THE SNAKE BITE

One by one our traditions are destroyed.

Historians have thrown doubt upon the stories of Romulus and Remus, William Tell, and other figures of the past.

Cold and heartless scientific information has shown that nothing of planting potatoes in the dark of the moon, that the number thirteen is some baleful superstition, a fact that you can walk under a ladder or carry upon umbrellas in the house all you please and it won't hurt you.

And now comes the old belief that is firmly fixed in all of us, that a good dose of whiskey will cure a snake bite.

What alcohol does to you is to quicken the circulation. This spreads the venom more rapidly through the system. Therefore the administration of alcohol, but increases the danger from snake poisoning.

The best thing to do when bitten by a snake is to make an improvised tourniquet above the bite in order to obstruct as much as possible the circulation of the blood from the man's arm.

Long standing Grudge Takes W. O. Tharp in Fratricidal Shooting Affray—Flees Murder Charge

County Attorney O. W. Witham filed charges of first degree murder Wednesday against W. O. Tharp, 51, who killed Mrs. Lois Bowen, about 30 years old, wife of a local farmer, near Bowen, in a quarrel near the latter's home Wednesday morning.

Tharp was arrested on a long-standing grudge between the Tharp, Harry Ross and the Bowen families. This situation was intensified this summer when Tharp was tried and convicted for maliciously hitting and killing a calf which Mrs. Ross was leading in his car and struck the calf, causing injuries from which it died.

Tharp then got into his truck and drove to his house at Bowen, home, he was followed by the Bowen home, he was followed by the Bowen home, he was followed by the Bowen home.

Lad Is Sent to State Pen for Forgery

Albert P. Hale, 10-year-old delinquent, was sentenced Thursday to serve from one to 14 years in the state penitentiary for forging a check for $100.

Officers took young Hale into custody when the suspicious check dealer with whom he was doing business were aroused by the presentation of the deposit receipt. He had presented the check to the bank which accepted it subject to collection. Inquiry made by the motor company, which flour mills revealed the forgery. The officers here collected the receipt for check or small amounts which he had forged on Oakley business houses.

Wyand Case is Now Before District Court

The case of Mrs. Viola Wyand and her four daughters against the Twin Falls Canal company for $45,000 damages for destruction of their husband and father, Oscar Wyand, opened in district court Wednesday because of the failure to secure a venire of jurors.

The plaintiff's charges that Dr. C. E. Ems and J. R. Morgan, who testified as the injured party, were negligent in crossing the street off the regular pedestrian path.

FARM LEADERS BOLT HOOVER

Dyer of Indiana, and Head of Minnesota, Declare for Smith.

RASKOB EXPLAINS POLICY

Democratic Chairman Stresses Need for Program Which Will Bring Farm Prosperity—Urges Tariff Equality.

Further evidence that sentiment for Governor Smith is sweeping the Middle West is contained in the announcement that J. F. Reed, for seven years president of the Minnesota Farm Trust Federation, and John Napier Dyer of Vincennes, Indiana, director in the American Farm Bureau Federation, will support the Democratic candidate for President.

Both Reed and Dyer have been lifelong Republicans. Each has issued a statement setting forth the Republican party as the party which has turned a deaf ear to the farmer and that the championship of the cause of the farmer by Governor Smith now comes into the arena of agriculture to assist in the Democratic forces.

McWhittie, John J. Raskob, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, was asserting the urgent need for a national policy giving the farmer prosperity and tariff equality.

"The greatest assurance for our farm prosperity," Raskob said, "will depend on our ability to increase the purchasing power of the farmer. That can be done through giving the farmer tariff protection, thus putting him on an equality with foreign farmers."

"Cycle of Prosperity." Putting our farms on a profitable earning basis, Mr. Raskob pointed out, would give the farm population, which constitutes 40 per cent of our population, tremendously increased purchasing power.

"Both the platform and the candidate of the Republican party," Mr. Raskob said, "are completely unresponsive to the needs of the farmer."

"Money Compels Endorsement." "The platform of the Democratic party and the endorsement of its candidate upon the question of agricultural equality embrace a definite and clear-cut principle held out to any adequate farm bill plan by myself and the members of the state generally, that farmer and honest countrymen no longer endorse the platform and the candidate of the Democratic party."

"After reciting the failure of the Republican party to keep its pledges to agriculture, and the reputation of the farmer's cause by Herbert Hoover, Mr. Dyer announced that he is quitting the Republican party, 'argued with the lack of honor in the nomination of its own pledges to the American farmer, and I am aligning myself with the Democratic party, with faith in its leader.'

Mr. Dyer, operator of a thousand-acre farm in Knox county, Indiana, also announced that he is a Protestant. He is president of the Knox County Horticultural association, and is one of the leading fruit growers of the county.

Friends of The Citizen, having legal notices to print, will receive a favor by ordering them inserted in this publication."

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE? Simon Judd, amateur detective, was called to investigate the murder of John Drane, oceanic man of wealth, at the Drane place. Suddenly the household is checked to find that John Drane has been murdered. The dead man is first seen by Judd, the maid, and by Amy Drane and Simon Judd. The latter tells...

