SUBSCRIPTION $2.00 PER YEAR

REGISTER FOR THE ELECTION

Only Three Days Left for Enrollment.

SPECIAL ELECTION ATTRACTS VERY LITTLE INTEREST.

Unless Heavier Vote Is Polling Than Present Registration, Bonds Will Not Be Saleable.

Unless the voters of this city wake up a bit in the next three days, the bond election called for next Tuesday will be over before they get the sleep out of their eyes. The council have placed the matter squarely before the people in the call and it is up to the taxpayers whether more bonds shall be issued to make possible the numerous improvements for which the people have been clamoring. It is a matter for the voters and the people who have been doing the kicking for improvements should get out and vote. The council have been trying to make one dollar cover the work of three but the first system will be impossible unless the $10,000 bonds carry. Likewise the crossings and street improvements demanded by the people will be subject to the vote of the bonds of $10,000 set aside for that purpose. Twin Falls belongs to the taxpayers and every taxpayer should show just as much interest in the question as any member of the council. Quit kicking, and do some voting, for a change. If you are against the bonds—Vote. And if for them—Vote.

Both gentlemen have many friends here and should do a splendid business in their new location.

AN ULTIMATUM TO BELL TEL. CO.

People of Twin Falls Object to Higher Rates.

PETITION SIGNED BY PATRONS DISCONTINUE USE OF ROCKY MOUNTAIN BELL TELEPHONES.

As the result of a threatened increase in the rates for service on the part of the Bell system, the people of this city are up in arms and are determined to fight the matter out to a finish with the big trust. A petition was signed by a majority of the phone patrons in which a rate of $1.50 for residence and 2.50 for business phones was asked of the company and the petition further intimates that the refusal of the petition by the company will result in the telephones being ordered out. The Bell people inaugurated an increase a short time ago and there was a large sized howl went up from the business men. With the proposed increase the indignation of the business men found force in the petition.

From the spirit of the men who have signed, it may be deemed no idle threat and the phones will be sure to get out. With the Bell system will prove a hard antagonist, the business men, if they will stick together, will win, and get what they want, either as a Bell service or as an independent service.

DECLAMATORY CONTEST.

Pocahontas, Waka, Two Places, Albion One.

The preliminary declamatory contest between the Pocahontas Academy, the Albion Normal and the Twin Falls high school scheduled for Friday evening, was postponed until Saturday. This postponement was very undesirable to the local school which had made all preparation for the contest and was anxious to carry out the program as advertised. The difficulty lay in the selection of judges.

It was the duty of the executive committee of the houses, which the contest was held, to furnish the judges for the evening. When it was learned that the committee had failed to do this an effort was made to secure men from both and other out-of-town places. This being impossible the contest was held, to furnish the judges for the evening. STOVER READY FOR BUSINESS.

Stationery Store Opened With Big Stock.

R. D. Stover this week is getting his big and complete stock of stationery and office supplies in shape and will throw the store open to the public at once. The stock is new and attractive, and such wide range that any one can be pleased. Mr. Stover has for the furnishing of the shelves a large number of the latest copyrighted books and will feature these during the holidays.

In the same store with Mr. Stover is the jewelry establishment of O. B. Stapleton, and he has made the same effort to provide for the demands of the Twin Falls purchasers as has Mr. Stover. He is unpacking and placing in the show cases an splendid stock of jewelry. The fitting of the two establishments are also well and aid materially in the display.

Mr. Stover has just completed a two-story block on East Main, which he will rent to some of the prospective merchants.

A BIG SENSATION.

Red Tag Sale Bringing Crowds to City.

At any time of the day one chooses to enter the Idaho Department store within the big red tag sale on the first floor, the store is crowded with the busy shoppers. From shift and every fixture are suspended the brilliant red tags which mark the sacrifice made by the big store in its effort to reduce stock. The management has secured extra salesmen for the occasion and has endeavored to pay the utmost attention to the eager shoppers. But in spite of the extra effort the store is crowded with the purchasers at all times of the day. Manager Banks is planning on making the red tag sale an event to be looked forward to by the people of Twin Falls. It is certainly accomplishing his purpose.

A Stunning Store.

A real holiday appearance has been taken on the week by the Booth Dry Goods Co. store, where they have their big double store room trimmed with autumn leaves and holly trailing over a trellis which overhangs the balcony and interior. The interior trimmings of cotton represent glistening ice cycles and the whole store is an artistic profusion of the best and most valuable gifts for old and young. Mr. Booth has collected a rare assortment and given attention to patrons who wish to head gifts away and has a nice assortment for them.

Railroads Accused of Rate Discrimination.

WHOLESALE HOUSES FORCED OUT OF BUSINESS.

Claims Made That Idaho Enjoys Better Rates Than Utah. Interstate In for Some Responsibility.

Interest in the manner in which shippers of the Intermountain country have been mistreated by the railroads of their profits, and in many cases of their entire business, continues to grow, and business men all over the city are ready and willing to give out information concerning the same.

One prominent business man said Friday that there appeared to be no justice or method in the arrangements of freight rates to Utah except the evident intention of the roads to collect all that they possibly could without regard to the rates charged to other cities.

