

CHANCE TO PLANT BEANS
James B. Rice Seed Company
Looking for Acreage.
CAMPBELL HAS PLACED PEAS THIS YEAR.
Will Plant Fifteen Hundred Acres of Peas in the Rigby Country This Season.

R. W. Campbell is looking for a place to plant a good sized acreage of peas for this season. Following is the correspondence between Mr. Spangler and Mr. Campbell.
Blackfoot, Idaho, March 28.
Mr. R. W. Spangler, Twin Falls, Idaho.
Dear Sir:—Your favor of the 25th inst. has been received. I have been so busy that I have not been able to place a fair acreage of peas for this season. I would like to place a fair acreage at Twin Falls, if farmers are interested in bean crops, and will place a large acreage of peas and beans at Twin Falls in 1912. If farmers in your territory so wish.

I wrote Mr. Spangler some time ago and he made me a letter 100 brief, as I was anxious to place beans as well as peas and if I could have learned that farmers there are interested at that date I could have farmed seed peas for 1500 acres. I am on my way to Rigby to deliver the seed to farmers in that territory. I will be glad to place from you at that place on the matter of growing beans and ranch seeds in your territory. Thank you for a reply.
R. W. CAMPBELL.
Rigby, Idaho.
Twin Falls, March 29.

Mr. O. W. Campbell, Rigby, Idaho.
Dear Sir:—I believe you can easily place all the acreage you want here for beans, as the farmers have been very successful in raising them about 15,000 bushels being produced last year.

If you will arrange to come over here at once, I will be glad to put you in touch with the farmers and you can get busy.
I will have a story in the something papers so by the time you get here.

Yours truly,
R. W. SPANGLER, Sec'y.

TRAIN LOAD OF COWS.
To Be Distributed on the Tract by the Sterling Creamery Company.

What is said to be the greatest achievement made by the dairy industry in this county will be recorded in a few days at Twin Falls, when a shipment of 200 thoroughbred dairy cows from Wisconsin and Northern Illinois will arrive at Twin Falls after a trip half way across the continent in a special train.
"These cows will be delivered to farmers on the Twin Falls tract," said Dean Carlyle of the agricultural college of the University of Idaho, who was in Boise yesterday. "The money for the purchase of the cows was furnished by two of the large creamery concerns of the Twin Falls country, and each farmer who receives a cow will have 50 per cent of his cream check retained each month until the purchase price of the animal is equaled by the total and net milk produced for its original outlay of cash."
The cows are being purchased by E. W. Millington of the dairy department of the State University, who is acting as agent for the creamery company and the farmers. The herd will consist largely of Guernseys and Jerseys.

This is the largest shipment of dairy cows ever made from the west in the history of the country. I think it is also the first time a special train has been utilized for such a purpose. The importance of this shipment of dairy stock means a great development for the dairy industry in Idaho and speaks volumes for the enterprise of the farmers of the Twin Falls section.

BONFIRE! THE HAY.
Moral: Don't Smoke While Riding On a Load of Hay.

Yesterday afternoon Harold Morris burned 5,800 pounds of perfectly good alfalfa hay and part of a fairly good wagon, and Mr. Morris is not of an uncommonly reckless and destructive disposition either.
Mr. Morris was engaged in hauling bonfire hay under contract to the Oregon Short Line depot. He was setting along fine—had a three-horse team, the roads were good, it was a down-bill pull, meadow larks singing, a balmy breeze stirring, the gentle kind lowing and all the other auspicious attendants and surroundings. While logging along the road in the west part of town, seated on the soft side of one of the forward bales, his feet dangling and his pipe smoking, Harold noticed an unusual warmth upon his back. A novel place never of whistled quicker than this sound of quiet, honest industry. The load of hay was on fire.
Mr. Morris turned around, looking for whistled quicker than this sound of quiet, honest industry. The load of hay was on fire.
He tried to save the hay and wagon. The fire had evidently caught low between the two rows of hay. A draft was formed that spread it over the entire load in a minute. None of the hay was saved and the wagon was marked with the pipe or to the match with which it was lit. The loss is quite an item to Mr. Morris, especially as his wagon is damaged beyond repairs.—North Side News.

AT THE LYRIC.
Second Week of the Statu Theatre Company.

Last night commenced the second week of the Statu Theatre Company. The company, the selected attraction being the celebrated play, made so by Mrs. Patrick Campbell, entitled "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray".
The company has already made many friends in Twin Falls since their inauguration on March 25, and have met with unqualified success in the several different plays which they have so far presented.
"The play," says "The Statu Theatre Company" is a society play in four acts, and was well received by the large and appreciative audience.
The specialties between acts were very good, and will be repeated again tonight. Wednesday night, April 3, 16,000 bushels being produced last year.

