HEART TO HEART TALK

By DR. JOHN JOSEPH GAINES

Read Ed Howe Weekly In Citizen

The pest of the gardener—the farmer—the owner of a liberal back yard. Weeds... In endless variety they come, and so viciously of weather ever prevent a bumper crop of them. Weeds, weeds, weeds. Kill them, uproot them, burn them.

Still, nothing on this earth was made in vain. There is good in everything; because we do not recognize it is no proof whatever that good is not there. Things that interfere with our favorite diversions are not wholly bad because of that fact.

From some of the hated weeds, come medicines that save valuable lives. I have seen some of those wonderful drugs functioning beautifully. Is a thing worth while that saves human life? I cannot think of a greater blessing. But weeds have a very interesting habit of springing up when we do not want them, and that is where the trouble lies.

A contemplation of the human soul, makes me think of a garden; in it beautiful and useful things grow—things that are vital to human life and happiness... And weeds come too, as in the garden, and it is our duty to prevent their growth. If they do get there, then to root them out before they get too firm a hold. If so-called weeds get the upper hand, if they grow bigger than the precious soul-plants, the goal may be lost entirely by tearing out the deep-rooted weeds.

If weeds grow too fast, and too many of them, there is a question of the gardener's destruction. It is precisely the same in the garden of the soul.

All this round-about way to drive that weeds may not, and all right in their place—but no matter is not their place, no matter how fast they grow.

If there are any soul-gardeners, do not deeply root to pull out safely, the matter of the garden will wait till the harvest time, then separate the weeds from the grain. And it will save the good things he planted there.

The Farm Problem in A Marketing Problem

STATE TURKEY GROWERS HAVE NEW METHODS

Mrs. C. G. Brink Explains Different Policy of Handling This Year's Crop, Turkey Special Will Run.

Mrs. C. G. Brink of Boise, secretary of the Idaho Turkey Growers' association, expects this year's shipments to about equal those of last year at 120 carloads. She said that the quality of the birds will be much better with a consequent increase in the price. Fewer birds were raised by association members this year, she said, and the big bulk of the crop will come from independent growers.

As Texas will have a large commercial crop this season it will be of little use for Idaho growers to attempt selling in Texas she said. The state association will pay the full cash price upon delivery of the birds, arrangements having been made by Idaho banks to advance $500,000 for this.

Buyers will not do the grading and packing this year but will check up on those who do it for the association which this year has selected experts to receive, grade, weigh and pack the turkeys. This method Mrs. Brink expects to enable the grower to experience no trouble although they are expected to last year, causing dissatisfaction with the grading and packing which withdrew to form independent groups in Gooding, Elmore and other sections.

The Idaho Turkey Growers' association plans to run a turkey special between the Christmas and Thanksgiving holidays, including "direct" in Idaho and Oregon to the advantage of cooperative selling.

Company Will Have Long Run

The Pacific Coast Delvatorator company is scheduled to start Monday for a season run lasting February 1 or longer, depending on how well the apples keep in good condition for handling. A crew of 50 men and 200 mules will be employed and about 4,000 tons of apples are to be used, the shipment centering on Elgin.

The plant was repaired and enlarged during the summer to care for the larger apple crop, California. It has since and 200 mules will be employed and about 4,000 tons of apples are to be used, the shipment centering on Elgin.

TIME LIMITS ON PARKING RULES WILL BE VOTED

Chamber of Commerce Will Submit Referendum to Decide Whether One-Hour Period Should Stand.

Directors of the Twin Falls chamber of commerce met Tuesday night and discussed a proposal to change the parking regulations which were adopted early in the summer. The proposal was expressed to the one-hour parking limit in the center of town.

The question was submitted through the merchants' bureau of the organization, since it is the trade center of other business hours that is chiefly affected by these regulations. The one-hour parking rule is intended as a means of preventing congestion in the immediate business district, but some complaints have been made that the time limit is too short to permit a complete shopping tour in town or to transact business with assurance to the car owner that he will be through in time and thereby save himself from street over-parking.

It was further explained that because of this situation, out-of-town people were not using the space left for them by business cars, and that other business men were using their machines on the secondary streets just outside the business district. There was considerable discussion on this subject in these areas, while the center of town took a decided opinion.

The chamber is now considering that this give voters a referendum that Twin Falls will be more prosperous and stagnant.

The referendum will be on the question of whether to extend the parking limit on the primary time limit for first and second choice on the following suggestions:

First—Present parking limit of one hour.

Second—Two-hour parking restrictions under the same arrangement as the present one-hour limit.

Third—Three-hour parking restrictions under the same arrangement as the present one-hour limit.

