TWIN FALLS COMMERCIAL CLUB
URGED TO JOIN MOVEMENT.

Mass Meeting Results in United Effort to Get State Highway Routed
Through This Section.

A large number of citizens from Bliss, Hagerman and Buhl arrived in Twin Falls yesterday to formulate some plan of unifying a movement for the obtaining of the state highway. A mass meeting was called at the Commercial club in the afternoon for the purpose of getting the Twin Falls business men interested, and a large crowd gathered to meet the visitors from the other towns. The meeting resulted in getting a good strong committee organized to gather funds and boost the highway as much as possible.

The movement was started to offset a similar movement by the towns along the main line of the railroad, Gooding, Shoshone, Mountain Home and others, each having raising sums varying from $5,000 to $10,000 to get the highway routed that way.

AUSTRALIA WANTS IRRIGATORS

Representative of England's Colony
Seeking Information.

J. E. Kelley, representing the Australian government, was a visitor in Twin Falls and investigated the whole tract with a view to getting pointers on irrigation for the benefit of his government. Mr. Kelley is also going to come to some of the western irrigator experts to go with him on his return. Australia is just developing under government ownership new irrigation projects which will be controlled by the colonial government, and the water right sold to settlers on a thirty-year payment basis.

BORAH STANDS ALONE.

He Thinks It Is Unwise to Call a Convention.
Wants Direct Primaries.

Chicago, May 12.—Progressive Republican leaders from ten states are expected to meet here today for the reorganization of the party and will decide whether a convention shall be held soon. The attitude to be taken toward the national committee, which will meet early in June, and other questions were discussed informally at two meetings yesterday.

Statements made by the Progressive wing of the party were reinforced by the arrival of former Governor Hiram Bingham, while Senator Works of California telegraphed that he would reach the city in time to attend the convention. Other visitors included the attendance to more than fifty.

Senator Borah of Idaho, is opposed to calling a Republican national conference, and his stand on this question yesterday was the beginning of a long discussion. He had asserted that it would be unwise to attempt to reorganize the party from the top down, as many meetings which might be held at the same time would be controlled by the same men who dominated the convention last June.

Borah has fought the general conference of the party since his arrival, and continued to do so today, but is without much hope that his ideas will prevail. He was the center of discussion for the second day yesterday, when he advanced a plan for direct election of delegates to the national convention, standing practically alone on this issue. Hostility to the present national committee has been openly expressed by several Progressives. One of the aims of his conference is to curtail the powers of the committee.

TWIN FALLS WINS FROM AMER. FALLS

High School Takes Game by
Score of 7 to 0.

TWIN FALLS IS NOW CHAMPION OF EASTERN IDAHO.

The Game This Afternoon with Boise
Will Determine the Championship of Southern Idaho.

The game between American Falls high school and the local high school team last Saturday was by far the best game of the season. By winning this game Twin Falls won the championship of eastern Idaho, which opens the way for them to play Boise for the state championship on Friday, May 16, on the home ground.

The local team showed marked development, although American Falls surpassed any other team they have played, they showed themselves equal to the occasion. The game was very close, and the visitors were easy victims to the victors.

The first three men were easily his victims. The visiting team also seemed to be perfectly at home upon the field. With Oliver, of whom the local team had heard a great deal, in the box, the first three Twin Falls men were easy victims to the visitors. It was decidedly uncertain for a long time who would win. During the first five innings not a score was made on either side. Then in the last half of the sixth Twin Falls boys got down to business and succeeded in riddling the visiting team with four scores. During the seventh they made three more. During the entire game there were only three hits made off men and it will be remembered that this is his first season in baseball which is a wonderful showing for a beginner.

The high school is very enthusiastic as well as optimistic over the game with Boise which will be held Friday, May 16. Boise has held the state championship in baseball for two years in succession. Twin Falls has never held that honor in her history, but stands a splendid chance of winning it this year. Boise holds the state championship in football, and Twin Falls in girl's basketball, so that Friday's game which is the last interschool game of the season, will determine which of the two high schools ranks highest in state events this year.

IMPROVING PERRINE KITCHEN.

Manager Williams Will Electrify Entire Plant.

