Development Work Proceeds on Site of Mary Alice Park

Edwin Damman Creating Pools to Add to Beauty of Rim-side Site Located Near Giant Causeway North of Twin Falls.

SIMULTANEOUS with the internet now being effected in the new rim-to-rim bridge across Snake river gorge north of here, public interest is manifesting itself in a project being carried on just east of the giant causeway by Edwin Damman on his property which comprises 660 acres, known as Mary Alice park.

Mr. Damman has built a dam on his property, dammed stream and created a beautiful artificial lake, laid out a scenic "Royal Drive," which skirts the rim of Snake river canyon midway between the new bridge and Shoshone falls.

Three Miles Away The park is less than three miles from the city of Twin Falls, is on a half mile east of the new bridge, to the southeast. It borders on Snake river and lies both above and below the park on the north and south.

"That is the most beautiful sight in America," exclaimed an out-of-towner as he stood beside the writer on day last week and peered down into Snake river gorge overlooking the park on the north, and saw beyond within the park an extent of about two miles.

New View of Shoshone The next stop on the scenic rim drive, already partially completed, is the bridge of the canyon also, but this time one beholds a majestic view of Shoshone falls, straight to the east, from a vantage point about a mile distant.

Albion Claims First Woman Jury in 1898

IDAHO AS A DAIRY STATE

In the few short years since the post-war adjustment started Idaho has climbed from a position of practical unimportance in the dairy industry to a place where tests by agricultural scientists show Idaho butter to be the best in the United States. This is due, they say, to the fact that in Idaho, climate, sunshine and average conditions for the raising of milk to make the fertile valleys unequalled for dairying.

The winters are not severe and the summers bring floods of sunshine that stimulate animal and vegetable growth. While other dairy states require from two to three acres of pasture to maintain one animal, Idaho pastures will maintain two animals per acre for a season varying from five to seven months. The cost of producing feed in Idaho is the lowest of any state in the union.

Idaho creameries made about five million pounds of butter in 1926, 1925 the production was over 16,000,000 pounds and for the first six months of 1927 the total was 16,743,845 pounds.

Butterfat producers in Idaho get the highest prices for their product. During the first six months of 1927 the average price was 43.4 cents and for the same period of 1926 they were receiving 42.9 cents an average price.

While Idaho dairy products are shipped both east and west the state is fast becoming the dairy for the Pacific slope. California consumed three-fourths of Idaho's 1926 butter output which was over 20,000,000 pounds.

Cooperatives creameries in Idaho have made excellent records under alert management and with sufficient capital. William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, in a recent Idaho speech endorsed the cooperative movement, saying it was the proper foundation which to build the producing and marketing organization.

TO AID MARKETING

"Going a long way from home to aid the Idaho farmer" is the metaphor that might be employed to explain the most recent action of the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce in its policy of aiding agriculture.

Ralph E. Thomas, secretary of the state chamber, has announced definitely that through cooperation of the state chamber and the state department of agriculture, a representative will be placed in the large market centers of the country. This man's first responsibility is to make a careful study of market conditions as they exist and develop new markets for Idaho products.

The announcement followed a recent meeting of state chamber officers. This step is one of the most forward movements ever taken in Idaho to aid the farmer in disposing of his crop. It makes no difference how fine the quality of a crop, if there is no market for it the farmer stands to lose money.

Cooperative marketing organizations within the state are the good starting points, said William

Jardine, secretary of agriculture, in a recent Idaho speech, but other states have found that their marketing organization, to be the most effective, must reach to the market centers.

Reaching out to the market centers is the aim of the state and the state chamber and much tangible good is predicted for the Idaho farmer as a result of this movement.

The idea has been much discussed in Idaho but it was the recommendation of the state chamber's marketing committee that brought it to a concrete consideration. This committee is headed by Lincoln Wilder of Buhl. Other members are:

- E. M. Jorgensen, St. Anthony;
 - Moses Christensen, Malheur;
 - A. B. Wilson, vice chairman, Twin Falls;
 - J. H. Barker, Buhl;
 - F. H. Hogue, Payette;
 - W. M. Cropp, vice chairman, Lewiston;
 - A. G. Wunderlich, St. Maries;
 - and G. H. Mize, Moscow.
- Still another service will be rendered the Idaho farmer, the market center representative will send word to each county of the location and the department of agriculture on conditions as they exist there.
- From this information a news letter will be sent to all Idaho newspapers each Monday telling them of the market conditions.

