POWER COMPANY WIN IN SUIT

Federal Court Takes Damage Case From Jury.

JAKE SHANK LOSES THROUGH NON-SUIT DECISION.

Plaintiff in Action Will Carry Case to Federal Circuit Court at San Francisco.

With both sides holding a large number of witnesses for several days at Boise the case of John Shank versus the Great Shoshone and Twin Falls Water Power company for thirty thousand dollars for personal injury was tried before Judge Dietrich of the federal district court. Testimony was produced on both sides with the plaintiff's attorneys making a very full motion to dismiss on the grounds of contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiff was introduced by the defendant's attorney and the motion granted by the judge, who held that certain rights of the defendant with regard to the distance of lines and the height of poles made it contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiff. The case closed as far as Judge Dietrich's court was concerned. Attorney Guthrie of this city has signified his intention to appeal from the decision and will take the case to the circuit court at San Francisco. The case has caused much comment in this city owing to the condition in which the shock left Mr. Shank and the verdict came as a surprise. The injuries were sustained by the plaintiff while working on his ranch near Buhl by the steel cable of a hay derrick coming in contact with a high-power line while he was holding the cable to make it steady. Permanent injuries were sustained and Mr. Shank incapacitated for further work on his ranch.

ORGANIZE POTATO CLUB.

Among the Boys and Girls of Each School District in State.

The Idaho State Department of public instruction has been working to encourage vocational work, especially in agriculture. They plan to organize potato clubs in each district of the state. At last, with the aid of the Agricultural College, a scheme was devised which is meeting state law approval and support throughout the state. It has been decided to have potato clubs throughout the state—let it be in every district of the state. The boys and girls forming these clubs are to raise 500 hills of potatoes; the prize winning potatoes in each district to be sent to the county fair; the first four prize winners to be sent to the state fair for the grand prize.

Professor Olin, director of the extension department of the Agricultural College, has been working on a bulletin giving full directions as to the information of the clubs, the preparation of the seed bed, the preparation of the soil, the selection of the seed, the planting, and the care of the crop. This bulletin will be distributed as soon as it comes off the press.

The plan for sowing clubs is well under way. It is hoped that the girls in each district. A bulletin will soon be issued giving full directions as to the plan and to the sowing. Only mowing, patching, darning and the making of a work apron will be included. It is the desire that each girl in every district will enter this contest. The plan for sowing clubs is well under way. MAKES MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Mountain States Telephone Co. Im- proving System at Jerome.

Mr. E. W. Rising, of Mountain States Telephone and Telephone Co., was in town the latter part of the week on business connected with his company. Mr. Rising informs us that quite extensive improvements are contemplated in this section in addition to those already under way. The new line from Twin Falls to this place has been completed, which has been equipped with a heavy copper wire, vastly improving the efficiency of the service. He states that the system here is practically rebuilt and much improved upon, all of which is very pleasing information to our citizens who have occasion to use the phone. Lincoln County Times.

INAUGURATES STOCK JUDGING.

Supt. Dooley of Elmer Schools Begins Practical Course.

Supt. E. B. Dooley of the Elmer schools is the first of the school men of the county to inaugurate a practical course of stock judging in his school work from all other schools. His experiment has been entirely successful. The boys are given a thorough course of instruction in all the points which are of value to the stock raiser. The illustration is given the students. In a recent test in which animals of the four kinds above mentioned were produced for judging by the students, there appeared some very clever work by all in the contest. One student scored 94 on the number name while the expert placed at 97 showing the degree of skill attained in a short time.

LAWRENCE HANSEN OF ROCK CREEK ELECTED PRESIDENT.

stitution Retain M. B. Provost as

A meeting of the board of directors of the Bank of Hansen was called yesterday to consider the matter of the resignation of C. B. Wilfley, president and organizer of that institution. Mr. Wilfley at that time sold his stock in the bank and severed his connection with it in any capacity. The stock held by him was taken over by the rest of the stockholders. Lawrence Hansen of Rock Creek was elected president, H. C. Vanderpool vice president, and M. B. Provost, the present cashier, retained in that office. FIRST CLASS WRESTLING BOUT.

To Be Filled Off at Dreamland Pavil- ion Next Monday Evening.

Manager J. C. Webb of Dreamland Pavilion has arranged to pull off a first-class wrestling bout Monday evening of next week. The contestants are Young Griffo of Burley and McCarroll of Idaho Falls, who have both won "creditable" work in their line. Young Griffo is well known in the city, having wrestled here on several different occasions and has given entire satisfaction to his fans. He is the student of Yokoi, and won in a bout with Truett of Soldier a short time ago. McCarroll has won from Idaho Falls and is the winner of all the events pulled off in that city, except the championship of Oregon. The management guarantees satisfaction or money refunded.

RECEIVES TOP PRICE.

Robert Brose Receives High Price for Cattle at Portland.

Robert Brose the well known butcher and stock man of this city received word Wednesday morning from his son who is in Portland, Ore., that he had disposed of the lot at the top market price. The steers averaged 1446 lbs. each, and the calves 384 lbs. each. This surely speaks well for the Twin Falls trade as the steers were only three months old and the calves in no way but alfalfa hay. Mr. Brose informs the Times that had the market been nearer the steers would have brought $10.00 but the shrinkage in the west must be taken into consideration.

SUPT. DISCUSSES THE POWER RATE

Jos. H. Seaver Speaker at Luncheon of Club.

INTERESTING INTERPRETATION OF PRODUCERS' SIDE.

Declares That Rates for Power Are Cheaper Than Most Every Other La-cally.

The Wednesday luncheon was very well attended this week at the Commercial club, when the food served was all supplied by Mr. J. A. Waters and entirely home products. The discussion which followed on the power rates by Mr. Jos. H. Seaver of the Great Shoshone and Twin Falls Water Power company proved very interesting in giving the company's side of the much disputed question of cheap electricity. In taking up his subject Mr. Seaver called attention to the large amount of capital invested by the Power company, the scattered territory requiring extensive traffic lines and which made it impossible to base rates on other community conditions. He stated that the cost of extension of power lines was the cause of the ap- parently high rates. The company because of its great development work and the bringing of a great amount of capital into the state was a part of the argument put up to the guests at the luncheon.

THE REAL PARTY CLEAVAGE.

The real distinction at the present time in the Republican party is not so much between "progressives" and "conservatives" as between a coalition of selfish interests on one hand and the consistent Republican sentiment of the country on the other hand. The future of the Republican party must depend upon what will happen in the national convention next June. It is not a party that cannot easily be harmonized.