The Perrine dining room has been shut down for the past week and will continue closed for another week while the electric lighting and wiring is being installed in the dining room and kitchen. The latter will be completely changed with regard to the cooking appliances and a new electric system installed over the ovens. The change, Mr. Williams states, will be made as quickly as possible and will increase the service capacity of the cafe very greatly.

TRAVERSING OREGON TRAIL.

T. J. Martin Walking Over the Famous Highway.

On a pedestrian tour of the famous old Oregon trail, T. J. Martin of Portland, Ore., arrived in this city on route to Denver. Mr. Martin started his travels on foot from Boise, and will make the balance of the trip traveling over the trail which connected the cities of eastern and western Idaho with the stark frontier. A road log of his trip is being carefully kept by Mr. Martin, which will be of great value in marking the old trail for motorists.

JOHN GRAY SHOTS IN SELF-DEFENSE

Jesse Hays Alleged to Have Been the Aggressor.

DETAILS OF DEVILS CREEK
SHOOTING GIVEN CORONER.

Jury Recommends Molding for Heart
After Getting Evidence Last Tuesday.

The details of the trouble at Devils Creek which resulted in the killing of Jesse Hays, a sheepherder, by John Gray, Monday evening, were brought to this city Tuesday night. Sheriff Vanaunder and Coroner Crosby reached the scene of the shooting Tuesday night, and proceeded to examine the bodies of the two men involved. The testimony brought out in this inquest was substantially as follows: The quarrel between the two men dated back to some time previous to the shooting. Hays was over a suit of clothes which Hays had taken without leave from one of the other herders in Gray's employ. Gray, in order to get Hays to explain the origin of his, to do the right thing and return the clothes, chided the latter rather severely and dismissed him from his employ. Last week in the absence of Gray, who was running the shooting camp of his company at Devils Creek, Hays was again taken on as a shepherd. Gray made no objection to this. Late Monday afternoon, however, a boze wagon left the dairy tract in the sheep camp and Hays, together with some of the other men, imbibed.

Gray then became quarrelsome and probably remembered the old grudge which he had against Gray. About 10 o'clock or perhaps a little later, Hays was seen to enter the territory of the company, a man Phillips by name, started to retire in the tent at the camp. Hays came and stated that he was going to have it out with Gray. Other employees grabbed Hays, took his gun away and ordered him off. Gray supporting the affair over retired for the night, but before getting to sleep fortunately heard Hays coming toward the tent, muttering to himself. Throwing open the flap of the tent Hays stuck his head in, saw a shadow, and Hays, thinking Hays armed and looking for trouble, grabbed his revolver and fired. Hays staggered and fell. The darkness was so thick that neither Gray nor Phillips had seen the other until both Gray and Phillips had gotten outside the tent and saw him sink to the ground.

The other employees were called and the wounded man taken care of until the end. In the meantime Gray, overpowered by the other men, personally called Sheriff Vanaunder by telephone to come and get him.

The coroner's jury in its verdict recommended that Gray be remanded for hearing and the prisoner accompanying the officer back to the city arriving here late Tuesday morning.

According to the story of those acquainted with Mr. Gray, it is stated that he has done much in the past for the community, and has been a very good man in many ways. Witness on the part of Hays led to the strangeness and tragedy which occurred on Monday.

NEARLY DOUBLED TRACKED.

Harrison System Making Ready for Heavy Increase of Business.

Omaha, Neb., May 10.—The forthcoming annual report of the Union Pacific Railroad will show that with the completion of a stretch of track thirty-nine miles long, to be completed August 1, 74 miles of that company's main line from Council Bluffs to Ogden will be double tracked, according to an official statement given out at the company's offices today.

The last fourteen miles, completing the double track across Nebraska, 426 miles, was completed yesterday and is now in operation.

Nelson H. Loomis, general counsel of the company, left for New York last night to again take up the details of the discontinuance of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, which have been held before Attorney General McPherson. The plan for separating the two systems is being put in shape to present to the United States circuit court.

Before leaving for the east Mr. Loomis stated that the attorney general had suggested that three instead of two systems might be formed from the Union Pacific, controlled by the Harriman interests, by making the Central Pacific, extending from Ogden to San Francisco, an independent line.

