CAMPION FOR BEET INCREASE BEING PUSHED

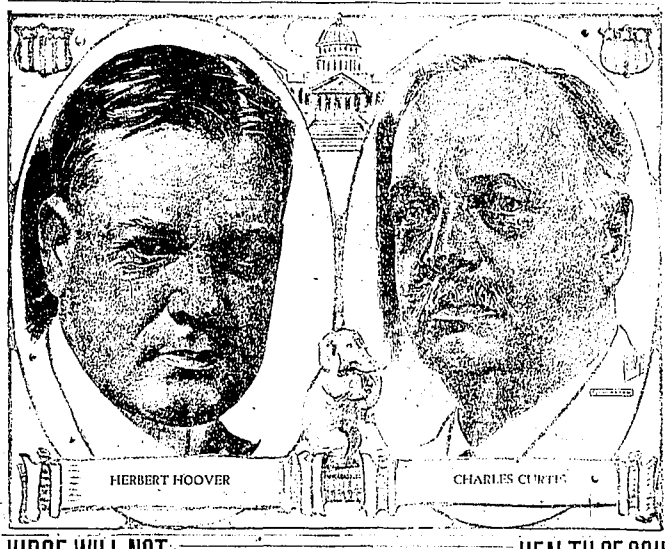

Swendson Optimistic Over Prospects of Higher Sugar Tariff Aid to Growers.

With the advent of fine weather the sugar company officials are completing plans for an intensive campaign to get contracts signed by the farmers. That needs have heretofore seriously handicapped the collection of signed contracts. Average has been slow coming in but during the next 30 days, with the highways rapidly getting in possible condition, the amount of contracts signed for beets is expected to be increased materially.

The Annualized sugar contract, which was signed last year, sets prospects for a higher sugar tariff, according to W. G. Swendson, superintendent of this district. It is expected that the tariff will be of substantial benefit to growers by increasing the price paid for their crop.

The recent report of Dr. Walter Carter, stating conditions excellent for sugar beet growing this year, and the additional advantage of the higher tariff, are insuring plenty of irrigation water to combine to make crop prospects bright for the Twentieth centipede this year.

New Potato Grading Regulation Bill Passes Legislature Last Week

Weight of Law Thrown Behind Grading Rules Complete Text of Measure Printed Here.

Potato grading regulations of the state, heretofore a matter of departmental ukase, were given the force of law last week by virtually unanimous house and senate action, senate bill No. 131, passed by both branches of the state legislature by practically unanimous action.

The measure requires potatoes to be packed and labeled either:

- (1) U. S. Fancy Idaho Potatoes.
- (2) U. S. No. 1 Idaho Selected Potatoes.
- (3) U. S. No. 2 Idaho Potatoes.
- (4) Idaho Potatoes, or
- (5) Call Potatoes.

The law follows:

ANNUAL LAMB FEEDER DAY

Alfalfa Hay, Barley and Pasture of "Best" Rating for Sheep.

The fifth annual lamb feeder's convention at Aberdeen, Idaho, was held last week. It was the largest and most successful affair, many Idaho sheepmen and farmers being in attendance.

The experiment in lamb feeding this year consisted of investigating alfalfa hay, barley and light feed of various potations in various forms and amounts. Four hundred and ninety-two lambs were kept in four separate pens, each with conditions identical. Sheep in lot 1 were fed alfalfa hay and barley; lot 2, alfalfa hay, barley and light feed; lot 3, alfalfa hay, barley and heavy feeding of potatoes; lot 4, alfalfa hay, barley and light feed.

GOODING PLANS BEAUTIFICATION

The Gooding chamber of commerce has appropriated not to exceed $100 for the purchase of shade trees which will be given away to the farmers. This will be done to take good care of the trees and to give them a chance to flourish. The trees will be planted in the town of Gooding, Idaho, and will be a great help to the farmers. The trees will be planted in the town of Gooding, Idaho, and will be a great help to the farmers.