"Board" Companies Reduce Insurance

Representatives of "board" fire insurance companies in Twin Falls received notification Monday from the Idaho Survey and Rating bureau effective September 1, of a reduction in the fire insurance rates, covering the entire state, amounting to about 30 per cent on the old charges. The reductions apply as follows: 30 per cent reduction on all mercantile buildings, and the contents of same; 30 per cent on buildings used for theaters, garages, warehouses, etc. where credits for reduced rates over cost are authorized; 30 per cent on churches and hospitals; and 20 per cent on dwellings, flats and apartments as grain and produce and 10 per cent on wellings, flats and apartment houses.

The board companies precipitated a fight against non-board companies, and especially the General Insurance Company of America, some time ago, and a hearing was held at Boise on the matter of cutting rates to meet 30 per cent premium rates made by the non-board companies.

The first woman jury in the United States is claimed by Albion in Cassia county. A newspaper clipping from the Albion Nugget, dated July 8, 1910, says: "On July 13, 1898, in an action wherein the state of Idaho was plaintiff and Phoebe Welsh was defendant, a jury composed of six women was empaneled to try the case. The ladies were Mrs. M. A. Stoddard, Mrs. E. R. Glenn, Mrs. L. M. Hegar, Mrs. A. Murphy, Mrs. D. H. Bennett and Mrs. J. M. Snodgrass. S. P. Weatherman was probate judge, Dick Anderson, sheriff, and Mr. Gwinn, the deputy, summoned the jurors.

"The charge was assault and the verdict was acquittal. Some of the ladies to this day are keeping their warrants as souvenirs of the historic event. Unless we get record evidence to disprove these facts, we claim honors of having the first jury of women in any case in the country."

ON TO SCHOOL

With summer vacations drawing to a close, pupils of our schools and their parents should turn their minds to the important business of continuing youth's education.

The recent flight of Lindbergh is an inspiring example of being the task through. Just as Lindy turned his plane East and set out for Paris, so must the student turn his thoughts toward our educational institutions. With the determination, "On to School."

We should employ as much determination, zeal and thoroughness in continuing this great adventure as Lindy did in his flight to France. The happy partnership of Lindy and his plane, which he termed "we," find parallel in our partnership with our schools. We should unite the spirit of youth with the spirit of education. Just as Lindy joined the "Spirit of America" with the "Spirit of St. Louis."

Lindbergh did not make his trip primarily for gain but for accomplishment. However, the former proved a valuable by-product. Let us follow his good example, and, as he did, continue our flight in education for the good of the nation and the cause of progress, as well as for the returns to youth. Though the impulse is unselfish its fruits are substantial, for out of such enterprise springs the inspiration that generates creative power. As aviation is maturing because of Lindy's signal achievement, a thousand advantages accrue from the achievement of education.

Pupil no less than aviator must follow through to attain success. Lindy did not stop with the acclaim of the world ringing in his ears. He had just begun his start on a constructive career. He had finished but one lap of the race. The same application can be made to commencement and promotion in our schools; these are but steps to a higher goal.

Parents are reminded that Lindbergh's backers had no guarantee of any returns. Loyalty and admiration for the spirit of this youth and the cause he championed inspired them to make any necessary sacrifices. This should be the attitude of parents and taxpayers who appreciate that education is the foundation for life.

It is timely, then, right now, when school days are just ahead, to turn our eyes toward our schools and toward our boys and girls called on for an important decision, and sound the slogan, "On to School."

OUR DEBTS FOR ROADS

Uncle Sam owes $18,000,000,000 in bonds outstanding. The bonded indebtedness of all the states totals $1,846,000,000. Borrowing by the states stimulated perhaps, by those willing to pay a high price for bonds free of national income tax, has been criticized. But state debts are small, considering the wealth of the nation.

Florida, Nebraska and Wisconsin have no state debt. South Dakota has the highest per capita, $85.15. New York State owes the most and can afford to: Central Park in New York City is worth more than the state debt.

Half the money borrowed by the states has been spent on good roads, a fact that justifies the borrowing. If it could be said that the other half had been spent on public schools the situation would be perfect, and it wouldn't matter if the states owed a billion apiece.

ENOUGH STUNT FLYING

Termed "the greatest sporting event man had ever known," the Dole aviation derby, over 2,400 miles of the Pacific, has been a costly affair which public opinion will again be slow to encourage. Announcement from federal quarters that the government will frown upon any immediate future plans for similar dangerous stunt features meets the approval of all thoughtful citizens.

