LAND OPENING AT DOWNEY IDAHO

Rich Fruit Land Thrown Open to Settlers Sept. 7.

CHAS. H. MULL OF THIS CITY CONNECTED WITH BIG IRRIGATION PROJECT

Portneuf-Marsh Irrigation Company Will Throw 20,000 Acres of Caret Act-Land Open to Settlers and Investors—Downey Townsite Opening.

The following article, taken from the Salt Lake Tribune in regard to the Portneuf-Marsh Valley Irrigation project, to be thrown open for settlement September 7th. Chas. H. Mull of this city is the engineer in charge of the work and reports that everything will be in good shape for the opening: This land is located in Bannock county, State of Idaho, in Townships 10, 11 and 12, Range 27 E. 2, N., and Township 11, Range 36, E. 2, N., at a point on a main line of the Oregon Short Line railroad, about thirty miles from Pocatello, county seat of Bannock county, and extends south about twelve miles along the railroad right-of-way. This land is beautifully situated in a valley, inclosed on all sides by high mountains, and is well protected from storms of a serious nature. The railroad company has three stations on this tract of land, the first one being Marsh Valley, at the extreme northern edge. The next is Virginia station in the center of the tract, the last and most important station being Downey, situated about two miles from the southern boundary. This land is beautifully situated for irrigation, having a gentle slope toward Marsh creek, sufficient for perfect drainage. The lay of the land is such that all points can be reached by the irrigation ditches without flumes, or having to level off the ground. There is no rock to be found on the tract, the soil being made up of volcanic ash, mixed with fine gravel. The quality of the land, together with its naturally protected location, makes it one of the finest locations for fruit raising that can be found in the country. It is close to market, being situated the best of any tract in the State of Idaho, for the reason that Downey, the principal town, is only four hours from Ogden and five hours from Salt Lake. There are three passenger trains a day each way, all of which stop at Downey, besides one mixed train, which carries freight and passengers. The state and government have both passed on the matter of this company, and have deemed it sufficient for the complete reclamation of this land. This land will be thrown open to settlement on the 7th day of September, 1908, the sale of land going under contract of the state. The price for land will be 50 cents per acre, the price of water right $16 per acre. The allotment of the land being as follows: The entryman is required to file his application for allotment either in person or by proxy, any time before the hour of 12 noon on the day of the opening. He must state that he is a citizen, or has declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States; he must pay to the state 25 cents per acre for the land he wishes allotted to him, and to the company $3 per acre. The balance of the payments for the water right being divided into nine equal annual installments. The amount of installments to pay 6 per cent interest until paid. The said deferred payments, however, do not draw interest until the water is ready for the first irrigation season, so that the settler has to pay no money or interest until after he has had a chance to raise his first crops.

To get his title to the land the settler must within one year from the time that he notified that the water is ready for use, place one acre of the land under cultivation, build a house thereon, not smaller than 10x14 feet, and make continuous residence thereon for thirty days. The second year he must have one-eighth of the land under cultivation, and then by appearing before the commissioner of the state land board, and proving by two witnesses that he has complied with the provisions outlined above, and by paying another 50 cents per acre, he will receive a patent for his land the same as in homestead entries. The settler may, however, make his final proof within one year by doing the required amount of work. He also has the right at any time to pay up all deferred payments on his water right and receive a perpetual right and clear title thereto.

When the Portneuf-Marsh Valley Irrigation company, Ltd., has completed the irrigation system, and the said system and works have been approved by the state engineer, and the state board of land commissioners will then turn the same over to the settlers, theirs to own, and to hold forever, the same being a part of the rights and interests pertaining to said land. One share of stock in the irrigation works being represented by each acre of land owning rights thereon.

The legal subdivision of this land will be forty acres and no smaller will be allowed to take over eighty. This does not impair his right to take Carey act lands at such other places or times as he may wish to the extent of another eighty acres. The land under this canal system will produce all kinds of small fruits, such as strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, etc., and also the larger fruits, such as apples, peaches, cherries, and plums. It will produce wonderful crops of vegetables, potatoes running to 600 bushels to the acre. Being only a few hours from market, it is the most desirable section to the homeseeker in the inter-mountain country. The extreme edge of the land is but three miles from the railroad, and it is impossible to get over four miles from a railroad station on this tract of land. The land in this valley should be worth from $400 to $1,000 per acre within the next four or five years. The climatic conditions are ideal, the natural beauty of the surroundings are especially fine, and the homeseeker will find his time well spent in the investigation of this project.

J. H. Brady Nominated for Governor

Northern Part of State Takes Lion's Share of Plums. S. Belle Chamberlain Renominated for State Superintendent of Schools.

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 3.—The special bearing the Twin Falls delegation arrived in Boise at 9 P. M. Monday evening, without mishap on the way, or any incident of importance, excepting that after arriving at Almidon, it happened that the Pullman superintendent was aboard, and he insisted that they remove their banners from the Pullman. They refused, whereupon he pulled them off, and as a result, every one in the delegation left the car. The empty car was left by the railroad people at Glenn's Ferry. However, at the

and in the Convention Hall, after acclamations by the Pocatello band, were called to order at 11:15 by Vice Chairman C. L. Hestman, after which the call was read by Secretary C. C. Dietrich. During the seating of the delegates a banner of Brady was brought forward and hung near the platform, and this caused wild cheering and enthusiasm. One of French followed and occasioned a second outbreak. At 11:15 prayer was offered by the Rev. Gen. C. Paddock of Boise, in which he asked the name of Roosevelt, the whole convention hall rang with cheers.

