TEACHERS WILL INVADE CITY ON OCTOBER 12-13

Annual Institute to Take Place in Twin Falls With 900 in Attendance

Approximately 800 teachers from eight counties in southern Idaho will assemble in Twin Falls October 12 and 13. This was arranged at a recent meeting in Shoshone where superintendent and principals from P. A. Cannan, Blaine, Minidoka, Cassia, Gooding, Jerome, Lincoln, and Twin Falls counties met.

Departmental features are being arranged for the program with instructors from various schools in the district taking part in the discussion. It is primarily an educational meeting, efforts relating to improvement of the school system being considered. There will be round-table discussions on the following subjects: Departmental and departmental assemblies.

A good entertainment program will be provided for this institute which will be an important convention for Twin Falls this fall. Expenses will be cared for jointly by the eight counties, the Idaho Education association and the Twin Falls chamber of commerce.

Prominent educational leaders in the district, including President Frederick J. Kelly of the University of Idaho, W. D. Vincent, state commissioner of education; Mrs. Mabelle Allen, state superintendent of public instruction; D. A. Stinson, president of the Idaho Education association; John Hillman, executive director of the Idaho Education association; R. E. Shepherd of Jerome, president of the state chamber of commerce.

On the basis of a questionnaire sent out to all teachers in the district, there will be special emphasis on departmental sessions, inspirational meetings being less popular with the teachers. Demonstrations and round-table discussions were the most popular.

The school trustees of the district will also hold meetings.

OFF TO COLLEGE

The last few days have seen many young people leave Twin Falls and nearby towns for school districts in other parts of the state to the University of Idaho, either by way of Minidoka, where they were to meet the University's next carrying students, Hattie Pettello and other parts of South Idaho, or by auto to Shoshone or other points.

Several Hurt In Car Mishap

Three women and two young boys featured in an automobile accident at Plover, Thursday night, when one of the cars was demolished and the other one badly damaged. Mrs. G. C. Barton and her mother, Mrs. C. W. Nelson were in one car, with Mrs. Virginia and her young brother, Nelson, 10, and Willard, 12, in the other.

Mrs. Barton was approaching the main highway from the south, when she was struck by a car that was coming from the north. Thinking she could get by before the Nelson car reached the crossing, she drove onto the highway. The Nelson car struck the Barton's Studebaker, tearing it to shreds and putting the occupants in a panic. Mrs. Barton was struck on her knees, body and neck; Virgil had three teeth knocked out; Willard was lacerated, and had his mouth badly hurt and arm. The small boy was thrown from the car.

Dismiss Charges Against Solicitor

Sanction was given at a meeting in Twin Falls Thursday by representatives of the Idaho state insurance department, the Metropolitan Automobile association of California, and O. W. Vaham, county attorney, for the California branch to enroll members in Idaho.

Several weeks ago, M. R. Arnold, agent for the company, was arrested on charges of securing memberships in the company without a license. He had been charged by the state insurance department with violating terms of the Idaho insurance license law. The insurance department moved Thursday to dismiss the charges against him and the case ended without trial in the district court where it was scheduled for hearing.

FIRST POTATOES SHIPPED

The first car of Idaho Rural potatoes left Rupert several days ago, bound for the market. The Farmers' Bonded Warehouse, Inc. contained 30,000 pounds, graded No. 1, and brought the gross receipts for the season to $100,000. The initial carload was followed by several others from Rupert and Burley, mostly to Colorado.

Former Twin Falls People File Lawsuit

Heirs of K. S. Peters, former manager of the Twin Falls Building and Loan association, are instituting a lawsuit in California over an award of $6000 from the California Industrial accident commission. Peters was found dead in his automobile in Deer Valley in the summer of 1926. Investigation revealed that he had probably died of over-exercion, heat prostration and intoxication. The original members of the California accident commission made an award of $6000 to Peters' heirs, but these members retired, and afterwards were succeeded by commissioners who refused to grant the heirs the award. The heirs are now suing the California Building and Loan association, which was in charge of the insurance at the time of Peters' death. The amount of the award, The California Industrial accident commission claims Peters did not die under the jurisdiction of the California accident award.

