The Commercial club luncheon proved of more than usual interest in the presence of visitors from Flor. J. W. Tanner, the speaker for the occasion, was enthused over a proposition to obtain a fair ground site for the county and in giving his views proved most entertaining.—speaker.—Mr. Tanner stated that in his estimation a permanent county fair association was necessary and that it was high time that steps were taken to obtain land conveniently located before a rise in price would make purchase prohibitive.

The standpat Republicans have been extremely active in calling the Progressives non-republicans and socialists and having during the past months done more to alienate the larger wing of the party than can be remedied in four years, all for the purpose of placing a candidate on the ticket who cannot carry his party to victory. Any party or faction, of a party that will needlessly court party defeat in order to show its standpoint qualifies belongs to the fossilized age and has no place in the enlightened age of reconstruction which is going on at present in national affairs. Any man or group of men which will persistently scoff at the rights and opinions of either is sure to go down to defeat and that is what the Republican party faces unless some common ground of compromise can be reached. Party loyalty against vital national reforms places the thoughtful squarely opposed to narrow binding partisanship, and really places the party upon trial for the accomplishment of real national good. The progressive wing may be in the contention for some of the reforms but they should be proven wrong by actual trial. To sit back and see the exponents of standpatism and call attention to the glorious history of the party accomplishes nothing and leads to dissatisfaction and party decay. Republican principles are not standardized but have to be modified and created to suit the changing needs. This is what progressive Republicanism seeks to do.

BORAH-WIRES TAFT CLUB THAT HE IS FOR ROOSEVELT.

"I am for Roosevelt and want to see him win."

That is the concluding sentence in a long telegram received yesterday by a committee of the Taft club which wired Senator Borah demanding to know whether or not he was for Roosevelt or Taft, and the answer came back so it was reported among Taft people last night straight and strong in the above words as the concluding sentence in the message which was addressed, so it was said, to A. E. Carlson, a member of the committee which is said to have composed of its members, all of whom signed the telegram, according to the same report, sent to Senator Borah.

Notwithstanding the frequent declarations made by Senator Borah, both when he was at home last summer and in letters and telegrams since then that he wished a Roosevelt delegation from here, the Taft people have been inclined to express a disbelief that such was his opinion. A week ago it was reported that a similar committee, but consisting then of but three members, wired the senator much along the same line. A reply was received, but it is said that this committee refused to make reports to the Taft club or to show the answer. This caused continued discussion until a new message of inquiry was sent the senator, the concluding sentence of the reply to which was as quoted above.

According to those who saw the telegram which was shown around to a few of the Taft club members, Senator Borah explained that he is not responsible for the political situation as it exists in Ada county today but he declares that he does not wish any of his friends to do anything that would result in Idaho sending a delegation to Chicago which would embarrass Roosevelt.

The Roosevelt-Borah people are conducting an active campaign. The poll of the city has not yet been completed in all the precincts, but the returns so far in show that Roosevelt has a lead over Taft of approximately three to one. A tabulated list of partial returns on eight precincts in all sections of the city made at headquarters last night shows 312 for Roosevelt to only 235 for Taft. Some precincts show as high a percentage for Roosevelt as five to one, and there are not more than three precincts in the city where the Roosevelt people will admit that there is even a fighting ground for the Taft people now, and they confidently feel that the friends of Borah will so rally to the support of the policy that the senator wishes carried out before next Thursday that there will not remain even three precincts in doubt.

Selected workers have been chosen to take charge of each precinct on primary day and these will be expected to rally about them all the party workers of the precinct who are willing to add in carrying forward Senator Borah's desires relative to the contest. Rigs have been already engaged to transport voters to the polls and it is expected that there will be a heavy vote cast.

Precinct canvases have already been called in most of the precincts for nights during the early part of the week. At these canvases candidates will be nominated to be voted for as delegates to the county convention to be held on Saturday.

The Taft people are also still active. They are hopeful of carrying enough precincts in the city and one or two from the county where they believe they have a chance to win to give themselves the nomination. In the country there are counts on Highland and Barberton, and claim they have an equal show in Eagle and Ustick. The Roosevelt people expect to carry every precinct outside the city except Barberton, which they concede to Taft with its one vote—Capital News.

THE PRE-NOMINATION CAMPAIGN.

