Three Young Children Burned to Death During Absence of Mother at Church

One Child Rescued from Flames by Neighbor Dies from Burn Received. Falling Roof Prevents Further Aid

One of the most terrible accidents in the history of this tract, occurred Monday night at 10:30, when the home of Mrs. and Mr. Melchior was burned to the ground and two children perished in the flames and the third child so badly injured that death followed shortly after. According to the report brought to this city by Ed Kraam of Hahl, the accident occurred Monday evening during the absence of both parents of the children. Mr. McKee was out for the mother after putting the children in bed for the night, thinking them perfectly safe, slipped away to church.

WIPING OFF A SMIRCH.

A good name is better than riches. This is true of towns as well as individuals. Newark, Ohio, has learned that fact. A correspondent informs us that that city—long its best—has established its good reputation. A year and a half ago there was a peculiarly disgraceful lynching there. What was disgraceful about it was not only the lynching itself, but the state of public opinion, and particularly the state of public morals as represented in the city government, which made the lynching and its attendant circumstances possible. Excuses have been offered for that occurrence. It is said that the whole body of citizens of Newark cannot be justly held culpable for this horrible crime, because five-sixths of the citizens were not aware of what was happening; because many of the other sixth, even if they could have foreseen what the excited crowd might do, had a right to rely upon the mayor and police and sheriff to keep peace and protect life; because the mayor and the police could have quelled the mob if they had acted together; and because the people themselves had no idea that the mob would attempt to attack a jail and seize the man who in the performance of his duty, had roused the anger of the disorderly element. Of course these excuses are only excuses. They constitute no defense for the people of Newark, inasmuch as the people of Newark were responsible for putting into power a city government which was incompetent and openly committed to a policy of non-enforcement of law. Americans, whether of Newark, Ohio, or of any other community, are intelligent enough generally to understand that they are responsible for their own government, and it is poor business for them to try to lay the blame for misgovernment upon others than themselves. Fortunately, however, the people of Newark have not been content to offer excuses. They have evidently been aroused to the necessity of repairing the damage they have done to the good name of their own city. The correspondent whom we have already mentioned refers, in support of this statement, to the following series of occurrences: first, charges were promptly lodged with the mayor, asking for the removal of the mayor and the sheriff who both resigned; second, a special grand jury found indictments against over forty of the mob, charging most of them with murder in the first degree, and the rest of them with rioting and assault and battery; third, another grand jury indicted four more members of the mob; fourth, thirty-five of the indicted men have been tried and have been convicted of manslaughter, or have pleaded guilty of manslaughter, and have been sentenced—some, convicted of murder in the second degree, to imprisonment for life, others, to imprisonment ranging from fifteen months to twenty years; one of the mob was acquitted, four were not prosecuted, others are awaiting trial or were out on bail; fifth, the mayor, who was responsible for the participation of the city as a city in this episode into savagery and brutality, has sought "vindication" as a candidate for nomination, and has been defeated. We wish to call especial attention to our correspondent's account of the efforts of Newark under the veil that was done by that lynching. According to this account, that city has done at least considerable to show that its repentance is the only kind that is worth having—the repentance that expresses itself in deeds.—The Outlook.