FREE GARDEN SPOT.
Idaho Falls Women Start Splendid Scheme.

Mrs. A. L. Campbell has interested herself in securing free garden spots for the number who have applied to her for assistance. The matter was taken up with owners of vacant property within the city limits, which can be negotiated, and met with a ready response.
Mayor Curly donated the use of two blocks of land, which can easily be cultivated and watered and real estate men of the city have made similar donations.
Mrs. Campbell has applied to the proper authorities for seed which will be distributed free of charge to all who wish to cultivate the property in question.
The seed—when received, will be distributed from the Register office and given to all those interested.—Idaho Falls Register.

ROOSEVELT IS THE CHOICE

Presidential Primary in County Gives Him County Delegation.

County Central Committee Meet and Ratify Action of Primary. One Hundred Seven Plurality.

Theodore Roosevelt was the choice of the majority of the Republicans who voted Saturday in the informal presidential primary. Scarcely a fourth of the Republican voting strength was represented in the vote polled in the entire county. The largeness of the reason which required many of the farmers to stay away from the voting precincts was responsible for light rural vote, which in the main showed stronger Roosevelt tendency than did the cities and towns.
The City of Twin Falls with less than a fifth of its normal Republican vote cast, gave Taft a majority in Town precinct one and two, while three and four were carried by the dauntless colonel. The entire city however gave Taft a majority of ten.
Piler and Milner were the only other precincts which gave the president any endorsement. While Holister, the home of the rip-roaring Taft paper gave to Roosevelt his best majority.
Buhl went about two to one for Roosevelt with a large vote cast for La Follette.

No work was done by the Roosevelt forces throughout the county and very little by the Taft, except in precincts one and two of the city which gave him the majorities and even then little enthusiasm was shown over the election.
The Republican county central committee met with chairman B. L. Ashton yesterday and ratified the action of the primary and will instruct the entire delegation of fourteen for Roosevelt when they go to the state convention at Lewiston.

There is no doubt but that the Oregon Short Line had one of the best months in its history for the month just named. During that time there was three freight crews busy keeping the hay and other shipments from piling up on the different side tracks on the branch. During the month of March there were 390 car loads shipped from this station and 305 car loads received. Hay formed the bulk of the shipment to the east with a good many cars of live stock. The following table will show the shipments:

MOTLEY FOR GOVERNOR.
Well Known Twin Falls Socialist Receives Honor.

Socialists took a flight of two in politics yesterday, winning up the day by nominating part of the state ticket, S. W. Motley of Twin Falls, the state organizer of the party, was placed at the head of the list for governor. S. Chapman of Boise, a plumber, was suggested for lieutenant governor. S. Campbell of Boise, a plumber, was suggested for public instruction, and I. N. Miller, a mechanic, for representative.

The rest of the ticket will not be filled out at this time by the Idaho local, the members of the party here determining to test the sentiment over the state before taking any further steps along these political lines.

In order to boost this ticket and to carry the Socialists doctrines through the state while the voters are considering the nominations made by the party test meetings will be held for one week in different sections. The first of these will be held at Twin Falls on March 4, 1912, to stir up Socialist sentiment and the same sort of campaigning will be conducted over the state.

Boise is supporting Nampa for the convention city. The meeting of the state delegates to the party will be held some time in July. The ticket which the Idaho local has put in the field may not, of course, become the one selected by the state organization. For this, like all other matters, has to be submitted to a referendum vote of the members.—Statesman.

MANY OUT OF WORK.
Unemployed Warned Against Coming to San Francisco.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco, California, on March 28, 1912.
Whereas, There are at present in San Francisco a large number of unemployed men and women, many of whom have been misled by false and misleading reports and advertisements published throughout the country, representing that there exists a demand for labor in connection with the Exposition; and
Whereas, This condition operates injuriously to the interests of our citizens, and will unless corrected, prove a serious detriment to the city; therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the judgment of this Board, the labor forces now available at a moment's notice are more than sufficient to meet any possible demand now, or for a considerable time to come, and we would therefore warn all persons seeking employment against coming to San Francisco, since by so doing they are to be disappointed in their own hopes and certain to increase, that evils of unemployment among the people already here.

RECORD BREAKING SALE.
Munyon and Lee Break Record in Sale of Dairy Stock.