BEAN GROWERS TO MEET AGAIN TUESDAY NIGHT

A mass meeting of bean growers and dealers has been called for Tuesday night in Turley hall, Twin Falls, by E. N. Pettigrove of Hansen, chairman of the special committee. The meeting is being called to present information on the bean production and marketing situation in California, Colorado, Michigan and other important bean growing states in order that a fair beginning price for the crop can be determined.

While the general sentiment at the two meetings previously held was in favor of a higher beginning price this year than was received in 1927, the meeting agreed on the advice of John S. Welch, state commissioner of agriculture, who was general chairman. Mr. Welch urged the committee to be very earnest in reaching its decision, as well as those who were at the meeting last week.

The committee sent telegraphic inquiries to bean growers, dealers, bankers and other interested in the enterprise, asking for different judgments on the situation. This information will be presented at the meeting Tuesday night, on the basis of which the growers will likely reach some agreement as to the beginning price of the year's crop. E. C. Montgomery, Hazelton, is secretary of the committee.

Get Half of Quota First Day

In the first day's campaign of committees to raise funds for the Civil Service fund for the coming year, more than half of Twin Falls' quota of $1250 was collected. A total of $977.50 was reported by the committees. The campaign for the second day was postponed until Monday.

Other towns in the Twin Falls district, including Eden, Hazelton, Hild, Filer, Kimberly and Hansen, are raising their quota by means of public entertainment nights. The district had $2000 to raise. Miss Elizabeth Hillek of the National Entertainment League from New York to assist in putting over the campaign.

Plans for this were worked out at a hotel meeting the day before the drive started, with representatives from all towns in the district represented.

Her body was charred beyond recognition when the baby was saved by a nurse who combated the blaze. Burial was made Friday.

DUHL AROUSED OVER LIGHTING

Discussion Tackles Several Sides at Council Meet in West End Town

Considerable discussion has been given to lighting systems for the city. At last week's meeting where it was scheduled to come up for consideration, the city council and by visiting citizens and lawyers representing the city and the Fairbanks-Morse company who are behind the proposition.

Mayor Amos Howard who has opposed the idea from the beginning, and held the matter over from the previous meeting, all argued against it on the grounds that the contract offered by the Fairbanks-Morse company sets a limit on what the rates for power may be by that time of the year. He also argued that for several other reasons it is not for the best interests of Buhl. Council for the company, its representative and a number of citizens argued for the measure, producing testimony to show that similar power plants in other cities, provided by the Dept. of Engineering, had been built on an ordinance calling for a municipal election to decide the issue. The council voted for an election to be held November 4. Three councilmen approved it, one opposed it, and by Mayor Howard refused to sign the ordinance, it will come for another discussion this week.

RADIO CARRIES SMITH SPEECH FROM DENVER

Local People Hear Nominee
Pronounce Right of States to Water Resources as Against Exploitation

If Governor Alfred F. Smith's western trip is being made to arouse popular appeal in behalf of his candidacy for president, his travels are probably counting in great success. At Omaha in the heart of the midwest, where Republican power is so great, at Oklahoma City he was nearer frontier territory where the south has a reputation for its share in the Civil war. There, the hosts of Democracy gave their nominee a victorious welcome. In each city his speech was broadcast on the airwaves for the first time for local reception.

Those in Denver he received the greatest approval of all as he proclaimed to the people of Colorado, to the western states and to the country in general that the potential water power of streams that originate within their respective states is the inherent property of the people of those states and should not be turned over for confiscation by private interests.