The plan of the governor in attempting to create equality in taxation is meeting with a great deal of opposition from the taxpayers of this community. The plan mostly fought is that of the twenty-five hundred dollar exemption on homestead improvements. The contention of the governor is that it prevents the man who is improving his farm or city property besides increasing his own taxation by that improvement, is also increasing the valuation of the unimproved farm or residence property at the same time. By so doing he is merely shackling his own future that much more, while the speculator sits tight on the job and watches the value of his property skyrocket without turning a hair over his land. Governor Hawley is a shrewd tax exponent, believing in the taxing of land alone because of the impossibility of dodging ownership, owing to records of all transfers. He believes that the exemption should be merely upon improvements and does not advocate exemption from the tax on the farm or lot either occupied or unoccupied. His assumption is the case of a man having a twenty-five hundred dollar building would pay no or all tax on improvements but would not exempt the man from the tax for the full value of the lot. In doing this Governor Hawley practically favors the increase of the tax on all real estate so that the revenues will not be impaired, but the burden which falls heavily now upon the man who is working to improve his land will fall equally on the speculator who owns unimproved lands, or lots. Governor Hawley's idea is a worthy one in that he is working for equality, yet to the minds of those who are following the tax question, the heavy exemption is not a safe method. In the first place, take in city or country there are not more than twenty-five per cent of the residences or farm houses that are valued at more than $2500 actual cash value. The result would be this, that seventy-five per cent of the people would not pay on improvements at all. Twenty-five per cent would pay on improvements over the twenty-five hundred. The tax revenue would be cut down enormously. To offset this would naturally come a heavier tax upon realty. The value of the realty because of the heavy tax would decrease correspondingly and in the end cut down the taxable value on real estate. For every fall in the value of the realty if the exemption was made would come a little heavier tax levy until the taxation would give the revenue necessary to meet current expenses. In no way could the increase in the land tax enforce improvement by the speculator, who would merely sell at the lowered value rather than make increase in improvements. On the other hand should such speculator make improvement he would naturally only make improvements which come under the twenty-five hundred exemption and would go no farther. Nor would the thirty man be induced to put on more improvements which would total over the exemption mark if the chances of a heavier tax on such improvements were impending and the whole question involved is to raise revenue sufficient to meet the expense and the distribution of such tax in such a way as to treat all with equality. The need for revenue law is more to make it possible to arrive at the real amount of property of each and assess accordingly. As a result of moral turpitude of tax dodgers the burden of taxation falls heavily on the property owner who cannot improve his land. On the other hand the man owning stocks and bonds and negotiable securities or cash. Schemes to equalize the burden have failed and will fail whether it be the single tax or combination of taxes just as long as no remedy is found for tax evasion. Plans for equality of distribution have been suggested by the tax reformers. State after state has passed laws which remedy the tax evil, yet with the recurring claim that the personal property cannot be successfully taxed owing to ease of concealment. Until the state or government would have the right to confiscate a man's personal property for the amount of his sworn tax value turned in to the assessor, there is no remedy which will accomplish taxation equality in personal property. Nor will the single taxation of the real estate equalize where many men with stocks of merchandise and cash have no real property. The tax exemption does not fit the place which it is intended to fill by the governor's plan and will be looked upon with suspicion by all heavy property owners. It does threaten the legitimate improving of property in the nature of building improvements beyond the exemption sum. Governor Hawley is leaning toward the Henry George theory of taxation, but after years of discussion and experimentation there is no state that has been able to work out the theory. The taxpayers for the most part do not want experiment but relief from an odious situation. They do not want tax tinkering but practical methods of Idaho's

HANSEN-NEWS.

Hansen, Ida, Jan. 3, 1912.
Mr. and Mrs. H. Hansen returned to their school duties in Kimberly after a week's vacation.
Mr. and Mrs. Hansen entertained their son and daughter from Twin Falls during the holidays.
Miss Helen Newberry of Kimberly, visited several days recently at the home of her uncle, Mr. H. Hansen.
Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hansen and son returned home Saturday night, after having spent the week in Rupert, with Mr. Hansen's relatives.
Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Provost and little daughter visited over Sunday with friends in Twin Falls.
Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Newberry and children, and John Taylor left New Year's dinner with the Hansen family.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooklin spent the holidays in Boise.
The large friends of Ray H. Vanderpool will be pleased to know that he returned to school Tuesday after an absence of seven weeks, caused by a broken leg.
Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Butler entertained Mr. and Mrs. Hills and family and Jack Hansen at a turkey roast New Year's day.

George Hilton was thrown from a horse New Year's day, and had the misfortune to dislocate his shoulder.
Mr. and Mrs. Vanderpool began the first day of thirteen hundred twelve by entertaining Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Leonard and Mr. and Mrs. H. Leonard and families. Miss Maude Adkins of Rock Creek, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Upton of Kimberly, and Mr. Gus Froelich of Twin Falls were also present. It was Mr. Vanderpool's birthday and he was very well remembered by his many friends.

The Hansen Sunday school elected officers for the coming year. Sunday. Mr. J. O. Kaneaster is superintendent. Miss May Hale, assistant superintendent. Miss Pauline Hale, secretary. Arthur Hale, treasurer.
Quite a number from here attended the dance given by the Robak's in Kimberly New Year's night, and all report a very enjoyable time.
Mrs. Abbie Leighton spent Saturday afternoon Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Galley.

Mr. Shoemaker transacted business with the Kimberly Telephone company over evening recently in Kimberly.
Rev. Harper of Murfreesboro, occupied the pulpit at the Hansen church Sunday. He delivered an interesting sermon on "The Light of the World." Rev. Parker, district superintendent of this district, was also present and gave a short talk.
Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Hinton spent New Year's day at the county seat.

Elvis Laycock was a passenger to Twin Falls, Wednesday.

FROM FILER JOURNAL.

Mrs. Schildman was a Twin Falls visitor, Tuesday.
The next dance at the opera house will be on the 12th--next week, on Saturday night.
Prof. Markel and family of Buhl, were the guests of F. C. Graves and family, Monday.
The masquerade ball Monday night was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed. A larger number than ever before masked and among the winners were some very clever "get-ups".