At the conclusion of his speech, he was moved and succeeded that Major Fred H. Reed, of Lincoln, be appointed temporary chairman, and C. T. McDonald of Idaho, be appointed temporary secretary. The vice chairman appointed Col. Hamer and Judge Trull to escort the temporary chairman and secretary to the platform. There was tremendous applause as they went up. When the dia ceased, Major Reed was introduced, and made a brief speech. Major Reed began by saying: "Gentlemen, I little realized when I came in here thirty years ago, with a very poor, dejected team of cayuses plodded to about a twenty-dollar wagon that I would have the honor and pleasure of presiding over a convention that looks as though it were to do." Further, he referred to Governor Gooding and the fact that he had been called East, and could not attend the convention, and to Senator Hestman, and to Senator Borah. In connection with Senator Borah, he said: "When a man has been accused and has hung the accusations in the teeth of his accusers, and disproved the accusations as he has, the only thing we can do is to accept him at his face value." The listeners seemed to be fully in sympathy with these statements, judging from the applause which followed. Later he said of Congressman French: "When a young man from a new state in the Northwest goes to congress, the United States army does not turn out, the White House is not thrown open, Pennsylvania avenue is not strewn with American Beauty roses, to greet this young man from the West, but he is in earnest, capable, hardworking representative of the State of Idaho, and he is making good."

The temporary secretary was then called upon for a speech, but he merely said that he was there for business, and not for a speech. A motion was then made that the roll be called, and that the chairman of each delegation present rise and announce the committee on Order of Business, Resolutions and Credentials. This motion was carried, the roll was called, and the following committees named: Credentials—A. V. Gleichert, Adm: T. M. Edwards, Bannock; J. P. Shelley, Blingham; G. C. Spenberg, Bear Lake; O. J. #### Oregon Short Line Will Build from Twin Falls.

ENGINEER ASHTON, OF THE HAMILIAN ROAD BREAKS SILENCE.

Road from This City to Wells, Nevada, Seems to Be Assured—Route Shortens Distance to California Markets Several Hundred Miles.

Surveying parties have been placed in the field by William Ashton, chief engineer of the Oregon Short Line, to run a line for a railroad between Twin Falls, Idaho, and Wells, Nevada. The proposed line will be about 90 miles long and will be built for the purpose of giving the districts around Twin Falls an outlet to Nevada and California. It is expected that the region around Twin Falls will become a great producer and shipper of California products, and that the proposed line will be built to give it an outlet for its product, and passenger traffic to Nevada and California. To get to Nevada or California at present travelers from Twin Falls must go east to Pocatello, then south to the Southern Pacific main line at Ogden, or go north to Portland—Capital News.

Cogswell, Shoshone; C. F. Gloydstein, Twin Falls; J. D. Robertson, Washington.

At the close of the naming of the committee, Edgar Wilson arose and announced that provision had been made for the entertainment of the guests, and that automobiles would take them for a trip over the city, and a motion to adjourn until 2:30 in order to give the different committees time to formulate their reports. This motion was carried. Afternoon Session. At 3 o'clock the convention was called to order by Temporary Chairman Fred H. Reed. The report of the Committee on Credentials was first called for, and as it was not quite ready, a motion was made and carried that they be allowed twenty minutes in which to get it ready. At the end of twenty minutes, it was read and adopted. Next was the report of the committee on order of suggestion of the man who was instrumental in securing Pullman service for the City of Twin Falls, they went back into the car just before it reached Boise. Twin Falls people are now ashamed of their locality.

—Headed by the Columbia band of Boise, the delegates formed in line in front of the Idaho, and with their followers marched to Riverside Park, especially that the convention be ruled or guided by what was for the general good.

Following the invocation was the opening address by C. C. Dietrich. He said: "The Republican party stands for iron homesteads for free men, for sound money, and for the supervision of great corporations." Applause greeted this statement, and later, at Doan's Kidney Pills relieve backache Care every ill.

Robert Baker Buchanan near Bonnevile St., Pocatello, Idaho, brakeman on the Oregon Short Line R. R. says: "I suffered from backache and heavy pains across my loins for more than two years. When I caught the least cold it settled in my back and caused me considerable suffering. If I stooped I was rewarded with severe pains across the region of the kidneys and I was unable to lift any great weight. There was also a feeling of soreness in the back and I had difficulty with my kidney secretions. This was particularly annoying at night. All these symptoms showed me that I had kidney trouble and I used many different remedies to cure it, but obtained little benefit. Finally I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and commenced using them. They proved to be just the remedy that I needed. In a short time the backache ceased, the soreness was removed from my back and the aching pains across my loins was cured. I am pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

The state convention should have finished its work and made no exception in favor of Landon and Hastings when cutting heads on the state ticket.

The many friends of Miss S. Delle Chamberlain on this tract will fully accord with the state convention in again endorsing her for the office of superintendent of school and will be prepared to give her a good, big majority.

From this date The Times Printing and Publishing Company will conduct a strictly union shop. Anything that this paper can legitimately do to advance the mutual interests of the firm and the union will be done just as long as right and justice for employer and employee is maintained. The two interests can, if acting from honest motives, be of untold benefit to each other in protecting the wages of the printer, and in protecting the employer against incompetent labor and low prices.

Every day the secretary of the Commercial club, Mr. Danbridge, receives letters from some man or firm asking the club to get some concession for it in order that some private business can be installed in this city. One business man put it very aptly this week in discussing the subject, when he said: "Twin Falls in past the experiment stage and does not need to coax private business enterprises to locate here." If Twin Falls has not proven her right to be called a fixture by its solid business houses and public improvements, then to the man who still has to be shown, a flat refusal should be given him. Twin Falls don't need him. The business men who have already located here came without lingo and without any promises whatever and have since come worked out their own destinies and struggled to ward a better and bigger Twin Falls, even at a personal loss. Why should these pioneer business men, through the Commercial club which they have supported, be asked to pave the way and feather the nest for some other man to come in and take the cream of the tract's business? This, of course, does not apply to institutions of public benefit that could not for several years, be self-supporting. When a sugar company, worth several millions asks for a bonus which, in comparison to its capital stock, is a mere drop in the bucket, it looks as though it was only trying to do a little grafting before entering a field in which it has already made plans to invade.

One of the most important offices in the county is that of county commissioner, and one that should occupy the attention of the voter during the coming election. Upon the business ability and integrity of the county commissioner rests the whole question whether the affairs of the county be administered expeditiously, or whether extravagance shall prevail. It is in the power of the commissioner to insist that the officers do their duty or else suffer for neglect by loss of salary. It is in the power of the commissioner to insist that vouchers be made out by every official before any bill is allowed for expenses. It is the duty of the commissioner to see that every cent of money spent on roads and bridges be used to the utmost extent. They have the power to cut down on over-lauded bills and against their decision there is little hope of appeal. In fact, the commissioners stand every moment of their term as the guardians of the taxpayer and it behooves the taxpayer to see that his guardians are men of known probity and acumen.