JUDGE WILL NOT BREAK SALMON LEASE OF WATER

Request of Settlers That Contract for Deep Creek Storage Be Rejected in District Court.

Judge Hugh A. Baker declined to issue any order requiring cancellation of the contract for the Deep Creek water by the Salmon River Canal company and to grant a permanent injunction against the terms of the contract being asked for by 75 settlers on the Salmon project. The court held that the contract was valid and that the settlers had no right to break it. The court also held that the contract was not in violation of the public interest.

Old Lawyers Predominate on Hoover's New Cabinet

The average age of the members of President Hoover's cabinet is more than 60 years, it is revealed by the adding machine. Of the 10 men, six of them are lawyers, one is a banker, one engineer, one educator and one a former steel worker. Eight of the men are old-timers in Hoover.

The 10 are:

- Secretary of State, Henry L. Stimson, of New York, lawyer, aged 62.
- Secretary of the Treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, of Pennsylvania, banker, aged 75.
- Secretary of War, James W. Goad, of Iowa, lawyer, aged 63.
- Attorney General, William D. Mitchell, of Minnesota, aged 55.
- Postmaster General, Walter F. Brown, of Ohio, lawyer, aged 60.
- Secretary of the Navy, Charles Francis Adams of Massachusetts, lawyer, aged 64.
- Secretary of Interior, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, of California, educator, aged 51.
- Secretary of Agriculture, Arthur M. Hyde, of Illinois, farmer, aged 51.
- Secretary of Commerce, Robert P. Lamont, of Missouri, engineer, aged 62.
- Secretary of Labor, James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, former steel worker, aged 56.

HEALTH OF SOIL AS IMPORTANT AS OF PEOPLE

State University Trustees Keeping Up Fertility Necessary for Securing Best Production.

Maintaining soil fertility is as essential as providing one's health, according to the trustees of the University of Idaho agricultural experiment station in announcing to the farmers of Twin Falls county that pure cultures of nitrogen-gathering bacteria for legume inoculation are available again this year through the university at low cost. When a piece of land selected for a legume crop has never grown a legume before, the soil will be deficient in nitrogen. The bacteria will be greater and general soil fertility improved more notably when the soil is inoculated with the nitrogen gathering bacteria. Inoculation of the seed means indirect inoculation of the soil with the health-giving organism. The bacteria culture supplied by the experiment station is for legumes such as clover, alfalfa, beans, peas, vetch and other commonly grown crops in Idaho.

Idaho Turkey Growers Get Biggest Profit

Idaho's turkey marketing pool for turkeys is greater than all other turkey pools in the northwest. The pool is the result of a plan given Mrs. C. B. Grigg of Boise by Burke H. Critchfield, marketing specialist of the United States department of agriculture. Over a five-year period, he received Idaho pools have received the highest price for turkeys in any other section has received.

WET IN WASHINGTON—HOOVER WEATHER HERE

Monday, March 4, ushered in the "wettest" day in Washington ever, concluded in Washington. First it rained, then it poured and finally became a flood. But the weather in Idaho was bright and clear. The first day of the Hoover administration brought with it the finest weather of the year in Idaho. Being atmosphere prevailed and the sun shone warm and bright from a clear sky.

Phone Company Reduces Charges

Following the recent nation-wide reduction of long distance telephone rates with other telephone rates, the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company has announced a reduction in rates for connecting, effective March 1, for connecting new or additional telephone facilities in the home or office and for changing existing equipment.

ANNIVERSARY OF P. T. A. OBSERVED

Mrs. Roy Evans presided over a thirty-second anniversary celebration of the founding of the National Parent-Teacher association, the observance being held Thursday in Twin Falls at the Lincoln school. Reports were given by Mrs. W. H. Smith who said 541 children had been enrolled in the school since its organization. Mrs. H. W. Chonick reported on the work of the child study class in the Girls' Reserve room in the Junior High school building. Mrs. George W. Irwin reported on the work of the parent-teacher association. Mrs. C. E. Blom of the public library reported on the work of the library. Mrs. C. E. Blom of the public library reported on the work of the library.