We do not share the feelings of those who regret the activities and agitations of the present pre-nomination campaign. If it can be kept free from personalities, the discussion of great public policies ought to be and will be educational. Many of the campaign speeches exhibit a spirit of reasoning and argument which has been absent from the characteristic of American political campaigns. One such speech is that of ex-Ambassador Oscar S. Straus, which was delivered at Manchester New Hampshire, on Friday evening, March 3. Mr. Straus is frankly supporting the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt, but in his speech he makes three points which are worthy of the serious consideration of any citizen, Democratic, Republican, Prohibitionist, or Socialist. He is of the opinion, and we agree with him, that the coming Presidential campaign is more important than any other since the Civil War, because it concerns a distinct stage in our national growth. "Our country," he says, repeating the interesting point he has made before, "has passed through two distinct stages in development. They were political—first, its National Constitution period under the Fathers, then the Civil Rights or Preservative Period; and now we are in the third stage, 'The Period of Social Justice'."

In selecting men who are to pilot us through this stage we must not forget that "one of the cardinal principles of our democracy is that public office is a public trust, and not a doubt due any man or the prerogative of any man." Mr. Straus goes on to say that the founders of this Government had this principle (emphasized by President Cleveland in eulogistic form) clearly in mind when they framed the Constitution. "By Article II, Section 1, of the Constitution of the United States, it is provided that no person holding any office of trust or profit under the United States shall be appointed as a Presidential elector. The purpose of this provision clearly was to prevent choosing a president—or re-electing one—without regard for the welfare of the people, but with regard to such election the president is elected in order to prolong their continuance in office."

Mr. Straus urges that if our fathers had foreseen the modern use of presidential patronage for political ends, they would have forbidden it in the Constitution as distinctly as they forbade the prohibition of the Electoral College to political ends. Referring to what has been done in the South by many presidents, and in a very marked degree by President Taft, who, as he reported, recently withdrew ten nominations for postmaster in North Carolina in order to influence politics, in that State, Mr. Straus says: "One thing is clear—that this practice of a president using the power of officeholders to gain a re-nomination should be effectually prohibited in accordance with the spirit, if not the very provisions, of the Constitution itself." It is on this ground, remembering that such methods deservedly defeated President Harrison for re-election, "that the Progressives insist upon preferential primaries for the election of delegates to the National Convention." The third point upon which Mr. Straus touches is not so important, but it is at least of distinct human interest. Those who oppose Mr. Roosevelt's nomination on the ground that it elected to a third term, of which refer to what they believe to be the presidential term. Mr. Straus quotes from a letter of Washington to Lafayette, dated April 28, 1783, in which the presidency is referred to in the following words:

"I confess I differ widely myself from Mr. Jefferson and you as to the necessity or expediency of rotation in that appointment. . . . There cannot, in my judgment, be the least danger that the president will, by any practical intrigues, ever be able to continue himself one moment in office, much less perpetuate himself in it."

Under an extended view of this part of the subject I can see no propriety in precluding ourselves from the services of any man who, on some great emergency, shall be deemed universally capable of serving the public.

We repeat in this connection what was said in this journal by its present editor-in-chief thirty years ago—there is no objection to three terms or thirty terms as long as the people have free access to the primaries and the polls.

OUTLOOK.

Kimberly News.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Digg and family, Mr. and Mrs. Upton, drove over to Mr. and Mrs. LeCour's place on the Salmon River Sunday.

Mr. C. T. Brown of Kimberly on the Portland fair exhibition. Mr. C. T. Brown just recently took three carloads of hogs to Portland. We understand that he got the top notch price for his quadrupeds. This is quite a boon for the Twin Falls tract. Mr. and Mrs. John, Braich, and sons Walter and Harry, spent Sunday three miles south of Twin Falls, at Hot Springs home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Jones and daughter Irene, made a visit to Jerome Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bremer and son, Donald, returned from Duluth Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Keller and family moved to Twin Falls Wednesday. The people of Kimberly are much grieved to lose so valuable an addition to Kimberly's inhabitants. Mr. Keller has proven himself a most capable business man and has brought much trade to our town. We are sure to know that he will retain his place of business in Ada as until fall. We are sure that he is to have a fine man here to help him, since the opening is considered a good one by him. Mr. Keller will be missed in many ways, her singing in the church, her genial social manner, and her ready willingness to lend a helping hand to those in need. We wish for these every good in their new home and we feel sure that a host of friends will soon be thronging in their new residence.

