

BUHL SHEEPHERDER ACCIDENTLY KILLED

BODY VIEWED BY CORONER LAST FRIDAY

Winchester Rifle Used for Coyotes
Ends Life of Spaniard. Partner Finds Body.

C. J. Crosby, the county coroner, returned Monday morning from a hard trip about twenty miles southwest of Buhl where he had been called to investigate the death of a Spanish sheepherder who was found by his partner last Friday in front of his tent with the top of his head blown off.

...the investigation was being held off. On investigation, it was found out that the man evidently left his bowie knife in the Winchester rifle to scare away a coyote or some other animal, as he was found lying on his face with the gun held tightly in his hands. It is supposed that in coming out he tripped on a root of a sage brush and in trying to recover his balance the gun was in the air and discharged, the bullet entering under the bullet and coming out of the top of the head, death no doubt being instantaneous.

After looking over the situation the coroner decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The remains were taken to Hugaburn by some of the dead men's friends where the burial will take place.

RECEPTION FOR MEMBERS.

Delightful Event Friday Evening at the Baptist Church.

Last Friday evening at the First Baptist Church occurred one of the most delightful social events ever given by the church. It was of the nature of a reception for the new people who have come into the church and congregation since the beginning of the present pastorate the first of last September a year ago. "All the details of the program and the decorations were looked after by the Plus Ultra and the Junior Missionary classes of the Sunday school. The program was semi-patriotic in honor of Washington's birthday, and consisted in music and readings and an address by the pastor. Mrs. Palmer was present and delighted everybody with several readings. Mr. Worrell gave a violin solo accompanied on the piano by Mrs.

Henry. At the conclusion of the programme all retired to the basement of the church where tasteful refreshments were served. The attendance was large and everybody went away feeling that it was good to be there.

THAT DOG AGAIN.

Twin Falls has always claimed a large population, and it is generally conceded that the last census did not do justice to the growing city. In this the Times fully agrees and also believes that if the dog population could be counted that we could double the census count without difficulty. At least to the casual observer the dogs of this city are as important or more so than the humans who live in the prevalence of the canine and the manner in which they usurp the public streets at the expense of the people. In plain unvarnished terms it is a dog-gone shame the way worthless curs are allowed to run at large and cause runaways and other accidents. Dog fights in which the people have to take to the road and give over the sidewalks to the too prevalent to be taken good naturedly by the tax payers. This morning an elderly lady was knocked down near the postoffice by several dogs in hot melee. While not severely injured the lady had to be helped to her home. Some time ago another lady was knocked down in a similar manner and suffered a fracture of her arm. There may be dogs that are more highly prized by their owners than the lives and safety of the people, but to most of the people a dog is a dog and more ornamental than useful. In fact the city ordinances show that the value of dogs is not considered high enough to make them a problem if the matter is given attention. The curs are of no use and should be exterminated without compunction. The dogs running loose on the streets whether owning a collar and tag, or not, are just as much a nuisance as loose cows, pigs, horses and chickens. Let the owners keep them home on their own premises if they are irresponsible to the welfare of the home, or if they persist in allowing them to run at large do so at the known risk of having them taken up and shot. It is high time the owners of Twin Falls streets took like those of a city in regard to the dogs as well as in other matters.

According to the press reports from various counties of this state the state machine is busy manufacturing fake Taft sentiment and already a number of county delegations to the state convention have been pledged for Taft. In every case the delegates have been railroaded through without giving the Republican voters a chance to express their preference. The county committees of the various counties have created the sentiment regardless of the rank and file going on the old time worn theory that the latter element of the party can be herded like sheep. The county committee of this county will attempt to do the same thing unless there is a strong protest on the part of the Republican voters before the delegation is elected. Taft does not represent the wishes of the majority of the Twin Falls county Republicans. Not one in ten are in favor of his candidacy outside of the committee which belongs to the state machine as far as organization is concerned. Not one man in ten believes that Taft can be successful if nominated. Not one man in ten of the Republicans will come out and declare his intention to vote for Taft. Investigation will prove that these statements are true for Twin Falls county and yet on top of that Twin Falls county will be represented to the effect at large as a Taft section. What is the committee going to do about it? Is it going to recede as automatically and additively to the Taft bandwagon or is it going to give the people of the county a chance to value his opinion?

With the declaration of Roosevelt that he is a candidate comes new hope in the hearts of many of the Republicans who have been wondering how to avoid a Taft-Harrison dilemma. Roosevelt today in this county can command more voters than Taft by long odds and this the county committee must know. What are they going to do about it? Will they give the voters a chance in a semi-official primary to show their preference or will they ride rough shod over the rights of the majority? If it is the latter which they decide it will mean another county victory and divided house. The times believe that a primary conducted with cashless service on the part of the police and clerks could be called that would decide the matter to the satisfaction of all. If the Taft sentiment predominates then let the others abide by such decision, but at present no body can be expected by the voters for a choice in which they have had no voice. The Times will accept to publish all necessary notices of such informal primary free of charge and will give it all the publicity possible in an effort to give the people representation on a matter which concerns them.

RUPERT TOO STRONG.

High School Boys Lose to East Pioneer Basket Ball Team.

A special team of Twin Falls men went to Harley Saturday to attend the decisive game between the Twin Falls and Rupert high school boys for the championship of eastern Idaho. In spite of the modest and some very clever and fast playing Twin Falls did not have a chance with its faster and cleverer opponents and lost by a score of 15 to 45. The Rupert team throughout the entire game held form and leadership maintained by the locals and the victory was a clean-cut one for them in every way. The result throws Twin Falls boys out of the championship race.