E. M. Munyon, manager of Quiley Bros dairy, disposed of his herd of cows last Thursday and is more than satisfied with the result of the sale. The herd consisted of 35 head of dairy cows and twenty heifers. The highest price paid was $200 for a graded Jersey, several sold for $150.00. Quite a bunch bringing from $100.00 to $125.00, the whole herd selling at the average price of $85.00. This was one of the fastest sales ever held on the tract, the auctioneer selling on an average of two cows every five minutes. It was said by those who were present at the sale that this was the best bunch of dairy stock ever gotten together on the Twin Falls tract outside of registered cows.

LOCAL OPTION PETITION FILED
Wets Claim Nearly Eighteen Hundred Signers.

COMMISSIONERS WILL CONSIDER QUESTION AT ONCE.
Campaign for the Wets Opened. Drys Will Probably Await Action of Board.

The petition of the wets for another local option election which has been circulated for the past three weeks about the county was filed last week with County Auditor Finch for action by the Board of County Commissioners at its approaching April meeting. The wets interested in the circulation of the petitions stated that there were between eighteen hundred and twenty signers, including petitions and that only fourteen hundred would give the required forty per cent.

Owing to the law forbidding the holding of such elections within five months of a general state election, if the commissioners who place the election it will have to be some time early in May. Organization on the part of the wets has reached an advanced stage, but the dry forces are awaiting the outcome of the petition.

TWIN FALLS GETS BEST.
In the Way of Vandellville Attractions.

The management of the Orpheum theatre is booking attractions, which are featured in all of the larger theatres of the coast, and the theatre-goers of this city should sit up and take notice of this fact that they see attractions which can not be seen at any other theatre between Twin Falls and Spokane. The reason of this is that other play-houses will not pay the expense entailed in getting first class attractions.

The Four VanStaats in their big Dutch Musical act come here direct from Spokane where they played at the theatre between Twin Falls and Spokane. They carry their own special scenery and it is a fact that they are the best troupe that has been seen here for a long time. Another feature is booked for Thursday evening, namely the Great Dorango, the Chinese musical comedy, the act being interesting and instructive with special scenery and imported Mandarin wardrobe. He is the only person in the world who can play and sing popular songs as well as Chinese music on all of the instruments known to the Flowery Kingdom. This is the best and biggest program of the season.

PUBLIC OR PRIVATE INTERESTS?

Governor De Witt Clinton first called attention to the public value of the Adirondack forest nearly a century ago.

Since then the preservation of the North Woods has become a subject of genuine concern to the people of New York.

It is doubtful whether any other like area of forest in the world is of so great importance to so many people.

The State of New York has spent millions of dollars to acquire and hold the State lands in the Adirondack Park, which now amount to a million and a half acres.

Repeated efforts to protect the North Woods against timber thieves, water-power grabbers, corrupt State officials and other enemies have time after time aroused the interest of practically the whole State.

Today the protection of the State forests is the subject of faith with every good citizen of New York, and with sound reason.

The destruction of the Adirondack forests has gone on more rapidly during the last ten years than during any other decade in their history.

Public indifference to that fact is little short of amazing. Most of the efforts made to conserve the Adirondacks have played about matters of secondary importance while the destruction itself went on unchecked.

It would be difficult to find a man, woman or child in New York who does not feel that this destruction does not affect him.

The lumbermen of New York are of course deeply interested in the North Woods. It is the control of these timber lands which has made them prosperous.

They are closely allied with the manufacturers of paper, who depend on the wood which the forests supply and the streams which they sustain for raw material of their trade and the power which transforms it to the finished product. Without the forests, the paper mills are doubly useless.

The interests of the water-power men in the North Woods are as great as they are direct. Already almost eight hundred thousand horsepower has been developed in the State of New York, while a million more waits to be harnessed for the benefit of our people. I may add incidentally that certain politicians are just now doing their best to see that the people get a little out of this vast natural resource, and the special interest as much as they can possibly manage.

Fishermen and hunters find in the North Woods the goal of their desires, and are deeply concerned in their preservation. Thousands of health-seekers, sufferers from the great white plague and others, or hope to use their return to bodily soundness and civic efficiency to the North Woods. Here is one of their greatest uses to the State, a use which, in banding up with the life of the forest.

Every mill-owner on every stream which flows out of the Adirondacks, the shipping interests on every navigable river which heads in these mountains, every man who reads a newspaper printed on a mill of spruce pulp, every business interest occupied in supplying the needs of the workers or distributing the product of industries which depend on the North Woods, indeed every citizen of the State, is dependent for a part of his well-being on the safety of these wonderful forests.

