No Definite Farm Problem Reported in Scope Study Report—Solution Lies in Meeting Peculiar Local Conditions

The problems of the inter-mountains and those of the cotton belt, for instance, are not interchangeable; what chiefly concerns the agriculture of the Pacific North-west finds no echo in the South or East.

This conclusion is reached in a report received by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, which is a member of the United States Chamber of Commerce and has been following ten regional conferences held by the national chamber in cooperation with member organizations covering 27 states—from California to New York.

Pointing out the apparent soundness of the national chamber's report, Newell S. Wright, secretary of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce calls attention to the peculiar local problems being solved here by cooperation between commercial and agricultural bodies, and the willingness of both to coordinate their efforts.

Grange Will Exhibit Crops At Ada Fair

In preparation for the annual Ada County Pomona Grange, Fair and Corn Palace at Boise next week, October 11 to 14, County Agent R. E. Brossard is making preparations to ship a representative exhibit of products shown at the county fair here last month by Twin Falls county grangers.

A number of other Pomona granges of the state will have similar exhibits at the county fair here, sponsored by the Pomona grange of that county.

Miss Alta Smith, Buhl secretary of the Pomona grange, and Mrs. L. E. Cobb, Cedar Draw grange, winner of first place in community exhibits at the fair here, will accompany the exhibit.

Some of the exhibits have been selected with fresh fruits and vegetables, and the group will be displayed under the name of the Twin Falls County Pomona grange exhibit.

From his 38-acre ranch near Castelford, F. L. Utter, a former center on the Milwaukee railroad, who has lived in Idaho seven years, this section has already sold a crop of nearly 33000 worth of diversified products and has more to sell.

The story is told by J. E. Roberts, road crew man of this city, who supplies the following regarding the Utter place, as illustrative of what is being done on the tract.

Mr. Utter raised and disposed of the crop from four acres of early potatoes for which he received $1209.75; six acres of red clover, $500; four acres of onions, $1200; and 15 acres of red beans, $900.

In addition he has marketed 2248 wethers; 879 worth of wool; 100 hens which brought $90; and 150 pairs of No. 2 onions; 275.

Rule for Measuring Hay

The official prints the following hay-measuring rule because of its usefulness at this particular season. To those anticipating need for it in the future, it is suggested that they clip out the rule and preserve it.

RICK STACK. Obtain the number of cubic feet by subtracting the width from the overthrow, dividing the result by 2, multiplying this result by the width, and this product by the length.

ROUND STACK. Obtain the number of cubic feet by multiplying the circumference (taken at base of stack) by itself, and the product by the height, and divide by 25.

There are 512 cubic feet in a ton of hay which has settled from 39 to 60 days and 422 cubic feet when it has settled more than 60 days.

Proclamation on Prevention of Fire Week

In his proclamation designating next week October 15, as Fire Prevention week, Governor Blodgett says:

"Annually thousands of lives are lost, resources drained, industry hampered, supply of houses reduced, and property generally impaired by the affliction of fire.

"Because so much of this is avoidable it should not be accepted as inevitable, nor received with indifference. Through the exercise of reasonable care the majority of fires are preventable. Greater caution might be practiced if people realized the fundamental fact that the cost is everybody's loss and everybody's responsibility. Fire caused by lightning or earthquake is an unavoidable calamity that must be borne with resignation, but fire caused by the wanton carelessness of man is a crime against the entire community that calls for due punishment.

IDAHO TURKEYS BRING TOP PRICE IN U. S. MARKETS

State Association Secretary Meets Growers at Buhl Wednesday—To Start Feeding Program

In preparation for the annual Thanksgiving pooled shipments of turkeys from Idaho, a meeting of growers of the state was held at the city hall in Buhl, Wednesday, which was attended by about 20 growers and was addressed by Mrs. C. G. Trink, secretary-manager of the Idaho Turkey Growers' association.

Sold 46 Carloads Idaho turkeys in quantity lots commanded the highest prices of any in the United States, asserts Mrs. Trink, who reports that 46 carloads were marketed at outside points last season. Prices for the birds this year should compare favorably with those last, in her opinion.

Half Cent Pound Cost Idaho turkeys in quantity lots in the market centers in the East and West have been very low and favorably known. We received the highest price last year that was paid for quantity turkeys in the United States. We feel that our price is just home from a trip to market centers in the east. Her work now is to endeavor to secure advance information on how large in Idaho this year. Her letter to breeders says:

STORK LEAVES BABY GIRL AT DOOR OF APARTMENT A tiny baby girl, left unconsciously by the stork in the corridor of the Colonial apartment house Sunday night, has been identified parents, according to city and county authorities, who have the case in hand.