FRUIT GROWERS MEETING.

Interesting Discussion at Regular Session of Horticulturalists.

The Twin Falls County Fruit Growers association met in adjourned session in the K. of P. hall yesterday. The meeting was called to order by J. A. Waters, president of the association, who gave a very interesting illustrated talk on the saving of a tree which had been killed. He showed that such condition can be overcome without continued injury to the tree by bridge grafting limbs over the injury.

J. U. McPherson, state horticultural inspector was then introduced and spoke upon the methods of spraying for apple codling moth, etc. He stated that a high pressure spray with direct nozzle is absolutely necessary for the destruction of the codling moth such spraying must be given at the time the eggs are open. Mr. McPherson further spoke upon the various scales affecting trees in other sections and advised the association to use the utmost care to guard against these dangerous pests. At the afternoon meeting Mr. Davis spoke upon the advisability of intensive cultivation with tree irrigation, showing a very fine specimen of a two year old tree which had no irrigation given it during the year 1911.

S. S. Neher advised the careful care of a young orchard so as to have every tree at its best, showing the financial advantage of having all trees uniform. He also advised balancing trees, entirely safe of this in the west side, by building in this vacant spot, whereby eventually balancing the tree.

State Inspector McPherson gave a detailed talk on sprays, showing by several specimens the proper method of starting and developing the trees. J. A. Waters also demonstrated in the fruit line of the orchard.

A communication was read from the state inspector in regard to the bill which is now pending before congress in regard to the sale of apple boxes, which is considered a serious attack upon the fruit industry of the northwest. Several of the northwest states are sending representatives to Washington to protest against the bill, the association decided to give $25 toward the expense of sending Idaho Fremont Wood of Boise on this mission.

Mr. McPherson then spoke with much emphasis on the need of Idaho fruit growers using care in growing and grading the fruit for the market, stating that the commission men on being sold inferior fruit marked down as fast as possible. Mr. McPherson stated that the question of amending is not as yet fully accredited as a success. He then spoke of the need of thinning fruit, stating that this thinning should be done in the early stages of the fruit, after the drop is over.

J. C. Conway gave his experience on cultivation and irrigation, stating that he finds intensive cultivation is the correct method, never watering unless the soil shows need. But he also stated there is danger in cultivating during the blossom time as it will cause the apple to fall. He also stated that he cultivated his orchard

According to J. C. Schwing, local station agent, alfalfa hay shipments from the local yards during the month of January amounted to 193 cars, or approximately 553 up to that time for the season. The damp weather and late roads of the past few weeks has retarded hauling and shipping, and this

The meeting was adjourned to meet Monday, March 4, to consider the adoption of constitution and by-laws of the organization.

ROADMAKING IN THE HILLS.

Suggestions For Making a Quick
Drying Highway.

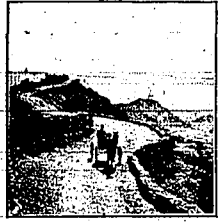

HOW TO GET RID OF WATER.

Carry It Directly Across by Sloping
Road From the Bank Side—Results on Grading—Results—Obtained by Flowing.

I have always been very interested and observant in the matter of country roads and have read many valuable articles on the subject. But I still think there are some points that I have not seen touched upon relative to road-making, especially in the hill country along the Mississippi and Missouri slopes.

The great object of road work should be to get the water away as quickly as possible. We have a good soil for roadmaking, but the hills are of silt formation, and a stream of water carries them like so much loaf sugar.

Many of our experienced roadmakers will throw up a hill grade and carry the water down each side for long distances. Then comes a heavy rain, fall. Forty thousand rivulets from the hillside above pour into the drains, and such a volume of water accumulates as to cut deep gorges. These make the road almost impassable and require several days' labor a number of times each year to repair. To avoid this trouble the road may be sloped from the bank side enough to carry the water directly across the road.

When a grade is desired on a side hill roadway flow in three furrows on the lower side, the outside furrow to be about twenty feet from the bank. When grading draw this loose dirt toward the center of the roadway with a slope of about one inch to the foot, carrying this slope across the entire grade. The ditch thus made should be opened at short intervals to let out the water.

After the grading, is done headers should be put in, in direct way, water that might follow the wheel track. To make these headers scrape with the slusher a trench a little diagonally across the grade about two scrapers width and not deep. Deposit this dirt with more from the outside alongside the trench, making the ridge no higher than absolutely necessary to accomplish its purpose and not less than ten feet wide, thus causing as little obstruction as possible. This plan will always provide a quick drying hill road. With the occasional use of a King drag this can be kept like a boulevard.

When the highway runs through a hill it is desired to keep reducing the grade. To this end work the road against one bank, leaving a ditch on one side only. Turn all the water from above and along the hill into this ditch. Then it is repeated each season. After this trench has washed too much for safety smooth this side and change the ditch to the opposite side of the road and repeat. You will be surprised at the change in steepness effected in ten or twelve years.—W. S. Wiley.

REGULATE STREET TRAFFIC.

Redlands (Cal.) Engineer Uses Guide Lines.

A plan to avoid the congestion of traffic which can be used to advantage in most cities has been devised by City Engineer Hinkley of Redlands, Cal. It consists of a strip of bright aluminum paint, with white arrows pointing to the right courses, which are more suggestive than signs could possibly be.

The guiding line runs along the center of the street, keeping its proper position on curves. In approaching a curve, where drivers of rapidly moving vehicles have a tendency to "cut corners" instead of keeping on the proper side of the road, the device is of special value.