All Referred to Stubbs. In this connection it is interesting to notice the attitude of the Interstate Commerce commission towards Mr. Stubbs in the matter of complaints sent to them by shippers from this city.

It would be interesting to know why it should be necessary to refer correspondence covering a difference in charges to Mr. Stubbs for an opinion when the matter is evidently perfectly clear, as was shown by the statement of articles of the railroad officials and one letter, especially, written by Mr. Stubbs himself, in which he gives the lie direct to the letter of the Interstate Commerce commission.

"On such a simple thing as paper boxes a case came to light recently in which the freight charges were actually one-half of the value of the boxes. As this is especially flagrant, it may be interesting. It was reported by a shipper here, who makes large quantities of these boxes, and yet he is shown no mercy in the matter of freight rate charges, but may go out of business if he is unable to make a profit on such of his goods to pay this exorbitant charge for obtaining the boxes in which to pack the goods.

"The explanation of this is the curious manner in which the classification is made. In this particular shipment the goods were classed as first-class from Boston to the Mississippi river, but after crossing the river they were rated as three times first-class and rated at a charge of $7.85 per one hundred pounds, making the charge of $1.61 per one hundred pounds for the distance between Boston and the Mississippi river, which was more than half the entire distance between Boston and Salt Lake City.

Something to Ponder Over. Another interesting case in connection with the shipment of chocolate is furnished by one of the large candy manufacturers of the city. On shipments of this commodity shipped according to the usual rates, the charge between New York and San Francisco is only $1.25, whereas the rate between New York and Salt Lake City is $2.50, or nearly twice as much for a distance nearly one thousand miles less.

Goods of the same kind cost only 75 cents between San Francisco and Missouri points and the same between San Francisco and Chicago. Conceding to the railroad the right to haul the goods, or nothing between the river points and Chicago when shipped straight through from San Francisco to Salt Lake City, or again little more than one-half as much for a distance nearly one thousand miles less?

Declaratory contest, December 4. Superintendent Patton has been conducting a series of examinations in the grades the past week. The following is a typical list of questions given in the tests each month. These problems were given to the seventh grades in arithmetic at the end of a month's work in insurance:

- 1. Define (a) commission, (b) premium, (c) tax, (d) duty, (e) profit. 2. Mr. Smith's taxes, including a two dollar polo tax, amounted to $50. If the marked value of his property was $200, at what percentage valuation $150, what was the rate of taxation? 3. What is the cost of insuring a $50,000 school house for one-half its value at 90 per cent premium? 4. A real estate agent received 5 per cent commission for buying land for a customer. The cost of the land and his commission amounted to $2300. How many acres of land did he buy at $75 per acre? 5. Mr. Jones sold two lots, the first for $1,100 at a gain of 10 per cent, the second for $1,800 at a loss of 6 per cent. How many dollars did he gain or lose on the entire transaction? (b) What per cent? 6. This is rather a severe, but practical test and it is gratifying to find that 90 per cent of the children made the required average of 75.

On Friday, December 4, the declaratory contest between the State Normal, the Academy and Twin Falls high school, will be given in the auditorium of the hotel by the following program: School closed on Wednesday for the Thanksgiving holiday. Friday evening, December 4th, the preliminary declaratory contest between the Pocatello Academy, the Alton Normal and the Twin Falls high school will be held. Ernest Berry, Vera Cole and Allie Turner will represent the Twin Falls high school. School will close Thursday, December 24th, for the Christmas holidays, and will open Monday, January 4th, giving ten days vacation.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS—Make your Homes Cheerful by Handsome, Inexpensive Decorations.

DOUBLE VOTES NOW OFF

From Now Until End of Contest Race Will Be a Steady Grind.

The offer of double votes is now a thing of the past, and to say that the contestants made every moment of time count up until the close of the offer is expressing it mildly.

Votes have been pouring into the office ever since the offer of double votes was first announced, and those of the candidates who were wise enough to take advantage of the double vote are now firmly entrenched behind thousands of votes secured during the two weeks of the double offer.

From now on the original schedule of votes will be in effect.

In a very few days the big Christmas prize contest now in progress on the Twin Falls Times will be a matter of history.

There will be ten lauders in this locality who will be the recipients of ten valuable prizes to be awarded absolutely free by Twin Falls' most popular paper.

The race in the contest has now reached fever-heat, and the excitement is becoming intense, although it is as nothing to what it will be the last couple of days.

The double vote offer has been the means of a large number of the candidates, who were away down in the list previous to the announcement of the double votes, adding materially to their score.

It was originally intended to have the double vote offer but one week, however, at the earnest solicitation of a majority of the candidates and their friends it was decided to hold it open for another week, and the way votes and subscriptions rolled into the office during the week of the extension was certainly a criterion that the management of the contest made no mistake when they decided on the extension for another week.

DO NOT STOP!

Active work just because the special vote offer has closed. Keep right after ballots all the time. That is the only way to win.

If you rest on your ears and drift along in an "don't care sort of way" nothing but defeat will be yours.

The extra vote inducement was a hummer and it made subscription getting comparatively easy, but do not let up on your hard work just because there are no more extra votes to be had. Remember you are on an equal basis with your competitor and they will work hard just the same.

