out of that. At first I thought it was a floor-covering for an automobile. We walked in, got a handful of dimes apiece & picked out what we wanted to eat, slipped in a dime, the bell rang, open flew the door & here was a piece of pie, worse than Mrs. Hammer ever did bake. I squawked about the coffee. Said it tasted like mud. The lady in charge said, "well, it was just ground this morning." Went back 2 our room at the club & went 2 bed. Oh, yes, those pesky wood ticks in Idaho have got way back here in Chicago, only they go under an assumed name. I recognized them the first time. When I hear from Mrs. Hammer, as 2 how she is keeping up the work. I can tell you more definitely when I will return. Chicago sure reminds me of Twin Falls. It's so different. Please send me your paper, while I'm in Chicago, as you have the best paper in Twin Falls County (bar none).

P. S. They raise a lot of stock here, especially pigs. Saw quite a few blind ones so far. Mum's the word, will tell you all when I return.

AD TOPPERWEIN COMING FRIDAY!

Wizard of Rifle to Display Abilities to Public at Free Exhibition

Did you ever see a man break two targets, one 20 feet in front of him and the other 20 feet behind his back, with two shots fired from two different revolvers at the same time? No, he doesn't look both ways at the same time but he does it just the same.

Or did you ever see a man draw a life-like picture of Uncle Sam or an Indian's head or something else on metal in three or four minutes two and three hundred bullets fired in rapid succession from his WINCHESTER rifle?

Well, these are just two of the bagful of unusual stunts that Ad Topperwein draws upon in his thrilling exhibition of expert rifle and shotgun shooting which he has been giving before great crowds throughout America for many years.

AD TOPPERWEIN

Like the circus it's something you shouldn't miss. Besides it may never be your opportunity again to see Topperwein shoot. So you had better set aside this date to see this remarkable free exhibition of what a shooting wizard can do with firearms.

Ad Topperwein uses a veritable arsenal of more than a dozen guns of different sizes and calibers. It is a revelation in the use of firearms to see the program he will present.

On at least fifteen occasions he has broken world's records for rifle shooting at flying targets. At one time he broke 86 out of 100 two and one half inch targets which he first threw himself and then shot at from an automobile going at a speed of thirty miles an hour.

Another record is 4954 breaks out of 50000 1 3-4 inch targets, and an even more wonderful one is the record of 9,990 out of 10,000 2½ inch flying targets. Topperwein was surprised when he missed the one target.

Topperwein will give an exhibition of shooting that covers various styles of shotguns and rifles. Everyone interested is invited to attend and see the full program without charge.

Send The Citizen to prospective southern Idaho residents.

Dairy Farming Will Continue To Pay

The man who has been depending on the dairy cow, the sow and the hen as his main sources of revenue for the past few years is in a relatively strong position now. Market prices for all of these products have been comparatively high.

In 1920 the combined value of dairy, poultry and hog products of the country amounted to 5,585 millions of dollars, dairy products contributing over half of this. For the past two years butter has sold at 61 per cent above the average pre-war price, while chickens have sold at 80 per cent, hogs at 55 per cent, and eggs at 39 per cent above the prices received from 1909 to 1914.

Before the war, there was an average difference between the cost of the feed seeded to produce a pound of butter and the price of the butter of 6.1 cents per pound. During the past two years that difference has been 18.3 cents. In the case of hogs the difference between the feed cost of 100 pounds of pork and the price of the product has gone up from $1.77 to $4.23. On the same basis the margin to cover labor and all expenses other than feed in producing eggs has increased from 8.9 cents to 18.5 cents per dozen. There are no other types of farming that, as a class, are paying as high a labor income today.

The encouraging point, however, is that the outlook for continued profits is especially bright. Dairymen have not been raising so many calves. The country is short of milk cows, and short of heifers. The tuberculosis cleanup campaigns are taking large numbers of cows. Storage stocks of butter, cheese and condensed milk are comparatively low. It takes a long time to restock the dairy herds of the country, and the outlook for the man who produces dairy products is bright.