LABOR DAY CELEBRATION.

Local Organizations to Participate in Monster Holiday Fete.

Next Monday, from early morning until the morning light of the next morning, will be Labor Day in Twin Falls at least, and in consequence all the stores and offices will be closed in order to allow the employees an opportunity to celebrate the most important day in their calendar. The committee on arrangements and program has been at work since early in July and have given promise of some greatly interesting sports and events.

Judge K. I. Park of Idaho has consented to speak to the crowd that will assemble and his reputation as an orator should be sufficient to draw a large crowd.

A ball game in the morning and a bucking contest in the afternoon are among the advertised attractions, besides many other sports and amusements planned to keep the guest busy all day long. The event, and such of the next morning as the devotees desire, will be devoted to a public dance.

KIMBERLY.

Kimberly, Sept. 2, 1908.
The Misses Corrie of Rock Creek, are in Kimberly this week looking after their interests and to ascertain the loss caused by the fire.

Victor Blake was a visitor to Twin Falls Saturday morning, to find their home destroyed by fire. The whole community sympathizes with the unfortunate family.

getting fire to a pile of rubbish near the track, and which wind fanning the flames thus started until the buildings caught fire. The fire evidently began in the Mercantile store and was burning fiercely before discovered. The inmates of the rooming house and residence were forced to leave hurriedly and one man, G. H. Hovey, lost everything, even to a sum of money carried in his coat pocket. The post-office was situated in the Mercantile building and it was only by strenuous efforts on the part of Harlan Fletcher that the mall was recovered, with the exception of the outgoing sacks. The house of Mr. Beehaver, about 100 feet south of the store building, had a very narrow escape and was badly scorched by the intense heat. A tent has been erected as temporary quarters for the postoffice.

The Kimberly Mercantile building was the property of the Norton estate of Rock Creek, and was partially insured, as were the other buildings and the stocks destroyed. Manager Hecox of the Mercantile company, has moved his family into the mill warehouse temporarily, while a new residence is being constructed.

SAINTS DOWNED IN BASEBALL.

Twin Falls Both Games by Narrow Margins on Sunday.

The morning game last Sunday was a splendid pitchers' battle, in which Holohan pitched one of the best games of the season. His control was perfect and his delivery unmovable, with the result that St. Anthony was shut out by a score of four to nothing.

The afternoon game, while not so one-sided, was still a sharp contest and left the result in doubt until the last. This pitched his usual game, with the result that St. Anthony was shut out by a score of four to nothing.

He leaves to mourn him a wife and four children and two brothers, who all reside in the Piler neighborhood. The remains were brought to Hunt's undertaking parlors Tuesday afternoon, whence they were shipped to Abilene, Kansas, for interment. The bereaved family have the heartfelt sympathy of all in this their hour of sorrow.

Marimus Paulson, aged 32 years, employed as foreman of the rock work on the Salmon river dam, was struck by a falling rock on the dirt way which is being built from the rim rock to the water edge, receiving an injury which caused his death in a very few minutes. The accident occurred last Friday morning. The crew of men which Mr. Paulson was working was rolling rock down into the canyon. The remains were brought to this city Saturday and taken to Hunt's undertaking parlors, where they were prepared for shipment east. P. H. Paulson of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, arrived today and will take with him the remains for that city tomorrow evening.

We were obliged to move our stock, and, as a temporary location, we have opened up in the room just west of the postoffice, with the Twin Falls Transfer Co., which we will occupy for 30 days, and in order to reduce our stock preparatory to moving into our permanent location, we are going to disregard profits on a long list of items. While we are too much torn up at present to give a detailed list of them we will say that Children's School Shoes will receive the heaviest cut and we have a very complete line of them from which to select. Also all broken lots of Summer Stock in both Ladies' and Men's. Of course you will need some of these goods. Reserve your business until you look over our stock and get our prices. THE FAMOUS SHOE STORE.

OLD BUSINESS HOUSE CHANGES.

Sprague's Pharmacy Sold to Messrs. Calkins & Hunt. A business change occurred last Monday which caused a great deal of surprise to the people of this city when A. Sprague sold his drug business to Messrs. Calkins and Hunt. The transfer took place on the first of the week and since then has been busy for some time. The Sprague's Pharmacy has been in business in this city since early in the year 1906, and has built up a fine trade by fair dealing and by catering to the best class of custom on the tract and Mr. Sprague's many efforts will regret that he has decided to quit the drug business. The new firm will, however, carry on the business in the same excellent manner and will see a success steadily to that enjoyed by the former owners. Messrs. Calkins and Hunt have been identified with the business life of the city for some time and have acquired a large amount of property on the tract. They respectfully solicit a reasonable share of the drug trade of the city and vicinity and their experience guarantees that the same intelligent care and attention for the necessities of the public which has characterized the policy of the Sprague Pharmacy since its inception will be maintained as far as possible. Mr. Calkins has had sufficient experience in the various branches of the drug trade to command him to the confidence of the medical profession, as well as the general public, being, as he is, the usual apothecary and retail drug store, graduated from Ann Arbor University, taking the Ph. C. degree and having been engaged in the drug business in Mr. Clements, Detroit, and other cities for a number of years. Mr. Hunt is also entitled to the confidence of the medical profession and public, having been graduated with the degree of the drug business, he has taken three years medicine at the University of Toronto, which will amply compensate for the lack of practical experience.

THE FAMOUS MOVES. Popular Shoe Store Opens Temporarily in Transfer Building. Yesterday morning the Famous Shoe store began to move its quarters from the location next to the Ibis to the new temporary site at the rear of the Twin Falls Transfer building. The new location is a most desirable one for the business. Mr. French will greet his many customers there until the first of October, when he will occupy the rooms in the Ibis. With creditable energy the proprietor of the shoe store has made the move in order that his regular customers may not lack for shoe leather, and he will continue to build up his business in the final location.