Listeners in the radio-Saturday night heard the New York governor arraign President Coolidge for ignoring the nation's most important project, vetting or pigeon-holing all congressional legislation that intended its development for private profit. He declared, "It is a most vital opportunity for the manufacture of cheap power in the face of the country." He promised that, if elected, he would immediately assemble all data available on this subject and endeavor to put it to use in manufacturing fertilizer as a beneficial farm measure.

The governor's reference to Boulder river brought forth a chorus of shouting applause to the audience gathered at a local radio shop. His uncompromising denunciation of private enterprise in the waters of the Colorado river are entitled to determine his ownership of the right to determine the stand of the Republican nominee, Governor Smith asserted, "I am not in favor of private development and control of the project instead of leaving it as the rightful heritage of the state." He said that the Colorado river is "the source of the Colorado river life."

Ten minutes of continuous applause greeted the New York governor as he finished his speech in Denver audience. His speech was frequently broken by the cheer, which was heard distinctly throughout the city. When he closed with a ringing appeal for Democratic victory on November 6, giving his own pledge to fulfill the promises he has made to guarantee the interests of the people from exploitation of their resources by private enterprises, the din continued anew for several minutes.

Governor Smith and his party traveled through Cheyenne, Cheyenne and Casper in Wyoming to Helena, Montana, where he was scheduled to deliver the fourth address of his campaign. He was met and state of Senator Thomas J. Walsh who expressed the oil deal which he has been given by members of President Harding's cabinet. From Helena he returns eastward, speaking at St. Paul, before going on to attend the New York state convention, ending the journey that has taken him through the middle part of the country.

Bryan Shows G. O. P. Dragged in Liquor Issue to Divert Voters from Real Question: Farm Relief

Fake Contest is Staged on Insistence of Republicans: Anti-Saloon League and the Mellon-Vare Big Bill Crowd, on the Other, Get Contradictory Private Tips: Tables Show Tariff on Agricultural Products Inoperative; Party in Power Sullied by Liquor and Anti-Labor Laws.

By JAMES D. WHELAN
In my last article one of the things that happens in the best regulated newspaper offices occurred: a quotation of former Governor Charles W. Bryan, of Nebraska, leading Democratic prohibitionists of that state and brother of the Great Commodore, dragged out some where, leaving the thing hanging in the air. The last quotation read: "The prohibition issue which I have objected to having injected into national campaigns was brought to the fore by the Republican party in order to befuddle the public and lead them away from the real issue of the campaign, an economic one, specifically farm relief."

Republican Theory Examined
On this matter of farm relief I propose to examine the Republican theory that farmers are prosperous, that the protective tariff as maintained under Republican administration has made them so and that the election of a Republican president would destroy this state of satisfactory existence. I shall prove beyond doubt with protectionist Republican authority that the tax of 42 cents is not collected by farmers, and the result of it is the inference of Governor Smith in his Omaha speech that a tariff of 31-42 would likewise be collected, and supplemented by the other which the Republican party has not collected and which we have reason to believe it will not collect.

The Real Issue
A review of the history of the past couple of years will show that the statement of Charles W. Bryan that prohibition was injected by Republicans to divert attention is correct. Senator William E. Borah—who consistently was in with the trusts while his vice counts and who voted for more coal measures than any other senator including an resolutions of Curtis; and Nicholas Murray Butler, leading intellectual wet Republican, also an economic reactionary, simultaneously took the position that the question of the maintenance of the Eighteenth amendment was questioned. They debated the matter as to whether the parties should uphold the amendment or favor its repeal. Neither party of sustaining candidates, and Nicholas Murray Butler, in the issue of the repeal of the amendment, which was brought to some extent the personal attention of the candidates; Hoover said it was a "great experiment" to be tried out. Smith said personally he favored a modification and would recommend this for consideration of congress. The Republican party said it favored enforcement of the amendment, and Hoover acquiesced. The Democrats demanded enforcement of the amendment and "sustaining laws" and prohibition.

up the situation in the light of these facts, in the following way, speaking of the difference between the Democratic and Republican parties on prohibition: "It is a fake contest between the modification program of Governor Smith on one side and continued nullification by the Republican party on the other." In other words, for a real program, though mistaken one, and an impregnable one, while in the case of the farmers' tariff, the Republican party stands in fact for continuation of unenforced laws and principles. Charlie Bryan is right.