Mr. Bert Ritohs made a trip to Hollister Friday.

Clouds Wadsworth lost several days of school on account of a grippe. The counting is simple has moved the school children so the school teachers ran and made teaching almost an impossible thing. Mr. George Moore has moved to Twin Falls.

CHANGE AT JENKINS & CO.

Clothing Department Rearranged and Remodeled.

The clothing department of Jenkins & Company is putting on a new and attractive appearance in the past few weeks, due largely to the rearrangement of the interior, which enables the company to show its big clothing stock to a better advantage. New and up-to-date styles in men's clothes are now shown in the handsome department, while the former crowded effect of the piled-up goods has been relieved by judicious arrangement of the show-cases.

WATER IN CANAL.

Headwaters Raised With Appropriate
Ceremonies Near Downey.

Downey, March 22.—The irrigated tract of the Pacific-Mohave Valley company today passed from the sup-picious stage into that of reality with the impressive ceremonies the main headwaters of the company's system were raised allowing the water of the Portneuf river to flow through the canals. The ceremonies were witnessed by a number of persons, some of whom were representing the Wilder-Paahoby company of Boston, who financed the project.

Promptly at 2:30 this afternoon the headwaters were raised by a number of Indians. Simultaneously Mrs. William R. Ware of East Milton, Mass., broke a bottle containing water from Fortneuf river on the inside of the gate, thus letting the canal with water from the river from which it takes its source for the first time. A large concourse of settlers who have taken up land under the project, many of whom have waited four years for water with which to irrigate their crops,
were present and when the first water
was allowed to flow into the canal front the air with loud cheers. The main celebration will take place on April 23.—Statesman.

PACKERS ACQUITTED.

Chicago Men Declared Not Guilty of Violating Anti-Sherman Law.

Chicago, March 22.—Chicago packers ended a ten-year legal battle with the government today when a jury in United States District Judge Carpen-ter's court found them not guilty of violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

Whether further investigations into the beef packing industry will be made District Attorney Wilkerson refused to say. He was overwhelmed by the verdict. He had been confident of conviction.

The verdict came after the jury had been out 19 hours. At no time in the deliberations were the packers in danger. The first was 8 to 4 for acquittal, the second 11 to 1, and the third was unanimous.

Failure of the government to prove their case beyond reasonable doubt was responsible for the verdict, several jurors said. They said they did not view the exhibits in the case. The mass of figures and reports mystified them. To have attempted to untangle them would have been useless, it was agreed.

The verdict was received quietly.
Only two defendants, Thomas J. Conners, a director and general superintendent of Armour & Co., and Edward Tilden, president of the National Packing company, were in court. As soon as the verdict was read the two packers leaped to their feet and shook hands with their attorneys and the jurors. Attaches of the district attorney's office, greatly depressed, left the court room hurriedly. The 200 spec-

James Brown Makes Long Trip on Snow Shoes.

James Brown, a young man of the Grays Lake country, an employee of the Caribou Mining company, made the trip from Grays Lake here a distance of something over seventy miles, over the hills and mountains, on skis, arriving last night. The trip was made unusually difficult on account of the fierce wind of Wednesday, which he had to face. It required seventeen hours to make the trip, which could have been made under ordinary circumstances in half the time.

Brown came straight from Grays
Lake to Keller's ranch, where he rested, and from there to Armon, east of town, where he was obliged to abandon his skis and come to town by the more conventional way of walking.

Brown experienced heavy snow all the way across the range, the snow averaging at least five feet in depth.
This fact and taking into consideration that there was no trail broken, and that familiar landmarks were covered with snow, made the trip both dangerous and hard.

The snow at Caribou and the Grays
Lake country, he states, is the heaviest for twenty-five years. The stage route from Soda Springs here—been abandoned and the mail is carried from Soda Springs to Grays Lake by men on skis. The snow is packed hard and has melted very little and when it does go out it will be with a rush, causing a flood, Mr. Brown states.—

LET PEOPLE RULE, SAYS ROOSEVELT

OPPOSES PRESIDENT'S ATTITUDE
ON POPULAR GOVERNMENT.