A suspicious package wrapped in a blanket was noticed in the hallway by Mrs. Annette M. Cliff, manager, who notified the police on the theory that it might be a bomb. On investigation the "package" proved to be a box of ammunition for a .38 Smith & Wesson .25 for was immediately summoned. The infant was transferred to the county general hospital, where authorities say it was born last month. The child's health appears to be normal and it will survive its unusual first experience in this world.

A number of applications have been received by parents wishing to adopt the little stork.

The Livestock Situation.

Meat food animals pass through three principal channels; their production, their marketing and turning the raw product into meat foods and their by-products followed by distribution to the consuming public.

The outlets represented by the different marketing centers of the country are of great importance to the producer. The growth of consumer demand on the Pacific Coast has made itself felt in livestock producer circles as far east as the Missouri river, and the Coast States have changed from exporters of meat food animals to importers.

An immense meat packing center is taking shape in Los Angeles to meet the requirements, the extent of which may be gauged by considering that the population has more than doubled in the past ten years, with an increase of five million people in the state to supply.

There are many reasons for the gathering together of meat packing plants at a chosen point. The principal one is that through centralization of packing plants adjacent to a central livestock market and with the proper strategic location as to meet the needs of consumer demand, the movement of meat food animals may best be sustained in a regular flow. This accomplishes distribution and conversion into food products in the best advantage of the producer, the packer and finally the ultimate consumer.

Through bringing together many packing plants at a central point, the best advantage of the producer, the packer and finally the ultimate consumer.

New Bridge Heralded As Eighth Wonder of World

The October 1 issue of the Business Chronicle, Pacific Northwest commercial publication of Seattle, congratulates the engineering organization of that city which erected the rim-to-rim bridge near here, and shares with Idaho pride in the achievement.

Samuel H. Hedges of Seattle has the engineering distinction of heading the organization that designed and built the highest bridge in the world. Idaho has the distinction of possessing this marvel of man's skill in triumphing over Nature's obstacles, says the Chronicle. Twin Falls-Jerome Intercity Bridge is the official appellation of the structure, which spans Snake river, and connecting those urban centers of highly developed irrigated farming, forms a new link in transcontinental automobile traffic to the Coast.

Continuing, the journal says: Today, October 1, is a big day in Idaho, for the bridge is being dedicated, with Governor H. C. Halldale making the address to a vast assembly of Idaho citizens and visitors from neighboring states and British Columbia.

It has been well said that "from the days of the Lewis and Clark Expedition and the covered wagons of the pioneers of the Old Oregon Trail, the deep canyon of the Snake River in southern Idaho has stood an almost impassable barrier to travel through that territory." Even in this age of modernized transportation perfection, that mighty gouge of some irresistible glacial force of prehistoric times has maintained unchallenged until now, the mute declaration: Thou shalt not pass! Such neighborhood intercommunication as heretofore existed has been slow and difficult and often hazardous, as for a world on wheels, it deteriorated. This super-bridge is 1 1/2 in height, from its floor to bed of stream, 602 feet. Superimposed on the surface of the water the tallest skyscraper in America west of New York City (L. C. Smith Building in Seattle) and the tip of the spigole would not touch the lowest projecting bit of steelwork. Length of the gateway towers 700 feet, and width of roadway 27 feet. Depth of Snake River at this point is 26 feet, no considerable stream.

The bridge cost roundly $750,000. Puget Sound Bridge & Dredging Co., of which Mr. Hedges is president, began construction in December, 1926, and the structure was completed in September, 1927—a record in itself.

In this bridge, which Idaho people enthusiastically pronounce the Eighth Wonder of the World, Pacific Northwest has a new tourist attraction. Driving upon its wide roadway, the automobilist has unfolded for entrancing vision, some miles either way, one of the most stupendous panoramas of Nature's fuged artistry to be found anywhere on the globe. One must journey to Idaho and go out upon this bridge and appreciate scenery the grandeur and sublimity of which unconsciously evokes the superlative for, description. The building of the highest bridge in the world is an engineering feat that will be talked of in all civilized lands. So well was the work planned, and so carefully was it carried out, that no person was killed, no accident happened in which any one was even seriously hurt—an almost unheard-of thing in connection with construction jobs of magnitude.