Fourth—Repeal of present parking regulations, leaving the parking of automobiles in the business district to the discretion of the driver.

M. H. Bailey, J. E. Roberts, D. J. Keenan and D. H. Atkinson were named as a committee to arrange for the referendum. The committee will meet Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in the chamber of commerce meeting in Oden early in the week when it will consider the various suggestions regarding referendum and other matters of interest here.

FOOTBALL GETS BETTER START

Friday Games Find Squads Better Matched With Harder Fighting.

Football games for the south central Idaho district, Friday saw Class A teams arrayed against each other for the first time. The previous week games were scheduled between Class A teams and squads of their own according to expectations although they were not in the same class.

Twin Falls defeated its nearest rival, Bull, Friday by a score of 27 to 0. Coach Cliff Davison has more veteran players than Coach B. J. Jones. Davison's team, which they stride onto to conquer the "Redskins." The home team, however, had the edge in the game, but they were not in the same class.

The Idaho Turkey Growers' association plans to run a turkey special between the Christmas and Thanksgiving holidays, including "direct" in Idaho and Oregon to the advantage of cooperative selling.

NEW TURKEY GROUP FORMED

About 70 turkey growers in the Blackfoot district met Friday night at the home of Mrs. W. H. Jones to form an independent marketing association. S. W. Powell was elected president, with W. H. Jones as secretary. Additional directors are Bert Wyatt and Mr. Thomas.

The directors were to meet Sunday night and decide whether to pack their birds through the Idaho Egg Producers' association or through the Gooding Creamery company. At the Friday night meeting, Clayton Strain explained the plan of the new association. Senator George Barrett of Wenatchee spoke for the Egg producers, and one of them proved to be a carrier and all were confined to their homes, leaving a stop teaching staff for that time.

Other persons who desire through the Idaho Turkey Growers' association may receive them free if they apply when Dr. David M. Cowling and his staff are not too busy attending to the outbreak of influenza in the Mediterranean fruit fly and other crops, but of commercial crops, Mexican immigration which was declared necessary for various agricultural.

NEW HIGHWAY THROUGH OREGON

Counties Cooperate to Put Sawtooth Region On The Map.

Representatives of Camas, Gooding, Lincoln, Blaine, Butte and several counties of central Idaho met recently in Idaho and formed an association designed to promote a new highway east and west through that region, directly linking Blackfoot, Idaho, with Boise via the Snake, Carey, Halley, Fairfield and Bliss.

E. W. Stinchell of Shoshone is president of the association of this organization, with James A. Bennett of Fairfield as secretary. The project was started during the summer when business men of that region conceived the idea of a main highway leading through the scenic beauty of central Idaho. The advantages of the route were listed as its reduced distance from the populated centers of eastern Idaho, and the fact that it would take travelers into the heart of the Gem state's wilderness.

This latest move has the purpose of securing the necessary enterprise to completion. The advantages of this new road assert themselves in the fact that it will take him through a more attractive country, avoiding the barrenness of southern Idaho. The route is not deserted, but it will run from Idaho Falls and Blackfoot to Arco, Idaho, then through the Wood River and Camas prairie sections to Boise. This route has been under construction for some time, but the project, since it would make Halley a diversion point.

All homes in Twin Falls are said by the real estate men to be filled with people who are anxious to do business here in the community. Not only are private homes occupied, but the apartments are full and two new ones are to be completed this fall, one of them being near done at this time.

Much of this is credited to the Twin Falls County Real Estate Board. Three years ago when this county was started, the population was under 1000. Today there are about 100,000 there in Twin Falls. Now there are about 100,000 there in Twin Falls. Now there are about 100,000 there in Twin Falls.

Baldridge Is Chief Speaker at Conference

Governor H. C. Baldridge took part in a conference of the state planning commission of the U. S. chamber of commerce at Oden last week with H. E. Stephens of Jerome presiding. The conference was attended by several members, and other Idaho officials also being prominent.

Governor Baldridge spoke at the opening of the conference for continuance of the federal relocation policy of developing western lands. He said that the federal government should be held responsible for the "millions of ineffective propaganda" being spread by eastern interests against reclamation.

The first of the speakers in consideration, the governor stated. One is that the population of the United States will continue to increase and that the increase will give a much greater quantity of food products. As this increase will be largely in the western states, he asserted that the food products should be raised in this part of the country and that it can't be done if reclamation is not carried out.

More of the speakers were from the Oriental countries, and they were about 800,000 people are experiencing an industrial awakening. Baldridge said that the federal government will use a constantly growing supply of all kinds of produce which could be raised here.

Governmental immigration which was declared necessary for various agricultural.