Summed up the toll in the Dole was much more costly than the average layman realizes. Three aviators were killed on the way to the starting point in Oakland. Three planes were demolished. Two planes were forced back at the start. Two more crashed on the runway. And of the four which continued the flight only two finished. Then the fifth took out to fly the entire course and find the lost—and it too disappeared. In all three navigators, three pilots, and a charming girl found their graves in the water of the Pacific.

Airplane racing over so dangerous a course and between many entrants has come into some question. America needs her good flyers to teach and inspire the youth of the land in flying—and not to risk life unnecessarily in stunts which mean nothing particular to advancement of aviation. The results attained through stunt flying are not worth the great risks.

OFFICIALLY

At last, it would seem, a very perplexing question has been removed from the mail bag of etiquette authorities and no longer will it be necessary to "guess" in reply to the question: "When an engagement is broken is it necessary for the young lady to return the engagement ring?"

A legal ruling has been handed down in an Eastern court, the magistrate holding that, since the engagement is off, the man who bought the solitaire is entitled to keep it. The young woman who had her ex-husband arrested for larceny when he took back the diamond engagement ring, was naturally very much disappointed.

Now the matter is settled officially? Of course the young woman will continue to decide the question in the future, probably, as they think best. To avoid disappointment, however, we suggest the young man who buys an expensive ring and confers it upon the young lady of his choice—should kiss it goodby, and in advance—charge it to profit and loss—or what have you.

A pedestrian, no doubt, is a logical prospect for automobile insurance.

Press Comment

IF BORAH WANTS IDAHO, SHE'S HIS
(Idaho Statesman)

This talk of organizing Idaho to support Senator W. E. Borah at the present of the United States is idle twaddle. It comes from those who hope, by making a Borah noise, to make themselves solid with a man who might be president. They have no more chance of making Idaho more definitely a Borah state than they have of breakfasting on this moon at $100 a month.

In politics some things go without saying. Some support comes without being sought. And there never has been, never will be, a state like Idaho with a dominating, individual and spectacular personality like Borah, which will not support him for the highest post in the land.

Idaho has no other presidential possibility. Whether all her citizens admire Borah or not does not matter. The chance to have an Idaho president, a president from the land of forest problems, mining problems and reclamation problems, makes personality unimportant. Any man big enough to be a real possibility is big enough for Idaho's unanimous support.

The group of Republican politicians in Idaho known as the "old guard," the "machine," the "organization," has always been critical of Borah. He has been rather openly antagonistic to that group, has often given support to their opponents in conventions, has suggested kicking the platform of the party into the scrap heap and has even opposed a candidate or two they have set up.

Nevertheless, whenever Borah himself has come up for nomination or election, that group has said "our course" or "Naturally."

A dozen of the "elder statesmen" of Idaho Republicanism went to Salt Lake some months ago to see to the best of the chair of the party, Mr. Butler. It was presumed that Butler wanted to make sure Idaho would be in the Coolidge column in case the platform of the party, the "old guard," So the Idahoans concurred amicably with almost complete unanimity to the conclusion that they would have to tell Butler, if he asked them, that Idaho would be for Borah, if he wanted the vote.

There's no use for any insurgent group to try to lead the next time to the Republican convention on the theory that Borah is in danger. Any Republican convention will be a Borah convention. If Borah is not elected, we want to help Senator Borah, Idaho should be in no hurry to dash into print with the statement she is "for the rest of the country will take that for granted. It doesn't make the loud-gobs, other calls may seem to be echoes and who will place Borah on the shelf in the class of favorite sons along with the list of candidates nationally unknown.

YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO RENT A HOME
(Boise Capital News)

A reader of the Capital News has just sent in some interesting figures. He has been renting a home on the north side for 15 years.

"I have just figured out," he writes, "that, allowing current interest rates, I have paid $13,435.48 rent in the past 15 years and a half. If I don't own a single nail in the home in which I live."

If our correspondent had bought his home, instead of renting it, he would now own a $10,000 residence. Being in Boise, it would be increasing in value every year, and he would be getting the benefit of the increase.

We have read and seen a few figures that, whether you are renting or buying, should interest you. If you can afford to rent, you can afford to buy. If you can afford to buy, you can't afford to rent.

At $25 a month, a very low rental, you will be got just $995.20 in 10 years and have nothing whatever to show for it. At $65, your total will be $6595.88, at $50 it will be $7909.40. You could own a very fine home for $4000.

The Capital News does not propose to waste time pointing the moral; you can read the lesson very readily for yourself. We would much rather you read it here, now, instead of in 1947 in a pile of rent receipts.

BUFF AND BLUE

The prevailing colors of the uniforms worn by our Colonial soldiers were buff and blue—that is, when they had any uniforms to wear.