Puget Sound Bridge & Dredging company has left the imprint of its handiwork all over the American continent. In Alaska there is a famous bridge where the Yukon & Tanana Railways crosses Alsea Horse Gulch, at a height of 215 feet, over a steel arch 400 feet long. In British Columbia are two imposing dams that are regarded as models for this class of construction; one is that of British Columbia Electric Co., on Jordan river, Vancouver Island, 100 feet high and 750 feet long; the other the multiple arch dam of Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting & Power Co., at Anxox, 140 feet high and 700 feet long. In Oregon at Estacada is Puget Sound Electric Co.'s 740-foot length dam that required 68,800 cubic yards of concrete. In Texas there is the dam 2 miles long with a maximum height of 80 feet, built by dredging and hydraulic fill, that provides 160,000 acre-feet of water storage on Elm Fork of Trinity River for the city of Dallas; and in Wichita County, 540,000 acre-feet of water storage capacity with similar dam 100 feet high.

Nearer home is the recently completed basic bridge at Aberdeen; and the first steel bridge (1010) built in Seattle. The Pacific Northwest Pacific Railway over Duwamish river, with pier foundation placed in 40 feet of water.

The wide variety of Puget Sound Bridge & Dredging Co.'s work is illustrated in projects it constructed in Seattle. This ranges from about 26 million cubic yards of material placed by dredges in reclaiming the tideflats for the great waterfront and waterfront terminal area popularly known as Harbor Island, to constructing the $2,600,000 Dexter Hotel office building in the downtown city building way the county. City Building is 27 stories high and to the building of 16 ships during the war.

For almost 40 years this company, whose financial strength and reputation as engineers and constructors is on a par with that of the best American concerns, has given service in all kinds of construction work.

SEMI-WEEKLY... Par Year, $2.50

Successor to the Twin Falls County Independent... Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Twin Falls, Idaho, under the act of March 3, 1879.

YOUR JOB

John D. Rockefeller last week celebrated the seventy-second anniversary of the day on which he got his first job...

In the mail just received by the business office is this lament by a prominent Twin Falls professional man...

Of course this does not apply to all boys, for there are Rockefeller in the making... Those that smile when told Mr. Rockefeller still has the first dollar he ever earned...

Also Mr. Rockefeller, since he took that small job, in 1855, has given away, to science, charity and education, more than five hundred million dollars...

EVENTUALLY

Sooner or later, of course, the United States will have three distinct arms for national defense, an Air Department taking its place with that of Army and Navy...

Old ideas die slowly. Power gives up its throne ungraciously. It has always been thus. Great minds have usually been persecuted and punished for daring to try to change the order of things...

Former Colonel William E. Mitchell of the U. S. Army division dared some two or three years ago to tell us what we needed in the air to keep abreast other nations...

The American Legion in its Paris convention, just closed, has gone on record for an Air Department—as a new and separate unit of our defense.

Does the reader of these lines know of a man better qualified to head the department than William E. Mitchell? The nation owes it to him.

AMERICAN TIN-CANNERS

It is oftentimes said that the "new woman" started America on the way to become a nation of tin-cannermen...

Not less, but more "tin canning" here in Idaho is the one thing needful... While we are sometimes prone to mildly ridicule those persons who "live out of cans," the fact must not be lost sight of that the hope of the Twinland empire is to adequately and increasingly fill those self-same cans and packages with milk, butter, beans, meat, fruit and other similar commodities.

The fellow who tries to get across ahead of the train usually gets a cross... Asked, "Why do chickens cross the road?" Ed Purdy says, he doesn't even know why they cross their legs.

Seth Brown's son didn't miss his goal so very far. He intended to go to Europe on a scholarship—but went on a catfish-ship.

Colonel Lindbergh's flight demonstrated the progress of aviation admirably, and also proved what a terrible condition poultry is in.

WANT GROWERS TO HAVE PLOTS

E. R. Bennett Predicts New Requirement for Certification of Potatoes

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow—Idaho growers who want their potato seed certified will, in all probability, be required hereafter to grow a seed plot, according to E. R. Bennett, extension-horticulturist in charge of certification.

Addition of this provision to the requirements is made in view of the unusual prevalence of disease in seed potato fields this year. The disease situation is not peculiar to Idaho. Similar conditions prevail throughout the northwest and in many eastern and middle western sections are even worse.

Under the present system no provision is made regarding the source of seed with which the seed field is planted. With the seed plot required the grower will produce his own seed under the most rigid conditions. The seed plot, according to Mr. Bennett, is to be an acre or more in size and is to be isolated. Every precaution will be taken that both seed and plants be thoroughly clean. Diseased plants will be removed immediately.