The great mass of the party is for the country and the welfare of all the people. But the machinery of the party has to a great extent come under the control of self-seekers and special interests. The party does not lack intelligence, and its best thinking is done, not by those holding the high political offices, but by the rank and file who have time to think and are free from the bias of personal ambition and the restraints imposed by political bargains and trade. There has never been a period in the party's history when it was so necessary for its salvation that its private members should assert themselves, control their own convention, repudiate machine bargains, make a simple, honest platform, and nominate candidates in response to such demand as the party may have indicated by the middle of June. It is complained that the movement for control of the Chicago convention, made under the leadership by federal office-holders of the delegates from Southern States that will cast no Republican electoral votes in November. If the administration were not reckoning upon its control of delegates from Alaska, Porto Rico, the Philippines, Hawaii, and those Southern States that are always solidly Democratic, so the Progressives declare, it would have no assurance upon which to base its management with local machines and organizations like the New York County Committee and the Peabody following in Pennsylvania. The anti-Taft Republicans have been sharply criticizing the methods used to get "snap judgment" and secure delegates many months in advance of the convention. The Republican party is generous, and it can forgive many mistakes. But, these critics declare, the party does not like to be deceived, and it respects the conventions and the will of the voters. The eighteen or twenty delegates elected in early February were all of this sort.—Review of Reviews.

The agitation which is being carried on about the employment of special legal counsel by the county commissioners has to us no unprejudiced observer reached the stage where it is merely political jockeying. There seems to be nothing left of the reform element in the outcry which is going up on the part of the Republicans. The Times stands for reform and always will stand for those things which are right as the editor's see them, but the present agitation is so strongly political that any furtherance of it will be certain to rebound upon the authors of the movement. It is true that the present (Democratic) board of county commissioners have secured special legal service from among the Democrats. It is also true that during the Devine trial under Republican administration special counsel was employed and paid for out of the county funds by a Republican board of county commissioners. What is the difference? It is true that a special accountant was employed by the present Democratic board to audit the books of the county. It is also true that two years before under a Republican administration a special accountant was employed. The only difference was in the money paid the two. Was one right and the other wrong? Where does the wrong of employing special legal aid come in? Is it because one was a murder case and the other merely bootlegging? It rather looks to any one outside of the politician's paradise that the crime committed by present board is a purely democratic one, out of which campaign thunder was to be created by the other party. The Times believes in a square deal to both sides alike and while it cannot support the present county commissioners in a campaign if responsible Republicans are put up, it does want to commend the present board for its squareness in all matters. With regard to the prosecution of the bootleggers it is not a political matter. At present we have a Republican sheriff working in perfect harmony with a Democratic prosecuting attorney, each doing his duty according to law. We have a democratic board backing both with equal fairness in the discharge of their duties. Each one of these citizens was elected upon a platform which called for law enforcement and the Times believes they are all doing their duty. It then comes down to the motive which actuates any one making criticism of experts incurred in enforcing the liquor laws. Either it must be in favor of bootlegging or else it must be purely political. True reform does not consist of clamoring for one or another reform, but of the honest enforcement of the law. The Times fully believes that economy should be practiced in all county expenditures but believes that it should not be commenced with leniency with law breakers.

WONDERS OF THE YOSEMITE.

First Seen by White Men During a Chase After Indians.

It was in the middle years of the last century that the eyes of a white man caught the first glimpse of the wonders of the Yosemite. In January, 1850, Dr. Bunnell while prospecting for gold in the Sierra Nevada mountains saw a stupendous cliff looming up in the distance, but did not then take time to make any investigation.

In March, 1851, the Mariposa battalion, commanded by Major Savage, of which Dr. Bunnell was a member, penetrated the mountains in pursuit of Indians who had been giving great trouble to gold miners, prospectors and settlers. On the 21st of March they entered the valley, being, so far as known, the first white men to obtain a near view of its sublime cliffs and wonderful waterfalls. Dr. Bunnell, with several companions, had crossed the Sierras and looked down into the valley shortly before. Dr. Bunnell quickly recognized in the giant cliff, now called El Capitan, the mountain which had attracted his attention the year before, although he had then viewed it from a point fully forty miles away.

Four years later the first party of tourists visited the valley, arriving in June, 1855. A member of this party wrote a description of it for the Mariposa Gazette, which was widely copied in newspapers and magazines in this and other countries, being the first authentic description ever published.—National Monthly.

JEBEL MUSA.

Mount Upon Which Moses Received the Tables of the Law.

In a wild and desolate region in the southern half of the Syrian peninsula stands the mount which Moses ascended to receive the tables of the law. From its sacred associations this mountainous region has long been a favorite abode of religious residences. The mountain itself divides into three parts, and there has been much discussion as to the exact site of the giving of the law.

Jebel Musa, the central of the three peaks, is now considered as best fulfilling the conditions described in Scripture. At its base is the broad plain of sufficient extent to permit the encampment of the hosts of Israel. The peak itself rises to a height of 7,533 feet, and on its northeastern slope at an elevation of about 5,000 feet, is the monastery of St. Catharine, so precipitous is the side of the mountain at this point that the only means of access to the monastery is by a winding. In this lofty dwelling place, monks are housed some thirty monks of the Greek church.

The whole place was favorite of the Christian anchorites of the early centuries, and the rocks are full of the coils and caves in which they lived. There are to be seen here also numerous ancient inscriptions upon the rocks which are of great interest to archaeologists, and one of the best manuscripts of the Bible was discovered here in 1859.—Brooklyn Eagle.

WEIRD COINCIDENCES.

Curious Repetition of a Train Wreck and a Lucky Escape.

Lord Acton for many years kept a record of coincidences. A very strange one occurred within his own experience.

A rumor had spread that his wife had drowned herself. She had done nothing of the kind, but it was quite true that a Baroness Acton had drowned herself at Tegernsee, where Lord and Lady Acton were staying, and had drowned herself under their very window.

The strangest of all coincidences noted by Lord Acton concerned Sir Edmund Berry Godfrey, who was murdered at the bottom of "what is now Primrose hill, but was then known as Greenbury hill, in London.

Three men were hanged for the murder. Their names, respectively, were Green, Berry and Hill.

Some years ago a well known business man, who was accustomed to make weekly trips between an eastern city and Chicago, had the uncomfortable experience of having a wheel break immediately under his seat while the train was going at full speed. It was only by the most fortunate of leaps that he was able to escape losing his life. Naturally this experience made a very deep impression upon him.

It was almost a year later that he took the same train and by a strange chance was assigned the same chair. During a chat with a friend whom he had just met he glanced out of the window and recognized the landscape and the very spot of his narrow escape. He told the friend the story of the broken wheel. Just as he reached the climax of his recital, the other, "The cold shivers go down my back at the mere thought of it—there it is again," in incredible as it may seem, the identical accident happened on the same train, almost between the same two fields adjoining the track, and the victim of this odddest of coincidences barely escaped the same narrow escape.

Such weird coincidences are always difficult of credence, but no less an authority than Darwin, the naturalist, mentions one of the same kind, though different in degree. One of a party whereof Darwin was a member was speaking of the earthquake of Talcahuano, in northern Chile, on which occasion the father had lost all his property, and the narrator himself had barely escaped with his life. Then, writes Darwin, there ensued a curious coincidence. A German, one of the party, got up, saying that he would never sit in a room in those countries with the door shut; no, owing to his having done so, he once nearly lost his life at Santiago. Accordingly, he opened the door. No sooner had he done so than he cried out, "Here it comes again!" and another shock commenced. The whole party escaped.—St. Louis Republic.

Abandoned Mines.