R. R. FOR IDAHO FALLS.

Railway Depositors Are Building
Lines in Eastern Idaho.

A press dispatch from Idaho Falls says Idaho Falls is sharing in the railroad agitation, and the latest information is to the effect that the Interstate will build direct from Portland, Mont., to Yellowstone Park, through the valley of the Snake river, down the Snake river valley to Idaho Falls, and then to Salt Lake City.

The road is to continue south from Idaho Falls to Wells, Nev., in connection with the Western Pacific and Wells. The Western Pacific is the most direct route from Ogden to the coast. The construction of this road would bring Idaho Falls and all of this territory within 800 miles of San Francisco, and Oakland.

The proposed line would run west from Idaho Falls direct to Hays, Idaho, and from that point south through the Twin Falls country, direct to the Western Pacific crossing at Montpelier, and would traverse the richest sections of the state. The mysterious Gilmore & Pittsburg, which has been operating a line from Montpelier to Salmon City, Idaho, is said to be an important factor in the proposed railroad activity for southern Idaho.

UNIQUE SCHOOL PARADE.

High School Classes Vie for Honors in Parade Saturday.

Prior to the state field and track meet last Saturday the four classes of the high school gave a parade which called forth much comment for the amount of work and care given to every feature. The four classes, which were the Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior, were each costumed, on foot and in beautifully decorated floats, to represent the different classes in the school and scenes. The judges, five business men, had considerable difficulty in deciding which class was the most attractive and the most spectacular and unique make-up and the prize was awarded the Senior with their circus float. The Freshman class, which was the most popular, was followed by the Junior and then the Sophomore class.

RICH ORE AT CONTACT.

Ore Shipped from That Camp Worth
Over $100 Per Ton.

Binlac A. Hanks, interested extensively in mining operations at or near Contact, arrived from that place today, the fore part of the week. Mr. Hanks reports that, a very optimistic spirit prevails in the copper camp, and that the future is very promising. At the present time the Dolans is steadily shipping ore. A few days ago a forty-ton car was shipped from Rogerson to the Salt Lake smelter, the ore being valued at over one hundred dollars per ton, and after paying all shipping, transportation and smelter charges the operators will realize big profits on the shipment.

The Dolans people have been steadily shipping for some time and while running a distance of ninety feet, have taken out and shipped ore that has netted them over $7,000. The ore was taken entirely from the drift proper, the terms under which the operators have been working allowing them to take out and ship only the ore from the drift, forbidding all stopping and cross-cutting.

Mr. Hanks also reports that a couple of weeks ago a certain amount of stakes, such as are used by surveyors in marking their lines, was unloaded at Rogerson, the southern terminus of the present Oregon Short Line railroad. The party or parties to whom these stakes were consigned is unknown and there is considerable mystery as to their identity. It is not believed that they were for the O. S. L., and there is considerable speculation as to the motive. About the time that the stakes arrived at Rogerson a surveying party, was completely equipped at Twin Falls and left that city without making any statement of their mission. The arrival of the stakes at Rogerson and the unloading of survey stakes at Twin Falls have been connected by the people, many of whom believe the party is completely equipped to represent the O. S. L. of lines of railways.—Wells State Herald.

SEEK TO RESTRAIN WATER MASTER WHO REFUSES WATER.

Seek to Restrain Water Master
Who Refuses Water.

The storm has broken. Today, Superintendent E. B. Darlington was served with a summons signed by District Judge Stockslager, ordering him to show cause on the 19th of May why an injunction should not be issued restraining the Salmon River Canal company from preventing three different plaintiffs from receiving and using water, said plaintiffs have not as yet paid their maintenance fees. It is stated by some of the members of the Salmon River Settlers' association that this action is merely preliminary to other sorts of suits which are to follow within the near future.

Sheriff H. S. Vanaunder, accompanied by E. E. Babcock, came to Hollister by automobile Wednesday to serve the papers, but the water master was making an inspection of the canal system at the time, and so was not to be found in the Capital City. However, upon his return this morning, he telephoned the sheriff that he would meet him in Twin Falls this afternoon for the purpose of having the service made upon him. Upon his arrival in the Magic City, the court summons in three different cases were read to him by Deputy Sheriff C. C. Stiggen. The suits were brought by Charles C. Hume, president of the Settlers' association, Carl Wasmuth, and J. E. Vanaunder.