A Hard Trip. The roads are now in bad shape between Duhl and Twin Falls, if the experienced driver of Mr. Daniel Smith can say anything in determining the situation. They arrived last evening in their 200-cylinder touring car, reaching here about 5 o'clock p. m. They had been forty-eight hours on the road from Twin Falls. About a thousand laborers are working on dunes and ditches down that way and the roads are all dug up, in some places being so full of holes that it is almost impossible for teams to pass. In one place fifty or seventy-five laborers or as many as could catch a hand, lifted the mud and carried it in a hundred feet or more in order to get around a pile of boulders that obstructed the road so completely that the team was unable to get by. Mr. and Mrs. Smith intend to go to the Boat Engine works in Seattle on the machine, and there take a steamer for a few weeks' trip to Japan, provided Mrs. Smith is able to stand the journey. Her health has not been good lately and the outing it is believed will be beneficial.—Wood River News-Miner.

jug and cereal; to saunter out into the freshness of the world and breathe it and feel the sun warming cheek and throat and the little breezes from south stirring the bright strands of her hair.

Out over the path wet odorous grass she picked her way, skirts swung high above the delicate contour of ankle and hip; following a little downward path she knew full of rocky angles swept by pendant sprays of blackberry, and then down under the jutting rock, north through thicket of wild cherry along the creek, until before her the way opened downward again where in their eye it beech glimmered white hot in the sun.

From his bedroom window Mortimer peeped forth, following her progress with a leer.

As she descended, noticing the rifts of bruizing seaweed piled along the tide mark, her foot dislodged a tiny triangle, which she called the clitoris, and ringing below, and as she sprang lightly to the sand a man, lying full length and motionless as the heaped seaweed, raised himself on one arm, fixing his sun-dazzled eyes on her.

The dull shock of surprise halted her as Seward rose to his feet, still dazed, the sand running from his brown shooting clothes over his tightly striped nether garment.

"Have you the faintest idea that I supposed you were here?" she asked briefly. Then, frank in her disappointment, she looked up at the cliffs overhead where her line of retreat lay.

"Why did you not go with the others?" she added, unsmiling.

"I don't know, I will, if you wish." He had colored slightly at the frank disappointment in her line of retreat lay.

"Wait," she said, aware of her own crude attitude and confused by it, "wait a moment, Mr. Seward. I don't mean to drive you away."

"It's self exile," he said quietly, "quite voluntary, I assure you."

As he looked up coolly: "Have you nothing more friendly to say to me? Is your friendship for me so limited that my first caprice oversteps the bounds?"

"I meant no criticism!"—"Wait, Mr. Seward," as he moved slowly toward the path. "You force me to say other things which you have no right to hear. After last night, after such a night is it not natural for a girl to creep off somewhere by herself and try to think a little?"

He had turned away on her. The answering color crept to his forehead.

"Is that why?" he asked slowly. "Is it not a reason?"

"It was my reason for being here." She bit her lip. The girl, that trend to the conversation was ominous, and she had meant to do her drifting alone in still sun dreams, fearing no witness, no testimony, no judgment save her own self in court with her own soul.

"I am surprised you cannot go now," she reflected innocently.

"Indeed I can and must."—"And leave me here to die in the sand with my heels? Merit?"

"Do you mean that?"—"Certainly not, Mr. Seward. I don't want to dream now. I don't care to reflect. You see what you've done, don't you—saved me from a sentimental morning's weeping in sentimental gyrics over what might have been? Now you can appreciate it, can't you—your wisdom in appearing in the desert—save a silly girl the effort of seeking in the spirit?"

"Ah, Mr. Seward, I am vastly obliged to you. Pray sit here beside me in the flesh for fear that in your absence I might commit the folly that tempted me here."

The low rustling in the sand, the accompanying her voice had stimulated her to a gay audacity which for the instant extinguished in her the little fear of him she had been barely conscious of.

"Do you know," he said, "that you also answered from my sun dreams?"

"Did I? And, can't you remember them?"—"You save me the necessity."

"Oh, that is a somewhat complicated matter, but I shall not say a word of it until I have had a chance to think it over."

at the man lying there. Her eyes closed. How long she did not know, she did not heed—until, stirring, she looked up, and she smiled a trifle and closed her eyes, stung by the sudden clatter of pulse and heart.

When he rose and walked over she looked up gravely, pouring the last handful of white sand through her stretched fingers.

"Did you dream?" he asked lightly. "Yes."

"Did you dream true?"—"Nothing of my dream—can happen," she said. "You know that, don't you?"—"I know that we love and that we dare not leave it."

She suffered his arm about her, his eyes looking deeply into hers, a close, sweet caress, a union of lips and her dimmed eyes' response.

"Stephen," she faltered, "how can you make it so hard for me? How can you force me to this shame?"—"Shame?" he repeated vaguely.

"Yes, this treachery to myself when I cannot hope to be more to you, when I dare not love you too much!"—"You must dare, Sylvia."

"No, no, no! I know myself, I tell you! I cannot give up what is offered—for you—dearly, dearer as I do love you!" She turned and caught his hands in hers, flushed, trembling, un-strange. "I cannot—I simply cannot! How can you love me and listen to such wickedness? How can you still care for such a girl as mine—some-thing because I have a heart—or had until you took it? Keep it. It is the only part of me not all ignoble."

"I will keep it—in trust," he said, "until you give yourself with it."

But she only shook her head wearily, withdrawing her hands from his, and for a time they sat silent, eyes apart.

Then—"There is another reason," she said, "and it is a very serious one."

He looked at her, hesitated, and—"My habits?" he asked simply.

"I have them in check."

"Are you certain?"—"But there is some-thing I think I may be now."

"Yet," she said timidly, "you lost one fight—since you knew me."

The dull red mantling his face wrong her heart. She turned hastily and hid both hands on his shoulders.

"That chance I would take, with all its uncertainty, all the dread inheritance you have come into. I love you enough for that. And if it turned out that I was not to face it with you, and if the plea of it, the grief of it, killed me, would you take that chance if you loved me through it all. But there is some-thing else. I shall let me have my say while I find the words—something else you do not understand. Turn your face a little. Please don't look at me. This is what you do not know: that I have conscientious every woman of my race has gone wrong! Every one!

And I am beginning with such a marriage, deliberately, selfishly, shamelessly, perfectly conscious of the race record behind me."