Old worked out mines are often highly dangerous. When they are almost forgotten the ground above them will sometimes cave in with disastrous results. It is not an uncommon thing in an old mining district to see a house or even part of a town that has been wrecked by dropping into an unexplored and long abandoned tunnel beneath. The ordinary preventive method used in American mines is more or less extensive timbering. A method used in European and Australian mines of late years is the filling of abandoned workings with sand. This is a somewhat expensive method to start with, but once done no further thought need be given to it, as the abandoned mine has practically become one more part of the solid crust of the earth.

Scalping the Dead.

Just west of the settlement of the head by tearing the skin from the head began will never be known, for the body is lost in the midst of ages, the record extending back beyond even the mythical period of man's existence. In the book of Macabees it is recorded that at the termination of one of the last of which that bloody history is so full, the victorious soldiers tore the skin from the heads of their vanquished foes. This would be recorded as the custom of scalp taking was one of the indulgences even of those people of whom we have record in the Bible.

All About Stealing.

"Why do you call your story 'The Thieves' Romance'?"

"How?"

"Well, the story of the romance goes this way: 'She stole a look; then he stole a kiss. Next they had stolen meetings, they stole a march on their friends, and both stole away.'"

"I suppose the next thing they will be stealing back."

Play Was Over.

A German general on inspecting his troops at the close of the war addressed them thus:

"Now, my children, we can once more get seriously to work. The time of war is at an end, and drill must go on regularly, as heretofore."—London Tit-Bits.

Wanted His Pa.

"What did your father friend say when you asked him for his daughter?"

"He refused to answer any question without a retainer."—Satire.

Mrs. A. D. Norton and her daughter, Mrs. James W. Walker entertained very informally at their home last Saturday evening. Young, Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Nixon, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Sizor of Birchwood Beach, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Slater, Mr. and Mrs. Cookley, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Scott and Mr. A. Gray.

Mrs. J. A. Waters attended the lecture course Thursday evening and on returning home found her house taken possession of by the Royal Neighbors. Two long tables were loaded down with good things to eat. Several of the ladies were dressed as little girls and brought their dolls, it being only the 11th birthday. Mrs. Waters has been favored with it coming as it does on the 29th day of February. Mrs. Baker made a very pleasant and humorous speech while presenting a beautiful hand painted berry set to which Mrs. Waters made a hearty, appreciative answer. Music and card playing filled the remainder of the pleasant evening. Miss Ortha Waters surprised her mother, Mrs. J. A. Waters by having twenty-five neighbors drop in for the evening on Friday. All sorts of jolly fun and dainty refreshments were indulged in and Mrs. Waters was wondering if she is to be surprised every night for the balance of the year. Having only one birthday in four years has its compensation.

Mrs. E. J. Ostrander entertained a large number of ladies at a most enjoyable card party last Friday afternoon. The time was devoted to progressive five hundred at which Mrs. H. P. Allen and Mrs. W. H. Greenhow received the prizes for high score. Mrs. E. S. Chadwick receiving guests prize. J. Swallow and Mrs. E. J. Hardesten the first night and by Mrs. F. T. Mitchell and Dr. W. F. Pike on the second evening. On both occasions the hostess served delicious refreshments for which she is famed, being assisted by Mesdames P. J. Costello, J. Costello, E. Hardesten and F. T. Mitchell. A MADE OVER STATUE.

Designed to Pose as a King, It Now Represents a Saint.

The most made over statue in the world is in a quaint little church at Yarmouth, Isle of Wight. It was originally designed for that of Louis XIV. of France and was the work of a Roman sculptor who started for France with the statue, but was captured on the way by an English warship. France and England were then at war, and the boat containing the statue was taken on board the English vessel with other spoils.

When Sir Richard Holmes, the English commander, examined it and found the head was unfinished he ordered the sculptor to complete it in his own likeness, and so the heroic figure that was intended to represent a French monarch was turned into an officer of the English navy.

When Sir Richard was made governor of the Isle of Wight in 1607 he presented the statue of himself to the Yarmouth church. Half a century after his death a statue of St. John was desired for certain niches in the church, and an English sculptor was called in to chisel out the face and naval hat of Sir Richard and make them over into the benign features and flowing locks of the saint.

The incongruity of court clothes and a jeweled chain on the figure of one of the apostles did not seem to strike the worshippers as anything unusual, and St. John still occupies his place by the altar attired in a dainty of a French king—New York Press.

GIRAFES IN BATTLE.

The Long Necked Animals Wield Their Heads as Weapons.

The giraffe has an original and curious method of fighting. Its long necked head has neither claws nor beak nor sharp teeth with which to defend or attack, so when it is out of temper with one of its own kind it does not fly to the face of provocation by trying to disembowel its adversary, as a tiger might, or toss it, as a rhinoceros would.

On the contrary, the giraffe, knowing that it has been provoked by nature with a long and public neck, terminating in a very solid head, uses the upper part of itself like a flail and, swinging its neck round and round in a way that does immense credit to its organization, brings its head down at each swing with the force of a mallet. The other combatant adopts precisely the same tactics, and the two animals, planning themselves as firmly as possible by stretching out on all fours to the utmost, stand opposite each other in a circle, each with its head up one or the other has had enough.

The head of the giraffe is furnished with two stumpy, horn-like processes, so that the animals when at this hammer and tongs method of warfare remind the spectator somewhat of two ancient warriors thumping each other with the spiked balls they used to carry for that purpose at the end of chains. Harpers Weekly.

The Triple Plume.

The three feathers of the Prince of Wales, with the German motto, "Ich Dien" ("I serve"), are supposed to be the arms of the third king of Britain, whom Edward III's son, the Black Prince, overcame at Crecy. The captor, it will be remembered, waited in his own tent with his cap and lance, a special significance to the words of Edward III. In this, however, we have a story that history refuses to accept. The triple plume, indeed, as well as feathers of various numbers, came into general use about the time of Edward III. But it was not unknown before that time, and even at that time it was not the distinctive cognizance of the Prince of Wales. Other members of the royal family bore it, as well as he. Not till the reign of Henry II. was the triple plume within a coronet, restricted to the eldest son of the sovereign—St. Louis Republic.

CANALS IN HOLLAND.

Simple Scheme That Keeps Children From Falling Into Them.

The Dutch peasant lives with canals all about him, and reaches his cottage by way of a drawbridge. Perhaps it is in the blood of the Dutch child, says a writer in London M. A. P., not to fall into a canal. At all events the Dutch mother never appears to anticipate such a possibility.

One can imagine the average English or American mother trying to bring up a family in a house surrounded by canals. She would never have a moment's peace until the children were in bed. But then the mere sight of a canal to the English child suggests the delights of a sudden and unexpected splash. An Englishman inquired of a Dutch woman, "Does a Dutch child ever by any chance fall into a canal?" "Yes," she replied, "canals have been known."

"Don't you do anything for it?" continued the questioner. "Oh, yes," she answered. "We haul them out again."