Baron Stouven visited the Winter Camp at Valley Forge and told of the distress of the men.

He wrote: "The description of the dress is most easily given. The men were literally naked—some of them to the fall of the waist of worst. The officers who had coats had them of every color and make."

Washington wore a military uniform of buff and blue. The facing of the blue coat and breeches was buff, and if followed the shade of the toe-skin vests commonly worn in that period. The process of tanning skins and hides was rapidly developed, and the accounts of the variety in colonial buff. The cloth of which coats and other garments were made was subject to the uncertainties of home-made dyes. In consequence

Wake Up!

Colonial blues came out in as many shades as Colonial buff.

Under the modern system that has been developed in American dye manufacturing during recent years our chemists are able to produce, and reproduce with chemical exactness a wonderful range of varieties of buff or blue, in cloth goods. Tanning has become an exact science.

One wonders, why there were so many buff and blue in Colonial times. With an understanding of the methods employed in tanning and dyeing the situation seems to clear itself.

But we must be grateful to the good old Colonial fathers for their efforts to uphold their national dye industry. The making of dye slipped back to the people of Europe, and was dominated by the Germans until the World War came on. Then American chemists and American manufacturers set busy and made this country independent of foreign dyes.

GRIMM ALFALFA RULES ISSUED

Seed Commissioner Calls Attention to Requirements of Growers in County.

By L. D. Rader, Assistant, Agronomist and Seed Commissioner.

This year's Grimm alfalfa seed crop is already being hauled in the Twin Falls and other sections. In order that there may be uniformity in the sealing work the following regulations should be complied with:

The following agencies have been appointed in Twin Falls county by the state seed commissioner to take charge of the sealing work:

A. F. Craven, Hollister; J. H. Nelson, 1214 Kinkaid Road, Twin Falls; and W. H. Herman, Buhl. Mr. Nelson has been authorized to do the sealing in the Twin Falls section, as far east as Hansen and as far west as Park.

Growers should notify him at the time hulling starts, so that he may seal the seed before it goes to the reclaiming establishment. In this connection upon no occasion will seed be recognized as Grimm if it is taken from the farm before it is sealed. Mr. Nelson may be reached by phone—507W. Mr. Craven and Mr. Herman will take charge of the work in their respective communities.

The sealing fee is the same as it has been in the past, namely 10 cents per bag at the machine and five cents at the cleaning establishment. These fees must be paid at completion of the sealing. After the machine seal the report is made form grower's letter of seed he should be sure to obtain one of the triplicate copies. This will be delivered with the seed to the cleaning house so that the deputy will have a check on the lot of seed.

Cleaning establishments that have been authorized by the State Seed Commissioner in Twin Falls county are as follows: Farmer and Merchants Warehouse, Hollister; Elbert Elevator, Kimberly Elevator, Twin Falls Feed and Ice company, Twin Falls Flour Mills, Darrow Bros. Seed and Supply company, Murtaugh Seed House, Buhl Elevator, Buhl Seed and Grain company, J. A. Gray, Buhl; and Buhl Feed and Ice company.

Only the above firms are eligible to do this work, and any seed cleaning at any other firm will not be recognized as Grimm and as such will not be sealed by the deputy of the state seed commissioner's office. Upon delivery at the cleaning plant of the grower's seed he must present the pink machine sealing report issued him by the deputy at the time the seed is sealed.

The pure seed list containing all the growers' names whose fields have passed field inspection will be issued shortly. These will be sent to all growers in the state and they should write upon request. This list will serve in the place of the field certificates previously issued to each grower.

Elberta Peach Crop Now on Market Here

The Elberta peach season is just about here, report local growers, and will be at its peak commencing this week and extending through next.

The Emmott crop is on the market in Boise, The Statesman Wednesday reporting that they were selling for $2.25 a bushel basket. At Lakima first quotations are reported to be $1.25 to $1.50, the 20-pound box, which is in line with the probable market here, it is stated, of about $2.50 a bushel.

A survey made by Buhl growers showed the following:

Charles E. Simpson, south of Twin Falls owns the largest peach orchard comprising about 70 acres. Mr. Simpson reports a "complete" peach crop failure. The Blue Lakes orchard has already marketed its early peaches. The Elberta crop of about three cars has been sold to the Pacific Fruit and Produce company. John Gourlay, living north of Flary, has already marketed his early peaches in Twin Falls.

The later varieties, consisting of Elbertas and J. H. late will amount to about the same as last year at the Crystal Springs. They report five cars already sold. Mr. Hansen, manager of the Niagara Springs orchard, reports his crop about 20 per cent of normal. He has already sold two car loads.

