HOOPER'S COMMON SENSE. TO WHO TO MARRY. TEACHING HOW TO THINK. CRIME NEVER PAYS.

The House, rejecting the demerol bill, is a comfortable profit on a comfortable profit on a comfortable profit.

The President is supported in his common sense attitude.

Thirty-five, for men, is a good age to marry for forty is a better age.

Thirty-five for men, forty-five for women, is the best age to marry.

No at least said the Greek philosopher: "Memento mori."

Children inherit intelligence chiefly from their fathers, when they are born.

It is not until a child is about 10 years old that it begins to think for itself.

No educator ever said anything more important or expressed more clearly the purpose of education.

Let boys and girls take their own education. Let them take their own education.

Evolution of Agriculture On Twin Falls Tract Is Interesting Story of Crops

Grain, Peas, Berries and Orchards, Once Major Crops, Are Now Only Side Issues. Rise and Fall of Many Products Shown in 25 Years

Analysis of all the annual crop reports issued through the water master's department of the Twin Falls Canal company since 1912 when the first one came out, shows an interesting story of the trend of agriculture on the Twin Falls South Side tract during that time.

In some lines there has been a transition from small acreage to extensive production. On the other hand these reports show that several products that now play a very minor role in this country were major crops in the early days of the tract.

One of the outstanding revolutions in the horticultural revolution is the horticultural revolution. Manager John E. Hays estimated that in 1912 there were at least 30,000 acres of orchard land.

By 1912 the orchard acreage had declined to approximately 10,000. Ten years later it was including all about 3000 acres.

Several other products have been included in the list of crops. The 1929 report shows only 1858 acres of apples, 112 of peaches, 214 of grapes, 214 of cherries, and 1288 of fruit berries.

The small fruit crop has a similar report, with the annual acreage varying from 26 to 260 acres for all berry crops.

Wheat, alfalfa have similar records. From 27,702 acres in 1912 to 1917 and under the 1929 report of high water level in 1918.

JUMP
BY FRANK R. ADAMS
ILLUSTRATED BY FRANK B. DRUEN

Jim's argument carried undeniable weight with the distracted husband. He could see his son-in-law. Although he had cast her off, the idea of his wife taking to him with someone else was galling to him. At last he said, "You're right. If you're the only one who has the nerve to follow where I lead."

Then came the problem of the shoes. Hemmingway had his that he had secured in town, but there wasn't another pair in the institution.

"Finally?" we dug up some skis that had been sent by some chum. "I have a good pair in a box of rubber. If you never happened to have seen any, they are four long strips of spruce wood about four inches wide turned up one end like a sled runner. If you can navigate them the chances are that you can carry 'Hymie' without breaking the operator and the snow."

The colonel built us godsend and directed us on our way.

"You get lost," he sneered us. "It may be hard to follow the road on account of everything being piled high with snow, but if you least do not get lost, you are out at the village without fail."

We started, not rapidly as I have heard the Indians and the wigwags travel across snow-fields, but cautiously and slowly. My skis had a tendency to let out that was very annoying. One in twelve I had to sit down to argue with them about it. I couldn't follow the lead of them, and I went with one I had to leave one leg behind.

On the few occasions when I detected them from the side, I would single file turned the other way and I got my runners crossed.

"If you're trying to make a fool of me," said Mr. Hemmingway sarcastically, as I got up and dug the snow out of my eyes and ears, you may as well give up. I'm not in the humor for it."

I was jaded to keep still, thank Heaven, although I would have given my acres' pleasure to have awaited him with the flat side of a sk.

The country round about was sloping. This is ideal ground, they tell me, for ski running. It was fairly level, but it was not so difficult to climb. I had to take care else I found myself slipping backwards.

I tried descending from the skis, but found that the snow was up nearly to my waist and with a high impossible to flounder through.

I made it somehow, but Hemmingway on snowshoes bent me to the great by several meters. He waited there until I got nearly to the top and then he started down the other side.

I gained the summit. It was not very high, but afforded an excellent view of the country. Under the snow it was beautiful. A group of fir trees over at the right with branches borne down with a tremendous load of white was graceful picture.

"Come on," yelled Hemmingway, half-way down the hill. "We have to catch that train!"

I writhed myself away from my contemplation of the beauties of nature and considered the matter of progressing further. I started to walk after him. Soon I was relieved of the necessity of effort. The gentle grade was enough to cause me to slide over the surface of the snow.