What is happening to this precious possession of the whole people?

The Adirondack Park is bounded by the so-called "blue line." It contains roughly, about three million acres, half of which is State land, half the property of private owners. The forests on the State land cannot be properly protected or wisely used because of a provision in the State Constitution which forbids the leasing of any land, and which is so rigid and direct that fire slash and dead timber cannot be removed nor defective trees cut out, roads cannot be built nor good trails constructed, swamp lands cannot be flooded to store water for power, camp sites cannot be leased for the use of the many thousands for whom it should be made easy to enjoy the benefits the North Woods can give. Indeed, under this provision of the Constitution, well-to-do sportsmen and the rich owners of camp sites are prevented from enjoying a substantial monopoly in the actual use of lands and waters which belong to all the people.

The State of New York is doing what it can to prevent fires on both State and private land, and doing it well; but destruction by fire will never be held in check until had methods of logging stop making fire-traps on privately owned lands in the Adirondacks. An ancient or well-cut forest in the North Woods is very hard to burn; a forest badly lumbered is a fire-trap. Thus the present practice of some of these private lands is discontinued, the whole area of the North Woods, including the State lands, will sooner or later be threatened with destruction. Much of the State land had been cut over before it was purchased, and is so covered with dead and down logs and brush—an invitation to fire. It is essential to control fire on private lands if the property of the people of New York is to be saved. Fire is no respecter of persons.

The forest of the last ten years has been more destructive and extensive than ever before, while the number of small trees cut on some of the privately owned tracts has steadily increased as the timber became more valuable. In a word, both fire and bad logging have increased in the last few years, while the people of the State, uninformed for the most part of what was being on, have put forth again and again the most vigorous efforts in what they supposed were effective attempts to preserve the Adirondacks.

The case of the Brooklyn Coopers Company, subsidiary of the Sugar Trust, furnishes an example in point. While the Sugar Trust itself was busy defrauding the people by false weights at the southern end of the State, at the north the Coopers Company was doing injury by the needless vandalism of its methods of logging. In addition to the destruction of the forests by the reckless methods of logging, figures compiled in the office of the New York Conservation Commission show that already more than twenty-eight thousand acres of the land owned or controlled by this company has been burned over. Yet the company has refused to take simple precautions suggested by the Conservation Commission.

The Adirondack question, however, is just limited to fire alone. It is well established by the practice of all civilized countries that the maintenance of mountain forests at the headwaters of important streams is a public duty, whether these forests are in public or private hands. Even Switzerland, the most democratic of all nations, controls by law the handling of private timberlands above a certain elevation in the Alps, and practically all of the civilized nations of Europe recognize that the ownership of mountain forests carries with it a responsibility to the public. With us destructive logging on the same type of land, privately owned, goes on unchecked. In the end, the people of the State will have to bear the burden and make good the loss which some of the lumbermen are now inflicting upon them.

What has the State, for its part, done for the lumbermen?

State taxes on New York forest lands are negligible in amount. Over and over again, the power and resources of the State have been put at the service of the lumbermen to secure water storage on State lands for the floating of their logs to market. Fire protection, which elsewhere is paid for in part or in whole by the private timber land owners, in New York carried on wholly at the public expense. So far is this true, that when a lumberman fights fire with his own hand, on his own land, he is playing with the State. If the Adirondacks are to be saved, there is only one way to save them. To condemn all forest land in the Adirondacks would be prohibitive in expense, and, besides, it is wholly unnecessary. The people of New York clearly have the power to protect their own welfare by regulating logging on private lands. No good reason can be assigned why that power should not be exercised for the general good, especially when the lumbermen admit that some of them have already adopted in their own personal interest precautions much more strict than the State proposes to require.

We have here a clear-cut issue between certain special interests, con-effectively the things it is doing now—that is, its power will bring about an improvement in fire protection, tree-planting, and other divisions of the work. Second, it prohibits the cutting of trees on private lands smaller than eight inches in soft woods and twelve inches in hard woods.

The principle at stake in this limitation of cutting is in no sense a new one. It proposes to do nothing that is not done commonly in connection with other restrictions of private action for public good. It is the application of an old and thoroughly established principle to the forest, and in that sense only it is new.

The principle is this: The State, under its police power, has the right to regulate the use of private property in such a way as to prevent injury to the public.

