Says
DON'T BE ONE-SIDED ON PROHIBITION

Underneath all this worldly warfare between the wets and the dries and between the noble and free-born souls that enjoy the privilege of getting drunk whenever they please, and the fanatics who want to restrict the people's liberty, lies the question, what, after all, is the net condition of the community here.

For we are not so much interested in crime among the rich and fashionable, nor with the case of the wets and out-crowds who are concerned with the condition of the ordinary average man.

Perhaps it is true, as asserted, by the wets, that the wets drink under prohibition than ever before, more prohibited youths are eating gin in their pockets and a more murderous brand of booze is being consumed.

But the fact remains that the average man who has to work for his living and gets a modest stipend therefor, does not drink liquor simply because he cannot afford it. Much more liquor may be drunk now, but the working man does not care to pay fifty cents or one dollar a quart.

A recent survey made by Prof. Herman Feldman, of Dartmouth College, published in the Christian Science Monitor, establishes the fact that, since the advent of prohibition there has been an amazing increase in the productivity of the wage earner, embracing almost every industry in the country.

For instance, the output of the rubber tree was 129 per cent greater in 1925 than in 1919, and this is a typical instance of the exception to the rule. Labor bodies opposed the passage of the prohibition amendment, but the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics called attention to the almost unbelievable increase in the productivity of the worker during the past few years.

As a matter of fact, the much-cursed prohibition amendment has done more to increase our personal efficiency, and the effort of the wets to increase the productivity of the wets by forcing him to restrict their liberties.

Somewhat more than 100,000,000 bushels of wheat are produced in the world each year, but most of us think that it is more and are willing to pay the price.

WELLNESS NOW MARKETING OF IDAHO SPUD

Wendell Calhoun Reviews Present Situation From Idaho Falls Office—Price Declines

The usual early-winter dullness continued to prevail on potato markets during the past week. Under the slow demand, prices at Idaho shipping points declined another nickel, reports Wendell Calhoun, market news representative of the Federal Department of Agriculture at Idaho Falls. Loaded car lots of No. 1 Russets sold cash track mostly at 85c to 90c, and No. 2 Russets loaded brought around 80c to 85c, with No. 1s selling at 40c to 45c. Trading on No. 1 Russets was almost at a standstill, buyers being unwilling to pay more than 80c or 85c for very few car moving at that figure. Commodity grades of both Russets and Buds have ranged 60c to 75c, according to the quality and percentage of No. 1 stock in the picks.

Handling by the growers has been rather light, as there is not much tendency to sell at present price levels. Bulk Russets, U. S. No. 1, were brought 65c, No. 2, 60c, with a few fancy as high as 70c, while sacked and graded stock brought 80c to 85c. Sacked Buds brought the growers 70c to 80c.

Last week witnessed the heaviest arrival in history of Idaho potatoes in the Chicago market, the total amounting to 290 cars, or about 60 cars per day, and really was the largest shipment of Idaho potatoes in history. Under the pressure of these heavy supplies, the price for No. 1 Russets declined to 80c, while No. 2s were quoted at the same price as Wisconsin while varieties, $1.60 per car, 285 tons per acre, has been raised to $1.25. Since the middle of November, Idaho Russets have declined 25c in Chicago. The total of shipments held steady at the same prices that prevailed three weeks ago. This year, 1927, has brought 60c, a decline on Russets has probably been due to the quality, as well as the quantity of the Idaho crop, as a large part of the arrivals have been of off-grade stock. During the last five weeks, the arrivals of Idahos in Chicago were 100 cars per day, and while a year ago they averaged only 16 cars per day, or a 21-car-per-day increase, the heavy shipments out of Idaho over this period have shown an increase over the last year of 28 cars per day, so it appears that the greater part of the Idaho crop is being sent to Chicago.

CO-OPERATIVE WOOL POOL SETTLEMENT SHOWS HIGH AVERAGE PRICE
An average of 39.12 cents per pound for the wool of the Twinland Empire was received by the co-operative wool pool, and the average price received for these growers was 31.34 cents per pound, or 24 cents less than the average price the association member-owners received.

THE AGE OF SHEEP BY NEW METHOD
Many persons connected with wool growing and buying will consider that it is a bold assertion to make that the age of a sheep can be approximately told by its wool. After many careful examinations of the wool of sheep of different ages, it is confidently asserted that there are peculiar indications in the way by which the staple are held together by the mattedness of the wool.

MARKET GRADES TO BE SUBJECT

Will Take Up Topic at Central Western Shippers Session Here

Market grades of Idaho potatoes will be discussed at the fourteenth regular meeting of the Central Western Shippers Advisory Board which will convene at Twin Falls, December 14.