Buhl seems to be laying the ground work for a school scrap of no mean proportions. A new building and the abolishment of the school wagon will furnish two of the homes. Turn on the heat!

Jan. Fitzgerald is visiting at his old home at Watertown, N. Y., with relatives and friends. He is in a country where it gets pretty cold, and where snow banks grow in size about like alfalfa hay stacks in Idaho.

Elms & Alexander are busy putting up ice. The supply is exceptionally fine and the harvest abundant. For all of which let us be truly thankful and feel abundantly blessed while the brethren wait the hat.

Gus Wiley of Albion, Mich., a friend of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Allen, is here about the Christmas and New Year's celebration of good old sunny southern Idaho, and with splendid chances of securing the aid most devoutly desired.

Reverend services at the M. E. church every night except Saturday nights. There will be special music by an evangelist singer, Rev. D. K. Osterhout, who will assist Rev. Carter in the services. Come and bring your friends. The car situation is much easier at this time, the national carriers doing all in their power to supply the demand. Hay, hay, everywhere, and not a klicker on the track is the ideal situation at the beginning of 1912. Arise and be dumbless!

There were two characters at the masquerade ball that attracted more than usual attention. One, dressed to represent an English Militant Suffragette and (she was certainly a peach). The other, attended by Clarence Anderson who represented Abe Martin, and he was certainly another peach.

John Chisholm, is in Jarbridge this week.

Mrs. Mary A. Williams, field agent for the Home League Orphanage of Denver, made her annual visit to Filer last week in the interests of that institution, and met with a generous response by our people. This home for orphan children is doing a grand and noble work in home building for children, and is one kind of charity that appeals with peculiar force to all people who desire to do something for the little unfortunate children who are thrown upon the world before they are able to help themselves. God's richest blessings should be visited upon every orphanage throughout the world, and upon those who sacrifice their lives in their behalf.

What Do You Get Out of Your Piano?

The one feature of a piano which places it pre-eminently above other musical instruments is its ability to produce full, round, smooth, harmony. This, of course, is possible only when the piano is perfectly in tune, that is when all the intervals, thirds, fourths, fifths, octaves, etc., are correct.

Any tuner who is both capable and conscientious can, by tuning your piano two or three times a year, keep it in this condition.

Isn't it worth $6.00 a year to you?

THIRD ANNUAL CONVENTION.

lenses in Dairy Management. Mr. Boulton's herd of registered Jerseys averaged 40 pounds of butter for the year 1910, so he was prepared to give an interesting and instructive lecture based on actual experience.

The afternoon session was opened by D. H. Bark, irrigation engineer, in charge of irrigation investigations in Idaho, U. S. department of agriculture.

Boone, Idaho, "Growth of Potatoes," was discussed by him. He said dairy business means intensive farming and we cannot raise the crops we did in years gone by and make both ends meet.

Land is higher and water rate is higher and we have to raise crops that will net us a profit over the cost of production. Our land is deficient in nitrogen and rich in minerals, while that of the east is deficient in minerals and rich in nitrogen.

Plants require three main elements for good growth, namely, nitrogen, potassium and phosphorus. Nitrogen is the most important of these in our soil. It is the best done by plant legumes, such as clover, alfalfa, beans, peas, etc. It has a great advantage over the other elements in being able to control, to a great extent, our conditions. We have the long smothering hay necessary for good growth and we are able to apply the water as it is needed.

The subject of pastures was also discussed by Mr. Bark and he presented as a good mixture of seed for pastures the following: Three pounds red clover, 7 pounds Kentucky bluegrass, 5 pounds bromegrass, 5 pounds orchard grass and 5 pounds perennial ryegrass, making a total of about 25 pounds of the mixture.

Mr. John T. Cline of the Utah Agricultural College, gave an interesting lecture on "Establishing a Dairy Herd." He said we should be careful in selecting our cows for our dairy herd, and have them tested before buying. He believes that the reason so many think there is nothing in the dairy business is because they have cows that are not producing enough to pay for their feed. These cows should be tested and the "boarders" sold to the butcher.

According to Mr. Cline, the dairy bull is three-fourths of the herd and so it should not be too careful in selecting an animal that has a record behind it.

During the course of Mr. Cline's remarks a really bunch of members club appeared on the scene and when his address was finished, Mr. J. E. White addressed the audience in behalf of the Commercial club, as follows:

Mr. Chairman: We wish, in just a word to this great convention, to express our sincere appreciation and thanks for their coming to our city for the second time. We fully realize that there is a great deal to be learned from a convention of this kind, and I am sure that I value the kindness of every farmer and every business man in this city when I say that we heartily thank these gentlemen for coming and meeting with us.