People's Voice—Must Prevail

Cheered for Speech in Opening Active

Campaign—Gave Nomination—Quoted

Taft as Opposed to the Majority

Stands Squarely on His Columbus

Ohio, Address.

The salient passages in Colonel Roosevelt's forceful campaign speech, delivered at Carnegie Hall, New York, Wednesday evening, is given below.

The great fundamental issue now before the republican party and before our people can be stated briefly. It is, are the American people fit to govern themselves, or are they not fit to govern themselves?

I believe they are. My opponents do not. I believe in the right of the people to rule. I believe that the majority of the plain people in the United States will, day in and day out, make fewer mistakes in governing themselves than any similar class or body of men, no matter what their training, will make in trying to govern them. I believe again that the American people as a whole, are capable of self control and of learning by their mistakes. Our opponents pay lip loyalty to this doctrine, but they show their real beliefs by the way in which they champion every device to make the nominal rule of the people a sham.

I have scant patience with this talk of the tyranny of the majority. Whenever there is tyranny of the majority, I shall protest against it with all my heart and soul. But we are today suffering from the tyranny of the minority. It is a small minority that is grabbing our coal deposits, our water powers and our harbor fronts. A small minority is fattening on the sale of adulterated foods and drugs. It is a small minority that lies behind monopolies and trusts. It is a small minority that stands behind the present law of master and servant, the sweatshops and the whole calendar of social and industrial injustice. It is a small minority that is today using our convention system to defeat the will of a majority of the people in the choice of delegates to the Chicago convention.

My opponents charge that two things in my program are wrong because they intrude into the sanctuary of the judiciary.

The first is the recall of judges and the second the review by the people of judicial decisions on certain exceptional questions. I have said again and again that I do not advocate the recall of judges in all states and in all communities. The integrity of our judges, from Marshall to White and Holmes—and to Cullen and many others in our state—is a fine page of American history. But—any it so sorry—democracy means that we must approach the sanctuary of the courts when a special interest has corruptly found sanctuary, and this is exactly what has happened in some of the states where the recall of judges is being living issue. Is it not equally plain that the question whether a given social policy is for the public good is not of a judicial nature, but should be settled by the legislature or in the final instance, by the people themselves?

The President of the United States, Mr. Taft, devoted most of a recent speech to criticize some of this proposition. He said that it is "without merit or utility and instead of being in the interest of all the people and of the stability of popular government, is sowing the seeds of confusion and terror. By the use of courts to maintain the tyranny of the majority—that is the tyranny of the American people as a whole."

He also says that my proposal, which he calls "the recall of judges," is a proposal to give the people a real instead of only a nominal chance to construe and amend state legislation with reasonable rapidity would make such amendment and interpretation depend on the feverish, uncertain and unstable determinations of successive votes on different laws by temporary and changing majorities."

and that "it lays the axe at the foot of the tree of well ordered freedom and subjects the guarantees of life, liberty and prosperity without remedy, to the fatal impulse of a temporary majority of an electorate."

This criticism is really less a criticism of my proposal than a criticism of all popular government. It is wholly unfounded, unless it is founded on the belief that the people are too stupid to govern themselves. This is the question that I propose to submit to the people. How can the prevailing morality or a preponderant opinion be better and more readily established than by a vote of the people?

The people must know better than the court what their own morality and their own opinion is. I ask that you here, you and others like you, you, the people, be given the right to state your own views of justice and public morality and not sit meekly by and have your views announced for you by walling adherents of outworn philosophies who recall the pedagogy of formulas above the vital needs of human life.

Mr. Taft's position is the position that has been held from the beginning of our government, although not always so openly held, by a large number of reputable and honorable men who down at the bottom distrust popular government and when they must support it with reluctance and hedge around it with every possible restriction and check and balance so as to make the power of the people as limited and ineffective as they can. Many of these men are of high character and take this view and have taken it from the time of the formation of the nation. Essentially this view is that the constitution is a strict code to be used for the control of an unruly patient—the people. Now I hold that this view is not only false, but mischievous, that our constitutions are instruments designed to secure justice by securing the deliberate but effective expression of the popular will, that the checks and balances are valuable as far and only so far as they accomplish that end, and that it is a warped and unworthy and improper construction of our form of government to see in it only a means of thwarting the popular will and of preventing justice.