Gooding Farm Area Explained

Addressing the Twin Falls horticultural club Wednesday, H. H. Sutherland, Gooding, secretary of the American Falls Revere club, explained the project to which water is being applied by the building of the Miller-Shubbe canal. The project has suffered a water shortage varying up to 70 per cent in some places. The 100-acre farm at Gooding is being irrigated by the Miller-Shubbe canal. Wendell Raises Rates

Water rates in Wendell were raised from $2.00 to $2.50 by the agricultural congress and in some places, from local concerns which are handling the canals with improvements.

3 Amendments Suggested For Constitution

Three proposed amendments to the Idaho constitution are being drafted into the form of bills to be presented for passage at this term of the legislature and in the 1930 election. The three suggested amendments are: 1. To permit a straight income tax as opposed to the equalization tax measure now pending. 2. Abolition of the constitutional provision which requires the legislature to subject the institution of public control as an unnecessary office since the state has another with almost the same duties. The commissioner of education. 3. To permit the legislature to subject the institution of public control as an unnecessary office since the state has another with almost the same duties. LOCAL STUDENT ADVANCING

George Cleveland of Twin Falls is advancing well in his work as a sophomore at the Utah Agricultural college at Logan, Utah, averaging an average of 87. He is majoring in animal husbandry at the school of agriculture, with training in agriculture as a minor course. He is a member of the Ag club, one of the leading groups in the school, and registered at the spring quarter now starting.

Many Farmer Co-op Groups in Big Business

Many farmer owned and controlled co-operatives are now in the "big business" class, says Agricultural Cooperation, a United States department of agriculture publication.

The twelve associations affiliated with the National Livestock Producers' association (Chicago, headed livestock) to the value of $129,000,000 in 1928.

The California Fruit Growers' association, Los Angeles, sold 800,000 crates of fruit for its 206 local units to the value of $95,500,000 during the twelve months ending October 31.

The Dairyman's League (New York) represents 71,000 dairymen and produces valued at $82,200,000 in the year ending March 31.

The thirteen affiliated associations of the American Cotton Growers' association, Dallas, Texas, had sales of $72,000,000 for 1927-28.

Some other "big business" co-operatives and their sales: United States Creameries, Inc., Minneapolis, a federation of more than 100 creameries, about $50,000,000; Central Cooperative association, South St. Paul, selling agent for Hyopak shipping associations in five states, $32,000,000; Interstate Milk Producers' Philadelphia, selling for 25,000 members, $28,000,000; Washington Cooperative Egg and Poultry association, Seattle, 1212 members, approximately $19,000,000; Staple Cotton Cooperative association, Greenwood, Miss., $16,000,000; Challenge Cream and Butter association, Los Angeles, approximately $16,000,000.

How to Raise Poultry

SAVE THE SOREHEADS

Simple Measures Applied Early May Ward Off Disaster from Chicken Run, Says Dr. L. D. Letterson, V. S. of St. Louis, Mo.

"In a box with the chickens—most certainly not" exclaimed a well known radio entertainer in a moment of indignation. "No, indeed, I'd never be able to sleep on top of the way they do. For most reasons than one, I am inclined to sympathize with this gentleman's point of view. Nevertheless, I firmly believe that, out of literally going to bed with them, the man who comes nearest to being the greatest profit out of them, he will do so because he knows the flock both individually and collectively. The slightest change in their habits or appearance will immediately attract his attention and he is in the lap long before it reaches the danger point.

Of course, not everyone can give full time to the care of his fowl, and if it altogether necessary, it is certain times every day when he must receive attention for feeding and the like. Then, such care as he can give, he should give as judiciously as possible with his chicken as going to get the slightest sign of possible disease, one particularly malignant disease which may crop up at any time, more especially in the fall of the year, is chicken pox or cholera. As this disease may be carried by mosquito, your flock may become infected no matter how careful you have been to keep your own houses, yards and pens in a sanitary condition.