"Once when I knew nothing—before I met you—I believed such a marriage would not only permit me to live, but to be happy, and with it came in the harbor of convention, leaving me free to become what I am fashioned to become—author and arbiter in my own world. And now! And now! I don't know myself. I don't know what I may become. Your love forces my hand. I am displaying all the shallowness, falseness, pettiness, all the mean and cruel and callous character which shall not truly you! You are not to run the risk of what I might prove to be when I remember in bitterness all I have renounced. If I married you, I should renounce, with me, success, what I care for. Better for you and for me that I marry him and let him bear with me when I remember that he cost me you!"

Suddenly deep within him something seemed to fall. He perhaps a tiny newly lighted flame of unaccustomed purity, the dawning flicker of aspiration to better things. Whatever it was, material, spiritual, was gone now, and she felt it last attainment for a night the old accustomed twirl about kept up—the same dull acquiescence, the same uncertainty of self, the familiar lack of will, of incentive, the congenial tendency to drift, and with it came a certain, perhaps reaction from the recent attraction with that master voice.

"I suppose," he said in a dull voice, "you are right."

"Yes, I am wrong—wrong," she said, "firing her lovely face and heavy eyes."—"But I have chosen my path. And you will forget."

"I hope so," he said simply. "If you hope so, she said."

SUN SOUTHERN DAHO

CAREY ACT LANDS

PRACTICALLY 15,000 acres of CAREY ACT LANDS are being reclaimed and put under irrigation by the KINGS HILL IRRIGATION AND POWER COMPANY in the famous SNAKE RIVER VALLEY IN SUNNY SOUTHERN IDAHO. THE COMING FRUIT AND ORCHARD COUNTRY OF THE WEST, where culture is reduced to a minimum, and where there is no apple scab, no fungus growth, no rotting of fruit resulting from too much rain and moisture. Here spraying is most effective—there are no rains during the spraying season to wash it off immediately after spraying. Hence the codling moth is kept away from the trees, permitting the fruit to mature in perfect condition, and free from worms, thus enabling the fruit-grower to realize the top market price for his fruit.

There is no rain during the blossoming season, to prevent perfect fer- tilization or polonization of every blossom, and there is so much constant sunshine that honey bees are numerous and assist in pollinating the blossoms, causing everyone of them to produce fruit, and making it necessary to thin out or pick off half or more of the green fruit to prevent breaking off many of the results. Here the greatest danger is in allowing the fruit to remain on the tree to permit its growing to perfection.

This is certainly a land of opportunity, an empire of prosperity for the man who exercises his brain power and is willing to work and take advantage of what Dame Nature and Irrigation will provide for him in a most lavish manner.

SNAKE RIVER VALLEY, and especially the KINGS HILL IRRIGATION & POWER CO'S project, will gradually advance to the front and stand first in position of production of fruit, surpassing Yakima, Wenatchee, Tonopah, and Hood River apples, peaches, apricots and pears, in size, color and flavor, and beyond question the best keeper and shipper in the world. (This quality results from our cool nights in which no fruit country can excel us.)

There is sufficient sun heat during the long days to make this project famous in the growth of watermelons, canteloupes, and all kinds of berries and vegetables to the highest degree of perfection.

OUR LAND LIES ALONG AND ON THE SOUTH SIDE OF THE SNAKE RIVER and the lava bluffs, which rise up from our land, to a height of three to four hundred feet, give protection from the cold north winds and yet cause sufficient air current to prevent frost in the budding and blossoming season. This condition is our guarantee of a full crop of fruit, berries and melons every year.

What is true of fruit, etc., also applies to grains and grasses—nowhere in the Northwest can they raise more per acre, nor of a better quality than in the SNAKE RIVER VALLEY, SUNNY SOUTHERN IDAHO.

Poultry raising should also be very profitable on account of there being no rain during the summer months. THE MAIN LINE of the Oregon SHORT LINE RAILROAD runs along this land its entire length, and there are three stations or shipping points, supplying excellent shipping facilities.

THIS IS the land of plenty, come and get busy—take advantage of the opportunity while it is yet possible—he who deliberates too long loses thereby.

Fulfilling Of Mail Order Business.

Sears, Roebuck & Company has just completed the worst year's business in its recent history.

The business in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908, was practically $10,000,000 less than in 1907, and over $5,000,000 less than in 1906. This terrific slump in gross sales, from $23,285,000 in 1907 and $20,861,763 in 1906 to $12,500,000 in 1908, came out when the great corporation made its preliminary annual report. It is admitted the figures of this year's business are not complete, but approximately.

Net profits were nearly $1,000,000 less than last year and the company was compelled to dip into its surplus to the tune of $800,000.

In other words this mail order house finished with its net profits 28 per cent less than in 1907 and 7 per cent less than in 1906. So if merchants that are "chilled" to compare with Sears, Roebuck & Co. believe mail order houses are having an easy row to hoe, let them ponder these figures.

Coyote Proof Fence.

Fencing the range to protect sheep from the attacks of predatory animals has long been a problem in the West. The Wallowa National Forest, Oregon. The problem was to find a strong fence that would make the sheep secure, even without the care of a herder.

The chosen fence, which is built of woven wire, with barbed wire on the top, has been out all the winter and has not only withstood the attacks of the coyotes, but has not withstood the attacks of the grizzlies, which are apparently able to get through it with little trouble.

Sheep numbering 2,200 head were placed in the enclosure with their range upon June 20th and have been allowed to graze at their free will, with no attention whatever from any herder. They have conducted happily and as far as the observation of those in charge of the experiment goes, a given range grazed by sheep under such conditions will grow more abundant than one grazed under the charge of a herder.

Trails along the fence show that predatory animals came to the fence constantly, and follow it around but, with the exception of the bears, do not seem able to enter.

The hunter employed by the service for hunting predatory animals in the vicinity of this fenced enclosure has not seen any less than six or seven of this species, besides numerous other animals of the predatory class.

The results of this experiment are so satisfactory that for the private individuals are profitable by it. Mr. J. W. Emmons of Troy, Oregon, has a large area of private land fenced with a special wire fence in which he has this season lambed a herd of 670 ewes without a herder's care and with very little attention and great success. Mr. Emmons is extending his fence, for he finds that it pays.