The summons orders Superintendent Darlington, representing the defendant company, to appear May 19 and show cause why an injunction should not be issued, restraining it from "preventing the plaintiff from diverting water from the system of the Salmon river, or such as are diverted by the irrigation works known as the Salmon River Canal system, to the extent of one foot of water of land of thirty-nine fifth second feet continuous flow or an equal or ratable amount by rotation, or from locking the sluice gates, or from any way interfering with the plaintiff's use and diversion."

Superintendent Darlington said today that in all cases where the maintenance fee had not been paid, the gates had already been locked, and in the case of the Hume suit, an injunction under the law, which he declared, would be prosecuted.—Hollister Herald.

MEETING OF FRUIT GROWERS.

The association now covers four states—Oregon, Washington, California and Idaho. The local members of the organization are in Spokane, Wash., but the territory is divided into nine districts, each with its sub-committee for the purpose of being located at Nampa. The Twin Falls County Fruit Growers association is reorganized as a local of the Idaho-Oregon association and the following officers were elected:

In several parts of this state the towns and cities have instituted specified days for special bargains for the farmers which are called trader's days. At this time the rancher brings in his produce or his fatted stock, the merchants put on sales and the day is made one of active trading. It has been tried for some time in a number of towns and seems to grow in popularity. It would be worth while for the Commercial club and the local merchants to investigate the plan and see if it will serve to bring results to the merchants and farmers here.

The cry, "let automobiles enter Yellowstone National Park," has been taken up in earnest by the users of gas cars all over the west, and there is considerable chance that Congress will eventually throw the wonderful region open for all kinds of motor vehicles. When that time comes, however, much of the zest and interest of the trip through the park will have been lost owing to the speed bug which runs riot through the veins of the Americans. To see the park with its "insignificant stretches of forests, the gleaming lakes and the sparkling streams, and rivers, a slow moving vehicle brings out countless delights that would be missed in the mad whirl of the powerful touring cars. The wild animals which at present feel unconcerned by the roads as the stages pass, will sink into the forests in alarm at the snorting gas engines. The fact is when the time comes for throwing open the park for gas cars it will be the end of a majestic grandeur and mystery that has clothed the park with awe for the many tourists and made it the scenic drawing card that it is today. Whenever the government opens the park as petitioned it will see the passing of the picturesque stage coaches. For the steep grade and abrupt curves filled with the roar of passing cars will be too dangerous, and the government will have to disbar the horses or else construct separate roads.

THE ARMAMENT SCANDAL.

The exposure of the conspiracy among European makers of guns and armament to stimulate war and control prices is a shocking revelation of how lust for money can debase human beings. It appears that the conspirators deliberately planned to stir up international suspicion by disseminating war news and manufacturing evidence of international enmity. When their work had frightened governments into large expenditures for war supplies the men in the agreement decided who should get the contracts and controlled the awards by collusion and bribery. Of course, the lowest bid was made too high and the stolen profits on the winning contract were divided among those in the agreement. It is easy to understand the consternation which was caused in Germany by the charge that the Krupp joined in this diabolical business. To Germany the Krupp iron works were a model of everything a great business establishment should be. The founder of the business was a friend of the emperor. The Krupps were praised on every hand. They were believed to be patriots of the noblest mold. Their products and their probity were considered important elements in the national defense.

Germany's eyes are opened now. Her people see how they have been betrayed, duped and awed by crafty men who played upon their pride and fear. The affair is regrettable, but if it should lead to a juster estimate of the real intentions of European people toward each other and of the unimportance of most of the flimsy news which fills the European press it will be worth its cost. —Wallace Press-Times.

THE ISSUE AT CLOSE RANGE.

With the California legislature evidently determined to follow its own inclination in the matter of restrictions placed upon the rights of aliens to acquire and hold lands in that state, despite the mild protest inspired by President Wilson and voiced by Secretary of State Bryan in person, it may be as well to view the issue raised by the protests of the Japanese in as clear a light as is provided. The question has two sides. There is no excuse for denying this or of blinding ourselves to what may be the ultimate result of what the people of the Orient, particularly those of Japan, regard as unjust discrimination.