If you let up in your endeavor the result will be fatal. If all your friends in your locality have already subscribed for you, go to a new territory, a near-by town, or an un canvassed section and work up votes there. The suggestion is worth serious consideration.

The difference of a few thousand votes in the published list at this time is insignificant. Hundreds of promises of votes are now outstanding, and these will be turned in before the final close. You may have some of those promises, and they will easily help you to overcome any lead that any of your competitors may have at the present time.

From now until the close of the contest those who want to be among the prize winners must get in and make every moment count if they expect to have their names on the roll of honor.

They still have the opportunity to secure thousands of votes and those who are determined and aggressive will take every advantage of the remaining time.

IT IS UP TO YOU!

To go and see those of your friends who assisted you earlier in the contest and get them to re-subscribe for a longer period.

Tell them how anxious you are to be among the prize winners, and when they see that if they do not assist you again it will be a previous disappointment to them, they will give you their subscription for a longer period.

In this way you can secure thousands of votes and materially increase your standing between now and the close of the contest.

AND ONCE AGAIN

Let us remind you that you have but a short time to work in order to be among the prize winners.

How many votes it takes to win the piano, the earphone, one of the watches or the other prizes remains to be seen. You may think that you have a good reserve on hand, but do not rest on your laurels at this time. You will feel very badly indeed, if some other lady takes one of these prizes from you by just a few thousand votes, when by just a little more aggressiveness and hustle on your part, you might have had it yourself. You will feel very down-hearted, indeed, if after all the hard and conscientious work you have put in since the contest started, you should lose one of these prizes by just a few votes.

Say to yourself, "I WILL NOT LOSE," and go out after more votes with a determination that will keep before you return home. Never allow a day to pass from now until the end of the contest that you do not secure several subscriptions and thereby make your chance to carry off the beautiful piano more secure.

NOTICE TO CANDIDATES.

The coupon in this week's paper calls for twenty votes, and will be counted as such providing it is in the ballot box on or before Thursday, December 17th.

All paper coupons coming in after that date will be thrown out and not counted.

The ballot today calls for twenty votes and thousands of them can be collected from your friends and neighbors between now and the above date. Sharpen up your shears and start the harvest, collect all of the coupons that you possibly can as this is the last time they will appear in the paper.

First a business meeting was held, during which it was decided to change the hour of regular Friday meetings from 7 o'clock to 6:30, thus making the preaching service a half hour earlier. After the business meeting had adjourned various amusing games were played. The guests were told that all over the home planets had been hidden and the one finding the most would win a prize, at which they all commenced searching. As near as could be ascertained, Elsie Hubbard succeeded.

In finding the most and was awarded with a dainty little framed picture representing the season of spring. Horace Cannon received a beautiful picture, entitled, "The Sunny." Little Lindstrom found the peanut with the button tied to it, which identified that would be an old-nick, and Miss Nelson found the million, but gave it to Mr. Johnson.

They were then entertained with pleasing selections by the music quartette, after which Elsie Hubbard recited "A Similar Case," and "A Maid Truly Meant." A segment was then taken on the program in which Mr. Johnson came out ahead. In spite of the fact that he was a little nervous over the event of Saturday evening. Dainty refreshments were served, after which the merry young folks departed for home.

TWIN FALLS SPIRIT NEEDED. A STORY FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

A. P. Wilson Returns From Booster Town Filled With the Booster Spirit. A. P. Wilson has returned from a trip of several days in the southern part of the state, during which time he visited the Twin Falls and Minidoka tracts.

"During my stay there I visited Harry T. West and from him I learned that an average of 1300 inmates are held in the county clerk's office monthly and also that the county is practically out of jail, with the exception of the recent bonds voted for building a magnificent court house to cost $150,000.

"I was also informed while at Twin Falls that the receipts of the railroad office at that place averaged from between $60,000 to $60,000 monthly. People seem and to increase land in that section and the thriving city and surrounding country shows what can be accomplished when the people boost as a whole.

"At Jerome I found the town settling up and people investing in lots. While I was there a man from Bellevue bought a town lot for $1,000. It was a choice piece and before the papers were made out a real estate man telephoned him and asked him what he would take for the lot. He replied that he wanted to make $1,000 on it and in a few minutes the real estate man appeared with a purchaser, who paid $2,000 for the property. The man felt that he had made a fine deal, his wife, however, took another view of the matter, and I left them still quarreling over the matter.

"In stopping at Minidoka I paid particular attention to conditions among the settlers on that tract and it is my impression that they have shown a wonderful amount of courage and perseverance in accomplishing what they have since settling on the land and they have since certainly received no return. The tract is dotted with homes, many of which are merely shacks. In my opinion most of the settlers have acted in good faith and deserve some consideration, notwithstanding the fact that the government warned them of the conditions at the time they settled that the land was not yet ready for settlement and advised them to wait for some time before establishing a residence.

"I also stopped at Shoshone, a place which has been stumbling for years, but has finally awakened to its possibilities and has taken on new life. That town was awakened to its need of improvements by J. Brennan, a former settler who has returned to town there. Early this fall one morning before the people were astir, Mr. Brennan began tearing up the old board walk in front of his place. People questioned him and he stated there was no use sleeping longer, that the town was awake and he intended putting down a cement walk. Immediately other merchants followed and now nearly the entire business section of the town has the cement walk and the action of the city council was ever taken in the matter.