Careful record will be kept of the weights lambs raised inside this fence, with a view of comparing them with the same grade of lambs raised outside the fence on the same class of range, so that any gains or losses in weight and growth may be determined.

Gross Sales 20 Per Cent Less.

This corporation does business in Chicago, but did not incorporate under the Illinois laws because the latter are altogether too strict to suit the purposes for which it is organized. It went to New Jersey to secure the greater liberties that New Jersey corporation laws afford, when the annual meeting takes place in Jersey City, Sept. 25th, these figures of terrific loss will be presented to the stockholders.

Is it any wonder the retail merchants are sailing in their sleeves as they compare their business for the year with this terrific slump in the earnings of their most dangerous competitor?

The company's bookkeepers estimate the total loss in gross sales at $5,785,792 over 1907, or a decrease of over 16 per cent. The following figures given to the stockholders give the detailed information of the alarming decrease in business.

Here Are the Real Figures.

The annual report of Sears, Roebuck & Co. shows a surplus for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908, of about $1,700,000, or $800,000 less than that of the preceding year. Based on available information the year's results were about as follows:

Gross sales, 1908, $12,500,000; 1907, $23,285,792; 1906, $20,861,763. Total income, 1908, $2,750,000; 1907, $3,696,342; 1906, $2,592,228. Interest, 1908, $350,000; 1907, $150,815; Net profits, 1908, $2,400,000; 1907, $3,235,527; 1906, $2,522,928. Preferred dividends, 1908, $595,602; 1907, $55,492; 1906, $419,982. Surplus, 1908, $1,700,000; 1907, $2,542,900; 1906, $2,542,900.

The following short statement given out with the figures just quoted, further explains the falling off:

Panic Times Hit Hard.

The first quarter of the fiscal year just closed showed a slight decrease in gross sales, but the second quarter fell behind 25 per cent. The second half of the fiscal year generally produced 20 per cent less business than the first half, and in the last six months there was some recovery from the panic, but the average decrease for the period was more than 10 per cent. It is safe to estimate the decrease for the fiscal year at 20 per cent.

The surplus, it will be seen from the statistics just quoted, shows a de-

Business Day Full Half.

According to the Wall Street Journal of New York, the company during the year just ended has reduced the number of employees just one-half. According to the figures given that newspaper by the firm, the company now employs 4,200 persons, while the maximum was twice that number.

Business Dull, Says Official.

"The present is the dull time of the year with us every year," said Vice President Roosevelt to the Wall Street Journal. "It looks as though business would be rather dull for some time. However, we are a little improvement."—General Merchants' Review.

business, which was read and adopted as follows:

We would recommend that Colonel Thomas Hamer be made permanent chairman, that the temporary secretary, G. F. McDonald, be made permanent secretary, that the assistant secretary, C. C. Deltrick, be made permanent assistant secretary; that the order of the committee shall be as follows: 1st, Committee on Credentials; 2nd, Committee on Resolutions; 3rd, Committee on Order of Business. The Committee on Order of Business further recommends that the nominations before this convention be made in the following manner:

United States senator, justice of the Supreme court, one member of congress, governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer, superintendent of public instruction, inspector of mines, three presidential electors, State Central committee.

The next business to come before the convention was the naming of a permanent chairman. Colonel Hamer was elected to the platform and introduced by Major Reed in a very neat little speech.

After great clamoring, Permanent Chairman Colonel Hamer came to the platform, and made a very interesting and scabbling speech. In part, he said:

"Gentlemen of the Convention: I wish to thank you for the honor you have conferred upon me in making me your permanent chairman.

Whenever two or three are gathered together on a street corner in the name of Democracy, and have announced in loud and vociferous voices that this is a Democratic year, you can make up your mind that they are engaged in enacting the part of the small boy who whistles in Denver, or the boy through the graveyard, just to keep his courage up. You will also recall them on the recent pages of current history, when the mayor of Denver very obligingly took off the lid in Denver the very third day of the Democratic convention.

Wm. J. Bryan was nominated for the third and last time, that the sign of the zodiac was in the crow hat, and the wind was from the east (they both laughed). When we count the ballots on next election day, it will be found that the people of this state are breathing, moving things that have been accomplished by Theodore Roosevelt in the last four years, and a continuation of which is guaranteed by Mr. Taft. Liquefied air, directorate rows, and soothing syrup for the ear, and grandmother, have been many, but steak, hot biscuit, and all wool breeches for the Republican people.

Money plenty, and the people are resuming its great proportions. Even a Democrat of good reputation, if he has two or three good Republican endorsements on his nose, can get the day and get money. Property is within our land, and everybody is happy, excepting John Nugent, Dr. Woodburn and Fred Dubois, and may the Lord be with them until they meet at the state convention again, and then nobody can take care of them.

Taft is five feet over the waist, but he also wears a No. 8 hat, it is unknown in the crowd. A full dinner pail and an overflowing brain pan are the emblems of the Republican party. (There claps so much in the crowd that it was very hard to hear him.) They have proven that Republican promises are as good and as secure as a bond.

A boss is one of the necessary concomitants of this mundane existence. Money was the name of the boss. He was a Jew by birth, and a republican by instinct. He passed the first pure food law in this state, and the second. (Applause was free for one.) And he revived the tariff. Now my friends, in all the intervening centuries since that time, he has been a boss. The more of this day is Theodore Roosevelt of Washington and Oyster Bay. I claim the divine right to choose my own boss and I am free today to renew allegiance to Theodore Roosevelt. Whenever I hear the Democratic party howling, or about the boss, I turn back to the pages of my history and infuse in a spasms.

"I read a little resolution which was passed by a Y. M. C. A. on the other day. 'Whereas, Wm. J. Bryan, the greatest commoner, and the greatest common-law man, the greatest free silver, the greatest advocate of government ownership of railways, the greatest blower of air, the greatest minner without a record, trying to break into the president's chair, the opinion of this association that he has about as much chance of success as a short-tailed hawk in fly time."

