

Dr. Crane Says

People spend a great deal of money every year in listening to singers.

But the trouble is they simply listen, they are auditors and not singers.

We like to crowd the bleachers, watch baseball and football and tennis games, and we like to go to the opera and concert and you'd better and learn them sing.

But the best part of singing is the reaction upon the singer himself.

We are notoriously loud singers. We hire chairs in churches to sing for us when we ought to be singing.

It doesn't itself, is the best advice in physical culture.

Let us not have so many things done for us, but do them ourselves, and we will be better off. It may be pleasant to have a masseur or a masseuse work at you, but the best form of exercise is automotor.

High grade small seed grown in Idaho can command a two to three cent premium, and the demand for it is increasing, according to C. E. Ahlson, state seed commissioner and University of Idaho extension agent.

Mr. Ahlson points out, is a premium offered on poor quality seed and he says, the answer this fact is fully commensurate with the fact that more growers realize greater return on clover and alfalfa seed.

Publicly received at the International Grain and Hay show in Chicago and the initiation of a verified seed grower by the United States department of agriculture have been largely responsible for this fact.

There is no better healthful exercise than singing, provided we do the singing ourselves.

Public school records tell us that almost any number of youths can be taught to sing, and it is an art which should all cultivate.

There is no better music than congregational singing.

The Germans, all of them, can sing their national hymns, and the British non-conformist congregations.

One man buys Million Dollars Worth of Cars

The man bought a million dollars worth of Chrysler cars in one year. In a letter to the Chrysler company he tells why.

It is the Standard City Sales Agency in Itasca, Minn., which operates it about 60 cities. Mr. Saunders states that his cars are the highest quality, and that the fact the thousands of drivers use them, and are not too careful in handling them either.

Another quality, price and ease of handling are what make Chrysler's popular with our countrymen. A careful check of all mileage, and we find that Chrysler gives 15 per cent more mileage on a dollar's worth, and also a reduction of 30 per cent in depreciation and maintenance.

The fact that the cars obtained even in the worst of weather conditions, and lots of times the drivers trust the car better.

Our experience has shown that our cars are driven over twenty million miles yearly. And that is why the adding of more cars. They stand up under any condition; are popular with the drivers; and are the cheapest to maintain.

There is a high degree of probability that the farm population in certain States, some Eastern and some Western, had begun to decrease one or two decades before 1910. The drop, therefore, in farm population is a phenomenon which had begun in some States before the war.

Secretary Jardine declared that after a study of 1,127 persons leaving the city for farms during the same eight-year period, it was found that 87 per cent had previously had some farm experience. There is no way of knowing exactly "this would indicate," said the report, "whether the loss of farm population to cities is leaving a poorer class of farmers on the farms or a better class. WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE. Palmyra Tree and her parents, with Palmyra's two sisters, Mrs. Doree Rogers and John Thurston and some other friends, are cruising on the Yacht Rainbow.

Palmyra's startled by seeing a hand thrust in through the port of her cabin, makes a secret investigation and discovered that the man was so mild in appearance that she is disappointed—and tells him so. He commands her to place him on deck. She obeys and sees a huge, fierce, copper-headed man—with a tan cap, knifed hands, grinning face.

Burke, the steward, explains that this is a joke. But Palmyra is shaken. Next day, Burke, and the crew, bring up a dead whale. The stowaway entertains them with wild tales of an adventurous life—which his "kitchen" refuses to believe.

One short week ashore and the good ship Rainbow was back again. Board she was now on the heart of Oceania, the Equatorial Sea of Micronesia. On the way was just John Thurston, aboard a Philippine transport at Guam, only a little shouting, and the horses, would care there in the Gilberts, the Marshalls, the Carolines, that Milky Way of stables along the Line, of which Palmyra Burke had talked so alluringly.

What Mrs. Crawford did NOT explain was that the real duty, on the long legs of a chance, in this less cramped setting of Honolulu, to make love to her lover.

Van Thornly had not explained that the real duty, on the long legs of a chance, in this less cramped setting of Honolulu, to make love to her lover.

The sailing master was a man, Van, self-important, jealous of his prerogative, touchy as to his dignity. Not understanding Mrs. Crawford's motive, he chose to regard the arrangement as an imposition upon his seamanship, his fitness—which he himself doubted—longer to command.

Van Van, in self-enclosed, frosty, was conscious only that he had placed his betrothed in the hands of death, that he must save her, if he found conceivably.

He rushed toward the cabin companionway. Before anyone had time to follow, he had thrown it open in the face of another sea. A second later he was swept down his steps by the flooding water.

Mr. Mason's flock lambled out 170 per cent, which can be considered average or better.

TOM BLODGETT

Through tear-dimmed eyes there were perceived, regarding the death of Tom Blodgett, whose name has headed the masthead of this publication since it was founded. He staged a losing battle for the continuance of only a few more years of the life he loved well. Struck down in his early fifties, he has left eloquent monuments on every hand to a brilliant career that was not yet done.