The very touchy subject of market grades which was so stirred at the local Idaho potato raisers and shippers during the last year and has caused an upset in several political situations will be given a national hearing and aspect when the Central Regional Advisory Board meets here.

The Idaho shippers last week slightly exceeded the 100-car-percentage mark, amounting to a total of 612, compared with 378 a year ago. Passings to Southern California amounted to 60 cars, being attracted by a slight improvement in prices at Los Angeles, where Russets sold at $1.00 to $1.05. The total of shipments averaged 50 cars per day, compared with 43 last week, 670 last year, and 285 tons per acre, has been raised to $1.25.

ANVIL SOLO

BY ANDY HAMMER

Cooperation on the part of farmers is the silliest, old fogy idea that ever oozed from the cracked cranium of a hayseed.

Cooperative marketing is in the same class with cooperative itch, mumps & ingrowing toe nalls. The more you have of it the worse you are off.

Look at the mess the beet growers of the Twinland Empire got into when they cooperated & got a 5000 acre batch of sugar beets and jacked the price up 2 8 bucks per ton. The poor numskulls might have known that we would have a bumper crop dumped pellmell on top of an outlandish high price & choke the beet grower 2 death almost with more money than is good for any hayseed 2 have.

Cooperative marketing is all right as long as it consists of hot air arguments at the country store. When the farmers take themselves seriously & actually go 2 working the cooperative game in earnest, it is time 2 bust the whole kaboodle in the snoot.

Money was never intended for farmers to play with. Any self respecting rubic ought 2 be satisfied with working 18 hours a day without having 2 jump around like a toad balancing a red-hot poker on his nose, finishing ways 2 spend his surplus cash.

LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE RATES

Effective December 1, 1927

On all calls from points in the territory of The Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company to points in the territory of any other associated Bell Company.

Reductions in Rates to Distant Points
The greater the distance, the greater the reduction. For example, from Phoenix to Boston the basic station-to-station rate for three minutes is reduced from $10.00 to $8.00; from Denver to Boston, $7.75 to $6.50; from Boise to Miami, $10.10 to $8.25; from Helena to New York, $10.00 to $7.00; from Salt Lake City to Boston, $9.10 to $7.50; from Cheyenne to Boston, $7.20 to $6.25.

Many Evening Rates Reduced
The evening rates (applying from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.) between the points affected will be reduced to a level about half the evening night rates and the new day rates. In order to minimize congestion during the night hours the night rates in use after 8:30 p. m. will be held at approximately their present levels.

Service Features Retained
The improvements in service features made last year—longer evening and night discount periods, reversal privilege on station-to-station calls, etc.—remain in effect.

These new reductions will save the telephone users of the United States an additional $1,500,000 annually.

forms of life: that every stem and leaf is a laboratory for building up starches and sugars destroyed in the maintenance of animal life, building these out of nothing but carbon dioxide, water vapor and ultra-violet light—nothing but gases and sunlight.

INVESTIGATE BEFORE YOU INVEST

Pay time, that all-important time to most people, is here for the Idaho farmer. Fortunately or unfortunately the farmer does not receive the pecuniary results of his labor at stated intervals of times. He grows his crop, it all gets ripe at once, he markets it and receives therefor money which usually represents his year's work.

Idaho has been particularly favored this year with large, money bringing crops. All sections of the state are engaged in marketing products and obtaining the cash therefor. It is only necessary to pick up newspapers from the agricultural communities in order to read of specific instances where farmers have received many thousands for their various crops.

Most of us can read and included in the group are those who would profit from the Idaho farmers' profit by taking his hard earned money for purely speculative purposes. Idaho is probably no more infested with these smooth-tongued, high pressure salesmen than any other state but the possibility of their preying on the people of a state which has just enjoyed agricultural prosperity prompted M. B. Yeaman of Idaho Falls, chairman of the Publicity Committee of the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce, to bring the matter before the directors at a recent meeting.