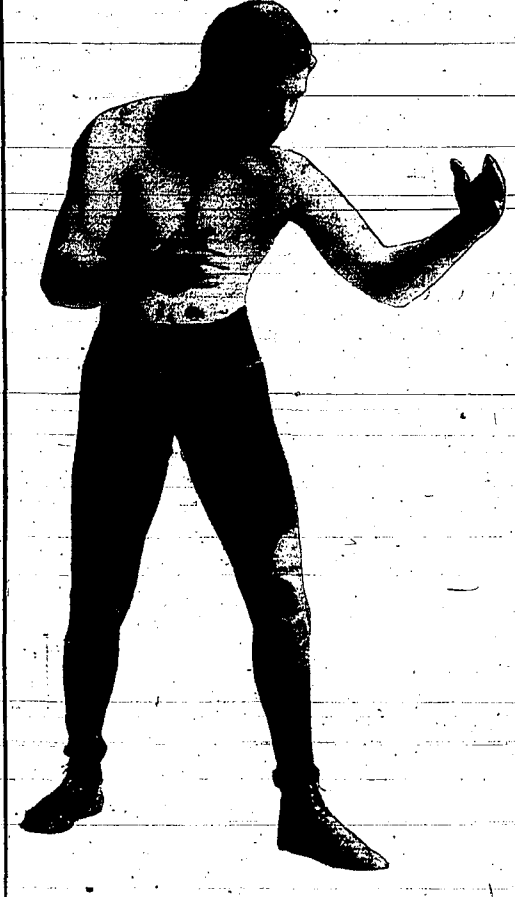

"But what I mean it," explained the Englishman, "don't you do anything to prevent their falling in—to save them from falling in again?" "Yes," she answered; "we spank them."

OLD FRENCH COACHES.

The One in Which Henry of Navarre Was Assassinated.

As regards the history of coaches in France, Henry IV. was assassinated in 1610. Soon after his death some engravings were published representing him being murdered in his carriage by Ravaillac. It is from these that we get a fair idea of the coaches. They are simply square boxes, measuring by scale six feet in length by three and a half feet in width, on four wheels of the same diameter, without any spring of straps and seating six persons in all—namely, two with their backs to the horses, two facing them and two more, one on each side of the two "boots" at the front. Each vehicle had a foot resting on light columns and curtains to draw or to let down. This agrees well with the received accounts of the incident: according to the version of Henry's mode of death, the open carriage, and according to another that as soon as the fatal blow was delivered by the assassin the king's attendant who rode with him in the carriage drew the curtains and, hiding the king from view, assured the enraged people that he was only wounded.—London Notes and Queries.

Jesus the Healer. Mark 1:29-45.

Matt. 14:23-25.

Golden Text—Himself too: our infirmities, and bare our sicknesses. Matt. viii:17.

(1.) Verses 29-31—If this sickness of Peter's wife mother had been that of any other woman would Jesus have been equally interested?

(2.) What benefit is it to us to tell God when our loved ones are sick?

(3.) Verses 32-34—Is there any reason to expect that God, in these days, will heal our sick in any way resembling the manner in which Jesus healed sick people?

(4.) How do you account for the fact that the devil-seek seemed to know Jesus?

(5.) Verse 35—Why was it necessary for Jesus to get up a great while before day and, in a solitary place, engage in protracted prayer?

(6.) Would you say that Jesus had certain set times for prayer, or did he pray only when he felt the need, and which method ought we to adopt?

(7.) Verses 36-37—Did Simon and the rest of them do well to disturb Jesus in his private prayer, or should they have waited until his return? Give your reasons.

(8.) Verse 38—What is the difference between the mission of Jesus and that of any one of his true followers?

(9.) Verse 39—Should a man with a special message confine his work to one church or to one town? Give your reasons.

(10.) Verses 40-42—If Jesus were preaching in the final today would he pay the attention to the cure of physical disease as he did in that day or would he refer them to the physicians and surgeons?

(11.) Verses 43-45—Which is the greater sin, and why, to tell a thing when God tells us not to do so or not to tell what he bids us make known? (12.) Matt. 14:23-25—Is it a lack of faith on the part of the hearers today that they cannot cure physical diseases, or is it because God wants to cure them through medical science? Why?

(13.) What is God's attitude toward those who teach that it is His will now to cure disease, in answer to prayer, without the use of the means? (This is one of the questions that may be answered in writing by the members of the club.)

INDIAN RUNNER DUCKS.

"The Leghorn of the Duck Family."

The Indian Runner duck is by no means a new species but their many excellent qualities are bringing them rapidly into public favor. The Australian egg laying contests brought this duck to the attention of many people. The "Wonder" duck of New Zealand has a public record of 320 eggs in one year. The typical Runner lays a pure white egg, very delicate in flavor, being superior to hen's eggs for baking and fine for table use. Duck eggs analyze richer in protein and fat than hen's eggs.

Being great foragers if given their freedom, pick up much of their living; however they lay well in confinement if provided with plenty of drinking water. Water for swimming is not essential although they would not be ducks if they did not enjoy swimming when opportunity offers. Small eaters and can be kept as cheaply as hens—more so if given range of the fields—non-sitters and hardly enough to stand guard could if given dry sleeping quarters. A few fences will hold them, with no conflicts with lice, frosted combs or scratching up of gardens and are very free from disease. Excellent winter layers.

In appearance the Indian Runner is an alert, attractive looking bird with a long, erect carriage and a running gait. They are light brown or fawn and white in coloring, with delicate penciling. The drakes have cap and tail markings of black.

My ducks are true Runners, prolific layers of large, white eggs. Uniform in size, markings and development. I guarantee every duck to be of pure white egg strain and ducks from them will lay white eggs and reproduce themselves in type.

REO THE FIFTH SPEAKS FOR ITSELF.

ATTENTION, S. S. TEACHERS.

International Press Bible Question Club.

Rev. Dr. Linscott's Suggestive Questions on the International S. S. Lessons.

A BIBLE STUDY COURSE.

A Newspaper Bible Study Course ample enough for young people, and important enough for philosophers; eminently adapted to intermediate or adult Bible classes.

THE CONDITIONS.

The conditions of this course are (1) and the International S. S. Lessons on the Suggestive Questions on the line for not exceeding fifty-two weeks. (2) Cut the coupon out of the local paper, in which these questions are published, each week the reading of the Bible, and the reading of the questions. (3) During the 52 weeks' period, answer writing any five questions you may select from the weekly questions that are indicated to be answered in writing. (4) Deliver to the office of the local paper within one week after the close of the 52 weeks' period all coupons that the student has, together with the five written answers. Students may obtain help in answering the written questions.

THE PRIZES.

The prizes will be awarded to those who deliver to the said newspaper office the greatest number of coupons. The prizes to be broken by an impartial examination of the five written answers. There will be two hundred prizes given away during the year, divided among four classes, fifty prizes each; a class being composed of newspapers which take up this Bible study course during any weekly period. Only one paper in a town is permitted to publish these questions. The fifty prizes are composed of five large gold medals, to the winner's name engraved, to the first five contestants; five Teachers' Bibles, price $5.00 each; to the next five contestants; and the book, "The Heart of Christianity," price $1.50 each, to the next thirty-five contestants.

A DIPLOMA TO ALL.

In addition to these prizes, every student completing the course will be awarded a beautiful three-color diploma, suitable for framing, whether or not a winner of any prize or not.

A FASCINATING STUDY.