Police officers call and investigations begin. Dr. Blossington is called and after seeing the murdered John Drane, makes the astounding revelation to Amy Drane that her "uncle" is not a man but a woman.

Dr. Blossington discounts the theory of suicide, saying that Drane was definitely murdered. Dr. Blossington comments on the fact that all the servants in the household of Drane are sick, and that Drane had never discharged a servant for ill health. Dick Brennan, the detective, arrives to investigate the case.

Brennan questions the persons in the house, asking Amy if anyone had any reason to kill her "uncle." "They say you mean that they were sickly?" Amy asked.

"You've not noticed anything queer about the servants?" Brennan asked after a moment. "They say you mean that they were sickly?" Amy asked.

"You're not feeling any better, are you?" Amy asked. "I don't know, I think they are all sickly."

"You don't know of any enemies your uncle had?" "You don't know of any enemies your uncle had?"

You say they ain't got the money, I say that's mighty funny. This is the way it figures out: The Stoker costs $225.00; you've been burning 12 tons lump at $12.00 against 10 tons Stoker coal at $6.50. Saving $79.00 the first year.

Stoker costs $225.00, less $79.00, leaves $146.00 actual cost. Figure that against time deposits in the bank at 4 per cent, then pinch yourself real hard and wake up and see if it pays or not.

PRESIDENTIAL MILLINERY

A Twin Falls county man at Boise last week is reported in the press as having given serious consideration to the question of presidential millinery and issued a statement regarding the famous brown derby of Governor Smith.

"To my mind it is typical of the man and what he represents. The people of Idaho and the west in general which includes all agricultural sections of the country are not interested in the size, color or shape of the hat a presidential candidate is to wear or if he wears a hat at all. We are interested in what presidential candidates are thinking about regarding the economics and the welfare of the country in general."

If this campaign is that of the Republican party in Idaho has been late in coming on the radio the past few nights, he doubtless is more familiar with what the Democratic presidential nominee is thinking about! Furthermore, the state G. O. P. spokesman is quoted in the same "interview" with a view of the following: "I visited the east-side sections of New York some time ago with a friend and in our tour of that section, we did not hear a word of English spoken other than the one we used in conversation among ourselves but we did see many brown derbies being worn by those who evidently do not think enough of the United States of America to learn its language."

SPEEDING UP THE BUSY BEE

What is becoming of our good old-fashioned adages and maxims? "Busy as a bee" has long been a byword. We all brought up regard with admiration the busy bee, but active career of the bee. The bee is an industrious, try, virtue, sobriety. Now we are told the busy bee is little better than a loaf.

Dr. Lloyd R. Watson, pursuing research work at Cornell University, announces that the supposedly busy bee should never be a synonym for conscientious toil. The average bee, he says, works hard for a little while, then knocks off for the day. Dr. Watson is trying to "speed up" the bee now, reducing idleness in the hive.

Well, we hope he succeeds. If he can get the bees to work hard, we may not have to go to the trouble of thinking up a new maxim!

Anyway, many persons who have spoken about being as "busy as a bee," and the truth even though they may have thought they were lying!

THE CITIZEN'S DUTY

One encouraging thing about this political campaign is the indication that a majority will be polled. Everywhere there is deep interest in the political situation. The Straw Vote's are piling up into embourgeois towers. The issues are so important, the careers of the two principal candidates so fascinating and colorful, that everything points to a record number of voters on Election Day.

Let us hope each man and woman will do his or her duty. Let us try to make a real showing this year. So often voters stay away from the polls because of laziness or indifference. They are shirking an important duty.

They cannot delegate their voting power to someone else; they must appear personally to vote or their political sympathies can find no expression. If enough that might vote stay home, the result of the election may be entirely different than it would be if they voted. Every single "X" mark counts. Don't fool yourself that your individual vote means nothing. It means a great deal. It may be your one vote that will contribute much to a turn of the tide in the election.

If you like a candidate, do not hamper his chances by remaining away from the polls on Election Day. To the polls—everyone! Use your franchise! Do your duty as a citizen.

Don't Lose Your Temper
Leading one's temper is dangerous because the heat causes the blood to be forced at such speed and pressure to the brain that a vessel may become burst. Temper has killed many in this way. Reaction too may bring about a collapse.

The lesson sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus taught the way of life by demonstration; that we may understand how this divine Principle heals the sick, casts out evil, and triumphs over death. By his obedience to God, he demonstrated more spiritually than all others the power of being. Hence the force of his admonition, 'If ye love me, keep my commandments.' Page 26. International Sunday School Lesson for September 30 The REVIEW—Devolational Reading Philippines 4:4-8, 19, 20 By Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Pause is given during a six months' course on the life of Paul to relate the lessons of the first quarter. From the vantage point of a review lesson you can fix the general events in your mind after having studied each lesson in detail. Begin by reading from Acts 4 through Chapter 16. This will be decided advantage in having a map before you or in drawing your own outline map, indicating each place named and tracing a journey line connecting the various cities in the three itineraries. Special attention should be given to the first and second journeys. The first journey was to Antioch, Iconium, Lystra, and Derbe. The second journey was to Antioch, Iconium, Lystra, and Derbe. The third journey was to Antioch, Iconium, Lystra, and Derbe.