"A builder, an Enthusiast, an Optimist, he blazed new footpaths for hundreds of his followers, and opened opportunity's door for many who groped for light."

An eloquent and convincing speaker, he translated into easily-understood language the truths of the Bible and of life, so that all might know. His facile pen formed words of powerful meaning that stamped his writings with trenchant interest and constructive thought. His editorials and other writings bore the mark of his individuality and carried no less influence than his eloquence.

Tom Blodgett long ago hitched his yuglar to a star. He strove, he labored and achieved, the while encumbered with ailments, from which he was never known to outwardly complain.

And now this brave man is gone; and those left must carry on. He taught us to Work, to Build, to Believe and to Achieve; to give more than we get; to originate; to never quit and to Love, Laugh and Live!

He lived life and enjoyed the game he played so well. He believed in Idaho and its great future. His present abode was the Twinland Empire, which name he coined. His influence remains; his philosophy guides those who were his associates.

The Idaho Citizen, of course, will go on, carrying out not only the expressed desire of its founder, but on lines well-laid out by him in preparation for the inevitable.

These hurried expressions are the sentiments of the staff and of the publishing company for their stricken chief, whose expected death is today a solemn and grim reality.

WEATHER FORECASTS

Fame and fortune await the man who can discover some method of making accurate long-range weather forecasts. Such a weather prophet would fill all the hire he asked if he could tell how much rain would fall here next October. He would save the farmers a great deal of money and worry.

The Chief of the United States Weather Bureau in Washington recently made himself the center of a word storm because he denied the ability of weather prophets to make such long-range forecasts with any degree of accuracy.

Official forecasters do not pretend to foretell the weather for more than a week or so ahead, and two or three days is nearer their normal prophecy. But at that there may be some method of telling, either thru mere conjecture, what the temperature and rainfall will be for months ahead. If there is any such method, its discovery would be farm relief of the best possible kind.

TO AND FROM THE FARM

The United States Department of Agriculture recently made a survey, covering 2,746 persons who moved to the cities from the farms, and 1,167 persons who recently moved from cities to farms. The reasons given for moving are interesting.

About one-third of those who left the farms did so because they could not make farming pay. One-fourth left the farms because they were physically disabled in some way. One farmer in every forty interviewed left the farm for the city because he was financially able to retire. About two-thirds of the 1,167 who moved to the farms did so because they thought better conditions for both children and parents were to be found there. Some of the other reasons given were that the persons found the cost of living too high in the city; that they wanted the independent life of the farm; and that they were tired of city life.

Another interesting thing brought out by the survey was the tendency for the younger people to move to the farm and for the older to move to cities.

Beggars in Brussels have to keep books, but here they have to keep moving.

They're teaching convicts trades now, but they probably won't make traveling salesmen out of any of them. It's hard to see how even a groundhogg could predict the kind of weather we're having.

The Hilldale grade school boys' and girls' basketball teams took both the home and away games Friday night with the Hazelton school. With the Hazelton school at the Hilldale field on Friday afternoon in two practice games. The Hilldale girls won by a large score, 10 to 5, while the boys played a much closer game with a 5 to 2 score. As weather conditions, the forecast of the week made practice impossible, the opening of the season for the grade schools of the North Side was postponed a week, so the practice game was arranged for late Thursday. Hilldale will meet Hazelton Lane on the latter's field next Friday in an opener, and Hazelton will travel to Eden for the initial contest. Both boys' and girls' teams will play.

More than twenty-five farmers of the Hilldale district south of Eden here expressed their approval of the plan to build a power line. The Idaho Power Company for the furnishing of electric lights and power to the district. The Hilldale district meetings have been held the past few months by these farmers and representatives of the Power Company at the district meetings. Estimates of building the required amount of line and other necessary equipment were a most cooperative effort. The approval of those interested with the result that contracts are now being placed with the Hilldale district for the Idaho Power Company, has spent some little time here the past month getting more farmers interested so that their expense could be cut down to the minimum. Two miles of new pole line will be built between Eden and the present line that serves Eden two miles south past the Hilldale school house where the line will reach the high tension line that traverses the northside tract. Electric service will be furnished to the Hilldale district. The Hilldale district is now being served by the Hilldale power line, five miles southwest of Eden. The high tension line has traversed the section for some time since 1912, but the cost of reducing the voltage has always been the hindrance until recently when sufficient number of farmers have asked for service enough to justify the expense.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

100 Ninth Avenue East
"Healing" is the subject of the lesson sermon in all churches of Christ Scientists Sunday, March 26. Golden texts: Philippians 4:8. Whatever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, and if there be any thing that is commended among men, let us think on these things. Among the citations which comprise the lesson sermon is the following from the Bible: That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit. John 3:6.

The lesson sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Believe and Health with key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. A mortal belief fulfills its own conditions. Sickness, sin, and death are signs of mortal belief. Love is the reality of divine science. They dawn in faith and glow full-blown in spiritual understanding. Page 297.