It was an exhilarating sensation and very restful. I was suddenly glad that I had risked the snowshoes. I had been enjoying Hemmingway the superior traveling qualities of his equipment; but now I could see that the advantage was all on my side. While he walked down the hills I could be sliding gracefully and resting myself for the climb up the next one.

Wrapped in pleasant introspection I had scarcely noticed that my speed was increasing a little. Now a slight difficulty in balancing called for attention to it.

I leaned forward a trifle to restore my equilibrium. As I did so I heard a sharp whistling sound as the runners glided swiftly over the snow.

The speed increased. I looked about for some way of slowing up. There seemed to be no brake. I tried to increase the pressure on the skis as one does on skates in order to stop. Even as I thought, I was accelerated to such a degree that I abandoned all idea of doing anything but pray.

Directly in my path, proceeding slowly down the hill, was John Hemmingway. Utterly as I was I could not fail to strike him. I tried to stop by accelerating to such a degree that I flew toward him as a fitting to a magnet.

He was hitly unconscious. The snow was accelerated to such a degree that I flew toward him as a fitting to a magnet.

result of disagreement with Caldwell over the water resources of the river as between those two states.

The Swing-Johnson bill was passed in December with the provision that the seven states should have six months in which to comply with the conditions. If six of them do so within that time, the president is to sign the bill, making the compact effective.

It was on the grounds that such power would build up industry in southern California and thereby provide a greater market for Idaho farm products that Representative Addison T. Smith gave his support.

With Idaho recognized as the premier agricultural state of the Pacific northwest, some outstanding farm leader of this commonwealth is expected to be appointed on the federal farm loan board to represent this part of the country.

Former Governor B. W. Davis of American Falls and John Rigley are reported from Washington to be the most prominently considered since H. E. Stephens of Jerome declined the appointment. Mr. Davis is now employed in federal work at Washington and is

INDEPENDENCE DAY

The gayest, brightest day in all the year is Independence Day, for no American can help being thrilled by the stirring events and tumultuous national adventure that preceded the signing of the Declaration of Independence and the birth of the United States as a land dedicated to freedom and equality.

In fact, the emotions of patriotism aroused by the Fourth of July are so powerful that many times they have led persons to excess.

In a sun-burst of joy, persons have not exercised enough care in celebration, and countless tragedies have unfortunately been the result.

Fireworks produce beautiful effects and help greatly in the proper celebration of this day of days, but great care must be taken in their use. The more dangerous kinds of fireworks ought to be discarded altogether.

Above all, no parent should allow a child to remain unwatched on this day. Remember the words of Ed Howe: "It is better to be safe than sorry."

OUTSIDE LOAN COMPANIES

It is reported that certain insurance and loan companies from other states are planning to contest the validity of a law passed by the last Idaho legislature relative to taxation of such companies doing business in Idaho.

The attitude of the companies toward the law is indicated by a letter received by an agency in Jerome from the headquarters in Tacoma, Washington. A quotation from this letter is as follows:

"Our company has discontinued loaning money in Idaho and will accordingly withdraw from the state. This is due to an act of the legislature, the last session, affecting foreign loan companies. This legislation is so drastic that it would make our tax to do business in Idaho in excess of $50,000 a year. Under these conditions our people have permanently withdrawn from the state."

Inasmuch as Idaho is comparatively young and anxious to develop its resources to the fullest advantage, local agencies of outside loan companies feel that instead of bringing more revenue to Idaho as was the purpose of the law, it will result in driving such concerns out of the state. The effect of this, they say, would be felt by farmers and business institutions who depend on outside capital for development funds.

Many business establishments in the Gem state and many private individuals have undertaken such reaction and improvement programs with outside capital loaned. These improvements and enterprises would be seriously hindered if other companies follow the action of the Tacoma loan company in withdrawing its service, according to agents of the outside concerns.

The state administration is reported to be taking serious consideration of the effect of the law as reported, and to be seeking a way to make it effective according to the original purpose.

LOYALTY SUNDAY

Sunday, June 30, has been designated as "Loyalty Sunday" when obedience to law, particularly in regard to the prohibition amendment, will be observed throughout the country. Ministers will be asked to give talks appropriate to that subject while Sunday school teachers are also expected to emphasize patriotic lessons on that day.

The National Education association in annual convention at Atlanta, Georgia, Friday, will also launch a campaign to carry the message of law obedience to 30,000,000 children and young people in the public schools, according to despatches from Washington. This is in connection with the federal government campaign to enforce laws to a better degree in the United States.