If the seed plot requirements is made effective at once, growers should start this fall to prepare their crop of two years hence. The first step will be to collect seed from the healthiest and strongest plants for use in planting the plot. The seed plot will produce the seed for the 1929 growing season. Blackleg, which is in epidemic form throughout the United States, is causing most of the trouble this year. Mr. Bennett says, although some spindle tuber and mosaic have been found. The only way to get rid of blackleg is to plant seed that does not carry the disease. Good treatment will prevent the spread of the disease in storage but it is not a remedy in any sense of the word.

The number of growers applying for certification this year was considerably larger than it has ever been, but because of disease the amount of seed certified will hardly exceed that of last year. Mr. Bennett estimates that the output of accepted seed will be between 400,000 and 500,000 bushels.

MAGAZINE READING HABIT Five American universities have just completed a study of the magazine-reading habits of the nation. More than 7,000 families were questioned in a unique investigation requiring an opinion from each member of the family, the result representing the preference of two, three or four people in every case. This nationwide test shows that the American Magazine is "most regularly read and preferred above all others by the average American family."

Extremes caution was exercised to preserve fairness and impartiality in making the test. The questionnaires were sent out by the universities under their own signatures, and without mention of any magazine. Telephone "booklets" were used as the basis for mailing lists, the questionnaires being mailed to residences. Telephone subscribers in six widely scattered communities. The cities covered were Austin, Texas, Syracuse, Harrisburg, Atlanta, Minneapolis and Grand Rapids.

In tabulated results, the five most popular general magazines were shown to be, the American Magazine, the Saturday Evening Post, the Literary Digest, the National Geographic and the Cosmopolitan. The percentage results were practically identical in all of the six cities selected for the test by the universities.

FARM NEWS

FARM PRICE AVERAGES SHOW THE STATE OF AGRICULTURE

The Department of Agriculture issues rather elaborate and complete statements and statistics on farm prices data. These are of more than usual interest at this time, perhaps, because the information is of fundamental importance in the planning of intelligent and constructive programs for agriculture. The averages published are far more than simple averages. They are compiled by skilled statisticians who have devised systems of "weightings" for the various reports received from volunteer reporters. These prices as reported have been compared with census reports when available and with price data compiled by other methods, and the statisticians are able to say with confidence that their results for a given state or for the nation as a whole will not be in error by more than a small margin, and that in a series of years these price tables can be compared to obtain a reliable picture of the state of agriculture.

But the statisticians are frank to admit that any single farmer may find wide differences from his own personal experience with any particular crop. It is obvious that the prices for early potatoes in Florida may be utterly different from those for a crop in Maine. Again a farmer who sells his milk in a given section of town will get a different price from his neighbor who sells milk to a condenser. In the important staple crops such as wheat, and cotton the price will ordinarily be approximately the primary market price less the cost of getting the wheat or cotton to the market. As a recent bulletin out, one of our leading handlers in which the same way, and in a year when Iowa produces a good surplus of corn the price in most Iowa counties may be the wholesale price at Chicago less the cost of handling and transporting the grain. But if the next year's crop is small, the farmers who are fattening stock will want to buy instead of sell, and the Iowa farm price average may be nearly as high or even higher than the Chicago price. Consequently a farmer in Kansas where the crop happens to be good may find the price with a short haul to the Iowa feed lot, the farm price in Kansas will be much closer to the market price quotations than in other years.

AS YE SOW, SO SHALL YE REAP

A single wild oat may produce 200 seeds, a mustard plant 10,000, while a wheat seed only produces 25 kernels, says the Research Department of the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers in discussing the dockage problem of small grain growers. If these and other weed seeds are not removed from seed grain before sowing, the increase in weeds will be so rapid that the grain will not have a fighting chance of returning the grower a profit. Weed seed cuts the farmer's profits three ways. It greatly reduces the yield of grain by robbing the wheat or other grain of nutrients. It cuts the price paid for the grain at the elevator, and it costs the farmer more to haul and to pay freight on when shipping. The dockage, which in many sections costs the owner of a quarter section as much as $204, according to government reports, can be made to return a profit as feed for farm animals if removed at the threshing machines or hauled to an elevator.