S. S. Teachers are urged to make an actual test of these questions in their classes. They demonstrate the superiority of the Socratic over every other method of teaching. Your thinking is not done for you, but your own and your scholars' thoughts are stimulated. They do not take the place of present lesson helps but are supplementary. These questions will make your class attend regularly, sit up, think, and talk.

YOU-AND-YOUR CLASS.

S. S. Teachers who take up this course and get every student member of your class to do so, it will be an unspeakable benefit to you and your scholars. It is easily done; its benefits are vast; 15 minutes a week will do it, with an hour or two during the term to write the five answers. It cost nothing except for the local newspaper once a week in which the questions are published.

THE START.

The local paper will run the questions for 13 weeks as a preliminary campaign to give them for all to get ready, and the reading course starts on the fourteenth week. See that your scholars get the local paper which publishes the Questions. Encourage them every Sunday with the prizes and the great value of this Bible Question course. Stick to them and you will succeed.

THE SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS.

These questions are running in over a thousand newspapers. They are enthusiastically endorsed by Fathers, S. S. Superintendents, Presidents of Universities, Bishops, Presidents of the International S. S. Association, the Chairman of its Lesson Committee, and by thousands of pleased Teachers of Adult and Intermediate Classes. Get your local paper in one week after the beginning of your class to join the local club. Do it now.

ENCOURAGE THE LOCAL PAPER.

Tell the publisher what good he is doing in publishing these Questions. Do it frequently. The service costs him money, so let him see how the good people appreciate what he is doing for the community. Men, like children, are helped by outspoken approval. Let him see that it pays in increased circulation to cater to the S. S. Classes. You can get every member of your class to take the paper, thus helping the publisher a little, your class and yourself more, and the cause of Bible study a lot. If the service is appreciated it will be continued indefinitely; otherwise it will be dropped.

YOUR QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

If you would like to have answered any particular question each week or any week from "The Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson" by Rev. Dr. Linscott, send in your questions to this office, giving the date of the lesson and the number of the question you wish answered. You may select any question except the one indicated for the community. Don't forget to write by the members of the club. Dr. Linscott will answer the questions either in these columns or by mail. S. S. Teachers are urged to make an actual test of these questions in their classes. They demonstrate the superiority of the Socratic over every other method of teaching. Your thinking is not done for you, but your own and your scholars' thoughts are stimulated. They do not take the place of present lesson helps but are supplementary. These questions will make your class attend regularly, sit up, think, and talk.

Protecting Wild Animals.

An important amendment to the game laws which goes into effect this year is that prohibiting the sale of game at any time. While this will have no effect on the average hunter, it will put an end to a practice which has had much to do with decreasing the supply of wild animals and birds in this state. The slaughter of game in order to supply the markets has in the past done much to aid in the extinction of our wild animals and birds, and the elimination of this type of hunter will be most beneficial.

Each year the game laws are becoming more strictly enforced, and the protectors have obtained a large number of convictions. The officials are no longer ready to overlook violations of the law, but are making every effort to put a stop to illegal hunting. And in this work they have the moral support of all good citizens of the state.—Schenectady Gazette.

FOUND—A brown muff. Inquire at Feb. 18

[This matter must not be repeated without special permission.]

Of itself corn served in various forms is not a balanced ration for man, but it is a great heat producer, and if served with beef, beans or eggs it is both cheap and economical.

Many an alarm clock is kept in the house and wound up regularly as a sort of conscience, indicating that the winding of it at night seems to make a justification for oversleeping in the morning.

Backward cakes light and nicely baked and served with crisp bacon or breakfast sausage surely do little to palate, but a too steady diet of them is rather tough on the stomach and consequently on one's health. They are best sandwiched in with other rations.

Sealing water, fresh air and sunshine are three of the most valuable aids in the maintaining of a clean and healthful environment for and a healthy condition in the farm animals, and they are three aids that many a farmer appreciates to a pitifully meager degree.

Fresh meat is quite too high to be feasible as a ration for the hens, but if one lives in a rabbit country the poultry will greatly relish the rabbit meat. Skin and draw the rabbit and hang up just high enough so the hens will have to jump to reach. The exercise and fresh meat combined should set them to laying if they have been loafing.

The increasing scarcity of fur bearing animals is in no case better shown than in the prices paid for mink pelts now and a few years ago. The same large, dark, prime pelt that was selling fifteen years ago for $1.40 now fetches $7. In the same period prime skunk skins have advanced from 35 cents to $1.75 and muskrat from 11 to 40 cents.

The potato crop for the season past totaled 282,000,000 bushels, and while this yield was about 12 per cent below the five year average, owing to the higher prices prevailing it netted the growers $213,000,000, which was about 14 per cent above the return for the crop on a five year basis. At present a good many potatoes are being imported and are paying a duty of 25 cents per bushel.

In some sections of the west where cattle ranges are settling down the big cattle ranches they seem to have adopted the motto of "free range, free beef," and have been enjoying a toothsome supply of fresh beef by killing steers now and then that happened to stray on their ranches. Naturally the cattle men object to this procedure and in some instances have appealed to state authorities for protection. It was not so very long ago when it was the housewives who were the suppliers.

There is no condition to be found on the farm that will play easier hold than housing them under such conditions that they will not have an abundance of fresh air by night or day. The stable in which cattle or sheep are quartered may be steamy and warm, but the air in such a place may be so bad and so lacking in oxygen as to nearly extinguish a lantern. Fresh air doesn't cost anything, but it's mighty expensive business not giving the farm animals all they want of it.

Modern business inflicts much injustice at times upon those less favorably situated in the economic scale and is also responsible for the practice of much dishonesty of one kind and another, but it has also had some most wholesome influences. Among these is a great curtailment of the drinking of intoxicating liquors among practically all railway employees and the workers in many other industries where employers insist on efficiency and sobriety. Many of these same companies have entirely forbidden the use of cigarettes by employees while on duty simply because they "take" from a man's mental alertness and power of concentration.

The chief causes of loss in the operation of many a farm dairy are due to failure to apply the Babcock test for quantity and quality of milk to assure which cows are really paying for the keep or making a profit and, secondly, failure to adjust the grain ration of the cows to the amount of milk that they are giving. With cows giving milk containing 4 per cent of butterfat a good rule is to feed three pounds of grain daily for each three pounds of milk produced. From this it will be seen that in many a dairy feed cows may be fed either more or less grain than they ought to get in both instances to a loss and disadvantage.

In latitudes liable to frozen temperatures it is well during the coldest weather to put some salt on the slat troughs and pour a quantity of hot water through. If the pipes are nearly clogged this will tend to clean them while if they are stopped up the salt will help to melt them out.

It is rather a strange coincidence that for the three winters past, including the present, the lowest temperatures through the month of January have been recorded between the 5th and 7th of January, temperatures of from 20 to 30 degrees below zero having been registered in this brief interval.

Perhaps in no case does the proverb "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" apply with greater force than in the case of the flock of poultry. It is both cheaper and easier to take the simple necessary precautions to insure the health of the flock than to correct matters after a disease gets a foothold, for after poultry get sick the simplest and often the cheapest cure is to knock them on the head and bury them.