One reason for the stronger enforcement measures now being carried on along the Canadian border and other places is reported to be the desire of Secretary of Education Andrew W. Mellon, to disprove charges recently against him that as a former liquor distiller he is opposed to prohibition enforcement. Secretary Mellon is quoted as saying that he intended to set at rest these rumors by enforcing the prohibition law to the limit.

It is easy to make a strong argument if you don't allow yourself to be hampered by facts.

MODEL 90

THE biggest name in the washer world is Maytag. Just as Maytag resources and production facilities outmeasure those of all other washer manufacturers, Maytag products outmeasure every contemporary washer in both performance and quality.

The Maytag Aluminum Washer, Model 90, leads world leadership. Its cast-aluminum tub contains 35 pounds of pure aluminum. Its neoprene roller winter remover requires a development cost of over a quarter of a million dollars. It is the measure of washer value everywhere.

The Maytag Model 60, has many of the features found in Model 90, including the lifetime cast-aluminum tub and gyrafone washing action. The price is considerably lower—a remarkable value.

The Frederick Washer is a Maytag product in the moderate price field. It has a counter-sink agitator in a sturdy nickel tub. The cushioned motor and precision made parts give it remarkably silent operation. It washes a tubful in a few short minutes.

One of these washers will meet your idea of price, and you will have the satisfaction of owning the best that your money can buy.

The variation in the spot crop has been from 3000 to 8000 acres yearly. It reduced from 8102 in 1928 to 6181 this year on reported farms.

TRAVELERS RETURN

Mr. and Mrs. W. Zenas Smith and their daughter returned the last of the week from a three-week trip to the Northwest, Alaska and California. Their journey into Alaskan territory was made on an excursion boat from Seattle.

Evolution of

In 1926 it had climbed back to 41,700, but has dropped 10,000 rental acres for 1929 being 27,936. The wheat record has been varied and erratic.

Alfalfa acreage has also risen and fallen with the seasons, influenced by production of livestock and the demand for the crop. From a high average mark of 62,329 in 1912 it went to a low mark of 28,141 in 1928. During that period many variations were noted as much as 2000 acres a year. For 1929 an improvement is noted, the average being 28,976.

Seed crops have also varied greatly. Albes, for instance, increased to 9832 acres in 1916 and three years was reduced to 1000. By 1928 it was back to 1002 and since then has steadily climbed until it now holds a very unusual position with 428 acres reported for 1929.

The highest acreage of alfalfa reported was 1937 in 1920, much better than in any other year. It shows a steady growth through-varied from about 300 to 500 acres during the years of 1924, 1925, 1926 and 1927 when R. A. Carter was producing his $50,000 worth of alfalfa seed from three acres on the Salmon tract. The present average is less than 500.

The high mark for potatoes was 10,933 in 1922. The variation in the spot crop has been from 3000 to 8000 acres yearly. It reduced from 8102 in 1928 to 6181 this year on reported farms.

Sugar Beets Variables

Sugar beets jumped from 659 acres in 1912 to 2508 in 1916 when the Amalgamated company put a factory here. The high mark was 7959 in 1921. Presence of white fly put it down to 217 acres last year, but the 1929 acreage is considered the largest ever reported on Twin Falls farms.

The history of livestock raising shows an increase gradual over the years in nearly all lines. The one the year.

Cash Crops Popular

The tendency has been toward cash crops. Fruit, grain and seed have given way to beans, beets and a varied quantity of truck crops, together with livestock. Important changes have occurred where a construction enterprise was finished, when the sugar factory came, and more recently when mechanical methods of farming have begun to replace manual labor in a large and extensive way. By exception is sheep. In 1916 there were 405,782 reported on Twin Falls county farms. By 1922 the number had dropped to 30,251, and fell through the thirty and forty thousand marks until 1928 when it reached 60,705, now back to 31,187.

Work here in production is claimed to be less in 1929 than in 1921, but has been the best several years until it now about 5000. The dairy industry has reported was 1937 in 1920, much better than in any other year. It shows a steady growth through-

NEW TYPE OF SHEEP'S BREED AT DUBOIS, IDA.

15 Years of Experimentation Results in Producing Columbia Breed from Lincolns and Rambouillets.

DUBOIS, Idaho.—After fifteen years of development and experimentation, most of which has been done at the United States sheep experiment station here, the department of agriculture feels safe in saying that sheep of the Columbia type are well adapted to the inland mountain region. The Columbia is a cross-bred type, the result of crossing the Lincoln and Rambouillet, developed by the department. The development work was started at Laramie, Wyo., in 1905. It has been continued at the Dubois station, which is said to be the largest range sheep experiment farm in the world. At the Dubois station the experimental facilities embrace 20,000 acres of land and 7,000 range ewes.