Drivers would readily learn to observe and follow the guide lines, especially in streets of heavy traffic.

GOOD ROADS ATTRACT THE POPULATION.

Counties which are neglecting the improvement of their highways need not be surprised when the census figures show that they are losing population, while more progressive counties are gaining. Good roads attract population, while bad roads drive it away.

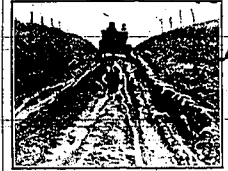

GOOD WORK DONE ON THE WAUBONSIE TRAIL.

Public Spirited Citizens Along Its Route Accomplishing Wonders.

The Waubonsie trail is an earth road extending across the southern tier of counties in Iowa. Its improvement has been undertaken by an organization known as the Waubonsie Trail association, which styles itself as the "promoter of the short way back to the farm." The association has a membership of over 1,200 and has accomplished much in the work it has undertaken.

The ten counties traversed by the Waubonsie trail are the southern tier counties of Iowa and adjoin Missouri. It is the hope of its promoters that the road will at some time form the Iowa link in a transcontinental highway.

No attempt has been made to construct stone roadways over any portion of the route. The efforts of the association are confined to grading, dragging, constructing proper bridges and culverts and doing such other work as is necessary to put into good condition and maintain an earth road.

In Iowa there is a state law which provides that township trustees shall see that the roads are properly dragged at stated times after rains. One of the things the association is doing is securing pledges from citizens to oppose any candidate for office who will not do his best to have this law enforced or who in any way works against the campaign for good roads. In addition to the influence brought to bear by the association on the road officials in the several counties and towns traversed by the road to work for its improvement, the father members have pledged themselves to drag the road after rains. At one time last June when an official inspection of the road was being made 75 per cent of its entire length was dragged within twenty-four hours. An important branch of the work being done is the replacement of improper bridges by structures suited to the condition. It is stated that there are on the road nearly a hundred small bridges of spans up to twenty feet for which the three-foot diameter or less can be substituted advantageously. In many cases these bridges cross streams draining less than a quarter section of land, much of which is comparatively level.

What is being accomplished along the 800 mile road is best shown by the accompanying illustrations.

METAL SIGNPOSTS.

Pennsylvania Highway Commissioner to Improve Road Guides.

As soon as Highway Commissioner Bigelow of Pennsylvania hears from the engineers of his department the number of signposts needed to properly equip the highways of Pennsylvania with markers, contracts for metal posts will be let.

For weeks the commissioner has been working out a plan to provide the state with uniform signposts. He found such indispensable adjuncts to travel almost totally lacking in every part of the state he visited on his tour of 2,200 miles of road and reports have reached him that conditions are as bad in other parts of the state.

In many localities the local authorities have paid no attention to signposts for years and in others have allowed posts to go to ruin. Posts exist in certain portions which have blank boards, and the only means of direction for travelers, as a rule, are those provided by motor clubs.

Road Maintenance Real Problem.

Colquhoun E. A. Stevens, New Jersey state road commissioner, after four months' experience in his new office finds that the annual cost of maintaining and repairing macadam roads is from $500 to $800 a mile, or about $2,000,000 for the entire state. For repair work and maintenance his department has only $250,000 available, and this must be distributed in twenty-one counties. Having found that the figures on cost of upkeep are not very satisfactory, the commissioner is now experimenting on a four mile stretch of macadam road near at Marlborough Trenton, to determine just what the actual cost for a given period ought to be. "I find the work of maintenance a much more difficult problem than that of construction," said Colquhoun Stevens.

SCOTCH HAGGIS.

Here is the Recipe For It in All Its Beautiful Simplicity.

Every day in Scotland, and particularly on the day after a Robert Burns anniversary celebration, the newspapers publish reports of gatherings and banquets of Scotchmen in which the name "haggis" occupies a prominent place on the menu. Then a few curious minded persons who do not know haggis, "Haggis? What is haggis?"

The answers vary from a kind of Scotch hot cake to hot drinks. Nobody ever seems quite sure what haggis really is. One hears vaguely from guests at Scotch banquets that it is a fearsome dish. There is a story of the elderly gentleman of fectory digestion who taking off his overcoat in a friend's house and smelling haggis in preparation, remarked, "Eh, but I'll be bad the morn!" The possibility of refusing this dish apparently never dawned upon him, and in a sturdy sort of fashion when one is hungry the recipe certainly sounds as though the compound might be fascinating. Here is the recipe:

A pound each of liver, onions, tripe, suet and cooked pearl barley and half a pound of oatmeal, with salt and pepper, are put into a sheep's paunch and slowly boiled for four hours. That is all in its beautiful simplicity. A French chef in a stuffy kitchen might faint at the recipe, but a hungry Scotchman thinks it is the finest dish on earth.—New York World.

PRESCOTT'S WAGERS.

The Historian Had His Own Way of Forcing Himself to Work.

Rollo Ogden in his biography of William H. Prescott, the historian, cites many passages from the diary showing Prescott's habit of designing himself to his work by making wagers with his secretaries that he would complete a given task by a certain day, the odds always heavily against himself.

"Prescott always took this betting on his own industry with perfect seriousness. Sometimes he would 'radically' greet his secretary with: 'You have lost. You owe me a dollar,' and he would exact payment. Occasionally he would, with woe-begone countenance, produce and pay over to the protesting secretary the $20 or $30 he himself had lost." One elaborately made memorandum witnesses that a bet of $1 to $50 had been made "between H. B. Otis and William H. Prescott, Esq., the latter betting $50 that he will write 100 pages of his 'History of Peru' in 100 days."