A number of eruptions of cholera, varying from the size of a pinhead to that of a pea or hazelnut, appear on the comb, wattles, eyelids, earlobes, head, and neck, and sometimes on other parts of the body, such as the neck, legs, and the wings, on the rump, and about the vent. On the body troughs and drinking fountain, bowls, feeding troughs and other susceptible equipment, lice, gnats and barn flies and droppings. Finally make a strong solution of some good sort of disinfectant and spray it into every trough and every where mosquitoes, parasites of a severe sort would find a hiding place. If possible, washes change clothing and shoes before going from infected flocks to healthy ones.

Give each of the affected flocks from one-half to one teaspoonful of epom salts and repeat the dose two or three days later if there is no improvement. A local application is also very healthful with a small swab of feather, apply a good disinfectant or a solution of one part of iodine to each of the combs and nodules after removing the scales. The disinfectant should be used full strength, as he cannot fail not to let it get in the eyes. Also apply one each day or two some reliable waxed head.

A good poultry preservative in large doses will be found very beneficial at this time. Careful following out of this treatment should give highly gratifying results if started soon enough.

In the fall about the time chickens are usually appears in your locality, I advise giving all young fowls and in many cases older ones too, large doses of epom salts once for every three or four weeks. Give some amount of epom salt and in the same way as recommended above. It is an extra precaution in case and disinfecting at this time. All houses and sleeping quarters should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected every week or ten days for some time. The disinfectant should be forced into all dark corners and hiding places of mosquitoes and other insects with a good force pump. I have been using this treatment for present, and it is usually in a very mild nature with excellent results. If any chickens do take the disease at all it is usually in a very mild nature.

Vaccination with a specially prepared vaccine is being next to the best way of preventing cholera. The question is whether the disease is serious enough to justify the trouble and expense when it is effective.

CANNERY AND COLD STORAGE FACTS

The detailed crop statement issued by the Twin Falls chamber of commerce last week shows several significant items that bear upon the proposal to establish a canning factory in this region. While beans head the list with the greatest income that any single crop has ever brought, into Twin Falls, and while potato exports were extraordinary last year, with wheat and mill products, livestock and apples maintaining a large output, there are a few other commodities listed in that report that bear promise of becoming of more importance in the immediate future.

Among these are cherries, berries, peas and vegetables as a whole. In 1927 Twin Falls county shipped no peas and exported one car in 1928. In 1927 25 cars of peaches were shipped, increasing to 29 last year. Prunes advanced from 29 to 41 carloads in that period. Cherry shipments increased from 9 carloads to 16, dried fruit from 5 to 10, berries from none to 5, while the increase in shipment of vegetables was from nothing in 1927 to 20 carloads in 1928.

These commodities come within the range of crops required for storage plants and canning factories such as have been discussed in Twin Falls and neighboring towns on several recent occasions. From a combined exported output of these seven crop commodities of 68 carloads in 1927, the increase in 1928 was 126, or almost double.

The increase may have been due in part to more favorable growing conditions according to the variance from year to year. But there was an effort to produce more last year with the object in view of securing a factory here for the proper handling of these crops instead of shipping them in the raw state.

This is a good argument in behalf of the proposed canning factory and storage plant. Small fruits and vegetables will grow abundantly in the Twinland Empire; that has been proven. And prospects indicate a greater production of these commodities this year.

GREEN PASTURES

The grass is always greener across the fence in the other pasture. So say the cyclic, the failure, the knocker and the ne'er-do-well. In saying this they are satisfying themselves of what they want to be, and excusing themselves for what they are.

All things considered one's home town is the best place. Your town meets the requirements for those who WANT it the best place and who will cooperate to the end that their wants will become realities. Those who revel in the great national sport of being dissatisfied with their home town are all wrong unless they help to make it better. The Prodigal Son thought another pasture was greener, but had to live among the swine.

Remember this: the other fellow in the other town is voicing a certain dissatisfaction. The fault is not with the town but with the point of view. Saying that conditions are poor and that business is bad helps to make them truths, because destructive criticism is catching and demoralizing to any phase of activity.