I would like to say a word with the farmers. I wish to say that the secretary of the Commercial club, Mr.

Spangler, when he found out that he was a chance of getting this convention, did all in his power to get this convention here. We wish to assure the farmers of this county that we wish to associate with them in every way possible, and we would like very much to have the farmers of this county join the Commercial club.

I am authorized to say that the initiation fee will be waived if you join immediately. The monthly dues are 50 cents, and we wish that every one would join.

I wish again to thank you gentlemen for meeting with us.

President Hubbert responded in a few well chosen remarks and E. V. Ellington of the University of Idaho, took up the important subject of "Feeding the Dairy Cows." He said in part: "There are two factors in the economical production of butter—the type and individuality of the cow and the amount of feed she eats. In most instances grain should be fed even when cows are on pasture in order to balance up her ration. The amount of grain depends on the milk production of the cow and each cow will have to be handled and feed governed according to the amount she produces." There were several live questions put to Mr. Ellington at the close of his remarks which he answered fully.

The report of the various committees closed this business end of the program and the banquet at Hotel Pavilion was a most fitting close to one of the most successful meetings of the dairy industry in Idaho.

Officers elected for the ensuing year:

H. J. Young, president.
O. E. Hild, vice president.
A. P. Stettinfield, treasurer.
E. V. Ellington, secretary.

Report of Resolutions Committee.
Whereas, Hon. S. J. Rich, our state immigration, commissioner, has seen fit to bear the expense of publishing the report of the State Dairy Convention of 1911; and

Whereas, We consider this publication to be of great value to the dairy industry of the state, wherefore, be it Resolved, That a hearty vote of thanks be extended to Mr. Rich for the publishing of the report of the 1911 convention.

Whereas, There was a resolution passed by the convention in 1911 regarding the appropriation for dairy extension work in this state, and whereas our state legislature had made such appropriation; and

Whereas, The State Agricultural College and the county of Twin Falls there is about to be inaugurated a county dairy extension for that county for the promoting and carrying of dairy interests such support having been petitioned for by the farmers of that county; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we commend the attention of the state government to the progress of this work in that district for the promoting and carrying of dairy interests such support having been petitioned for by the farmers of that county; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this convention express its regrets that our governor thought it necessary to seriously reduce that appropriation.

Whereas, The Oregon State Dairy

Convention has started a movement to establish a Northwest Dairy Show to be held at Portland; therefore, be it Resolved, That we heartily endorse the movement thus started.

Whereas, The Commercial club of the city of Twin Falls, and especially Mr. Robert W. Spangler, have gone to much trouble in securing a suitable place in which to hold the State Convention for 1912; and

Whereas, The Commercial club and the citizens of Twin Falls have given the substantial help necessary in not only securing and entertaining the convention; therefore, be it

Resolved, That a vote of thanks be extended to the Commercial club, Mr. Spangler and the people of Twin Falls for their hearty support in making this convention a success.

WILL RAISE LEVEL OF LAKE.

Government Will Heighten Jackson Lake Dam Seventeen Feet.

Announcement is made of the intention of the federal government to enlarge the great Jackson Lake Storage reservoir this year by heightening the dam 17 feet and raising the water level of the lake to that extent. It is estimated that two years will be required to complete the work. The present dam was completed a few months ago, and all the machinery was moved from Moran to the Arrow Rock dam above Boise. New machinery for the resumption of work is now being shipped to Ashton and will be freighted seventy miles to Moran.

It is announced that the north wing of the present dam will be taken out and be replaced by a solid concrete structure. A dyke three miles long will also be built to connect with the north end of the dam. The raising of the arrow dam and the building of a new portion on the north end will take a great deal of time as the work will all be concrete and will be an arduous job and require a longer job than the work that has just been completed. It is announced that the work will start just as soon as it is possible for machinery and material to be gotten to Moran, which will be late in the spring. Potomac, Idaho.

VERY FINE MEETING AT PARMA.

More Than 150 Men Gathered at Men and Religion Dinner There.

At Parma, on Thursday evening of last week, a remarkable dinner was given in the interest of the Men and Religion Forward Movement. By actual count 155 men participated.

When it is remembered that Parma is a small place, the figures given are very significant of the interest taken in this movement by the people of that section. Some of those in attendance drove as much as 14 miles to be present. All the towns in that locality were represented at the table.

The spirit of the meeting was fine, showing that those engaged in the cause there are very deeply in earnest. The meeting was addressed by Harry W. Arnold. He created a profound impression.

A district organization has been perfected in that locality, the committee being drawn from a large territory. It is a very active combination, and it will send a great delegation to the Boise convention next month.