Over a long time period the growth of city population means that the farm products which are nearest the final form demanded by the consumer, have an advantage over those which must be extensively processed for human consumption.—Dairy Farmer.

One of America's Most Remarkable Bridges

- 2 miles from TWIN FALLS

SPANNING a spectacular section of the Snake River Canyon, this new bridge, soon to be completed, will provide not only one of the West's greatest scenic thrills but will also be a real convenience to the growing number of Idaho motorists.

The bridge, 1400 feet long and 476 feet high, is the longest for its height and the highest for its length in America. Its roadway is 27 feet wide.

The mighty Shoshone Falls, 212 feet high, 52 feet higher than Niagara, is only 3 miles north and east of Twin Falls City. A spectacle worth traveling across the country to see!

Good roads from all parts of the state converge at Twin Falls, and from here you can drive in a few hours to scores of Idaho's unique scenic attractions. The city offers excellent accommodations—good hotels, well appointed camp grounds.

One of America's Most Remarkable Oils

- noted for Standing up Under Heat

Extended drives in the summer time put an extra burden on lubricating oil. The motor gets hot. But that's nothing to worry about if you use an oil that stands up under heat. VICO 100% Paraffin Base Oil has proved its superiority as a heat-resisting lubricant in the most severe tests ever given a motor oil.

The U. S. Bureau of Standards is authority for the statement that VICO has the highest "flash point" of America's leading brands of motor oil subjected to a recent test. "Flash point" is the technical term meaning ability to stand up under heat. Protect your motor by using VICO—always!

HIGHWAY COSTS BIG BURDEN OF GOVERNMENT

Billion and a Half Spent in Past Year on Roads—State Cooperation Makes Big Improvement on Roadways

WASHINGTON—Highway building and upkeep represents one of the biggest expenditures of the government, and in the past fiscal year the account shows that over one and one-half billions of dollars have been invested.

Up to 20 years ago only short stretches of highway were built or improved by government aid, as the transportation at that time was confined to short hauls by team and wagon from the place of production and the place of marketing and shipping, and transportation was confined to the railroads.

The rapid adoption of the motor car as a means of transportation has made necessary the great expenditure until today it stands sixth in the items of federal government expense.

The western states, particularly the intermountain states, profit greatly by the plan of federal aid, as Idaho receives from the federal government millions of dollars in aid for highway building where the state pays into the fund just a few thousand dollars.

The natural scenic attractions of the state of Idaho, Utah and other of the intermountain states, and the desire of the people of the east to travel through and visit those sections, are responsible, in a large measure, for the amount of money spent by the federal government in road building.

The cooperation of the federal, state, county and local governments will result within the next five years, and 10 years at most, of a complete lot of well-built highways, reaching across the continent from east to west, and from north to south, with roads and highways branching off into all parts of each state.

It is a government function to build the main and the transcontinental highways and the main state roads while it is a state and county function to build the feeder roads which penetrate into the far places, making it possible for the producer on the farms of the nation to transport his produce to market in the easiest and most economical way.

The greatest difficulty encountered at the present time is to induce state and county officials to build substantially. Too much money is wasted in work which lasts hardly a season and is done without engineering and in a way that is temporary at best and of little value.

Gradually the federal highway department through the state highway departments is being able to convince state and county authorities of the waste of money in building anything but permanent roads that will stand the heavy travel without giving away.

MODERN FARM MACHINERY HELP

Man-Power Being Succeeded in United States by Labor-Saving Devices

An interesting experiment was tried recently on the Nebraska state agricultural college farm when a tractor and plow were put to work in the field and which were guided by electricity and without the help of a hand. The demonstration was watched by the instructors of the institution and by a group of interested farmers.

Arthur Brisbane, the great American writer, makes the prediction that the time will come when the farmers of the United States will sit, spyglass in hand on a tower in the middle of his farm and watch one machine cultivating potatoes, another the sugar beets while the third cuts and puts up alfalfa and all without the touch of the human hand with the exception of the hand, which will be the personal property of the land owner, and which will push certain buttons and control certain levers guiding the machinery.

The son of a Wisconsin dairy farmer agrees partially with Brisbane, but makes the statement that no machine has ever been invented which will coax a baby calf to take its first drink of milk out of a pail.