A disease which has been prevalent among the cattle and horses of eastern Oregon for the past year and a half and had been dubbed the "walking sickness" has been lately diagnosed as plain hydrophobia, following a recent investigation into the matter by the state bacteriologist, Professor Pernot. A curious feature of the disease seems to be an attempt on the part of affected animals to follow moving objects, invariably the disease has been fatal.

On Dec. 27 a good many people gathered on a farm near Raymondville, Tex., to witness the dynamiting of five acres of land, the treatment being given for the purpose of increasing its productive capacity. Holes were bored forty feet apart over this tract and to a depth of five feet, and in these the charges of dynamite were placed and exploded. It is claimed by those who were in charge of the experiment that this treatment will increase the capacity of the soil to hold moisture and will make possible more perfect drainage.

The wheat producing territory of the world is so distributed that there is not a month in the year but the harvesting of the cereal is in progress somewhere. It begins in January in Australia, and gradually, and for the remaining months is carried on successively in East India and upper Egypt, lower Egypt, Asia Minor and Mexico, Algeria, central Asia and China, southern France and the southern United States, southeastern Europe and the central United States, northern central Europe, England, Canada and the Dakotas, Norway, Sweden and north Russia, Peru and South Africa, and winds up in December in Burma and Argentina.

The brown or corn bread that is the natural complement of a ration of pork and beans is said to have been first made by a Boston baker in 1740 in an effort to find a cheaper substitute for the white bread, which had become a luxury owing to the high price of wheat. While it was designed originally as a ration for the poorer classes, it took so well that it became highly prized by both rich and poor. The following is said to be the recipe for this original brown bread: Take two cups of Indian meal, two cups of rye or wheat flour, two cups of sweet milk and one cup of molasses, and mix with two cups of soda and two cups of salt. Steam three hours in a covered tin inside a large covered vessel, then turn an hour more with the inside cover off.

The fine quality of many a big chrysanthemum co-operative creameries is ruined through the addition to the cream of a single mess of dirty cream slipped into the gatherer's tank by some careless or dirty patron. Where such a mess of cream is slipped into a large vat of cream and is allowed to ripen before the contamination is spread to the whole mass, and when this churning of butter gets to market the price may be knocked from 2 to 4 cents a pound because of the rankness which has been imparted. Lactal band creamery managers and their buttermakers should have their drivers keep close tab on these dirty patrons, with orders to refuse dirty cream or that from the milk of cows too far advanced in their period of lactation for their milk to be sweet and usable. If these precautions were taken thousands of dollars would be saved from the patrons of co-operative creameries in the course of a year.

If the California Fruit Growers' exchange has a pretty effective monopoly in the handling and marketing of citrus fruits, as contended by some market papers that are decidedly partial to jobbers and middle men as a class, it is a situation that these latter people are chiefly and directly responsible for. Timely was, and that but a few years ago, when, to use an agricultural figure, the jobbers and commission men as well as the railroads and growers with the orange and lemon growers of California. It took the latter quite awhile to get wise to what allied them; then they got tired, later having been organized, and the Fruit Growers' exchange is the result. The same provocation and much the same results in co-operative effort along the marketing line are to be noted in half a dozen or more other fruit growing sections of the state. Some of the aidmen have killed the goose that laid the golden egg.

A BIG HORSE FEEDING TEST.

Probably the largest experiment in horse feeding ever conducted was this one recently concluded at Fort Riley, Kan., under the supervision of Dr. Campbell, who is connected with the State Agricultural college. Nine hundred and thirty-seven horses were used in the test, and these were divided into fifteen different lots and fed as many different rations. Every meal for every one of these horses was weighed and mixed in the right proportions for each ration, and the purpose of the experiment was to find, if possible, a grain ration that would take the place of oats and give as good results, also to test the feeding value of different hays and to determine the effect of different grain rations upon the health of the horses. When the feeding tests were concluded several things were made clear: First, other feeds can be substituted for oats as a ration for work horses with as good results and much cheaper. It was proven conclusively that oats alone were a better ration for work horses than corn alone, but more expensive. Horses that were fed oats alone gained on an average fifteen pounds a head, while a like number that were fed corn alone lost twenty-nine pounds apiece in the same time. When corn was fed with the proper amount of alfalfa or the right quality it was found to give just as good results as oats and, besides, was fully 60 per cent cheaper. Alfalfa hay, properly fed, proved to be a more valuable roughage than either timothy or prairie hay and costened the cost of the daily ration from 25 to 40 per cent. A ration consisting of six parts of corn, four parts of oats and four parts of bran, together with timothy hay, was rated as the best ration that could be given a horse, and the cheapest. An old idea was exploded in the experiment—namely, that horses fed oats have more life than those given a ration of corn.

A SCHOOL OF HORTICULTURE.

As a result of cooperation on the part of the business men of Lewiston, Ida., and Clarkston, Wash., a school of horticulture has been established at Livingston that will be quite unique in its scope and purpose. Instead of furnishing instruction primarily to young people, as is so largely true of the average agricultural college, the school in question will be attended most largely by owners of fruit ranches in the vicinity and their wives and daughters. Among the subjects studied will be fruit growing, nursery practice, the breeding of small fruits and vegetables, insects and their treatment, plant diseases and other subjects arising from the agricultural conditions to be found in the valley; also soil physics and soil chemistry. The business men of the two cities came to the conclusion that the fruit industry of the valley was retarded because of a lack of trained men, and the school just established has definitely in view correcting this difficulty. That a high grade of instruction will be given is indicated in the choice of Professor Thorburn, previously in charge of the horticultural department of the South Dakota and Washington state agricultural colleges. Lectures will be given in the forenoon of five days in the week, while the laboratory work will be largely done in the nearby orchards. Professor Thorburn believes there is a real need for the school and is enthusiastic about its future.

SENSIBLE MONTANA.

Beginning with Jan. 1 the good people of Montana will be able to know a bit about the pedigree of the eggs they have for breakfast. At that date regulations become effective relative to the sale of eggs, which state authorities will see that are strictly enforced. Under the regulations eggs will be classified as fresh eggs, ranch eggs and case eggs. Eggs offered for sale as fresh that are more than seven days old will be considered misbranded. Ranch eggs are those that have not been preserved or the age of which is unknown. All eggs that have been kept in cold storage or that have been preserved in any way are known as case eggs, and the containers of such eggs must have plainly marked thereon in letters not less than two inches high the month and the year in which the eggs were placed in storage. Any eggs of the above class not plainly labeled are considered misbranded. The law imposes heavy penalties for violation and makes it incumbent upon both the merchant and selling house proprietor to specify plainly the class to which eggs he sells belong.

CORN IN LOUISIANA.

A very interesting change that is going on in those portions of the south where cotton has been the staple crop for generations, past is clearly shown in the rapid increase in the production of corn in the state of Louisiana during the past few years. A few years ago the cotton boll would mark its appearance in the state, and cotton is jobbers seemed to be threatened with bankruptcy. But being compelled to devote cotton land to the growing of corn and other crops has really been a blessing in disguise. Figures that have been compiled show that the production of corn has increased from 10,516,450 bushels in 1905 to nearly 100,000,000 bushels in 1911. In the year 1910 Louisiana corn was sold to Europe and Texas for the first time, and the surplus for the past year has been close to 50,000,000 bushels.