During the period between 1880 and 1890 the number of sheep in the United States reached its maximum. Consequently, the Lincoln type of sheep predominated. In the recent years an increased demand for western lambs at the export markets has caused a question of market lambs from Hampshire rams bred to cross-bred ewes of a very profitable practice in the mountain region, says J. M. Cooper of the bureau of animal industry in planning the background in the development of the Columbia type of sheep.

The black-faced ewe lamb is desired on the range for breeding purposes because it is at a common price to market both ewe and wether lambs. Under these conditions the producer is faced with the problem of selection. He must either maintain a flock of fine-wool ewes and raise his own roadheads or he must purchase his replacement stock each year. Under normal conditions a crossbred ewe is a more profitable producer than the fine-wool, so that ewes of this type, breeding true, would readily find a market in the sheep industry. An attempt to solve these problems has resulted in the development of the Columbia.

Work on Columbia breeding was begun in 1912, using Lincoln, Leicester, Cotswold and Romney rams and Rambouillet ewes. After careful study of the type and adaptation of these various crosses the Lincoln-Rambouillet alone was retained for further development. Since that time the Lincoln-Rambouillet cross has been bred to further without the introduction of any other lines. Most of the ewes in the Dubois station flock trace back to an outstanding Lincoln ewe, says Mr. Cooper.

With only five ewes of development the Columbia breed has not become absolutely fixed, but variety is becoming more and more fixed. The Columbia is a large, vigorous, heavy-boned animal. Ewes average about 125 pounds and ram up to 275. They are of normal conditions. Columbia ewes are found to be prolific and also of long standing fleeces of three-year blood quality. In the three-year test period the fleeces weights of mature Columbia ewes were slightly heavier than those of the station average 11.27 pounds. For the same period the average weight of lambs produced and weaned by these ewes was 70.2 pounds. A pair of yearling Columbia rams consigned by the Dubois station to the last annual national-ram sale at Salt Lake brought an average price of $145, a ram sale record for range rams.

BUHL MEETING WELL ATTENDED

The thirtieth annual convention of the Idaho Christian Missionary society at Buhl was reported to be progressing with great interest on the part of members of the church in this county. The conference opened Tuesday night for four days of assembly, morning, afternoon and evening sessions being held. Rev. Charles Rehn, Rev. G. L. Logan, national evangelist, and Miss Grace Young, missionary to Tibet, were in a far-reaching country, are the visiting speakers of note.

Many others from Idaho towns and neighboring states are also in the program, including ministers and lay members. Rev. J. Elliot Blaney, pastor of the Buhl and Kimbilly Christian churches, is convention pastor and president of the state board. Rev. G. L. Logan, pastor of Burley is chairman of the convention. All matters of church interest are covered in the discussions. Special officers are in charge of young people's sessions. Rev. Rev. Young was engaged to give two addresses on each of the four days. Mr. C. P. Bowen, of Twin Falls, responded to the address of welcome given by Miss Grace Schell of Buhl.

FORMER FILER MAN SPEAKS

Carl B. Muser, former Filer man but now of Peterboro, New Hampshire, was the principal speaker at a joint meeting of Twin Falls and Filer Kiwanis clubs at Filer Monday night. About 200 persons were present to hear his discussion on early day events here and of the dairy industry in the country.

As secretary-treasurer of the American Guernsey Cattle club he referred to the dairy industry as the growing phase of the agricultural business. He recommended it as a main business here, not just an idle issue to other phases of farming. He also talked in an inspirational way of the service club work, saying that only so long as it makes for better men, better homes, better business, better society and better communities will it justify its existence. The conclusion of this program was "Zoro's Home," marking the opening of the annual convention of the Kiwanis International in Milwaukee.

BARNYARD GOLF PRIZES OFFERED

Will Feature Fourth of July Program. Full Day of Fun Provided.

Horseshoe pitching contests will be one of the features of the Fourth of July program in Twin Falls according to a statement given out. A first prize of $25 and a second prize of $10 will be awarded to the best string of peas on that occasion. The contest starts at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon near the city park. This is expected to draw a big crowd, being a popular novelty.

Aside from the barnyard golf in the morning there will be other games and contests carried on throughout the day, climaxing with a grand pyrotechnical display at night. There will be a baseball game at 10:30 A. M. between Twin Falls and Jerome teams of the Island league. Plenty of athletic features will be provided the youngsters in the morning for the men and older boys as well as women who are interested, the biggest sport of the afternoon will be the boxing card which is being held at 2:30 p.m. in Lincoln field at 4:30 o'clock.