Press dispatches state that modern machinery in use this season in the harvest fields of Kansas has cut the use of hired men in the harvest at least 50 per cent.

In writing on his idea of the farm without a hired man, Brisbane says:

"The hope of the farmer is in better machinery and more intelligent use of it. It is not alone the selling price of a bushel of wheat that counts but the amount of farm time and labor used to produce the bushel."

GRANGE PICNIC A SUCCESS

One of the altogether splendid institutions of this section is the annual picnic held at the fair grounds at Filer by the grange and numerous cooperative societies of the country.

Here is a well-conducted social affair, to which the entire citizenry of the community is invited; here folks mingle in the height of the busy farm season to compare notes on crops, markets and the agricultural outlook in general. There are always worthwhile speakers, intelligently discussing matters of common interest.

The spoken word is always so much better than the written one. That is why there is much satisfaction in hearing the state master of grange, instead of reading circular letters; in listening to heads of cooperative enterprises personally explaining the progress that is being made by their institutions—maybe answering a question or two, and clearing up some hazy point; of virtually rubbing elbows with men like Borah and of hearing him sanely explain in person, matters which otherwise are often presented to us only through sensational headlines and garbled interviews.

The sponsors of the annual farmers' picnic are to be congratulated on the increasing success of the enterprise. It reveals a healthy interest on the part of the people generally in their business and in each other.

"SUCCESS STORIES BUNK, THERE ARE NO RULES"

Success may suddenly come to a man in any walk of life and at almost any age. There are no rules.

That's the cheering word flung in the face of the current flood of formula-made success stories by William Slavens McNutt, a man who should know a success when he sees one, and who should know the rules if they exist.

McNutt, one of the keenest and most candid of great newspaper reporters, probably has had first hand contact with as many notable men in financial, political and military fields, here and abroad, as any man alive.

The idea, fostered by publication of thousands of success articles, that great men become great by following prescribed codes of model living, self-sacrifice and thrift, he declares, is "poisonous bunk, because impressionable youngsters take its untruths to heart and torture themselves with fear because they can't realize the impossible fictions of character attributed to the great they would emulate, and because the plugging middle-aged, still possibly fertile with the seed of accomplishment, are made conscious of sins of omission and commission and are robbed of hope."

And to prove his point, McNutt, writing in the Shrine magazine for July, compares the careers of Rockefeller, Scwab and Ford, who are, he points out, as far apart as the three corners of a triangle in all points except two—they all possess courage and energy.

"No man need think himself a failure because of the particular method or time of any other man's success," he says. "Some hit young. Some lie fallow until middle age or later.

"Rockefeller is the apostle of mathematics, cold, cautious, relentless, figuring saved pennies and accrued interest in his early youth. Living short of his means, no matter how small the means were. Determined to succeed. Well into business in his early twenties.

"Was he marked with success from his childhood? Rot! The world is full of determined tightwads who start out making use of the Rockefeller method and end up in their old age in full possession of a peanut stand on a side street, with a mortgage attached to it.

"Can you, whoever you are, do what Rockefeller did by doing as he did? Probably not. But the fact that you haven't the nature or the ability to do as Rockefeller did is no man's argument that you are not going to be a whale of a success some time by some other method.

"Charles M. Schwab, one of the spectacular successes of his generation, is as much like Rockefeller as Coolidge is like Jack Dempsey. The son of a livery stable keeper in a small Pennsylvania town. Driving a stage in his early youth, a stocky, smiling, cornfed kid with a ready tongue for a joke. He went from that job to clerking in a grocery store. He was eighteen then and wore no sign announcing that he was going to explode and rain down in a golden shower.

"One day Schwab asked for a job in the steel works. The clang and rush and size of steel making touched off a spark somewhere in the boy's tinder. Seven years later he became manager of the Homestead Steel plant. A little later J. P. Morgan made him president of the United States Steel Corporation. He was 35 then.

"His method was punch; the technique of the slugger. He was a gambler, playing big on judgment or hunch; or both. A jovial, good living, likable, free-swinger.