Ask Kinder's Advice
The Republican national committee through a subsidiary organization has started a movement offering prizes to school children for essays on the subject "How to Enforce the Eighteenth Amendment." Some Democrats are objecting to it on the ground that this is intended to identify the present administration and the Republican nominee on the Mellon-Vare Big Bill ticket in the minds of uninformed youngsters with prohibition as a first objective. However, it is probably intended to secure needed information, the very form of the subject is a confession that the amendment is not enforced under the present regime. An interesting school pupil could tell how to enforce the amendment if it were enforced by federal officials. The subject of the essay should be "How to Enforce the Eighteenth Amendment, President." In order that they may understand the will to be enforced, the writers to the "Dixie" Republic national convention at Kansas City in order to get a line on how the federal government is enforcing it and the amendment. This convention was "the worst thing since Noah's flood." Being to greater alcoholic content in the G. O. P. session deluge it was possible to get a much kick in three days as the patriots did in 40 days and 40 nights, and Mabel Whiteley said they did not get a farm relief.

is wise even on the part of those who think adjustment of protection. If practicable, better to meet the condition with emergency legislation, which can be enacted. This will not be passed by Republicans who make the same pledge in the same words that they made four years ago. It can only be enacted by a combination of all Democrats with all progressive Republicans, and will be signed only by a Democratic president. Protectionism Dismayed
The ultimate extinction of protectionism in no way depends on the result of the election in November. It contains the germs of death within it and these are undermining its stamina steadily and inevitably. In 1921, after Harding's great victory, the National Tariff Institute put forth a work by the general protectionist writer James Thompson, "Protection Our Proper Vocation Policy," contained in the prospectus of the system is varied through most of the book, but on page 137, McCleary quotes the following from a New York bank circular: "Farmers receive about $14,000,000,000 annually, a great deal more before the act of the election in November. There are only two ways to pay world trade debt within it and these are un-

"ELECTRICITY, THE MODERN HIRED MAN"

"The day when farmers will be able to lie in bed on Sunday morning and merely press a button to get most of their work done, seems to be approaching reality," says the Universal Farmer.

"Nowadays it is practical, where rural transmission lines bring electricity to the farm, to milk the cows, separate the cream, grind and mix the feed, bale and dry the hay, etc."

"Uses of electricity in the farm home seem to have no limit. Vacuum cleaners, sewing machines, and many other devices, simplify what formerly were laborious tasks for the farm woman."

"Electricity is doing for the farm what it has done for the factory and the modern home—performing better work at less cost, with immeasurably increased efficiency, and without the back-breaking labor of the past."

URGES FEEDING POTATOES

Potato growers in Idaho and many other states of the country, at present, are racking their brains for a solution of the problem which finds them with hundreds of millions of bushels of potatoes on their hands and no market for them.

James Withrow of Moorhead, Minn., is one of those growers and after studying the situation he wrote a letter to the Chicago Packer, trade newspaper, advocating the feeding of potatoes to livestock until the market will bring at least the cost of production.

It was but a short arithmetical problem for him to show that the 70 to 80 cents offered on the Chicago markets would not pay the freight and handling charges so he concluded that under the existing circumstances the sensible thing to do is feed the surplus to livestock. He writes:

"Potatoes contain large quantities of starch and are the best and cheapest fat-producing product we have. Under the present prices for livestock feedstuffs will bring the farmer around 40 to 50 a bushel when used to fatten hogs and steers. They are also good for milk cows when fed raw, and a few feed to horses, each evening, will keep their digestion and coats in good condition."