Effective lessons do not just happen. There must be a possibility of development and then a training in it. In the case of the Sunday School, the lesson must be presented in a way that will lead to a deeper understanding of the text. This can be done by using the lesson as a basis for discussion and by encouraging the students to express their own thoughts and feelings. The teacher should also be sure to provide a clear and concise explanation of the text, and to use illustrations and examples to help the students understand the meaning of the text.

New President Inaugurated at University of Idaho Tuesday

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Sept. 26.—Fundamental adjustment in higher educational methods, which is the first step toward the development of the college to serve most effectively in right kind of a university of education for the youth of Idaho, was pictured by Dr. Frederick J. Kelly, new president of the University of Idaho, in his inaugural address here today afternoon. The new president considered the changes with special reference to the institution which he would inaugurate Tuesday morning. Dr. L. D. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota, for many years a friend and colleague of President Kelly, discussed the present state of a state university in a similar higher educational system, and the two addresses dovetailed to indicate the foundation upon which the future program of the University of Idaho—likely—will be developed.

Dr. Kelly's philosophy of higher education, which he pictured completely in the new university, is one representing all sections of Idaho, contains three fundamental principles: He feels that there is closer cooperation between the various stages in education from the primary grades through to college and the graduate schools. He is particularly concerned at present, however, with the relationship of high school and college. He feels the need for changing the view that high school is a place where one phase of the educational procedure, in finishing school and college where another is commenced.

Probably the college should be divided more definitely into lower and upper divisions, the first of which, dovetailing with the high school, should continue to be a liberalizing point for a considerable proportion of students who now are college-bound for many years to no new center. The senior division then would be organized for those young people with sufficient training to enter a profession or to specialize in a large amount of independent study.

Dr. Kelly's hope for the evolution of the University of Idaho an institution in which students will assume greater responsibility in gaining their education. He feels that very early in life the student should be made to feel that the responsibility for obtaining an education and fitting himself for life and the job of earning a living is his own.

The Idaho president would like to emphasize in education "off-teaching," where it is not "learning," but "learning" by "doing." Assuming the duties of president, Dr. Kelly said, "I feel that the first step toward the cooperation of the faculty, the basic philosophy of American higher education I feel compelled to turn into a reality. I feel that inquiry upon all the traditions and current practices of higher education is necessary. I feel that we must be prepared to follow the truth as it is, and that the administration is for the laboratory of research."

"America has staked her future on free and independent education," declared the president of the man, one of America's best known college presidents. "The test is whether in this era of physical science with its demands for material comforts, its attempts to standardize the processes of life, and its tolerance of unfamiliar social practices, will it still endeavor to pursue the truth where truth leads and to teach it when it is unpopular. If Idaho is to be a true and that—end—done—she will be truly a distinguished university."

The inauguration of Dr. Kelly was an all-Idaho affair, with citizens from all parts of the state attending. In planning the inauguration they were given their place ahead of educators from other institutions, which is unique in Idaho. President inaugurations, Governor C. I. Bailey, and Senator Vincent, state commissioner of education; Stanley A. Easton, state auditor; and Hon. J. H. and Clemy S. Clair, president of the state board of education, participated in the inauguration of the new executive officer of the public ceremonies, the formal which was inaugurated Monday evening and ended Tuesday noon, were generous in their praise of the new president. Commissioner Vincent predicted that within five years the first class of Idaho would be one of the "really distinctive universities in America, doing distinctive work in a distinctive way."

Points Out Gov. Smith's Welfare Record, His Legislation in Behalf of Women.

ALL HAVE RIGHT TO BALLOT
(THIS IS THE TITLED OF A SERIES OF NATIONAL LITERATURES BY JOHN J. RASKOB, EDITOR OF THE NATIONAL WOMAN SUFFRAGE LEAGUE)

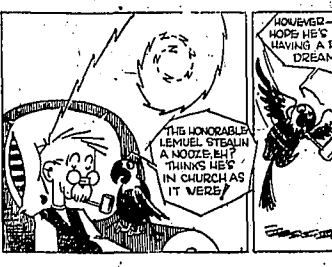

Never before has a campaign presented issues of such vital importance to the women and men of the nation. The American home woman is being asked to vote.

The action in normal times makes tremendous demands upon the American woman. She is asked to vote for the man who will lead the country into a war, and to vote for the man who will lead the country into a peace.

The American womanhood should be able to choose wisely in the election. The woman's viewpoint has become essential to the peaceful solution of the world's problems.

decided to exhibit a film in local theater in behalf of the milk fund raised each year for the purpose of providing milk for needy children in Twin Falls. Last year milk was provided from December to April and it is usually continued as long as the funds last. A certain percentage of Christmas day money is received by the committee for this purpose each year to go with that raised by other means. The milk diet will start in November and be continued until the funds are used up.