"Then Ford; the artist in business. A man who hit after forty. A Michigan farm boy interested in mechanics. Fiddling away his time making a toy steam engine when he should have been cutting hay. Running away from school and a good heritage of farm land in his early 'teens to get a job as a mechanic in a Detroit machine shop. His father tried to his best to talk him into coming back to the farm. The father had all all the logic on his side. But Ford was a stubborn wilful boy and would not listen.

"Easy enough to say now that the instinct of genius prompted him. Piffle! Machine shops are full of gray-haired mechanics who left farms to tinker with wheels and gadgets with just as much instinct and passion for work as Ford had.

"Apparently courage and energy are the two qualities which are the common character possessions of those who make the grade. I have known highly successful men who were heavy drinkers, rakes, gluttons, incessant smokers, time-wasters. I have yet to meet a successful person who lacks either courage or energy."

If you have troubles to burn—be original and make light of them.

Who says we have equal suffrage? Citizens of Nyack, N. Y., are all excited because a woman had trousers made for her old bay mare.

PRESIDENT SHOWS HUMAN TRAITS

(Idaho Falls Times-Register)

Gladys Terhune, of Twin Falls, Republican national committeewoman for Idaho, sprung into fame when she made the statement that the people of Idaho, "While not particularly crazy about Coolidge, would support him nevertheless."

The Idaho committeewoman is a very human sort of person, well versed in Idaho conditions and particularly well acquainted with the reaction on the feminine mind.

No doubt the Idaho committeewoman when she made reference to the president, had in mind the idea as many have, that he is a very different sort and type of person, someone quite out of the ordinary and somewhat above the average human touch and equasion.

Many, no doubt, have had the same opinion, and while regarding the president as wholly safe and sane, yet regarding him as out of the class of ordinary mortals, all no doubt on account of his extreme reserve and deep silence on most subjects, particularly the matter of the third term.

The president has proven, however, that he can, will and does defy conventions and cares little for public opinion, for he has fished for trout with worms for bait, which act has caused considerable alarm on the part of his friends and political advisors for having so dared to do what no real sportsman will do in the open, all of which proves the strength of character of the man, for most certainly no individual other than one who has strength of character, would so go against public opinion.

The president though has proven himself to be just like many other men. He developed a pet peeve when Mrs. Coolidge was a bit late for lunch, and from all accounts paced up and down the floor, looked at his watch, and then taking a chair sat in grim silence waiting for the wife of his bosom to return in time for lunch.

It is easy to think of the silence of the president being grim, for he can be more silent in more places at once and commit a louder silence than anyone we know.

MASSEY HARRIS

THIS NEIGHBOR CUT WILLOWS 10 FEET TALL

When I found last year that I could buy a MASSEY HARRIS Binder from Reynolds Bros. Co., I was very glad and lost no time in dealing for one. I had lived in Canada for several years and while all other makes of binders are offered there for sale, the MASSEY HARRIS was the acknowledged leader for that big wheat country. I want to say that my experience with the MASSEY HARRIS on this Twin Falls Tract and after perhaps as severe a test as a binder was ever given, I think more of it than ever and if I was buying a dozen new binders they would all be MASSEY HARRIS. Last year I cut close to 250 acres of grain and had extremely hard cutting all the time. I cut and bound sweet clover six feet tall. I cut willows along the edges of my fields around laterals, 10 feet high and all through this extremely tough cutting, the MASSEY HARRIS worked staunch, faithful and true, and caused no trouble whatever. I want to say that if every machine a farmer purchased caused no more grief or expense than a MASSEY HARRIS Binder, we farmers could begin to prosper.

Signed: C. W. WIEDLE,
1 mile east and half mile north, Buhl, Idaho

THIS NEIGHBOR HAD GOOD WHEAT AND A GOOD BINDER

I farmed the big T. C. Bacon Ranch out of Jerome last year and purchased a Massey Harris Binder from Reynolds Bros. Co. of Twin Falls and I want to say that I wish every piece of machinery I use was as satisfactory as The Massey Harris Binder. My wheat averaged 70 bushels to the acre. Some of it was down and lodged, but the Massey Harris didn't miss a bundle and it is in as good shape today as when I first pulled it in the field. It is a light running dependable binder and anyone in need of a binder won't make a mistake in buying a Massey Harris.