"I enjoyed my trip in the southern part very much, but am free to say I love the climate, the soil and the country which exceeds them all, and will always be in the land, but we need more of the Twin Falls spirit and should all take hold and boost for this section of the country and results will come rapidly."—Kato Statesman.

Jack's father was a captain in the army, so Jack had always lived in an army post, where his soldiers all day long. He knew all the bugle calls, and he loved to go to parade, and when he became a man he wanted to be an officer just like his father. Every day in the post called him "Captain Jack."

Christmas was near, when one clear, cold afternoon Jack started out, his skates slung over his shoulder. At the end of the row of houses where he lived he met his chum, Tommy Drummond, and off they went together to the pond.

It was almost dark when Tommy skated on some thin ice, and went down into the water. He clutched the edge of the ice to hold himself up and shouted: "Jack! Jack! Help! Help!" Around the edge of the pond Jack ran. Hold on, Tom! I'm coming," he called. "There's pushed a heavy stick towards Tom and, bracing himself against a tree, called, "Pull, Tom; I'll try to drag you out."

Jack crawled over to Tommy and managed to cover him with the coat, then sat down and waited for the help which he knew would come. At last came lights, shining through the bushes, and voices, and "Here they are!" shouted a strong, clear voice, and Tommy's father and Jack's father and some other men came running towards the boys.

Jack cried: "He almost hit with shame, when the foot was stamped out and he was sitting up in bed, on Christmas morning, telling mother all about it. "Very well, I'll come right away." Mother came back upstairs, looking for her son with a worried face. "Very well, I'll come right away." Mother came back upstairs, looking for her son with a worried face.

CHRYSTIAN CANDIES. Sea-Foam Fudge (Chocolate)—Put over the fire in a clean saucepan one cupful of light brown sugar, a half-cupful of water and a third of a cupful of grated chocolate and stir until it begins to thicken. Then add one cupful of granulated sugar and stir until it begins to stiffen. Drop from a spoon on waxed paper in little heaped mounds, or pour into a greased pan and mark into squares with a buttered knife.

Sea-Foam Fudge (Vanilla)—Put into a saucepan three cupfuls of light brown sugar, a cupful of cold water and a tablespoonful of vinegar. Bring this to the boil gradually and stir until it is once heated. Boil steadily, and when a little of it dropped into cold water forms a hard ball take it out from the fire and stir in two egg whites and when the strap has stopped bubbling pour in on those and beat well. When it begins to stiffen, flavor with one teaspoonful of vanilla and add a cupful of chopped nut kernels—hickory, pecan or English walnuts. Drop on paper or tarp into a greased pan and mark off in squares or triangles.

"Divinely" Fudge.—Boil together two cupfuls of granulated sugar, one cupful of maple-syrup, one cupful of water and a tablespoonful of vinegar until a little of it hardens when dropped in cold water and then add a teaspoonful of vanilla and take from the fire. While this mixture has been cooking, a cupful of granulated sugar should have been put over the fire in another saucepan, with a half-cupful of cold water, and boiled until the mixture makes a thread from the tip of a spoon. This should at this stage be beaten up with the stiffly-whipped whites of two eggs, and this will give the fudge its paragon, which should by now have cooled slightly. Beat the two hard until they begin to stiffen when turn in two cupfuls of chopped nut kernels. Drop on paper or pour into pans and cut in shapes desired.

Pop-Corn Balls.—Make some old-fashioned molasses candy and just before taking from the fire stir in enough pop-corn to thicken it. After stirring the mixture for a minute set the kettle at the side of the stove, take the mixture from it by the large spoonful at lay each on greased paper or a greased tin. As it hardens roll each spoonful in a ball, pressing the hands well first, and roll each ball over in freshly-popped corn until this ceases to adhere to the surface. Wrap in waxed paper.—Dollencator.

The Salt Lake City papers are very busy causing the Union Pacific system for freight discriminations in very bitter terms. Another cause of where the state railroad commission is lacking and the dear people are up against the scant courtesy of the railroad without a buffer. The papers in question claim that four wholesale houses have been forced out of business through the rate discriminations favoring other points. According to Mr. Stubbs and Mr. Flakstad all that any one has to do is to take the matter up direct with them and presto, change! It is settled, but usually to the advantage of the Union Pacific.

The approaching special city election might as well be taking place in the moon for all the interest it is attracting from the business men of the city. It is time that the taxpayers get busy and decide whether they care enough about the question to at least go and register. Less than twenty voters have registered in the two wards at present and the election is only four days distant. Civic duty should impel a man to go to the polls on that day and declare whether he is for the bonds or against them. Any man that stays away should have no kick coming over increased taxes or about the bonded indebtedness of the city.

The case of the state versus Frank Lyella will undoubtedly be watched with considerable interest, when it comes up for trial in the district court. There is an open chance that if Lyella gives the testimony he threatens to give in his trial that the men who aided him in giving bent to gambling privileges may be brought to justice. The father of the young man who is present in the city stated that he would probe the matter to the full and make the guilty persons suffer just as his son is being made to suffer. It often takes a case like Lyella present one to wake up the people to an evil and the chances are that gambling in this city will be so unprofitable that no man will want to take the risk.