Your town is lifeless without its citizens in action. Citizens can make the pasture here as green as any other, turning any false notions of adversity into realities of success. This can be done in a small way if we will, a large way if we can.

It is no particular credit to a man how many towns he has lived in, how many businesses he has "run," or how many jobs he has held. The men and women who make history are the PERMANENT settlers—the masters of a single business and the workers on a certain job. But if one must be a floater, let him stay out of the way of the folks who believe in their home town.

"Here Comes the Bride" must have been written by the judge of a divorce court.

Those who pine for the good old days might find satisfaction by hunting up an old flyover with a crank starter.

OUR NATION'S NEXT STEP

By ROGER W. BABSON

Founder of Babson's Statistical Organization, Inc.

During the next twenty-five years there will be at least twenty-five truly great discoveries and inventions. Instead of trying to list them all, let me speak of one in particular. During the coming quarter of a century we shall discover that success can be taught, and we shall invent methods of teaching it. When you study men closely and constantly, you are astonished to find how slight is the difference between the successful and the unsuccessful. We shall learn how to bridge this narrow margin between success and failure.

The question whether you will win or lose depends not upon knowing but upon doing. The difference between victory and defeat is not one of ability but action. What is this magic gift which we imagine explains the triumph of those who succeed? Upon analysis it proves to be nothing more mysterious than the homely gift of doing what you don't want to do, when you don't want to do it! When you say of a successful man that: He, while others slept, was toiling upward in the night, you have uncovered his secret and disclosed his formula. It is plain dynamic character that puts men on top; not some strange and inimitable superiority.

Since this is so—since success is essentially simple—men and women can be taught to succeed just as they can be trained to plow, sew, compile statistics, or drive a car. There will be courses in success, the same as we now have courses in arithmetic, English, science and public speaking. Success involves four elements: physical, mental, spiritual and economic. Skillfully coach a person to qualify in these four fundamentals and success will follow, like the right answer when you press the proper keys of an adding machine. Those who are inclined to smile at this idea may well look back and recall their skepticism toward aviation, their doubts of radio, and their pessimism over world peace efforts.

The Russian idea of equality seems to be that all shall equally lose. The American idea of equality is that all shall equally win. Here in America there was established a democracy; deeper in degree and broader in scale than anything which the world had ever known. This democracy has been continually strengthening. Our people have learned to vote. At the last election there were record-breaking interest, registration, and vote. Our people have learned to learn. Per capita attendance at schools and colleges is at new levels. Our people have learned to enjoy themselves. Wholesome diversions, recreations that really regenerate, were never so abundant. This process must continue. Democracy must reach its final flower and fruit—not only the present equality of opportunity, but equality of achievement. Our nation's next step is to teach success.

HEIFERS GIVEN AWAY

Naupaa and Dahl are two towns of Idaho that have plans to give away dairy stock to their citizens. At Naupaa five high grade dairy heifers are to be purchased and given away in a guessing contest, no payment of fees being required and no merchandise advertising to be done in connection. The details of the Dahl enterprise are still being worked out. The chamber of commerce there has a plan to donate 25 dairy heifers, one to be given away each week, as at Naupaa.

Economical PRINTING

You perhaps have a printing order that you have held back thinking it might be expensive — a batch of letter-heads and envelopes — an imitation typewritten letter — some labels — visiting cards — butter-wrappers — or, maybe, a dodger or placard.

Whatever you need in the printing line, whether it be a booklet, a photographic cut, a rubber stamp, a sale bill, blotter, wedding announcement of what not, bring your troubles to, THE IDAHO CITIZEN; write us or telephone, and we will tell you what the job will cost.