Signed: W. C. WAYMENT,
4 miles west, 1 mile south of Wendell, Idaho.

THIS NEIGHBOR PLAYED SAFE

Last year I had 185 acres of wheat to cut and had to have a Binder. I saw the Massey Harris that Reynolds Bros. Co., of Buhl, were introducing and while it impressed me as an extremely well built, durable and simple binder, at the same time I wanted to make sure of what I was buying and Reynolds Bros. agreed that after cutting forty acres of grain if I was at all dissatisfied with the Binder, they would allow me to return it. I cut the forty acres of grain and liked it so well that I had no hesitancy in paying them for it in full. It is a splendid piece of machinery and I am glad to recommend the Massey Harris to anyone in need of a good machine.

Signed: ROY HALEY,
5 miles south of Buhl, Idaho.

THIS NEIGHBOR HAD A ROCKY ROAD

Last year I needed a binder and had my mind set on a certain make but when I saw the MASSEY HARRIS at Reynolds Bros. I decided that it had all the features that a Twin Falls Tract Binder should have so I bought it, and am not a bit sorry. I cut my own wheat which was a good test for any good binder itself, but also did outside jobs and among them was a certain 125 acre field of grain that would have been a test for any binder, I am not exaggerating when I say that I believe this was the worst field that any binder ever went into. There was sweet clover so high that you could not see the horses' heads and yet the MASSEY HARRIS bound it in a neat bundle, and there were rocks hidden from sight so big, I remember, that we had to unhook the team and pull the binder away rearward. But in spite of all these things, we cut the wheat, collected our hire ($1.50 per acre) and made money and today so far as I can see, the MASSEY HARRIS Binder is just as good as when we got it a year ago and doesn't need a thing in the way of repairs.

Signed: ANTONE HERSINGER,
2 and a half miles south, Buhl, Idaho.

USED IT WITH HIS TRACTOR

I've run every make of Binder that's made, I think, but the MASSEY HARRIS has them all beat. I fully intended to buy another make of Binder last year but when I saw the MASSEY HARRIS at Reynolds Bros. Co., I made up my mind that it was the binder for me for it appeared so much more rugged and stronger and simpler than any binder I knew of and it looked to be just the machine for this country of corrugations and ditches. I had a Fordson Tractor and hooked it up to it and I not only did my own cutting but I cut for many of my neighbors and I did the entire job without mechanical troubles of any kind. I think so much of this binder that although I can sell it to a near neighbor of mine here at Castleford and at a price near like new, I am not going to do it, but instead will take it to my ranch at Gooding, fifty miles from where it now is, where, so far as I know, it will have 300 acres to cut.

Signed: J. S. THOMPSON,
4 miles east, Gooding, Idaho.

THIS NEIGHBOR SHOWED GOOD JUDGMENT

I made no mistake when I purchased a MASSEY HARRIS Binder from Reynolds Bros. Co. last year. It was a new make to me, but as soon as I saw it on their platform, I could see where it had all the others skinned and I've run about all of them. It is not only strong and heavy but there's no complicated mechanism about it at all. I cut my own wheat and several of my neighbors were up against it and I helped them out and in all I cut around 225 acres and in all of the cutting there wasn't a single cuss word, for the binder gave me no trouble whatever, in fact it came through the cutting in apparently as good shape as when it began.

Signed: J. M. STOVER,
2 and 3-4 miles west of Wendell, Idaho.

APPLE POMACE MADE HERE IS GOOD FOR COW

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, July 11—Use of apple pomace as a feed for dairy cows is advocated by the university department of dairy husbandry, following completion of two years' experiments. The results of the investigation are given by F. W. Atkeson and G. C. Anderson, experiment station dairy husbandmen, in Bulletin 150, which has just come from the press.