The newspapers of the Boise valley have been agitating the establishment of some state institution for the children of parents too poor to give them proper care, or where the moral conditions of the home are such that the children should be taken away. Nearly all of the eastern states have some such institution usually called the state institute of corrections and charities, the aim of the institution being to take the children and give them the education and training necessary to make good citizens of them. It differs from the reform school in that no criminal children are admitted. That Idaho needs such an institution is strongly evidenced by the Wilson case which is arousing so much interest in the Boise valley. The state should surely provide some other place for its poor children than the reform school, which virtually places poverty on the same level with crime.

The idea of a state printers is being discussed pro and con by the press of the state. The class of those favoring such a scheme is that it takes the whole matter out of politics and places it on a business basis and in the end makes the whole newspaper field free from political domination. These opposed to the plan claim that it would merely centralize the great with one paper and cut off a very lucrative branch of work from the various papers. The idea of a state printing plant should not prove graft at all if the state purchases the entire plant and hires a competent manager on stipulated salary. As it is now, and there is not a paper that will deny the statement, all of the printing bills are allowed, regardless of their size and justice, simply because the publisher handing

In the bill was a good fellow and helped to get the state officials into office. The whole system is pernicious because it makes the newspaper man cringe and bow before men who should feel honored if an honest man looked at them. It is putting the newspapers of this state on the same footing with the cheap politicians who deal out the political pab. The state printers may have its faults, but it cannot be half as obnoxious as the present system of political awards.

WILL OPEN SKATING RINK.

Management Offers $500 for Best Name for Hall.

The new rink that is being established by the Frank Auction & Realty Co. in the building that was for some time occupied by the Clarke family for revival meetings, is nearing completion, and will be open to the public sometime next week.

Mr. Arthur W. Steele, a member of the firm of Steele & Jennings, bill-posters and distributors, has assumed the management of the new rink. Mr. Steele is well qualified to manage the new rink in an up-to-date manner, having been associated with the well-known and Mammoth Rinks of Denver, last season.

The new rink has not been given a name, however, the management proposes to award a prize of $500 in gold for the name it selects on the opening night. Every purchaser of an admission ticket will be entitled to vote a name, and the party that suggested the name selected will be awarded the prize.

The skating surface is 10x10 in gold and the seating capacity will accommodate 200 spectators. The management anticipates a large attendance, and has provided 200 pairs of skates to accommodate its patrons. An orchestra will furnish the music. There will be skate boys in attendance, a check room, refreshment stand, in fact every convenience and service that is found in an up-to-date rink.

The management proposes to permit the use of the rink for basket ball and polo contests, besides all the latest and up-to-date features, such as fancy, novelty and fast skating, masqued balls, concert parties, etc., will be introduced at frequent intervals to entertain and amuse their patrons. Private afternoon sessions will be held with competent instructors in attendance to teach those who desire to learn to skate. It will be the earnest aim of the management to conduct the rink on as high a moral plane as possible. The most exacting person need have no hesitancy in extending their patronage, for disreputable characters will be barred and no admittance will be positively prohibited.

The happy young couple will make their home on the fine tract that the groom owns at Twin Falls.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC GRANGE.

Pioneer Organization Adds Many New Members.

The Pioneer Grange has taken a new grip and is getting down to business with the lessening farm work. Seven new members were taken in at the last regular meeting and a general discussion of needed legislation took place. The remainder of the evening was spent in a social way in which the ladies filled a merited part by the fine feast set before the members.

The National Grange has at last undertaken the organization of Idaho. Chas. H. Hoyt, national organizer from New Hampshire, is now in the state. Nearly thirty granges have been formed, also two county granges, and the state grange. Five district deputes have been appointed in the state and the work of organization is being pushed. It is expected that eight or ten granges and a county grange will be formed in the county this winter.

The list of twenty-five topics, suggested for discussion at the farmers' meeting held Saturday by request of the president, will give an excellent idea of the lines along which the grange works—they are educational, social, legislative and business cooperation.

President Roosevelt, in a message to congress two years ago, called special attention to the grange and the good it is doing. He often calls the legislative committee of the National Grange in consultation on proposed or needed legislation affecting the farmer. It is largely due to the persistent efforts of the grange that we have today a department of agriculture in the president's cabinet, large appropriations by congress for experimental work along agricultural lines, rural free delivery of mail and many other things which greatly benefit the farmer.

Among the men prominent in pushing the grange in this state, are Professor French and Professor Elliot, of the Gem State Rural, and Elias Nelson.

An organizer will be sent to any point where an organization is desired. Further information can be had by writing C. E. McClain, Twin Falls, I. T. F. D. No. 1.

Archie had been learning to sing "America" at school and was trying to teach it to brother Wayne. One morning his father heard him about him. "Land where my papa died, land where my papa died." Archie interrupted, "Oh, no, Wayne, not that way. It is 'Land where our fathers died.'" Wayne's expression could not be described as he stopped his head aside, and in a very surprised tone gravely asked, "Two of 'em"? - DeWitt.