Work Proves Valuable in Preventing Recurrence of Meningitis.

Final Reports on the threat of meningitis taken during the last three weeks in Twin Falls showed 27 carriers out of 9104 persons tested. Most of the cases were in Twin Falls and the others scattered among other towns of Twin Falls county.

As the carriers were discovered they were placed in quarantine, and all persons who had contact with them were also isolated to prevent danger of spreading meningitis. Six school teachers were quarantined, but they were not to be carried and all were confined to their homes, leaving a stop teaching staff for that time.

TARIFF PLANS GET NEW TURN ON WEDNESDAY

Insurgent Republicans and Democratic Forces to Defeat Advocates On Revision Policy.

An important turn in the tariff deliberations at Washington occurred last week when 71 Democrats and 13 Republican insurgents passed a resolution over the vote of 28 Republican members and four Democrats to refer to congress the authority of revising the tariff rates.

President Hoover last week made a speech in support of the restoration of the flexible clause by which the president has the right to authorize emergency changes in the tariff to meet special conditions. This was adopted by the Republicans seven years ago and has since been revised.

The President and the insurgent Republicans who opposed this idea had declared that such changes as were authorized would be made through the regular tariff-making process.

The insurgent Republicans are in a minority in the House but they have the support of the Senate Finance Committee.

This is not the end of the controversy as the House must act on the measure before it is adopted. It was also intimated that the insurgent Republicans will have a bill under these conditions, since this measure is in direct opposition.

SOME PICKLING RECIPES By Betty Barclay
The word "pickles" covers a multitude of skins—and pulp and juice and vegetables too. Pickles may be sweet or sour; they may be served under the name of Indian piccalilli, catchup, chili, chowchow or relish; they may consist of cucumbers, onions, carrots, radishes, peppers, walnuts or watermelon rind. In all such the word "pickles" covers a multitude of skins.
Here are some recipes for sweet pickles—something that is needed to balance the pickle shelves of the average kitchen. The pickles are tasty likes. The sugar contained in the jar is a quick energy food and a good fuel for winter.

2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups vinegar
1 teaspoon whole cloves
1 teaspoon stick cinnamon
Peel oranges, removing all white membrane; cut into thick slices; steam until clear and tender. Drain sugar, vinegar and simmer slowly for one hour. Place in sterilized jars and seal.

Pickled Rade
Pickled sweet, red peppers make a delightful relish for cold meats or salads. Wash and dry peppers thoroughly; then cut a slice from the stem and remove seeds. Cut either in thin strips with scissors or into ribbons by working around and around the pepper with a sharp knife. Soak well then drop into ice water to crisp. Drain well. Make a syrup using a proportion of one cup sugar to two cups vinegar. Put peppers into clean, hot jars, fill to overflowing with hot syrup and seal.

The Rev. Dr. Sheldon, a clergyman with a heart full of charity toward him who attributes much of the evil of the world to the "movies" and constantly inveighs against them, was over Edward Farnaby having died in an accident, at the advice of Dr. Bradrick, gives her hand in marriage to Tom Holby, a young man who writes books that she has met and married "Mr. Woodville," a wholly imaginary person. Later she writes again to say that her "husband" has died in the desert. She takes a job as a domestic to avoid being bothered by her parents. A fall prevents her becoming a mother. In Arizona she had met

Tom Holby, a leading man in a motion picture company, and through him gets the opportunity to play a part in a desert drama. After his death, she marries Tom Holby, a star, fond of Holby and

She gets a job in a film laboratory. Mrs. Storgs from her town, who talks of the evils of the movies and says the stars are forced to seduce the public. Her mother is coming to visit her. Mem is worried about her fiancée.

(Now Go On With The Story)

She writes a cutting from Arthur Turrey, and abruptly offers herself to him in return for a job in the motion picture business. Mem is not to be paid for the story.

Mem's father reads a publicity story regarding her. She writes a letter to her father. Mem's fame begins to spread, and Claymore, the director, takes an unusual interest in her. Mem is fascinated with Mem but tries to be aloof and professional to hide the fact from the company.

Mem and Claymore become more and more interested in each other. Out riding one day, Claymore makes physical advances to her. While they are together, a hold-up man approaches and demands their money.

No Go On With The Story

His heart sickened. She would be dead to him. He could not hear the yell of warning in the noise of the machine.

The operator shut off his engine but the propellers still whirled at a speed that made them a blur of light. The witnesses were paralyzed by the horror of the moment.

Tom Holby broke from a nightmare to the immediate vicinity of the girl walking forward to a hideous fate. He ran and dove for her like a football player, knocked his left arm about her knees and flung her backward, thrusting his right arm and his head beneath her. She fell struck, her shoulders were upon his breast, her drenched hair fell across his face like seaweed.