We all remember that a few weeks ago the venerable Count Okuma told Mr. John H. Mott and other leading Americans that all other means had failed and "only influence of Christianity remained" to prevent war between Japan and the United States. When he said that he conveyed to the people of the United States an idea of the gravity of a situation which he has reason to believe is wholly underestimated and wholly misunderstood by the people on this side of the Pacific. And yet there is, perhaps, no excuse for misunderstanding. What is now transpiring in Tokio is but a surface indication of a condition long existing in Japan.

There is no denying the fact that deep resentment is felt by the people of Japan because of the attitude of this country in discriminating between Japanese and white aliens. The fact that our attitude has been pointed out upon the Japanese by a series of events, of which this California land question is but one. There is the anti-Orientalism of our immigration policy, often needlessly aggravated by unnecessary bungling in the administration of the immigration laws. There was the Oriental school question in California, early in 1907, where the same sort of discrimination against Japanese was involved as is embodied in the legislation at Sacramento. There was the agitation over the Magdalena Bay incident to add its share of friction and misunderstanding. There have been other, though not so acute, manifestations of the same discrimination in other Pacific slope states.

All of this is a severe blow to the pride of a proud people. The fact that these successive slaps at Japanese national pride come from the American people, always loudest in their professions of friendship for Japan, has added to the unpleasant feeling of being "stabbed in the back of a friend." As a result of all this discrimination, which is not theoretical but real, there has grown up in Japan the feeling that in order for Japanese rights to be fully respected throughout the world, a war with America is inevitable.

This idea has time and again been advanced in the Japanese press. Long before the outbreak at Tokyo over the California land question, the "inevitability" of war between Japan and the United States had been preached by politicians through the press, to the Japanese people. It is a dangerous idea to have abroad in a land.

Special Japan is too close to the influence of publications in their "yellow press" or by the mouthpieces of Jingo politicians," says a New York newspaper.

The Japanese are no wiser than the people of any other country. If their country were plunged into war by Jingo politicians it would not be the first country that has had this experience. And as for the "yellow press," its influence is rendered all the greater by the fact that in Oriental countries the masses are still under the tradition of great reverence for the written word.

Would Japan take so rash a step as to go to war or even to develop a strong anti-Americanism, simply because those of her people who have come to this country are discriminated against? This question has been asked and has been assumed to be definitely disposed of the whole matter.

But that is not the question at all. This California land episode acquires importance merely as one phase of what is construed a consistent policy on this side of the Pacific to discriminate against and to humiliate the Japanese people. And here we have one of those "questions affecting national honor" that our own legislators have always been so insistent upon excluding from the purview of arbitration treaties.

To the Japanese, then, the issue is one of national honor. To understand how large this looms in their eyes it is only necessary briefly to recall the fact that since their emergence from their centuries of Oriental isolation their whole struggle has been for recognition on a plane of equality with other people.

Heretofore the Japanese government has been able to repress public opinion whenever it assumed dangerous tendencies. It has been able to form public opinion and direct it. But the Japan of today presents a very serious internal situation.

The revolutionary riots at Tokio a few weeks ago show exceedingly close to a revolution. Indeed, in one phase there was a revolution. When the dominant party in the diet, the Seiyukai, refused to obey the expressed wish of his majesty the emperor that resolutions impeaching the Katsura ministry be withdrawn—this was revolutionary. For never before in the history of the land had what was tantamount to a command from the throne been ignored.

It is not necessary to deal with the issues in that ministerial crisis save to emphasize the fact that what then occurred showed that the time has passed when public opinion in Japan can be directed from the top. No bureaucracy can hope to do what the sacred word of the emperor himself could not do. Public opinion in Japan must, therefore, now be regarded as on the same plane with public opinion in any other country. And it must be dealt with, as such. Whether it is the last came it would go to the length of forcing a war with the United States is not yet the question, but that it has the power to do so, can hardly be doubted. —Reno Gazette.