The document is signed William H. Prescott and Edmund B. Otis, but the latter subjoins the following: "I promise on my honor as a gentleman not to release Mr. Prescott from any forfeiture that may favor except in such cases as are provided for in the contract, this contract being made at his desire for his own accommodation only."

Almost Too Much.

Along the long, lone country road tramped a man and his wife. The latter, a tall, gaunt female, was talking the week little parrot at her sorrows, who trudged just ahead of her with reluctant steps. Suddenly the woman, turning, saw a bull racing madly down the road behind them. She quickly sought refuge in the house, but her companion, conscious only of his woes, went meekly forward. The bull caught him up and sent him spinning into a muddy ditch before it raced forward on its mad way.

As the funny looking object crawled from his watery resting place he saw his gaunt wife coming toward him. At the sight of her, what temper he had in his possession rose.

"See, Ma'am, if it so hit me again like that, you'll make me—or down-right mad, so I warn you!"—Exchange.

Early Rapid Transit.

Cardinal Wolsey did not live in an age of rapid transit, but he centered it for himself. His capacity for rapid travel was a valuable aid in carving out a career. Wolsey is said to have first won royal favor in this way. He was charged with a message from Henry VIII. to the Emperor Maximilian in the Low Countries and left London in the afternoon. He went by boat to Gravesend, by horse to Dover, and then by boat again to Calais, and he was with the emperor's festive evening and back to the king in just over two days from the time of starting.

All Broken Long Ago.

A Lakewood lady paid a call on an east Cleveland woman the other day. After all the meant compliments had been paid the Lakewood lady remarked, "I have some lovely china that belonged to my ancestors."

"How nice," answered the other. "I haven't a bit."

"Isn't that too bad? You know, we are an old family, and—"

"You see, my ancestors all kept nervous."

There wasn't any answer to the remark and its implication.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Procrastination.

"One of the greatest evils in life," said the elderly woman, "is procrastination."

"I think so, too," replied the young married woman. "I don't see the sense of putting off your golden wedding anniversary till you are sixty or seventy years old."

Early English.

Bachelor—I confess I can't understand what your baby's saying. Bachelorette—It is a queer language, isn't it? Bachelor—Yes; sort of early English.—London Answers.

Frank L. Weber Tells of the Wonders of Jarbridge.

Frank L. Weber in the Jarbridge mine with his versatile pen, spreads tidings of the great future of our state.

Newer camps and newer discoveries are frequent dashes and vivid reminders of the greatness of Nevada, and notwithstanding its great present and prospective production, it impresses as that the state has not even been scratched for its future resources.

are concerned. To him who has covered these mineralized areas over plains, mountain sides and summits, there can be but one conclusion, and that is that in time Nevada will have proven itself as the most wonderfully rich mineral source and area in the history of metal mining and in the production of useful industrial products from mother earth, such as borates, nitrate, phosphates, and kindred minerals.

But of the newer camps such as Carroll, Awakening, Winnemucca mountain, Hill Top, Gold Circle and Silver State range, in northern Nevada, we will say briefly that they are of great merit and like those older, established camps are existing bright shadows ahead. These are but the breaking of the new dawn for the great mining era in Nevada.

To illustrate: Among these is Jarbridge. It is a striking flash upon the mining horizon, Jarbridge has not only a great present prospective showing but from any conservative viewpoint has marked all over it a lasting mining period. After a recent visit to the district and carefully noting the prospects and developments, I am constrained to say that the open eye of the mining world will be fixed ere long upon Jarbridge and cause a mining fever worthy of its present great prospective showing. Jarbridge is located in northern Nevada, about midway between Twin Falls, Idaho, and Death Valley. It is accessible with good roads and is situated amidst the majestic mountains that defect north and south the Snake and Humboldt drainages. It is an ideal mining camp with great tunnel sites, timber and ample water power. It is very "trendy" for building, milling and all operating purposes. The great water power is a golden asset, for electrical power can be generated in the very doorway of these promising gold mines. The camp was located about a year and nine months ago by four old time prospectors who simultaneously entered these impressive deep gorges and prospecting the great mountains. The result is that these veterans are in the money. They are John Escalante, Peter Thayer, Mike Pavlak and W. Bourne. They acquired the most accessible property and later in the rush a wide territory was located and much of it covered with soil and fine timber, making it hard to prospect. The four properties of the old-timers are developed—three producing and showing great. The balance of the territory remained for a later date to prospect and owing to the deep mountain soil, brush and timber, not much progress was made until during the past summer, when conditions were more favorable.—Jarbridge-Pavlak Miner.

until the very showings and demonstrations are a surprise to him who has had an extensive experience in old and new mining camps, and knows most of the mines and prospects throughout Nevada.

Wonders of Jarbridge.

The preliminary work here has accomplished the feat of a chemical reagent upon a mixture by clarifying one element and precipitating the other. The work boys here the great rubs and veins, carrying high grade gold values over these mountains and causes one to include in the prospect of what the Lead Hornstead is to South Dakota, Cripple Creek is to Colorado, and the Treasure to Alaska, Jarbridge will be to the line territory of northern Nevada and southern Idaho. It is a district of eight by four miles. Where ever it has been duly prospected it shows the prolific gold features, leads, seams and nature's bearers of the precious metal. Not one but dozens of gold-making prospects, not one but a half dozen calculable properties that show the mine qualities. The Bourne, the Pavlak, the Jarbridge Crater Gold Mining company, the Alphas, Pick and Shovel, Buckeye, Success, Bluster, all showing large bodies of ore and under operation. Two first-class up-to-date mills are in operation, and turning out bullion values at $390 per day.