She opened her eyes in a chaos of bewilderment. She saw the flying propeller blades were glinting in the light of the sun.

They were still revolving when the wind machine man, leaning from the post where he had stood, explained her fate. Her father, an eternal remorse, ran to lift her from the ground. Others helped up Tom Holby.

He had knocked himself unconscious when his head struck a rock in the road. His cheek was ripped and gushing blood.

He came to his senses at once and regained a ghastly look.

Mem screamed with fear for him. She had not yet recovered from her escape. She was all palsy for Tom Holby, and anxiety.

"It's nothing," he said. "But he staggered with death when he would have looked like now if he had waited an instant longer or missed his aim at her knee."

He drew her from the vortex of the propeller, which was subsiding with the flying snarl of a leopard that has missed its prey.

The next day the company gathered to see the rushes of the night shot.

Kendrick sighed, "That came near being a portrait of you walking out of this world."

Great Baseball Classic Starts in East Today

He has been trying to get to the top ever since and has at last reached his goal. Last year he had a champion team but the world champion Yankees were just a little too good. This year Connie Mack set the pace when the baseball season opened and he gave up his lead. The Yankees were also a champion team again but the Athletics were just a little too good.

The Chicago Cubs won their first pennant in the National League in 1919. They have been at the bottom since that time and this year reached the top by overcoming the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Connie Mack has been in baseball for fifty years. Until 1914 he had won several American League championships and two or three world titles. In that year he met the invincible Boston Braves who were in eighth place of the National league on July 1. In the most sensational climb in baseball history the Braves went up until they won the championship. Then came Connie Mack's Athletics four times straight in the world series. Connie Mack stood his team and started from the ground up.

Hear Program 300 Miles Off

Following the regular faculty services Sunday afternoon at the Twin Falls ward chapel, members gathered before a radio and heard the 2 o'clock program of the semi-annual conference of the I. H. S.

They took in a Chaplin show and on the way home she snuggled into his arms. "You were right when you spoke tenderly the male fun of him, zigzag, reminded him of bits of the picture that had come back. This conference, you said, 'I'm going in for comedy,' she said. 'It's the only thing worth while. All this tears and passion business makes me sick.'

Holby fought out. In his soul a decent breath of self-sacrifice before he brought himself to the height of treacherous rancor. "There's Ned Ling; he's looking for a pretty leading woman. He's got Chaplin, who's got the money in his own way. If you're so hell bent on a comic career get your agent to go after him."

"Ned Ling she means," he said. "I've seen him. I may make a try at him a little later."

But when she reached her home there was a note waiting for her—a letter from her father.

What ever comes from the brain carries the hue of the place it came from, and whatever comes from the heart carries the heat and color of its birthplace. — Holmes.

RECIPES OF DESTRUCTION

Here are a few good recipes for destroying your home, factory or any other property:

Let your electric wiring go without repairs or inspections over a long period of time; leave piles of oil-soaked rags or other waste lying around in corners of your garage or basement; don't use fire-resistive construction in building, because it costs a little more; drag lighted matches and cigarette butts wherever you may happen to be; light your fires with gasoline.

No one, of course, is going to consciously use these "recipes" of destruction, or any of the many others of the same nature. Yet it is safe to say that millions of Americans have capital fire risks in their homes or places of business. Laziness, carelessness, ignorance — these are the best friends of the fire menace.

Every time the fire engines dash out in their race against time it means that someone has done something or failed to do something that a little intelligent thought would have warned him against. We Americans are the most careless of peoples when it comes to fire—and the most wasteful.

Fire Prevention Week is this week. It behooves us all to profit by the knowledge and teachings of the experts who are fighting the discouraging war against fire. Almost every great conflagration would be prevented if we spent a few more dollars or a little more time in guarding against risks. Begin now.

IDAHO MOURNS

All Idaho mourns at the passing of Lieutenant-Governor Kinne, whose sudden death at his home in north Idaho last week was a shock to the commonwealth.

A man of sterling worth, kindly disposition and high character he had made a name for himself in Idaho for these qualities rather than for any particular political prowess.

His elevation to the lieutenant-governorship was an honor bestowed rather than one gained by a self-seeker. The vision one has of Mr. Kinne presiding over Idaho's senate in the capitol building is one of a smiling, affable gentleman, more desirous of administering the rules of the senate with fairness and honesty than with an iron hand.

Though Mr. Kinne lacked wide acquaintance throughout the state, he had nevertheless a warm circle of acquaintances and associates and possessed qualities which rendered him worthy of the office he held and which he filled with honor.