Mr. Taft says that "every class" should have a "voice" in the government. That seems to me a very serious misconception of the American point of view. The real trouble with us is that some classes have had too much voice. One of the most important of all the lessons to be taught and to be learned is that a man should vote not as representative of a class, but merely as a citizen, whose prime interests are the same as those of all other good citizens.

Mr. Taft's "Disability in the People."

Mr. Taft again and again in questions I have given and elsewhere in this speech expresses his disbelief in the people when they vote at the polls.

In one sentence he says that the proposition gives "powerful effect to the momentary impulse of a majority of an electorate and prepares the way for the positive exercise of the grossest tyranny." Elsewhere he speaks of the "feverish uncertainty" and "unstable determination of laws" by temporary and changing majorities, and again he says that the system I propose, "would result in suspension or application of constitutional guarantees of 'liberty and property' which would destroy 'all possible consistency' in constitutional interpretation. I should much like to know the exact distinction that is to be made between what Mr. Taft calls 'the fatal impulse of a temporary majority' when applied to a question such as that I raise and any other question. Remember that under my proposal to review a rule of decision by popular vote, amending or constraining to that extent the constitution could certainly take at least two years from the time of the election of the legislature which passed the act. Now only four months elapse between the nomination and the election of a man as president to fill for four years the most important office in the land. In one of Mr. Taft's speeches he speaks of 'the voice of the people as coming next to the voice of God.' Apparently, then, the decision of the people about the presidency, after four more years of deliberation, is to be treated as 'next to the voice of God.' But if after two years of sober thought they decide that women and children shall be protected in industry, or men protected from excessive hours of labor under unhygienic conditions, or wage workers compensated when they lose life or limb in the service of others, then their decision forthwith becomes 'final and forever fixed and unalterable' and an exercise of the 'grossest tyranny' and the 'laying of the axe at the foot of the tree of freedom.'

That is the old, old doctrine which has been acted upon for thousands of years abroad and which here in America has been acted upon sometimes openly, sometimes secretly, for forty years by many men in public and in private life, and as may be seen by many judges, a doctrine which has in fact tended to create a bulwark for privileges, a bulwark unjustly protecting special interests against the rights of the people as a whole. This doctrine is to me a dreadful doctrine, for its effect is, and can only be, to make the courts the shield of privilege against popular rights. Naturally, every upholder and beneficiary of crooked privileges loudly applauds the doctrine. It is behind the shield of that doctrine that crooked classes creep into laws that men of wealth control legislation.

Remember, I am not discussing the recall of judges—although I wish it distinctly understood that the recall is a mere piece of machinery to take the place of the honorable men and men which Mr. Taft in effect defends and that it is the days of Maynards overcame back again in the state of New York I should favor it. I have no wish to come to it, but our opponents when they object to all efforts to secure real justice from the courts are strengthening the hands of those who demand the recall. In a great many states there has been for many years a real recall of judges as regards appointments, promotions, re-appointments and re-elections. And this recall was through the turn of a thumb screw at the end of a long distance rod in the hands of a great interests. I believe that a just judge would feel far safer in the hands of the people than in the hands of those interests. My remedy is not the result of a library study of historical law, but of actual and long continued experience in the use of governmental power to redress social and industrial evils. Again and again earnest workers for social justice have said to me that the most serious obstacle that they have encountered during the many years that they have been trying to save American women and children from destruction in American industry have been the courts. That is the judgment of almost all the social workers I know and of dozens of parish priests and clergymen and of every executive and legislator who has been seriously attempting to use the government as an agency for social and industrial betterment. What is the result of this system of judicial nullification? It was accurately stated by the court of appeals, New York, in the employers' liability case, where it was calmly and judicially declared that the people under our republican government are less free to correct the evils that oppress them than are the people of the monarchies of Europe. To any man with vision, to any man with broad and real social sympathies, to any man who believes with all his heart in this great democratic republic of ours, such a condition is intolerable. It is not government by the people, but mere sham government in which the will of the people is constantly defeated. It is out of this experience that my remedy has come, and that it be tried in this field.