George Wingfield, the Nevada gold king, has become a large operator in the district; the Belmonts through Humm and Kinney control and operate the Pavlak mine and mill. The aggressive spirit of the camp is represented by such forceful characters as Iton, Frank Winters, Chas. J. Nelson, Judge O. Ray, H. M. Jones, M. Kinney, W. H. Fletcher, T. B. Hendricks, Frank Benaue, George Wingfield and John Cary.

A live town with live people greets one entering that section of gold-mines. The buildings are up-to-date and comfortable and in connection with the district expresses confidence and stability that forecasts a great and prosperous future along the Jarbridge section.

One word of caution: The winters there are severe. No one at the present should enter those rugged regions in search of work or for prospecting until next May. The operating properties have a complement of miners and laborers and as a consequence all others of this class should bide their time until spring when weather conditions will be more favorable.—Jarbridge-Pavlak Miner.

Buhl Hardware Makes Offer of Re-Imbursement on Purchase.

February, 22, 1912.

Twin Falls Times, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Gentlemen:

Referring to the letter of Mr. E. H. Hobbs, dated February, 15, 1912, taking for granted that the size referred to in "Mr. Hobbs' letter" was 5-16 in place of 5-8, as bolts ordinarily come in 16ths in place of 18ths, the size given evidently was a printer's error, we find in Montgomery Ward's catalogue No. 70 page 112 article 10061, the list price to be 62 cents per hundred size 5-16 in by 3/4 in hexagons, according to this list 50 bolts 5-16 by 3/4 would cost 31 cts. allowing box and bolts to weigh 6 1/2 lbs. ($1.58), total cost of bolts would be 41 cts. P. O. H. Buhl, Idaho. I might add that bolts must be packed in a box containing bolts only to come on this rate, otherwise they would go on second class freight and take a rate of $2.15 from Kansas City according to the old classification.

The Buhl Hardware Co. sells 5-16 by 3/4 carriage bolts in quantities of History of The First Scientific Grubber Ever Built.

Being a pioneer by nature and a machinist by trade, I decided some eight years ago to go to the Twin Falls country, which was then being opened to settlement, in search of a location in which to establish a business. Like the greater portion of the Intermountain West it was covered with a dense growth of sage brush. To make the land productive the brush had to be first removed, and to do it by hand was the custom in those days meant the undertaking of a discouraging and almost endless task. A more rapid and scientific manner for removing it had to be devised. To the accomplishment of this end the writer immediately began devising his entire life's business, and the result was the various types of machines designed to cut, grub, or remove growing sage brush, but all of little or no avail. The constant use in operation and the strength, speed, durability and economy, that would eliminate all hand energy and perform its work perfectly, was the paramount thought ever present in the mind of the inventor of the "Hendricks" Grubber. The idea of a machine embodying all of the above principles was conceived, and the first successful horse power-sage brush grubber built.

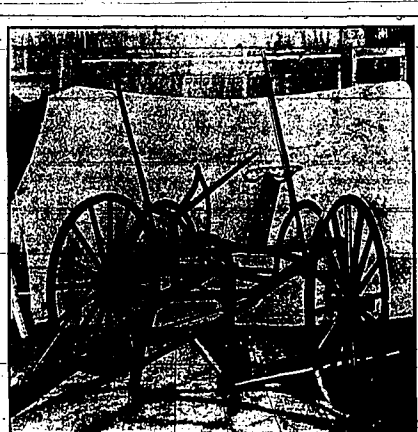

A thorough test proved beyond all doubt its practicability and efficiency. Almost instantly the demand for it became so great that we found it impossible to fill our orders with any degree of promptness. From time to time we have been compelled to enlarge our factory in order to meet the ever increasing demand. And today, although only a few years have passed since the first machine was put into operation, we are pleased to say to our prospective customers that we have hundreds of users and "boosters" of the "Hendricks" machine, many of whom, without solicitation, have furnished testimonials attesting its merits.

New "Hendricks" All Steel Grubber.

The new All Steel Grubber which we are now manufacturing is the product of an experienced designer, and after a period of more than eight years, we were the first in the field and have made no other than our money in our efforts to make it the same of perfect machine.

CONSTRUCTION—The frame is constructed of bar steel one-half inch in thickness ranging in width from one and one-half to three feet, and is firmly braced to meet any extraordinary strain to which it may be subjected. The side beams to which the cutting knives are attached are made of bar steel one inch in thickness and three inches in width while the center beam is made of the same material with an extra inch added to the width. Supporting the frame is a one and three-quarter inch round steel axle formed twenty-five or more at one cent each, if Mr. Hobbs was charged more than this price, the party selling same was in error, if he will kindly allow us we will refund the difference, as we make no profit on making good goods after that might take place, we are not beyond making errors, and believe er-

In the shape of a bale, which acts as a pivot on which the machine is raised and lowered. We place our machine on extra high Sarven Patent wheels made of the best, thoroughly seasoned white hickory, obtainable and sufficient weight and strength to handle with the frame and beams.

Thus you will observe from the foregoing description that not an item of expense is spared in making our grubber, the very best that can be produced.

ADJUSTMENTS—There is a certain satisfaction in being the owner of a machine which is constructed so that adjustments can be easily made. On the new "Hendricks" every operation relative to its adjustment is performed by the levers easily accessible to the operators seat. Raising, lowering and balancing the machine are easily operated by these three levers.