A LESSON IN GOOD ROADS.

What Constant Work Did For a Pennsylvania Town.

THE DRAG WAS A BIG FACTOR

Dr. McCaskey Obtained Election to Road Supervisor and by Determined Effort Succeeded in Remaking East Lampeter Township.

No longer considered an experiment,
the King road drag is revolutionizing road conditions in many communities,
says a writer in the Farmer's Review.
It is doing this wherever it is used.
The one important thing is getting it on the road at the right time and often enough.

But the road drag will not work itself. There must be a man behind it.
Public sentiment must be in favor of improvement, and there must be concerted movement toward that end. Individual and independent use of the road drag will give good results and help considerably in "patches." But

USING THE DRAG.

co-operative effort is needed to secure the larger benefits accruing to an entire community, township or county.

With the determined purpose of securing better roads for East Lampeter township Dr. Donald McCaskey began his fight for the King road drag in Lancaster county, Pa. This was back in 1900, when Dr. McCaskey was a newcomer in East Lampeter. His vocation was the practice of medicine, his avocation "doctoring" the roads. His country practice took him over practically all the roads of the township. He was obliged to travel on them at all seasons of the year. Frequently he got stuck in the mud, meeting with serious trouble in making his professional calls.
He was never certain about reaching his destination and, often was prevented from arriving in time to be of greatest service to his patients. The frequency of such occurrences turned his attention to the seriousness of the road question. He realized the usefulness and possibilities of the King road drag,
and he began experimenting with it.
Application on one of the worst roads
in the county at once proved its practical efficiency.

The good roads doctor now began a systematic campaign for better roads.
He became a candidate for the office of township road supervisor. He didn't care about the office, but he did want good roads. The campaign that followed was not from start to finish.
But when the votes were counted he had won his second victory for better roads.

As a public official the fighting doctor, as he had come to be known,
worked harder than ever for better

THE CITIZENS HAVE REASON TO BE PROUD

highway conditions. At personal expense he purchased a large number of road drags. He distributed them among farmers who would agree to use them. A systematic organization of the section of the township roads under his supervision was then perfected. He inaugurated what he called a "road patrol system," which worked wonders in highway improvement in East Lampeter township. Road foremen were appointed who were delegated to care for a definite section of road.

The experience of this Pennsylvania township offers a valuable lesson to every community in the improvement of country roads. The remarkable results obtained by the constant use of the road drag through the medium of the farm-foreman system is a permanent demonstration of what can be done in road improvement in any section. Earth roads can be cheaply and effectively maintained by dragging.
This, of course, is not the only community in which this fact has been demonstrated, but there are few, if any,
in which a more practical and efficient system of road dragging has been worked out.

GOOD ROAD FACTS.

The people need to be educated to the fact that money spent for good roads is not money thrown away, whereas money spent for make-shift improvements is worse than thrown away.
A good road is a convenience and a necessity. It helps both the buyer and seller of farm produce. It is invaluable to farmer and merchant alike.
Good roads will make the vehicles last longer.
Good drainage is absolutely necessary in building a good
road.

Every man who owns an automobile, a horse or a bicycle is interested in good roads.
The highway and roadside are usually a fair index of the people living in the vicinity.

Does Tarring Roads
SERIOUSLY AFFECT TREES?

French Authorities Experimenting
With an Avenue in Paris.

This road tarring problem has for months past been engaging the attention of French scientists owing to the numerous complaints touching the ill effects of tarred roads on the vegetation in the Bois de Boulogne and elsewhere in the vicinity of Paris. The head gardener of the Bois has come forward as a reliable witness of the harm done to trees by the black powdery tar dust which settles on them, whatever their height may be, and cannot be removed even by the heaviest rain. He has produced samples of leaves thus injured, and he forecasts that in settling upon the foliage the tar dust or powder raised by the perpetual grind of traffic must end by stifling the development of the tree.
Reports received by the commission
from municipal gardeners and plantation custodians confirm this view of the matter; but, categorical though this indictment against road tarring is, the commission very prudently declines to believe implicitly what is said until such assertions have been investigated to determine definitely what truth
there is in them.

Practical experiments have yet to be made before a final decision be reached. An avenue, for instance, it is stated, will be taken as a field for experimental operations. Half of it will be subjected to the tar treatment, the remainder being left to the ordinary road dust, and at the expiration of a given period results will be compared. Parks and plantations will be similarly treated by the creation of zones of tar-around flower beds and bushes. In fact, in every way the work in hand is to be done thoroughly and methodically.
Delicate flowers and plants will, it is thought, probably suffer from the proximity of tar, but this will not prove that the faded condition of trees and foliage along tar laid avenues is to be ascribed exclusively to the pernicious effects of tar dust. A variety of circumstances may occasion the premature shriveling of leaves or the nondevelopment of a tree, and it would perhaps be well to wait the results of pending scientific inquiry before expressing any definite opinion on the subject. Most assuredly the parks, gardens and avenues of Paris are, as the president of the commission asserts, worth protecting, and it is satisfactory to have his word for it that they shall be protected, even if the tarring of roads has to be prohibited.

In such an eventuality it need not necessarily follow that no other dust preventing medium could be found.
Road engineers, in fact, are already turning their attention to the matter and are seeking means to attain the same result without incurring the risk of preventing the growth of trees, supposing the experiment brought against tar be substantiated.—London Standard.

MAKING DUSTLESS ROADS.

Cape May County Adopts Oiling
Process.

Following the slogan of "Best roads in the state," officials of Cape May county, N. J., have begun a crusade against dust. A contract has been awarded for oil to toll fifteen miles of the newest roads, and every one of them will be dustless as well as mudless. The seashore resorts have fallen into line, and many of them are making their streets waterproof and dust-less. Wildwood has every main street well covered, having used 10,000 gallons of oil for the work. Wildwood Crest has also put 2,000 gallons on its streets.

France Has a New Macadam.
The re-enforced macadam of a French engineer is expected to protect roads from excessive wear by antioxidizing. In the far western strand laid down the bottom layer is of concrete.
On this is a layer of cement mortar re-enforced with iron rods, and a top layer of mortar and crushed stone.
The road is said to be more durable than ordinary macadam. The surface is elastic and easy to travel, and in France the cost is no greater than brick paving.

Good Road May Lead to Anything.
This laconic utterance of the Sherra-port (La.) Times speaks volumes.
"While a bad road leads nowhere and the sooner it ends, the better, a good road may lead to anything."

PAID $7,500 FOR ROAD.
The city of Richmond, Va., and the Peninsular Automobile association together have raised $7,500 toward the road from Richmond to Newport News.

Some of the Original and Exclusive Features which have Made the Ford Model T the Most Popular, Most Widely Bought and Most Serviceable Car in the World are as follows:

Marvelous Simplicity in Design.—Few parts, but every part in harmony with scientific principle. There is nothing superfluous in Ford design, every part has its specific place and purpose is especially prepared to meet the demand made upon it, including a chassis compact, clean-cut, neat, with strength and exceeding lightness in weight.