No. 4. FERDINAND MAGELLAN

Copyright, 1913, by The Associated Newspaper School, Inc.

Four little ships—battered, storm driven, their rigging coated with ice—struggled along a narrow, tortuous strait fringed by snow-clad mountains. Up and down on the deck of the foremost vessel, the Trinidad, strode a thin, haggard man, peering ahead through the mist with anxious eyes. Beside him walked another man, bearded, talking in short, sharp sentences. "Louder and louder grow his words, fiercer and fiercer his gestures; but the haggard man said nothing, only shaking his head stubbornly.

"This was Magellan, the first man with the courage to attempt to sail entirely round the world, pushing on, as he said, 'even if we had to eat the leather of the rigging.' That was the brave commander's last day of doubt, for on the next day the 23rd of November, 1520, his little fleet rounded the Cape Deseado, the 'detested' western end of the Strait of Magellan, and sailed into the peaceful ocean named 'Pacific' by Magellan himself.

Ferdinand Magellan had an exciting life. He was born in Portugal about 1480. He was only twenty-four when he made his first voyage to India, where he was wounded in battle. A few years later he fought bravely against the Malays at Malacca, and received a reward for his many services. He was promoted to the rank of captain. He continued to distinguish himself on many subsequent voyages and campaigns. Cape of Good Hope and reach Spain once more. But only thirty-one men he had won. Like Columbus returned to Seville in the first vessel and most of the adventures of that

No. 5. JACQUES CARTER

It is a peculiar fact that about the early life of the discoverer of the St.

Lawrence River—Jacques Cartier—so with three ships—On the ninth of Little is known. He was born in 1491. August he dropped anchor in a great but this great French navigator is gulf, to which the next day he gave first heard of in 1534, when on the twelfth of April he started from St. Malo in command of an expedition consisting of two ships and sixty-one men to look for a northwest passage to the East.

This is what most of the early discoverers and explorers were trying to find. They were not farseeing enough to know that this great, savage country that blocked their way to India was some day to be one of the richest and greatest lands in the world. So when the French trade to Brazil in South America was stopped, Cartier set out in 1534 to find a new way to the mystic East with his fabulous wealth.

He reached Newfoundland on May 10, and at once entered the strait of which still bears the name he gave it. In longboats he set off up the St. Lawrence River. On October 2 he came upon the Huron-Iroquois village of Hochelaga. This village was situated exactly where the city of Montreal now stands.

Cartier found that he couldn't go up the river any farther because the swift, Lachine Rapids were in his way. He climbed to the top of Mount Royal, and there he saw the city of Montreal. He saw the St. Lawrence and the Ottawa stretching away to the west. When he got back to where he had left his vessels he asked the chief and the elders of the village to give him a canoe and a guide to take him to the northwest passage. He gave them a canoe and a guide, and they set out on their journey.

But he didn't give up this idea. In September 1, 1537, Jacques Cartier set sail again, this time

No. 6. HENRY HUDSON

One day many, many years ago, when a number of their fair-skinned guests had landed, he was fishing on what is now the Hudson River. Suddenly they saw a strange apparition coming toward them up the stream. It appeared to be either a big canoe or a wonderful wigwag. Quickly they paddled for shore, after seeing that there were people moving on this strange contrivance, and informed the rest of the tribe. Everyone thought that it must be a number of Manitou (gods) come to visit them. So they dressed themselves in their gayest skins and beads, and went down to the shore to greet the visitors.

and finally fell to the ground and lay like one dead. After some hours, however, he revived and declared that he had had a fine time, and wanted some more of the strange liquor. This encouraged the rest of the tribe to try it, and soon the entire tribe was intoxicated.

That is the Indian legend of the discovery by Henry Hudson of the great river that has been named after him. It was in September, 1609, that the little Half Moon sailed into the mouth of the Hudson River, and its passengers

ROGERSON NOTES.

We notice by the Hollister paper that they are calling the new line which is to be opened from Rochester to the Southern Pacific, "The Hollister 'So Pac'." We wonder where they got the idea that the new line should be called the "Hollister 'So Pac'." Where do they come in? Rogerson comes as near being on the map as Hollister, and we won't stand for anything like that.