Joe Corter and Johnny O'Brien will display their pugilistic talents by facing each other in a boxing bout by Eric Woolley and Pete Ellis in the semi-final, while Kings and Jack Doyle in preliminary following a red hot bout. The first event of the day will be a contest in the city park at 6:30 A. M., followed by volleyball at nine o'clock. A military drill contest will be after the barnyard golf, then bicycle races and the baseball game. Basket ball and hand concert will be a part of the city park during the noon hour. At one o'clock the patriotic program will start with Jess Hawley, hose artist as speaker. They are said to offer foot races and sports, outdoor cavendish will occur at three o'clock, the court house lawn. Swimming races will follow the boxing event, then retreat exercises by Boy Scouts at the park. The night program will include open air vaudeville, band concert, fireworks and dance. Pacific-Kline shows will exhibit throughout the week.

Church Holds Special Meet

Dual, Murtaugh, Kimberly and Twin Falls wards of the L. D. church attended the monthly union meeting of the stake in Twin Falls Sunday. All departments were well represented. This will be a special event of next Saturday and Sunday when officials of the church representatives of the general authorities at Salt Lake will be present. A general session will be held at 2:00 P. M. Saturday and at the same time Sunday. At 10:00 A. M. department meetings will be held. Quarterly conference for Twin Falls will be held here July 13 and 14, Saturday and Sunday. A feature of union meeting was a play conducted as a demonstration for Relief Society, officers of the Buhl ward taking part.

Outside State People Meet

Former residents of Nebraska and of Ohio held their annual picnic party at the county fair grounds at Filer Sunday. There were nearly 100 former Buckeye people reported at the function for that group. E. L. Ashton of Twin Falls was elected to succeed T. N. Baird of Twin Falls as the president. This group was organized years ago and had about 40 present at last year's meeting.

Two hundred were reported present at the Nebraska party. Charles Underwood of Kimberly, Honolulu dancer and L. S. Sifton of Twin Falls were received as the committee in charge of this group, which is one of the largest of the kind in the county. It was organized several years ago. The program included lunch, games, talks, songs and other entertainment features. Rev. O. J. Kendall of Hanna spoke of Nebraska Reminiscences for that assembly.

KIDNAPPERS HAVE RECORD

Three of the four men who were arrested and sentenced for kidnaping Lieutenant Governor W. B. King near Grangeville, Wash. are reported to be members of a gang that operated in Iowa last month, holding up a bank and getting $100,000. They are said to have other similar events to their credit.

FILER GROUPS MEET

Filer Kiwanis club and the Filer Grange held a joint meeting last week. Kiwanians being guests of the Grange. Members of both groups were on the program. Ladies served lunch to more than 100 who were at that social.

Why Shell Horsehide Outwears All Other Leathers

IF YOU want for longer wear and greater comfort out of work shoes, we recommend that you wear the Wolverine Horsehide. This leather outwears all others because it includes an inner shell found only on the horse's hide (obviously, not the hide). First you wear out the leather — then you wear out the shell. No wonder many say Wolverine wear two or three years. And that's not all. Shell Horsehide is tanned by Wolverine's special soft under all weather conditions.

MAY JUMP FALLS

At Panquet of Spokane looked over the Great Shoshone falls this week to decide on the wisdom of going over in a barrel or some other method. The drop is some 200 feet and the rocks look mean, he said, but he thought he might make it. No decision was reached. Beyond that he had an Indian successfully negotiated the falls in the previous days.

BAKERY CATCHES FIRE

Fire thought to have originated from defective wiring broke out in the Gem Bakery in Twin Falls Sunday and caused damage estimated at $200. The fire department responded promptly and had the flames soon under control.

WAGER DISPUTE AGAIN IN COURT

The protest of Hollister residents against the alleged interference by Frank Jewett with the water flow for the town's sewage works went into the district court Monday when Judge W. A. Halseck was asked to grant an order restraining Jewett from interfering with the water flow. The judge gave attorneys for the plaintiff five days in which to file briefs. Counsel for Jewett will then have time to file their briefs in reply, on the basis of which a decision will be given. Whether the restraining order shall be maintained. The Hollister people assert that the operation of Jewett's pumps increases the flow from his artesian well from six inches to 20 inches and decreases the village supply to less than the people there need. They told the judge they were not in position to install a new pipe line to replace the present one which Jewett claims