WHO INVENTED SCHOOL?

Charlemagne, the great Emperor, can take a lot of blame for starting school. Some people say he invented schools. Anyway, he desired the education of everyone, and inaugurated a great school system throughout his empire in 745.

Coming closer to home, the Rev. John Cotton started the first school in the United States at Boston in 1635.

With the Rev. John Elliot, Rev. Cotton started a campaign for more schools in the colonies. In 1642, the general court of Massachusetts completed their work by making a law sentencing all children to go to school whether they wanted to or not.

This speeded the development of the great present public school system. But children had one stunner friend in Gov. Berkeley of Virginia, who fought the idea of school so effectively that Virginia had no free schools until after the Civil War. He believed that education bred disobedience and heresy. Today most of us have learned to think differently.

W. C. T. U.

Twin Falls this week becomes the focal point of Prohibition in this state by virtue of the presence here of the annual state convention of the W. C. T. U.

It is to be hoped that liquor law violators will not disgrace themselves while the city is being thus honored. Out of respect for the prohibition forces gathered here, imbibers should lay off this week, at least! But perhaps it need be little fear; Idaho is rated as one of the...

A Digest of Industrial Progress

THOMAS W. SHIPLEY, vice-president of the Engineers' Trust Company, New York, recently expressed the opinion that the industrial revolution is being brought about by "great costs" to low standards of industrial production in the United States. This view is particularly noteworthy in view of the fact that the United States is generally regarded as a leader in industrial progress.

By using a procedure based on a close study of the industrial process, it is possible to determine the most efficient method of production. This is a task which is being undertaken by many industrial engineers and scientists.

DON'T LAUNDER YOUR EGGS

There is a Deter and an Easier Way to Have Clean Eggs for Market. Don't wash your eggs in hot water, as this will kill the germ which keeps them fresh.

Old Mother Jones was a character of the type one common enough, but now almost extinct. She was a woman of great energy to whom all new fangled ideas were works of the devil designed solely to corrupt God's children.

So long as the older persisted in their ways, they got along famously. Then the antiquated storage gave way to a shiny metal and glass container, the old butter and cream became things of the past, and a "creamery" of the new era became her first offering of eggs at market.

Imagine, if you can, her dismay when the white-aproned young man behind the counter appeared for the first offering of eggs at market. He said to her, "These eggs are not so good as yours."

"Why not, Mrs. Jones," he asked. "These eggs are not so good as yours," he said. "Why not, Mrs. Jones," he asked. "These eggs are not so good as yours," he said.

"Well, you see," he said, "these eggs are not so good as yours." "Why not, Mrs. Jones," he asked. "These eggs are not so good as yours," he said.

"Washed? Yes, of course they have. I spent hours today," she said. "Why not, Mrs. Jones," he asked. "These eggs are not so good as yours," he said.

"It would take too long to count the dollars you've lost," he said. "Why not, Mrs. Jones," he asked. "These eggs are not so good as yours," he said.

"I don't know what you mean," she said. "Why not, Mrs. Jones," he asked. "These eggs are not so good as yours," he said.

"I'm sure you don't want them," he said. "Why not, Mrs. Jones," he asked. "These eggs are not so good as yours," he said.

"I'll take them," she said. "Why not, Mrs. Jones," he asked. "These eggs are not so good as yours," he said.

You are planning a special luncheon—and have no meat? Then choose recipes that can be prepared in advance, and a special recipe for a delicious main course on one plate, let us say. If attractively arranged this is permissible for instant service.

Usually the unmyer member of "plate service" is the salad, which, if it is to be appealing, must not appear to allow its dressing to wander to other parts of the plate. Good recipes for this purpose are the jellied salads: Apricots, grapes and pineapples, molasses and lemon-flavored gelatin and garnished with a puff of mayonnaise; pineapple, shredded cabbage and celery; and pineapple, molasses and lemon-flavored gelatin and garnished with a puff of mayonnaise.

These can always be made the evening before and set away in the ice box until wanted—relieving the cook of one trouble—some excuse to pressure on the day of entertainment.

A very good plate service menu is the following: Creamed peas and mushrooms in Green pepper sauce; Jellied vegetable salad; Mocha Mousse; Coffee; Virginia Soup.

When Baking Meat It is always better to use fat, or butter mixed with water when baking meats. Plain water or juice that contains little fat dries the outside coat of the meat, roasting it.

When washing your white-enameled cooking utensils, spin will come off readily if you dip them in a solution of soda and scrub over the enamel. Use plenty of creamed peas and mushrooms in Green pepper sauce.