When as the result of years of education and debate a majority of the people have decided upon a remedy for an evil from which they suffer, and have chosen a legislature, a legislature pledged to embody that remedy in law, and the law has been finally passed and approved, I regard it as monstrous that a bench of judges shall then say to the people: "You must begin all over again. First, amend your constitution (which will take four years); second, secure the passage of a new law (which will take two years more); third, carry that law into effect (which will take no time, which will take no human being knows how long); fourth, submit the whole matter over again to the very same judges who have rendered the decision to which you object. There your patience holds out and you finally prevail, the will of the majority of the people may have its way." Such a system is not popular government, but a mere mockery of popular government.

The decisions of which we complain, as a rule, based upon the constitutional provision that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. The terms "life, liberty and property" have been used in the constitutions of the English-speaking people since Magna Charta. Until within the last sixty years they were treated as having specific meanings—"property" means tangible property; "liberty" meant freedom from personal restraint, or in other words, from imprisonment in its largest definition. About 1870 our courts began to attach to these terms new meaning. Now "property" has come to mean every right of value which person could enjoy, and "liberty" has been made to include the right to make contracts. As a result, when the state limits the hours for which women may labor, it is told by the courts that this law deprives them of their "liberty," and when it restricts the manufacture of tobacco in a tenement it is told that the law deprives the landlord of his property. Now, I do not believe that any people, and especially our American people, will long consent that the term "liberty" shall be defined for them by a bench of judges. Every people has defined that term for itself in the course of its development.

The Task Is To Strive For Justice.

"Friends, our task as Americans is to strive for social and industrial justice, achieved through the genuine rule of the people. This is our end, our purpose. The methods for achieving the end are merely expedients to be finally accepted or rejected according as actual experience shows that they work well or ill. But in our end, we must have this lofty purpose, and we must strive for it in all earnestness and sincerity or our work will come to nothing. In order to succeed we need leaders of inspired idealism, leaders to whom are granted great visions, who dream greatly and strive to make their dreams come true, who can kindle the people with the fire from their own burning souls. A leader, for the time being, whoever he may be, is but an instrument to be used until broken and then to be cast aside, and if he is worth his salt he will care no more when he is broken where his life is forfeited in order that the victory may be won. In the long fight for righteousness the watchword for all of us is stand and be spent. It is of little matter whether any one man falls or succeeds, but the cause shall not fall, for it is the cause of mankind. We, here in America, hold in our hands the hope of the world, the fate of the coming years, and shame and disgrace will be ours if—in our eyes—the light of high resolve is dimmed, if we trail in the dust the golden hopes of men. If in this new continent, we merely build another country of great but unjustly divided material prosperity, we shall have done nothing, and we shall do as little. It is morally as the greed of any against the greed of arrogance and thereby destroy the material well being of all of us. To turn this government—either into government by plutocracy or by oligarchy; by a mob would be to repeat on a larger scale the lamentable failure of a world that is dead. We stand against all tyranny, by the few or by the many. We stand for the rule of the many in the interest of all of us, for the rule of the many is a spirit of courage, of common sense, of high purpose above all in a spirit of kindly justice toward every man and every woman."

CATALOGUE-ITUS.

There's another addition to our file, One that will not respond to dope or pills.
It is puzzling legislators, Politicians, conservators And with droll forebodings business file.
Its victims number more than constant.
Hook worm, ammalop or appendicitis. It affects the circulation.
Of our money in the nation, 'Tis the justly execrated catalogue-us.
Doctors can't correctly diagnose it. Business men endeavor to expose it. But the victim, with a smile, Buys the catalogue the while And makes money by so doing and he knows it.
Competition used to be our business. Business men endeavor to expose it. And to meet the other's price was our motto. The motto was "square dealing" And the very best of feeling. Between customer and merchant then was rife.
But now we have the day of combination. Of business throughout this whole great nation. Boasting what they have to sell, Lowering what they buy as well, And their customers can go to thunderation.
The buyers do not care to go that way. Nor the local combinations price to pay. So with catalogue gets busy And the bargain makes him dizzy. Sends an order to Montgomery the same day.
He spends his money where he does the best. If the merchant says he doesn't he's in jest! Don't the catalogue-us-blame For you do the very same. "The honors being even" let it rest.
Competition is the antidote to use in combating the catalogue-us, not abuse. Mail order prices meet. You whom patrons greet. With a smile that will not wear off. Now far lovelier J. C. I.