Apple pomace is a waste by-product resulting from the manufacture of cider or vinegar from apples. Approximately 1500 tons of pomace was made in Idaho last year, representing the output from companies located at Moscow, Lewiston, Payette, Ustick and Twin Falls. Several other localities, the bulletin says, are equipped to manufacture pomace under favorable conditions.

Results of two trials comparing apple pomace to corn silage, seemed to justify the following conclusion given in the bulletin:

Cows produced milk and butterfat equally well on the apple pomace and corn silage rations.

Apple pomace seemed equal, pound for pound, to corn silage in feeding dairy cows.

The special advantages of apple pomace where it is easily available, are its cheapness, its palatability, and its storage qualities. At present pomace is usually either sold as a stock feed or as fertilizer, or it is hauled to the dump as waste, and by far the greater quantity is now handled under the last two methods. About half the Idaho manufacturers have a profitable outlet for the product, selling to livestock owners at $1 or $2 a ton. The others have been unable to create a market.

Apple pomace is easily stored and keep well with little spoilage for several months.

Real Democracy

In the minds of many people, democracy rests upon the colossal untruth that "one man is as good as another," so that a large number are more likely to be right than a small number. In reality democracy rests upon the ubiquitous fact that all men are directly interested in securing good government, while its successes have often been due to its general recognition of the truth that some men are born to lead and others to follow.—John Fiske.

STAND OF BORAH IS BIG SURPRISE

Statement on Coolidge on Return Home is Considered Significant by Observers

WASHINGTON—The statement of Senator Borah on his arrival at his Idaho home that President Coolidge will be re-nominated, "unless he signifies wishes to the contrary," came as a distinct surprise and shock depending on how it was received.

In the Coolidge camp it was received with some surprise and a good deal of joy for it is felt that the statement of the Idaho man coming at this time fixes things just right for Coolidge.

The anti-administration camps within and without the republican party received the shock as it is considered the outstanding political statement of the month.

Political writers in summing up the situation say:

"Moreover, it comes from a receptive presidential candidate, who is not only openly at odds with the president over several important administration policies, but one of the bitterest foes of the third term. For that reason the senator's statement caused widespread amazement among the politicians.

It is pointed out, however, that Borah's prediction was based on public sentiment as he found it on his trip from Washington to Boise, and was in no way an indorsement of the president or his policies. The G. O. P. managers contend that it will carry just as much weight with the large following the Idaho senator has in the country.

"It is pointed out, also, that Borah's statement confirms the report made to the president by Chairman Butler of the republican national committee at a White House breakfast a few weeks ago. Borah and Speaker Longworth were present and saw their candidacies knocked into cocked hats."

SWEELEY POEM WINS APPROVAL OF PICNICKERS

Addressing the grange picnic at Filer Saturday, M. G. Sweeley, former state senator from this county, and pioneer lawyer of this city, quoted a poem which he revealed he wrote in the early days of the tract. It was first printed by the late Major Fred R. Reed in the Burley Bulletin.

In his concluding remarks at the picnic, Senator Borah paid the poem a high compliment, and said "it is a real piece of poetry." "I knew this country could produce most anything," said the senator, "but I didn't know you produced such genius as is exhibited by Mr. Sweeley in the verse he has recited.

It follows:

The sun out here shines just as bright as anywhere, I know,
The people here seem just as true as those of long ago.
When Nature's charms are fresh and rich and pure contentment give.
When the sun shines bright and friends are true
What boots it where we live?

The birds out here sing just as sweet as anywhere on earth.
The flowers shed their fragrance here like friends of royal worth.
When all one has is close at hand and hopes keep mounting high.
When the birds sing sweet and roses bloom, what boots it where we die?

Hearing Conducted at Filer Wednesday on Telephone Matter

A hearing was conducted at Filer Wednesday by James Thompson of the state public utilities commission, in regard to an application filed a few weeks ago by the Farmers Mutual Telephone company asking permission to operate as a public utility. At present the concern is a mutual organization, only stockholders having phones.

Mr. Thompson reported that the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company had advised the commission of its approval of the granting the certificate of convenience and necessity. An order in connection with the request is expected soon.