A Car of Vanadium Steel.—Intelligently and scientifically heat-treated. Mark the fact that there is a great distinction between heat-treated steel and steel which is simply heat-hardened. Heat-treated steel combines strength with flexibility, giving a wonderful resistance against crystallization and breaking. Heat-treated steel lacks flexibility and is susceptible to breaking through severe vibration of shock. Vanadium steel is the strongest of all steels under tensile stress, against vibration and shock. FORD MODEL T is the only motor car in the world in which the entire chassis of car is constructed of heat-treated Vanadium Steel.

Ford Magneto.—A triumph of inventive genius, one of the greatest inventions of the age, because of its unlimited utility as applied to motor cars. Ford magneto is built into and becomes a part of the fly-wheel. There are no wear parts, no moving wires, no ignition troubles. The simplest, safest and least liable to trouble of all magnetos.

Ford Spur Pinion Transmission.—Through which the driver has complete control of the car instantly, by which the motor is always connected with the car, no time lost in shifting speeds, no cranking or stripping of gears. FORD MODEL T starts on the instant and picks up speed with the swiftness of a deer. Ford has demonstrated the correctness of his genius in this device. It is scientifically right and is one of the elementary features in the increasing demand for Ford cars.

Ford Model T rides easier, smoother, and goes over obstructions or ruts in the road with less damage to the tires or the car than any other motor car in the world. The flexibility of the springs coupled with the extreme light weight of the car fully lifts it over road obstructions. This is why one set of tires on a FORD MODEL T will make from eight to ten thousand miles. Another reason why your uptown is kept down when you buy a Ford.

There is No Weight on the moving parts or vital mechanism of FORD MODEL T. The Spring Suspension is unique and in perfect accord with scientific principles—perfectly balanced—riding free from jolts, jars, and other discomforts so common to most motor cars. The Rear Axle of the FORD MODEL T is in a class by itself, it is not lumbered up with any burden of weight. It is free to do its duty, and it does it. Simple as can be—strong as can be—useful as can be. It passes entirely through the hub of the wheel, another exclusive element of speed, steadiness, and durability. You know the wheels of the Ford run straight. They never bow in at the top or bottom, but carry the load on an even keel. This is also a time economy.

Ford Model T is the lightest weight car in the world, size, power and capacity considered. It has the most horsepower per pound of car weight, and this is a mighty important feature, not only from a standpoint of hill climbing and traveling through sand and snow, mud and sleet, but it is immensely economical on tire wear and consumption of gasoline—the heavier the car, the sooner tires wear out, and the more fuel is required to run it. It weighs in a motor car is necessary, why do not the makers of heavy cars advertise the big weight?

Ford Model T is the only 4-cylinder car in the world, size, power and capacity considered, selling at the same low price. This is made possible by producing in large quantities buying materials for spot cash and having an organization that is perfect in all departments.

Ford Model T is the cheapest car in the world to buy and maintain, and simplest to operate. This is because of the heat-treated Vanadium Steel construction—the simple and accurately scientific design both in motor and chassis and its general all round simplicity.

Ford Model T is the highest priced quality car in the world. No exceptions, because it is made of the highest priced materials used in the construction of motor cars.

We are not boasting in any sense, but simply stating in justice to the prospective buyer, the facts as they exist, that, having all these things clearly in mind, the prospective buyer can readily understand that, from the standpoint of design, construction and operation of the FORD MODEL T car, our price is made possible without in any manner cheapening the product.

A COMMUNICATION.

March 5th, 1912.
To the Editor of the Twin Falls Chronicle.

Sir:—While as a Democrat, and an advocate of harmony within the party, I emphatically condemn your attack upon fellow Democrats and your question my judgment in replying to your criticism, headed "A Surrender of Principles," recently published in your issue, dated March 3rd, I do, and myself, the opportunity to denounce the effort made to wreck the Democratic party upon the absurdity of radicalism, during the 121 session, too excellent to be overlooked; and as that movement originated in Twin Falls it is not difficult for your endorsement for this would be comparable with your recent Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde existence to wit: standing for "high finance and big business" but feeling at the month when ever the word "Corporation" was mentioned.

Now in making your criticism of me you must have contrasted my attitude towards certain proposed legislation with that of Senator Hollister, and unfavorably to me, as he and I, with the exception of the initiative and referendum and the recall, which we both favored, were usually radical, and the question of whether I would not accept his ultra radical views as the doctrine of Jefferson.

If, now, holding the extremely radical views held by you and Senator Hollister had been able ten years ago to impress these views upon the Idaho Statesmen, Twin Falls County, the garden spot of Idaho, would be today a sage brush desert where the jack rabbit would reign supreme for legislation would have been enacted practically confiscatory of capital invested in our commonwealth. We would have a Chinese wall around Idaho with the inscription above the entrance "Abandon hope ye who enter here" for all prospective investors in Idaho projects would be welcomed with bloody arms to a hospitable grave.

Senator Day and I stood for legislation giving equity to the individual and the corporation, and for state government where individuals and corporations paid their equitable share of the taxes, and for obtaining a dollar's service for the state for every dollar paid to the state. This is pure Jeffersonian Democracy.

I stood, during the 1911 session and the special session, where I have stood for the past ten years, to wit: for the development of Idaho's resources; and for the encouragement of capital, whether owned by corporation or individual to invest in our state and have never hesitated to attack spite bills, fake bills, and bagging bills, hold up and blackmailing bills and bills to aid some case in court or some case that would shortly come into court, also have never hesitated to attack corporations that had failed in their duty to the public.

Granted that the mines of Shoshone County do not pay a just proportion of taxes and that the passage of the mining bill, which I opposed, and the Senator from Twin Falls advocated, would not have materially affected the paying mines of that county; but what, however, of Owyhee, Blaine, Idaho, Custer, Blaine, Idaho and Bonner counties in which there are practically no paying mines, but in which millions are being expended annually in development work? Do you imagine the mining investing public would come to Idaho and develop mines and pay taxes on three and one half times the net output when our sister mining states, with equal opportunities, only tax the net output?

The result of such legislation would be to destroy the mining industry; throw thousands of men out of employment; drive hundreds of prospectors from the hills and ruin the ranchers who sell their produce to the mines; all of which should meet with your approval for what difference does it make to the radical that thousands suffer provided he can put a few corpses to rest in the ground? My vote on this bill represented the unanimous sentiment of my county; but is, in your opinion, pro corporation?

Demagogic attacks upon men whose investments have made possible our wonderful growth should be considered as the work of a madman and the press holding your views should be branded "enemies to Idaho's progress." As the result of such demagogism a wave of bills has been introduced in the legislature to restrict investment to one introduced to encourage investment. It is high time to call a halt; to adopt a more liberal, intelligent constructive policy, but strictly safeguarding the rights of the people. The method of your attack demonstrates the element of common decency and fairness is abhorrent to your mental makeup; for of stated of making the charges specific, naming the bills and their nature you indicate in general denunciation; but the motive was well understood, to wit: the opposition of Senator Day and myself and the large body of progressive democrats with which we are associated in the advancement in the party's cause.

cells of an extreme radical like Senator Hornbrook. Your attack, I venture to state, will recoil upon its author and abettor.

Yours Truly,
Ravenel Macbeth.