Private forest lands within the Adirondack reserves have been for many years, and are now being, so handled as to inflict serious injury on the people of the State. The destruction of forests is proceeding to such an extent that it is a public nuisance on many private holdings. It does the State as much harm when privately owned forests are destroyed as when important watershed as when publicly owned forests are destroyed. Either the State has wasted the money it has spent on the Adirondack forest preserves, or the destruction of private lands within its boundaries is an injury to the public interest.

The lumbermen admit the right of the State to prevent forest destruction, but claim they should be compensated for any loss which may be involved in restraining their operations. To yield to this demand would be at once to beg the whole question. No man has a right to use his private property as to injure the public.

To admit that he must be paid when prevented from doing so would be to admit the helplessness of the State to protect the interests of its own citizens, would doubtless result in excessive damages for imaginary injuries, and would needlessly increase the burden of the taxpayers.

There is here no question of operations. The recent timber remains on the land to form the nucleus of a second crop. Pictures supplied by the United States Forest Service show that the value of spruce stumpage increased at the rate of more than twenty-five per cent a year for the seven years from 1900 to 1907. As rolling large areas of forest in the Adirondacks and asserting the right to destroy it at their pleasure, and the public interests, which require its protection and preservation.—Clifford Pinchot.

MONTHLY DIGEST.

Official Record from Department of Interior, U. S.

Homesteads.

Transfer of land by one owning more than 160 acres, to his wife in order to qualify himself to make homestead entry himself in violation of law if it was made in good faith and not intended as a mere subterfuge for the purpose of evading the statute, but such act of itself is a suspicious transaction and actual good faith must be evidenced by such facts as to convince a reasonable mind that was not a mere collusive device.

Affirming Auker vs. Young 21 L. D. 176.

Residence upon a homestead is not required after the expiration of five years in a parcel of land to retain a change of residence after that period does not forfeit a right already acquired.

A charge of abandonment against a homestead entry must be where the entryman is residing upon the land when notice of contest is served.

The heirs of a deceased homestead entryman, who during his lifetime failed to comply with the law, may complete the entry by either residing upon or cultivating the land for the full period of five years. If sufficient of the entry remains for that purpose, or may commute upon a showing of residence and cultivation for fourteen months, but cannot commute upon a showing of cultivation alone.

A contest cannot be allowed a preference right to make entry of land within a reclamation project.

The act of February 24, 1909 (35 Stat. 649) was to amend section 2772 of United States revised statutes and applies only to cases of mistake in description at time of entry whereby the entryman's name was deleted.

Desert Land.

It was not contemplated by the act of Jan. 13, 1887, relating to location and construction of reservoirs, that the reservation should be made according to legal subdivisions or to extend to any lands not necessary for the practical use for which the reservation is made. Nor does the claimant acquire such right by the approval of his map of location, that will prevent the secretary of the interior from reforming the reservation at any time and restoring to settlement and entry all lands not necessary for the full enjoyment and use of all land contemplated by the act. Clifton Wilson vs. Parker 13 L. D. 183.

The right of reclamation does not exist when a desert land entry, on the date of its location, is not allowed and its subsequent cancellation is due to the fault of the government.

Where a protest alleges that only a part of the ground is mineral in character and embraced in valid, subsisting locution, and such protest is sustained by the department, only that part of the entry should be cancelled which is in direct conflict with the mineral claims. The balance of the entry should be allowed to remain intact.

When a citizen of the United States has made an entry upon public lands of the United States, under and in accordance with the homestead laws of the United States, which entry is in all respects regular, he may utilize sand and gravel on said land for the purpose of improving the entry. Removal of sand and gravel prior to filing and subsequent therefor, for the purpose of sale may constitute a trespass, but will not, necessarily, invalidate the entry.

A valid mining location can be based only upon a discovery made within its limits and upon public lands of the United States.

When the land department has rendered a decision that lands within the virgin lands of railroad grant were mineral in character at the date of the grant, it excepts such lands from the operation of the grant and no rights accruing thereunder to the grant upon a subsequent adjudication by that department, in another proceeding, that the lands in question are at the time non-mineral.—Digest.

In the sound discretion of the commissioner of the general land office and the exercise of such discretion will not be disturbed unless there is an abuse of it.

Objection to the taking of deposition should be taken within the ten days allowed prior to the issuance of the commission. The fixing of a date to take depositions, subsequent to the date set for the hearing, is not in itself error.

The particular time for the taking of depositions and for hearings, preliminary, continued, and final, rests in the sound discretion of the local officers, and due notice and opportunity for cross-examination and for presenting the testimony in defense being given, the exercise of such discretion should not be disturbed unless gross injustice to the parties adversely affected thereby appears in fact or as likely to result.