TESTS—Our Grubber has been tried in all classes of soil found in the Northwest and has given the best of satisfaction except in places covered with large stone. Small stone and rolling land have but little influence on the quality of the work performed. DRAFT—Our five foot machines are made expressly for horse power, although they can be used with engines. The size of the machine is governed by the size of the sage brush, usually from four to six horses draw them with perfect ease.

The engine power machines are usually constructed to cut a space ranging from six to eight feet in width. A forty-horse power gasoline engine will easily saw two six foot machines while a twenty-five to thirty horse power steam engine will draw two eight foot machines.

PAY FOR ITSELF IN A SHORT TIME—There is as much difference between the present day method of removing sage brush as compared to the old way of using a grubbing hoe, as there is between the present methods of harvesting grain and the reaper. Likewise the economy is as great in the one instance as in the other. Today, one man with four good horses and a New All Steel "Hendricks" Grubber, perform the labor of ten men. They do it better. Why? Because not a spear of brush is left standing behind the machine, because it takes out practically all of the roots and, because it thoroughly pulverizes the ground leaving it level and mellow, which seldom requires more than a light harrowing to make a perfect seed bed.

For a number of years there has been a steady advance in the cost of all material entering into the construction of all classes of farm machinery as well as in labor employed in building it. Notwithstanding this fact our price has remained the same. $100.00 for the 5 ft. horse power machine, F. O. B. Twin Falls. $150.00 for the 8 ft. engine power machine F. O. B. Twin Falls. We invite correspondence and will take pleasure in supplying you with any further information which you may desire. For reference we take pleasure in referring you to the Farmers and Merchants bank or any business man of Twin Falls. Trusting that we may have the pleasure of receiving your order in the near future, we beg to remain, Very Respectfully Yours, T. B. HENDRICKS & SON

ILLEGAL DRUGS.

Druggists of Idaho Are Warned by State Drug Inspector.

To the Druggists of Idaho: At your convention held in Pocatello almost a year ago in response to your invitation to speak on the drug inspection law passed by our last legislature, I pointed out its requirements and the penalties for violating its provisions. I suggested that the druggists proceed at once and "clean up house," by taking stock of their drugs and patent medicines, and destroying every product that violated the law. I thought this was the fair way to treat men who are responsible to the community for the preparations they sell, and which, because of their advertised claims, induce people to part with their money to receive in too many instances, false goods.

Strange as it may seem, yet out of the samples collected by this department from the shelves of the drug stores scattered throughout the State, most of them show that very few druggists have thought enough of the warning couched to protect themselves from prosecution. In some cases druggists have their shelves loaded down with misbranded patent medicines. Especially is that the case with headache remedies, the most dangerous of drugs, for the directions on the box are either misleading, or the presence of the poisons used in their preparations are not printed on the label. In many instances, these remedies are represented as "positive cures for headaches, no matter to what cause due," and are represented to be quite as efficacious for an eye-strain headache, as for that peculiar variety which has its origin in "The cold grey dawn of the morning after." Needless to say, products appealing so universally to mankind had ready sale. Analysis of these remedies shows all ailments of acetic acid, or one of its derivatives, or to antipyrin. All these materials are derivatives of coal-tar, and attendant dangerous, and sometimes fatal results where a person is allowed to believe that they can with safety take dose after dose, or as one label expresses it, "Every 15 minutes until relieved."

In Bulletin 125 of the bureau of chemistry of the United States department of agriculture, the results of investigations of medicinal literature and personal investigations through physicians are printed. These, while admittedly incomplete, have been recorded in the literature from 1884 to 1907, 855 cases of poisoning by the drugs mentioned, including 26 deaths and 33 cases of habitual use. By only 55 physicians 814 cases of poisoning were reported, including 29 deaths and 135 cases of habitual use, the two together showing 1,669 cases of poisoning, 54 deaths and 169 cases of habitual use. In 46.3 per cent of cases reported by physicians, the drugs were taken without the advice of a physician, most of them probably in the form of proprietary. The same bulletin cites, (p. 45) a case of death from Koehler's Headache Powders, (a) two cases of poisoning by Stearns' Headache Wafers, (b) several from Brano-

Soltzer, (c) a case of death from Antikamnia, (d) one from Orangeine, etc. While most of such proprietary remedies now on the market declare the presence of the drugs under consideration, attention is called to the fact that this department has found the quantities stated to be largely incorrect, in some cases nearly double the amount declared having been found.

The disastrous effects arising from the use of certain headache powders have been widely exploited in the public press, and as in most cases acetic acid was the chief active drug present, the public has had brought forcibly before it the danger in its indiscriminate use. As a result acetic acid has found much disfavor with many consumers of headache powders, and the wary manufacturer in certain instances has labeled his powders "Contain no acetic acid." The uninformed purchaser, confident of the absence of the dreaded drug, uses them, in ignorance of the fact that they contain the deadly drug, though under the name of phenacetin, or acetophenol, a derivative of acetic acid, and almost as objectionable. The present law will prevent this abuse, as the presence of acetic acid in any preparation of morphine must be indicated on the label.