Mr. Thompson came to Filer on the 4 o'clock stage, and completed the hearing in time to catch the 9 o'clock stage back to Boise. The hearing was conducted in the office of W. D. Gillis, attorney for the phone company.

products. If there is no foreign market then there is no disaster.

The only stable market is the home market. Farm relief is here at home. Some say reduce the tariff. Let's be careful about that. If I had my way I would put a tariff duty so high that we would keep every agricultural product out.

At the close of the war Europe owed us 11 billions of dollars. It was said that if we cancelled seven billions we would win their friendship. Now we are reputed to be the most hated people on earth. I don't know how we would be if we cancelled the other four billion. We should insist that the government collect it and might apologize for cancelling what we already have.

* * *

The Federal Reserve act is a vicious banking system. It has not kept the control of finances in the hands of the public, but instead in the hands of 12 men.

* * *

Hoover tells me there are sufficient funds to carry on relief work in the Mississippi and that there is not enough information ready to proceed with restoration. A special session of congress would not help now, the President told me. I guess no president is anxious to see congress any oftener than he has to.

I am not in favor of sending marines to Europe or Nicaragua or Mexico to protect any American Dollars. It is their own money Americans invested and they have no right to ask American taxpayers to make good their losses. I am utterly opposed to breaking off relations with Mexico because she changed her oil laws. Some say our duty is clear by virtue of the Monroe doctrine. Monroe had no such idea.

The conference at Geneva must certainly fail. Europe is not thinking of disarmament. She leaves off the first syllable. I am in favor of saying to those who loan money in Europe: you loan it at your own peril.

Opening up the markets of China and Russia offer the solution to our local marketing problems. Our present per capita trade with Japan is $3.75; with China 25 cents. Increase our trade with China to that of Japan and our marketing problem is solved, we being able to supply products through Pacific coast cities.

The Atlantic coast is looking after the Atlantic coast. They have no interest in us westerners. We must look after our own markets.

Pontiac Six Makes New Marine Success

Specially Converted Pontiac Engines Sold by Gray Marine Motor Car

Though the Pontiac Six engine was converted to marine use by the Gray Marine Motor company less than nine months ago, sales of this power plant have already been made in many foreign countries.

In Helsingfors, Finland, where motor boating, both for a living and for pleasure is on such a large scale that marine engines are purchased as discriminately as automobiles are in Detroit, the "Gray Six Forty," the trade name of the Pontiac Six marine power plant, has found an enthusiastic market. A fleet of eight of these Gray-Pontiac engines was recently installed in boats that are giving a speed of 20 miles an hour.

Testimonials in large numbers have been sent to the Gray Marine Motor company, Detroit, extolling the endurance and speed of these engines. One of the striking testimonials came from the Gulf Cruiser Company of Pathope, Ala.—a glowing letter telling how one of these engines made a 28 hour non-stop run, in riding out a storm.

Herman Jacobs of Rock Hall, Md. who purchased number 2 of the Pontiac-Gray's last fall, states that "from flywheel to clutch it is the finest operating piece of machinery I have ever used and I have been using gasoline engines for 21 years." There are four of these engines operating motor boats from this little town of Maryland.

Not only are these engines used in pleasure motor boats, auxiliary cruisers, fishing and utility boat, but also ferries. On the Illinois River, near Detroit, Ill., six huge ferries carry the tremendous traffic and the Pontiac-Grays are being used in this service. In this particular work, the engine turns an 18x12 propellor 1250 r. p. m. The speed of the ferries is approximately 4 miles per hour. The requirement of the engine is one of continuous endurance and reliability.

The request to supply Pontiac Six engines last fall was made to the Oakland Motor Car Company by the Gray Marine Motor Company. The Pontiac engine was selected because of certain features which made it a particularly efficient power plant for motor boat use. Marine engines must be heavily constructed throughout and must be capable of top speed for long periods of time. Bearings, crankshafts and cylinder parts must be of heavy durable construction to withstand the intense heat and terrific vibration encountered in marine use.

The motors are sold to the Gray Marine Motor company less manifold, transmission, carburetor, distributor and clutch.