KIMBERLY FOUR SIDEWALKS.

Postmaster Breckon Starts NEEDED Agitation.
Kimberly, Ida., Dec. 9th, 1902.
Messrs. J. H. Graham, W. V. Wilson, Roy Shannon and H. B. Kennedy departed last Saturday for the North Side. They all took their teams with them, and their wagons were loaded to the limit with grain, which they will market over there. Their stay will be indefinite, as they expect to engage their outfits on the ditch this winter.

The flour mill was closed down for a day and Kimberly was in darkness for a night, due to shutting the water out of the lateral leading to the power house for necessary repairs on the ditch.

Kimberly folks who intend visiting the county seat on the train can now take a little more time for lunch before starting. The new time schedule in effect last Sunday, brings the west-bound train here twenty minutes later.

Automobiles approaching Kimberly from the west should be in full control of their cars when about a mile out, lest they shy out into the grain fields opposite the home of J. H. Mudd. Mr. Mudd has just painted his chicken house a bright red with white trimmings. From Kimberly it is frequently mistaken for one of those most beautiful sunsets, but it has Old Sol bent on to a standstill, because it keeps right on setting. The snow melts very rapidly for several rods around the house and Mr. Mudd as he hopes he has found a way to fool the hens into laying all winter. Mr. Mudd has also erected a coal house, machine shed and other buildings; and it might be well to add, that he has one of the neatest and best kept ranches on the Twin Falls tract.

The postoffice building has been moved onto a lot 7 1/2 feet south of the old site, thus clearing the way for the erection of the new livery barn construction of which will be commenced at once. Mr. T. J. Harrah from Twin Falls, did the moving.

Mrs. Susie Petherico is now at the home of Mr. Hummer, where she is employed in nursing the sick. With her experience in the sick room and her knowledge of household duties, her services will be invaluable in the household where four out of five members of the family are on a sick bed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lewis thing that they have the prize baby boy on the Twin Falls tract and they are not far wrong in their judgment. The baby has been quite ill of late, but has regained his health sufficiently to take a trip to Twin Falls with his parents for the purpose of getting his picture taken.

Resolutions Passed Upon Death of Mrs. C. A. Tush.
At a meeting of the Women's Guild of the Episcopal church, held Dec. 3rd, 1902, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That in the death of Mrs. Cary A. Tush, this Guild has lost a most efficient officer, a valued member and much beloved friend; one whose presence was a never-failing source of comfort and encouragement; one who was always bright and cheerful, always ready and willing to bear even more than her share of the responsibility; one whose Christian qualities led all who knew her to love and admire her character; a most devoted member of her church and firm believer in the blessed promises of her Saviour; it is further

Resolved, That this Guild extend to her bereaved relatives, and especially to her beloved husband, its deepest sympathy in this, their hour of great loss and trial; it is further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Guild; that they be published in the public journals, and that a copy suitably engraved be sent to her bereaved husband. (Signed) MRS. JOHN E. HAYS, Pres. and Sec. MRS. R. M. McCOLLUM, Vice Pres. MRS. W. H. GREENHOW, Treasurer.

HANSEN SOCIAL DOINGS.

Found Social at Residence of F. M. Towne a Happy Affair.

Mrs. Arthur Seaton and little Isabel, expect to start soon for the old home in Illinois to spend Christmas with relatives and friends.

The pound social held last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Towne was largely attended and a real good time enjoyed. The pound parcels were sold at auction. The eager buyers competed him to make the parcels, so that they might have some clue as to their contents, but found that ratty boxes and boxes filled with hams gave forth a sound very similar. One parcel showed signs of life—was it a kitten? W. E. Callinan hid it off for a very low figure for cats are plentiful, and found it to be a plump chicken. A very fine musical program was given by local talent and then at a late hour the proceeds were counted up and amounted to about $20, which will be used for the Christmas tree to be given by the Union Sunday school.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Carter spent Sunday in Twin Falls, visiting Mrs. Carter's parents.

Rev. Archer preached at the regular hour at the school house last Sunday at the regular hour.

Mr. Ubanks returned Friday from Nampa where he went to get a load of his household goods that were shipped to that point from Lewiston. The storm made the roads very heavy and the journey tedious.

13,500 MORE SHEEP

Allotted on Sawtooth Forest Than Were Grazed Last Year.

A misunderstanding which officers of the forest service consider very regrettable, has arisen in the state of Idaho in regard to the number of sheep to be grazed on the Sawtooth national forest during the season of 1929, and it has taken several long telegrams between Governor Gooding and Clifford Pinchot to explain matters.

Last year the total number allowed was 348,000, of which but 321,000 sheep were actually grazed on this forest. The allotment for the present season was 335,000 or 15,000 more than actually grazed last year. In anticipation of demand for ranges from new owners, a killing scale was prepared and the supervisor was instructed to reduce the large owners on the basis of this scale in order to provide range for new applicants and other persons entitled to share in its use who did not use it last season. The publication of this killing scale has been accepted by Governor Gooding as an indication that a reduction has been made in the total number of sheep allowed.

In his last telegram Governor Gooding concludes by asking: "Have the shepherds of Idaho, from their figures, not a right to believe it is your intention to destroy their industry?"