MILK USE GROWS

In the eight years from 1917 to 1925 the per capita consumption of milk in the United States increased from 42.2 gallons to 48.8 gallons. Most of this increase was in the cities where health officials stressed the value of clean, safe milk. In the same period ice-cream production increased 37.7 per cent, but the general supply of milk increased to such a degree that the proportion for ice cream merely changed from 3.3 to 3.8 per cent. At present approximately half of the milk in the United States goes for household use.

Farm Forestry Program Growing In Gem State

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow—An opportunity which deserves more attention from farmers of Idaho is that of farm woodlots, according to Dean F. Miller of the Idaho School of Forestry. There are in Idaho, reports Dean Miller, approximately 80,000 acres of forest land in the hands of the farmers. A recent survey showed that 5041 farms, or 12 per cent of the total number of farms of the state at the time, reported forest products sold from or used on the farms as having a value of $128,244, an average of $402 per farm.

"This is an income which is largely net to the farmer, since the labor involved in harvesting and marketing is performed mostly in winter when he has the most spare time," explains Dean Miller.

The stimulus to farm forestry at the University of Idaho college of agriculture and School of Forestry recently instituted an extension forestry program. Idaho becomes the second far western state to enter the field of extension forestry. The extension forester will advise the farmer in choice of species of trees to plant on his woodlot and give him instruction in the fundamental principles of forestry.

FILER

One of the most enjoyable events of the season was the dinner for the teachers of the Filer Women's club. One hundred people sat down to the excellent dinner served by the Mr. E. Lauffs Aid. The room was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and flowers. The long tables were artistically decorated in a color scheme of lavender and pink. Place cards for the teachers were cleverly made cartoons featuring the main characteristics of each teacher. Gary Smith, a cartoonist of rare ability who has been visiting at the Dr. F. A. Dwight home kindly consented to do this work. Mrs. Anna H. Shinn acted as toastmistress. Mrs. Grover Davis as president of the Filer Women's club gave a few words of welcome. Supper, George E. Denman and W. C. Numan responded in behalf of the teachers. The Filer orchestra furnished music during the dinner hour. Miss Georgia McMaister gave two vocal solos and Mrs. E. A. Beam and Mrs. Raymond Graves gave two vocal duet numbers.

Henry Dryden of Ceres, California, is visiting relatives.

Mrs. and Mrs. T. E. Moore, Mrs. Grace Witham and Harry McKinlay of Twin Falls were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Harvic.

Clarence Case is at Lima, Montana, on business.

Mrs. J. A. Johnson of Twin Falls, Mrs. L. A. Bostel and Mrs. A. E. Scholten of Filer have issued invitations for a bridge luncheon at the L. A. Rebel home west of Filer Saturday.

Mr. D. D. Corum and two children, Mrs. Manio Miner and two children of Silver Lake, are visiting relatives in Ogden.

Good Cooks Agree

—there is No Substitute for Electric Cooking

The mere fact that more than 7800 customers of the Idaho Power Company cook with electricity is evidence that good cooks agree that no other method of cooking can take its place.

Electric cooking is economical, clean, safe and dependable and just as quick or quicker than any other method of cooking. It offers certain results and automatic temperature control. There is less shrinkage of food cooked electrically. And electricity is the cheapest fuel you can buy.

A Splendid Air Heater

FREE With Any Range

Wouldn't you like to have an Air Heater to take the chill off your rooms these crisp mornings and evenings? Take advantage of this opportunity to get an electric heater FREE. With any range you buy you may have your choice of either an "Edison" or a "Royal Rochester" Heater.

ONLY $5 DOWN

No matter what kind of range you wish to purchase, you can have it in your home for only $5.00 down. The balance can be paid for in small amounts monthly. You will be surprised at the short time it will take you to pay for your range and you will scarcely miss the convenient payments.

Investigate Our New Bargain Rates

180 customers were added to the list of users who have taken advantage of our Bargain Rates during the week ending September 22.

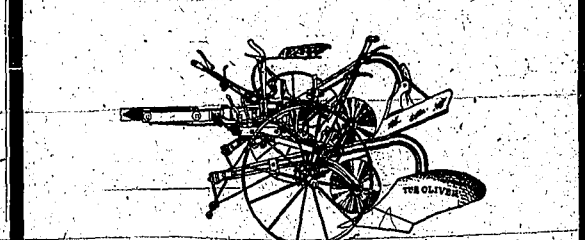

Up to the present time, 112 customers are receiving service under these new optional Bargain Rate Schedules.

It may be decided to your advantage to investigate our Bargain Rates under which all classes of service are furnished through one meter.