The overbuilt strength and durability of the Pontiac Six engines in more than 150,000 Pontiac automobiles are proved by the success of these engines in a type of gruelling work which requires an excess of motor bearing strength seldom called upon from the average motor.

REPORT ON EARLY POTATOES

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Early potatoes are the principal source of supply during the three summer months. Most of them are raised in ten first-early and eight second-early states in the region south of the line from New Jersey extending west to Missouri and Kansas and through to California. They send out over one-fourth of the season's potato shipments.

The commercial crop of the early and second-early states is forecast at 36,041,000 bushels, compared with 34,624,000 in 1926 and a five-year average of about 33,000,000. This year's probable increases in production as now indicated are the result of acreage rather than larger yield Condition of the early and second-early crop on June 1 was reported at 69 compared with 70 a year ago, but in both seasons the condition was improved soon after by timely rainfall.

The eight second-early states of this group are listed for 10,270,000 bushels, which is 5 per cent less than last year. The most important production figures for the leading late summer shipping sections are Virginia 10,502,000 bushels, last year 9,447,000; North Carolina 3,727,000 last year 3,480,000; early section of California 1,888,000, last year 2,097,000; Kansas and Missouri (Kaw valley district) 3,120,000, last year 3,009,000; Oklahoma 1,315,000, last year 1,411,000; Maryland 1,955,000, last year 1,421,000; New Jersey 3,933,000, last year 3,591,000.

Notable decreases are those reported for Oklahoma and southern California. There were moderate gains in acreage and expected production compared with last season, in Maryland and New Jersey, and the eastern shore of Virginia. The growing conditions have continued favorable in these very important July and August shipping sections. Weather developments since the June production estimates have tended to enhance the production outlook in some other parts of the mid-season shipping region.

Active Early Season

Earliness and drouth brought to a close the main shipping season of Florida, Texas, Alabama, Louisiana and South Carolina. Last year these sections were still active through June. The prompt movement of the early crop this season helps the situation by making room for sections next in order, including North Carolina and Virginia, and these in turn seem likely to get past their peak soon enough to let in the shipments from New Jersey and the middle west on schedule, thus paving the way for a favorable market opening of the main crop season which is likely to be a little late anyhow, likewise the potato season in Canada. The succession of potato crops in the various sections this year has been moving along about as favorable as could be desired for orderly marketing of a rather large early and mid-season crop.

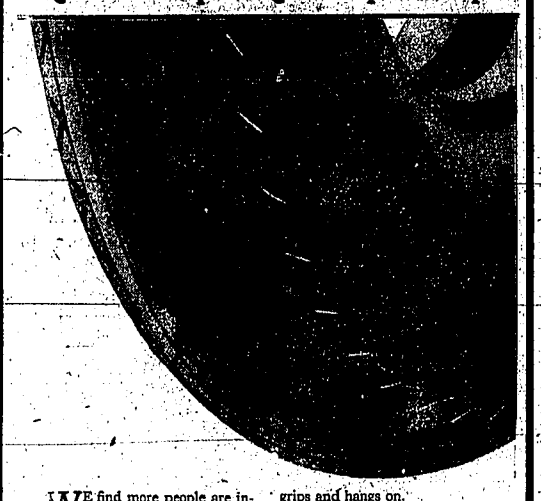
Quick stop—Quick pick-up



WE find more people are interested these days in safe driving than in anything else about motoring.

That's one big reason why they are immediately interested in the new Goodyear balloon tire with its new-type All-Weather Tread.

The test is simple and convincing. Just press down with the palm of your hand on a deflated casing of the new-type Goodyear balloon tire and you feel how this remarkable tread under pressure grips and pinches your hand.

SAFETY for you on curves, hills, wet, muddy or snowy pavements, stopping or picking up in traffic.

And besides this invaluable safety, the extra values of traction, long, slow, even tread wear, quietness and smooth running, good looks, and a trouble-proof casing made of SUPERTWIST cord.

The World's Greatest Value is what we offer you in the World's Greatest Tire. We have your size in fresh new stock, and we give the authorized Goodyear service that helps you get all the inbuilt value out.