Rule 2 of the Rules of Practice was designed to prevent a pool of suits on the part of the would-be contestants and to prevent the filing and prosecution of speculative contests by those who are entitled or do not intend to obtain title to the lands under appropriate public laws.

The several provisions of Rule 2 should be construed with the same strictness as those required by some specific provision of the law governing contests. Its purpose was to prevent the filing of speculative contests, with such information respecting the intentions of the contestant as would enable him to contest by a person who shows qualifications under the rules with a view to clearing the record of an invalid entry. To refuse such contests would be to deprive the community of invalid claims included within the limits of temporary withdrawals from locution or entry upon the government lands and expense of procuring their cancellation.

The land department has no jurisdiction of questions except those relating to entries of particular tracts of public lands. The personal grievances of individuals connected with public land matters cannot be considered by the department.

A location should always contain a copy of the decision of the general land office refusing to transmit an appeal, or matter in question. This is necessary in order that the facts appearing of record, upon which the commissioner acted, may be shown. When a decision of the commissioner is complained of the petition for certiorari and exhibits must show that the decision complained of was erroneous and that a substantial injury has been done.

Timber and Stone.

Lands containing improvements cannot be acquired under the timber and stone law except in the case of two classes of improvements: (1) those constructed for ditch or canal purposes, and (2) those belonging to the applicant himself.

Miscellaneous.

Legal title to a tract of land relinquished to the United States as base for a selection does not pass until the selection is approved by the department. The date the state may recede from its selection and take in place, or for sufficient reason, the commissioner may reject the selection, leaving the title of state to its school base unaffected by the attempted selection.

Where a protest alleges that only a part of the ground is mineral in character and embraced in valid, subsisting locution, and such protest is sustained by the department, only that part of the entry should be cancelled which is in direct conflict with the mineral claims. The balance of the entry should be allowed to remain intact.

When a citizen of the United States has made an entry upon public lands of the United States, under and in accordance with the homestead laws of the United States, which entry is in all respects regular, he may utilize sand and gravel on said land for the purpose of improving the entry. Removal of sand and gravel prior to filing and subsequent therefor, for the purpose of sale may constitute a trespass, but will not, necessarily, invalidate the entry.

A valid mining location can be based only upon a discovery made within its limits and upon public lands of the United States.

When the land department has rendered a decision that lands within the virgin lands of railroad grant were mineral in character at the date of the grant, it excepts such lands from the operation of the grant and no rights accruing thereunder to the grant upon a subsequent adjudication by that department, in another proceeding, that the lands in question are at the time non-mineral.—Digest.

An Adirondack lumberman well said, "A forest badly cut represents a diminishing asset; a forest conservatively cut an increasing asset."

It is time for the people of the State to stop playing with the problem. If the Adirondacks are to be saved, there is only one way to save them. To condemn all forest land in the Adirondacks would be prohibitive in expense, and, besides, it is wholly unnecessary. The people of New York clearly have the power to protect their own welfare by regulating logging on private lands. No good reason can be assigned why that power should not be exercised for the general good, especially when the lumbermen admit that some of them have already adopted in their own personal interest precautions much more strict than the State proposes to require.

We have here a clear-cut issue between certain special interests, con-

to the discovery that through mistake, not the fault of the government, an entry in fact covers land not reclaimed or intended to be reclaimed.

Final Proof.

The statement in final proof to the effect that "the strip of land" was "reclaimed and in a permanent crop" is altogether too indefinite and incomplete as to reclamation of the land by the use of water and raising of crops.

The pre-emption law requires personal settlement upon and inhabitation of the lands and the erection of a dwelling thereon, and proof within a specified time of such settlement, inhabitation and improvement. Clifton Wilson vs. Parker 13 L. D. 663.

Practice.

Failure to appeal may be conclusive as to the rights of the parties, but will not preclude the commissioner or of the general land office from reviewing the decision of the local land office.

The remanding of a case for a rehearing to obtain additional testimony in order that the ends of justice may be subserved is a matter resting with the discretion of the commissioner of the general land office.

Where a protest alleges that only a part of the ground is mineral in character and embraced in valid, subsisting locution, and such protest is sustained by the department, only that part of the entry should be cancelled which is in direct conflict with the mineral claims. The balance of the entry should be allowed to remain intact.

When a citizen of the United States has made an entry upon public lands of the United States, under and in accordance with the homestead laws of the United States, which entry is in all respects regular, he may utilize sand and gravel on said land for the purpose of improving the entry. Removal of sand and gravel prior to filing and subsequent therefor, for the purpose of sale may constitute a trespass, but will not, necessarily, invalidate the entry.