Mr. Yeaman said he thought the people of the state should be warned against such persons who, he said, were operating in the state. At his suggestion the State Chamber interviewed E. W. Porter, State Commissioner of Finance, who not only concurred with Mr. Yeaman but added the following comment:

"One of the most certain signs of high-pressure salesmanship is the ever present desire for immediate action. He who hesitates is lost," he will tell you. "Don't confer with your banker, he wants to keep your money in his bank so he can profit therefrom. He cares nothing for your welfare." Just a little thought along this line, if indulged in, will show the falsity of these oft-repeated statements. Your banker is very much and selfishly interested in your prosperity. He cannot run a bank profitably with only bankrupts for patrons. The more prosperous his patrons become, the greater his satisfactory volume of business. It is very much to his interest as a banker that you invest such funds as you may have in such a way as to be most profitable to you. The rush act should therefore be regarded as a danger signal of the reddest kind. Stop right there or you will probably have a long time in which to regret the loss of hard earned money. A conference with your banker, or with any other qualified business man with whom you are acquainted and in whom you have confidence, can never be of any harm to you at such a time. There is no especial reason why any legitimate matter should not be carefully and thoroughly investigated before investing funds therein. Even if it takes a week or two weeks or even a month to satisfy yourself, it will be found highly advantageous to consume that much time. It is very likely indeed that after the full investigation is made, your money will be retained safely in your pocket or in the bank.

"One who speculates has at least a right to a run for his money. The chance may be one in a thousand, but he ought to be given that chance. The investor should carefully enquire into every phase of the matter before turning his funds over for any purpose."

BUILDERS AND DESTROYERS

Men are instinctively creatures of action. The latent forces pent up in a man's sub-conscious mind impel him to build or tear down.

Communities are known as the home of boosters or knockers, optimists or pessimists. Boosters and optimists are builders. Knockers and pessimists are destroyers.

Optimism and boosting, to be effective must be intelligently directed. Facts must be faced and issues squarely met. The idiotic ostrich with its head under its wing, oblivious to approaching danger is a sample of misdirected optimism. The chronic knocker and perpetual calamity howler is a sample of misdirected conservatism.

The Twinland Empire is a striking example of intelligent optimism. The project was put over in the face of the relentless opposition of pessimists and knockers. Yet it stands out as a towering mountain peak of irrigation engineering and productiveness in the chain of development projects.

The Twinland Empire is a wonderful place in which to live and work. While we are waiting for opportunities for new payrolls and expansion let us improve the time by working out the most effective type of community programs.

Right now we might begin a survey of the actual conditions of want in our midst. The average methods of dispensing charity are often very expensive and sorely inadequate. Many undeserving are leaching the public conscience while many deserving suffer in silent silence.

Self respecting people are always anxious to know of deserving folks who need a helping hand.

Every community should attend to the very important matter of dispensing its charities through a central organization, equipped to keep fully informed regarding every charitable case.

The majority of cases need only a temporary lift and an opportunity to help themselves. The modern methods of caring for the needy undertake to make the unfortunate self supporting and thus self respecting. The impostor is thus compelled to go to work or starve as he deserves.

A movement to co-ordinate all charitable efforts into a systematic year round program would meet with universal approval.

GOD IS GOOD TO IDAHO

We wonder if all of our folks realize the great calamity that fell upon thousands of our brother farmers throughout the northern part of New England because of the terrible floods. The Vermont State College of Agriculture estimates that 16,000 dairy cattle were destroyed in that one state alone. The loss of other property, much of which belonged to farmers, was so great that it has not yet been possible to estimate it, but it will run into millions of dollars. Nearly as many lives were lost as there were in the great Mississippi floods of last spring. Hundreds of thrifty Vermont farmers fairly prosperous before the floods are now actually dependent upon charity. In Montpelier along 7,000 people were driven from their homes and $3,000,000 damage done.

MAN MUST HAVE SUNLIGHT

All down the ages, man has been seeking the sun. He is seeking it today. Let there be more than one or two rainy or cloudy days, and there is meanness and irritation because the sun does not shine. The sun clears away the murkiness and establishes a bright and pleasant atmosphere. This is not all it does by any means; in fact, it is of infinite more importance than man has known; he has only begun to find out in recent years the wonderful life-giving properties the sun has.

Present day conditions of city life, with the huge office buildings shutting off light from each other, have caused man to increase the size of windows from comparatively small openings to glazed openings several yards in extent. Men have found that there is a definite relation between light and health.

It is not merely light that is wanted for better health, but a particular kind of light: sunlight—the direct rays of the sun. It is the ultra-violet rays of the sun that are beneficial; it is these rays that burn and tan the skin, not the heat of the sun. Furthermore, ordinary window glass filters out, or prevents, these ultra-violet rays from passing through.

Architects, doctors and chemists now know these facts and are beginning to apply them. Already architects are proposing that skyscrapers, apartment houses, hotels, or any human habitation be built of a glass through which the ultra-violet radiations of the sun may pass. Doctors are using these rays in the prevention and cure of rickets and in fostering better growth in children. Chemists have found that the rays are nature's one means of restoring the chemical energy lost in supplying food for the higher