There are many large kettles on the market for potatoes are easily cooked. When mixed with ground barley oats or corn meal, they will be eaten readily by hogs and cattle and the amount of gain will bring good prices for the feed consumed. Hogs and cattle will also eat them raw if they are ground or broken. This is necessary, particularly when feeding cattle, to prevent them from choking.

The sensible thing for the farmers to do is to store their highest quality seed potatoes and not attempt to market any second rate potatoes under any circumstances as that will only overburden an already glutted market."

A man in Chile who had been married fourteen times died the other day at the age of ninety. He should be laid to rest with military honors.

There are "wets" and "drys" but most of our politicians seem to be either "dry wets" or "wet drys."

Now that spoken words will take the place of subtitles at the movies, we fear many persons will forget how to read.

Finally all the candidates have been notified of their nominations. We think it was a shame to keep them in suspense so long.

Idaho has 13 cow-testing organizations, with 4,000 cows. Girardelli herd of Holsteins, at Rungt, led all in June, with 1733 pounds milk and 62.6 pounds butterfat per cow.

rock of Gibraltar. Even the White (now Liberty) party leaders joined with the ultra-protectionist Tories (now Conservatives) to denounce the features of a trade treaty established. England had become the great creditor nation, her statesmen in discussions indulged in incantations such as that of Herbert Hoover in Newark Monday night when, after telling how prodigally she had cheap foreign labor would ruin us of admitted, showed some sense of accounting intelligence by adding "I believe in the maintenance of higher standards of living stimulates the development of labor-saving devices, increases skill in the workmen and in this way comes to penetrate for higher wages. It is proving itself as today. WE ARE EXPORTING MORE GOODS ABROAD THAN EVER IN OUR HISTORY." Exporting, of course, to countries with lower wages and living standards.

Of course these exports go to countries with lower wages than ours. In England in 1887 the leading cause of the tariff was the Ricardo and Frederick Bastiat were called more theories by statesmen.

Former debts did unpaid balance upon the heads of both parties and under Sir Robert Peel, Tory protectionist England, in 1840, a tariff of 1840, just ten years after it was fixed by all to be the permanent policy of the nation. Like causes produced the tariff of 1840, a matter that will be determined in the next administration. Dry, it is right; immediate farm relief is the thing to do. And the Republicans will not give it!

The Condition Statement. Here is what Gilbert N. Haugen of Lewiston, chief chairman of the committee on agriculture of the Republican party, said in his report to agricultural conditions of 1927-28:

"There is here no any question in the mind of any one as to the alleged adverse conditions? If so, I commend a copy of this report to the Attorney General's last annual report in respect to the number of cases in bankruptcy. Bankruptcy among the farmers increased from 1910 to 1924, 1,000 per cent as in contrast with others. Yet we are told that conditions have improved."

Farmers are not the only ones affected by the adverse conditions of the farm. To the Comptroller of the Currency's report relative to the farm, we will find that in 1920-20 banks closed their doors and in 1928, the number had increased to 874, an increase of 1,300 per cent in six years; and in 1927 the number had increased to 830, an increase of approximately 1,700 per cent in seven years."

What Tariff? "Democrat" Mr. Haugen then quotes statistics relative to the Republic department of agriculture showing what the farmer did receive and what he would have received on agricultural products had the tariff rest on his prices. Speaking of wheat he says:

Assuming that the tariff is made effective, and the price paid to the level of the tariff would be as follows: If the McNary-Haugen bill had been in operation and the whole crop marketed during the year 1927-28, the wheat grower would have received the Winnipeg price of $1.35 cents a bushel and transportation charges of 3 cents, or a total of $1.38, instead of the Minneapolis price of $1.35, a gain of 50 cents per bushel, minus the equalization fee to cover the lower price of 63 cents per bushel on $1.29, 716,000 bushels exported, or $111,300 to be distributed equally on the 8,600,000 bushels, an equalization fee of $0.125, a net profit per bush-