Thousands of Acres of Good Land Open for Entry in Raft River Valley.
I am in receipt of many letters from persons desiring to know of land in Idaho, and especially from Twin Falls, stating that the report is being circulated that a large band of forest land in the Raft River valley, and filed on all the available public land to the extent that not a foot of land is left now open for entry. This report is entirely false. It may be that such a move is under consideration, but not to my knowledge, there are thousands of acres of land laid open for entry in this valley. Preliminary work starts Monday on the great reservoir that will irrigate 5,000 acres, not an acre of which is yet taken. This coupled with the fact that the rails will soon be laid for the new road, certainly opens lands for the great band of forest land here this spring. W. R. STEVENS, U. S. SPRING OPENING

Formal Presentation of Authentic Spring Fashions---An Event of Supreme Style Importance

The Spring Easter Opening is the formal introduction of Fashion's favorites in this city by this store, and as such is a happening of great interest to every woman. We have tried to include in this display every prominent Fashion and style modification; how we have succeeded you will be better able to judge as the season progresses and styles become more fixed. But we can state with decided emphasis that every article of merchandise we have assembled for this season has been most carefully selected from EASTERN and other recognized style and trade centers. The dominating idea in mind when making these selections was to assemble such merchandise that would meet YOUR preference, as well as being in accord with prevailing SPRING FASHIONS. The lovely freshness of every garment, the crisp newness of the styles and above all the high standard of quality up to which every article of merchandise we have gathered necessitates, all combine to make this Spring Opening a notable Style event that you should lend every effort to attend promptly.

Our Spring Footwear Is All You Could Ask of It

As daintily and shapely as these models are, not a jot of comfort or serviceability has been sacrificed to make them so. Foot-cases, durability and graceful style are combined in a way that nearer approaches perfection than any shoes you've ever worn. A host of new and chic models are represented, in every popular new leather. We ask you to take especial notice of our showing. Every style, width and size is represented. As for prices, you'll find them uniformly moderate. A complete line of Broadwalk's for the little folks. Men's and Women's shoes priced from

$1.50 to $6.50

A Lavish Gathering of New Suits

So charming and so becoming are the new models that you will be sure to be delighted with them. Distinctly different from all that have gone before, they still bear many characteristics of last season's fashions. The jackets are for the most part straight cut, though many nobly cutaway styles figure prominently in the list of favorites. They are short in length, 24 to 26 inches, being the most approved. The skirts show novel tunic effects, while some are embellished with trimmings on the sides. Serges, Whipcords, Bedford's, Novelty Fabrics, etc., are among the predominating materials, while the most popular new shades are blue, white, and tan at popular prices.

$15.00, $18.50 and $20.00.

Lightweight Spring Coats in An Interesting Display.

The styles of the new Spring coats are now fixed and definite, and you'll readily admit that they are well worth the most flattering admiration. Serges, Whipcords and fancy mixtures are the chief materials, though silk coats are also quite popular. Broad collars will be noted on nearly every style. As for colors, you'll find most any one you desire represented in our assortment at prices in reach of everyone's pocket book.

$12.50, $15.00 and $18.50.

Dress Goods and Silks---a Display Without A Peer

You'll not be able to resist the appeal of this marvelous array of handsome dress fabrics. It's by all odds the largest we've ever shown. Serges, Whipcords, Yokes and Mixtures promise to be the favorites, so our assortment is replete with them. Our Silks, Chiffons, Tulle, Messalines, etc., have the call, and they are here in broad array. We have chosen these dress fabrics with the utmost care, so that only the good, dependable qualities are represented, yet prices are notably reasonable.

From 35c to $2.00 per Yard.

Trimmings, an Exceptionally Fine and Extensive Showing.

If you seek the latest information in what will be popular for dress trimmings, then you assuredly want to see the assemblage displayed for this opening exhibit. Especially prominent are beads, fleeces, etc., while fancy braids, buttons, medallions, etc., are here in abundance. A strong tendency may be noted toward the use of harmonized pastel shades in the darker tones for day wear. As is usually the case, spring colorings are more subdued and quiet than the brilliant fall lines. There's such a vast choice offered you here for selection that a detailed description is well nigh impossible. We urge you to come on a personal tour of inspection.