It will be seen that several soothing syrups are being offered for sale which are misbranded, because the quantity of morphine present is in some instances 50 per cent more than that stated on the label. When it is remembered that these soothing syrups are used mostly for the most tender infants and that morphine is a most dangerous drug to be given under no conditions, unless upon the prescription of a licensed physician after an examination of the patient, it can readily be seen how careful druggists should be in placing before distracted mothers such preparations. There is no reason why such dealers should not be held to the strictest accountability for having such misbranded preparations in their possession. As an instance of this danger, a case in point has been reported by Dr. John M. Edwards, Commissioner of Health, Mankato, Minn., who reports the death of Mary Velez, aged 18 months, from an overdose of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. He writes:

"The undertaker came to my office for a burial permit for a child who had died, the parents said, of measles. The undertaker called my attention to the fact that the parents made a request for a burial permit worded that way. The coroner was called, and asked me to assist him in making an investigation. The child had been the youngest of a family of five, all of whom had measles. The child had been doing very well, so its mother said, until 12 hours before its death when it became peevish and cross. At eight a.m. she gave the child the first dose of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. The child being fussy and fretful, the mother continued to give her this medicine until she had taken about half the danger of the bottle. About two or three o'clock in the afternoon the child died. I put down the chief cause of death as poisoning from Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and the contributing cause of measles. As the child had been sick, her system was more or less undermined and she fell an easy prey to the medicine. I submitted the remaining part of the bottle which I took from the house to the laboratory of the State Board of Health, St. Paul, and I have on file to my office the analysis of the contents, in which the chemist found morphine." The Kansas Bulletin from which the above account is taken also says: "From Seattle comes an account of two infants found dead in the perambulator, in which they were put to sleep with Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup."

The official bulletin of the Florida State Board of Health issues a "Warning to mothers of young babies," in which it says: "The following list of soothing syrups for children is officially proclaimed by the United States government chemist as 'baby-killers'—all you value your child's health and life never use any of these preparations."

Then follows a list of 13 preparations, heading the list with Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. The danger lies in the opportunity that is afforded the ignorant person to do something that, if they were aware of, they would not do. A little child is teething, and is distressed with pain, crying incessantly, and soon neighbors possibly suggest to the mother that she send to the drug store and get some of the soothing syrup for infants that are offering for sale. Anxious to do anything to afford relief to the child, and herself too, she does so, and without knowing the danger of what she is doing, causes the death of her little infant. There is no more reason why the druggist should not be held responsible for selling these preparations which contain poisons in excess of the amount stated on the label, than the grocer whom we hold responsible for selling misbranded foods.

Some of the preparations in the list attached hereto have been condemned by the government, and heavy fines imposed for their sale. It is astonishing that with the free literature being published by the department of agriculture having the enforcement of the national food and drug law, all of which can be had for the asking, that so few druggists take the precaution to protect their business and their reputation. The Idaho drug law is almost identical with the national law, so that whatever prosecutions take place under the national law apply with equal force to the provisions of our state law.

Upon receiving the analysis of the state chemist made in the case mentioned in this bulletin, I sent for Mr. C. O'Halloran, president of the state board of pharmacy, and discussed with him these violations of the Idaho law. After talking over the whole situation, I agreed that we would not bring prosecutions against the druggists named in the attached list, excepting in a few extreme cases, but rather we would again warn the druggists of Idaho to "clean up house." I would suggest that the druggists communicate with the wholesale houses and jobbers from whom they buy their goods, and invite them to have their salesman make a thorough examination of the stocks of goods on their shelves, and throw away and destroy every article that conflicts

Section 1. That the Mayor of said city shall nominate and by and with the consent of the Council appoint an electrical inspector, for said city, whose duty it shall be to faithfully supervise and inspect all electrical wiring in the City of Twin Falls, and see that the provisions of this ordinance concerning same are complied with.

Section 2. The term of office of said electrical inspector shall be for one year or until his successor shall be appointed and qualified; but at any time such inspector proves unsuitable to the office, or incompetent or dishonest, he may be removed by the Mayor of the said city, and the Mayor and Council shall appoint some suitable person to fill the vacancy.

Section 5. Upon the completion of the installation of the electrical wiring and apparatus in any building within the limits of the City of Twin Falls, it shall be the duty of the person installing the same to notify, and he shall so notify, the electrical inspector that the same is ready for his inspection, and upon the payment by him to the electrical inspector of the fee of $1.00, the said electrical inspector shall forthwith make a complete inspection of the same, and shall apply to the same such tests as he shall deem best, and should he find same in an unsafe and dangerous condition he shall refuse to issue and best his inspection notice for same, until the person installing the same shall have made such changes as shall be necessary for the said wiring and apparatus to comply with the provisions of Section 4 of this ordinance.

Section 6. Any such person who shall be notified by the electrical inspector to make changes in the said installation so that the same shall comply with the provisions of Section 4 of this ordinance, shall forthwith and within three days, unless for good cause shown the said electrical inspector shall consent in writing to a longer period of time, make all changes necessary to the said wiring and apparatus to comply with the orders of the said electrical inspector and the provisions of Section 4 of this ordinance.

Section 7. No person or persons, firm or corporation, shall hereafter conceal or cause to be concealed any electrical wiring or apparatus mentioned in this ordinance except with the express permission of the electrical inspector, and the electrical inspector is hereby authorized and directed to remove any flooring, lathing or plaster, sheet metal or other material which may conceal any electrical wiring or apparatus contrary to the provisions of this ordinance.

Section 8. On the completion of the inspection of an electrical wiring and apparatus, either designed to be concealed or otherwise, and found to be in full compliance with the provisions of this ordinance, it shall be the duty of the electrical inspector to post a notice to that effect at the main cut-out center, and said notice shall be considered as an express permission to conceal said electrical wiring and apparatus, and as a certificate that the said electrical wiring and apparatus comply with the provisions of this ordinance. No consent shall be placed upon such notice shall have been posted by the electrical inspector.