Answering this the director says that "the ten thousand limit does not mean that large permits will be reduced to that number but simply permits increase by grazing on the ten thousand. If Idaho shepherds object to protection of small owners in this way I take issue with them."

The forest service has worked consistently and effectively for the permanent prosperity of the sheep industry throughout the west by making regulations necessary to protect range and rights of others. Where reductions are necessary for these purposes they will be made and Idaho shepherds have no justification whatever for assumption that unnecessary reductions will be made or that forest service is attempting to destroy their industry.

There has been no further exchange of views on the subject, can be easily gathered and officers of the forest service. Meanwhile the shepherds of Idaho will be grazing on the national forest 13,500 more than they grazed last year, and incidentally enjoy the same prosperity that has been theirs in past seasons.

GIFTS THAT BOYS AND GIRLS CAN MAKE.

A Fernery.

A little fernery that will delight the person who receives it can be easily made from two pounds of birch-bark laced together with light green baby ribbon. Make loops of the ribbon by which to hang the fernery. Buy one dozen Christmas fill your "canoe" with moist-earth, plant in a tiny apparatus form, and add a wider leaf each, and will keep fresh for weeks if moistened with a few drops of water each day.

You can prepare a Christmas surprise for your family by sowing a few seeds in a box that can be easily made from a tin. On Christmas morning transplant the seedlings to half-walnut shells, which must be glued to little earthen "greenhouses" with white glue. The shells should be placed at each place at the breakfast table and the child who has the most green seedlings will be the winner. If you can send some very small ferns you can add one to each fernery.—Dollinger.

First National Forest East of Mississippi Created.

To Florida goes the distinction of setting the first national forest east of the Mississippi river. President Roosevelt has just signed a proclamation setting aside and naming the Ocala national forest in Marion county in central Florida as the first national forest in the United States east of the Mississippi river. The proclamation creating the Ocala national forest in Marion county, North Florida, is the first of a series of proclamations to be put under scientific forest administration. There are now nine national forests, and Alaska, having national forests.

Before the creation of the Ocala, in Florida, the two forests Arkansas and the Ozark and the Arkansas, were the easternmost national forests. Practically all the other national forests are in the Rocky mountains and the Pacific coast states. The Florida forest has an area of 201,340 acres, of which about one-fourth has been taken up by various national lands. It covers a plateau between the St. John's and Ocala rivers and at no point is an elevation exceeding 150 feet above sea level obtained.

The area is by nature better fitted for the production of forest products than any other portion. Nearly all of the area, however, seems particularly well adapted to the growth of pine, which is even now producing the less valuable species, and with protection from fire almost the entire area will be in the undisturbed condition of the long-leaf pine, a much more valuable commercial tree than the loblolly pine which is now being cut for the lower flat lands along the streams on the border of the forest.

In addition to pine and scrub growths hard cypress, cabbage palmetto and tupelo gum, gradually changing to water oak, ash, elm, magnolia, hickory and maple are found bordering the numerous ponds and lakes which are scattered abundantly throughout the plateau. The forest has played a very important part in bringing about the present poorly forested condition of the Ocala, which has been the result of fire burned uninterruptedly over this tract, killing all vegetation and consuming the humus of the soil. The forest, which has not been subjected to the flames, prove positively, however, that the soil will rapidly regenerate and that the prevention of fire would eventually mean the reforestation of practically the entire area.

No sawmill operations have been conducted on the area included in the Ocala national forest. Turpentine by boiling is carried on over contiguous land for agricultural purposes and the only crop which can be produced there is in the form of turpentine, and with proper care and attention there should be in time a valuable forest of this species. The national forest consists of 14,080 acres in the Bad Lands region. It is located in Billings county, North Dakota, and is bounded on the north and west by the Northern Pacific railroad on the north and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul on the south. Its creation is important for it means that an experimental field for forest planting has been secured in North Dakota, the least fertile state in the Union. The forest service expects to establish a turpentine plantation on the land, and to use the area may be reforested by artificial means. This feature is expected to prove a very good object lesson in the fact that good timber can be raised on poor lands and in turn plant windbreaks around their farms.

The forest is very open and for the most part contains a scattering stand of western yellow pine timber. Along the creek bed is found ash, box elder, cottonwood, poplar, and birch. Cottonwood is also found on precipitous slopes bordering the streams. Western yellow pine is the only merchantable species, however, and the Ocala and the average stand per acre is not over 2,000 feet. The reproduction of pine is fairly good wherever mature trees occur, but owing to the open condition of the forest and the slow growth of grass it is for the most part unprofitable.

There is but little timber that will be sold from the forest at the present time since this area is very isolated, being surrounded on all sides by private lands. Many homesteaders have in the past come to this forest for timber for logs to build their houses. Since the completion of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, Billings county is rapidly being settled and white stock grazing is at the present time the most important industry in the west. It is very probable that farming will be very much interested in the timber which now remains should be conserved exclusively for the use of the house builder.

At the present time there are but seven homesteaders within the boundaries of the forest, but all of the old sections are allotted and being owned by the Western Land Securities company. This company has been selling portions of their holdings during the past few years. Very little of the government land within the boundaries of the forest is available for farming purposes, since it is quite rough and broken and water is very scarce. It is the country outside of the forest which is now being taken up by settlers.