The Spring Fashions in Men's Wear

The well dressed men of this community have learned to accept our verdict as final when it comes to the question of dress. Therefore, we expect this announcement will bring to our men's department a host of men who are anxious to hear Fashion's latest mandates in clothing and dress necessities. Already our assortments are complete and embrace a most interesting array of new-furnishing and dress accessories. Our clothing prominence is unquestioned, and it should therefore be sufficient for us to merely say: "We're ready with our new Spring suits, come see them."

Suits ranging in prices from

$10 to $30

Here is the Suit for Your Boy---You Can't Find a Better One Anywhere.

...It's one of our famous "Hercules" all wool, shaver-proof Suits, known the world over. We have the exclusive selling rights for "Hercules" in this vicinity, and want every mother to call and see the clothes whether you buy or not.

Let us tell you about the way these suits are made. Let us show them to you. Once you become acquainted with the merits of "Hercules" suits you'll buy them for your boy because you'll know there is not another boy's suit made that can equal it.

LET US TALK RUGS

This week we want to say something about rugs. The new spring goods are nearly all in and we are showing a better assortment than we have ever shown before.

are as low as good, honest merchandise can be sold for in any section of the country. We do not buy dropped patterns or seconds. Some merchants do this and advertise prices below the wholesale cost, then when the sale is over put them in the regular stock and sell them to people who don't know regular prices. You run the risk if you don't know.

We carry the following kinds in all popular sizes: In cheap Rugs, Grey, Wool and Fiber, Ingrain, and Pro. Brussels.

In Medium Rugs: Tapestry Brussels, Boly Brussels, Axminster and Velvet.

In Good Rugs: Hartford and Smith Wiltons, Alexandria, Seagrass Wiltons, Hartford Saxony, and Anglo Persians.

AUTOMOBILE CONTEST OPENS

Great Many Ladies Entered for the Times' Great Prize Winning Subscription Event.

Some Candidates Get Busy on the First Day of the Contest. Others Waiting Until Nomination is Made by Their Friends. Times' Big Offers Appeal Strongly to Candidates.

The Times great free automobile contest opened Monday morning with a large number of candidates placing their names on the list in every district. Some immediately went to work with the contest manager Monday night. While none have anything of a big lead over the others they are showing their hustling qualities by bringing or sending in a few subscriptions. It is a case where the winner will not be picked in one month or perhaps it will not be decided until the next night of the contest and with the nominations remaining open until that night there is no reason why any candidate should get discouraged or why any one should figure that the prize has been won and not work. The reward is for work in the number of subscriptions that can be brought in for the great Twice-a-week paper of the Twin Falls country.

Your friends can do a lot for you if you will only get out and hustle and show that you are alive. Clip the twenty-five vote coupons out of the Times each issue and ask your friends to do the same and make the campaign a live one and one in which you will do your best.

Any of the prizes are worth while and you may get the second prize or one of the district prizes easier than you realize.

DR. EVANS SAYS:

We are moving our offices to a location on the south side of Main street, one-half block east of the Perrine hotel. We hope all our old friends will find us, and bring their friends. We have always made prices which we consider reasonable and allowing us to give the very best attention. In the future we shall try to make prices according to the work done. If only specialties are needed and no further attention the price will be much less than when a year's attention is necessary. We furnish any style or shape of lens and the price of one is only a few cents—different from another. You are invited to call.

STATIONS COMPLETED

For Pumping Water on The North Side High Land.

The contractors have practically completed their work on the three pumping stations in course of erection near Milner, Hazelton and Eden. The pumps and motors have all been set and electricians are now making the proper connections and water will be flowing over the high lands in those sections by April 1st.

On Friday of last week contracts were let for the erection of two more of those stations which will be located in closer proximity to Jerome, and the North Side Construction Co., were the successful bidders in both instances. The plans for these stations conform closely to the buildings already erected, except as regards size and capacity. The larger of the buildings will be located at a point about 7 miles east and one mile north of Jerome and known as Big Sugar Loaf. This building will be rectangular in shape and equipped with six large centrifugal pumps, driven by an equal number of electric motors of 100 horse power each.

Another building of smaller dimensions equipped with three pumps, will be located about eight miles north-east of town near the Jerome reservoir and adjoining the Newman ranch, on what is known as Little Sugar Loaf.

These buildings will both be of brick, with concrete steel trusses, one story high, with concrete construction below the floor line. It will require upwards of 600 tons of material for the construction of these buildings, all of which will necessarily have to be hauled by wagon from Jerome, entailing an outlay of approximately $3,000.00, and the fact that Josephson & Anderson of the North Side Construction Co. have the contracts, is sufficient assurance that this work will be distributed among our local people. Work on the new structures will commence at once.