PRINTING Is Our Specialty—

—We do a big commercial printing business, and are prepared with equipment, craftsmen and the disposition to not only produce good printing, but we can render valuable service — make suggestions for improvement — and give your work personal and interested attention. No job too large and none too small. Visit our plant — see how printing is produced for our, many satisfied customers and when you, too, require the services, remember

Livestock Notes of Interest to Idahoans from "Outlook"

Livestock notes as issued by the department of Agriculture in the "Agricultural Outlook for 1929." The items of general interest to the livestock men of Idaho have been reprinted by the Idaho Livestock Journal.

Western states, dry land and grazing sections, are looking forward to continued high beef prices at a profitable level. If not, the price of the peak of recent years, irrigated sections that depend on alfalfa hay and dairy products continue to maintain good demand for these products.

In making long time plans, western producers should consider the possible future developments in the beef and sheep prices, and continued heavy foreign competition in wool, general stability of prices, and the tendency for dairy products, and the tendency for vegetable to increase somewhat faster than population.

Beef Cattle: The outlook for the cattle industry continues favorable with the general stability of the price of the peak of recent years, irrigated sections that depend on alfalfa hay and dairy products continue to maintain good demand for these products.

These trends in the industry, and the tendency for dairy products, and the tendency for vegetable to increase somewhat faster than population.

The horse and mule price cycle has apparently turned upward. At the present time, the price of the horse and mule is continuing to increase, and is expected to be considerably higher than in 1928. The price of the horse and mule is expected to be considerably higher than in 1928.

Disposal of old cows: Farmers now have an opportunity to dispose of old cows for beef purposes. This opportunity will probably be open for two or three years. The spread between the price of old cows and the price of beef cows is expected to be considerably higher than in 1928.

Richard Halliburton Entertains His Audience with Stories of Romantic Adventure.

Almost a full house of people greeted Richard Halliburton on the occasion of his lecture in the Twin Falls high school auditorium. The speaker, who is one of the most popular of the American Federation of University Women, of which Mrs. E. M. Halliburton is president, was very responsible for this sort of an entertainment and while the crowd was not made much smaller, it was not made much smaller.

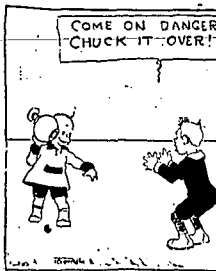

MINDOKA TAX RATES GROW
By an act of congress passed last year, Mindoka county acquired an additional $200,000 worth of taxable property additional to that from which it has raised revenue. For this reason, the county has had to raise its tax rates.

He told how his imagination for the romance was aroused by the bed time stories his father told him when he was five years old. He resolved to follow the course of the "Old World Heroes" when they made romantic history. The ancient days of Greece and Rome were the course of his life. He made his memorable trip to the mountains of the Himalayas in the year of his 10th birthday. He saw the Himalayas with his own eyes. He saw the Himalayas with his own eyes.

These and other things Richard Halliburton related to his audience in Twin Falls Friday night in a lecture which made the audience half past rapidly. At the close he told them he brought no message, no philosophy and no solution for...

Sweet Clover Fina for Dairy

The value of sweet clover as a pasture, feed and hay producer has been demonstrated by R. L. Heston, farm association agent for the Twin Falls district, who has planted ten pounds of sweet clover on a five-acre tract in the snow. Fifteen cows were pastured on it that season. The second year, 1928, he turned...

For the first time in its history, Twin Falls has a woman candidate for councilman in the person of Mrs. H. W. Clonch, whose nomination papers were filed for her nomination to the council in the women's club work and various community affairs for years.

NORTH SIDE LET SET

The 1929 let for water users in the North Side Canal company has been set at $1.15 for 1929. The increase was made necessary by repairs and improvement work to be done at Jackson lake reservoir and other dam, also by the company's share in the building of the first 3 1/2 miles of the canal to be built by the company under construction from Miller, Idaho.

Winter - Spring

March is a harbinger of Spring and Spring indicates the passage of winter, which is a pleasant thought to the Dairyman; for the production increases, new feed becomes available and milk increases in quality.

In planning your 1919 farm program do not overlook the dairy end—keep your cows, get more if you can and keep production at a maximum.