The Chase-James ranch, commonly known as the Hansen orchard, now owned by "Doc" O. Eastman and James A. Grimm, has the largest crop in the Buhl district. They report about 1,500 bushels less than last year. The E. M. Hays, Albion and Peck orchards are all reported to have short crops.

The short peach crop over the entire United States insures the peach grower a good market and a good price this season. In eastern peach growing sections the growers have marketed most of their crop at prices ranging from $3.00 to $3.25 per bushel basket. O. B. Louning points Elberta peaches in New York are selling as high as $1.50 to $2.00 per 20-pound crate.

From an Illinois Farm

Last Chapter Written in Gary Life Romance

Judge Elbert T. Gary

From the cornfield of a poor Illinois farm some six years ago came a lanky, rawboned youth looking cityward—and for the opportunity to hew out a modest success in life. His passion for work caused the world's present-day leading capitalists to pause, pay tribute to his greatness—and agree that through the ages no man ever had conceived greater industrial plans for the driving force to make them successful.

The farm boy was Judge E. T. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel Corporation—1921—American.

From the president of the United States down to the most humble worker in the corporation's great steel mills throughout the nation, Judge Gary was known as the grand old man of American industry. He was active and in absolute control of the great steel corporation up until his death—at 80 years of age.

Today on some American farm there possibly is some boy or youth who in the next sixty or seventy years may climb to greater success than came to Elbert T. Gary, as great as it was—because truly the United States is the land of opportunity where the sky is the only limit to achievement—and ability knows no restrictions.

Early Years on Farm
Born on a farm near Wheaton, Ill., nearly 81 years ago, Judge Gary, in early youth, worked with his father, planting the soil in the summer, being to school in winter. It was the farm which gave him that robust constitution that was with him to the end.

Finishing grade school, he studied at Wheaton college, then to the University of Chicago, Law school and back to Wheaton to practice. Twice mayor of Wheaton, then county attorney, and then judge of the district court—he finally broke home ties to move to Chicago and take up the practice of corporation law.

Eventually he became counsel for the Illinois Steel Corporation, and soon guided the formation of one of the early steel combines, the American Steel and Wire company.

His organizing abilities attracted the attention of J. P. Morgan and in 1898 he was called to New York to form the Federal Steel company, another combine. Three years later—Morgan gave Gary the right to organize the daddy of them all—the United States Steel Corporation—the first billion dollar corporation the world had ever known.

Bulls With Earnings
Today that corporation is a two and one-half billion dollar organization, but is perhaps an actual three or four billion dollar corporation built up out of earnings under the leadership of that former Illinois farm boy. It was done without mauling the public or crushing competitors.

When the government started its dissolution suit against the steel corporation in 1925, it was unable to prove that any complaint had been made for prosecution by any competitor, customer or employee—as to its methods, prices or treatment in business. The suit was dismissed.

Judge Gary's working slogan always was: "It can be done."

When asked recently if he had ever smoked Judge Gary said: "Yes—for about a year and a half while studying law at Chicago. But I quit. I returned home to the farm at Wheaton for a visit and when I kissed my mother she said: 'I love you—but not as much as I used to—will that tobacco "smell on your breath?" That I quit—even though

DEHYDRATOR TO START SEPT. 15

Puccinelli Anxious That His Concern Be Given Fair Trial This Season.

"We are prepared to expend $50,000 here this season for apples and pay-roll for the operation of our dehydrating works," said R. L. Puccinelli, of Lew Grove, Cal., inventor of the machinery used in the preparation of the product, and head of the concern here as well as a number of others scattered over California and Oregon.

He is here looking after the remodeling of the plant located in the warehouse district, putting it in readiness for the campaign which will start September 15 and will run as long as there is sufficient supply of apples, which Mr. Puccinelli trusts will be at least three months.

He employs from 10 to 85 persons in the operation of his plant, which was installed here last year and ran at a big loss on account of a deficient supply of apples and other contingencies which were powerless to overcome," he said.

"We want all call apples that measure over two and one-fourth inches and can handle at least 3,000 tons. There will be no just equipped plant in the west for the economical production of dehydrated apples, and we will expend every effort to make it a success. All we need is the apples."

Mr. Puccinelli said that the plant's operation this year will be somewhat of an experiment, testing out whether such a factory is wanted, or needed or practicable here. His concern, he says, has an investment here of $50,000, and is operating a plant making use of what formerly has been almost a 100 per cent waste product.