Section 9. No person or persons, firm or corporation, engaged in the business of furnishing electricity for lighting or heating purposes or for the connecting of the wiring or apparatus in any house or building or other building or buildings with any wires carrying electric current, for the purpose of furnishing said house or houses or other building or buildings with electricity for heating or lighting purposes, shall so connect said electrical wiring and apparatus in said house or houses or other building or buildings with said wires carrying electric current until the electrical wiring and apparatus in said house or houses or other building or buildings has been inspected by the electrical inspector and the inspection notice has been posted as provided in Section 8 of this ordinance.

The 5 Acre Orchard Tracts are Selling

Lawyers, Merchants, Manufacturers, Clerks, Farmers, Day Laborers, are taking the advantage of this Great Opportunity While it Lasts.

WHY NOT?

The purchase price is as low and lower than most of the tracts are selling for all cash inside of 5 years. I only ask 30 per cent of purchase price and agree to wait until the orchard pays the balance without interest, or if you wish to pay all cash at end of 5 years you can deduct 20 per cent from the unpaid 70 per cent. Where does that put the purchase price? Way down below what others are selling at and you have the full 5 years to raise nearly three-fourths of the purchase price, and remember you

Don't Pay Me Any Interest

That's a big item here. Another point to consider, I price the land according to location and quality, the lowest tracts $1250, up to $2500. The $2500 tracts face along the electric car line and are choice tracts. Other choice tracts, for less money not as well located. All of these orchards are located inside the limits of the proposed electric car line.

Don't Wait Until the Choice Tracts Are All Sold

Sparing the Rod.

The bishop of Carlsbad, N. M., is no believer in "sparing the rod" and "spoiling the child." In a recent address he declared that the soft notions now being preached by people calling themselves "humanitarians." "It is said to be degrading to flog a boy," said the bishop. "Well, I am truly thankful that I was often degraded in that sense in my boyhood. If I had not been so degraded then I should be more degraded now. We need to eliminate these overbearing, foolish, soft and therefore cruel notions from our educational system. This is a matter not only for teachers, but for parents."

Monkeys and Gum. In tropical countries the natives have many unique ways of catching monkeys. One of them, as explained by a traveler, is this: The hunters walk about in short boots in sight of the monkeys. Then they take the boots off, place some gum in the bottoms and leave them on the ground, withdrawing themselves to a great distance. Presently the monkeys come down from the trees and try on the boots and when the hunters come after them the boots stick to the feet of the monkeys and they are unable to climb. Thus the mischievous little animals are captured.

A Professional Paradox. The study of science is not necessarily all gray; it may have its rose patches. It is said that a learned professor of Heidelberg forbade his students the repetition of a certain experiment.

"But," they protested, "it has always been successful."

"Nevertheless," he said, "its position among experiments is absolutely untenable from an intellectual point of view."

The boys started.

"The thing may answer very well in practice," said the professor, "but it is not sound in theory."—Youth's Companion.

England's Coal Flood.

A French author, M. Lese, has again brought up the question of the probable duration of the British coal fields. Assuming that the prosperity and power of Great Britain depend upon her supply of coal he thinks that "the end of Britain" is due within the present century. He fixes the date 1950 for the complete exhaustion of the attainable supply of coal in the British Isles.

To this statement reply is made that M. Lese has failed to take account of recent investigations proving that mining can be economically carried on at much greater depths than 3,000 feet—the limit assumed by the French author—and consequently the British coal supply will last indefinitely longer than his calculation shows. The National Tree of China.

The tung, or wood oil tree, is worthily named the national tree of China. It is stately in appearance, with smooth green bark and wide-spreading branches, affording a fine shade. It bears a fruit resembling a shellbark hickory nut, but as large as a small orange. Each nut contains three triangular seeds similar to small Brazil nuts. The oil is pressed from these seeds and the refuse is used as a fertilizer. The oil is used principally for polishing woodwork and dressing leather. Considerable quantities are exported.

The wood of the tung tree is used for making musical instruments, fine boxes and the framework of small houses. It is believed that this tree might flourish in warmer parts of the United States.—Scientific American.

Protecting Wild Animals.

Important amendment to the game laws which goes into effect this year is that prohibiting the sale of game at any time. While this will have no effect on the average hunter, it will put an end to a practice which has had much to do with decreasing the supply of wild animals and birds in this state. The slaughter of game in order to supply the markets has in the past done much to aid in the extinction of our wild animals and birds, and the elimination of this type of hunter will be most beneficial.

Each year the game laws are being more strictly enforced, and the protectors have obtained a large number of convictions. The officials are no longer ready to overlook violations of the law, but are making every effort to put a stop to illegal hunting. And in this work they have the moral support of all good citizens of the state.—Schenectady Gazette.

A Tender Tidbit.

Indeed, my dear, you ought to give up this idea of becoming a missionary to convert the heathen. "I am sure I could get them to like me."

"Oh, they'll like you, all right. As soon as they lay eyes on you, they'll see you are sweet enough to eat."

Feared the Worst.

A South Dakota railroad is noted for its execrable roadbed. A new brakeman was making his first run over the road at night and was standing in the center of the car, grimly clutching the seats to keep erect. Suddenly the train struck a smooth place in the track, and slid along without a sound. Seizing his lantern, the brakeman ran for the door. "Jump for your lives!" he shouted. "Get off the track!"—Success Magazine.

Judicial Advice.

"I hope you won't be hard on me, judge," he said. "You see, I was under the influence of liquor when I 'done it.'"

"You seem to have been under the influence of something equally bad when you studied grammar. During the spare moments that you are going to have, permit yourself to indulge in judicious study of the construction of simple sentences. Here is one to begin with—sixty days."