Speeches were made by Greene of Shoshone, and Ross, of Coconino. On Resolutions was called for, and it was moved that, as this committee had the greatest possible many to render before them, that the convention adjourn until 10 o'clock the next morning, in order to give them a chance to get it. The convention adjourned, the motion was withdrawn, and it was requested that this time be given the committee, and that the convention remain in order. This motion was carried, and there were cries of "Heyburn! Heyburn!"

As Senator Heyburn did not respond, it was moved and seconded that the nominations for United States senator be in order. The motion was carried, and it was moved that Senator Heyburn be unanimously nominated. Carried. (Applause lasted for ten minutes.) Then Senator Heyburn responded, and said, in part:

"Fellow Citizens: My heart is filled with pride and with thankfulness for the great honor and approval of my fellow citizens of the State of Idaho (cheers), and I thank you and those who sent you here, for the honor which has been conferred upon me. It does not come about as it was planned. Back in the audience, I saw a face of one of the brightest young men in the State, Senator Heyburn, who gave some reason for the action you have taken in nominating me for United States senator. I feel that I am suffering a real loss in not hearing the remarks of Mr. Gray, from Shoshone."

At 6 o'clock Tuesday evening the convention adjourned till 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

After the close of Senator Heyburn's address, Grant Shoshone addressed the convention, and spoke against the direct primary. At the close of his speech, the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The convention gathered about 11 o'clock Wednesday morning, and proceeded to hear the report of the Committee on Resolutions. The report was read by the chairman of the committee, Edgar Wilson. At the close of the reading, the motion was adopted as a whole. This motion was lost. Then a motion was made to adopt it section by section. This was lost. There was a question as to whether or not it was whether or not it should be adopted section by section. Finally it was agreed to adopt the first eight sections.

The first section was the local option plank, there was much discussion regarding it, with the final result that it was included in the platform. Next the direct primary plank was taken up. There were several heated speeches on that plank, with the majority of Shoshone in favor of substitute, and the roll was called on it, with the result that 109 voted for it, and 193 against it. Then the plank as given minutes was taken up, and there were 134 for it, and 169 against it. Then it was moved to adopt the whole of the platform. Carried. Shortly after adjournment was taken till 3 o'clock. When the convention came together at 3:45 o'clock, the business to come before the house was the nomination of the ticket. The convention was called to order by Hamer and soon after Congressman French spoke. The following list was announced by the Republican State Ticket.

- United States Senator—Weldon B. Heyburn, of Shoshone.
Governor—James I. Brady of Bancroft.
Lieutenant Governor—L. H. Sweetser of Cassia.
Secretary of State—Robert Landon, of Washington.
Auditor—S. B. Taylor, of Bonanza.
Treasurer—C. A. Hastings, of Nez Perce.
Mine Inspector—F. C. Moore, of Shoshone.
Superintendent of Public Instruction—S. Hollie Chamberlain.

Presidential Electors—Edgar Wilson, of Ada; John Lamb, of Owyhee; A. A. Crano, of Kootenai.

When it came to the nomination for member of congress, Col. Hamer's name was mentioned, and there was the wildest enthusiasm. From outside appeared the Columbia band, and from the back of the hall came the brass bands bearing such inscriptions as "Tom, be all right"; "Hamer"; "Hamer, He's the Man We Want," etc. For some minutes the hall was followed by the banner carrier, and enthusiastic supporters of Col. Hamer, marched around the aisle of the hall, and cheered the name of Hamer. Then, after the roll was called, and it was found that Hamer had 162 1/2, and French 140 2/3, there was just cheering, and the roll was called for speech. It said that when he had said the day before that that was the proudest moment of his life, he had been mistaken. That today was the proudest moment, it pledged himself to carry out the policies of his party.

When the nominations for governor were made, and Mr. Brady was declared the nominee by acclamation, there was another enthusiastic demonstration, and the speaker was carried to the platform, where he delivered a speech full of feeling.

In addition to the ticket, the State Central Committee was named, after which it was voted to return the people of Boise a vote of thanks for their courtesy and assistance. Then the convention of 1908 was ended.

The Republican Platform. The platform as adopted by the convention, is as follows: We, your Committee on Resolutions

Section 1. The Republican party, in delegate convention assembled, again presents its declaration of principles to the people of this state, and respectfully asks their support thereof. Mutual alike of its success and its responsibilities, it asks the people to elect its council confident of a renewal of that allegiance so many times bestowed in this state and in this nation. To the people of this state, we are distinguished from its leading opponent, which is one of destruction and negation. Our political organization is the only one in this state, which has congress, and the people have always known the position of its candidature for the office of governor, and issues which confront them. The Chicago convention of 1908 announced those principles, convictions and purposes, language so clear that none can misunderstand. That platform defines the nation, and the Republican party on all the great questions of the day.

We reiterate and affirm these purposes and declarations, and the Republican party of the nation on these issues thus presented. We unite with the whole world in congratulating the president of the many advances made for popular government by our illustrious president, Theodore Roosevelt. He has given us the courage and the hope in our form of government; he has shown them, as no president ever has, that the people do rule. He has awakened the public conscience and given a new definition to the word "honesty."

Section 2. We believe in the character and the energy of the man, every public official, from the highest to the lowest in the land, sees a new era in the history of the country. He has not his public office, involves such a service to the people as that of a public official. He has given us such a record of official life as meets the universal approval not only of our party, but of all parties and of all people. We have a right to be proud of his administration, and to ask the approval by the people of the political organization he has singly honored.

Section 3. We join with the Republicans of the nation in support of our candidate for president, John C. Calverley, president, William H. Taft and James S. Sherman. We congratulate our party and the country upon the nomination of William H. Taft for president. He is a man of the highest character and the ripest experience in the high qualifications so essential to the weight for which he has been selected. He has that ideal mental equiptoe which comes from his long life of study and preparation. He is a very highest order of executive ability, as evidenced by his career as a cabinet officer, and in the service of his country. He has already been tried in almost every situation that can confront him as president, and has in each instance shown the full stature of the position. He has been thoroughly trained in the great school of the present administration, and represents in every way its policies. We know from the record of the man himself, made in the official stations he has occupied, that he will carry out the great principles of the Republican party. President Roosevelt represents, and that, if elected, he will carry out those principles, and represent the American people in not willing that the backward step shall be taken, or that any experiment shall be tried at this juncture. We believe that the great principle that Roosevelt stands for the very best there is in popular government, and that our candidate for president of the United States, will conduct the same course to the end that the people of this country may govern themselves in letter and in spirit, and that we may have as was intended from the beginning, a government of the people and by the people.