No sawmill operations have ever been conducted on the area. When the Northern Pacific railroad was being built a large number of trees were cut for railroad ties and together with the logs which have been procured for house building by settlers, this is the only use which has been made of the timber on the forest. It is understood that the logs from the construction of President Roosevelt's cabin, which now stands in the state capitol grounds at Bismarck, N. D., were obtained from the area now included in the Dakota national forest.

Governor Burke of North Dakota, who has been for years in the forest and thinks it will be of inestimable value to the people who live in the region where the forest is located. The forest service as soon as possible.

CHRISTMAS FARE LIKE MOTHER LIKES TO MAKE.

Mince Meat—Chop fine two pounds of cold boiled lean beef and mince to a powder a pound of beef kidney suet, with a few drops of molasses. Season with salt, pepper, nutmeg, allspice, cloves, and two pounds of cleaned currants. Be sure that they are free from grit and dirt before you put them out. You may also use two pounds of pounds of apples, and add three-quarters of a pound of citron. Mix these all together with two tablespoonfuls each of mince and cinnamon, a tablespoonful each of allspice and cloves, a teaspoonful of grated nutmeg, and a tablespoonful of salt. Put with them a quart of cherry and a pint of sugar and pack in a stoneware crock. If you do not use either of these flavors put cider in its place. The mince-meat should melt for a week at least, or, if you prefer, you may cook it as follows. When it is made up it would not be the plot of any childhood or family tradition if it were not baked in an open crust with strips of pastry, called signified by a "hissing iron" laid flat between across the top. In my first days of matrimony I used to bake my own, so, as it were, and although I have since then eaten good mince pies from all over the state, they never taste quite as they should. They lack the crispness-crust.

Roast Pig—Give your butcher plenty of time to pack in a stoneware crock in cold water for fifteen minutes. Dry him inside and out with a soft cloth. Make a stuffing of bread-crumbs, season to taste with nutmeg, salt, pepper, sweet marjoram and thyme; moisten with butter, and work into the dressing to season and crisp. Put the pig so that he will hold his original size and shape, and after sewing him up bend his fore legs backwards and his hind legs forward. Use a skewer or the pin in this attitude and after dredging him well with flour put him in a hot oven and roast for an hour longer, basting twice during this time. Apple sauce should be served with him. Cranberries in his eye sockets.

Roast Turkey with Chestnut Stuffing—Wash the turkey out with cold water to which you have added a little soda. Neglect of this precaution often gives a bitter taste to the stuffing. Make a chestnut dressing by boiling one quart of the large Italian or French chestnuts, shelling and covering with cold water. Rub into a couple of tablespoonfuls of butter, season to taste with salt and pepper, and mix the turkey with this as you would with any other dressing. When it is in the bird, sew up the body and the thighs, and stuff the neck with the stuffing, so that the dressing will not ooze out. It is well to cover the breast of the fowl with sheets of salt paper. Put into the pan, turn over it a cover or a pan, pour it over and around it a cup of boiling water, and roast for an hour and a half, basting several times with the gravy in the pan. For the gravy take out the turkey and keep it hot until you are ready to eat. Put the pan you used a tablespoonful of browned flour wet up in a little cold water, salt and pepper to taste and mix well. Stir all well together and if not of a good color add a little caramel color, about the size of a pea, in a minute and put into a gravy dish.

The Guinea as a Christmas Bird—Those who have learned to appreciate the guinea fowl, or guinea, which the delicate flesh of a plump guinea invariably possesses are not slow in expressing their appreciation of the fact that the excellent qualities of this bird have not been more widely recognized. It is true that the cook-books have little to say about them. Even some of the so-called standard works on cookery fail to refer to them at all, and yet there are no questions as to the properly cooked guinea fowl is superior eating to either the duck or the goose. Dr. Lantzworthy, who prepared the recipe for the Guinea Fowl for the United States department of Agriculture, advised that the birds be roasted about three hours in a casserole, or he recommends the following recipe:

Cover the bottom of a skillet with sliced onion finely browned; lay on it the guinea fowl nicely cut as for a fricassee, putting thin strips of bacon over the breast and the wings; season the skillet tightly by means of paper tied over the top. Cook in the oven until well done. Serve with boiled potatoes, green peas or hominy in the place of potatoes.

Chestnut Stewed in Gravy—Boil the chestnuts in water for ten minutes, take them out, shell and peel them, having care to break them as little as possible. Skim the strain the liquor in which the chestnuts were boiled, season it to taste with salt and pepper, and to a pint of it add a tablespoonful of butter. In this gravy place the peeled chestnuts and let them simmer ten or fifteen minutes at the side of the stove. Serve as a vegetable.

Seasoned and fried oysters, arrange them in the bottom of a buttered pudding dish and strew over them a layer of bread-crumbs, salt, pepper and salt and dot with bits of butter. Wet with a little oyster liquor. On this put another layer of oysters, similarly seasoned, then more crumbs, more seasoning and so proceed in alternate layers until the dish is full. Bake in a hot oven for an hour, or until the top is brown. Serve with a little sauce.