Section 4. We point with shame to the fault tendered the people of this state, by the factional contest now being carried on in the Democratic party, and the complete surrender of principle and party policy to factional strife. The incompetency of the party and its inability to control the affairs of state clearly appear by the acts and assertions of those claiming to be its leaders.

Section 5. We refer with great satisfaction to the record of our senators, W. H. Heyburn and William E. Borah, and our representative, Burton C. Newhall, who have represented this state with credit and honor, and their course meets with the approval of our party, here and throughout the country. Our senators and representative have especially distinguished themselves in the councils of the nation, and we can have no doubt of higher character or greater ability than is possessed by the delegation from this young Commonwealth, Senator Heyburn, who completed his first term with a record which is the pride of every citizen of this state, regardless of party.

Section 6. We believe that the reform of every great contest which has come before that body in the last six years. Through his efforts the people have had a state brought forth more beneficence than almost any single piece of legislation in this generation, finds a place among our laws. Section 7. We have associated with the interest of food adulteration have prevented the enactment of this legislation for many years. We have nominated a senator from Idaho to force the passage of this great reform measure. His colleague, Senator North, who has maintained the traditions of the senate, has, with becoming modesty, waited his opportunity. Nevertheless, in the short time he has been in the senate, he has taken a place in the very foremost rank of the statesmen of this great representative body on earth. His ability as a statesman and orator has been recognized by the president of the United States, and by the members of the senate, and today our brilliant young senator is fighting the battles of our party in the very center of the great contest of the nation.

Section 8. The work performed by our party during the term of his service in congress for the protection of the interests of the people of Idaho, shows that he is well fitted to handle the affairs of state. He has been entrusted to him. We especially endorse his stand in opposition to the immigration of miners and Japanese laborers, and in support of the efforts in favor of a bureau of mines and mining.

Section 9. We endorse and commend the record of the administration of Governor Frank R. Gooding and the able officials who have served with him. Without ostentation or display, it has been carried on in an able and business-like manner, and always to the benefit of the interests of the people of this state.

Section 7. We declare in favor of economy in public expenditures in the administration of this state, and of such details, so that the people may not be unnecessarily burdened with taxation. The burden of government should be borne by the people, and every citizen may share his just proportion thereof and in order that the people may not be burdened, which is protected by its laws, shall pay its proportionate part of the cost of maintaining the government. We call the attention of the people to the fact that during Republican administrations corporate wealth, for the first time, has been forced to bear its share of the cost of the government. During Republican administrations the railroad, mining and other interests of the state, and the history of the commonwealth, have been required to pay their just proportion of the expenses of state and county government. It is a fact that the Republican party ever since the election of 1896, has done no injustice to corporate wealth, nor any other kind of wealth, nevertheless, the Republican party has done no injustice to the public assessment, which the corporations of this state had heretofore evaded and prevented.

Section 8. The Republican party stands, as it has always stood, for the principle of protection to American industries. Tariff schedules, as all other legislation, are made from time to time, as new conditions arise. We believe this revision should be made by the friends of this legislation, and not by its enemies. We contrast Democratic revisions of the tariff with Republican changes. Democratic revisions are always followed by disaster; Republican revision by prosperity. Idaho is essentially a producer of raw material, and comes in competition with all the world in that direction. We believe that raw material should have protection, as well as the manufactured products, to the extent that the laborer who produces both should be properly protected against his competitor in other lands. We believe that the laborer who produces both should be properly protected against his competitor in other lands. We believe that the laborer who produces both should be properly protected against his competitor in other lands.

Section 9. The constitution of this state declares that the first consideration of all good government is the virtue and sobriety of the people, and the purity of the home, and that the legislature shall further all wise and well directed efforts for the promotion of temperance and morality.

Section 10. Our system of public educational institutions consisting of the numerous public schools and high schools, and the normal schools at Lewiston and Albion, the Academy of Idaho, at Pocatello, the State Industrial school at Arden, the University of Idaho, composed of a college of letters and arts, the College of Agriculture, and the College of Forestry at Moscow, should be the first concern of the people of the state.

We therefore pledge the Republican party of this state to maintain the integrity of these state institutions, as described by the act creating them, to support their growth as far as an maintenance of growth as far as the finances of the state will allow, recognizing that on the growth and maintenance of these institutions depends the upbuilding of the moral and intellectual welfare of the youth of Idaho. And to this end we urge that the legislature take up and pass the appropriation bills for all educational and charitable institutions as soon after convening as may be practicable, and that the bills of the legislature shall be taken up.

Section 11. We recognize the government of this state to maintain the integrity of these state institutions, as described by the act creating them, to support their growth as far as an maintenance of growth as far as the finances of the state will allow, recognizing that on the growth and maintenance of these institutions depends the upbuilding of the moral and intellectual welfare of the youth of Idaho. And to this end we urge that the legislature take up and pass the appropriation bills for all educational and charitable institutions as soon after convening as may be practicable, and that the bills of the legislature shall be taken up.

Section 12. We declare in favor of a policy of general highway and improvement in this state. We have that one of the greatest evils in the economy of production and distribution is caused by bad roads and defective highways. We protest our party, through the legislature, to endeavor to bring about a general improvement in the condition of the roads and highways of this state.

Section 13. We call the attention of the people of this state to the fact that the people of this state are burdened with taxation. The burden of government should be borne by the people, and every citizen may share his just proportion thereof and in order that the people may not be burdened, which is protected by its laws, shall pay its proportionate part of the cost of maintaining the government. We call the attention of the people to the fact that during Republican administrations corporate wealth, for the first time, has been forced to bear its share of the cost of the government. Section 14. We call the attention of the people of this state to the fact that the people of this state are burdened with taxation. The burden of government should be borne by the people, and every citizen may share his just proportion thereof and in order that the people may not be burdened, which is protected by its laws, shall pay its proportionate part of the cost of maintaining the government. Section 16. We call the attention of the people of this state to the fact that the people of this state are burdened with taxation.
